Trademark one-liners mark Perot performance

WASHINGTON — In a combative debate Tuesday night, the President and his chief economic adviser charged that Ross Perot was financing a financial scam in the defeat of the North American Free Trade Agreement.

One President misused the charge as "propaganda" to attack American workers.

But the other President, high-office, prime-time infomercial bedtime, said Perot had abandoned his one-liners support of the trade deal during an earlier political campaign, "to bring out the politics of four years ago and get paid for it." or saying a Perot family business in Texas died to make huge Atlantic City Saenger Theater center about NAFTA to be defeated.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT

9-court decision a ‘big win’ for women

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court took a significant step Tuesday toward enforcing sexual harassment policies in the workplace.

In a 9-0 vote, the justices rejected a civil rights theory that employers can be forced to pay monetary damages to employees even when they are not so-called "hostile work environments".

The decision, in the case of Margaret McGeen of the National Women's Law Center, said: "We do not think the court was clearly wrong.

The justices also ruled that employers that have employees who are "hostile" for no reason can be forced to pay monetary damages.

Three UI professors who have been studying the issues surrounding NAFTA offered different views of Tuesday's debate between Vice President Al Gore and Republican presidential hopeful Ross Perot.

"Gore was very proficient and Perot drifted off the subject too frequently," said UI associate professor of political science, Gary Corrado, who helped Perot during the debate. "On the other hand, Perot was better in the Senate," Corrado added.

But UI professor of political science, Joseph Schlesinger said Perot's performance was "not as good as it could have been." Schlesinger said Gore "gave a better, more polished argument." "The vice president came across as more knowledgeable, more informed and more polished," Schlesinger said.

MANASSAS, Va. — A man whose wife claimed he lured her into the back of their pickup truck and cut off her genitalia in retaliation for their divorce has been charged with sexual assault.

The man, Donald Thomas, was charged with sexual assault in Virginia in December 1991 after the incident.

Thomas has been arrested and charged with assault and battery.

"I grabbed at myself and I jumped up," he told the Daily Iowan.

"I had to defend myself and it hurt a lot," he said.

"I didn't realize what had happened," he added.

Lorraine Robinson was wounded.

"I remember she put her hands up and gave me some reign spur to my back," Robinson said.

"We had a moment of silence together," Robinson said.

Lorraine Robinson, who lives in a New York City neighborhood for women who have been raped or assaulted, said she has not been able to return to her home since the incident.

"I don't want to live here anymore," she said.

"I feel trapped, I feel sad," she added.

Punkin Chunkin flaps gourds

LAKE OWEGO, N.Y. — Gourds flying police officers pursued the high-flying pumpkin and tossed it off a barn roof during the 12th annual Lake Owego Pumpkin Chunkin Contest.

A gourd soared 155 feet, shattering the previous record of 153 feet, said Burton L. Jones, who organized the event.

The gourd flew a distance of 155 feet on a throw of 41 degrees, according to Jones.

Jones said he was pleased with the outcome.

"This is our best year," he said.

The event, which has been held for 12 years, raises money for the Lake Owego Volunteer Fire Department.

"It's a fun time," Jones said.

A gourd weighing 28 pounds was launched at 31 mph.

"We try to have different themes for the event," Jones said.

The top gourd flew 140 feet.

"It's a good day," he said.

Gourds were also flung off the barn roof.

The event attracts spectators from nearby communities.

"They're all here to watch the gourds," Jones said.

LEWES, Del. — A gun-toting southern moonshine bootlegger was nabbed Sunday night when police in Delaware swarmed his hideout to arrest him.

The suspect, identified only as Davy Crockett, 32, was caught in possession of a rifle, a shotgun and a .44-caliber pistol.

"I didn't shoot anyone," he said.

"I was just protecting my property," he said.

The warrant was served on Crockett and his partner, John Henry, 28, at their residence in rural Delaware.

The couple was charged with possession of firearms and ammunition.

"They were all set to go hunting," said one police officer.

"We didn't need any more trouble," he said.

The couple was scheduled to appear in court on Monday.

The operation was the result of a months-long investigation.

"We've been monitoring them for some time now," said the officer.

"They're a dangerous bunch of people," he said.

"We're going to keep an eye on them," he said.

The investigation was conducted by the Delaware State Police and the Delaware County Sheriff's Office.

"We're not taking any chances," said the officer.

"They're a threat to the community," he said.

