Hippler won't face charges in death of fetus

A judge ruled to drop the firstever nonconsensual termination of a pregnancy charge in lowa at a hearing Wednesday.

Chadwick Hippler, 20, of Galesburg, Ill., is accused of driving a stolen 1993 Pontiac Firebird into oncoming traffic during a high-speed chase with officers of the Iowa City Police Department Dec. 9. The Firebird collided with a car driven by g and Jean Fisher of Iowa City, causing Jean Fisher, who was seven months pregnant, to lose

Johnson County District Judge William Eads said in a nine-page ruling filed Wednesday that the charge was dropped because Hippler did not intend to terminate the Iowa City woman's preg-

Hippler also is charged with first-degree theft, two counts of serious injury by vehicle and a misdemeanor charge of eluding police.

He could receive a maximum of 16 years in jail for the remaining charges.

Eads also ruled testimony heard by the first officer at the accident scene be suppressed because it violated Hippler's Fifth Amendment right to counsel.

Simpson trial update

DNA scientist Robin Cotton said matches of O.J. Simpson's blood and blood found at the murder scene occur in one in 170 million blacks and whites. A match between Nicole Brown Simpson's blood and a bloody sock found in O.J. Simpson's bedroom is even less common.

Under cross-examination, Cotton said the studies used to devise those odds involved only hundreds.

Cotton said blood found under Ms. Simpson's fingernails was consistent with her own blood type. That contradicts a defense theory that the blood was from a mystery killer.

Former UI research dog supplier found guilty of 1,600 animal violations

Devon Alexander The Daily Iowan

An Iowa couple who for eight years sold dogs used in UI labora-tory research has been found guilty of 1,600 violations of the USDA's Animal Welfare Act, fined $200,000 and had their license permanently revoked.

"This is far and away the highest fine ever issued under the Animal Welfare Act," said Cathy Liss, exec-

Charges against Julian and Anita Toney of Lamoni, Iowa, included falsified records of origin, improper treatment and housing of animals, Source: U.S. Department of Agriculture and failure to hold dogs for the mandatory five days before resale.

PROGRAM CONSIDERED

Sexuality studies contemplated by UI committee

and Jill Beyer The Daily Iowan

While some Iowa legislators are attempting to stop universities from using state dollars to promote homosexuality, the UI is working to develop a sexuality studies program containing a wealth of coursework centering on topics the Iowa House recently sought to ban.

For the last several years, a 38-member committee composed of UI faculty, staff and students has been working to develop a program on sexuality studies, an interdisciplinary certification program which would cover myriad aspects of human sexuality. The program may be added to the UI curriculum as Arts, the UI Faculty Assembly and the Iowa state Board of Regents, said Luke Flaherty, chairman of Academic Affairs for Sexuality Studies, which is part of the Satur-See CURRICULUM, Page 7A

In 1984, Edwards suffered from what seemed to be a common flu. But when he couldn't get rid of the symptoms after a week, his parents took him to the emergency room.

"The doctor said if I came in the next day I would have been dead," he said. After several tests and a CAT scan, doctors discovered a malignant brain tumor the size of a softball on Edwards' optic charisma - the area which controls vision, located on the top center part of the brain. Doctors operated on Edwards but were successful in removing only 50 percent of the tumor; the rest had to remain because it was adhered to the brain.

DNA experts claim blood spots probably belonged to Simpson

Linda Deutsch Associated Press

LOS ANGELES - A scientist inextricably linked O.J. Simpson's DNA type Thursday to a blood splotch found near two bodies, concluding there was less than a one-in-170 million chance that anyone other than Simpson left that genetic fingerprint.

Robin Cotton, lab director of Cellmark Diagnostics, also used complex calculations to closely link Simpson to four other drops of blood collected from the crime scene and his mansion.

The most astronomical figures involved a pair of socks found near Simpson's bed. Cotton said one sock contained the DNA type of Simpson's slain ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson. Asked how many other whites shared that DNA type, Cotton said one in 9.7 bil-

Prosecutor George Clark noted the figure was larger than the Earth's population, estimated at 5.5 billion, meaning that Brown Simpson was literally the only person whose blood could be on that sock.

