Iowa's dog days of summer

Workers swelter for summer cash

Patricia Harris

The Daily Iowan

Remember, two kinds of summer jobs exist: the sunny, fun ones—like babysitting or looking after the cousins—or the other type, the kind that's hot. I didn't mention that last one. I didn't want to sound too depressing.

Most people whose jobs fall into the second category are happy to get a job, but not everyone.

Hundreds of people probably walk into Joe Pagarty every day. The UI eater is walking outside the Madison Street entrance of the college, picking up oil—and very large—mint candy.

Condom Man: At a university near you

Safe-sex ‘superhero’ protects Georgia students

Gainesville, Ga. — A movement to have a "natural" Condom Man, or a natural condom, to hand out to students is in progress by the Student Government Association of the University of Georgia. This local version of Condom Man will be the third to be established in the Southeast, following the success of other versions in Athens and Gainesville.

The Gainesville movement is being spearheaded by the student group, "AIDS Awareness Works," which has been working with the Student Government Association to develop a campaign to protect students from AIDS.

Northwestern raises price of student sports tickets

For the first time in the history of Northwestern University, students will have to pay for student sports tickets. The move was announced by the Athletics Director, Gary Edinger, who said that the cost of tickets would be raised to $5 for the first time since 1984.

"We look at this as an opportunity for students to contribute to the cost of the facility," Edinger said.

"We believe that by raising the price of student tickets, we will be doing our part to ensure the long-term success of Northwestern sports programs."

"We also believe that this will be a fair and equitable way to share the cost of the facility with all students," Edinger added.

In addition to the price increase, the school is also making changes to the stadium seating. The new seating will be more comfortable and will provide better views of the field.

"We have been working on this project for several months, and we are excited to see it come to fruition," Edinger said.

"We hope that students will be pleased with the new seating and will enjoy watching our teams play in the new facility."

Major steps down as right-wing head

John Major
British Prime Minister

The Scotsman newspaper reports that John Major, the British Prime Minister, has decided to step down as leader of the Conservative Party. This decision, which comes after a series of policy setbacks and calls for his resignation, has been widely anticipated in recent months. The move is expected to set the stage for a leadership contest within the party, with several potential candidates emerging.

The resignation of Major, who has led the Conservatives since 1990, will have significant implications for British politics. He is a seasoned politician with a long history in Parliament, having served as an MP since 1979.

Yeltsin sets terms to dismiss parliament

Yeltsin

Yeltsin, the Russian President, has set terms for the dismissal of the Russian parliament, the State Duma. He has called on the Duma to dissolve itself by the end of the week, otherwise he will dissolve it himself. This move comes as Russia faces economic difficulties and political instability, with the Duma's failure to pass a budget.

The Duma has been deadlocked, with opposition parties blocking a budget agreement. Yeltsin's decision to act unilaterally is likely to provoke further tensions in the country.
