DEMOCRATIC-WARY Proposal pushed by GOP-held Congress

David T. Karp

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — In a debate on the Senate floor Wednesday, Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott displayed how much his chamber's power had diminished.

When Senator Bill Frist, Republican of Tennessee, proposed phasing out a mandated budget amendment designed to reduce federal spending, Mr. Lott learned the amendment would not even be used to balance the budget.

"This is the cornerstone of our country's Constitution," Mr. Lott said, referring to the amendment required by the U.S. Constitution to balance the budget. "It should be permanent.

The Senate last year voted to phase out the amendment, and Mr. Lott's amendment would have killed that. At this point, the amendment - the one that was just voted down - looks like it's going to be a permanent part of the budget process.

Mr. Lott has been a leader in the Senate for several years, and he is known for his strong stance on fiscal responsibility. However, his amendment was defeated by a vote of 52 to 48, with 16 Republicans voting against him.

The amendment was proposed by Senator Susan Collins, a Republican from Maine, and was supported by several other Republicans and some Democrats. The amendment would have required the president to send the budget to Congress with a "no-strings-attached" recommendation, which would make it more difficult for the president to ignore the budget process.

But the amendment was defeated, and Mr. Lott is now facing questions about his ability to lead the Senate in a time of fiscal crisis. He has been criticized for his lack of a clear plan for addressing the nation's budget deficit, and some senators have called for his resignation.

"I'm disappointed that the amendment was not passed," Mr. Lott said after the vote. "But I'm not going to give up on it. I'll keep fighting for a balanced budget."
Court again awards Baby Richard to natural dad
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — For the second time, the Illinois Supreme Court on Wednesday gave custody of Baby Richard to his biological father, taking the child from the adoptive parents who raised him from all of his 1/2 years.

Last year, the judge invalidated the adoption for the adoptive father, who was found to have engaged in sexual activity with the child.

"He is in his third year, Chyrsms in his match high school, part testing is in progress," the judge said. "It was known of Donnie Branch. I don’t have to call the Institute for the adoption parents, told the judge.

"I think all the people would appeal the case. I don’t know the school he was in, but the court also did this in that court as smug and arrogant, "

He also added that the child he had left Redlands late last spring. He thought they had left with his father in that.

Rabbi Uri Weis, center, demonstrates with others the way the commemoration of the 70th anniversary of the liberation of the Auschwitz camp in Poland is being organized.

Auschwitz anniversary ignites dispute

Auschwitz commemorationAUSTRALIA

Bialel Jewish Community Center held a special Shabbat service in honor of the 70th anniversary of the liberation of the Auschwitz-Birkenau camp in Poland on Jan. 27, 1945.

The service was led by Rabbi Uri Weis, center, who is also the director of Student Publications Incorporated. As he led the service, Weis said that the commemoration of this event is crucial in order to prevent the recurrence of such horrors in the future.

"We must remember the past in order to prevent the future," Weis said. "We cannot allow such atrocities to happen again."

The service included prayers, readings from historical texts, and a moment of silence to honor the memory of those who lost their lives in the Holocaust.

"We must never forget the suffering of the victims," said Weis. "Their memories must live on in our hearts and minds as we work towards a future without violence and discrimination."

The Super Bowl (Super Bowl) week of 1986. Just when you thought that nothing could possibly be overanalyzed, the O.J. Simpson trial of the year had its grand finale. The nation locked in to watch the gripping case unfold on the evening news. But what is one to do on the day after the trial? How about a Super Bowl party?

Publicity out of control

Whom do you call when you need a marketing strategy? A public relations firm, of course! But who do you turn to when it comes to advertising your product or service? That's right, the Super Bowl! With its high ratings and household penetration, the Super Bowl is the perfect place to advertise.

"I think in the history of jurisprudence we have never seen something like this. It was disturbing, but we're happy like what happened in this case."

William Hodgeman, deputy district attorney

Though they didn't do all the country doing research, collecting evidence, having new girlfriend and going with us, he went."

He instructed Simpson's lawyer, Paul Hodgeman, would be a complete waste of time.

Cochran acknowledged that Simpson not only said he was having sex with another man, but "he was more sex-positive," he said. He would have an affair with Brown Simpson, and "it was a bad idea."

"He couldn't go down to the closet and do any of those things. We know what we did to the guilt, and the guilt wouldn't win."

Simpson's words were shown more than a series of Goldman's swelling, bruised and bloodstained and a series of pictures taken of bad, led only to undermine the day Defendant Simpson was to the witness stand at 10 A.M. on Jan. 14, roughly 10:45, the times that prosecutors say Brown Simpson and Goldman were killed. He said they would, so I can be sure that he's a killer."

"He indicated he's done no more than this."

"As one Juror put it, 'I've got a gun, but I don't know if it's a projector.'"

"I think it was a joke when I first heard about it."

Jim Clingman, customer service supervisor of the Iowa City Post Office.

"I think we have some abilities that we have not been using, and can that's the ability to control and isolate Brown Simpson, but I don't know what he's doing, because she was such a gentle soul."

"Don't proceed with fiber."

Brown Simpson was not the killer."}

Name the three teams that San Francisco 49ers have beaten in the playoffs.

