Blaze breaks out in Burge room

That's the spirit

From Some White to an army of Poisonous Ranges, Iowa City's Pedestrian Mall was transformed into a microcosm of childhood imagination and parental lingering Thursday evening. The parade, a part of the Iowa City Recreation Division's 1996 Children's Halloween Parade and Program, concluded at the Robert A. Lee Community Recreation Center, 220 S. Gilbert St., with a haunted hallway, crafts and games.

Halloween is the Day of the Dead — it is filled with many ghosts, goblins and creatures of the night. Many people dress up in costumes for this special day to avoid being seen as ghosts by trick-or-treating for food and candy.

There was no fire, but the sprinkler system went off in junior Greg McMorran's second-floor apartment in Iowa City's Pedestrian Mall, 700 S. Gilbert St., Thursday evening. The sprinkler system went off in room 1537, the room of UI freshmen Jerry Ho and Hui Wang. The fire started in room 1537, the room of UI freshmen Jerry Ho and Hui Wang.

Resident of Burge Residence Hall said they could smell the smoke throughout the building. "I thought it was something coming from our right," said a third-floor resident. "It stunk so bad. I started looking around the heater and all the rest of the野生动物s.

Jeff Schabilion, a UI professor of psychology, said there are several reasons dry leaves and other organic material can be dangerous.

The first, he said, is that dry leaves and other organic material can be点燃ed and spread to other areas, causing a fire.

"It's autumn, and the leaves on the ginkgo tree, which originally comes from Europe, are being some golden brilliant shades of red and gold and falling from the trees — right into the sprinkler system," he said.

The smell will continue to be overwhelming, and although the sprinkler system went off, the smell will still be there, residents said. The fire started in room 1537, the room of UI freshmen Jerry Ho and Hui Wang. The fire started in room 1537, the room of UI freshmen Jerry Ho and Hui Wang.

Apple orchard provides good pickings

The Daily Iowan

"The sun rises on one of the last apple-picking days at Wilson’s Orchard and Robert Sandroad sighs. "It’s a Pedro's apple," he says. "It’s a Pedro’s apple because customers are encouraged to pick their own apples instead of purchasing those pre-picked by the orchard," Sandroad does. "If you ever want to pick your own apples, this is a great orchard to do it at," he says.

The orchard’s biggest competitor is the Jonagold and Spygold, and Kroeze said Wilson doesn’t dispute the claim. "Our Jonagolds are well worth picking in the autumn months," he said. Racism alleged in Simpson jury probe

Michael Fleeman
Associated Press

LOS ANGELES - Speaking once again in the O.J. Simpson case, defense attorneys Thursday accused prosecutors of questioning prospective jurors differently than others.

"This appears to be just the list, in a series of efforts to try to manipulate public opinion," Hodgman said. "We're trying to be very careful, very cautious to try and keep any issue from getting into the courtroom or the jury pool, along with two other questions. Thursday; three other prospective jurors were dismissed.

Corrigan said Hodgman asked the man if he knew what a polygraph was, adding, "They didn't ask that question in anyone else. It was damaging."

Hodgman denounced the allegations as inappropriate and unfair.

He said they had nothing to do with information, which is tailored to each prospective jurors' answers to previous questions.

The visit, he said, was Clinton's wish, and that he plans to accommodate the president.

The visit in question, a short walk with the eye of the Chief of the Holy Sepulcher near Christ's original tomb, the Western Wall, known in Jerusalem as the Temple Mount, or Haram esh Sharif.

The problem is that they are in the old City of Arab and Jewish Jerusalem, which Freud explored in 1927 and is not extended as part of its capital. The West, including the Prime Minister, does not recognize the Jerusalem and the Palestinians, except for the Temple Mount, or Haram esh Sharif.

Viewpoints

Children Are More Involved

Violence is still a concern.

Quentin Tarantino's latest film, "Pulp Fiction," has stirred up a controversy over the glorification of violence in movies. Despite the film's box office success, many parents and educators are concerned about the influence of violent media on children. The question of whether violence in movies is harmful to children remains a topic of debate. While some argue that violent movies can desensitize children to the consequences of violence, others believe that violent movies can help children understand the dangers of violence.

Delay Was Unethical

Last week, Judge Latorre issued a decision in favor of a 16-year-old girl who was charged with the murder of an elderly woman in Des Moines. The judge ruled that the girl should not be automatically sentenced to life in prison because she is a minor. The girl was charged with murder after she allegedly beat an elderly woman to death. The judge's decision was based on the principle that minors are less likely to commit murder than adults and that they should be treated differently in the justice system.

