Although Judith Albino was asked by both the governor and faculty members to resign from her position as president of the University of Colorado, The Daily Iowan has learned the UI is courting her as a potential

Albino is one of about six final candidates being interviewed to replace Hunter Rawlings III, who left the UI to become president of Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y., on July Reached at a fund-raising event in Pueblo, Colo., Albino said Saturday she has "had conversations with Iowa" but would not comment to the press because she would like to "talk with the people at Iowa and confirm some things.'

Now serving the last year of a five-year, not-renewed appointment at Colorado, Albino was asked by faculty members and Gov. Roy Romer to resign. In a poll taken by the faculty assembly, Albino was given a D-, D+ and D by college administrators over her first three years, and was accused but cleared of violating state election laws.

Steve Collins, chairman of the Presidential Search and Screen Advisory Committee, would neither confirm nor deny Albino as a

David Skorton, UI vice president for research, will be announced as an internal candidate for UI president today by the UI Presidential Search and Screen Advisory

After interim President Peter Nathan announced he would not be a candidate for president, there was speculation no internal candidates would be included in the search. However, Jon Gregory Kuhl, professor of electrical and computer engineering, said Skorton is a logical choice.

"I'm not surprised he is a candidate - I would have been surprised if he wasn't a candidate. I think he's an outstanding VP for research," he said.

Kuhl also said Skorton's research and administrative capacities add to his qualifi-

Ul graduate student Roz Eaton takes a moment Hitchcock will make her first appearance, open to speak to Karen Hitchcock, the first candidate to the public, at 8:45 a.m. today in the Triangle in the group of finalists to visit the UI campus. Ballroom of the Union.

The following is an excerpt from an exclusive Daily Iowan interview with Karen Hitchcock, the first candidate to visit the UI for on-campus presidential interviews

What makes the UI attractive to

Its quality — and even more importantly, its commitment to continue to grow. It's one of the top research universities in the country, and it has a clear goal to continue to be one of the best in the nation. It has an exceedingly high-quality faculty and students.

(I was impressed by) the spirit of everyone with whom I've met, the excitement about higher education at this time and working with people with that kind of spirit and talent. It's wonderful.

You would be the first woman president of any university in Iowa. Do you have any concerns?

I'm not at all concerned about gender. Iowa and all of higher education is responsive to quality leadership. As I have come to know the University of Iowa, I've seen support for quality and diversity.

And what about the stereotype that men are better at fund-raising?

I have had extensive fund-raising experience. If you do research, you will find there are very successful fund-raisers of both sexes.

Some fear our next candidate might view the UI as just another rung on the ladder leading to the Ivy League. Would you be committed

Yes. When I accept a position, I'm committed to it for the long run. As long as there is a mutually rewarding situation, I'll remain in it.

The other thing about Iowa that was very impressive was the commitment of the alumni to the university, and the state is committed to it.

Making it easier for students to cut class was not on the criteria list for the UI's next president, but the first finalist for the UI's top position did just that while at her current post at the State University of New York, Albany.

But instead of being upset, UI representatives who met with SUNY interim president Karen Hitchcock were impressed by her commitment to quality undergraduate education.

Hitchcock, a former professor of biological sciences, began her two-day visit to the UI Sunday, meeting with students, deans and administrators.

Shawn Cole The Daily Iowan

With at least two women as candidates for the UI presidency, the UI has a chance to become the first public university in the state to appoint a female president and the only Big Ten school with a woman

Karen Hitchcock, interim president at the State University of New York, Albany, and former University of Colorado president Judith Albino are two of at least six candidates who will interview for the UI's top job.

Although there are female leaders of several prominent institutions, such as Duke University's Nannerl Keohane and the University of Pennsylvania's Judith Rodin, a 1993 study by The American Council on Education shows the vast majority of university leaders are male. In 1993, approximately 88 percent of the heads of universities were men, the study

Although Hitchcock said she didn't anticipate gender being a factor in the UI decision, she said at an Albany chamber of commerce meeting in June that she doesn't think women and men are treated equally.

"Things have improved a great deal over the last decade, but salarywise, women still encounter a glass ceiling," she was quoted as saying in the Albany Times Union. "We've done very well at bringing

WPI freshman orientation fun is in the cards

Associated Press

WORCESTER, Matthew Denicourt had been on campus only a few days and already he was a marked man. He was the Cageball man, the kid with the trading card all the other freshmen needed.

It was Tuesday, and Denicourt and his 690 classmates had just one more day to finagle their way into complete sets of 50 campus trading cards, the latest ploy to help new students get to know Worcester Polytechnic Institute and each other - quickly.

It's orientation time for incoming freshmen and transfer students at colleges nationwide. And schools are trying to keep their introductions interesting, mixing cookouts with community service, discussion groups with square dances.

Or scavenger hunts. Human bingo. Even a giant game or two of

But at WPI, the craze is cards. Each student receives a set of 50 cards. That is, 50 of the same card; the same picture on the front, the like. The buildings? There they same information on the back. The idea is to trade off with other students to complete the set of 24 professors, 14 buildings and 12 WPI traditions.

Assistant Dean Chris Jachimowtoyed with using a more high-tech students needed just one more approach to break the ice, but figured the trading cards would force the math and science whiz kids attracted to the school to mingle a little more.

Jachimowicz grew up trading cards. A friend's father had been a security guard at Topps Co. in "I Brooklyn, N.Y., and often brought ball. home odd packs of cards and bubble gum for the boys.

He never really got into collecting the sports cards, but still has complete sets from some 1970s television shows, like "Welcome Back, Kotter" and "The Six Million Dollar Man.'

The pride of his collection, though, is a set from the 1968 movie "Planet of the Apes."

So when Jachimowicz took charge of the new student orientation, the trading card format seemed a natural fit.

"There is a lot of information the students need in the first few weeks," he said. "The people who have the information they need? They need to know what they look

The cards really took off, too. Within minutes of their distribution, about 200 students huddled in a parking lot for some frenzied Denicourt's card.

"At first it was really cool. People would swarm me," the 18-year-old from Johnston, R.I., said while waiting in line to sign up for class-

"I got like 30 cards for one Cage-

"Now, though, it's like people hate me. They say, 'Hey, he's the guy with all the Cageball.'"

