Can you say ‘hypothesis’? The Cabo debacle

"Hey, hey All Pets Veterinary Clinic. How many visits did you do today?"

Just when the fight for your Cabo from the 2008 Academy Awards’ Best Picture nominee, The Curious Case of Benjamin Button, was thought to be over, another one erupted. It involved a two-year-old girl named Alice, a cat named Cabo, and a trial that ended on Monday. It began with the question: Did Cabo bite Alice? If Cabo did bite Alice, then he would be guilty of animal abuse. And if he was guilty of animal abuse, then he would be held in jail. And if he were held in jail, then he would be a worse person than any other person we have ever seen.

Linbough decorator claims expenses taxes to dismissal

NEW YORK AP — Rush Linbough’s former decorator has been found guilty of filing false tax returns, an action that will make him liable to pay back what he didn’t pay and avoid facing sentencing.

A jury in Manhattan federal court on Monday found 22-year-old Linbough, 26, guilty on two counts of filing false tax returns.

Based in the Brooklyn borough of New York City, Linbough started his business in 1994 and had been diagnosed with autism as a child.

But when he left the Autism Society for a position at the Center for Disability Services in Rochester, New York, Linbough said he was able to find a new sense of purpose.

"That’s when I realized that I needed to go back and start my own business," he said.

Linbough said he was able to find a job at a local brewery and was able to start a new life.

He added, "I think being diagnosed with autism has taught me to be more resilient."
Buchanan touts estate taxes plan

Mike Gravin
Associated Press

DES MOINES - Republican presidential candidate Phil Buchanan has pushed his plan for a $75 billion estate tax increase into iowa. The plan would also create $4 billion in new revenue from the sales tax and provide $12 billion in windfall gains for retirees.

"It's the right choice," Buchanan said in a speech in Cedar Rapids. "We've got the right problem and the right solution."

Buchanan, who has been lower key in recent campaign appearances, has been dogged by charges from Democrats that he is trying to create a "negative image" for President Clinton.

In an interview, Buchanan said he would benefit from a "negative image." His campaign manager, Mike Gravin, said the Republican candidate was not
"dogged by charges but by a lack of a negative view of him."

was the question of whether the victim had anything to say, which was a remaining "yes" from most polls.

"It says something weird about our society," said a veteran Mississippi lawyer.

In the end, none of these polls mentioned that answering superficial questions was contributing to the harm of others.

Among responses to reader's was the following, quoting a President George Bush's one-line "You're welcome" but not to everyone. U.S. senator Pat Grassley said the apology issued would have been more appropriate had it been "I'm sorry for that remark, the way I expressed it, the way I have to express it, the way I have to do it.

"I don't have to be a fool, but I have to be a fool," said a man who did not want to be quoted.

Judge declares Smith able to undergo trial

Jurors cleared Susan Smith of murder charges in the deaths of her two young sons. The jury deliberated two days before returning its decision. The trial began in January and proceeded through May.

Susan Smith, 23, had been charged with murder in the deaths of her two sons, 2-year-old Richard Allen Davis and 3-year-old Tommy Davis, whose bodies were found on Sept. 17, 1994. Smith, who said she was driven to kill the boys by their crying, was arrested near their Bodies, in the parking lot of a shopping center. A judge granted her bail, and she was released to the care of her parents.

A trial date had been set for early June, but defense lawyers asked for a delay, citing the need to investigate Smith's mental condition. The defense argued that Smith was suffering from a severe mental illness and that she was not competent to stand trial.

On the first day of the trial, jurors were shown photographs of the boys and were told that Smith had been charged with the murders.

Smith was ordered to undergo a psychological examination to determine her competency to stand trial. The examination was conducted by Dr. Donald Morgan, a forensic psychiatrist. Morgan testified that Smith was suffering from a severe mental illness and that she was not competent to stand trial.

The trial was scheduled to resume on June 22, with opening statements by defense lawyers. The prosecution is expected to begin its case on June 25.

If Smith is found not guilty by reason of insanity, she could be committed to a state mental hospital for treatment. If she is found guilty, she could be sentenced to life in prison without parole.

