N.C. lawmaker claims rape can't lead to pregnancy

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - Women don't get pregnant when raped because "the juices don't flow, the body functions don't work" during an attack, a state lawmaker declared Thursday.

Republican Rep. Henry Aldridge made the remarks to the House Appropriations Committee as it debated a proposal to eliminate a state abortion fund for poor women.

OKLAHOMA CITY - As the rubble slowly yielded more dead, the FBI struck back swiftly Thursday and issued arrest warrants for two men suspected of renting the truck that blew apart the federal building with a half-ton of homebrewed explosives.

The death toll rose to 52, making the attack the deadliest bombing in U.S. history. About 150 people are still missing.

Less than a day and a half after the bombing at the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building, FBI agent Weldon Kennedy said law enforcement agents are seeking two white men suspected of using aliases to rent the truck. The men's identities are unknown, he said.

He speculated that perhaps the culprits wanted "some revenge on the federal government as an entity or one of the agencies housed in that building. Your guess is as good as mine."

A third man, a Jordanian-American described by U.S. officials as a possible witness in the attack, was flown from London to the United States for questioning Thursday. Italian officials said his bags, seized in Rome, contained possible bomb-making tools.

One day after a bomb leveled part of a federal. building in Oklahoma City, killing at least 52 people and injuring hundreds of others, speculations that the disaster was an act of Muslim terrorists have left members of Iowa's Islamic community concerned for their safety.

Athar Tayyab, a UI student and president of the Muslim Students Association, said when the media began stereotyping those responsible for the bomb-ing as "Islamic militants," it led to unwarranted suspicion against Muslims.

Tayyab issued a written statement saying the Iowa City Muslim community is concerned about media stereotypes associated with the bombing.

"Whoever is responsible for this crime should pay for it, regardless of their religious or ethnic background," the statement said. "But in seeking out the perpetrators, media professionals and law enforcement officials should avoid stereotypes that could lead to hate crimes against innocent people.'

Tayyab said newspapers ran bold headlines stating the bombing appears to be the work of Islamic militants but waited until the end of the articles to mention that Muslim involvement is only speculative.

The Muslim Students Association had planned lectures titled "Jihad in America?" and "Islam, Religion and Africa" for Thursday and today, respectively. However, following the bombing, Abdullah Hakim Quick, the lectures' featured speaker and president of the Islamic Social Service and Resources Association, canceled.

Tayyab said Quick would not give an explanation for the cancellation.

"I can't speculate on why he did not come," Tayyab said. "We knew the bombing would have come up in discussion if he did."

Cedar Rapids resident Imon Farooq, imam and director of the Islamic Center in Cedar Rapids, said he is worried for his family's safety after receiving raped - the juices don't flow, the body functions don't work, and they don't get pregnant," said Aldridge, a 71-year-old periodontist. "Medical authorities agree that this is a rarity, if ever."

Aldridge's comments outraged women's advocates and some of his fellow legislators from both parties. "It's really common for rape victims to be blamed for being raped," said Margaret Henderson, president of the North Carolina Coalition Against Sexual Assault.

"But this is the first time I've heard of rape victims being blamed for becoming pregnant. I am both flabbergasted and offended by this man's remarks."

The judge replaced three deputies who usually guard the sequestered jurors after complaints about their conduct by an ex-panelist.

About 800 runners, walkers and rollers will battle the hills of Iowa City in five categories of River Run Sunday as a part of the UI RiverFest

"We can't wait," said Perry Johnson, director of River Run. "It's not a boring race. It's really unique." For those who decide to take part in River Run on a whim, beware. Johnson said the course is unique because it's hilly - really hilly.

But the hills haven't claimed any lives in the past, Johnson said. There have been no serious injuries, although last year one participant fell out of a wheelchair

The two main categories of the race are the 5K and 10K, which begin at 8 a.m. at the Main Library. Entry fees for the races are $12 for students and $14 for nonstudents

For those not interested in grunting, sweating and battling to the finish for a plaque, there is a fun run a one-mile course. The trade-off for being allowed to run less is that participants have to start at 7:30 a.m.

This year Elliot the Duck, the RiverFest mascot, will pound the pavement with his webbed feet along with other fun-run participants. Other categories in River Run are a 5K walk, a wheelchair race and a five-member team race. The team race has five runners complete the course, and the four fastest times are used to determine a team's final time. Johnson said overall winners receive a sweatsuit from University Book Store and a plaque. No awards are given for the fun run, and no entry fee is charged, either.

All of the money raised from entry fees goes into prizes and publicity for River Run. Any excess funds go to next year's race, Johnson said.

Participants preparing to dance the night away

Deodorant and extra underwear are two of the items participants are asked to bring when the 36-hour UI Dance Marathon kicks off Saturday. Proceeds from the event will benefit the pediatrics unit of UI Hospitals and Clinics and the Families First fund for children with cancer. About 200 dancers will get started at 10 a.m. Saturday and go until 10 p.m. Sunday in the Main Lounge of the Union. Leigh Ann Peterson, marketing director of Dance Marathon, suggests dancers bring extra clothes, facial soap, deodorant, briefs for men and sports bras for women.

However, she said a few things such as sugary foods, coffee and watches - are not allowed at the marathon.

"We don't want the dancers to look at their watches while they're dancing," Peterson said. "It might depress them a little bit."

