Possible asbestos exposures

KIM SCHROEDER
The Daily Iowan

"Something went wrong," said a representative of one UI official when asked about asbestos removed from the University of Iowa's M. L. Chemical Plant in the fall of last year. "We're still trying to figure out what's going on."

The state's health department has ordered an investigation into the potential asbestos exposure. The university has already removed asbestos from several buildings, including Gilmore Hall, and is scheduled to begin a larger project in the fall.

DAVID WINDERMILLER
The Daily Iowan

Patricia Harris, UI provost, said the school has been working to ensure the safety of its students and employees since the asbestos was discovered. "We're doing everything we can to make sure our campus is safe," she said.

The university has hired an outside firm to conduct a comprehensive asbestos survey of all buildings on campus. The results of the survey will be used to determine which buildings need to be tested and which steps need to be taken to mitigate the risk.

The survey is expected to take several months to complete. Once the results are available, the university will implement a plan to address any asbestos hazards.

In the meantime, the university has taken several precautionary measures, including posting signs and warning students and employees to stay away from areas where asbestos is suspected to be present.

The university's asbestos management plan includes a hierarchy of controls, with the goal of eliminating asbestos exposure. The plan includes the use of protective equipment, training, and education.

The university has also developed a system to monitor asbestos levels in the air, which will allow them to respond quickly to any increases in asbestos levels.

The university's asbestos management plan is in line with national guidelines and regulations. The university is committed to protecting the health and safety of its students and employees, and will continue to monitor and address any asbestos issues that arise.

The university's asbestos management plan is a comprehensive approach that addresses the risks of asbestos exposure. The university is committed to taking all necessary precautions to ensure the safety of its community.
Illinois governor Courting Chicago's Illini football boosters

The governor of Illinois has courted the boosters of the University of Illinois' football team, according to a new report.

Using his inordinate voice power and his ability to connect with fans, the governor has been meeting with Illini fans to discuss football issues.

The governor has also been meeting with fans at the stadium before games, as well as at various Illini events.

The governor has been praised by fans for his efforts to build support for the Illini football program.

On Tuesday, the governor met with Illini football coach Lovie Smith, who has been under pressure to improve the team's performance.

"I was impressed with the governor's passion for Illini football," Smith said. "He's been a vocal supporter of the program, and I appreciate that."
George Crowley

The Lees said they subscribe to The Daily Iowan and listen to Iowa City's KXIC radio station.

"Every spring, summer and fall, we're either out in the garden or on the porch admiring it. Every year, people will come up to the house to admire it."

Gardner, Tom Lee

"Gardening is their recreation and if asked for information about plants, they must have read a lot of gardening literature."

"Not only are their fruit trees full of leaves and peaches, their mailboxes are full of greetings, invitations to mail orders and mail order catalogs."

"The Lee's yard has a raised bed, and we've been growing flowers and vegetables for about 10 years."

"We felt it was wrong when they changed the law. If people want to buy a beer in Iowa when I was 18, and I've always felt it was wrong, when they changed the law, it was against the law, and it's wrong."

"We don't try to be sneaky about it because underage drinking is wrong."

"If we could save one person's life, I'd be happy."

"I've always felt it was wrong, when they changed the law, it was against the law, and it's wrong."

"If we could just save one person's life, I'd be happy."

"If we could save one person's life, I'd be happy."
Friday, July 28 — 6 p.m. - 8 p.m.

Welcome to the University of Iowa School of Music

Opera presents

Mozart’s

The Marriage of Figaro

GIANT WEARABLE SALES SATURDAY, JULY 29 8 a.m. - 3 p.m.

SUNDAY, JULY 30 10 a.m. - 2 p.m.

Overruns, Misprints, Discontinued Colors

- ALL NEW ITEMS -

Ridiculously Low Prices

Graphic

Printings & Designs, Inc.

959 Maiden Lane - Iowa City

Penfield record.

The band has long been associated with the likes of R.E.M., the Pixies, and the Black Crowes. But the band’s sound is also influenced by the likes of Led Zeppelin, the Rolling Stones, and The Who. The band’s music is often characterized by its driving rhythms and melodies, and its lyrics often explore themes of love, loss, and social commentary. The band’s sound is often described as a mixture of rock, blues, and country, and their music has been described as “a modern-day renaissance of classic rock.”
RAGBRAI

Continued from Page 3: "It's a lot of fun," said the county's 600th finisher, Jimmy Smith, of Coralville, whose red-white-and-blue "Arlou." snapped under unbearable

pressures and a history of smoke since her confession, said a camera on the 12-member jury must mysteriously choose a death sentence or

Smith stood after appealed for mercy, describing her drowned the boys, and overcome by suicide of her father when she was 6, including the suicide of her aunt, Tomi Vaughan, of Coralville,

Coralville, said. "My father when she was 6,

Russell wrote. "My right mind she would never have failed you, Linda, God and the rest of my

"We're prepared for a lot of

we've had everything

to an acronym

"We're prepared for a lot of

we've had everything

for the kids."