Cageball, for those who either didn't attend WPI or haven't seen the trading card, caught on here in the 1930s and pits teams of 50 against each other in a pushing match over an 8-foot-wide leather

Adam Viera had never heard of it and hoped never to again. "Don't year-old from Assonet, Mass., said with a groan. He gave up trading cards with 30 to go.

But not Sarah Tranes. She needed just one more card - and it wasn't a Cageball card, either. She got that one for free.

"The information on these things has been really helpful, but this hasn't been a real friendship sort of thing. You are wheeling and dealing for something you want," said Tranes, a major from Norwich, trading that at one point blocked Conn.

Worcester Polytechnic Institute students trade cards bearing pictalk to me about Cageball," the 17- tures of faculty, buildings and events related to campus life during freshman orientation in Worcester, Mass., Tuesday. Each student was given a set of 50 identical cards and had to trade with other freshmen to collect a complete set. One card ended up in high demand when an orientation leader forgot to hand out boxes of cards bearing the "Cageball" event, seen at center, causing a shortage.

Regents to vote on audit company

Shawn Cole

The Daily Iowan

The Iowa state Board of Regents expects to choose a firm to conduct an organizational audit of Iowa's three public universities - the UI, University of Northern Iowa and Iowa State University at its first meeting Tuesday.

Marvin Pomerantz, interim president of the board, said he hoped this first audit in eight years would save the public universities a lot of money.

"It will be very cost-effective," Pomerantz said. "(The audit) is critical in setting the strategic plan for the future.

Bids from three different companies will be considered, and Pomerantz said he hopes the regents will go with Pappas Consulting Group, recommended by R. Wayne Richey and Robert Barak.

The Pappas Group submitted a bid of $224,800 for the audit, $12,000 less than MGT of America but almost twice that of KPMG Peat Marwick.

Regent Tom Collins said there was concern Marwick's audit might not be comprehensive enough.

The Pappas group is an alliance firm of KPMG Peat Marwick.

Collins said he wasn't sure the audit would save money, but was glad the regents were doing it.

"It's sort of like a physical exam with a doctor," he said. "Even if there's nothing wrong, I'm awfully glad to pay the money to know nothing's wrong.

Collins, who will be participating in the telephonic meeting from Barcelona, Spain, said he will also encourage regents to look at "zero-budget"

"We should look to see what we could cut," he said. "Any company or business looks back at" things and says, 'I can't believe we used to do it that way.' Especially at the large institutions, Ithink we have to analyze where the money is going.

Not wasting money was critical to both students; and taxpayers, Collins said.

"If we keep spending more money, tuition keeps going up or taxes go up," he said. "We owe it to the public and ourselves to achieve as much savings as

Crisis Center offers hands-on help

Ann McGlynn The Daily Iowan

Cali Mortenson was a troubled kid during her years in Iowa City and required a lot of help from social services to get on the right

Now, she's paying the community back for the help it offered her through an internship at the Crisis Center, 321 E. First St

"It's the best job I've ever had," she said. "It's so rewarding."

Mortenson, 19, is an economics major at Bates College in Lewiston, Maine. She received a grant for the internship, which involves interviewing clients, helping volunteers bag groceries and filing. Mortenson credits going to college to the help she received in Iowa

"I feel happy coming here," she said. "It's a job I don't want to

The center, celebrating its 25th anniversary next month, was started by UI students, mental-health officials and concerned Iowa City residents as a crisis hotline similar to those on the East and West coasts, said Ellen McCabe, executive director of the center.

Within 15 minutes of the hotline's opening on Sept. 26, 1970, the phone rang.

In 1972, the center began adding services every couple of years. Walk-in counseling, transient services, a 24-hour hotline and a food bank were included as the community saw a need, McCabe said.

Services are open to anyone who needs help, Mortenson said. Identification or a financial statement are not required.

"If someone wants to pull the wool over our éyes, it's not worth putting the other 99 percent of people through rigorous checks," McCabe said.

Most of the people given financial help through the center have a job, McCabe said. However, a $6per-hour job without benefits is hard to survive on, she said.

Turtle aficionados flock to hatching site at farm

Associated Press

BIRMINGHAM, Iowa - Visitors from all over the United States and beyond plan to head to Fred Millard's open house ... to watch turtles

The Millard farm, about 25 miles southeast of Ottumwa, Iowa, is home to about 60,000-80,000 snapping, Western painted and soft-shelled turtles, raised for their meat and shells.

The turtle spread, with its 18 ponds, covers 10 acres.

The Millard farm hosts its open house through Thursday.

"The phone rings off the wall from all over the country inquiring about the turtles," said Millard.

The big attraction is the hatching process. Millard expects about 40,000 baby snapping turtles will be hatching in the next two weeks.

White House urges U.S.-China summit

Charles Hutzler Associated Press

BEIJING - President Clinton hopes to meet Chinese President Jiang Zemin in the United States in October to try to improve badly damaged relations, a top U.S. State Department official said Sunday.

China's government been pushing for a Clinton-Jiang summit, espe-cially since the White House in May allowed the president of Taiwan, Beijing's rival, to visit the United States

Tarnoff, the highest-level official to travel to Beijing since the May fallout, said Sunday both sides agreed to start preparing an agenda for a possible summit in late October.

Secretary of State Warren Christopher and Vice Premier and Foreign Minister Qian Qichen will meet at the United Nations in September as part of the preparations.

"We agreed that both sides would begin to prepare thoroughly for such a meeting, making every effort to discuss frankly and in a constructive spirit a wide variety of issues of concern," Tarnoff told reporters at a news conference.

"We look forward to the meetings between the secretary and vice premier and our presidents," Tarnoff

But U.S. Embassy spokesman Robert Laing later insisted a final decision on the meeting had not been reached.

Washington and Beijing have stressed the importance of bilateral human rights, arms control and nuclear proliferation.

Jiang plans to be in New York in October for the annual U.N. General Assembly debate, but Chinese officials are believed to be eager for a Washington meeting, something Taiwan President Lee Teng-hui was denied.

Tarnoff and U.S. Embassy officials refused to characterize a Clinton-Jiang meeting as a favor in return for China's expulsion of Wu on Thursday after a one-day trial

"This relationship is as important to them as it is to us," Tarnoff said in describing his two days of meetings with Chinese officials. We have too much at stake both in China and the United States to neglect this relationship and try to isolate each other."

