Iowa Senate kills death penalty

Bill soundly defeated, 39-11; local politicians split on issue

Shayla Thiel   The Daily Iowan

After its defeat in the Iowa Senate Thursday, the death penalty issue for the year became a much derbated one. With this defeat, the bill will not be reintroduced. The capital punishment proposal passed the House 54-44 last week but lost 39-11 in Thursday’s Senate.

Bob Dwyer   D-Iowa City

The Senate fought about three different proposals time Wednesday, looking for a way to break the long-standing debate over the issue. Senators weighed posing the question of whether the death penalty was still an issue in modern society.

Ronald Dwyer, D-Iowa City, and was rejected at the wide margin of defeat. Dwyer said

"I have two young daughters, and I'm very proud of them. They always ask me how my day went, and I don't think I could tell them in good conscience I voted to sentence people in this state to the death penalty."

Sen. Robert Dwyer, D-Iowa City

"It's a very difficult issue, and I think it's one that we're going to have to look at closely in the future. I don't think we should be in the business of taking lives. I think we should be in the business of saving lives."

Dwyer and other senators supported the proposal was defeated.

"It's time to move on to other issues, especially in the next legislative session."

The debate over the death penalty has been a long and contentious one in Iowa. The Senate has voted on the issue several times in recent years, but has never been able to reach a consensus.

Increased pay raise养老 by Board of Supervisors

Metro & Iowa

Increased pay raise

The Daily Iowa — The Iowa City News-Citizen Board of Supervisors agreed against a $5,000 pay raise for its eight members on Monday. The board voted 6-2 to approve the pay raise. The city council had already approved the pay raise.

Joe Bolkcom and Allen Quist opposed the pay raise. Bolkcom said the city council made a decision to give all its members the same raise and the same benefits. Quist said the city council was the one to make all the salary decisions because they vote on budgeting at the annual meeting. Bolkcom and Quist both voted against the pay raise. The other four members voted in favor of the pay raise.

Jonathan Lyons ended his life in 1979 at the age of 27. That same year, the Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa, where Lyons had studied and worked, established the Foundation for Foster Parenting. This year, the foundation, now known as the Iowa Foster Parenting Association, will mark its 40th anniversary.

If there is one thing I know for certain, it is that all I have learned about the world in the past 20 years is that there is more goodness, more beauty, more wisdom in this world than I ever knew was possible.

I do not doubt that there are many different ways to live life, and that the paths we choose are often determined by factors beyond our control. But I do believe that we have a responsibility to ourselves and to each other to live our lives in ways that are consistent with our values and beliefs.

In response to your question about the situation at Iowa State University, I would like to say that I have been a faculty member there for 14 years, and I have seen firsthand the impact of the events that took place in 1979 on the lives of many students and faculty members.

The Iowa Foster Parenting Association is a nonprofit organization that provides support and resources for foster parents in Iowa. We are committed to helping foster parents succeed and to helping children who have been removed from their homes.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to all of the people who have worked so hard to make this year’s events possible. I would also like to express my appreciation to all of the students and faculty members at Iowa State University who have contributed to the success of these events.

I hope that you will join us in commemorating the 40th anniversary of the Iowa Foster Parenting Association by attending one of our events or by making a donation to support our work.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Lyons

When the Iowa Hawkeyes take the court today, they'll have to take on 10 teams instead of one. But it probably won't matter.

With a No. 1 ranking, the Hawkeyes enter this season with an expected Big Ten Wrestling Championship and a national championship. Both goals are quite attainable.

"It's just a matter of what we can do to the best we can to make sure we have the best opportunities to win," said Isiah C. Traylor, the Big Ten Commissioner. "The only way we're going to do that is by making sure we have a strong team."

Simms could return to NFL with Browns

BEREA, Ohio — Former New York Giants quarterback Phil Simms flew out of the cold and the rain on Wednesday night, driven by a desire to play one more game. But Simms couldn't reach his goal.

"We just got in a couple of hours ago," Simms said, describing the cold and rain that had greeted him when he landed. "We're still going to continue to work on the practice. We still have things to work on." Simms and his agent, Mark Lerner, have been pressing the Browns to sign him for a chance to start. Simms seemed clear that such a move would give him a chance to play for a Super Bowl champion. Simms, 38, the leading passer in Giants history, retired last year and spent the 2006 season as an analyst for ESPN. He led the Giants to an 11-5 record and a playoff berth in 1988, but had off-season shoulder surgery and was cut by the Giants just before the season. Simms met with the Browns, passing for 334 yards and 199 touchdowns. He hit 22 of 38 passes for 300 yards and two touchdowns in the 1987 Super Bowl. Simms talked with the Arizona Cardinals in September, but didn't exact a financial agreement.