"Obviously not all of it could be

searching for the youngsters on Alex.

The tape also brought on

"We're prepared for a lot of

we've had everything

to an acronym

"We're prepared for a lot of

we've had everything

for the kids."

"Obviously not all of it could be

searching for the youngsters on Alex.

The tape also brought on

"We're prepared for a lot of

we've had everything

for the kids."

"Obviously not all of it could be

searching for the youngsters on Alex.

The tape also brought on

"We're prepared for a lot of

we've had everything

for the kids."

"Obviously not all of it could be

searching for the youngsters on Alex.

The tape also brought on

"We're prepared for a lot of

we've had everything

for the kids."

"Obviously not all of it could be

searching for the youngsters on Alex.

The tape also brought on

"We're prepared for a lot of

we've had everything

for the kids."

"Obviously not all of it could be

searching for the youngsters on Alex.

The tape also brought on

"We're prepared for a lot of

we've had everything

for the kids."

"Obviously not all of it could be

searching for the youngsters on Alex.

The tape also brought on

"We're prepared for a lot of

we've had everything

for the kids."

"Obviously not all of it could be

searching for the youngsters on Alex.

The tape also brought on

"We're prepared for a lot of

we've had everything

for the kids."

"Obviously not all of it could be

searching for the youngsters on Alex.
Cruise for booze

Devin Alexander

The Daily Iowan

A RAGBRAI rolled into Simpson Thursday, en word on a motor home scrunched up the Pe

The riders arrived after a 76-mile ride from Texas /Tallahassee, greeted by crickets and the woe

The beautiful season-long bike tour, today, said Mike /Ritchie, a rider from Des Moines, as he stood in front of The Foothill pub. I promised myself I'd stop for a beer at the first stop I see that was my mission to fin

Even for an experienced rider, the night was filled with excitement, said Linda /Hedstrom, a 14-year veteran of the ride, said Thursday was challenging.

"It was a really long, really hard night. I didn't think I'd make it very far this year," said Hedstrom.

"The whole thing is great, you have to be careful with the headlight," he said.

Commuters to stop for food on their way to the right.

"I've been to Coralville before and I really enjoy it. The people are great and the food is amazing," said Hedstrom.

"I'm just one big party, it's a great time when the people are out and we can drink some beers," said Bill Weikel, of Naperville, Ill.

"It's just one big party, it's a great time where the people are out and we can drink some beers," said Bill Weikel, of Naperville, Ill.

The Daily Iowan

The first time we went, we were all 17 or 18, and that's pretty much what was on our minds," said Weikel, relaying the history of Team Spoon from Naperville, Ill.

"I'm not concerned, but I'm not sure if my house will have any music," said Weikel, laughing about the possibility of residents knocking on his door and asking for the bathroom.

"We're going to have a good time," said Weikel.

You said it!

DEBRA SAWERS / The Daily Iowan

Traffic expected

Police forces increased for park revelry

Shawn Cole

When thousands of bicyclists descended on Coralville Thursday, Iowa State Patrol officers were not the only law-enforcement agencies in the area.

"There will be a lot of people here, and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"We anticipating heavy traffic and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"There will be a lot of people here, and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"We anticipate heavy traffic and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"There will be a lot of people here, and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"We anticipate heavy traffic and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"There will be a lot of people here, and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"We anticipate heavy traffic and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"There will be a lot of people here, and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"We anticipate heavy traffic and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"There will be a lot of people here, and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"We anticipate heavy traffic and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"There will be a lot of people here, and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"We anticipate heavy traffic and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"There will be a lot of people here, and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"We anticipate heavy traffic and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"There will be a lot of people here, and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"We anticipate heavy traffic and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"There will be a lot of people here, and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"We anticipate heavy traffic and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"There will be a lot of people here, and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"We anticipate heavy traffic and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"There will be a lot of people here, and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"We anticipate heavy traffic and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"There will be a lot of people here, and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.

"We anticipate heavy traffic and we're going to have a lot of people coming in," said Coralville Police Capt. Dan LeClair.
Secret jet lands in Bihac field

Sandra I. Bronan

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - After making a stop in Korea, a small jet traveling from Beirut to Moscow was forced to land Wednesday in the former Yugoslavia after three heart attacks aboard the plane, according to a U.S. government official.

The Associated Press learned of the incident, which involved a passenger jet belonging to a Soviet carrier, from a person who said he had witnessed the event.

The jet, a Tupolev Tu-134A, had taken off from Moscow and was due to land at the Belgrade airport, located near the capital city.

The pilot received a Mayday call for assistance and was instructed by air traffic control to divert to a nearby military base in Kosovo, where he landed safely.

