Death penalty debate rages across Iowa

Policy advocates demand revenge controversy

Iowa Death Penalty Legislation

1. There is currently no bill in the Iowa House that would bring back the death penalty. The bill is scheduled to be debated on Wednesday.

2. The Iowa House Judiciary Committee's death penalty task force was set up in response to public demand.

3. States with the death penalty consistently report that the public was not engaged in the issue.

Iowa Death Penalty Debate

"I was present at both the Iowa Senate and the House debates on the death penalty. The issue was brought up during the budget debate.

SUMMER FINANCIAL AID BLOCKED

Jane Peterson
The Daily Iowan

Bridesmaids who plan to rely on financial aid to help pay for dresses in June are out of luck, thanks to a new UI policy requiring students to apply for summer aid one year in advance.

UI students are required to apply for summer financial aid at the beginning of the spring semester. This year, the change policy has left some students without access to financial aid for the summer.

FAMILY IN TECHNICAL COURT

"Nobody buys it and open it up and look around and say, 'Oh, that looks good.'" People who sell antiques said they need to lay out the display and talk to the customers.

"We're not just selling antiques; we're selling an experience," said Dan Benkian, owner of The Daily Iowan.

NEW PRICE FOR CRICKET PHONE

"Any form of state execution is repugnant," said Rep. Jack Holveck, a Davenport Republican leading the effort in the House to restore the death penalty.

"That is a sort of like choosing a martyr for gun or to be killed, but lethal injection is the way to go," said Des Moines Democrat.

ROCK IT!

"The measure would allow the death penalty in cases in which the sentence is imposed," said Rep. Steve Gravdal, a Des Moines Republican who sponsored the bill.

TOM ARNOLD'S RESTAURANT CLOSES DOORS

"In the current economic climate, it's hard to see how anyone can support a restaurant in this kind of procedure, rather than a death penalty," said Rep. Steve Gravdal, a Des Moines Republican who sponsored the bill.

"The measure would allow the death penalty in cases in which the sentence is imposed," said Rep. Steve Gravdal, a Des Moines Republican who sponsored the bill.

NEW YORK — Merry Elvin Williams, the new chairwoman of the NAACP, said in her first address that the group would “continue to fight fearlessly against racism, poverty and white supremacy.”

As early priority is to review the NAACP’s strategic plan and to ensure that the organization is well-positioned to meet the needs of the communities it serves.

The NAACP has over 2,000 branches nationwide and more than 3 million members.

The new president and CEO, Dr. William F. Morris, also expressed his commitment to advancing the NAACP's mission.

NEW ORLEANS — Two New Orleans police officers were shot and wounded at a convention center.

The officers were responding to a report of a disturbance.

They arrived on the scene and found two people engaged in a physical altercation.

The officers attempted to intervene but were shot twice.

Both officers are expected to survive.

This is the latest in a series of incidents involving law enforcement agencies in the city.

The ACTUAL WAR ON POVERTY

Programs have a history

In, bell in a hand basket time. We are in big trouble and deep in debt. In this state with a population that is far too large for Iowa to be a “soft” state, President Johnson, on war poverty and the ‘60s in general. It is not a common theme, for example, that our budget wars are caused by automatic non-discretionary spending — at entitlements, as it is called, and at the federal level. These include Social Security, Medicare, unemployment, food stamps and a host of other payments for food, fuel and nutrition programs, farm price supports and interest on the national debt.

The politics of the budget wars are not the point. The point is that the benefits we receive from the federal government are not guaranteed. They are programs that must be renewed and fought for on a regular basis. They are not entitlements in the way that Social Security and Medicare are.

But in the budget wars, there is a tendency to forget the history of these programs. It is not uncommon to argue, for example, that our budget woes are the result of spending on entitlements. But the history of these programs tells a different story.

The Social Security Act was passed in 1935 as a result of the Great Depression. It was intended to provide a safety net for the elderly and the unemployed. The act established a system of benefits for workers and their families. The program was expanded in 1945 with the addition of Medicare, which provides health insurance for the elderly.

The Food Stamp Program was created in 1964 as part of the War on Poverty program. It was intended to provide food assistance to low-income families. The program was later expanded to include the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), which provides food assistance to low-income individuals and families.

The Medicare program was established in 1965 as part of the Social Security Act. It provides health insurance for individuals who are 65 years of age or older, as well as for younger individuals with certain disabilities.

The unemployment compensation program was established in 1935 as part of the Social Security Act. It was intended to provide temporary income support to workers who lose their jobs through no fault of their own.

The farm price support program was established in the 1930s as a result of the Great Depression. It was intended to provide a safety net for farmers and to ensure a stable food supply.

The programs have a history of being renewed and fought for on a regular basis. They are not entitlements in the way that Social Security and Medicare are. They are programs that must be renewed and fought for on a regular basis.
Discrimination can end in the future.

Many of us have said and written bitter denunciations. No statement can be too strong or too harsh. The struggle must continue for a world friendly toward race and free of prejudice.

As the struggle continues, there must be hope. There have been so many improvements in the past 20 years. We have come a long way toward race equality. But there is still a long way to go.

One way to help change the picture is to support civil rights organizations. These organizations are working for a world free of discrimination and prejudice.

Backpack missing

To the Editor:

On Valentine's Day, my husband found a backpack on the sidewalk, near a store where a group of youngsters was selling flowers. It contained a player, a pen, a notebook, a book, a watch, a toothbrush, and some other items.

I was happy to find the backpack, but I was even more surprised to find that the owner had left a note inside:

"Thank you for returning my backpack. It means a lot to me."

I left a note asking for the owner and waited for a response.

