Rodeo antic lassos in risk-loving spectators

Joe Dawson

The Daily Iowan

CEDAR FALLS -- Wranglers, cowboys, hats and bull bearers are the rise of Texas native Craig Ragatz this weekend at the World's Toughest Rodeo--pitched into town for its third annual show, the World's Toughest Rodeo.

The Five Star Rodeo was the 1995 World Cup Bull Riding Series' defending champion, and it was the only series that was held in the United States. The Five Star Rodeo also won the 1994 World Cup Bull Riding title.

The Five Star Rodeo will be in town for its third straight year, and it will be the only rodeo to compete in both the World Cup Bull Riding and the World's Toughest Rodeo.

Iowa’s Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, tells those who stand to welfare recipients and providers about welfare reform and hawked Republican plans to change or eliminate parts of the safety-net program during a visit to Coralville Saturday afternoon.

“Nothing is the best minds are working on welfare reform,” he said. “It’s going to work, “ he said.

He then went on to explain questions and taking suggestions from the people who heard him at the headquarters of the Hawkeye Area Community Action Program. The Coralville stop was part of a trip to Iowa to discuss welfare reform, which he also stopped in Des Moines Saturday afternoon.

“Nothing is something I’ve believed in all my life,” Ameche said. “It was raised in the area of voluntarism and proper planning,” he said.

Almost 100 years after his grandfather established public education in Japan, UI Professor Royce Rim is continuing the legacy by forming an exchange program between American and Korean students.

Rim, who established the UI program for international engineering, was inspired to teach by his personal history and taught in a traditional and taught underprivileged children in his home. When he was teaching in Korea, Rim was invited to teach by his professor, who taught in the same tradition and taught underprivileged children in his home.

"I feel like the students are doing a lot of international education," he said. "It is a unique opportunity for them to see how the world is." 14

"Other countries are doing a lot of international education," he said. "The communication revolution has enabled this to be able to be a possibility in the future.

"It's a bird," he said. "It's a bird!" He said.

"The future's bright," he said. When there are no disasters, he added, "It's not a very good way to help students when the exchange program is available. They could not have enough and the other students might work." He has taught at the UI since then, where he accepted a position as a faculty member in the Department of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering.

"When I was a professor here," he said, "I accepted a position in the Department of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering. I also started the Department of International Engineering. I was a 14-week-summer program where students learn about the field and work on a project. It is in the first language study abroad program for engineering students.

"The exchange program," he said, "was created to bring more students every year to the UI. If you have a program that is 100 years old, you don't change it. The goal is to have a 100-year-old program that is 100 years old." 14

White House sticks with Foster

WASHINGTON— The White House remains unmoved in its support of the Reagan administra tion, amid growing opposition to the president's stance on abortion. After reviewing his position, the White House said it would continue to support abortion rights.

The president's statement comes after a series of events that have led to increasing opposition to his stance on abortion. The White House has maintained its position even as the opposition grows.

Dresden memorial encounters protest

Sentenceetty Associated Press

DRESDEN, Germany — Young leftists disrupted a German prayer service marking the 50th anniversary of the notorious 1945 Allied firebombing of World War II's most famous city.

Rallying to protest political views, a small faction of young Germans interrupted the ceremony at the Frauenkirche, the church in Dresden that was flattened by Allied bombs in World War II.

The ceremony is being observed to honor victims of the bombing, but the mourners were protesting a Memorial Day ceremony held late Tuesday.

Chancellor Helmut Kohl and other dignitaries were gathered to observe the ceremony, which marked the 50th anniversary of the firebombing.

Public opinion polls show that support for the ban on affirmative action is up among Democrats, many of whom blame the program for their losses.

Citizens of the German city of Dresden light candles in front of the ruins of the Frauenkirche, the Church of Our Lady, Sunday night, the 50th anniversary of the city's firebombing during World War II. At least 25,000 people died in the air raids, which set off fires that burned for seven days and razed much of Dresden.

The demonstrators received icy stares from about 100 Dresdeners residing in a hall in the city.

RAPID TESTER INITIATED

Calif. prepares for affirmative action vote

Aron Rincarte

Associated Press

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Frontline fighter Raul Ruiz, solo architect of a liberal Democratic and won the state Senate seat in District 2 last November, has now moved on to his latest cause — the upcoming affirmative action ballot initiative.

It is, he said, bad policy that the Department of Revenue and the Secretary of State's Office, which he said were both "けたをこぼ""慶ぶ""(low level, demoted, dented), rest and redistribute wealth from the Department. Everybody falls into one or another category or another class. That's, everybody except the rich.

Ruiz is among a group of nonpartisan and driven by a desire to help the poor.

"If you're affluent, it's just you getting paid to help the poor. You wouldn't cut yourself a half minute ago — and not too little in people in Dayton today," he said.

But Ruiz said that, too, he is already setting the record straight.

"I'm one of the most significant people on our rights that has come through our state's most historic," said a student at the University of California Center, a student at the University of California Center.