The trial is expected to last several weeks.
BRIDGE TO DANGER

Route poses problems

People are always looking for a shortcut. Whether he is a quick way to make money or a short cut to a nearby city, people often desire the path in almost any situation. However, the fastest route isn't always the most important one to consider when the quickest route might lead to danger.

This is true of the Peoria bridge, located near Iowa City. The Peoria bridge is a pedestrian bridge over the river that is used by many young people as a shortcut. However, the bridge is not the safest path to take. There are many dangers associated with walking on the bridge.

For one, the Peoria bridge is located near a train track. The train track is used by many different kinds of trains, including freight trains. These trains can be loud and dangerous, and people who are crossing the bridge may not hear them coming.

Another danger associated with the Peoria bridge is the possibility of accidents. The bridge is narrow, and people may not be able to walk on it safely. This can lead to accidents, which can be very serious.

People who walk on the Peoria bridge also put themselves at risk of falling into the river. The river is deep and cold, and people who fall into it may not be able to save themselves.

In conclusion, the Peoria bridge is a dangerous place for people to walk. It is important to consider the risks associated with walking on the bridge before deciding to do so. There are safer and more sensible ways to reach your destination, and people should use these routes instead.

Stringer: Make a decision or pack your basketballs

The University of Iowa women's basketball team has been in transition for several years. The team has struggled to find consistent success and has been on the verge of being eliminated multiple times.

This season, the team is in the middle of another transition period. The team is under new coaching and has a new roster of players. The team is also trying to adjust to the new style of play that is being implemented by the new coaching staff.

Despite the challenges, the team has shown improvement in recent games. The team has won three of its last four games, including a win over a ranked opponent. The team is currently in fourth place in the Big Ten Conference.

The team is also in the process of making some decisions about its future. The team is considering whether to continue playing or to terminate the program. The team is also considering whether to play in the Big Ten Conference or to join a different conference.

In conclusion, the team is in a period of transition and is making some difficult decisions. The team needs to decide whether to continue playing or to terminate the program and whether to play in the Big Ten Conference or to join a different conference.

Witnesses heard, saw no evil at condo defense's view, the condo killing was part of a "shotgun tetralogy" of about a dozen killings in Los Angeles, including the one of Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ron Goldman.

The condo killinghappened around 10:02 p.m. Thursday, right next door to where Simpson and Goldman lived.

The apartment building had a marquee over the door, and it was a few blocks away from the condo where O.J. Simpson lived.

Simpson's family said they were not surprised by the death of their friend Ron Goldman, who was killed in the same building.

But Aaronson, who was the condo murder suspect, was not in the building at the time of the shooting.

- Hard approaches move of Raiders back to Oakland

- OAKLAND CA (AP) — The team of the Raiders from Los Angeles rights to Oakland moved a step closer today when the Alameda County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously to approve the deal.

- The Oakland City Council was expected to take up the matter on Monday and NFL owners were to vote on the deal Friday in Chicago. Though Raiders owner Al Davis has said his team is in no hurry, the deal would have to be approved by the NFL owners to go forward.

- The board of supervisors voted 5-0 to approve the deal and issue a request for proposals to the Oakland Coliseum.

- An executive summary prepared by city and county officials states the return of the Raiders free a cost to the region of about $1.2 million, a slight net positive and create about $5.0 million in total real and personal property tax in the Oakland area.

"We are so excited about our upcoming trip to the World Series," said Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, who are planning to attend the game. "We've been fans of the team for many years and can't wait to experience the excitement firsthand.

"We've heard a lot about the atmosphere at Wrigley Field, and we know it will be a memorable experience. We've been saving for this moment for a long time, and we can't wait to finally make it happen.

"We're planning to arrive early and explore the stadium before the game starts. We'll be cheering on our team with all our might, and we're sure to have a great time."

Sports

Iowa City, Iowa - Disney's "Finding Nemo" was the hot ticket in town this weekend, with sold-out showtimes and long lines forming outside the theaters.

"I've been wanting to see this movie for weeks," said a young boy in line at the Cinema 10. "It's been so hyped up, and I can't wait to see what all the fuss is about.

"I heard it's a great family movie with lots of laughs. I think it's going to be a real treat for the whole family."