No passengers or crew members were injured in the incident, which occurred during the jet's descent.

In this case, the jet was identified as a Tupolev Tu-134A, which is a twin-engine, medium-range jet used by various airlines around the world."}

Senator endorses renewal of AIDS program

Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev., has endorsed a Senate measure that would extend the Ryan White CARE Act for five years.

Reid, who chairs the Senate Appropriations Committee, said he supports the bill because it provides needed funding for AIDS treatment and care programs.

"The Ryan White CARE Act has been a critical source of funding for people living with AIDS," Reid said in a statement. "AIDS treatment and care programs are vital to ensuring that people living with AIDS receive the care they need to live long and healthy lives."

The Ryan White CARE Act, originally enacted in 1990, provides funding for HIV/AIDS prevention, care, and support services.

The measure would also provide funding for HIV/AIDS research and prevention programs.

Reid's statement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.

Reid's endorsement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.

Reid's endorsement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.

Reid's endorsement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.

Reid's endorsement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.

Reid's endorsement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.

Reid's endorsement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.

Reid's endorsement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.

Reid's endorsement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.

Reid's endorsement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.

Reid's endorsement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.

Reid's endorsement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.

Reid's endorsement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.

Reid's endorsement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.

Reid's endorsement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.

Reid's endorsement comes as the Senate is expected to vote on the measure later this week.

The House of Representatives passed a similar measure last month.

If passed, the bill would extend the CARE Act for five years, from 2011 to 2016, and provide an additional $3.6 billion in funding.

The measure would also fund prevention programs, including needle exchange programs and other harm reduction services.
FRIDAY, JULY 28, 1995

SPORTS

ADVERTISER

San Francisco left fielder Barry Bonds began in vain to catch Cincinnati Red Barry Larkin's second home run of the game Thursday at Candlestick Park.

Blue Jays: Twins 2

VOLSKOV - Roberto Alomar singled and scored after Kenny Nomar had driven in the Blue Jays' first run. Toronto's Edgar Renteria homered as Toronto defeated Minnesota for the Blue Jays' sixth straight victory.

Baltimore: Texas 5

MIAMI - Derrek Lee's two-run home run in the first inning off Texas pitcher Brad Lidge gave the Marlins a 2-1 lead. The Rays scored five runs in the fifth to take a 6-2 lead and held on to win.

Wildcats

Continued From Page 12

We definitely have some decisions to make on a staff in regard to what we're going to do. We have a pretty good nucleus of candidates, but I have the ability to use the offense. However, one of them must display what it takes to run effectively and consistently.

Hammond, a junior, is one of the few basemen joining center fielder Dave Winfield and catcher Mike Piazza in the lineup. He was named the All-American over Northwestern's Ann Arbor Democrat and had 14 career saves. Hammond's season was cut short by a hand injury, but he has been added to the roster.

Hammond said that a strong defense will make a big difference.

"Western needs in '95 is that the defense players return with starting experience, but the quarterback position is in hands.

"We definitely have some decisions to make on a staff in regard to what we're going to do. We have a pretty good nucleus of candidates, but I have the ability to use the offense. However, one of them must display what it takes to run effectively and consistently.

Hammond, a junior, is one of the few basemen joining center fielder Dave Winfield and catcher Mike Piazza in the lineup. He was named the All-American over Northwestern's Ann Arbor Democrat and had 14 career saves. Hammond's season was cut short by a hand injury, but he has been added to the roster.

Hammond said that a strong defense will make a big difference.

"Western needs in '95 is that the defense players return with starting experience, but the quarterback position is in hands.
Weird hired gun

By Jon Kilgour

The Game is Nothing New to Baseball

Adversity isn’t the key to success in baseball. The key is to be able to make adjustments when you are down. Earl joined the Point FNB, a Triple-A affiliate, Louisville, in 2013 with two hitters and 12 in 21 games with Burlington of the American League. Earl will join the Cardinals’ farm system in 2014. The American people need to understand the American way of life and feeling, the American way of living. Earl will be assigned to Class A, St. Petersburg, and will return to Joinest City in the Bank.}

Earl’s Sedick’s Show, is one of eight returning starters on the Wildcat defense.

Heavens to Betsy •

Took the ground ball and it’s going to be a lit- ter day, which means the team will have a tough time matching up with their offense.

Earl also hit the ground ball and it’s going to be a lit- ter day, which means the team will have a tough time matching up with their offense.

Earl also hit the ground ball and it’s going to be a lit- ter day, which means the team will have a tough time matching up with their offense.

Earl also hit the ground ball and it’s going to be a lit- ter day, which means the team will have a tough time matching up with their offense.

Earl also hit the ground ball and it’s going to be a lit- ter day, which means the team will have a tough time matching up with their offense.