NEARLY 2.7 PERCENT OF ADULTS ARE UNDER SUPERVISION

America's run-ins with the law increase

Michael Sniffen Associated Press

WASHINGTON - A record 5.1 million Americans were either behind bars or on probation or parole at the end of last year, as prisons and jails overflow and the use of supervision in the community rises, the Justice Department reported Sunday.

The total number under some kind of correctional supervision amounted to almost 2.7 percent of the nation's adult population. Nearly three out of four were being supervised in the community on probation or parole rather than in cells, according to the department's Bureau of Justices

Since 1980, the number of peotion or parole has almost tripled, growing at an average rate of 7.6 percent a year and at an actual rate of 3.9 percent in 1994.

though the federal government and some jurisdictions have eliminated parole for those who committed crimes in recent years.

Overall, the state and federal probation population rose 2 percent in 1994 and the overall parole population grew by 2.1 percent, the bureau said.

At the end of 1994, 2,962,000 adults were on probation and another 690,000 were on parole.

Parole is a conditional release from custody by special parole officials of prisoners who have served part of their sentence; they remain subject to being locked up again if they violate certain rules. The remainder were equally divided between those who were not required to have regular contact and those who had failed to report and could not be located.

Half of all offenders on probation in 1994 had been convicted of a felony, the rest of lesser crimes. One in seven probationers had been convicted of driving while intoxicated or under the influence

Of the parolees, 95 percent had served time behind bars for felonies; the rest had been incarcerated for lesser crimes.

Ida was baptized Irena and with her fair complexion and hair, everyone thought she was Christian. So did she.

"I learned from the children in the streets to hate Jews," she says. "I was afraid Jewish children were going to catch me, kill me and use my blood for matzo.

Within three months, her new father, a Polish partisan, was killed; Jozefa Maj scraped by selling black-market alcohol and tobacco on the trains, Ida tagging along.

After the war, Ida's father, Chaim, who had been liberated by the Russians, tracked down his youngest daughter; he believed his other children were killed. Ida wanted no part of this Yiddishspeaking Jewish stranger, even when he brought her a picture of her mother.

"He wore a cross on his neck so I wouldn't suspect him, that poor man," Ida says. "He used to help me up," she adds, mimicking how he would hoist her on her shoulders, "so I could kiss all the saints on the wall. Later, he told me his heart was bleeding.'

She returned to her father, who remarried, re-established her Jewish identity - her hallway wall is decorated with Star of David signs and the slogan 'Never Again' - and immigrated to Israel in 1957.

Ida wrote the Red Cross, attended Holocaust survivor group meetings, including a 1991 New York gathering Adam almost visited. While there, she tacked on a bulletin board a photo of all three siblings, the twins on their mother's lap. No one recognized the faces.

A detective friend gave Ida a list of Paluchs in the United States; she called dozens, to no avail. When she took far-flung vacations, to Brazil or Paris, she checked phone books for Paluchs, calling

Quest for identity Adam, who grew up as Jerzy Dolebski, doesn't remember the day his mother killed herself. For years, he searched for her, unaware his twin even existed.

His first memories are as a 5year-old living with a Catholic couple, Jan and Leokadia Dolebski, in Lublin.

"I always felt different," he says in halting English, sitting next to his sister in her home. At first, Leokadia Dolebski told him he was illegitimate, but he found a wedding certificate proving that was Then, he was told he was found in an abandoned building.

"Every time they gave me a new story so I stopped believing them," he says. So he began running away, always when the first snow fell, aimlessly riding trains hoping he would be recognized and reunited with his mother.

When Ida first called Dolebski, he didn't think she was his sister.

But after she faxed him their childhood picture, his son, Peter, noticed his own striking resemblance to Ida. More pictures showed more similarities.

This spring, the two reunited in a tearful reunion in Warsaw. "It's strange for me to say brother. I thought it will never happen," she sobbed, holding his face in her hands in a scene captured by Polish TV. "I can't look at you enough."

Let me tell you about a trip I took. It started while waiting for Dr. Timothy Leary's lecture on Thursday night. Now, Leary doesn't draw a university-student crowd because of his psychological texts and Harvard years. His real attractions are a shiny new book with the fad word "cyber" in the title and his fame as a counter-culture drug guru.

Of course this is what attracted me. So, in the spirit of the occasion, I decided to ingest a substance before the show. Unaware of the psychedelic visions it would give me, I ate a banana.

Grooving on the banana, I noticed the beautiful hodgepodge of people waiting for the doctor. As more people crammed the Main Lounge of the Union, the fruit took hold of me. Suddenly, it seemed as if a large percentage of the underclassmen were wearing the same Grateful Dead T-shirt! I shook my head in disbelief and looked again. Still there! And now they all had the same 'Wow, college is cool!' look of freshmen and were saying to each other, "I'm going to learn about drugs from a REAL hippie!"

I tried to chalk up this experience as a hallucination, but with the potassium coursing through my veins, I was having a hard time distinguishing reality. When Leary emerged from behind the curtain and began to speak, my fruitinduced stupor made it seem like every reference to drug use brought a roar from the crowd.

Suddenly, Leary's face began to metamorphose. Gripping my seat, I watched as he became a Gamblers Anonymous member at a group meeting in Vegas. He was a blind man speaking to a bunch of masturbators. His face widened and his nose grew longer, and Leary became a camel - Joe Camel speaking at my eighth-grade gradua-

When he said the phrases "Question authority" and "Think for yourself," I thought I was a bumper sticker going to a T-shirt convention on the back of a car in a Sprite commercial.

Soon, all logical thought was lost. As Leary spoke, he made no sense to me at all. The words in his sentences were like random letters thrown on a Scrabble board. Some people around me snickered at his 30-second pauses, and some looked down at the floor embarrassed. Most just listened for the next drug reference so they could cheer like wild banshees.

After the lecture, and after I came down from my banana high, I checked my facts with others and learned most of my trip wasn't a hallucination. It was obvious - though Leary is a brilliant man with much to say - he's eaten one too many bananas in his lifetime, and it overshadowed his lecture. Instead of it being a message to the students who attended to be cautious and moderate with their drug use, it was a validation that a partially fried brain is cool.

