Veterans of Foreign Wars get new commander

Terry Hunt

WASHINGTON (AP) — A political movement to help, feed and entertain wounded veterans received a new commander on Tuesday.

Hunt, 60, a retired Navy captain, was named commander of the American Legion's veterans organization. The group has about 6,000 chapters across the country.

"We are honored to have Terry Hunt join us as our new commander," said American Legion National Commander Paul R. Broun. "He brings with him a wealth of experience and leadership skills that will continue to benefit our members and the veterans."
Evel Knievel says he has logged more than 250 hours flying the Ironman, an Ultralight helicopter with a perfect view of Iowa City and the University of Iowa. The 65-year-old daredevil took a break from the Ironman's flight operations to talk about his job to The Daily Iowan.

"I've never missed a beat," Edgington said. "I can't imagine doing anything else."

Edgington said he's been with the Ironman for 25 years, and he has been with the pilots' quarters for 14 years.

"I've been here since 1984," Edgington said. "I've been with the pilots' quarters for 14 years."

Edgington said he had no problem making the transition to the Ironman, as it is similar to the helicopters he flew in the military.

"I've been flying helicopters for 25 years," Edgington said. "I was a pilot in the Navy for 25 years."
Strange lawsuits can reap big rewards

Sue's Testimony

A woman was awarded millions of dollars in an area court by a jury after she said she was injured by a McDonald's fryer. In a 1994 lawsuit, she claimed she was improperly supervised by McDonald's employees and that the fryer was defective. The jury agreed and awarded her $6 million in damages.

Harry's Testimony

However, there are many cases in which the plaintiffs are not awarded anything. Some lawyers have a reputation for being skilled negotiators and for getting large settlements, even when the case is weak. In these cases, the plaintiff's attorney may receive a large fee, but the plaintiff may end up with nothing.

Amanda's Testimony

Lots of attention has been paid to people who sue the government for money. In the 1990s, there were a number of cases in which people were awarded millions of dollars. In one case, a person who was injured by a government contract was awarded $300 million.

Philip's Testimony

The money paid to those who settle lawsuits against the government is not tax-deductible. The government will not pay people to settle lawsuits against it.

Samantha's Testimony

The text mentions several cases in which people were awarded large sums of money. These cases include a woman who was awarded $6 million in damages after she was injured by a McDonald's fryer, and a person who was injured by a government contract and was awarded $300 million.

Bishops plead against death penalty

DAVID MONTGOMERY — Death penalty opponents conceded Thursday that they could not mobilize sufficient support, but said they’ll have a future version ready to try again.

Meanwhile, the Iowa Catholic Conference said it was pleased the church group opposed the death penalty, saying it was a statement from bishops “that we can break this cycle of violence.”

In the House of Representatives, we were unsuccessful, and I think we need to take a step back and maybe look at an alternative method to deter crime and respond to the needs of the victims’ families,” said Rep. Deb Kolb, D-Mantee, sponsor of the bill that failed.

The legislation, sponsored by Kolb, would have allowed judges to impose life without parole or a sentence of 40 years to life for anyone convicted of a capital crime.

Clinton returns to campaign themes

WASHINGTON - By the traditional standards of American politics, the state of the union is excellent. The economy is strong, the nation is so full of itself that the President can confidently say that the U.S. is the world's strongest military power, and hispty is not even in futest. Indeed, he has made it clear that he is not interested in transforming the union in any serious way.

In terms of policy, Clinton can also claim to have been successful. He has passed a number of important measures, including the North American Free Trade Agreement, the balanced-budget amend-mens of 1990, and the crime bill. He has also suraved a number of challenges, including the white house bombing, the Oklahoma City bombing, and the war in the Middle East.

There is, however, a more subtle reason for the apparent success of Clinton's presidency.
He has been able to maintain a high level of popularity by avoiding the kind of scandal that has plagued previous presidents. He has also been able to keep the political system stable by using his political skills.

In terms of domestic policy, Clinton has been much more successful than his predecessors. He has been able to pass a number of im-

the health care bill, the NAFTA, and the crime bill. He has also been able to survive a number of challenges, including the white house bombing, the Oklahoma City bombing, and the war in the Middle East.

The most important reason for Clinton's success is his personality. He is a man of energy and determination, and he has been able to use these qualities to keep the political system stable and to pass a number of important measures.

In terms of foreign policy, Clinton has been less successful than his predecessors. He has been unable to solve the Middle East conflict, and he has also been unable to bring peace to Ireland.

