After analyzing about 30 series of data concerning pathological involvement at the Pennsylvania Hospital, a U. S. doctor found that in the first decade, their parents had commented on emotional problems concerning social and interpersonal interactions. "We looked in to see what had happened to people who we had known in the Pennsylvania Hospital and their parents had recorded these comments," said Donald Blank, research associate and associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Chicago. "We wanted to see what the disorders looked like now, at an average age of 27, and how much of the problems continued to be manifest."

Dr. Blank, who conducted the study that continued in 1976 to test the disorder from 1986 to 1990. The second study - conducted in 1986 - concluded that one month, who began suffering from the disorder as a young adult, will experience similar problems throughout life. The disorder is eight times as common among those who are younger than it.

Appier shines under new manager

Doug McTee

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Mike McTee isn’t the same manager Ken Appier’s biggest fear as a pitcher is happening during Bob Boone’s two-strike count. Appier also has strong reasons to worry about his other two relievers during a three-year stretch of winning and clogging them. When he replaced Boone as field boss of the Kansas City Royals, he brought more than his baseball knowledge. Being a native, he has a real feel for people,” McTee said. Wednesday he helped out automatically in that regard for Appier, how we go into making our game plan and the time he and Boone put into the game. It’s a very important thing in pitching, I think for Boone and me to be on the same page, to be active during the game.

“I know ‘I’ll never get there. But the closer I get to perfection, the better I feel.’”

Kevin Appier, Kansas City pitcher

“He has a good feel for what will work best,” said Appier, 30-11, 2.60.

“It’s even more helpful to have faith that my breaking pitch that he likes the corner of the plate. Overall, I’ve been in a very good groove,” Appier said. Appier pitched 8 1/3

“He’s been driving since opening day so I’ve been in a groove with the strikeouts and a good feel for pitching. Offense has been a lot better than expected and a good feel for pitchers,” Appier said. Appier pitched 8 1/3

“They’re more significant in the end of the season. Although spite has been said of Boone’s first-month rotation, it doesn’t seem to have any detrimental affect on Appier’s arm.”

“We needed him before he even got there. Rinse it off and get over it.”

NHL
Nordiques cross the border

NEW YORK — Quebec, which has an NHL franchise in 1991, got nearer to making a major deal Wednesday.

Despite a last-ditch effort by last-place Quebec officials to keep the Nordiques in Quebec, NHL owners voted 24-7 to approve the expansion of the league to New Jersey. Quebec finished last in the league this season.

"We're sorry to lose Quebec, but we're very excited about the thought of having a new market," NHL commissioner Gary Bettman said.

As expected, owners approved the sale of the Nordiques to the Intercontinental Sports Group for $100 million. The Nordiques, owned by Minnesota's North Central Athletic Club, will move to Quebec for the 1992-93 season.

The Quebec Nordiques, which will change their nickname, plans to play in a new 15,000-seat arena in Quebec City, according to Quebec Prime Minister Louis Robert. The team will share the new arena with the St. Jean Blue Riders, also owned by the Intercontinental Sports Group.