Of course, when the late Jerry Garcia was in his 30s, a diabetic coma brought on by habitual drug use scrambled his brain so much he had to relearn the gui-

Hillary's presence is necessary at China Women's Conference

Immediately after the White House's announcement that Hillary Rodham Clinton would attend the Fourth World Conference on Women, critics - including presidential candidates Texas Sen. Phil Gramm; Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, of Kansas; and Indiana Sen. Richard Lugar - were quick to denounce the decision and urge it be reconsidered.

What is there to reconsider? The conference will enjoy a worldwide audience, and it is reported, throughout the 11-day conference, more than 40,000 e will attend. However, the White House and State Department may decide to replace Rodham Clinton as U.S. delegate to the conference with a member of the State Department.

Lugar was quoted by USA Today as saying, "This is a situation where the representatives of the country ought to be professional diplomats." He suggested former president George Bush attend the conference. Lugar's comments imply Rodham Clinton would not perform EDITORIAL POINT OF VIEW

It is time for Hillary Rodham Clinton to regain her voice and speak out for women's advancements.

Although Rodham Clinton's image has been reshaped by her advisers to one of a quieter, more moderate first lady, this is to speak on issues affecting men. With Saturday marking the 75th anniversary of the 19th Amendment's ratification, there is no better time to celebrate women's empowerment, discuss new routes to ensuring education and health care, and further political empowerment for women. Rodham Clinton should speak with the power, voice and conviction once common to her.

Having launched initiatives to promote and change policies affecting women in their native countries, women's participation worldwide and in the U.S. gov-seats and a slightly greater number in the House. Rodham Clinton's role should not be reduced to that of a hostess who is amicable to White House guests. Should she adopt the position of Gramm - who is bitterly overwhelmed by the first lady's attendance at the conference - we run the risk of silencing the voice and reducing the role a first lady can play.

Rodham Clinton's attendance shows the United States is concerned about continuing the progress made by women worldwide. Here in the United the perfect opportunity for her States, women face battles concerning the right to safe and legal abortions, and struggle against sexual harassment in the workplace, equal-employment opportunities and a continuing list of inequities.

Perhaps the senators themselves should attend the international conference and formulate solutions to the seemingly intractable issues facing American women.

The time is right for the first lady to speak. Hopefully she will speak with a loud, clear voice.

Fuhrman may exit Simpson trial

Michael Fleeman Associated Press

LOS ANGELES - Although Mark Fuhrman's tapes have rattled the O.J. Simpson trial like a California earthquake, he may not have to testify again, even if the judge lets jurors hear some of the recordings, analysts say.

If Fuhrman invokes his Fifth Amendment right against selfincrimination, he technically no longer has anything relevant to testify about, and Cali-

"I think it's very unlikely we're ever going to see Mark Fuhrman again," Loyola Law School professor Stan Goldman said.

What the trial will see this week is a lot of feuding over Fuhrman, along with intense behind-thescenes strategizing by attorneys from both sides in the murder case. The defense wants to introduce parts of the tapes - recorded from 1985 to 1994 - to impeach Fuhrman's credibility and to show he could have planted a bloody glove he testified he found on Simpson's estate.

This would mean neither side could mention Fuhrman in its closing argument.

But it also would raise the risk of glove, a key part of its evidence against Simpson. The glove matched one found near the slashed bodies of Nicole Brown Simpson and Ronald Goldman.

"The really interesting question is whether the prosecution will try to take the initiative and have his testimony struck," said Peter area before, when the defense Arenella, a law professor at the sought to introduce details from his University of California, Los Angeles. "I don't see the defense going along with this. And it's not clear what the judge would do."

Since Fuhrman's denials of using the racial slur open him to criminal perjury charges, the now-retired detective may invoke Fifth Amendment protections.

This can be done through his attorney, Darryl Mounger, and the prosecution losing the bloody Fuhrman won't have to testify, analysts said.

> If Ito allows some of the tapes into evidence - and most legal analysts believe Ito will admit at least something — this would leave the jury with only Fuhrman's disembodied voice on the tapes.

WASHINGTON - The leader of the reconstituted U.S. delegation to Bosnia said Sunday that upcoming talks are "potentially decisive" and suggested the Serbs could face increased NATO air strikes unless they soon embrace the peace process.

"If this peace initiative does not get moving, dramatically moving in the next week or two, the consequences will be very adverse to the Serbian goals," said Assistant Secretary of State Richard Holbrooke. "One way or another, NATO will be heavily involved, and the Serbs don't want that."

Holbrooke said he would leave Sunday for Paris to neet with U.S. allies and Bosnian President Alija Izetbegovic. On Tuesday, Holbrooke and his new negotiating team, named to replace three diplomats killed Aug. 19 in an accident outside Sarajevo, plan to travel rade, the Serbian capital.

"I don't want to leave the impression that NATO air trikes start automatically if we don't make a breakhrough in the next few days," he said on NBC's "Meet he Press." "I'm not going to give a tight time limit, out I do want to say ... that we consider the upcoming "NATO will either assist a U.N. withdrawal or there will be more active NATO air over the skies," he said. These are not things the Serbs should want. So we hope that they will recognize that the coming week or two is potentially decisive."

In Gorazde, a Muslim enclave in eastern Bosnia, more peacekeepers were prepared to pull out of the U.N. "safe zone" Sunday, leaving NATO and its warplanes in charge of protecting the enclave from Serb attack

"If the Serbs attack the Gorazde area, the NATO retaliatory strikes will go far beyond the previous pinpricks, these ineffectual - to my mind embarrassing NATO responses which have only emphasized weakness rather than emphasize strength," Hol-

Other controversial issues in Albino's tenure include $154,000 in maintenance costs spent on the presidential home built by Gee and complaints about her management style and relationship with legisla-

But despite her controversial career, Albino supporters said the press has unfairly criticized her and she made extraordinary achievements in difficult times.

"I think Dr. Albino has managed the university during one of the toughest times the university has had in the past hundred years, and a lot of people don't know that,'

said Guy Kelley, a member of the Colorado Board of Regents. "Instead of complaining about the general lack of funds, she rolled up her sleeves and went out and got private donations."

Kelley said Albino also increased the faculty retention rate, brought in $80 million more than expected in a fund-raising campaign and managed to preserve faculty raises every year, despite less funding from the legislature.

"When she took the helm, CU representation had been the lowest among Colorado state universities)," he said. "Four years later, we have the largest in-state freshman class. She has a very good relationship with the legislature and contributors.'

