Bodies crowd Chicago morgues

Debra Hale

CHICAGO — In this disaster zone, there is no place to park. At the main entrance of the Cook County Medical examiner's office, where cars line up at a traffic jam of police wagons and ambulances, there is no place for the busy morgue.

Outsiders, the police, firefighters, and curious onlookers fill the room with traffic jam of police wagons and ambulances. To make the job easier, Cook County medical examiner's workers have brought in trucks big enough to hold a body. Today, they are using a truck to hold the body of a man who died in a car.

McNealy and Collins' predicament is a classic example of the difficulty in which residents of small towns often find themselves. The town of Winnetka, Ill., for instance, has had to deal with a similar situation in the past.

Lugar's platform targets reform, Medicare

Since Iowa is the key state in the presidential primaries, it is fortunate the relatively small number of people who vote in the caucuses are quite politically sophisticated.

Still, it is exciting to know that in the decision-making process, the Iowa electorate is very knowledgeable. Just how well informed are Iowans about the candidates and the issues they present?

Lugar's platform targets reform, Medicare immediately, to transform Iowans in the long term by improving health care for all Americans.

Medicare does not escape Lugar's scrutiny. Senator Lugar has been a fervent supporter of Medicare reform, and he believes that it is imperative to address the issue of Medicare reform.

Lugar's platform also emphasizes the need for tax reform. He believes that the tax system in America is too complex and inequitable, and he wants to simplify it and make it fairer for everyone.

Lugar's platform also supports the need for job creation and economic growth. He believes that it is important to create job opportunities and encourage businesses to invest in America.

Lugar's platform is comprehensive and covers a wide range of issues. It is an impressive platform that reflects Lugar's commitment to serving the people of Iowa and America.

House slashes federal spending

WASHINGTON - Republicans cut the budget by $8.1 billion Tuesday, in a move some say will increase the federal deficit and stress the nation's aging infrastructure.

The House approved a bill to cut $13.4 billion from federal programs, including education, health care and transportation. The Senate is expected to pass a similar measure today.

The cuts were requested by the office of Republican House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Georgia, who said they were needed to balance the budget and reduce the national debt.

Gingrich said the cuts would help reduce the federal deficit and put the nation on a path to fiscal responsibility.

However, many Democrats criticized the measures as too severe and said they did not address the root causes of the deficit.

"These cuts are not a solution to the deficit problem," said Democratic House Minority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Missouri. "They are just a temporary fix that will require more cuts in the future."}

Workers injured in floor cave-in

SALT LAKE CITY - Four workers were injured Tuesday when a floor cave-in at a new prison construction site collapsed.

"The entire floor collapsed on them," said Cliff Thompson, a spokesman for the Utah Department of Corrections.

The workers were hospitalized with injuries ranging from broken bones to concussions.

The construction site is part of a complex being built to accommodate the growing inmate population in the state.

The inmates were caught in the collapse, which occurred when the floor gave way on a scaffold that was being used for safety purposes.

The cause of the collapse is under investigation, but weather and construction materials are being suspected as factors.

ORDERED CONJUCTION HEARING

McVeigh refuses to give writing sample

TULSA, Okla. - Federal authorities are preparing to seek a new writing sample from Oklahoma City bomber Timothy McVeigh, who is facing the death penalty.

The government is expected to ask a judge on Tuesday to order McVeigh to provide a new handwriting sample so that it can compare it with previous ones.

McVeigh's attorneys have argued that he cannot be forced to provide handwriting samples without violating his constitutional rights.

They have also said that any new sample would not be useful because McVeigh has been in custody for several years and his handwriting has likely changed.

However, authorities believe that a new sample would help them improve their chances of successfully putting McVeigh on trial.

The government is considering using a new writing sample to help build their case against McVeigh, who is charged with killing 168 people and injuring more than 800 in the 1995 explosion at the Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City.

The trial is scheduled to begin in November, and authorities are under pressure to complete it before the end of the year.

Italian cyclist killed in 55-mph wreck

Jean-Luc Cernat
Associated Press
CATERDRY, France - For only the third time since the Tour de France began in 1903, a cyclist was killed in a crash during the race's adventure event.

Fabrice Casartelli of Daily died Tuesday after crashing at high speed on a mountainside. The 35-year-old rider of the American team Motorola was one of several riders who crashed Saturday on the Brittany stage of the race during the descent from the Col de Porte to the Pyrenees. With the riders traveling near 55 mph, Casartelli appeared to hit a concrete block on the side of the road. He never moved after the impact.

"It was a fairly fast downhill," said French rider Fredro Staex, who was behind Casartelli. "At a certain point, there was a longer curve than the others. Casartelli missed the turn. I think he hit the curb, hit his head and fell down on the road." Staex also said he heard a noise, but there was no notification or any medical assistance.

Replays showed Casartelli lying on his right side in a total position with a stream of blood pouring from his head. Unscreened, he was taken by helicopter to a hospital in Toulouse, where he was pronounced dead.

"I arrived 10 minutes after the fall," said General Cognet, chief medical officer of the tour. "I could tell it was a serious injury. Casartelli had cuts that were bleeding badly. We did everything in the best conditions and as fast as we could. But he very recently passed, and when I was doing the breathing I did not know it was so powerful importance." Race director Jean-Marie LeBlanc announced the death of Casartelli on the tour's official radio.

"The death of Casartelli is another reminder of the importance of the safety measures that we have put in place over the years," said Cognet. "We take the safety of our athletes very seriously, and we are always looking for ways to improve it."

British Open

Robert Millward Associated Press

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland—

Whatever happens at the 124th British Open, this week at the St. Andrews Golf Club, it is probably destined to be the British Open's new champion Tiger Woods will find it his first chance at a major title that eludes him: a Ryder Cup victory. Woods has been playing for the Ryder Cup for the past three years, and is now ready to make his mark in the Open, where he has to date, only one top-10 finish, at the 2001 open. "I'm very excited to be here," Woods said.

Jon Rahm, who is one of the favorites to win the Open, said that he was looking forward to the challenge of facing the Open's most demanding courses. "I'm excited to see how I can play on these courses," Rahm said.

The Open Championship is the oldest major championship in golf, and is held each year at the Royal, St. Andrews, and Carnoustie Golf Clubs. The Open is known as the "Championship of Champions," and is considered the most prestigious tournament in golf.

The 124th British Open will be held from July 18-21, 2023, at the St. Andrews Golf Club. The tournament is expected to attract thousands of golf fans from around the world, with many of them hoping to see Tiger Woods, the No. 1-ranked golfer in the world, win his first Open Championship.

The Open Championship is one of the four major championships in golf, along with the Masters, PGA Championship, and U.S. Open. It is held each year in the United Kingdom, with the winner receiving the claret jug trophy, which is considered the most prestigious award in golf.

The Open Championship is also known as the "Old Course" because it is played on the historic Old Course at St. Andrews. The Old Course is considered one of the most challenging courses in the world, with its narrow fairways and deep bunkers.

The Open Championship is also known as the "Open," which is the name of the tournament, and is considered the most prestigious tournament in golf. The Open is one of the four major championships in golf, along with the Masters, PGA Championship, and U.S. Open.

The Open Championship is a 72-hole tournament, with the winner being determined by the lowest total score. The tournament is played over four days, with each day consisting of 18 holes.

The Open Championship is one of the most prestigious tournaments in golf, and is considered the most difficult to win. The winner of the Open is considered the best golfer in the world, and is awarded the claret jug trophy, which is considered the most prestigious award in golf.