Dancers also were told to be physically and mentally prepared to stay active for the long haul, Peterson said.

"We want their bodies to be as ready for this as possible," she said. "I'm sure some are and some aren't. But for the most part, they're prepared."

A prayer session dedicated to victims of the Oklahoma City bombings will be held at the Newman Catholic Student Center, 104 E. Jefferson St., today at noon.

The service, which is being sponsored by the Association of Campus Ministries, will be a time when religious groups can come together and reflect on those involved in the tragedy, campus minister Darrell Yeaney said.

"We'll be inviting people to share their concerns, fears, angers and feelings about the tragedy," he said. "Then we'll have a time of prayer for the families in Oklahoma City.'

When Emergency Housing Proect director Pat Jordan asked the United Way Allocations Committee for funds, she never expected a member of that group to organize a separate fund-raising event for the shelter.

A concert featuring local bands Lazyboy and the Recliners, Big Wooden Radio and Too Much Yang will be held tonight at 7 at Old Brick, corner of Clinton and Market streets. Kevin Hanick, one of the owners of Lepic-Kroeger Realtors, 500 S. Dubuque St., organized the event.

Jordan said she was surprised at Hanick's initiative in independently organizing the event, including printing fliers and tickets and finding entertainment and sponsors.

"I was amazed that someone in the community stepped forward and said, 'I want to organize this event.' That just doesn't happen," Jordan said.

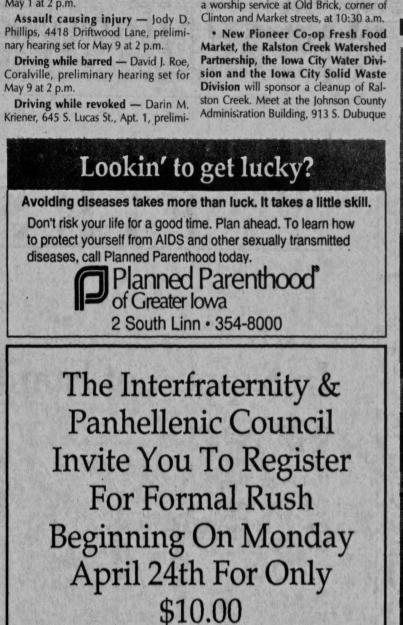

Hanick said he organized the concert to benefit the housing project, 331 N. Gilbert St., after hearing Jordan's presentation to the United Way. He said he had never worked with the housing project before. Tonight's smoke- and alcohol-free concert is his first try at fund raising, and he hopes as many as 200 people will attend.

"The group does really good things and has an outstanding director," Hanick said. "It struck me as a good group that needs a lot of help, so I decided to try and do something to raise money to help out their needs."

Hanick, a member of Lazyboy and the Recliners, said the bands are playing for free. Old Brick offered a reduced rental rate and The Cottage, 14 S. Linn St., and The Java House, 2111/2 E. Washington St., are donating food. Active Endeavors, 138 S. Clinton St., donated a $200 gift certificate, which will be given as a door prize.

The bands will play a mix of country, folk and rock 'n' roll for about an hour each, Hanick said. Tickets for the concert may be purchased at Prairie Lights Books, 15 S. Dubuque St., and at the door for $7 or $5 for students. All proceeds will go to the Emergency Housing Project's operating funds, Jordan

Residents up in arms over paintball field

Shayla Thiel The Daily Iowan

If some Johnson County residents get their way, paintball will be black-balled from their quiet neighborhood along the Cedar River. The Johnson County Board of Supervisors deferred a request to grant permission to build a 24.4-acre paintball field on a flood plain area outside of Solon, northwest of an unincorporated area along the Cedar River known as Sutliff.

Applicant Kurt Gillette of Springville, who wants to open a intball field enterprise called The Edge, defended his business against a group of angry neighbors who live long the rural river area at the informal meeting Thursday. The premise of paintball, which is played in wooded areas, is to eliminate opponents by shooting them with a gun that dispenses capsules of paint.

Terry Brosh, who lives in Sutliff, told the board that residents are opposed to a paintball field because of the potential increase in traffic and litter, pollution caused by the paint from the paint guns and the possibility the equipment could further hurt the river during a flood. Sutliff residents are not angry with

Gillette, but with the possibility of rowdy paintball enthusiasts, Brosh

"We feel the conception of the aintball has the potential of bringing in a large amount of people not neces-sarily from this area," Brosh said. "It's not that we don't think Kurt Gillette has the potential of running a tight ship, but he doesn't necessarily have the potential of baby-sitting the large amount of people coming through." Paint dispensed from paintball guns might pose an environmental hazard to the Cedar River, Brosh told the supervisors

"I think (allowing rezoning to Gillette) is a shot in the dark and through a contract could subtract we're taking a chance on what that paint can do," he said. "The river gets enough from everything else." Paint capsules shot from the guns cuss options.

want to mess with that."

Residents are also concerned about the militant stigma of paintball, Brosh said. Neighbor Diana Woodhouse, who attended the meeting, said she did not want her family to be exposed to the warlike games of paintball "We didn't buy a house in the country to look across and see grown men in camouflage re-enacting 'The Killing Fields,'" Woodhouse said.

However, paintball players are not gun-toting jerks, Gillette said.