Colorado Regent Norwood Robb said Albino was an "excellent president" who had simply started off on the wrong foot with the press.

"I think the press was originally very upset with the process in which we hired her," Robb said. "We had a failed search and selected a candidate that wasn't in the original pool. Sort of like starting a job without any kind of a honey-

Albino is very popular at the CU health-sciences campus, Robb said, which under her leadership has become a national model for university hospital privatization.

Much of Albino's troubles stem from her desire to change higher education, Robb said. Albino attempted to shift power from the presidency to the CU chancellors, who run each of the four individual campuses, Robb said, a move criticized by many.

Some of the faculty are upset about (power decentralization), because they think she should be a spokesperson for the university," Robb said. "When she points out the need for change in higher education, she runs into a tremendous amount of resistance."

But Hank Anton, current Colorado Board of Regents president, said Albino was simply the victim of "personality problems" on the board of regents.

"It wasn't Albino that was the problem, it was (the regents') hate for each other," he said. "You could have voted on paper clips and the vote would have been 5-4."

Although early this summer Albino said she was confident she would keep her job at Colorado, after the regents met with her in August to discuss her fate, Albino announced she would leave the uni-

Many supporters of Albino said they felt she was held to a different standard as leader of the University of Colorado because she was

"I think America is not sure about their comfort level with women in power," said Josie Heath, former Colorado candidate for the U.S. Senate. "(The old boys' club's) definition of leadership is to act like you have all the answers, and that is not (Albino's) style.

Heath credited Albino with helping open the door for women, and said Albino might have less difficul-

"Iowa has a wonderful tradition with women," Heath said. "I think Judith made it clear that there are lots of different kinds of women who lead. Her style is much more committed to undergraduates and diverse teaching, and I don't think that's what the old boys' club was comfortable with.

Steve Collins, chairman of the Presidential Search and Screen Advisory Committee, said the search committee looked at women with the same level of scrutiny as 'We were looking principally at the people's character, experiences and background," he said.

Members of the Iowa state Board unlikely.' of Regents echoed Collins, saying gender would not be a factor in the naming of the next UI president.

"We are open to selecting a woman as president," said regent Tom Collins. "But (gender) would have no bearing (on the selection)

Margery Wolf, UI professor of women's studies, said she thinks the UI could choose a woman.

"I would certainly hope they wouldn't discriminate against a candidate because she's a woman,' she said. "I think that's highly Wolf said she hoped Iowans would not be sexist, but women still face stereotypes.

"(Some may think) it's a tough job and a woman can't do it, which is absurd," she said.

INTERVIEW

How would you describe your style of leadership?

I think it's absolutely critical to have an open diaogue, and to work with everyone involved. (State University of New York, Albany, faces) budget cuts, and I have been working with everyone to evaluate what's important to the institution.

I'm deeply committed to the missions of a major, public university: research, teaching and service.

I still have a lot to learn about Iowa. You are always learning. I think the first thing you would have to do is listen to all the constituencies. A first year would be spent getting to know the institution. I would see a wonderful partnership possible leading the university to its next level of achievement.

The only controversy you seem to have generated (at SUNY, Albany) is a memo you circulated wrote, "While it is not appropriate to cancel classes for this activity, I would be grateful for your assistance in asking faculty members to be sensitive and responsive to students who ask in advance for consideration in making up class time or assignments so as to attend the rally.'

The memo didn't encourage students to skip class. I think part of education is to participate in the political process. I wasn't urging them to make the choice to go lobby, but I was reaching out to faculty

Whitaker wins with ease

ATLANTIC CITY, N.I. (AP) -Pernell Whitaker has nothing left to prove in the sport he has domi nated for a decade.

Perhaps that's why he looked bored beating up Gary Jacobs on Saturday night.

"It wasn't an ugly fight," said Whitaker, who had promised to send the Scotsman home faster than Shannon Faulkner. "It just took me a little while to figure him out, that's all."

Whitaker (36-1-1, 15 KOs) fought his usual brilliant technical fight and successfully defended his IBF welterweight title by winning a lopsided — too lopsided - unanimous decision.

Judge Gus Mercurio of Australia scored it 118-109, Tamotosi Tomimara of Hawaii had it 118-107, and Takeaki Kanaya of Japan scored the fight 117-109.

"What fight were they watching?" said Jacobs, wearing shades to cover two swollen eyes. "Some fight out on the beach?"

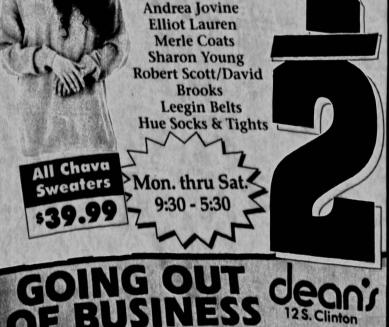

LITTLE LEAGUE

Americans fall in World Series blowout

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Three years after officials took the Little League World Series title away from the Philippines for using ineligible players, the Far East is dominant again.

Taiwan won its 16th Little League championship Saturday, beating Spring, Texas 17-3 in the second-most lopsided final ever. The team from Tainan, a city of about 200,000, may have gone on to break the record of 21 runs scored by another Taiwan club in 1987, but the game was called after four innings because Little League introduced a 10-run mercy rule this season.

BOXING

Whitaker wins with ease

ATLANTIC CITY, N.I. (AP) -Pernell Whitaker has nothing left to prove in the sport he has dominated for a decade.

Perhaps that's why he looked bored beating up Gary Jacobs on Saturday night.

"It wasn't an ugly fight," said Whitaker, who had promised to send the Scotsman home faster than Shannon Faulkner. "It just took me a little while to figure him out, that's all.'

Whitaker (36-1-1, 15 KOs) fought his usual brilliant technical fight and successfully defended his IBF welterweight title by winning a lopsided — too lopsided unanimous decision.

Judge Gus Mercurio of Australia scored it 118-109, Tamotosu Tomimara of Hawaii had it 118-107, and Takeaki Kanaya of Japan scored the fight 117-109.

"What fight were they watching?" said Jacobs, wearing shades to cover two swollen eyes. "Some fight out on the beach?"

