House passes measure for sex offender registry

Under the bill passed Monday, states where sex offenders would have to register with local police or other law enforcement agencies would be limited to just 10 years. The bill has been approved by the Senate and is expected to go to a conference committee later this year.

"We believe that the time is ripe for the enactment of such an important measure," said Rep. John Smith, R-Omaha. "This bill will protect our children and our communities from the dangers posed by sex offenders."

WASHINGTON - Community-oriented policing, where officers are encouraged to get to know their beats, is the neighborhood's main strength, according to a report to the mayor of Peoria, Ill., by the police department.

The briefing on the Peoria police's activities was part of the - series of briefings held by the Peoria Police Department to update the community on the department's efforts to fight crime.

Neighborhood officers said they were able to use the community's resources to help solve crimes and improve the quality of life for residents.

HIV protein may help to map AIDS drug testing

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Researchers have discovered a human HIV protein that might be used to map and test for drugs used to treat AIDS.

The finding, which was announced at the American Society for Microbiology meeting in Chicago, could help researchers determine the best drugs to use in treating the disease.

The researchers identified a protein called Vpr that is found in HIV-infected cells and is believed to play a role in the virus's ability to suppress the immune system.

Downtown would benefit

The success of indoor thought that is the cornerstone of our City Hall, lies in its ability to enhance dialogue and foster a sense of community among its citizens. These cafes would be an outdoor extension of downtown Pedestrian Mall businesses similar to those seen in Boulder, and economic strength in the downtown area, this measure is being led the City Council's dissension against an outdoor concert to bars, and each agreed to donate a keg of beer to the event. fit had the potential for riotous violence.

The ramifications of a liberal arts education

For those of us who are asked if going to college is a good thing, there seem to be only a few answers. One is that colleges are a place to learn something, and the other is that they are a place to relax and have fun. Yet these questions are not mutually exclusive. Is college the next logical step after high school? I was home-schooled, and I think that when I was interested in something new, it led me to an advertisement for a college - that might not lead me anywhere. I was not interested in what was taught, I was interested in the lifestyle. I was not interested in the education, so I went to college.

Rally to be held protesting 'Contract' toon

Next Tuesday, the Republican newspaper is set to publish the “Contract,” a package of political promises designed to appeal to the American voter. The “Contract” is described as a blueprint for the Republican Party’s future direction. However, the “Contract” has sparked widespread criticism and protest across the country.

The rally, organized by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), will be held on the steps of the Capitol building in Washington D.C. at 11 a.m. on Tuesday. The event is expected to draw thousands of activists and politicians, all of whom are united in their opposition to the “Contract.”

The NAACP, along with other civil rights organizations, has condemned the “Contract” as a thinly veiled attempt to implement discriminatory policies that would disproportionately harm minority communities. The “Contract” is said to include measures that would weaken voting rights, increase police surveillance, and roll back environmental regulations.

As the rally begins, speakers will take to the microphone to denounce the “Contract” and its proponents. Among the speakers will be John Lewis, a veteran civil rights activist and member of the original 1960s Freedom Riders. Lewis will deliver a powerful speech about the importance of standing up against discrimination and the dangers of complacency.

The event is open to the public and is expected to draw a large crowd. Attendees are encouraged to bring signs and posters to show their support for the cause. The rally will end with a march through downtown Washington D.C. to further demonstrate the activists’ commitment to fighting against the “Contract.”

Why are Americans in constant motion?

Long before the days of the New York Times and the Wall Street Journal, Americans were on the move. The nation was founded on a spirit of adventure, and its people were constantly on the go, exploring new territories and seeking new opportunities.

In the early days of the country, there were no trains, cars, or airplanes to transport people. Instead, people traveled on foot, by horseback, or by boat. They traveled long distances to find gold, to establish new settlements, or to attend college.

The movement of people was not limited to the United States. Americans were also on the move internationally, seeking new opportunities and adventures in foreign countries.

Today, the spirit of movement is still alive and well. Americans are still on the go, whether they are traveling for work, pleasure, or to visit family and friends.

The constant motion of Americans is due in part to the fact that the United States is a country of immigrants. Each wave of immigrants brought new ideas, new values, and new ways of life to the country.

The movement of people is also due to the fact that the United States is a land of opportunity. Americans are always looking for ways to improve their lives, whether it is by starting a new business, finding a new job, or simply moving to a new place.

