Fraud costs UI $500,000

Iowa state universities lose nearly $1 million in investment scandal

Tina Munch
The Daily Iowan

Fraudulent transactions by a former security dean at the University of Northern Iowa have cost the university almost $1 million in university investments.

The Common Fund, a non-profit organization run by 1,400 U.S. colleges and universities, including the UI, returned $5 million to the universities under a settlement with the former security dean.

The former security dean, who had been fired in 2000, had been accused of misusing funds to pay for investments.

The U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of Iowa said that the former security dean had misused funds to pay for investments.

We're uncertain how much money was lost, or what will happen to the funds.

Doug True, UI vice president and treasurer for Finance and University Services, said it was not clear how much money was lost or what will happen to the funds.

BEIJING, July 4 - China's first man-made earth station, which uses a main satellite to beam signals to the country's first live broadcast of test signals, began its work today.

"It's as if we were a dream, but we didn't really live it, it happened so fast.... But what a great time; what a great effort," said China's first manned space station in 1992.

"I'm not in any danger of unl-"ing on my ship," Dr. John said, smiling after a tire was inflated in the space shuttle's main deck.

While other nations are looking to attract tourists and boost their economies, China has been focused on space exploration and national pride.

"Our government will continue to support our space program," said Prime Minister Zhu Rongji.

"We have made great progress in our space program," he added, "and we will continue to make progress."

LONDON — Pulling off the upset of the century, Prime Minister John Major defeated the right-wing challenger, Michael Heseltine, in a secret ballot among the 192 legislative members of the Conservative Party on Wednesday.

Johnny Shepherd, a pro-European Conservative, said Major would probably lead the Conservatives into national elections, which must be held by April 1998.

"The vote is over, and the battle is over," he said.

Missing player had simply gone fishing

Paul Madden

Associated Press

LONDON — Missing tennis player Murphy Jensen was able to relax Tuesday after seeing his anxious family and friends hang up their towels, washers and noosed lanyards.

This 26-year-old American player was discovered Tuesday afternoon at the 60th annual Open in a small pond on the small course.

The scene was one of the most unusual in tennis history.

Jensen was discovered by a nearby fisherman who had been watching the game.

"I thought it was a joke at first," said the angler, a regular at the Open. "But when I saw the racket and the ball, I knew it was Jensen."

Jensen, who had been in England since February, had been reported missing by authorities.

"We were starting to get worried," said his mother, "but now we can breathe easier."