If he stays with ESPN, working in the studio and on highlights and analysis shows, Simms told ESPN, he would like to play for Browns coach Dennis Green. "We've got a good day, a good conversation," Model said. "We just haven't arrived at a deal. Nothing would say what contract issues remain. We have high regard for Phil." Simms talked with ESPN's Steve Levy and銮 less before the Browns and Giants met in New York Thursday evening, passing for 4,000 yards and 29 touchdowns. "It's been really nice to know you're tops on the list," Simms said. "It's been really nice to know you're tops on the list." Spring Training Historically, McKechnie Field is located in Bradenton. It is a season, but on Thursday with the major league ballclub on opening day for the Grapefruit League players on site there were shots of empty rows.

Next up, maybe, replacement umpires.

On a day when only 284 fans showed up to watch the Kansas City Royals open their exhibition season, and Richard Zornes walked out of the park rather than play in spring training games, it seemed as though the Kings were going to win.

"We've digressed," McMorris said.

The Associated Press

"• We get past the point where all we can do is have the replacement umpires, were again."

Koehler, said Jordan only told him:

We should have been better pitching on 3,195 days' rest.

"It should have been Jimmy Boudreau, son of Hall of Famer Lou Boudreau, who was caught in the squeeze play against the Pirates yesterday, and Atlanta Blass said.

"When the Braves were bad, this is the kind of crowd we'd get, with the stands half empty," said Mort Mandelstein, a first baseman for the Braves in Florida.

"I'd know, he's not missing unless he's a few games away," Mandelstein said.

"He's out of pro ball for the first time, and Atlanta Blass said.

"The previous low crowd for the 1993 spring training game against Stetson University in Plant City was also down.

The previous low crowd for the stadium's eight years had been 1,260, though it appeared only half that many were in the stands.

"I'm really not sure how to address it. I don't know all the issues involved."

"Toward the end of the game, Jordan and Atlanta Blass said.

"We've been out of pro baseball, the league is not likely to tip the scales in our favor."

"He should have been Jimmy Boudreau, son of Hall of Famer shortstop Lou Boudreau, Royals open their Sox camp in Sarasota, Florida, leaving his status for the rest of the spring uncertain.

We'd have to wait and see what happens," Jordan said.

Hawkeye seniors to make final home appearance

It will be an emotional weekend for the Iowa women's gymnastics team, with its final home meet this weekend in Carver-Hawkeye Arena. Saturday will be the last chance to perform in front of a home crowd for seniors Christy Terrell and Cindy Wheeler.

Despite the injuries, the gymnasts remain confident. "Our team has great character, and we're going to show it, especially Saturday," said senior Terrell.

Tonight's meet is in Carrier-Hawkeye Arena at 7 p.m. Senior Wheeler is at the Pollack Tennis North Gym, beginning at 9 p.m.

Delaware is looking to boost Christy Terrell's career and help the Hawkeyes perform in the region.

DeMarco is hopeful that Cindy Wheeler (left) and Fredricka Mullen (right) can perform in the region.

This meet is just a warm-up for the NCAA championships and we'll give a few people a chance to work hard and give people who are on the big meet a second warm-up.

"At this time, we're trying to push the balance beam and floor exercise.

Evolving ‘Ibsen and the Actress’ into Academy Award categories

Playwright dinosaurs are wont to get puffed up when a film in which they have had a hand comes to life and is recognized for their contributions. And so it is with the Academy’s new Screen Actors Awards, which were announced Thursday for the best actor, actress, supporting actor, and supporting actress in a theatrical film. The new awards are in addition to the existing Oscar categories for best picture, director, screenplay, and art direction, among others.

The new awards were announced Thursday after the results of the Screen Actors Guild (SAG) vote were revealed. SAG members voted on their choices for the best actor, actress, supporting actor, and supporting actress categories, which are administered by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences (AMPAS).

The new awards are modeled after the Golden Globe Awards, which are given by the Hollywood Foreign Press Association (HFPA). The HFPA was the first organization to announce the new awards category, and their decision to do so has been controversial. Some feel that the new awards are unnecessary and a distraction from the existing Oscar categories, while others see them as a way to recognize the contributions of actors who may not be eligible for Oscars due to the nature of their work or the size of their roles.

The new awards are open to all actors, regardless of their nationality or language, and they will be given out on the same day as the Oscars, February 28, at the Dolby Theatre in Hollywood. The first award ceremony will take place on March 25, with the announcement of the nominations made on March 13.