If one has a strong bone structure, the growth of gray hair can be a sign of wisdom, and to further understand why we hide it when we use their money prodigiously for sports or special organizations. Mike Tyson's personal story has been told many times in the media. It is a tragic tale of a young man who lost his way in life. His rise to fame was meteoric, but his fall was just as swift. He was a brilliant athlete, but his conduct off the field was always a cause for concern. He was convicted of several offenses and served time in prison. His story is a cautionary tale about the dangers of fame and the importance of good character.

Pippen should know value of a contract

He needs food and a roof over his head.

If he did, he didn’t know it. At the time, $18 million might not have seemed like a pretty penny. But the Bulls management is now asking Pippen to abide by it and keep playing for them.

It’s that simple.

That’s why they have said they will give Pippen the five-year, $18 million contract he asked for. He has signed a five-year, $18 million contract that needs food and a roof over his head.

The Chicago Bulls are not the name of the team, but the name of the franchise. They are the team’s ownership and management, and they are the ones who control the team’s financial decisions. The owners of the Chicago Bulls are the ones who make the decisions about whether to give Pippen a contract or not.

That is why the report was incorrect. The Bulls management did not have the power to give Pippen a contract. They had the power to negotiate a contract with the player’s agent, and the player’s agent had the power to negotiate a contract with the team. The player’s agent had the power to decide whether or not to accept the offer from the team.

All of the local newspapers had reported that the Bulls had offered Pippen a contract. But the Bulls did not have the power to make that decision. They had to negotiate a contract with the player’s agent, and the player’s agent had the power to decide whether or not to accept the offer from the team.

Hawks gun for first Big Ten road win

By Alan Brinkhous Associated Press

Indianapolis — The No. 6-ranked Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets held off a late Indiana counterpunch to win 71-62 and take a one-game lead in the Big Ten race.

"We're not going to play hard if we don't play hard," said Tech guard Ryan Blackwell, who scored 17 points.

"It's going to be a big lift for us, like we had to come out of the gate and do it," said Indiana forward Bo Ryan, who scored 11 points.

"I'm not sure if we're going to play well tonight, but I know we're going to play hard," said Tech head coach Paul Hewitt.

Michigan halts Indiana streak

By Dave Donchak Associated Press

Bloomington, Ind. — The Michigan Wolverines beat the Indiana Hoosiers 74-66 on Wednesday night, snapping the Hoosiers' 21-game winning streak.

"I was just glad we could come out and do it," said Michigan guard Jalen Rose, who scored 24 points.

"I think we were ready," said Indiana guard Kevin Pogue, who scored 15 points.

"It was a tough game, but we were able to come out on top," said Michigan head coach John Beilein.

Foreman's WBA status in question

NEW YORK - George Foreman was stripped of his WBA super heavyweight title by the WBA on Wednesday, but the highest available contender will get a hearing Friday.

Foreman's status as WBA champion could be at stake during the next several days of the world championship competition.

The WBA, which is one of three major boxing organizations, has suspended Foreman's title defense three months ago, and in the last 10 or 14 days has changed its policies on the WBA or the IBF.

Foreman says he will appeal for the Foreman-Schwarz fight April 2 at the Civic Center, held in Las Vegas.

The bout, to be televised on ESPN, will be an attempt for Foreman to win at least $1 million on payday, as an Olympic heavyweight champion.

Sampras triumphs through adversity

By David Makhoul Associated Press

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. — Pete Sampras has made himself a legend through his tennis career, but his biggest victory of 2002 was won in the most unlikely of circumstances.

The 13-time Grand Slam champion was diagnosed with a heart condition in December and was forced to take a break from the sport he loves. But he refused to give up and returned to competition, even if it meant sacrificing his chance at winning a 14th major title.

"I'm just glad I can still go out there and compete," Sampras said after winning his third consecutive title at the Australian Open.

As he approached the net to serve it out, Couriers emotions exposed, his latest set of a four-hour match was over. Sampras' confidence returned and he was able to win the final set.

"I've never been a great leader, but I've always been a great follower," Sampras said after the match. "I'm just glad I can still go out there and compete."

Chargers' Martin returns to Miami

Bernie Wilson
Associated Press

San Diego Chargers wide receiver Tony Martin catches a pass against the Miami Dolphins Jan. 8 at San Diego. The last time he stepped on a football field, in a sobbing heap.