The constant motion of Americans is a symbol of the country’s spirit of adventure and independence. It is a testament to the fact that the United States is constantly evolving and changing, and that there is always room for new ideas and new opportunities.
A painful death often awaited those who first believed that Jesus rose from the dead. But theirs wasn’t a blind faith. No, they kept their eyes open everywhere they told the resurrection story, knowing their next word could be their last. Would so many risk their lives for something that wasn’t true? Would you die for a lie? For a brief, straightforward look at the evidence they had, ask for Beyond Blind Faith. It’s free. It’s painless. And it’s yours for the asking. Call 1-800-236-9238 today.

Easter. God meeting our need for proof.

TENNIS

Anders Agassi overtakes top spot

Anders Agassi pushed to the top of the list of the Canadian Open when he won at No. 25, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4, and his ranking rose two spots, including two Grand Slam titles.

On Monday, he continued his string of success, having already comfortably defeated his first opponent, a 15-year-old player who had been tipped to be the next big thing in tennis.

In addition to his Grand Slam titles, Agassi also managed to win the men's singles championship at the 1993 U.S. Open, which was held in New York for the first time in history.

Agassi's rise to the top of the rankings wasn't without its challenges. In his first match, he was forced to overcome a 15-year-old player who had been tipped to be the next big thing in tennis.

But Agassi proved to be too strong, prevailing in three sets to advance to the second round. He then faced another young player, but once again Agassi came out on top, winning in two sets.

His next opponent was a top-10 player, and Agassi once again proved to be too strong. He won in straight sets and continued his rise up the rankings.

In his final match of the tournament, Agassi faced another tough opponent. But once again, he proved too strong, winning in straight sets to claim his first Grand Slam title.

Agassi's rise to the top of the rankings was a testament to his hard work and dedication. He had been working hard to reach the top, and his efforts paid off in spades.

With his new ranking, Agassi is expected to continue his rise in the tennis world, with many predicting that he will be the next great star of the sport.

In the realm of sports, it's clear that Agassi has what it takes to succeed. With his hard work and dedication, he is sure to continue his rise to the top, and his successes will serve as an inspiration to many others.

I went into Taco Bell and saw Boston 110, Washington 97.

Right now, doing a story on how the Wizards have squirm as well, doing a story on how the stands empty on opening day and who had a better batting average his time between academics and athletics. Derouin decided he was no top of his game even after struggling earlier in the spring season.

"I'm playing with confidence now after being at UCLA. I'm not scared of anyone. I'm just going to play. I'm not going to let anyone outplay me. I'm going to give my best every single day," Derouin said.

Rebuilt Lakers can contend

Juk Marti, Associated Press

FEBRUARY 4 - Seven games into the season, Wade Dress must enter Avery "Scottie" Pippen into the fold in a big way. The Los Angeles Lakers are off to a 3-4 start, and it's clear that the Lakers' offense is not as efficient as it was last year. The Lakers are averaging 102.2 points per game, down from 104.6 points per game last year.

The Lakers' leading scorer, Shaquille O'Neal, is averaging 23.6 points per game, but he's doing it on a much lower percentage of shots. O'Neal is shooting 45.8% from the field, down from 54.6% last season.

The Lakers' defense has also struggled, allowing 105.2 points per game, up from 98.3 points per game last year. The Lakers are giving up an average of 28.7 assists per game, up from 23.2 assists per game last year.

"The Lakers are a very talented team, but they're not playing well as a team," said Lakers coach Pat Riley. "We have to get better at guarding the ball and making sure we're not getting beat on the other end."
REMINISCENT OF REINER’S ‘SPINAL TAP’

... And God Spoke’ celebrates the best found in B grade films

So, the time is ripe for a newConnell and unapologetic attitude toward show hundreds have found its way into the recently released film... 'And God Spoke', an elaborate, hilarious mockumentary spoof in the same vein as 'This Is Spinal Tap'.

'The Empty Set', the crew pan out all the boring bits... and God Spoke' takes skill back to the world of bad cinema. Like John Landis' 'American Werewolf In London', the film revels in its own poor taste and hilarity. Like Landis' 'Animal House', 'Fried Movie' and 'Animal House' serve their community for and desire to duplicate the lovably unholy elements and sick humor of ‘quickie’ filmmaking.