The results, while presenting a powerful courtroom show for jurors, didn't answer many questions already raised by Simpson's defense, including whether the blood samples were collected improperly and how Simpson's blood and that of the two victims arrived at the places where they

The results presented Thursday, already known to Simpson and his lawyers, explained why they are waging a fierce battle to show that blood was either planted at the scenes or samples were switched by police conspiring to frame Simpson. They also argue that contamination of samples may make the results meaningless.

The defense has suggested a detective smeared Brown Simpson's blood on the sock and that someone else scattered Simpson's blood from a sample he provided

Cotton's testimony, which connected the dots of DNA evidence with the statistical dashes of population frequencies, highlighted the importance of science in the prosecution's effort.

Jurors appeared riveted by the testimony, gazing at charts and taking copious notes. Twice they were trotted out of the jury box to look closely at DNA X-rays mounted on a light box.

In Kikwit, a city of 600,000 about 370 miles east of the capital of Kinshasa, health and government officials closed schools and health clinics, canceled flights and advised people to stay at home. Work in the agriculturally important area stopped.

Dozens of people in the region have died so far. The number of deaths has been difficult to nail down because of conflicting reports and the uncertainty that the Ebola virus was the cause of all deaths

Health officials also were investigating a possible second outbreak of the virus at a hospital in the village of Musango, 60 miles from Kikwit. A nurse who had worked in the Kikwit hospital where the epidemic began died in the village.

The 350-bed hospital was nearly empty when health experts arrived Thursday to investigate.

To contain the virus, the hospital was cleared out except for infected patients and hospital staff exposed to the virus - about 20 people in total, said Doctors Without Borders spokeswoman Veerle Eygenraam.

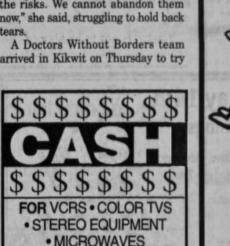

Another 100 people in Kikwit were confined to their homes because they had been exposed to the virus, in most cases by a family member who had died, Eygenraam said.

"It is quite serious because it is a very infectious virus. But we have found out about it very early and in hospitals and we have taken all the necessary measures to decrease transmission," Eygenraam said.

An Italian nun who worked at the Kikwit hospital, 48-year-old Danielangelina Sorti, died Thursday, Eygenraam said. Two other members of the Poverelle order were in serious but stable condition at the hospital, and 12 nuns were continuing their work there, said a Poverelle nun in Kinshasa, Sister Mauricia.

"We will continue our work, despite the risks. We cannot abandon them now," she said, struggling to hold back

OKLAHOMA CITY - FBI agents ound detonator cords, blasting caps and ground-up ammonium nitrate terials like those used in the federal building bomb - at Terry Nichols' house, according to an affidavit eased Thursday.

Nichols, his hands and feet shacked, appeared before U.S. Magistrate Ronald Howland to hear the charges against him. Asked if he had disussed the charges with his lawyer, Nichols responded, "Yes, your honor."

When interim U.S. Attorney Patrick Ryan said he faced the death penalty, Nichols simply looked

FBI agents found five 60-foot detonator cords with nonelectric blasting caps and a fuel meter, which federal omb experts said "could be used to obtain the proper volume of diesel oil to ammonium nitrate for a bomb."

A preliminary hearing for Nichols was scheduled for May 18. Timothy McVeigh, the only other person to be charged in the worst terrorist bombing on U.S. soil, has already had his preliminary hearing.

Study: Only minimal drinking is helpful for women

BOSTON (AP) — When health experts say a little alcohol may be good for the heart, they really mean a little.

A study published Thursday finds the ideal consumption for women is no more than one to three drinks a week. Anything over that and the benefits begin to disappear. Women who have more than two drinks a day actually increase their risk of early death.

The study in the New England Journal of Medicine reaches many of the same conclusions as a similar study of men released in November: Light drinking is light indeed.

Hollywood madam's father enters guilty plea

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Heidi Fleiss' pediatrician father pleaded guilty Thursday to helping launder hundreds of thousands of dollars for the Hollywood madam.

Under a plea bargain, 61-yearold Dr. Paul Fleiss could get up to 10 months in prison at his sentencing

Federal prosecutors alleged that for three years Fleiss helped hide his daughter's earnings from her exclusive call-girl ring, lied on loan applications and falsely claimed her as an employee in his medical practice.

