In her latest book, "Letitia Baldrige's Complete Guide to Executive Manners," Letitia Baldrige writes about how to behave properly in the "real world." Here, she explains why it's important to know how to properly greet people and how to get out of an uncomfortable job interview.

Letitia Baldrige, only if the professor has not asked for your first name, is it always a good idea to use their profes-dional at their honor, or if they have a nickname they prefer to use. Always follow up with "thank you" when a teacher makes a point or asks a question to show appreciation.

"Many people in college think kindness and good manners mean you're not tough, that you're not smart, that you're not tough decisions. It's not. Don't think you have to be an animal."

This year's focus has changed since 1991, when the game day was played in lieu of homecoming, according to Tim Howe, the publication's director.

This year, the focus has moved away from securing Hawkeye beatdowns. But it will be the start of a mini-series.

The mini-series kicks off with a volleyball tournament involving women's organizations in the Paul House. The event concludes with the Steak Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

The annual convocation of the homecoming king and queen will take place today in the Student Union Ballroom of the Union at 6:15 p.m. The honored couple will give the king and queen speeches before the audience.

The next day, on Tuesday, the UI Homecoming activities will begin. Hawkeye spirit Week, which 'raised positive aspect that does not lie with the first annual Hawk.'

The homecoming activities will be on Monday, Oct. 22, with the first annual Hawk. The activities will take place at the Student Union Ballroom of the Union at 6:15 p.m. The honored couple will give the king and queen speeches before the audience.

Local schools depend on grants

William Pepper

The Daily Iowan

Governmental councils on education budgets are forcing school districts to rely more heavily on special grants for funding. During the last school year the Iowa Department of Education & Vocational Rehabilitation Services in Des Moines had received more than $67 million in grants.

According to a report issued by Ron Mor, grant writer for the Iowa City Community School District, during the last school year the district received $688,000 in federal programs such as special courses for handicapped students, foreign language and special programs related to child care services.

The majority of the grants come from state sources, particularly the Iowa Department of Education and Vocational Rehabilitation Services.

"We've just started looking for grants," Mor said. "We have a very good district to work with." He said finding sources are difficult in Iowa City because the district is always looking for ways to cut costs, but "the resources are very innovative programs and work to support children and their families.

"We have a very good program here. It's a very easy district to work with. We make it easy for funding sources to say "Iowa City knows what it's doing, let's give them the money,"" he said.

Hills Elementary School, traditionally one of the largest recipients of special education grants, obtained $27,000 for its language arts program, and $10,000 for an art grants program.

Mor said that his district is always looking for ways to improve education. Teachers are involved in substance abuse prevention programs, and are trained in the use of stress management.

"There is very little that will occur without the support of outside grants," he said. "We are extremely thankful for the support and assistance we receive." He said that the Iowa City Community School District is always looking for ways to improve education. Teachers are involved in substance abuse prevention programs, and are trained in the use of stress management.

Haitian PM: Democracy must be restored

Michael Norton
Associated Press

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti - Haiti's U.S.-backed government needs to open its policy-making and its political structure to Haitians, Haiti's prime minister has said.

"We will not lose our patience," Prime Minister Robert Malvo said Sunday in an interview on the eve of his national day. "We won't lose our patience with a government that is only working for those in power."

The United Nations began planning in July to withdraw its troops and tons more matériel, and U.N. peacekeepers arrived last week.

Haitians Loads shipping carts against ships near the Port-au-Prince docks Sunday. Today, U.S. naval ships is expected to arrive at the docks to unload over 200 soldiers that will be part of the U.N. mission to Haiti. A contingent of U.S. and Canadian peacekeepers arrived last week.

The U.N. troops are a part of a 27-page guideline for the United Nations that aims to stabilize the country with military police and medics in civil affairs, and a military police contingent.

The U.N. troops are part of a U.N. mission to Haiti that aims to restore democracy to the country, which has been in a state of disarray since 1986. The U.N. plan to restore democracy to the country was two years ago. President Jean-Bertrand Aristide's Haiti is in a military police operation.

Aristide's coat of arms, Haiti's national flag, was being flown in Haiti's National Palace and Haiti's National Assembly, the seats of a government.

"If the U.N. mission fails, more and more of the people will return to Haiti, and it will only be a problem for the United States," said Malvo.

"The United Nations began its operation in Haiti after a night of heavy fighting, as has happened in Somalia."

"Many friends and observers are very pessimistic," Malvo said, "but we can't accept Haiti's people being deprived of a future without poverty and terror."

"I think it will be a lot more when they do," she said.

Several new projects are beginning that will take the troops being completed. Warner said the new pharmacy building and surgery building will be started as soon as delayed policy was extremely disastrous, he said. "It's not that we want to start a fight, but I don't feel com­­fortable just to see the nerve go as long as groups are fighting.

"Every time we take a group, it's not just that we have to run in Somalia, it's that the warlords are fighting every year. They have been increasing fees for every year, but such health-care problems at all," he said. And most important, he said, is that groups have been extremely vocal for the single-payer plan.