"It isn't a bunch of budding Ram-bos," he said. "It's church groups, FFA groups, college students, lawyers, doc-- a lot of different types of peo-

The noise would not pose a problem to the quiet countryside, Gillette said. "There can be some noise, but it's a game of stealth," he said. "I suppose the noise could get across the river, but I don't think it would be too loud." Supervisor Steve Lacina asked if the group would be opposed to any recreational facility. "We're not against paintball," Brosh said. "We're against the intrusion of our residential area. The 'intrusion is the main point." Brosh and Gillette agreed to allow paintball to take place on a one-year trial basis, but the supervisors told them there was no legal ground for such an agreement.

Chairman of the Board of Supervisors Charles Duffy assured Sutliff residents the deteriorating main road of their development would be paved in 1997.

After a short recess, the supervisors agreed a decision must be deferred for two weeks in order for Gillette and Sutliff residents to come to a decision concerning the property. Suggestions included cutting the area Gillette had asked to be zoned to a smaller area in order to prevent noise. However, downzoning property

Almost 41,000 had private indemnity insurance that allowed free choice of doctors and hospitals, while 19,575 were in HMOs that provided prepaid care at fixed rates and restricted which physicians and facilities their patients could go to. A previous study of elderly

Medicare patients enrolled in HMOs found that these prepaid plans tended to attract healthier seniors with fewer problems than others their age, the vast majority of whom get fee-for-service coverage.

The researchers in the new study, whose work was funded by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, looked at people under 65 with private insurance who suffered from 15 chronic conditions, including asthma, arthritis, diabetes, asthma, bronchitis, emphysema, heart disease, hypertension and epilepsy.

More than 50 million Americans are enrolled in HMOs, which have experienced rapid growth as employers and consumers search for ways to hold down their medical bills and insurance premiums.

gunman opened fire Thursday on two police officers and a prosecutor's investigator as they tried to force their way into his home to search for weapons. At least one officer was killed, authorities said.

Witnesses said as many as 100 shots were fired in the gun battle between the suspect and the three men. The gunman barricaded himself inside the house with the investigator and held dozens of officers at bay well into the night.

The investigator and one officer were shot inside the house, but the officer managed to escape despite bullet wounds in his chest, leg and hand

Haddon Heights officer Richard Norcross underwent surgery and was expected to survive, said Camden County Assistant Prosecutor Joseph Audino. The investigator's condition was not known.

Norcross' brother, officer John Norcross, 24, was shot in the temple as he stood across the street. He died later at a hospital, Police Chief Theodore Taylor said. Authorities talked phone to the gunman, identified by police as Glenn Nelson, who lives in the house in this Philadelphia suburb. Nelson FBI spokeswoman Linda Vizi said that during negotiations, Nelson placed two handguns on the porch, but officials believed he had additional weapons.

Two officers had gone to the house earlier Thursday to investigate a report that a 3-year-old child who lived there had been sexually abused, Audino said.

While the officers were speaking to the child's mother, they noticed at least one semiautomatic handgun and a shotgun in the house. Audino did not know the child's gender or relationship to Nelson.

The officers later determined that Nelson had a prior arrest record for illegal weapons possession, officials said. A search warrant was issued, and the two officers and the investigator went to the house early Thursay afternoon, Audino said.

Camden County Undersheriff Thomas Gallagher said the officers had a warrant for Nelson's arrest, but Audino and Vizi said they were attempting to execute a search warrant when they were shot.

'A MURDER IS A MURDER'

Rejection was justified

here is always pointless speculation by college applicants after college officials deny them admission. Was it their grades? The test scores? The volunteer record?

But when South Carolina native Gina Grant was accepted at Harvard University and then rejected, there was little need on her part for speculation about what might have caused the rescinded offer.

After all, it was only fair that Harvard take into consideration the fact that Grant was arrested and served time for killing her mother.

A murder is absolutely unforgivable, and it is perfectly justifiable grounds for denying admission to an applicant.

A crew of sympathizers - including Harvard students have cried foul. They claim that the decision to deny admission was hasty. In essence, they are implying with their protests that there is nothing wrong with a little murder here or there. Come on, Harvard, they plead. Forgive and forget. Grant, they say, is rehabilitated. She deserves a clean slate. She served her time.

So which one of the protesters is willing to room with Grant? Or study with her?

Sure, colleges have their own agendas. They frequently toss out perfectly qualified students based on their ability to pay or decide that the guy who plays football should be accepted over the chess club member.

But Harvard was 100 percent correct in rescinding its offer of acceptance to Grant. A murder is absolutely unforgivable, and it is perfectly justifiable grounds for denying admission to an applicant.

In various articles appearing shortly after the story broke, Grant's straight-A school record and 150 IQ were mentioned. Her cache of teachers and student supporters was pointed out, proving and meaning absolutely nothing. The fact is, Grant bludgeoned her mother to death with a lead candlestick. Whether it was an act of defense, retaliation against abuse or a lapse of sanity, a murder is a murder. You don't need a sky-high IQ and a personal cheering section to figure that one out.

The issue of the rehabilitation of criminals is still a debate. But one point is clear: No matter the grades or the impeccable study ethic, Grant does not deserve to have the reputation of Harvard backing her future.

The whole college process - from application to graduation is difficult enough without having to worry about whether your college allowed a convicted murderer to enroll in your English class.