Prosecutors said he posed as the buyer of a $1.6 million home that his daughter actually purchased.

He pleaded guilty to conspiracy to defraud the Internal Revenue Service and bank fraud.

Heidi Fleiss, 29, awaits trial in the money-laundering case and will be sentenced today for pandering. She could get up to eight years in prison.

The French Quarter was the first place settled in New Orleans because the land is highest there, roughly even with sea level. People started leaving Arnaud's about midnight.

It was 3 a.m. before people could get out of Commander's Palace, a Garden District landmark painted in the garish turquoise-and-white stripes first chosen when it was built in 1830. Some 250 people were inside when the water rose too high to leave, said Lally Brennan, one of the owners.

"We kept feeding people dessert and drinks and wine — whatever they wanted," she said.

The Garden District, where plantation owners built second homes, is also on relatively high ground, toward the edge of the level-edged bowl that is New Orleans

Ruth's Chris Steak House is down toward the bottom of the bowl, about 5 feet below sea level. About 40 diners and a dozen or more staff members retreated to the second floor overnight, waiting for 17 inches of water to drain from the building.

Dr. William St. John LaCorte, a New Orleans internist, had let his departing dinner companions have first dibs on the parking attendant about 9:30 p.m. Monday. Between the time the valet brought their car and LaCorte's, the water had come up so fast he judged it too risky even for his sturdy Chevrolet Suburban.

Important issues forgotten

Lact is not a strong suit for politicians. Even in the face of tragedy, politicians are likely to squeeze as much favor for their party as they can out of a thoroughly nonpartisan blight.

House Speaker Newt Gingrich pointed fingers when the Susan Smith fiasco was brought to the nation's attention. He said that the Democrats had loosened our country's morals to the point that mothers could fly off the handle and kill their children.

The events at the Branch Davidian compound in Waco, Texas, also brought out the finger-pointing Republicans in force. "It's that liberal Attorney General Janet Reno's fault," they all chanted.

And after the Oklahoma City bombing, Republicans were quick to praise the ability of the federal government to move quickly. "It's great how we can all work together in a time of tragedy without partisanship," Gingrich and others said. However, soon thereafter, President Clinton joined the ranks of finger-pointers and blamed conservative talk radio shows as being partially responsible for creating an atmosphere which encouraged the Oklahoma City bomb-

And now the blame game has turned local. The next Iowa City City Council election is in six short months. A local newspaper reported that there are some like-minded candidates who want to replace the "Big Three" - liberals Karen Kubby, Bruno Pigott and

According to news stories, these candidates aren't entirely thrilled with how the Big Three have been conducting business as council members. They say the councilors are taking too long and not getting to the bottom line fast enough.

This is a political world wrapped so tightly around terms like conservative" and "liberal" that we've moved ourselves away from the crux of what is truly important. Those 30 seconds Clinton spent blaming talk radio groups could have been better spent searching for John Doe No. 2. And the time it took for Gingrich to blame Democrats for moral decay could have been spent creating proposals which would help determine why our country has gone astray. Even at the local level, calling Kubby, Pigott and Throgmorton liberals does no good. It is a waste of time. If there is an issue of concern to Iowa City, bring it up and suggest how it can be resolved rather than wasting everyone's time about why liberals can't

If we are to glean anything from the Oklahoma City bombing, it is that precious time is spent blaming others. Instead, let's take a look around and quash potential problems before we find anyone to blame for them in the first place.

Leadership qualities not received from President Rawlings To the Editor:

At orientation, when parents are enveniently present, we heard Rawlspeech and bragging about his l of meeting with every student in office once. At the beginning of sophomore year, when I was havpersonal difficulties affecting my grade-point average, I heard the presdent's statement a second and a third time. (one film expert I recently showed the endeavor to said he was "blown away" by it). After humbly delivering my letter and project to someone at the front door of Rawlings' house, I waited weeks for a phone call. I would have called his office back oner but I realized Rawling busy person (I didn't want to be too irritating) and that surely he'd have the etiquette to at least have his secretary call me to make an appointment. Finally I called, and (after my messages were lost three times) Rawlngs, without even speaking to me first, had his secretary send me elsewhere. I then found the reason for the long wait was not because he'd been busy doing something to help me, as I'd naively hoped, but because he'd lost my tape for a month.

