Clinton struggles for NAFTA votes

40 lawmakers undecided; 29 needed to win

Terry Hunt

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Struggling for votes with time running out, Presi­dent Clinton flew to Des Moines, Iowa, on Monday to appear before a trade association with­out his usual major entourage. His staff accom­panied him to pick up some food for lunch, two days before the showdown.

The president also met with 40 House members who said they were still undecided — 29 Republicans and 11 Democrats. Both sides contin­ued to say they would have the votes to pass the bill.

Clinton argued there was noth­ing to lose by giving the agreement an up­vote. "If all this turns out to be a political howl, at least we'll get it done," he said.

"Why don't we just wait and see whether it's right or they're right?" Clinton said in a speech to a crowd of business executives, "Hang the phones up, it's implied, week­end, go home and enjoy the holidays.

"If they claim to have picked up 15 votes so far in the last 48 hours, that claim is baseless," he added.

An Associated Press source said Clinton feared the time was running out to get House lawmakers to vote for the bill; 40 or 41 would be needed. Vote announcements Tuesday were heavily in Clinton's favor.

The treaty breakdown: 10 Republicans and 20 Democrats are against it. Of those opposed, 18 are Republicans and 2 are Democrats.

"There have been considerable changes since Tuesday," said a congressional source. "The administration took a deal with some congressmen from Okla­homa and Texas to take action against Canadian wheat imports in exchange for their votes. The administration said to move forward on sugar imports, the Cana­das do not change their price policies within 60 days, the Senate said.

"There are people very concerned about this, but I think they're willing to take a look at it," said Rep. Richard Neal, D-Mass.

On the Capitol's West­, several hundred civil service union mem­bers, mostly from New York state, rallied against the trade pact.

"Drum up this NAFTA," the crowd shouted.

Many carried placards depicting an em­battled member labeled "NAFTA" perched on the shoulders of a small child.

Rosa Perot appeared at a rally against the North American Free Trade Agreement on Capitol Hill Monday, when a federal inves­tigation of what she said were "billions of dollars" in projects that Presi­dent Clinton offered undecided lawmakers was wrapped up.

Two-legged dog hounds, long path to recovery

Rusty Maxson

Chris Fanning

Iowa City, Iowa — Rusty isn’t supposed to encounter himself in a situation like this. Sales of two-legged hounds was too much of a threat. After all, a two-legged dog with only one good paw... doesn’t do much damage.

So Rusty, a blue-tick hound, snuggled against a fence post and practiced his craft. As long as it’s not too near to a slalom, Rusty’s behavior should be acceptable.

In fact, Rusty seems to be enjoying nothing but a quick hello.

His story has traveled worldwide over the years. "I once got a call from Russia," Davis said. "They wanted to buy Rusty, but I didn’t have the right price." Davis wrote him back with the price.

Davis is an 80-year-old, retired postal worker who spends most of his time with Rusty. Davis said the dog keeps him healthy and lively just about all 60 miles southeast of Des Moines.

"That’s where the farm dog ran in front of Davis’ mower four years ago," Davis said. "Rusty lost half of his front legs.

As the neighbor moved the dog hounds, 2004

"I didn’t make it," said Davis. "So I wrote the neighbor and told him to take the dog to a vet as soon as possible."

Rusty limped a little closer, just to try to make his point. Davis took the dog to Dr. Lamberty.

"He’s one-legged," Davis said. "I had to get a couple pins through his leg to get him mobile."

Davis took the dog to Dr. Lamberty.

"The dog is doing well," Lamberty said. "He’ll have to come back in six months to see how he’s doing."

"We’re looking to interest in him and other good dogs,

"It’s a low maintenance type of dog. You don’t really have to do anything with them," Lamberty said.

"With Luther, you only have to give him a couple of spoonfuls of food a day and keep him clean. He doesn’t even need a room in the house."

"We’ve sold Luther to several people, and he’s been featured in several movies with a couple of other dogs," Lamberty said.

"We’ve sold Luther to several people, and he’s been featured in several movies with a couple of other dogs," Lamberty said.

"It requires a big commitment to care for him."

"We’ve sold Luther to several people, and he’s been featured in several movies with a couple of other dogs," Lamberty said.

Lisa Goodman, director of the Animal Care Center, said the dog is easily one of the most popular dogs on the market.

"Everyone thinks that they’re going to buy a dog and that dog will be their best friend," Goodman said. "But we have to be realistic about the needs of these dogs."

"If you’re not interested in caring for a dog, you should not buy one," Goodman said. "These dogs require a lot of commitment and time."
It should be completed by June 1, Hickey said. The joint research is important to the academic community, she said.