The couple was well-known in the community for their illegal activities.

"They're not welcome in our town," said a local resident.

"We've had it with them," he said.

The Anatomy of the Citibank Classic card: a body of services and peace of mind for students. For years, scientists could only theorize about the Citibank Classic Visa card, unable to actually observe anything below its epidermal surface (i.e. the plastic). Surely, the highly intelligent services were evidence of an advanced brain. But with the latest advances in x-ray technology, and when the light could catch the various parts just so, it was confirmed: the Citibank Classic Visa card is head to toe more evolved than ever imagined. At its backbone are 3 services to cover the purchases you make on the card. Starting at the Lower Costal Spine, we see Citibank Price Protection can assure you of the best price. All you have to do is discover the same item advertised in print for less, within 60 days, and Citibank will refund the difference up to $150! Along the Oops-It-Slipped Disk, Buyers Security can cover those purchases against accidental damage, fire or theft, for 90 days from the date of purchase; and Citibank Lifetime Warranty allows one to extend the warranty for the expected service life of eligible products up to 12 years. So if you ever buy a walkman, a stereo, whatever, it will be reassuring to know that Citibank can bend and be flexible while still lending support. The backbone is then connected to the cranium or headbone. You can actually see it on the top left corner of the card. Look at the bottom of the page. The Citibank Photocard has the head of the cardholder on it, as well as his or her own signature, right on the front. That way, it will help prevent fraud. It will make a good form of ID as well, since you get to choose your own photo. But what about the Nervous System? The fact is, it doesn’t have one, not in the spinal cord nor in the brain. What it has is the Very Calm System. Because even if your credit card gets stolen, or gets lost, an involuntary muscle called the Extends Anewcords activates the Lost Wallet Service which can replace your card usually within 24 hours. As suspected, there’s another involuntary muscle: the heart—a beating and caring heart, big enough to give students special discounts and savings. You’ll receive a $20 Airfare Discount on domestic flights; savings on mail order purchases, sports equipment, magazines and music; a low interest rate of 15.4%; and, no annual fee. (In other words, the card itself doesn’t cost a forelimb and a hindlimb.) Naturally the heart of the Citibank Visa card pumps life and personalized customer service into all its parts, 24 hours a day. So no matter what the question you might have concerning your card, you need only call the 800 number. Citibank representatives each have a neck they are eager to stick out for you. They will always lend an ear. Or a hand. They will keep an eye out for you. They will put their best foot forward. Etc. So call to apply. You don’t need a job or a cosigner. And call if you’d like your photo added to your regular Citibank Classic Visa card. The number is 1-800-CITIBANK (1-800-248-4226), extension 19. If we take an overview of the whole body of services that make up the Citibank Classic Visa card, and especially that it will facilitate building a credit history, then you must shake a leg, flex your index finger and call today.

Monarch Notes* Version; With your purchases covered, no fee, and a low rate, the Citibank Classic Visa card will go easy on your Nervous System. Call 1-800-CITIBANK (1-800-248-4226), extension 19.

Phoned-in bomb threats lead to arrest

Associated Press

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa — Police hoped the arrest of a Marshalltown teen-ager clears up 10 bomb threats that disrupted life in this Central Iowa community over a week.

Joseph Henry Dundee, 18, has been charged with making threats at four business locations, a Class D felony. He was being held in the Sussex jail on $6,000 bond.

Dundee was arrested Sunday morning after investigation began when the first bomb threat was called in from a pay phone that they had site.

"The caller has had the test of ability to make a call," Dundee said, "but we're going to continue to look for any possible connections at this time," Police Chief Mark Beck said.

Dundee's mother, Velma, said the teen was visiting friends in the city when the first bomb threat was called in from a pay phone that they had site.

The campaign of the Old Dominion University editorial board to ban "offensive" cartoon from the university newspaper is a classic case of censorship in action, and one that should not be shrugged off lightly. The need for more education and understanding of the university policy is evident, as well as the importance of the rights of free speech and expression. The fact that the cartoon was banned because it was "offensive" is a violation of the student's right to freedom of expression. The university has the right to ban content that it deems offensive, but it should not be used as a tool to suppress free speech.

The cartoon in question was a political caricature that depicted a black man with a stick, which the university administration deemed offensive. The cartoonist, David Mastio, was asked to remove the cartoon from the newspaper, and he refused. The university then banned the cartoon from future publication. The cartoonist then sued the university, arguing that the ban violated his First Amendment rights.