Getting rejected from Harvard is not a crime. Committing murder is.

Moving stinks: Beatin' back the relocation blues

Moving stinks. I'd love to couch that sentiment in more intellectual maybe even abstruse terms, but my underwear are packed in a box labeled "Br / Misc," we can't finish moving into our new place and it just plain stinks. This is the last week of our lease at our old apartment. This week, my tolerance for our obnoxious upstairs neighbors has finally been exhausted. They have a really nice stereo. Powerful. Expensive. One hell of a bass kick trust me.

And to think that it only took them until January to cut back to five (FIVE!) daily playings of Pink Floyd's "Another Brick in the Wall." Maybe they just had difficult school years. It will be good to not have to put up with them; their two-hour after-bar coughing fits; and their amazingly consistent, amazingly loud lifestyle.

But the lawn next door, at least at the moment, isn't as green as we thought it was.

We were officially slated to take possession of our new apartment — a very stylish downtown place with high ceilings and a great location last Saturday. Our new property manager assured us that the place would be painted and a few repairs would be made. And that sounded great to us.

place, he mentioned something about checking take-out. Shortly we'll be effectively homeless if on the painter's progress. I felt a sudden sense of foreboding.

When we arrived, our oven and refrigerator had been deposited in our front room, and the painter had dropped off a bit of gear and a few cans of paint, but no painting had been done at

We checked again Friday night.

We checked off and on all day Saturday, deciding that moving a few things into our closets there wouldn't interfere with the painter's progress, should he ever show up. On the first visit of the day, we discovered a slow, dripping leak in the kitchen faucet, causing me to wonder idly how many months it might take to get a plumber to show up and tighten it up for us.

We checked off and on all day Sunday, and again Monday morning.

As of this article's deadline, the painters have not so much as budged their gear since last Friday. This frustrates my significant other and me because we want to move in. It frustrates our well-meaning property manager, who at the moment has a good-sized bucket of egg on his face over the matter. It even frustrates the guy who fixed our floors on time but has to wait for some slackmonger to put a coat or two of paint over our living room, bedroom and kitchen before he can move the oven and fridge back to their rightful stations.

On Friday, when I picked up the keys to the So we're living out of boxes and subsisting on we can't track down the guy whose painting gear has been abandoned in our living room, get a paint roller in his hand and get him started on our apartment. We can't even finish moving in vet

> And because we were lucky enough to find a subletter for our old place, we'll have to abandon ship at our present apartment shortly.

> It's almost enough to make me want to put up with "Another Brick in the Wall" cranked to 10plus with supersubwoofers pounding down from upstairs, knocking our light fixtures, books and pictures around until August.

> Almost As I said, our new apartment manager is frustrated by the matter as well. He tells me he's been trying to get this painter to get in and get our place finished for six weeks now (make that seven weeks - he told me that last week). To his credit, he quickly suggested dropping a week's rent from our bill, and while this is something we think is only fair, it isn't what we wanted when we signed the lease. We wanted the apartment we viewed, with a new coat of paint and parking problems as our only woes.

Maybe next year. Moving stinks.

Capitalist society infringes on rights of freedom of speech To the Editor:

Duane Nollen claims student groups were attempting to infringe upon Joseph Gaylord's First Amendment rights by their vociferous and boisterous protest of his talk a week ago. This is nothing short of ridiculous, and it leaves a lot to the imagination about who really can exercise First Amendment rights in a capitalist society and who has the power to infringe on others' rights to free speech.

Those who can afford to buy a printing press or a radio station are at a competitive advantage in the marketplace of ideas compared to those who have only one means at their disposal to express their views and opinions: word of mouth. Dissenting views are drowned out by pro-establishment conservative views, which are overly represented in the capitalist media. This is because it is privately owned and because of the means by which it generates revenue through corporate advertisements.

A real left-wing agenda pushed by an editor would be met with a fall in profits and a few editors fired. This, of course, rarely happens because by

Since her column covering that topic, the Iowa City Press-Citizen saw fit to reprint an editorial from Detroit that vociferously supported the action, which snuffed out over 200,000 lives of people in the cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Shortly before Cain's article, the Cedar Rapids Gazette ran an editorial supporting the atomic bombing of Japan at the close of World War II also. The military arguments are less the time a reporter becomes an editor, he or she has built up a lovalty to the establishment through monetary inducements. One doesn't rise to the position of newspaper editor without first internalizing certain opinions and views favorable to the corporate establishment - namely the view that the holy market system is a panacea and that it is as fair to the millionaire as it is to the homeless person.

For those who can internalize this value, there are substantial rewards to be had. A different perspective would have the opposite effect because one's opinions are a reflection of one's actions. Thus, in order to advance in one's career, it is necessary to smile when one slaves for one's boss, which brings me back to Nollen's inane remark.

Big money will continue to talk, Nollen - no matter if a few student groups manage to drown out one who makes a living sucking up to the rich and powerful at taxpayers' expense. If the rich and powerful want to get their views across, they will have no problem hiring muddleheaded mucky mucks to do their talking for them in exchange for a comfortable living.

Fore play and rolling around in the grass

It's a gloriously sunny day in Miami, and I'm standing in a semicircle of maybe 500 people on a carpet of lush sweet-smelling, green-glinting grass - the kind that makes you want to get naked and roll around on your back like a dog.

