Violence continues on election eve

Terrorism mars first black voting opportunity

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Terrorist bombings struck vote-counting offices in Lord's Place, a white suburb of Johannesburg on the eve of the election that will bring blacks to power in South Africa. Political leaders tried to calm the electorate and said the blasts caused no casualties but promised to make the elections a success.

"I don't think they really intended to have something happen ahead of the election," said Corinna, a witness at the scene.

The School of Social Work has a new statue.

A figure made of wire and sculplure depicting the original statue was mysteriously placed on room 332 of North Hall. It has a black face and is gender neutral.

"It probably came over in the overnight, but I am unsure where it came from," said Donna Nelson, administrative assistant to the dean.

"We are planning to move the statue to the same room and to have it on display for all who wish to view it.

The statue was restored and is currently on display in the lobby of North Hall.

In addition, a new statue was placed on campus and is currently on display in the lobby of the Administration Building.

In downtown Johannesburg, white police said they had detained one person for questioning and injuring about 10 people with batons Monday when a crowd rioted at a Pretoria tavern frequented by blacks.

"There were at least 100 people who rioted at the tavern," said a spokesman.

"We will continue to investigate the incident and ensure that justice is served.

"We are taking all necessary measures to prevent similar incidents from occurring in the future.

"We are committed to upholding law and order in our country."

MURPHY: "There are no new crops planted yet, and we need to think about what's going to happen when they come."

But that's the point, he said. They can handle it. Their vast number of cattle will keep them from having to worry about this at all.

"All insects are cold-blooded in that their body temperatures are determined by the surrounding environment," he said. "When things are cold, they tend to move less. When things are hot, they tend to move more."

Tendy figured it was the wind in the manure. She and her co-workers thought it was the heat. In the end, they decided they would be better off trying to get rid of the bugs.

Animal Coalition educates on use of animals

Holly Reinhart

The Daily Iowan

The UI Animal Coalition is planning to chow down on campus this month in an effort to educate students about the use of animals in research. The group has already met with university executives to discuss their concerns.

The group's activities are being held in conjunction with World Animal Day in Lake Harriet, a national campaign to raise awareness about animal issues.

The coalition is planning to conduct two workshops on campus. They will focus on educating students about the use of animals in research and how to work with the university to make changes.

The workshops will take place on Monday, November 12, from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. and again from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. at the University of Iowa's Center for Animal Research, 1150 West Liberty Ave.

The workshops will cover a variety of topics, including the history of animal research, animal welfare, and how to get involved with the Animal Coalition.

The coalition is inviting students, faculty, and staff to attend the workshops to learn more about the issues and how they can make a difference.

The Animal Coalition is also planning to hold a series of meetings on campus to discuss the use of animals in research and how to work with the university to make changes. The meetings will be held on November 14 and 15, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

The coalition is encouraging students to attend the meetings to learn more about the issues and how they can make a difference.

Congress has begun the reconciliation of its two versions of a criminal bill. The final version could include two new offenses that would make it a federal crime to murder whites in the South under certain circumstances. The proposal that would have replaced the death penalty with life imprisonment for certain violent offenses was dropped. However, it is felt that it is necessary to answer the bloodthirsty cries for criminals.

Retiring Supreme Court Justice Harry Blackmun has described the proposals for the criminal bill as "a compromise of human suffering" and "a compromise which could have been a horrific experience in its earlier experiences in this country today.

Serbs cleave path out of Gorazde

By Peter Kessler in Sarajevo

Associated Press

Bosnian Serbs on Monday cleared a major road from the besieged Muslim enclave of Gorazde and were believed to be evacuating the town to the north, ending a siege that has lasted more than a month.

The pullout began Sunday night and was under way early Monday, NATO spokesman Maj. John Davison said.

The Associated Press was unable to independently verify the reported pullout.

The evacuation followed an agreement that was reached late Sunday between the Bosnian government and the Bosnian Serb authorities.

Davison said the pullout was to end the fighting in the town of Gorazde, which is located in the eastern part of Bosnia-Herzegovina.

The town was formerly under the control of the Bosnian government, but it was captured by Bosnian Serbs in 1992 and has been under siege since February 1993.

Davison said that the evacuation will result in the end of the siege and the beginning of a new phase in the conflict.

He said that the evacuation will also result in the release of hundreds of prisoners who have been held by the Bosnian Serb forces in Gorazde.

"We believe that this is the beginning of the end of the conflict," Davison said.

The evacuation is expected to last several days, he added.

Vikings call on Wells in fourth round

Iowa sports

Iowa State

Former Iowa defensive tackle Mike Wells was picked up by the Vikings in the fourth round of the NFL draft Thursday night.

Wells, a two-time all-Big Ten player who set Iowa career record for quarterback sacks and tackles for a loss, was the 32nd player taken in the fourth round of the 1994 NFL draft and the 108th selection overall.

"Terry has been very good," said Billy Tubbs, who was named assistant coach of the Hawkeye defensive line after Sampson of Washington suspended for three games.

"The Hawkeyes finished the season with a 3-9 record and the defense was average. We want to improve that," Samson said.

"We'll try to focus on the defense," said Samson. "We want to improve our pass rush and our defense to be more effective."

- Graf not intimidated by threat

Associated Press

Hamburg, Germany -- Steffi Graf, German tennis star, insists she is not worried about playing in the German Bundesliga this season. Graf did not play in the Bundesliga last year because her health was not good enough to begin the season.

Graf has been cleared to play by her doctors and is ready to begin her comeback.

Graf, who has won a record 19 Grand Slam singles titles, has not played since March 1993 when she opened the season with a loss to Jana Novotna in the final of the French Open. Graf then pulled out of the rest of the season because of her back.

Graf, who is coming off a year-long injury, said she is ready to begin her comeback with the Bundesliga.

Graf, the defending Olympic gold medalist, said she is ready to begin her comeback with the Bundesliga.