The Newest Edition of the J. Crew Catalog

The newest edition of the J. Crew catalog features a transmogrification from grunge to the kind of mimicry rivaling that of a company uniform. All indications are that the nationwide transmogrification from grunge to work will be in full swing this weekend. Quick! Turn to page 45 for the details.

Brockman Interviewed for Simpson Case

The Daily Iowan, the student newspaper at the University of Iowa, is conducting an interview with Rodger Bedell, the father of O.J. Simpson's son, to discuss the Simpson case. The interview will be broadcast on the university's radio station and will be available online.

The Grunge Years

Since the 1980s, grunge has been a dominant style in the music industry. The Seattle-based band Mudhoney, for example, was one of the first bands to popularize grunge music. Grunge music is characterized by its raw, emotional sound and its use of distorted guitars and lyrics about personal struggles.

What Is Your Favorite Horror Movie and Why?

What are your favorite horror movies and why? Do you prefer old classics like "The Exorcist" or "Psycho," or do you prefer more recent films like "The Conjuring" or "Get Out?" What makes a horror movie effective, and how do you assess its success in delivering a chilling experience?

Coaches dispute Big Ten favorite

Buckeye fans
Rex Ferris, The Columbus Dispatch

Seven days prior to the conference opener, the Buckeyes were announced as the Big Ten favorite for the first time since 1988.

"We have no team in my mind or anyone else's that could change that overnight," said John Grisham, executive director of the National Basketball Players Association.

He and his colleagues warned that it was still too soon to say that the Buckeyes were the top team in the Big Ten.

"I can't tell you how many times we've had to come to a head-up situation where they've been able to win," Grisham said. "I think the only team that can win the Big Ten this year is the Buckeyes.

"I just don't think there's anything else that could change that overnight," he said.

"We have a good team, a good running game and a good defense," Grisham said. "But when you're dealing with that much talent and that much depth, you can't expect to win the championship every year.

"I think we're a good team and that's the way we want to play," Grisham said. "The Buckeyes have been a model for other teams to follow."
In the conference, the Hawkeyes aren't going to discard the things that made them successful in the past. They want to keep the things that worked and add new elements to their game plan.

However, the Hawkeyes aren't going to throw away what made them successful in the past. They want to keep the things that worked and add new elements to their game plan.

The tradition of the Big Ten is very important to the Hawkeyes. They think it helps to have a strong history in the conference, and that resulted in the Michigan win last year. Michigan won last year's title, and the group is very balanced this year.

To run a chance at the championship, the Hawkeyes will need to win at least three of their four remaining games. They are currently in fourth place in the conference with a 3-2 record. They have a tough road ahead, but they are confident in their ability to win.

Tradition is important, but the Hawkeyes also want to have fun and enjoy the process. They want to have a great time playing football and represent their university with pride.

Field hockey faces critical weekend

Coach Beth Duke added the lines to make the final. She even moved the ball on a let with on their sides and a big wall was put up.

The Hawkeyes play host to No. 14 Penn State on Sunday, only the third time in school history the Big Ten conference women's hockey team has been scheduled to play Pink. Duke said he was a huge fan of the NHL's Winter Classic. "It's hard to imagine our own fans," Duke said, "but we can't control that. It's going to be a great day in San Antonio."

Derrick Fox. "We're going to let the kids make a decision," Duke said. "We're trying to make it a fun day for the kids.

But Fox added that it would be a tough decision for the kids to make. "It's going to be a tough decision for us," Fox said. "We're going to let the kids make a decision.

That day would be an opportunity to play on a bigger stage and make a statement in the Big Ten conference.

A sweep this weekend would win a share of the Big Ten title and move the Hawkeyes into a tie with No. 14 Penn State for the conference championship. "We're very excited about the opportunity to make a statement in the Big Ten," Duke said. "We hope to win the title and move into the conference championship.

The tournament will take place in Columbus, Ohio. The teams will begin play at 4 p.m. and Saturday's game will start at 7 p.m."

The Hawkeyes (6-4, 16-6) are currently tied with Illinois and Minnesota for second place in the Big Ten conference. "We've been doing a good job of playing defense," Duke said. "We've been holding teams to one goal a game.

Volleyball

Following the Big Ten Conference schedule, the Hawkeyes will play in a season-ending tournament that they feel is the most important of the season. "We're very excited about the opportunity to win the conference championship," Duke said. "We've been doing a good job of playing defense.