But the people around me are not doing that. They're silent and solemn, like a church congregation, except that a lot of them are smoking cigars. They're staring intently at some tiny figures way off in the distance. I'm staring, too, but I can't quite make out what the figures are doing.

Suddenly the crowd murmurs, and 500 heads jerk skyward in unison. I still can't see anything. The crowd holds its breath, waiting, waiting. And then suddenly ... PLOP! A little white ball falls from the sky, lands in the middle of the semicircle and starts rolling. Immediately, the crowd members are shouting at it angrily.

"Bite!" they shout, spewing saliva and cigar flecks. "BITE!" This is how they tell the ball they want it to stop rolling.

The ball, apparently fearing for its life, stops. The crowd members applaud and cheer wildly. They're acting as though the arrival of this ball is the highlight of their lives.

Which maybe it is. These are, after all, golf fans. And this ball was personally hit by prepare to experience a heart seizure - Jack Nicklaus.

This exciting moment in sports occurred at the Doral-Ryder Open golf tournament, an event on the professional golf tour wherein the top golfers from all over the world gather together to see who can take the longest amount of time to actually hit the ball.

I don't know about you, but when I play golf - which I have done a total of three times in my life - I don't waste a lot of time. I just grab a club, stride briskly to the ball, take a hearty swing, then check to see if the ball has moved from its original location. If it hasn't, I take another hearty swing, repeating this process as necessary until the ball is gone, which is my cue to get out another ball because I know from harsh experience that I will never in a million years find the first one. I keep this up until there are no balls left, which is my cue to locate the part of the golfing facility where they sell beer. In other words, I play an exciting, nonstop-action brand of golf that would be ideal for spectators, except for the fact that most of them would be killed within minutes.

Your professional golfer, on the other hand does not even think about hitting a ball until he has conducted a complete geological and meteorological survey of the situation, circling the ball warily as though it were a terrorist device, checking it out from every possible angle, squatting and squinting, checking the wind, taking soil samples, analyzing satellite photographs, testing the area for traces of O.J. Simpson's DNA, etc. Your professional golfer takes longer to line up a 6-foot putt than the Toyota corporation takes to turn raw iron ore into a Corolla.

I know that it may sound boring to watch grown men squat for minutes on end, but when you see a pro tournament in person, when you're actually watching these world-class golfers line up their shots, it is in fact unbelievably boring. At least it was for me. I would rank it, as a spectator sport, with transmission repair.

"Hit the ball, already!" is what I wanted to shout at Jack, but I did not because the crowd would have turned on me, and my lifeless body would have been found later buried in a sand trap, covered with cigar burns. These fans worship the golfers, and they seem to be truly fascinated by the squatting and squinting process. The more time that passed with virtually nothing happening, the more excited the golf fans became, so when Jack finally got ready to take the extreme step of actually hitting the ball, everybody was nearly crazy with anticipation, although nobody was making a peep because putting is an extremely difficult and highly technical activity that - unlike, for example brain surgery - must be performed in absolute silence

And so, amid an atmosphere of tension comarable to that of a space shuttle launch, Jack finally bent over the ball, drew back his putter and gently tapped the ball.

"Get in the hole!" the crowd screamed at the ball. "Get in the hole!"

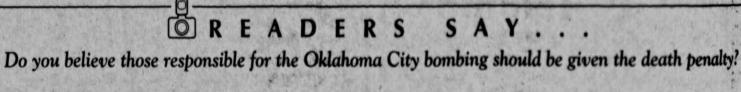

The ball, of course, did not go in the hole. Your world-class golfers miss a surprising number of short putts. Too much squatting, if you ask me.

"No!" shouted the crowd, when the ball stopped maybe an inch from the hole. Some men seemed to be near tears. Some were cursing openly. These people were furious with the ball. They did not blame Jack. Jack worked hard to line up his putt, and here this idiot ball let him down.

But Jack was magnanimous. He tapped the ball in, and the fans applauded wildly - as well they should have - because it is not every day that you see a person cause a little ball to roll 6 feet.

When Jack had acknowledged the applause, the next famous world-class golfer in his group John Daly, began considering the many, many omplex factors involved in his putt, which he will probably be ready to attempt no later than June. Let me know if he makes it. I'll be in the grass just beyond the refreshment area, rolling around like a dog.

Chris Snider The Daily Iowan

The Hawkeyes should end the spring just like they ended the fall - putting plenty of points on the board.

Iowa's first team will face the second team in the Coca-Cola Classic Spring Game this Saturday.

Kickoff is scheduled for 1 p.m. at Kinnick Stadium. The game will consist of four 12 minute quarters. The only other rule change is that all punts must be fair caught.

Fans should expect a lot of offense, a lot of points and maybe a little defense.

'We've been really handicapped, particularly on defense, with a lot of injured people recovering from surgery," Hayden Fry said.

Iowa has been hit hard with injuries on the defensive side of the ball. Those players missing Saturday's game include Chris Webb, Jon Ortlieb, Tom Knight, Mick Mulherin, Jason Wahls, George Bennett, Jeff Westoff, Chris Jackson, Kerry Cooks and Bobby Diaco.

SPORTS QUIZ

Who is lowa's all-time leading rusher?