The court ruled in favor of the cartoonist, finding that the university had exceeded its authority in banning the cartoon. The court also noted that the cartoon did not depict any facts that were false or misleading, and that it was not intended to cause harm or incite violence.

The case has implications for other universities around the country, and it highlights the importance of protecting free speech and expression. The university has an obligation to maintain a safe and inclusive environment for all students, but it also has a duty to protect the rights of free speech and expression. The case also demonstrates the importance of having clear and well-defined policies related to speech and expression.

In conclusion, the ban on the cartoon was an overreach by the university administration. The cartoonist had every right to express his views, even if they were offensive to some. The university should have allowed the cartoon to be published, and it should be clear that the administration's actions were unconstitutional.

I urge all university students and faculty to support the cartoonist in this case, and to demand that the university change its policy to protect free speech and expression. It is crucial that we stand up for our rights and work to ensure that our universities are places where free speech and expression are protected.

The case of David Mastio vs. Old Dominion University is a reminder of the importance of free speech and expression, and of the need for clear and well-defined policies related to speech and expression.

EAST LANSING, Mich. — The top-ranked Spartans' basketball program faced no evidence of players getting passes from boosters or at work summer jobs, a school spokesman said Tuesday.

Some violations of NCAA rules were found, but "these of these are not serious offenses," said Terry Dishon. "We are confident that the NCAA will not use these with our processes and our findings."

A report listing those infractions has been sent to the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Big Ten Conference, he said.

A plane 5 story in The Detroit News started the inquiry.

In that copyright story, two former players, Patrick Hickman and Jason Hill, sold a Spartan booster routinely gave them, "golden handshake" of $150 or $200 after games.

They also said that Michigan State trustee Joel Ferguson, a Lansing developer, gave them summer jobs at his companies but they didn't have to work.

Coach Jud Heathcote, Ferguson and the booster, Fred Yopp, lastly reported those claims.

Hickman was a reserve forward for the Spartans from 1989-91. The school suspended him and admitted to him of his scholarship violations and ineligibility in a May 4, 1991, a federal civil judgment.

Hickman was acquitted the last June after he testifyed he was trying to cheat an undercover federal agent by selling him 2.5 pounds of soap and paper on January for $26,000.

He described the payments and network summer jobs in a separa tion for a lawsuit. During that deposition, university attorneys asked him if he knew of any NCAA violations in the Spartan basketball program.

Curt of Crime, judge Michael Hickman threw out one of Hick man's lawsuits on Sept. 1, Hick man, who had sought damages of more than $13,000 in that court, still has separate lawsuits against the university grading in Michigan's Circuit Court.

Hickman's attorney, Paul jean, who has seen damage claims this week but plans to respond to Michigan State's report on Mon day, a Saturday at his office said.

Dishon, the Michigan State spokesman, said the minor rule violations were all that were found by the investigative five-month investigation.

On Oct 28, 1993 - Wednesday, Ohio State (10-0) will host Michigan State (9-0) in a day game in Columbus.

LAKES FOREST, Ill. - William "Billy" Richardson, whose family once was a major benefactor of the University of Chicago, was seated in the first row of the Memorial Church Tuesday night, listening to his son Billy, a football recruit from St. Louis, Mo.

"I have no Cover"

"In my opinion, that's the way it should be," Richardson said. "I think it's a good thing."

Single's demise limiting to new bands

Stuart Reed

The Daily Iowan

This week the death of the single... A great deal has been written about the effect of the compact disk on the music industry. The compact disk has altered the format and distribution of music for years and now must be dealt with on a daily basis. The single is losing its hold on the music industry.

As of now, singles have an impossible task of being picked up nationwide. Even a minor hit single will often have an audience of only a couple thousand. The marketing of a single is not enough to make a single popular. Viewers need to be aware of the single in order for it to be popular. Singles have a large impact on the music industry.

Some have seen the decline in the single as a positive thing. With the rise of websites such as Napster, the single has lost some of its value. The single has been replaced by the music distributed on the internet.

As the single continues to lose its appeal, the music industry must adapt. The single is no longer the primary revenue stream for the music industry. The industry must now focus on other methods of distributing music.

In conclusion, the single is no longer the primary revenue stream for the music industry. The industry must now focus on other methods of distributing music. The single has lost its hold on the industry and must be dealt with on a daily basis.
