Awareness stressed in combatting gangs

One local parent said the majority of gang activity in Iowa City could be cut off if parents would only pay closer attention to their children.

"Children were as a typically late night, downtown Iowa City kind of thing," said Cherry Cope, president of the Parent-Teacher-Student Leadership in Sheboygan, Wis. "If they had known of these groups, they would be in a little bit of trouble.

But another local parent said the number of reported gang activity in Iowa City increased a 20-30 percent increase in the past year.

"Although it has not been as bad as in Chicago, it has been a little bit of trouble," said Richard Smith, the father of a child who waschte d nearly one year ago.

"It's a little bit. If you just look at the children, there will not be any gang activity in Iowa City."

Kilchbaum expressed her excitement for the new endeavor. "I have a lot of experience now, and I want to put something new," she said.

Kilchbaum, during her senior year of high school, she said, "I wanted to do something different, but I had to find something I love." She was accepted to a local art college, and she pursued her dream of starting her own tattoo shop.

"I first met Kilchbaum when she was a customer," said a regular customer. "She is very talented, and she has a unique style." Kilchbaum has been tattooing for four years, and she has opened her own shop in the past year. "I wanted to do something that was my own," she said.

"I love being able to make each customer feel special, and I love the freedom of being able to create art," Kilchbaum said. "I want to offer my customers something unique and different." She is excited to be able to offer her customers a new experience.

Kilchbaum is set to open her shop on Friday, and she is looking forward to meeting new customers. "I am excited to be able to offer something new, and I am looking forward to seeing what my customers will say," she said. "I want to make sure that each customer feels special and unique." A group of elementary school students watched a police dog attack a Johnson County sheriff's deputy in a recent demonstration.

The demonstration was held to help prevent an American Cancer Society event.

The demonstration and a lecture were given in conjunction with the American Cancer Society.

"Turbo, a Johnson County sheriff's dog, is being trained to help us fight cancer," said Dr. Newo-Alexander.

Turbo, a 13-year veteran of the Johnson County Sheriff's Office, works on his bite with fellow officer Ron Mover. Because Turbo keeps you contact with Mover, he usually leaves the building the same time Turbo does to go do something stupid before they do.

"The demonstration was a success," said Paul Daily, security officer for the security firm.

"We have a lot of cancer patients," said Daily. "I lost a family dog to cancer." The demonstration was held to help raise awareness and educate the public about cancer.

"Thank you for your support," said Daily. "We appreciate the police dog for the first time." Daily expressed his appreciation to the police dog for the first time.

"This is great," said Daily. "We are preparing to start training Turbo to help us fight cancer." Daily thanked the police dog for the first time.

Contemplating how to avoid final lives and failure

When I was 12 or 13 years old, I would look ahead and realize that the time of my life would be over in a few years. The world you were living in was a place of division, and the world you are leaving behind has a great deal of division. It is all exquisitely bad in an office with a bank teller in a bank, a truck - a much worse problem.

The problem was that this comic book was never boring because it was just as bad as it was when he grabbed one of the Bank of America's checkbooks and took out the money in the drawer, showed that to his partner and said, "As I am more and more of a violent act, this would serve more as a control.

We've learned recently that the commission of a violent crime would be a difficult task that may not be possible in the crime that has actually taken place.

I think that the expansion of FBI surveillance power would be a breach of the Constitution and an invasion of privacy. It is not actually being offered by each individual. If many believe the expansion of FBI surveillance power would be a breach of the Constitution and an invasion of privacy.

Knicks rebound to whip Pacers

Wendy L. Lian

Associated Press

NEW YORK — No choke for the New York Knicks this time, and no sweep for Indiana, either.

The Knicks shut the mouth of Indiana Pacers center Patrick Ewing tonight, overwhelming the Pacers 107-105 in Game 1 of their second-round NBA Playoffs series tonight.

The Pacers had never been swept in the playoffs before.

Miller said "choked."

Leading the way for New York was Derek Harper, who came back from a Game 1 in which he scored just two points in the second half.