See answer on Page 2B.

Missing the game on the offensive side of the ball will be Terry Mueller, Josh McKillip, Mike Goff, Matt Redman and Damon Gibson.

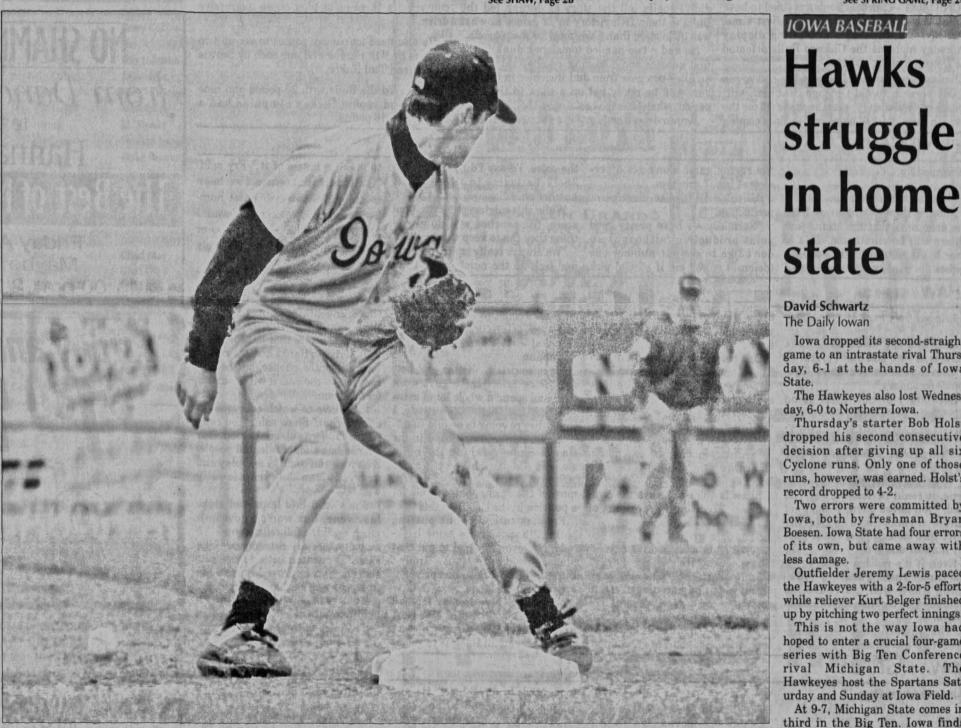

This will present a problem for the Iowa coaching staff, particularly in the defensive secondary, where five athletes are out.

"We're going to have a hard time having a two-deep in the secondary for the spring game," Fry said.

Because of the injuries to the defense, fans may see a closer game than they are accustomed to.

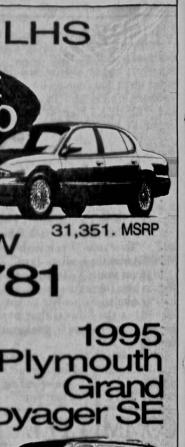

"I don't think the two's will have difficulty this year because the two's are better than they have been and the number one defense is not that good at this point," Fry old character builder, George Foreman, who for years has been delivering his message from the pulpit and in the ring. "He is a really nice and open-minded guy," Schulz, speaking through an interpeter, said of Foreman on Thursday. "He's a really good sportsman."

Whether Schulz emerges from the fight at the MGM Grand Garden as a better person is open to question. There, however, is little doubt among boxing people, that he will not emerge as the IBF heavyweight champion.

Foreman was a 7-1 favorite. "I'm not overconfident, but I'm pretty certain about myself," the 46-year-old Foreman said. "I'm the heavyweight champion of the world. You can forget the age part. I'm the heavyweight champion - period!"

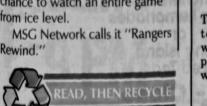

For his defense against the unranked Schulz, which will be televised by HBO at 10 p.m. EDT, Foreman is getting a staggering $10 million. The German's purse is $350,000.

Schulz goes into the fight with a 21-1-1 record, with 10 knockouts. He has won six straight matches dating back to a 12round decision loss to Henry Akinwande for the European title on May 1, 1993, at Berlin. HOCKEY

The Hawkeyes also lost Wednesday, 6-0 to Northern Iowa.

Thursday's starter Bob Holst dropped his second consecutive decision after giving up all six Cyclone runs. Only one of those runs, however, was earned. Holst's record dropped to 4-2.

Two errors were committed by Iowa, both by freshman Bryan Boesen. Iowa State had four errors of its own, but came away with CHICAGO - Michael Jordan seemed to have fun at the United Center for the first time, putting on a dunking and dishing display Thursday night as the Chicago Bulls defeated the Detroit Pistons 120-105.

The Hawkeyes take on the Nittany Lions Saturday at 9:30 a.m. at Klotz tennis courts or the UI Rec building depending on the weather.

Iowa split with Ohio State and more responsibility. Indiana last weekend but is looking to finish on a high note heading into the Big Ten meet.

Iowa senior Cara Cashon said it will be important to gain some momentum heading into the biggest meet of the year.