"Hey, Tony Martin's a great receiver, but if we do what we're supposed to do, we're going to win most of the battles.

Tail Cook, San Francisco 49ers back

"I see one of the best secondary s in the league," said Martin, who has beaten San Diego's big-play receiver. "That's something you can't do, you've got to be perfect every day.

None of the Chargers' unproven receivers are going to win any awards in the near future, but there are three of them who are making the right moves.

The other starter, cornerback Toi Cook, San Francisco 49ers' superb

"They've got some good defensive backs behind him," Martin said. "They need a speedy receiver, and I picked him for that. Martin, Malcolm and Anthony Miller signed with the Niners.

That's a big mistake if we do try for him. We're going to throw it. We're going to attack him. Martin said. "I think it was the biggest mistake if we do try for him. We're going to throw it. Super man

San Diego quarterback Stan Humphries and San Francisco signal caller Steve Young will oppose each other in Super Bowl XXIX. Both players have won Super Bowl rings in backup jobs and will get the chance to win another one as a starter in Miami Sunday.

Last chance at a ring?

Veterans take aim at Super Bowl glory

Dave Goldberg

MIAMI — Stan Brock will live against history. Jackson or Brodie — just as he did almost every day for the past 15 years.

With a slight difference. Stan Brock and Jackson must succeed this time, it will be for the NFC Super Bowl champions and for President-elect Bill Clinton. But it will be to have their teams in a Super Bowl as they have the last 15 years.

They are representatives of some of the veterans who will continue this game in the free spirit. Suddenly, the NFC's dominance game is filled with youth. Carrick and Rendell, players who spent long careers being games.

"It's like we have to take a deep breath and realize we're here,"

Star Brock, 34-year-old NFC veteran

By Richard Johnson

publicly fearing themselves at the pinnacle of football.

But the feeling is to be expected. For every Brock, Jackson, Leslie (Peewee) Hayes, Barry Switzer to Tom Landry, for every player to have led the long careers of being games, there are no young ones who play in the big game.

That is why Brock and Jackson are playing in the big game.

They are the veteran superstars who will play in the big game.

As long as Brock and Jackson are playing in the big game.

That is why they have to take a deep breath and realize we're here," said Brock, who spent his first 15 years with the Bills before signing with the Cowboys in 1988.

"I'm happy to be here," Jackson said.

The 49-year-old Jackson took a major role in getting here by signing with the Giants, who offered him the most money.

Bob McMillen, who knew the Bills best

"I remember 4:22 and 4:10, 4:9, 4:10 and 5:11," said Otey, who was a frequent Pro Bowler but not a Super Bowl player. "That's what you hear when you know how much I appreciate..."

Phelps wants 'to coach the country'

Associated Press

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Former Notre Dame basketball coach Tom Izzo said Tuesday that he wants to get American working as a team to handle problems facing the country.

Phelps is the head coach of the Operation Weed and Seed program, that program removes drugs and crime from neighborhoods and replaces them with things to improve the economy and social climate.

Phelps had been frustrated that President Clinton had left the Operation Weed and Seed program.

Lawyers, doctors, police officers lend authentic touch to TV shows

Niki Kasprzak, Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — There's something about picking up a copy of "ET" on the same day that "NYPD Blue" is being played on television that seems to excite the imagination. People are excited about the possibility of a new television show that could be just as exciting as their real-life counterparts.

Sideline enterprise

The job may be a sideline enterprise for the rest of his life, and he's using it to further his career.

Niki Kasprzak, Associated Press

At 30, Bill Clark is retiring from the New York City Police Department and is working full-time as a producer on the television show "NYPD Blue." He is also consulting on the show, which will air on ABC. Since the show's premiere in 1993, Clark has worked as a technical advisor and consultant on the set of "NYPD Blue." He is known for his expertise in law enforcement issues, and his work on the show has been praised for its realism and authenticity.

"You don't see any of the backroom stuff," Clark said. "It's all up front and no compromise."

Clark, who has been a police officer for 16 years, started as a police officer in the Los Angeles Police Department. He later worked in the set's nurses' station, putting his name on every issue. At the time, he worked as a technical consultant on "L.A. Law," where he was a technical advisor for the show. He also worked as a technical advisor on "NYPD Blue," where he was a technical advisor for the show. Clark said that his work on the show has been praised for its realism and authenticity.

"It gives you a grounding in the language, what the police officers say, how they make decisions," he said. "It's a great way to learn about the profession and the language."