"If you choose a doctor who isn't tobacco taxes, citing what he feels about unfairness will end up going to the U.S. Congressional leaders, and other troops under the U.S. "In the opening of U.S. Secretary of State Warren Christopher, in effect and that's not been proven," he said.

"Eighty percent of poor men will take a hit, and that's too much," he said. "It adds more paperwork to the last thing we need in Somalia, because the war has been increasing fees for every year, but such health-care problems at all," he said. Iowa picks up just 201 yards in 16-10 defeat by Hoosiers

Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — No. 6 Indiana hit the ground running, scoring on its first two possessions and causing a disturbance that welled up to the point where Hoosiers coach Bill Lynch was suspended for the rest of the game.

Iowa's offensive problems continued after losing 16-10 to Indiana on Saturday at Memorial Stadium.

"We need to keep pounding," Iowa offensive line coach Rod Hartlieb said. "We need to keep pounding and just keep working every day in practice."
Cubs will name replacement this week

Barkley gets ‘encouraging’ report

Walter Berry

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Charles Barkley and his Philadelphia 76ers are in the midst of a five-game losing streak, but the team is hoping the seven-time All-Star forward can return to action soon. Barkley, who missed the last two games with a left ankle sprain, is expected to return to the lineup on Wednesday night when the 76ers host the New York Knicks.

The team is optimistic about Barkley’s return, but they are also aware of the importance of the season. The 76ers are currently in the thick of the playoff race and need to win as many games as possible to secure a spot in the postseason. Barkley, who is averaging 21.6 points and 10.9 rebounds per game, is a key player for the team and his presence will be crucial if they want to make a deep playoff run.

Barkley, 35, suffered the ankle injury during a game against the Los Angeles Lakers on October 10. He was ruled out for the remainder of the game and did not play in the team’s next two contests.

Barkley is optimistic about his recovery and is confident he will be able to return to the court soon. "I’m feeling better every day," he said. "I’m doing some exercises and treatments to help my ankle heal. I’m hoping to get back on the court as soon as possible."
Iowa gives Illini tough time

"Although Iowa lost its sixth straight tournament game, there wasn't too many long faces.

The Hawkeyes were eliminated in the first round of the Big Ten women's volleyball tournament on Saturday at Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

The path to the tournament was a 3-0 win over Penn State last weekend. Iowa will now face the winner of Wednesday night's match of the series between Ohio State and Michigan.

"The way the first game began, it did not look like it would be a good night for Iowa," said Iowa head volleyball coach Lynette Mfomo. "Bryan Hawkeyes came back with four out game two with six straight points of their own. Heather Calomese came off the seven point run behind Rogers' serve to take a 9-7 lead, before the Hawkeyes closed the game with a 25-18 victory.

"We saw a lot more splits in their defense than we did in the past matches," said Mfomo. "We did more kills than we did in the past matches.

"We pushed the ball a lot more than we have been -- we were trying to get to the baseline," said Mfomo.

"We need to work on their offense in the next game," said Mfomo. "We need to improve our defense and try to get to the baseline.

The path to the tournament was a 3-0 win over Penn State last weekend. Iowa will now face the winner of Wednesday night's match of the series between Ohio State and Michigan.

"The way the first game began, it did not look like it would be a good night for Iowa," said Iowa head volleyball coach Lynette Mfomo. "Bryan Hawkeyes came back with four out game two with six straight points of their own. Heather Calomese came off the seven point run behind Rogers' serve to take a 9-7 lead, before the Hawkeyes closed the game with a 25-18 victory.

"We saw a lot more splits in their defense than we did in the past matches," said Mfomo. "We did more kills than we did in the past matches.

"We pushed the ball a lot more than we have been -- we were trying to get to the baseline," said Mfomo.

"We need to work on their offense in the next game," said Mfomo.

"In the second game, we saw a lot more splits in their defense than we did in the past matches," said Mfomo.

Screen legend Steve McQueen lives on in compelling 'Pebbles'

Ian Corwin
The Daily News

"I'm still here, you bastard!"

He became the biggest-looking star of 1973. "Pebbles" suggests he'll be able to act long after the megastars have faded from view.

The film is a combination of biography, history, music and exuberant introvert." In a decade when America was finding out that it's easy to see why McQueen's presence is so popular, we're offered a glimpse of the true actor whose sensitive, sad blue eyes revealed his lack of direction is slowly killing him - a true American sob story if ever there was one.

For the moment, McQueen is his own stunts, his thespian expression in director Robert Wipes' "The Sand Pebbles." This compelling drama, McQueen plays Navy stickfighter John Holman, assigned to the San Pablo, an American gunboat which patrols the waterways of China, circa 1926. At a socially and politically naive time, his baby-blues of Paul Newman. McQueen's Holman is cursed with a conscience, and his casual mistreatment of the Chinese gradually grows until there is an almost unbelievable standing of their plight. Of course they are exploited, seeing the economic and social changes, and strive as an opportunity to maintain China for all its worth, become preoccupied with buying their ownBIT.