I was so devastated at that point, I almost dropped out. He's also never contacted me in the last two and a half years to follow up on my situation, and to this day I haven't spoken to Rawlings. Administration has since told me students are often lucky to get responses from administrators.

All I have to say to Rawlings is this: In 20 years, when my net worth is more than 10 times what yours is today, it certainly will not be because of any encouragement or leadership qualities I received from you.

Unbiased coverage called for with issues the Editor:

Although I have only taken a highchool journalism class, it wasn't hard to see a journalistic problem with The Daily Iowan's lead story May 5. The headline states "InQueery sponsorship costs UI," but if you actually read the article, you find no consensus that laQueery" was the reason the state gislature cut the UI's budget. While the representative claimed Queery" was the reason, the repentative from Iowa City thought the first representative was "hallucinating," and the House Appropriatiens Committee chairman stated, "It may have had an impact, but I can't say for sure." Thus, the headline is misleading to say the least.

The chairman did indicate that Queery" was mentioned during the legislation. But correlation is not fficient to conclude causation. Moreover, it is not hard to think of ther possible reasons for why politicians may wish to cut the UI's budget The subheadline "State Legislature cuts $100,000 from university operating budget" would have been a far more appropriate headline, although less sensational. If the editor thinks that "InQueery" is the reason for the budget cut, such an opinion belongs on the editorial page, not in bold print across the top of Page 1.

Unfortunately, some readers probably read the headline and having little interest in this issue moved quickly on to the article below it, but in the process acquired a biased view on the budget cut. Once such a headline is printed, the damage is done; a retraction or Letter to the Editor is about as effective as telling a jury to please disregard the previous statement" made by a grandstanding lawyer. I hope that the editor of our school newspaper will be more pro-fessional in the future and report controversial issues in an unbiased mana letter from John Cog of Norfolk, Va. Here's the entire text:

Today's column topic is: fashion tips for men

"How come when I'm standing in front of a fulllength mirror with nothing on but socks, white socks look OK, but dark-colored socks make me look cheap and sleazy?"

This letter was passed along to me from my research department, Judi Smith, who attached a yellow stick-on note that said, "This is true." Judi did not say how she happens to know it's true. Apparently - and I'm sure there's a perfectly innocent explanation - she has seen John Cog of Norfolk, Va., wearing nothing but socks.

But the point is that dark socks as a lone fashion accessory create a poor impression. This is a known fact that has been verified in scientific experiments wherein fashion researchers put little white socks on one set of naked laboratory rats and dark socks on another, then exposed both groups to a panel of leading business executives such as Bill Gates who indicated that they would be "somewhat more likely" to hire from the white-sock group, should their personnel needs ever include a rat.

What this means, men, is that if you're dressing for an important job interview, church supper, meeting with my research department or other occasion where you could wind up wearing nothing but socks, they should be white

Likewise, if you're going to be wearing just your underwear, you should always tuck your

This is the "look" favored by the confident, sharp-dressing men found in the underwear section of the now-defunct Sears catalog, who are often depicted standing around in Rotary Clublike groups, looking relaxed and smiling, as if to say, "Our undershirts are tucked way down into our underpants, and we could not feel better

These men live in Sears Catalog Men's Underwear Town, where all the residents, including on-duty police officers, wear only underwear. All the residents are always in a good mood because they live only a few pages away from Sears Catalog Women's Underwear Town, which is occupied by hundreds of women who stand around all day wearing nothing but brassieres and underpants and thinking nothing of it. Sometimes, late at night, they all get together for wild parties in Power Tools Town.

One last underwear tip: No doubt you mom always told you that your underwear should be clean and free of holes or stains because you might get in a car crash and be taken, unconscious, to the hospital and people would see your underwear and possibly ridicule it. You mom was absolutely right, as we can see from the following unretouched transcript from the emergency room of a major hospital:

Doctor: What do we have here? Nurse: We have a car-crash victim who has severe head trauma and a broken neck and massive internal injuries and is spewing blood like a fire hydrant.

Doctor (briskly): OK, let's take a look at his underwear. ... Whoa! How do you get Cheez Whiz there?

(Laughter from everybody in the emergency room, including gunshot victims.)