LITTLE LEAGUE

Americans fall in World Series blowout

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) -Three years after officials took the Little League World Series title away from the Philippines for using ineligible players, the Far East is dominant again. Taiwan won its 16th Little League championship Saturday, beating Spring, Texas 17-3 in the second-most lopsided final ever. The team from Tainan, a city of about 200,000, may have gone on to break the record of 21 runs scored by another Taiwan club in 1987, but the game was called after four innings because Little League introduced a 10-run mercy rule this season.

Report has Hawkeyes ranked fifth in nation

David Schwartz

The Daily Iowan

"You're kidding, right?" That was the reaction of Des Moines Register columnist Marc Hansen, who wrote Sunday that an editor from The Sporting News told him the sports magazine would rank the Iowa men's basketball team fifth in its preseason poll.

The Hawkeyes return three high-impact juniors, guards Andre Woolridge and Chris Kingsbury and forward Jess Settles, as well as senior defensive standout Kenyon Mur-

A Big Ten bonanza

"This team is going to have to fight for informed of TSN's plans, Helmers was surwhatever it gets," Helmers said. "There are a lot of good teams out there are prised. a lot of good teams out there, and wherever we wind up, we'll have fought for it."

However, Helmers thought the ranking may be a bit premature.

"If you look at it, it's just one writer's opinion, while somebody else may have us some place else," he said. "It might put a little pressure on the team, having to live up to such high expectations.'

Some early preseason basketball polls balk that the Hawkeyes may be worthy of have Iowa as low as fifth in the Big Ten Con-

He said regardless of the preseason ranking, the Hawkeyes would tackle any challenge they'll have to face.

"If we go to the NIT, we'll fight our way through. If we make it to the dance (the 64team NCAA tournament), then that's great," Helmers said. "Obviously everybody's dreamis the national championship, it's only natural. But it doesn't really matter where we're ranked, or by who, we're going to come out playing hard."

NFL PREVIEW

San Fran's sixth will come via Cleveland

I hate to kill the suspense of a four-month NFL season, but the San Francisco 49ers are going to finish with the best record

They'll win the NFC West, then cruise to the NFC championship where, once again, they will beat the Dallas Cowboys for the NFL title. Oh, yeah, they'll play Super that Bowl thing two weeks later, but that's just a formality.

I'm not trying to say this season will be completely without suspense. For one thing, who will earn the chance to extend their season until Jan. 28 by winning the AFC?

And who will win th dled AFC East and NFC Central conferences? Browns or Steelers in the AFC Central? Raiders, Chargers or Broncos in the AFC West? Jacksonville or Carolina? OK, OK, I'll slow down. This is how things should shake up:

Projected season records, See Page 4B

Congratulations Cleveland.

Not only will the Indians make the World Series this year, but the Browns will come out on top of the AFC dogfight to reach Super Bowl XXX. After getting swept in the regular season by conference rival Pittsburgh, the Browns will hit the playoffs with a vengeance. As the top wild-card team despite a 12-4 record, Cleveland will outslug San Diego at home, then oust Miami and Pittsburgh on the road.

I have all the respect in the world for Bill Parcells, Drew Bledsoe and the New England Patriots, but the plain-and-simple fact is Miami's more talented.

Illini's Rice reigns supreme

Chris Snider The Daily Iowan

If confidence wins awards, University of Illinois linebacker Simeon Rice better start making room

Wearing a tie he borrowed, Rice entertained a slew of reporters at the Big Ten convention Aug. 1, only came up repeatedly.

But he quickly regained his composure, sporting a grin as he addressed the topic.

"I wanted to keep my distance for the year because a lot of guys leave college and I feel they are not ready," he says. "I wanted one more year behind my back so I would really know I was ready.
"I'm used to doing things tradi-

"I wanted one more year where I could look at the big time stars as guys I always admired," says Rice, who grew up idolizing Bruce Lee and Sylvester Stallone. "I didn't want to have to be in that situation with them."

But Rice is no kid.

With 33 career sacks, including 16 in 1994, Rice is just three short of the Big Ten record. Rice should break the record early this fall. Rice also has an outside chance at a bigger record: the all-time Division I-A sacks mark of 49 held by Alabama's Derrick Thomas. currently, Rice is tied for No. 20 on the list. With those credentials, Rice is garnering Heisman Trophy consideration, an award offensive players traditionally win. But taking a break from his usual style, he's doing his best to avoid the Heis-

22 Boston College Sunday in the Kickoff Classic at Giants Stadium. Eddie George ran for two touchdowns, but the most important factors in the Buckeyes' victory were a

97-yard kickoff return by Shawn Springs and a 99-yard scoring drive in the second quarter.

"It was a very solid victory for us," Ohio State coach John Cooper said. "We won the game easily, but made enough mistakes that I can go back home and do some coach-

"There's pressure when you start having doubts in yourself. I'm very secure in myself. I don't have any doubts," he says. "I believe I can do anything and on that fact, I don't feel any pressure."

This confidence shows when he steps on the field. Rice not only believes he can do anything, he believes he can do it his way.

"I'm serious, but I can do it at all levels," he says. "I can kick your ass with a smile on my face, crying or straight-faced. It doesn't matter. I'm going to do what I'm going to trade all the Heisman hype for a do, regardless."

But Rice isn't the only one with confidence in himself. Illini coach Lou Tepper speaks highly about his defensive star.

"Simeon will compete to be the finest pass rusher in collegiate football," Tepper says. "He should be the prime candidate in America for the Outland and Lombardi trophies and the strongest defensive candidate for the Heisman Trophy since Hugh Green (of Pittsburgh)."

trip to Pasadena.

"If I win it, I win it. If I don't, no tears fall from my eyes. My biggest thrill would be going to the Rose Bowl," says Rice.

"If I could be known as the best, I wouldn't mind it, but that isn't a goal of mine."

To reach the Rose Bowl, Rice knows his team faces a tall order in knocking defending champion Penn State off its throne atop the Big Ten conference.

Despite his personal accolades, "I think we're going to be, if not season, what kind of character and Rice still maintains the "team- No. 1, No. 2 in the Big Ten," Rice what kind of attitude the team first" attitude; he would gladly says. "I can guarantee that Illinois has," he says.

is going to go out there and play their best. As far as winning, you never can tell because we have a lot of young people, and not one person could do it.

"But if one person could, it would probably be me. We're going to go out there and play our best. I can guarantee that.