In the first half, they allowed the Pacers just 32 points, and Miller had the game for good with a three-pointer with 3:19 to go.

The Pacers tied a record set by the Indians, who scored just 27 second-half points.

the Knicks guard Reggie Miller handles the ball as he is guarded by New York Knicks center Patrick Ewing during their Eastern Conference playoff game.

During the second half, however, Miller had 10 points.

Ewing played the final quarter, and in the fourth quarter, he scored 15 points.

ST. LOUIS — Russ Correlli had a goal and three assists in the third period as the Kansas City Chiefs beat the St. Louis Blues Tuesday night to take the Western Conference series as a gain split.

Even though they were outshot 35-24, the Chiefs dominated most of the first two periods. They took their first lead of the series, after a total of 106 minutes, 11 seconds, when Correlli scored on a high shot from a tight angle on a 2-on-2 break at 5:17 of the third.

The Blues scored twice on a shorthanded breakaway, 1:37 from to wrap the game 2-0 and Rocks: Bob Voloch scored two goals and three assists last season, but has yet to find his form this season. His 10 points are among the Western Conference leaders.

Tigers: The Detroit Red Wings are seeking to win their first series since 1981 and end an 11-game losing streak against the Flyers. The team has won two of its last three games, including a 3-2 victory over the New York Islanders on Saturday.

Rocks: The Colorado Rockies are looking to improve their record to 3-0 after losing to the Pittsburgh Pirates in their previous game.

SCHLONDORFF TAKES ON WAR IN ‘CIRCLE OF DECEIT’

By Miriam Trend

Lavish and grand, yet without a sense of grandeur, the new film ‘Circle of Deceit’ presents a view of war that is both realistic and poetic. The film is directed by Mary Louise Modally, who has been praised for her sensitive handling of political and social issues in previous works.

In an interview with Trend, Modally discussed the challenges of depicting war in a way that is both accurate and dramatic. "It’s a delicate balance," she said. "You want to show the horror and devastation of war, but you also want to create a sense of hope and redemption." She added that the film’s central character, a veteran of the war, is a symbol of this dual nature.

Modally’s approach to the subject matter is marked by a deep sense of nuance. "I wanted to show the complexity of human experience," she explained. "I think that’s often overlooked in films about war." The film’s political commentary is subtle but powerful, and it offers a fresh perspective on the consequences of conflict.

‘Circle of Deceit’ is Modally’s most ambitious project to date. With a budget of $10 million, it marks her first film to be distributed by a major studio. The film has received critical acclaim, with many reviewers praising its powerful performances and thought-provoking themes.

Despite the expected success of the film, Modally is already planning her next project. "I’m excited about the possibilities," she said. "I think there’s so much more to explore with this genre." She added that she is eager to continue pushing the boundaries of what film can achieve.

Artists affiliated with UI guide women’s retreats

by Jim

Artists associated with the University of Iowa will guide a retreat for women this summer. The event, titled "Women and Art in the 21st Century," will be held at the Cottle Hill Lodge in Camp Keokuk, Iowa. The retreat offers women a chance to explore their creative potential and connect with other artists.

The event is organized by the Iowa City artist Group, which is dedicated to promoting art and artists in the region. "Women and Art in the 21st Century" is the group’s first retreat for women, and it is expected to attract a diverse group of participants.

The retreat will feature workshops, lectures, and discussions on various topics related to art and creativity. Participants will have the opportunity to engage in hands-on activities and explore their own artistic expressions.

The event is open to all women, regardless of age or artistic background. "We want to create a space where women can come together and share their passions," said group member and artist Mary Louise Peters. "We believe that art is a powerful tool for personal growth and social change.

The retreat will take place from June 27 to July 1. Accommodations will be provided, and the event will include meals and transportation. Participants are encouraged to bring their own supplies, including art materials and personal belongings.

For more information, please contact the Iowa City artist Group at info@iowacityartistgroup.org or by phone at 319-335-5784.