"This meet is just as important as the rest of them, especially with Big Ten's next week. But we hope to play efficiently and not get anyone hurt. It would nice to win the match and not have to exert a whole lot of energy," Cashon said

The Hawkeyes stand at 7-11 overall and 3-6 in the Big Ten. Senior Laura Dvorak sports a 10-8 record at the No. 1 singles position. Cashon and Kristen Campbell have recorded a near-perfect 8-1 record in doubles play in the Big Ten.

Cashon said it's time for Iowa to bring things together.

"We're playing confident and looking to shake things up next week at the conference tournament," Cashon said.

-Chris James Women's track

The Iowa women's track team will have to rely on depth when it travels to the Kansas Relays in Lawrence, Kan., this weekend as several of the team's top runners take a break from competition.

The Hawkeyes are in the middle of a grueling road schedule which has already taken the team to Florida, Tennessee and California

Hassard said the changes will allow other sprinters to assume

"If we're not competing our most competitive sprinters, we can certainly try to give these opportunities to other sprinters to go out and do their best," Hassard

In the distance events, Erin Boland and Kiersten Pauling will compete in the 1,500-meter run. Becky Coleman and Shawn Fleck will shoot for continued improvement in the 3,000 after running personal bests at the Mount Sac Relays.

Hassard said he expects some good performances despite taking fewer athletes.

"It's traditionally been a productive meet for us and we're hoping that kind of thing continues," he said. "I look at it as another good opportunity for our athletes to excel at a very competitive relay meet."

-Shannon Stevens Men's track

The Iowa men's track team travels to the University of California at Berkeley this Saturday as it prepares for next weekend's Drake Relays.

The California meet will consist of 10 schools, including four from the Pac-10 Conference. The top two schools performing will be California and Southern California

-Chris Snider Men's golf

The Iowa men's golf team heads to Columbus, Ohio, this weekend looking to gain momentum for the stretch run.

The Hawkeyes compete at the Kepler Invitational. Tee times begin today and continue through Sunday.

Iowa is fresh off a fifth-place finish at the 18-team Legends of Indiana Golf Tournament last weekend. With a final team score of 885, the Hawkeyes finished 10 strokes behind champion Missouri.

Senior tri-captain David Sharp paced the Hawkeyes, finishing in a sixth-place tie. Sharp's threeround total was 218.

Sharp said he is excited about the team's potential for the remainder of the season.

"We're starting our main stretch of tournaments right now," Sharp said. "We're playing well as individuals and as a team, but not as well as we could. That's good because we haven't been winning."

Other Hawkeyes who will be performing this weekend include juniors Sean McCarty and Laine Bratner, and sophomores Chad McCarty and Sean Rowen.

Iowa players are excited to play on the Columbus course which is regarded as a difficult one.

The Hawkeyes compete in the South Florida Invitational in Tampa this weekend. Competition begins today and runs through Sunday.

Iowa is coming off a disappointing performance at the Liz Murphy Invitational last weekend. The Hawkeyes finished 14th in the 15-team field.

Senior Jennifer McCullough leads Iowa into the tournament. Last weekend, she led the Hawkeyes with a three-round score of 246.

McCullough said the team remains confident heading into the season's final tournaments.

"Hopefully, we're just building up for a peak performance at Big Tens," McCullough said. "This tournament is really important to us, but the Big Ten Championships are basically the goal."

"I don't think it is all that important how well they play as a team, because it will be a very strong field of southern teams," Thomason said. "More important is trying to score consistently and trying to get lower rounds individually.

Making the trip to Florida for the Hawkeyes are McCullough, senior Lynette Seaton, junior Tanya Shepley and sophomores Candy Schneekloth and Karen Schroeder.

Schneekloth did not perform in the team's last tournament, but earned a spot in the lineup with a strong week of practice.

CHARACTER WEIRDER ON PAPER 'Tank Girl' film can't compare to comic

Tasha Robinson The Daily Iowan

Anyone who thought "Tank Girl" the movie was too hyperactive, too weird, too wild, too choppy or just too damn bizarre probably hasn't read the source material. While the film lies somewhere between "La Femme Nikita" and "Mad Max," the British cult comic wanders much further afield.

The original series (available in two compilations from Dark Horse Comics) stars a punked-out semibald, half-dressed woman tank commander who goes AWOL from the army and roams randomly around the Australian outback cursing, farting, belching, chugging beer by the gallon and having sex with half-kangaroo mutants. Wonder Woman she's not.

In fact, the series' underground popularity may in part stem from particularly attractive; she isn't mies with a vengeance. even particularly smart. Instead, she's mean, weird, impulsive and crude. It's not a particularly popu- Martin seem to compete at being lar combination, but it's certainly a fairly unique one. In fact, "Tank Girl" goes out of background notes run from inside as the entire comics medium. Cre- plain twisted.

In fact, "story line" may be too strong to describe "Tank Girl" 's vignettes, which are generally short, confusing and abortive, not to mention drenched in random surrealism. Take, for instance, the episode where Tank Girl goes on a search for the Fountain of Youth to save her grandmother and ends up dwelling microscopically in a cartoonist's pubic hair. Or the time she and her kangaroo lover hitch a ride with Jack Kerouac and Alan Ginsburg, and the four go on a "Natural Born Killers"-esque murder spree, ending up in Yogi Stone Park, where they live with cartoon bears and steal picnic baskets.