CHICAGO — Tom Glavine allowed five hits in 7% innings before leaving with a back problem, and hit an RBI single to lead Atlanta to its seventh straight win.

Glavine jarred his back in the eighth inning as he slipped off the mound pitching to Brian McRae. Padres 4, Mets 1

NEW YORK — Fernando Valenzuela earned his first victory as a starter in 21/2 months and Steve Finley hit a two-run homer as San Diego ended a four-game losing Valenzuela (4-3) allowed one run on six hits in six innings. He struck out four and walked three to help stop the Mets' three-game winning streak. His last win as a starter came June 6 against Philadelphia, a span of four starts. Marlins 10, Astros 2

MIAMI — The Houston Astros tied a club record with their 10th consecutive defeat, allowing six runs in the first inning and losing to the Florida Marlins.

Terry Pendleton drove in five runs for the Marlins, who extended a franchise record with their 13th consecutive home victory.

Brewers 14, Twins 7 MILWAUKEE — The Milwaukee Brewers moved within one-half game of the AL wild-card lead, Surhoff, who drove in four runs, and Kevin Seitzer each had four of the Brewers' season-high 18 hits. Milwaukee swept the four-game series and closed in on Texas for the top wild-card position.

Roger Clemens was nervous and Dennis Eckersley is apprehensive. Randy Johnson and Mark

Langston aren't worried — yet. Here's the dilemma a lot of hard throwers are facing: With Cal Rip-ken fast approaching one of base-ball's most hallowed records, how close can you pitch him?

"I'd pitch him inside, but you don't want to drill him," Eckersley said. "When you're out there, you don't want to think about it — but I'm sure it's there in the back of your mind. It has to be.

"Especially with a retaliation situation. What if somebody drills our shortstop? You can't drill him," the Oakland reliever said.

Clemens got into a brushback duel with the California Angels this week. But the Boston ace predicted no pitcher would come anywhere close to hitting Ripken and ending his consecutive games streak just short of Lou Gehrig's record of 2,130.

"I think within 10 days, you're going to see a lot of balls middleaway. I don't think they're going to even attempt to come in," he said. straight hit, going 4-for-4 for the 'I would be real surprised if he sees anything inside right now.

"I'm glad my start is out of the way. I mean, if he was on my mind secutive hits set by Rance three starts ago, then these pitchers who are facing him now have Mulliniks in 1984. On Saturday, got to have a great deal of sense of that as long as it's close," Clemens

Ripken is scheduled to break Gehrig's mark Sept. 6 in Baltimore against the Angels. Between now and then, he will face Oakland and Rose reaps honors in baseball return

six years ago from major-league baseball, Pete Rose returned to the game Saturday night, throwing out the first pitch at an independent minorleague game.

"I would have a lot of reasons to be bitter, but life's too short to be bitter," said an upbeat Rose, who threw the pitch as a record 4,273 cheered and chanted his name.

Rose's toss opened a Frontier League game between the Richmond Roosters and the Zanesville Greys.

Rose, baseball's career hits leader, was banned from baseball for life in August 1989 for betting on sports. He later served a prison sentence after pleading guilty to two counts of filing false income taxes.

Richmond assistant General Manager Scott Brumfiel said Rose's appearance did not violate his banishment from the game.

"We are completely indepen-dent," Brumfiel said. "We don't have any connection with major-league baseball."

Before the pitch, he turned to Roosters manager Larry Nowlin and said, "A big crowd is all I can do for you. I can't hit any Rose went to the game at the request of his friend Andy Furman, a talk-show host and newspaper columnist in Cincinnati.

Despite his off-field problems, Rose said he believes more people from the baseball community are supporting him.

"I think baseball's got a lot of other things on its mind besides reinstating me," he said. "Not being in the Hall of Fame right now is helping me because I'm steadily gaining more people to

"I have a lot of friends in base-ball and I think the way I handle myself, a lot of people are getting in my corner."

Ripken has been hit by a pitch wice this season and 45 times during his career. But only once did it knock him out of the lineup. In May 1982, less than four weeks before the streak began, he was beaned by Mike Moore and missed

"I've noticed that everyone else is starting to think about this injury thing, and the more questions come up about pitchers pitching inside," Ripken said Thursday before playing against the Angels in game No. 2,119. "I'm the last person to think about that, and I would hope that the pitchers on the mound and the people playing the game are the last people thinking about it. "I mean, in the heat of the game or the heat of the moment, if it's a tie game in the seventh inning and you need to get out of that jam - and we had Randy Johnson pitching against us the other night - I guarantee you that doesn't go through Randy Johnson's mind or Roger Clemens' mind."

Well, maybe not Johnson's, anyway.

Johnson, the most intimidating pitcher in baseball, beaned Jim Leyritz of the Yankees earlier this

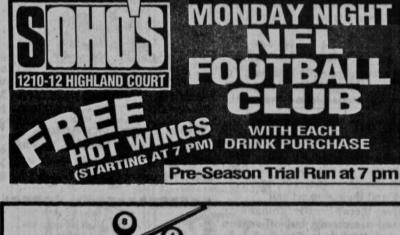

But the Seattle strikeout king said he wasn't concerned about a recurrence when he faced Ripken a "No. It never crossed my mind," he said. "Obviously, I wouldn't want to be the person who injured him being so close. But I'm not going to groove a ball right over the middle of the plate. I don't think he'd want that. "If I hit him, I hit him," he said.

downs in one of his most productive seasons ever. Behind the Dolphins, this remains the most talented division in football.

The Patriots will win 10 games as Bledsoe also throws for 4,000 yards, but he'll still get picked off about 20 times because everyone knows New England has to pass on every down.

Indianapolis made spectacular acquisitions with QB Craig Erickson and receiver Flipper Anderson to team up with runner extraordinaire Marshall Faulk (2,000-yard barrier LOOK OUT!).

But the crazy tie-break system will leave the 9-7 Colts just outside of the playoff hunt. Buffalo will just miss as well with an 8-8 record. The Bills are aging, but still have talent. However, if fragile and aging quarterback Jim Kelly goes down, Buffalo has nowhere to

That's as good as the Central gets, though.