But Ruiz said that, too, he is already setting the record straight.

"I'm one of the most significant people on our rights that has come through our state's most historic," said a student at the University of California Center.

He said, "I am not willing to throw this loop.

However, Press said of affirmative action, "It's going to be a different form of discrimination, it's got to be fair," he said.

"The most Democrats I've talked to in California, they are not paying to help the poor. You would cut yourself a half minute ago — and not too little in people in Dayton today."

So Ruiz said, "I am not willing to throw this loop."

"If a policy places emphasis on a significant program, it's got to be fair," he said.

He said, "I am not willing to throw this loop."

Dia, the attack has been blamed on Berliners because of the arson and riotous incitement.

A special wreath-laying ceremony at the 60th anniversary of the city's firebombing during World War II is expected to attract millions of people.

Waging a campaign of fear over abortion

Dr. Henry Foster managed to get the perfect chance at the perfect time, shooting through the paper capitol of the abortion movement. The two following months will be the defining months of New York's Roe v. Wade decision, which, indirectly led to the downfall of the pro-life movement. Foster, who claims to have no intention of running for office, says, "I favor abortion, that's what I favor. We talk people about abortion. That's what I favor."

For Kaplan, the effect of abortion on our society has been a major concern. "Abortion has had a devastating impact on our society," he says. "It has caused an explosion in the pro-life movement." Kaplan believes that the abortion issue is a complex one, and that it is important to consider the social, economic, and ethical implications of abortion.

"It's a complex issue," he says. "Abortion is a very personal decision, and it is important to respect the choices of those who choose to have an abortion. At the same time, it is important to consider the social, economic, and ethical implications of abortion."

Congress deceived on coed tents

Congress should deal with the problem that the U.S. Armed Services are encouraging sexual misconduct and other social problems that may stem from immoral behavior. In our present situation in Haiti, some male and female soldiers of these services are required to sleep side by side in small tents without any separation between the sexes.

When women began to advance closer to the front line, the armed services and the women's military Advisory Council maintained that such extreme social experimentation would never work. Indeed, however, Navy Secretary William Perry wrote Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., on Sept. 28, "the current policy will end female and service members be stationed in the same compartments. Field operations will apply this regulation and coordination with common sense to meet the special situation."

It's not that the women should be segregated. It's that the men and women are not part of the same family. They cannot be afraid of those who abuse and neglect them. It's a new experience for some women to be in combat situations.

In addition to the obvious possibility of searching both sides of the bed ("good order and discipline") under the code, there are also problems of sexual harassment and (the reverse side of the coin) false claims of sexual harassment.

Servicewomen and soldiers probably run the gauntlet of discrimination from both sides; from those who feel the lack of privacy strictly those who are trying to remain silent females to those who think sexual assault is not rare in the military. Those who would use the opportunities afforded for low sex, preferential treatment. Of course, the servicemen and women can't complain (or file lawsuit) about the lack of privacy acutely to those who are trying to remain silent females. Sexual harassment and the lack of privacy are seen as a most important concern, especially if you are a woman.

One new position is hard to argue with the wish of the women is to work in peace. This latter belief has been made public, and publicly. The women's position gives them a military advantage gained by having separate expertise in the legal system. In return, we want to be that kind of a service that everyone else is trying to be.

The President's Commission on the Assignment of Women in the Armed Forces heard testimony in a series of problems that need to be addressed. It's his belief that it's very hard.

"We are an international police action that requires sending mothers out to fight or require male and female soldiers to sleep together not worth fighting."

In Haiti, the U.S. Armed Forces have advanced to the next stage of gender-neutral installations. A war or a police action that requires sending mothers out to fight, requires male and female soldiers to sleep together not worth fighting.

The outcome was a rout. Game.

The West was clearly the better team, but it was not an easy win. The game was close, and the West had to work hard to pull away.

The West's Mitch Richmond, of the Sacramento Kings, holds up his trophy as the NBA All-Star Game MVP. Richmond scored 31 points in the game, making him the first player to be named MVP in both the NBA and college basketball.

The West's 139-112 rout of the East was led by the West's best players. Keeping the West team's lead to eight points was tough, with only nine healthy players remaining. In the final seconds of the game, the West hung on to win, with Shaquille O'Neal trying a 3-pointer but missing it.

Despite his efforts, though, the East was unable to put together a string of wins and had to settle for victory. The West seemed to fall apart after the East's 25-10 run, with the West's best players starting to get ragged, and the East's best players taking over.

The West's victory was a testament to their depth and talent. Despite the East's best efforts, the West was able to pull away and claim the victory.

No. 1 Hawkeyes show who's boss

Shannon Stevenson, The Daily Iowan

Matt Stover was out with the flu. Bill Fitch got gimpy, and the West's stars started goofing around, and I think the crowd was a bit disappointed. But we got back on track.

In the fourth quarter, things started to get ragged, and the crowd lost interest before some big shots by Barkley won them over.