Our final fashion tip for men concerns those, special occasions when for whatever reason you want to wear something on top of your underwear. What style of clothing is right for you? The answer - taking into consideration your, particular age, build, coloring and personality is: "Clothing that has been picked out by a woman." Because the sad truth is that males, as a group, have the fashion sense of cement.

Oh, I realize that there are exceptions - men who know how to pick out elegant suits and perfectly color-coordinated accessories. But for every man walking around looking tasteful there are at least 10 men walking around wearing orange-plaid Bermuda shorts with nonmatching boxer shorts sticking out above and below and sometimes also poking out through

In conclusion, men, please remember that the fashion tips contained in this column are just the "basics." Students' rights not favored by UI parking policies

As I drove to the UI Law Library one Saturday to study, I noted a familiar sight. Crowds of people clad in black and gold were drinking beer; kids were running around parking lots; and vendors were selling everything from T-shirts to underwear reading, "lowa Hawkeye Football." Yes, it was an hour until the kickoff of the spring football game.

Then I noticed something else when I tried to park. Cars were parked everywhere! When I realized had no place — no place legal — to park, my blood began to boil. Was I upset because I didn't have a parking spot? Yes. However, what was really eating me was that I knew none of those cars would be ticketed, no matter how illegally parked they were or how long they were there.

"Wait," you say. "I never get away with parking illegally anywhere on campus on a Saturday or even at 7 a.m. on a weekday.

Me neither. It's because you and I are students at the UI. We pay thousands of dollars to attend this proud institution each semester. On the other hand, if you or I were simply football fans, if we paid a couple hundred bucks per year for season tickets, if our only affiliation with the school was rooting for Hayden Fry and the boys, then we could park anywhere we liked and never think twice about getting

I realize that this policy of not writing tickets on game day is simply a gesture of goodwill to the community. It is insurance that fans will keep showing up at home football games. I know all of that. In fact, I support the policy. I also happen to think it is a gross miscarriage of justice. I've been attending the UI for six years and I've probably paid $500 in parking tickets to those vampires - I mean, public servants - who live in the Union parking ramp. I know it's just their job. I admit I deserved each ticket I got because I knew the policy and I paid them all without complaint. I just want a little satisfaction. I want & someone to tell me that because I'm a student at their UI means the UI may actually care just a tiny bit

I have two solutions to this problem. The first is to [17] start writing tickets every game day as if it were any other Saturday of the year. Most lowa fans are so hard-core that they wouldn't let a $10 ticket stop them from attending games. The second idea is to just stop writing tickets on weekends

I think it is time that whoever is in charge of making such decisions, as to when to ticket illegally parked cars and when not to, takes a good look at this policy. It is time for the UI to get a conscience about how it treats its students.

Campaign's goals misrepresented To the Editor:

The Campaign for Academic Freedom welcomes and encourages debate on positions that our group actually takes. However, two recent Daily Iowan Viewpoints Pages pieces have grossly misrepresented our group and its goals.

In her May 9 editorial titled "House deserves gratitude," Jacqueline Smetak wrote "(I)n the scenario these student activists (in CAF) have written for themselves everyone else lacks the courage to stand up to bigotry." She was apparently referring to a letter from campaign member Jean Fallow which appeared in the DI last week. The letter criticized state legislators who avoided a roll call vote on a piece of homophobic legislation because they did not want to go on record as opposing an anti-gay measure. This is far from saying that "everyone else" except CAF lacks courage; it was a concrete criticism directed at specific legislators over a particular incident. It would be foolish to make the holierthan-thou statement Smetak falsely attributes to CAF, as such an attitude would only alienate our potential supporters.

In addition, in his April 17 column, "Groups guilty of a hypocritical double standard," Duane Nollen called the campaign "a bunch of blathering Marxists." In fact, CAF is not a Marxist organization at all. We welcome anyone who agrees with our basic points of unity, which state that we oppose homophobia, support academic freedom and oppose the classroom materials policy. Among the 3,000 people who have signed our petitions and the hundreds who regularly come out to our rallies, there are certainly some Marxists, but there are also people of many other political persuasions. The policy's homophobic and intrusive nature is abhorrent to people from across the political spectrum.