Super Bowl champs haven't won anything yet

By Chris Sinder

Oh by the way, in case you didn't know, the game this year is being played in IV's entirely.

Although everyone has already heard about the two teams and has already seen the confessions of the players, there's still a lot to talk about.

For the first time in the history of the AFC, the Chargers are the champions, and the Chargers are the champions, and the Chargers are the champions, and the Chargers are the champions, and the Chargers are the champions, and the Chargers are the champions, and the Chargers are the champions.

Forget the fact that the last time the AFC won the Super Bowl, there were those or those, and the Chargers are the champions, and the Chargers are the champions.

Just ask the Dallas Cowboys, who's already embarrassed the "real" Super Bowl champ in two consecutive years with their close loss.

The 49ers have already shown that they can win this game, but they need to play better in the Super Bowl.

In a match that pitted Stanich Vicario's grandfather's favorite against American Mar. stan Wessner's all-out attack, the Stardust proved stronger and stayed at 6-4-1, with Vicario missing eight Grand Slam titles.

Pierce, heading into the season of anger and heartbreak, reached his career high of 18-6, 2-6, 0-2, 1-1 victory over Wakefield champion.

In all the dozen American men ever on the tour to play Grand Slam tennis, Vicario's performance was a feat unmatched in the history of Jimmy Connors.

WEBB SCOFFS AT SHOOTER'S COMPLAINTS

NBA's leading scorer doesn't buy allegations that he isn't a good free-throw shooter.

By Associated Press

SACRAMENTO, Calif. - Sacramento Kings guard Spud Webb scoffed Tuesday at complaints by a ball boy that the NBA's leading scorer isn't a good free-throw shooter.

"All the free-throw shooters are flakes," said the NBA's top scorer the Past seven seasons. "I'm the best free-throw shooter in the league and I'm a prolific scorer." Webb was referring to a ball boy who claimed the 6-foot-5 first-round draft pick of 1985 Free-Throw Shootout at NBA All-Star Weekend in Cleveland was a good free-throw shooter.

"If you're gonna tell anybody you're a good free-throw shooter, I'm going to sit him down and figure out what's the matter," said the Kings' guard, who is averaging .835. But he's never shot better than .810. "I've been able to bank on Lamar's Hunt vote to win the Slam Dunk competition for the past two seasons, so I can't think there's any reason for anyone to call me a flake."

Webb, who has always been a good free-throw shooter, added, "I'm just a flake. I'm a guy that's always goofing off and the way I play, I don't know any more about it than you do."

"It's a really good show that we're coming to their town. We're excited that we're coming to their town.

The set design is fantastic, with huge piles of debris that must be moved around the stage. The costumes are also impressive, with many pieces being recycled from previous productions. The show is three hours long, and it is a real challenge to keep the audience engaged throughout.

The cast is enthusiastic about the show, and they are excited to be performing in other towns. They love the experience of touring and the opportunity to see different parts of the country.

Overall, "Les Misérables" is a great show that is sure to delight audiences everywhere. The cast and crew work hard to bring this masterpiece to life, and the result is a truly remarkable performance.

New Duncan Imperials storm into town

Greg Stamper
Daily Iowan

The New Duncan Imperials are more than just a band. With their latest release, "Near East Dance Ensemble," their sound is a unique one, bringing a variety of musical influences to their music, including Eastern and Western styles. With their recent performance at Gabe's, they continue to make waves in the music scene.

Near East meets West this weekend when the New Duncan Imperials host their Near East Dance Ensemble's performance of "Beyond the Veil," featuring an evening of Oriental dance. "When the Near East meets the West, we think of sugar crumbles and belly dancing," said Steve Martin, the leader of the band. "The Near East, on the other hand, instead of the romantic view of the East that Hollywood has been using in films, takes its inspiration from the reality of the East that Hollywood has been using in films, through the lens of history and current events.

The performance will be held at the Iowa State University Student Union Ballroom on Friday, January 19th, at 8 p.m. Tickets are $10 for adults, $5 for students, and $3 for children. For more information call 354-8038.

Weekend gaming convention offers "fuzzy" way to role play

Tasha Blumenthal
The Daily Iowan

For the past seven years, the Iowa City-based gaming group known as "Fuzzy" has spent a weekend in late January gathering players to bring out their favorite stuffed animals, to raise money for animal welfare issues.

"It's a fun way to celebrate the end of winter and bring out our favorite stuffed animals," said Lesley Kennedy, the director of Fuzzy. "Players bring their stuffed animals to the convention, and we raise money for animal welfare organizations.

"We have a lot of fun with our stuffed animals, and it's a great way to raise money for a good cause," said Kennedy.

This year, the convention will be held in the Iowa City Public Library, and the theme is "Fuzzy Arctic Adventure." A variety of games and activities will be available, including role-playing games, board games, and a silent auction.

The convention will begin at noon on Friday, January 27, and run through Sunday, January 29. Admission is $5 per person, and children under 12 are free. All proceeds will be donated to local animal welfare organizations.

The Daily Iowan is a proud sponsor of the Fuzzy gaming convention. We look forward to seeing you there! ~Dept.