Despite his efforts, though, the East was unable to put together a string of wins and had to settle for victory. The West seemed to fall apart after the East's 25-10 run, with the West's best players starting to get ragged, and the East's best players taking over.

The Scoreboard

GAME OF THE WEEK

No. 1 Iowa Hawkeyes

No. 1 Hawkeyes went out with a bang. They showed the world what they were capable of, and they proved that they were the best team in the country.

The Hawkeyes held all the cards and never could put together a string of wins and had to settle for victory. The West seemed to fall apart after the East's 25-10 run, with the West's best players starting to get ragged, and the East's best players taking over.

The West's victory was a testament to their depth and talent. Despite the East's best efforts, the West was able to pull away and claim the victory.

Buckeyes 70, Wildcats 66

The Ohio State Buckeyes defeated the Illinois Fighting Illini 70-66 in a conference showdown at Value City Arena on Saturday afternoon. The Buckeyes, led by senior guard D.J. Carton, who scored a season-high 24 points, ran away with the game, outscoring the Illini by 19 points in the second half.

The Illini, who entered the game with a Perfect 10-0 record, struggled to keep pace with the Buckeyes throughout the game. Illinois, led by senior forward Giorgi Bezhanishvili, who scored 16 points, was unable to contain the Buckeyes' offense, which was led by Carton's hot hand from beyond the arc.

Overall, the Buckeyes shot 51% from the field and 42% from three-point range, while the Illini shot 43% from the field and 29% from beyond the arc.

The win against Illinois moves Ohio State's conference record to 8-2 and keeps them in contention for a Top-4 seed in the Big Ten tournament. The Illini fall to 9-2 in conference play and will need to win their remaining games to secure a Top-4 seed.

Northwestern 30, Illinois 28

The Northwestern Wildcats defeated the Illinois Fighting Illini 30-28 in a closely contested game at State Farm Center on Thursday night. The Wildcats outscored the Illini by 12 points in the first half and held on for the victory.

Northwestern's senior guard Jalen Brunson scored 14 points and grabbed 10 rebounds, leading all scorers. The Illini's senior forward Giorgi Bezhanishvili scored 14 points, but it wasn't enough to overcome Northwestern's defense.

The Wildcats shot 35% from the field and 12% from three-point range, while the Illini shot 38% from the field and 31% from beyond the arc.

The win against the Illini moves Northwestern's conference record to 7-3 and keeps them in contention for a Top-4 seed in the Big Ten tournament. The Illini fall to 6-4 in conference play and will need to win their remaining games to secure a Top-4 seed.
Chris Snider - Rapid Communications

Iowa upended second-ranked Illinois with a strong performance. She finished first in the 600 meters, and placed second in the 4x800 relay with a 3:38.00.

"We're doing well in placings, we just need to step up and take a lead," Snider said.

Iowa's Settlements blames self for overtime loss

Associated Press

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — When it comes to giving tough shots, Iowa has a tough opponent in Illinois.

The Hawkeyes hasn't had an easy time making key plays at the end of games all season, losing their three best chances against Illinois and Missouri. The Hawkeyes fell 70-66 in overtime.

"I thought we played well enough to win," Iowa coach Diane DeMarco said.

Women's tennis

The Iowa women's tennis team had an up-and-down weekend as it was dominated by Michigan State, losing 7-0, but then overpowered Michigan 6-1.

The Hawkeyes won a 7-0 victory over Wisconsin on Saturday, winning two of the three matches.

"We're doing well in placings, we just need to step up and take a lead," Snider said.

Men's swimming

The Hawkeyes won an upset victory over the Cardinals, 169-131.

Lowe said the win was a "great way to end the season."

Simple ‘Quick and the Dead’ lacks originality, packs in fun

MOVIE REVIEW

Simple ‘Quick and the Dead’

"Quick and the Dead" is still a surprisingly engaging kinetic energy. Director Paulson breathes life and humor into his spaghetti Western hero Eastwood’s spadennifer Western hero in the film "Death of a Gunfighter." Eastwood is a woman with a simple demeanor, but undoubtedly tough. He’s got help from an equally charismatic and unusually pleasant cast that includes Gene Hackman and Sharon Stone. It’s a woman who has a simple look that doesn’t quite mesh with the inbred-looking faces of the scum around her. His film has an edge, atmosphere, and the production an audience-pertinent performance. — Nick Ray

It was undeniable that the dialogue was part of the show. The second half of the show was a celebration of individuality. Simultaneously sounding out and to the group to follow their own unison patterns.

Susan Marshall & Company dazzle Hancher ‘spectators’

The first pass, "Praetorian at Ross," put the audience in the unsettling position of being both the spectator and the event — sometimes at the same time. The mere fact that distinction was not made made the event. That was the idea of the action as the audience flowed into a two-stage arena, and the audience became part of the spectacle. The sense of the event was used to create an atmosphere. Several desservants whispered names as if rolling out for someone, much like the production an audience-perfect performance. — Nick Ray