I urge DI writers to stick to the facts when discussing the campaign and the policy instead of resorting to frivolous redbaiting and misstating our positions. The real issues involved provide more than enough meat for a healthy

Education not the most important factor

To the Editor:

The UI, which supposedly has a primary responsibility of the education of lowans, has implemented a disturbing graduate admission policy. Discriminating wantonly against those students who have attained their undergraduate degrees at the UI and masquerading as means of diversity, this policy fails to consider the UI's responsibility to those students who are lifetime residents and taxpayers of lowa. These students, whose means may be limited and thus restricted to institutions of higher learning that are subsidized by the state, are roughly ignored and refused an opportunity to receive a postgraduate education.

In a recent meeting, which was headed by English Professor Miriam Gilbert and concerned itself with admission to the UI's graduate program in English, students were informed that between any two candidates for admission — both having equal academic credentials - the one Lawrence Sohner | who attained an undergraduate degree Campaign for Academic Freedom at the UI was not chosen. This unethical policy, which discriminates against residents of lowa who have had to use public education, betrays the very individuals that state universities are financed to educate.

When professors claim to pursue an 0 intangible advantage by artificially encouraging diversity, they behave paradoxically, devaluing in a sense their own work and rejecting the very students they have just trained. These administrators - most of whom are not from lowa and thus have little allegiance to the state — who perpetuate and promote such and unjust policy encourage their undergraduates to apply to out-of-state graduate schools, forgetting that the UI's primary responsibility is to educate the residents of lowa. They are seemingly unconcerned about the loss of taxes, the loss of revenue and, most importantly, the possible loss of lowa's best minds.

DEERFIELD, Ill. - Michael Jordan simply wanted to prove he was still No. 23, the greatest basketball player on the planet, and didn't care that he had to break NBA rules to do it.

Or he was superstitious. Or he was playing mind games with the Orlando Magic. Or he was playing money games with the adoring masses who had been buying new No. 45 Chicago Bulls jerseys by the millions. Or he wanted to wear a number that had been retired into the United Center rafters.

"He just told me he feels more comfortable in it, and anything that Michael feels comfortable with is fine with me," Bulls vice president Jerry Krause said Thursday, the day after the world's

The Hawkeyes currently stand in a tie for seventh in the Big Ten, but they are just one game out of third place. Only the top four teams advance to the conference tournament.

Iowa needs to catch Northwestern (12-12, vs. Minnesota this weekend), Purdue (12-12, vs. Indiana), Illinois (12-12, at Michigan State) and Penn State (11-11).

Purdue, Illinois and Northwestern have each taken three of four games from Iowa while playing at home. Ideally, Banks would like to host this upcoming series, but under the circumstances, he realizes his team isn't exactly in a spot to be picky.

Just when they thought finals week was finally over, members of the Iowa softball team are gearing up for one more test.

With a spot in the Midwest Regional already wrapped up, it might be understandable if the Iowa men's golf team took it easy this weekend. Don't count on it.

The Hawkeyes travel to Madison, Wisc. to compete in the Big Ten Championship. The four-round competition begins today and runs through Sunday. Iowa clinched a berth in regional competition with its fifth-place finish at last weekend's Bruce Fossum tournament. The Hawkeyes are the No. 5 seed in the district. Senior tri-captain Sean

Pacers outlast Knicks in overtime

Wendy E. Lane Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS - A long night of banging and bumping and falling and pushing ended with Indiana putting the chokehold on the New York Knicks.

The Pacers held New York to two points in the first 41/2 minutes of overtime to win 97-95 Thursday night, taking a 2-1 lead in the bestof-7 series and dealing the Knicks their first loss in Market Square Arena this season.

Games between the Knicks and Pacers are rarely pretty, and Game 3 of their Eastern Conference semifinal was no exception. The defensive battle intensified in the fourth quarter, and Indiana got the best of it, coming back from an 11point deficit to force overtime.

"We could not make the plays," New York coach Pat Riley said. "They took it from us."

The Knicks' cold shooting got worse, and the Pacers scored six straight points capped by Reggie Miller's soaring jam from the middle of the lane with 41.8 seconds to

Derek Harper, who scored all seven of his team's points in overtime, pulled the Knicks within one on an overhead layup and 3-pointer, but he missed an 18-foot jumper with fewer than three seconds

"I felt if we kept our poise we could win the game," Harper said.