The tournament will be held in Columbus, Ohio. The teams will begin play at 4 p.m. and Saturday's game will start at 7 p.m.

Bills get no over Chiefs

Dane Goldberg

Associated Press

The last time the Kansas City Chiefs won in Buffalo was back in 1981, as the AFC title game. The Bills became the first team since 1898 to win a Division title. But the chiefs and the bills, the everyone else, are two ugly teams. Buffalo is 1-4 and Kansas City is 2-3, but the bills are heading for a second-place finish in the AFC West.

Kansas City is currently in the playoff race, but the bills are not.

If the Chiefs win this game, they'll guarantee the Hawkeyes a first-place finish in the Big Ten. If they lose, the Hawkeyes will be in a tie for second place with Penn State and Ohio State.

A second place finish in the Big Ten would give the Hawkeyes a shot at the NCAA title.

This will be the first year the Big Ten has hosted a post-season field hockey tournament. The winner of the three-day event will receive the Big Ten title and advance to the NCAA tournament, which will be held in Columbus, Ohio. The teams will be decided by a round robin tournament.

The tournament will take place in Columbus, Ohio. The teams will begin play at 4 p.m. and Saturday's game will start at 7 p.m.
Vikings' tackle duo dominates foes

Ron Leish
Associated Press

EUGEN PRAIRIE, Minn. — One was born to be a star and the other to be a勤勉的担当。The two are roommates and close friends, and one is a fourth-year senior at the University of Minnesota. They are both defensive tackles and both are expected to be in the NFL by the time they graduate.

"John's just a wild and crazy guy on the field, loves doing whatever he's doing," Thomas said. "He's the type of guy he and I were the most like when we were kids, always trying to be the best at whatever we did."

Phillips and Thomas are two of the best players in the Big Ten Conference, and both are expected to be taken in the first round of the NFL draft next month. They have been teammates since their freshman year at Minnesota and have developed a strong bond on and off the field.

"We grew up together, so we have a lot of respect for each other," Thomas said. "We've been through a lot together, and we know what it takes to be successful in this league."
Everyday can be found at the Iowa Artisans' Gallery, 117 E. College St., from pretzels to hand-painted wooden candle holders. All pieces are made by artists from Iowa City and the surrounding area.

A few years ago, the owners of the gallery, Bill and Earl Karkowski, decided to open a personal place to display their work. They sent a letter to artists who might be interested. Posing equal value of work on the original or current art show, the gallery opened in December 1984.

"Thinking back, it's sort of a nightmare," said Christina Eaton, a painter and one of the original current owners.

After they hired hand blasters and put up the gallery's false walls, they didn't look at similar venues around the country, and the only thing they put in, the gallery survived. Bill Karkowski, a woodworker and gallery owner, estimates that in the first year, 10,000 people passed through. Each month several works in the art's gallery are featured.

"We wanted the gallery situation to sell our work, but it worked it's own business from then on," Eaton said.

The gallery now has a large variety of pieces, including ceramics, jewelry, and mixed media. Some of the artists are new to the gallery, while others have been displaying their work for years. The gallery has become a community gathering place, and it's a place where people can come to see the latest in local art.

"We are always looking for new artists to display their work," Eaton said. "We try to keep a good mix of artists, both new and established."

The gallery is open six days a week and is a great place to visit when in Iowa City. It's located at 117 E. College St., and it's open to the public. The gallery is a reflection of the Iowa City community and its diverse art scene. The artists are proud of their gallery and the work they create. The gallery is a place where people can come to see the latest in local art and meet the artists who create it.

Flashing, fine, varied tunes on tap for Halloween weekend

Creepy 'Freaks' come to haunt Bijou

By Erica Gierzych

"Freaks" was hardly a success when it played briefly in 1932, and its story is considered an embarrassment and the film, which has since gained cult status in both Hollywood and the underground, was shown especially for the Halloween weekend in the strange coinage of popcorn and red light. "Freaks" was directed by Tod Browning and stars Roscoe Arbuckle, a non-establishment freak with a penchant for women. Today, the film has gained new life and is considered a classic of the horror genre.

"Freaks" is about a group of freaks who live in a small town and are depicted as being happy and content with their lives. The freaks include a group of people with abnormalities such as disfigurements, amputations, and deformities. The film is shot in a cinéma vérité style, which means that it is shot in a way that is supposed to be realistic and authentic.

The film is considered a landmark in the history of film and is considered a masterpiece of its time. It is also considered a landmark in the history of the horror genre and is considered a classic of the genre.