If Steve McNair gets any P.T., Houston might be somewhat exciting, but six wins is a generous prediction. Cincinnati's hopes died when Ki-Jana Carter injured a knee, and they'll be dancing in the streets of Jacksonville when the Jaguars win their only game of the

Every year I hear that the Raiders are going to be awesome. Then I look at Jeff Hostetler's goofy face and laugh. This guy can't win championships

But the move to Oakland, new head coach Mike White, and the rookie addition of Napolean Kaufman should help the Raiders reach the 10-win plateau and a division championship.

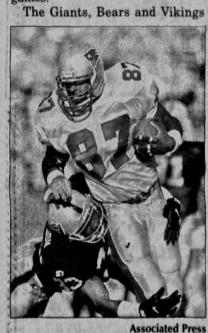

San Diego and Denver each will win nine games, but the Broncos will miss the playoffs by a hair. I'm leery about that Denver guess, though, because John Elway is the

The year 2,000 will roll around before Kansas City wins the West again. The Chiefs put all their chips into winning the Super Bowl with Joe Montana, but he's gone now, and their ship set sail.

Then there's Seattle. Things once looked promising, but off-season turmoil didn't help. The Seahawks will have trouble getting off the ground all year.

1. San Francisco, 2. Dallas. No surprise

But a bevy of teams will battle for the other four playoff spots. Philadelphia, New York, Atlanta, Arizona and the NFC Central are all capable of winning at least 10

New England and Oakland will both be in contention once the playoffs get underway.

If anyone in Iowa City was at a loss to find live music this weekend, they weren't trying at all.

Thursday at Gabe's, 330 E. Washington St., Matchbook Shannon held the release party for its new CD, Sob Stories. The band's set was sandwiched between acts from Pompeii V and Big Window. The scene-spanning Dagobah took the stage immediately after Shade of Blue's set, filling the air with the dirge of the Imperial March. Guitarist Pat Willis opened with an AC/DC riff and comforted the crowd by announcing, Angusstyle, "For those about to puke ... before the band broke into its infectious dance forays. Willis kept the crowd motivated and moving by leading them in dances like "The Egyptian" and chants of "Pat's a dork! Pat's a dork!"

Dagobah's antics were just as exciting as the 1994 Hubbard Park concert version, but didn't inspire mass numbers of revelers to stagediving. Last year's No Flag/House of Large Sizes free-for-all ended with security guards posted stageside to keep ubiquitous stagedivers on the ground.

For the most part, dancers this year kept to themselves - jazzy, world-beat music doesn't lend itself to mosh pits. A few bold characters mustered the courage to climb onstage and free fall back to earth. Most of the action sportsters who attempted this stunt fell - literally flat on their faces

After Dagobah's set, the crowd had a few options. The world beat of Big Bamboo finished the evening for those who stayed at Hubbard Park. Many people, however, headcaught up in their own version of ed up the hill to catch acts down-

NEWPORT, R.I. - Tiger Woods became the first U.S. Amateur champion in 12 years to retain his title Sunday, ensuring his victory with a fairway shot on the final hole that stopped 16 inches from Woods, a 19-year-old Stanford sophomore who last year became the youngest player to win the championship, defeated 43-year-old George "Buddy" Marucci 2-up in the 36-hole final match.

Senior PGA Tour player Jay Sigel, a frequent playing partner of Marucci's in their hometown of Berwyn, Pa., was the last repeat winner in 1982 and 1983.

One-up heading to the par-4 final hole at Newport Country Club, Woods lofted his second shot from the middle of the fairway and watched it spin back to the pin. Woods pumped his fist as he walked up to the green.

He never had to make the putt, though. When Marucci missed a 20-foot birdie putt, he conceded the hole and title to Woods.

The victory gave Woods, from Cypress, Calif., his fifth national title in the last five years. He was the U.S. Junior champion in 1991, '92 and '93 and now has a 36-3 record in U.S. Golf Association

While the victory was not as dramatic as Woods' 1994 final match comeback from 6-down, he struggled to shake Marucci, who stayed close with smart, conservative play and a strong short game. Woods did not take the lead for good until the 30th hole and trailed Marucci, a four-time Pennsylvania amateur champion, for 15 of the first 27 holes.

The tide turned on the 30th hole, played on the par-4 12th, when Woods made the green in two and parred the hole.

with his third shot.

Marucci missed a 13-foot par putt to halve the hole, giving Woods a lead he never surren-

After both men parred the 31st and 32nd holes, Woods reached the green on the par-4 33rd hole in two shots, then sunk a 9-foot birdie putt to go 2-up when Marucci missed a 12-footer for birdie.

Tiger Woods embraces his father, Earl, after Tiger defeated George Marucci in the final round of the 1995 Centennial U.S. Amateur Golf Championship Sunday.

The players halved the 34th hole, and Marucci staved off elimination by parring the par-4 35th hole. Woods' tee shot landed in the rough and his second shot put him in a bunker way off the green.

Marucci, meanwhile, stayed out of trouble by hitting his approach 12 feet from the pin.

Woods reached the green on his third shot, but missed a long putt and conceded the hole to Marucci, who left his birdie putt less than a foot from the cup.

The lanky, soft-spoken Woods has been a golf prodigy since his father, Earl, introduced him to the game at the age of 6 months. Woods has taken his powerful game to several professional events, including this year's U.S. Open, Masters and British Open.

Marucci, who played golf at the University of Maryland, shot an even-par 70 and was 3-up during the morning round as Woods struggled with his chipping and putting. Woods shot 71 in the morning

After a midday break, Woods regained the lead for the first time since the opening holes with a birdie putt on the 24th hole. Marucci evened the match with a 70-foot pitch-in for birdie on the 26th hole, and stayed even until the 30th hole.

The 36-hole final climaxed a grueling tournament in which Woods Marucci drove into the rough on and Marucci played nine rounds the right and reached the green over six days, including six rounds in the last three.

A field of 312 began play, with two days of stroke play paring the field to 64 who began match play

The two finalists were selected to the 10-man U.S. team for the Walker Cup against Britain and Ireland on Sept. 9-10.

"I have used a Macintosh" for all of my class-related work, as well as for preparing my teaching material. I use it for word processing, spreadsheet capability and for presentations. I am currently conducting my first-year research experiment running slides on a Macintosh. It enables me to produce high-quality work from the convenience of my apartment. I use it for everything — I could not function as a student or teaching assistant without my Mac!

I bought a Mac because it is easy to use, it allows me to spend my time on my work- not on trying to figure out the computer"