The Pacers did their part to throw the game away while leading 96-90 with less than a minute to go. They bungled two inbounds plays and failed to control a

The last misplay gave New York a final chance with 1.8 seconds left, But Charles Oakley tossed up a long airball, and the Pacers had escaped. Game 4 is Saturday in Indianapolis.

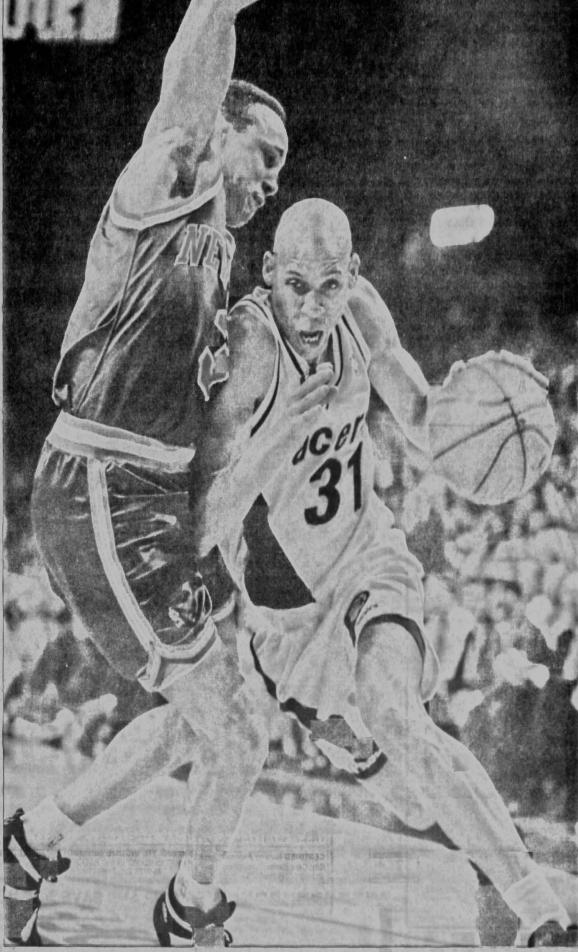

Afoning for a 10-point effort in Game 2, Miller led the Pacers with 26 points and Rik Smits added 21.

John Starks hit seven 3-pointers, one shy of the NBA record, for 23 points and Oakley also had 23 for New York.

-Smits had 19 points in the second half after playing just eight foul trouble.

His opposite number in the paint, Patrick Ewing, had his problems, too. His sore calves limited his mobility and seemed to affect his shooting as he finished with just 11 points and fouled out in the fourth quarter.

*We feel like we should be ahead three zip," Riley said. "But we're not. You have to finish games.

issue to become a distraction, said the Bulls have been told the league will not approve a number change for Jordan this season.

If the team continues to permit "Michael said he was him to appear in a number other thăn 45, in violation of league policyp the matter will be dealt with in an appropriate manner at the con-"clusion of the season," he said.

The best-of-7 series, tied at a game apiece, has been overshadowed by a piece of clothing and the man who wears it.

The Bulls fielded several calls Thursday from irate parents, who had put up big money to buy No. 45 items for kids who adored their

Michael went to Mrs. Jones and said, 'Go buy my jersey."

Said Bulls forward Scottie Pippen: "Tell 'em to reach deep and get

Phil Jackson, Bulls coach

Jordan reached the point where it was time to get 23 after he scored only 19 points on 8-for-22 shooting in Game 1. Wednesday, in his new "old" number, he was 17-

"I've been carrying a 23 jersey ever since he came out of retirement two months ago," Bulls equipment manager John Ligmanowski said. "I talked to him from time to time about whether he wanted to go back to it. After Sunday's game, we talked again. And before (Wednesday's) game, I said, 'Are we going to make the change?' He smiled, nodded and said, 'Yeah." After Game 1, Orlando guard Nick Anderson had said that "number 45 doesn't explode like number 23 used to."

"It was a response-type thing," said Bulls coach Phil Jackson, who wasn't aware Jordan was going to change numbers until just before the game. "There were some comments about he's not the same old 23. I think that was his response: 'OK, now check this out."

But Magic coach Brian Hill downplayed the switch.

"The number on the shirt doesn't mean anything," he said. "It's the basketball player inside the shirt that matters.'