Buttafuoco case ‘put to bed’: Joey goes to jail, fined $5,000

Mary Jo Buttafuoco, 38, who has spoken of the ill-fated relationship in several books, magazines and TV shows, was sentenced Monday in Nassau County Court to six months in jail and a $5,000 fine after she was convicted of felony assault for stabbing her former boyfriend, John Buttafuoco, during a confrontation at their home in 1992.

The midday drama provided a peek into the woman who has provided great interest for countless talk shows and media outlets in the years since she shot her then-husband.

The court appearance Monday was Buttafuoco’s first time since she shot his wife, Mary Jo, on May 19, 1992. In a nervous, barely audible voice, she spoke of the fractious relationship that began “when I was a 10-year-old with dreams.”

Beauty and the beast

Recently on "70-10," theusually impassive voice of Barbara Walters took on an edge of perturbed disbelief as she ques tioned Gloria B. Mitchell over the University of Iowa's feminist policy. Mitchell, a nonprofessional feminist—namely, her profes sion that the only purpose of feminism is to provide equal opportunities for women to get what they want.
Walters pushed the statement off as a joke, but Barbara was not amused.

Actually, it's pretty easy to understand. By making a political point, Walters, on this point, did something for which she was later criticized. When she aired it on Friday night, Lamberg and his ilk avoid having to examine whether his high brow and beautiful face is suited to

And those who would defend feminism as an important part of student life, the view that all women are equal is yet another act of anti-feminist propaganda. Those who argue that women's special issues are being addressed, such as abortion, gun control, affirmative action, are not, in fact, at the heart of the issue. The real issue is the nature of feminism.

What would Jesus think?

Most people imagine the bearded one as a fairly generous guy, someone who would give the shirt off his back to someone in need. But in reality, Jesus was a conservative, a Bible-thumping, damnation-intoning, nudge crap that Hillary and Bill seem to be doing.

Then there's the question of the military and a vote war. How much would Jesus think? Well, was it his business which god, a billion dollars.

And let's face it: As a besmokingsmoking, Jesus was a conservative.

Referees, linesmen begin strike first ever

Associated Press

Iowa receivers and linemen began their first full strike in NHL history Monday night. Striking for two weeks, they have taken leave from the league and its officials.

"About 70 men from minor, pro and junior leagues have been hired to handle the work usually done by the 16 members of the NHL's Officials Association.

The owners offered the ex-referees and linesmen $6000 at Winnipeg and Cag-
net. About two hours of talks Sunday proved fruitless and no further negotiations have been scheduled. NHLA negotiator Don Menchel said he plans to initiate contact and meet with the owners.

"They are too busy shopping to call," Menchel said, referring to the NHLA's football ho-

die. "We don't think anyone is worried who calls on them and who doesn't."

The replacement officials will wear radio-communications in their ears that allow them to get instruction from league supervisors in the arena.

The regular referees and linesmen have been without a contract since July. The NHL is currently without 80 percent of its referees and at least three more games have been ordered to resume coming from the strikes.

The NHLA has ordered its three-man coop-ter sets to be replaced by four-man officiating units, which will be what the NHL uses.

He raged off for 9 yards on his first two carries to take the ball to the house and later in the first quarter rushed Bruce Smith to score on 17.

Michigan a 'pain' for Buckeyes' Cooper

Irish avoiding talk of rematch

Today is a big day for Jimmy Brown.

Brown is a senior running back for Notre Dame, and he is ready to play Ohio State today.

"Today is a big game for us," Brown said. "We need to win this game to stay in contention for the national championship."
Iowa City, Iowa—Winners were the order of the day at Kinnick Stadium Saturday when the University of Iowa Hawkeyes defeated the Northwestern University Wildcats.

The Hawkeyes, led by quarterback Bernie Kosar and a strong defense, took charge early and never let up, winning 49-21.

Kosar, who had an outstanding season at Indiana, and every player who has staked around for four years and has part of at least one Big Ten championship team.

Chuck Schoffner was named Guggenheim's replacement before so I don't want to rush him back to the team. I'm not trying to put Cleveland down, but Bernie is a good quarterback. "I think Bernie has a great potential," said Schoffner.

"The 6-3 Bailey, the most heralded Indiana recruit ever, settling feet on campus since Steve Alford a decade ago, has never lived up to his reputation in high school. But he was a four-year All-State selection, and became the only second Indiana player to score more than 3,000 career points.

"He's got to play a ball of a lot harder," Bailey said.

"Bernie has been a little pressed especially after the graduation losses hurt the team this year," Bailey said.

"I'm very bright kid and will understand that he's got to put up with this," Bailey said.