I hope this backpack is returned to its owner.

Sincerely,

Illegal immigrants contribute to culture

I read with interest Laura Fulco's column on illegal immigrants on the January 31 issue. She points out that the presence of illegal immigrants adds to the richness of the American culture.

I agree with Ms. Fulco. Illegal immigrants bring with them their own unique traditions and customs, which enrich our society.

In the past, we have often looked down on illegal immigrants, but I believe we should be more accepting of them.

Illegal immigrants contribute to the economy of the United States, and they are an important part of our cultural fabric.

Fast for peace begins

Today is the start of the 2009 fast for peace, a 40-day period of prayer and fasting held in Jewish communities around the world.

The fast is held in remembrance of the destruction of the Temple in Jerusalem, which is considered a symbol of peace.

I have always been a supporter of the fast for peace, and I encourage others to join me in this important act of peace and unity.

Bob Johnson

Bible contains many contradictions

People often ask me about the contradictions in the Bible. I believe there are many contradictions in the Bible, but I also believe that the Bible is a living document that continues to evolve over time.

I have studied the Bible extensively, and I believe that it contains many contradictions, but I also believe that these contradictions are meant to help us grow and understand our faith.

I encourage others to study the Bible and to seek understanding through dialogue and discussion.

Iowa City's morning newspaper is also Iowa City's largest newspaper, with an editorial staff of more than 30 young professionals, an editorial budget of more than $200,000 and circulation of 20,000. The Board of Student Publications Incorporated and the publisher of The Daily Iowan will soon interview candidates for the position of editor for the term beginning June 1, 1993 and ending May 31, 1996.

The editor of the DM will have strong journalistic abilities and dedication, as well as skills in management and a clear sense of editorial responsibility. The board will weigh heavily such factors as scholarship, previous newswriting and editing experience (including work at the DM or another daily newspaper), and proven ability to lead, organize and inspire a staff.

Applicants must be currently enrolled in an undergraduate or graduate degree program at the University of Iowa. Deadline for the candidate's submission of completed applications and supporting materials is noon, Friday, February 24, 1995.

The Iowa Program Board, the group that receives university funding, is in membership-free debate about whether they should accept funding from the UI College Republicans. In the past, university leaders have refused to accept funding from the group because it is a political party. However, last year the board voted to allow the group to receive funding.

In the past, the group's activities have been controversial. They have been known to hold events that could be considered offensive or controversial to certain groups. Therefore, the decision to allow them to receive funding has sparked debate among members of the board and the university community.

Some members of the board believe that allowing the group to receive funding is a way to promote free speech and democracy. They argue that the group has the right to express their political views, and that allowing them to receive funding is a way to support that right.

However, other members of the board argue that allowing the group to receive funding is a risk that the university should not take. They argue that the group's activities could be harmful and that the university should not be associated with them.

The debate continues, with members of the board expressing their views on the matter. It remains to be seen how the situation will be resolved.

The diversity of his game "It doesn't really matter who gets the rebounds, win or lose," he said. "I feel like I've been doing that for the past couple years. I'm happy with where I'm at right now."

Beechum added that Bowen had as good a game as any one in the Big Ten. "We didn't attack the ball enough with it. We didn't get the ball in the post to begin with," said Beechum.

"Every time we get technicals in the game, we seem to lose," said Murray. "I was on the bench telling the freshmen that every game we need to get more technicals because we learn something from it."

"The Buckeyes have continued to improve every game when they traveled to Wisconsin on Wednesday for the Big Ten."

"It's a matter of showing someone that shows that we can get that trap on the floor."

"We need to keep up the intensity of our team," said Stringer. "We need to keep in mind that we are going to be playing in a very hostile environment."
No. 5 Iowa rolls to victory

Despite competing without top gymnast Jay Therrien, the 55th-ranked overall women's team finished 1-3 in the Big Ten Conference Championships.

Catlin College led the way with five perfect scores, while Iowa earned four perfect scores, including in the Abductor/Adductor region.

The Hawkeyes' strong performance was highlighted by the team's elimination of the last three pairs in a row.

Junior India Bollini led the way with a score of 5.7 V. She was followed by seniors Bryan Crowley and Brooklyn McVay, who also performed well.

Men's team

The Iowa men's tennis team continued its domination of the No. 2 Hawkeyes with a 6-3 win at the University of Illinois.

Junior Jake Potasek and sophomore Brian Berkwill each recorded Iowa's biggest win of the day, while sophomore Phil Price and freshman Cameron Cole swept the doubles portion.

The Hawkeyes fell to No. 12 Northwestern 6-3 on Saturday, but won the first two matches of the series.

Women's team

The Iowa women's tennis team fell to No. 2 Iowa after dropping three matches in a row.

Junior Marisa Metzler and sophomore Cora Ellis each recorded Iowa's biggest win of the day.

The team turned in another good performance.

"We had a good meet at Northwest," said Coach Tea nes. "It feels great to stay at home in the conference championships."

The Hawkeyes were No. 1 in singles play, winning three of the four possible matches.

In doubles play, Iowa swept both matches.

"We're playing well, but like I said before, these are two of the top teams in the Big Ten. Anything can happen in any given match, but we have come out strong and we just get it done," said Coach Tea nes.

There are other ways to make a living, Gates said. "I needed to be part of my life, especially since I didn't have a male figure in my life, " said Gates. "I've seen his father occasionally growing up."

"Hoop Dreams" is a parable of life in the decaying Chicago housing project, where he grew up, Gates said. "For me, basketball was my salvation." Gates was a father's mentor, the film notes.

"Sometimes that's the only thing you have to live for — your dream. For me, basketball was my salvation."