He has a point. Jordan was wearing No. 23 in Wednesday's first half, when he went 6-of-17 from the floor and 3-of-8 from the free-throw line. And Jordan was wearing No. 45 on March 28 when he lit up the Knicks for 55 points.

When he came out of retirement, Jordan said he wouldn't wear 23 because that was his last basketball number before his father, James, was murdered in 1993. So he chose 45, which he wore during his mediocre stint as a minor league baseball player last year.

'Michael said he was hitting .202 with number 45 on his back in baseball and I said he was shooting about the same percentage, too, Jackson said. "It was about time he switched to 23."

SCHEDULE SHOULD PLEASE FILMGOERS

Bijou boasts a new movie lineup sure to turn up the summer's heat

Ian Corwin The Daily Iowan

The Bijou Theatre's co-directors, Sally Shafto and Josh Golin, have assembled an impressively diverse and well-textured lineup of films to help Iowa Citians pass the lazy days of summer semester.

"The goal is to get as many people in the door as possible," Shafto said. "We have something for everyone."

The summer schedule includes a broad spectrum of samplings, from documentaries to foreign films and new American releases. All of the films share the trait of being hard to find, and many of them are being shown in Iowa for the first time.

Among a semester full of highlights, several films stand out. "A Great Day in Harlem," Jean Bach's documentary inspired by a July 19-23. Nominated for an Acadmemory which chronicles the making of the photograph as well as the legendary talents - Dizzy Gillespie, Thelonius Monk and Charles Mingus among them - who took part. Shafto said women's films and gay and lesbian works will also play a key role in the Bijou's diverse

Six of the 32 films being shown during the summer semester are directed by women. Dorothy Arzn-er's 1936 film, "Craig's Wife," repredirected by a woman in the United States. "Bhaji on the Beach," a sort of Anglo-Indian "Joy Luck Club" released in 1994, is said to be the nan's critically acclaimed comedy first film directed by an Asian woman living in Britain. Chantal ..." will open the summer session Akerman's "Night and Day" and June 14-18, and Roman Polanski's Clara Law's "Temptation of a Monk" 1994 adaptation of Ariel Dorfman's fill out the list of women's contribu-

Edgar Bravo's "I'll Love You Forever, Tonight," which will be to draw audiences backed by rave to be directed by a gay Latino in the United States. The double feature of "Darker Side of Black" and "Fast Trip, Long Drop," running June 21-25, will also represent an important event in the gay film community.

famous 1958 photograph of 57 jazz foreign films, although heavily Max Ophuls' epic documentary on musicians posing outside of a weighted with entries from France, Harlem brownstone, will be shown is impressive because of its high ratio of recent releases. Of the 32 emy Award for best documentary films being screened, more than half this year, the film is an essay on of them were released after 1991 and many have never been seen in

> The 1994 film "Café au Lait," running July 12-13, is a comedy about a Alec Guinness. young black woman who becomes pregnant and must choose between her working-class Jewish lover and an African-descended family man to find the father of the child. The summer session closes out with French director Jean Renoir's 1938

The semester will not be without sents one of the first films to be its sure-fire box-office hits either. Quentin "Pulp Fiction" Tarentino's first film "Reservoir Dogs" will run June 30 through July 3. Tom Nooabout dating, "What Happened Was political thriller "Death and the Maiden," starring Sigourney Weaver and Ben Kingsley, promises screened July 28-31, is the first film reviews and Polanski's reputation

Other highlights of the Bijou's summer schedule include:

"Plan Nine from Outer Space," director Ed Wood Jr.'s 1959 magnum opus, considered by many to be Shafto said the Bijou's selection of the worst American film ever made; the French resistance during World War II, "The Sorrow and the Pity"; "The Conformist," Bernardo Bertolucci's 1971 masterpiece of political intrigue in fascist Italy; and "Murder by Death," Robert Moore's 1976 slapstick comedy starring Peter Sellers, Peter Falk and

The Bijou will release its newly designed summer calendar by June 10. It will be available at the Union Box Office; Prairie Lights Books, 15 S. Dubuque St.; and The Great Midwestern Ice Cream Co., 126 E.

I went over to Tony's place today.

Jim's Journal

He was trying to swat a fly. and said he'd been stalking it for 10 minutes

Finally it landed

He swatted it as hard as he could, and said, once again, man conquers beast!
