A doughnut-launcher’s theory of evolution

Anybody want a doughnut? I am a lucky guy, because I didn’t die of malnutrition and because I didn’t have to build a doughnut-launching apparatus.

The incident in question had to do with two things: doughnuts and Darwin.

I was on my way to class and had just bought a doughnut. Having heard for a week about Darwin’s evolutionary laws, I was curious how this phenomenon related to what I had just read about in my Biology 101 textbook.

I decided to find out what was going to happen. I placed the doughnut in my hand, made a fist, and started walking. My intention was to see if the doughnut would stay there.

To get started, let’s look at a similar situation. Darwin was one lucky guy (because I didn’t die of malnutrition). Maybe it’s a species of doughnut that is too light or too large to be carried in a person’s hand.

However, natural laws are the best way to determine species.

Many members of a species may be carriers of a certain gene that makes them more adaptable to certain group members, especially during mating.

In this example, the hands of the students are a much better place for the doughnut than the hands of the faculty. Many students and teachers can all be carriers of this advantage. If you keep a doughnut in your hand, it will stay there.

As a part of this theory, I believe that students have a higher rate of reproductiveness than faculty. Students are more likely to carry the doughnut because they are more likely to carry a doughnut.

One problem in this situation was that my girlfriend was a student. She had an appointment last week,

For example, prefer eating at department store centers, such as the court we opened it. However, not the best species for carrying a doughnut.

Students usually handle doughnuts better than faculty. They have access to a certain gene that makes them more adaptable to certain group members, especially during mating.

The Daily Iowan published two letters to the editor Friday that sing the praises of President Clinton. Neal Collar, who wrote the first letter, feels President Clinton has made the move to negotiate over the use of force necessary to protect our national security. He believes the president is doing everything within his power to avoid war and keep the peace.

On the other hand, Mark Grossman, in his letter, feels President Clinton has not done enough to prevent the creation of a Palestinian state. He feels that the president is not following through with his promises, and he sees the president as being too soft on the Arab states.

The Daily Iowan encourages its readers to write letters to the editor expressing their opinions on the issues of the day. The Daily Iowan is a forum for the exchange of ideas and opinions, and it is important that all voices be heard. French fire brandishes mortar rounds, Serbs counter by artillery... commanding authority.

The French fired 40 mortar rounds on July 14, in what was described as a "pre-emptive attack," according to an official in Sarajevo. Still, the French government said it had not fired any rounds. The incident comes as French troops are due to begin operations in the region.

The French said the attack was in response to Serb shelling in the area. They said they were preparing to receive a mortar shell in return. The French said they were preparing to receive another mortar shell in return.

Chicago rescues recall heat tragedies

CHICAGO — After a scorching summer that included record-breaking temperatures, the city of Chicago is preparing to recall past heat tragedies.

"We need to remember that heat is a public health crisis," said Mayor Lori Lightfoot. "It can be deadly, and it affects everyone, especially those who are elderly, pregnant, or have chronic health conditions."

The city is holding a series of events to raise awareness about heat safety, including a heat index rally on Saturday and a heat safety seminar on Sunday.

"We want to make sure everyone knows about the dangers of heat and how to stay safe," said Lightfoot. "We need to be prepared for a heat wave this summer."

SEVENTH-STRAIGHT LOSS

Cubs take late lead, Myers blows it

Associated Press

CHICAGO (AP) — Randy Myers saved the day for the Chicago Cubs.

Myers got a rare start Thursday night, pitched seven straight scoreless innings Tuesday night, keeping the Cubs' star closer, Mark Grace, on the bench and giving manager Jim Riggleman an option for Wednesday night.

"Myers did what we needed him to do," Riggleman said. "His stuff was good. He pitched well and saved the game."
Phil weak was a sign that his time on the mound had ended. With tears in his eyes, Bevington and Garner explained why they helped set the stage for the feisty New York Life.

"I've seen a lot of players," said one veteran. "But I've never seen one like him. He's a rare breed.

Sox, Olympic Festival Swimming and Volleyball, Today 7 p.m.

"I'm not sure I can explain it. It's like a soldier, a man who never leaves the field. Even when he's injured, he never leaves the field. Even when he's down, he never gives up. Even when he's in pain, he never shows it."

Champion John Daly celebrates his birdie putt on the second hole of a four-hole playoff against Costas Romea at St. Andrews during the final round of the British Open Sunday.

Bowell blitzes New York Life

Ben Bannow

The Daily News

Bowel can slow down Ryan Bowell, who at 31 is the nation's top-ranked golfer, but not too much. Bowell, a former All-American, is the best golfer in the world, and he's not going to let anyone get close to him."

He also gave his players some advice on how to deal with the pressure of playing against the best. "Bowel always has been the best guy on the course," said one of his players. "He always has been the one to look up to."

Indurain rides to fifth title

Associated Press

PARIS — Miguel Indurain rode into history with his fifth straight victory in the Tour de France. Indurain rides into Paris in Sunday's 20th and final stage and onto the Champs Elysees on a sunny day that made the yellow jersey seem less than weightless.

The Finale Parisien takes three other riders who also have the Tour's five times, but Indurain is the first to win in a row."

"I didn't get to see my mother's death. But it was a big deal for me."

Bowel is a legend. He is the best golfer in the world. He is the one to look up to."

But it's not really that bad. You don't have to know anything about golf to enjoy the Open."

The senior golfers will find the Open a test of patience. It's a game of strategy and finesse, not power and force."

The tourney may be in its final days, but it's still an Open."

It's a game of strategy and finesse, not power and force."

Bowel always has been the best guy on the course," said one of his players. "He always has been the one to look up to."

"We knew they couldn't keep hitting all those drives and going for the greens," said Daly. "We knew they were going to make mistakes, and we were going to take advantage of it."

But sometimes I make the putts and sometimes I don't."

Those guys seem to be the top five on the country, monies Lists name, Thompson, Costantino Rocca, Mark Brooks, Steve Bottomley, Parisian Frank Rizzo."

But we never really got started in a big way."

"We had to deal with such a serious injury. I've been fighting it for a long time now."

If we could just win this last one, I'll get over it."

"I'll get over it."

"I felt great having a chance to enjoy the Open to the end. I'm extremely happy."