There's no rhyme or reason to the stories' many vagaries. The plots zip along at interstellar speeds, mostly hinging on wild hyperbole, a love of adolescent humor and an irrepressible impulse for self-referentialism. Hewlett and Martin themselves turn up as characters more often than half the comics' cast. It's no wonder that "Tank Girl" the movie couldn't do justice to this kind of disorganized mayhem. What is a wonder is that a director Their marginal comments and looked at Hewlett and Martin's ravings and saw a film that would interest Hollywood instead of making it hide its celluloid head in abject terror.

RiverFest Super Saturday '95

Student Activities Fair 11:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

Hubbard Park (Rain: Ballroom, IMU) For many University of Iowa organizations, the annual RiverFest celebration provides an opportunity to tell the student body and the community what they're all about. Through activities meant for your enjoyment, the groups can promote their individual interests and recruit new members. Some featured events will be carnival games, face painting, and "fishing for treats."

Super Sundae!

11:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. Hubbard Park (Rain: Ballroom, IMU) Making your own sundae is one of RiverFest's most enduring traditions. Create a masterpiece by choosing between a banana split or just your basic ice cream scoop. Toppings will include strawberries, caramel, and chocolate sauce. You'll find these cool treats near both Mainstage and the Multicultural Pavilion.

Mainstage 11:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

Hubbard Park (Rain: Main Lounge, IMU)

Mainstage kicks off with an appearance by the Battle of the Bands winner. They will be followed by Waterhouse (appearing later on Soundstage), who will provide the sounds of Jamaica. The afternoon will be filled with your favorite rock and alternative sounds. Relax in Hubbard Park as you take in this afternoon of diverse musical sounds. Mainstage is sponsored in part by the Iowa House, IMU Food Service, the University Book Store, and the University of Iowa Alumni Association. (SEE ARTICLE page 17)

Soundstage 11:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. IMU/Laser Building Patio (Rain: Ballroom, IMU)

Soundstage '95 will offer music slightly different than Mainstage to allow for diverse and continuous music throughout Super Saturday. The show will begin with the mellow musical sounds of the Blues Instigators and will end with Waterhouse, an eight piece fully costumed reggae band with native dances and a wide variety of sounds from the South Caribbean.

Multicultural Pavilion

11:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. IMU Riverbank (Rain: Landmark Lobby, IMU)

Let your taste buds loose down by the Iowa River as your nose leads you to the vast array of ethnic foods in the Multicultural Pavilion. Here you will be able to broaden your culinary horizons with a variety of food provided by local organizations and University of Iowa student groups. As if the food weren't enough, the pavilion also offers multicultural displays that shouldn't be missed! (SEE ARTICLE)

Multicultural Performances 11:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. Wheelroom Patio (Rain: Wheelroom, IMU)

As you savor the ethnic food from the pavilion, relax and learn about different cultures through their music, dancing, demonstrations, and costumes. Performances by University of Iowa student groups, including step shows by select fraternities and sororities, will highlight this captivating afternoon exhibition.

Brats and Soda 11:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. Hubbard Park Rain: Main Lounge, IMU)

Enjoy grilled brats, hot dogs, and chicken breasts while you take advantage of the many activities offered on RiverFest's Super Saturday. For your convenience, grills will be located along side both Mainstage and the Multicultural Pavilion.

"Swing The Mallet" 11:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

Hubbard Park (Rain: Main Lounge, IMU) Step right up and test your strength. Are you strong enough to ring the bell? Enjoy this county fair tradition that has withstood the test of time.

5 on 5 Basketball Tournament 12:00 p.m. - 6:00 p.m. Field House

March Madness is over...but basketball has no season!! It's time to slam, jam, and show your stuff! All ability levels are welcome to participate! Get a team together and dribble down to the Field House!

Psychic Readings by Donna 12:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m. Hubbard Park

(Rain: Ballroom Lobby, IMU) Wouldn't it be great to take a peek into the future? This year RiverFest is going to make that dream possible. Donna, a well known psychic, will tell you all you want to know about your future relationships and much, much more! Take your pick between tarot card readings ($10.00) and palm readings ($7.00).

Children's Clown

12:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m. Outside IMU (Rain: Inside IMU) Visit with the clown from the Ground

Round Restaurant as you take part in the activities offered on Super Saturday. Children and adults of all ages will be able to enjoy the antics and tricks performed by this lively clown throughout the afternoon.

Iowa City's Favorite Food Contest 2:00 p.m. - 3:00 p.m. Hubbard Park (Rain: Terrace Lobby, IMU)

Formerly known as the RiverFest Best Pizza in Iowa City Contest, The Iowa City's Favorite Food Contest will involve a broad range of local restaurants competing in the following four categories: Best Pizza, Best Taco, Best Eggroll, and Best Burger. The judging will be done by University of Iowa students and Iowa City community members attending Super Saturday. (SEE ARTICLE)

"The Interview" (A French Comedy) 2:00 p.m. & 8:00 p.m. Riverside Theater

Michael Vinaver is one of France's most well-known contemporary playwrights whose plays have been staged by many famous French directors. Many of his plays are set in the frenetic world of international business - a world which the playwright explores with unflinching honesty. This particular play, "The Interview," dissects a job interview of a recently fired middle manager. "The Interview" is directed by Marion Schoevaert and the cast is composed of University of Iowa graduate students. Sponsored by Marina.
