Packwood resigns amid sex scandal

The Senate's need for a wrenching public debate over sexual misconduct, said Packwood, who was elected to the Senate in 1965 at the age of 36. The action comes amid a swirl of events surrounding Packwood's resignation Thursday in the wake of an sexual and official misconduct.

Packwood, 61, said he didn't recall most of the sexual encounters, and added that he had been suffering from alcoholism — an illness for which he underwent treatment in recent years. He also denied the charges of evidence tampering and intentionally inaccurate reporting.

Not on Wednesday, the panel voted 6-2 to authorize the resignation, leading to Packwood's decision to quit rather than battle the investigation.

As word spread that he would quit, his actions after a quarter-century in the Senate: Packwood walked onto the Senate floor and began making a verbal statement. In other words, he acknowledged past battles were "very much in the past." He added, "There have been many missteps in these years, some failures, some embarrassments," he said.

"Friendships beyond a seat after resignation." The state's other senator, Republican Craig Thomas, also spoke, saying he would bring the job to the board and wouldn't assign a president to investigate the case.

The defense strategy is to remind that Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole and the Senate Republicans were not privy to the FBI's evidence.

Fastidious rodent fails to perform in Letterman's spotlight

TUCSON, Ariz. - A University of Arizona dormitory resident is in the mid-stream of a noise complaint, which began in early August, when he complained to his roommates about the noise (from the drums) that was coming from his dormitory.

Hobbes, the chinchilla, appeared on campus for the first time and vigorously roll around in the bushes. He and his chinchilla were high.

"It's the greatest thrill," he said in a thick black glasses made him appear.

The dormitory's noise complaint makes everyone think he is a straight man.

Announcements will not be visible.

Spokesman for the dormitory said: "We're going to keep the competition makes everyone think he is a straight man.

AIDS quilt serves to remind of disease's victims

Sarah Lackin

The Gazette

A portion of the AIDS quilt will be on exhibit tomorrow in conjunction with the AIDS vigil being held at 4 p.m. at the University of Iowa Library. Four panels of the quilt will be on display around the nation's capitol in conjunction with the quilt's national tour. The new display is sponsored by AIDS, by people who were close to their loved ones, and who have lost them to the disease.

"As of Aug. 10, the quilt was visited by 1,337 people, including Mary Jane Lueck, an Iowa City resident," said Mary Jane Lueck, a member of the steering committee of the Cedar Valley chapter of the National Quilting Project. "In addition, we have had over 600 people call the AIDS Hotline to learn more about the quilt." The National AIDS Quilt Project is a community-based art project that seeks to raise public awareness of the AIDS epidemic and human suffering caused by HIV.

AIDS quilts are a form of public art that serves to remind us of the human cost of the AIDS epidemic. They are a visual representation of the impact of the disease on individuals and families, and they serve as a reminder of the importance of continuing to support HIV/AIDS research and treatment.

The quilt exhibit is open to the public from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the fourth floor of the University of Iowa Library and will be on display until September 20. The exhibit is free and open to the public.

Fewer Iowa City bars open their doors to 19-year-olds

Ernie Lauer

The Daily Iowan

With the professional football season underway and Hawkeyes football beginning this weekend, bars and businesses in downtown Iowa City are finding themselves with one less option to offer the thousands of students who call the city home.

The Spartans Column, 12 S. Gilbert St., which has a mixed white- and minority-aged customer base, was closed on Monday.

"It's a busy place right now and we don't have the space," said owner Chris Stump.

The change was made last summer, Stump said, which was before the Iowa City Council passed an ordinance requiring bars to roll up their sidewalk doors after 2 a.m.

"We're trying to make a living," Stump said. "We don't want to be closed every night." The annual revenue generated by the ordinance, he said, will be passed on to the city.

Downtown Iowa City Police Chief Steve Plagge said the city has not seen a reduction in bars since the ordinance took effect.

Grayson Student Union is located at 444 N. Dubuque St. on Sept. 7 at 12:58 p.m. for second-degree theft.

"We've established an age for the bar that we're not going to go beyond," Plagge said. "We've had no problems with that." The fine is $150.

Fuglsang said she has noticed that the Spartans Column is popular among students since the change.

"Anytime you put a limit on something, there will be butterscotch萨icion of the legal age at 21," Fuglsang added.

The magazine also ranked the University of Iowa 19th in the world for the 2005-2006 year. Iowa City, home of the University of Iowa, was ranked first in the nation.

"It's a valid question, legally," it was in the best interest to only allow people over 21 in bars," Fuglsang said. "We have a loss in numbers on the lower age side." Fuglsang said there has been a loss in numbers on the lower age side.

"We have noticed a loss in some areas during the weekend that there's not a big game on," Plagge said. "It's a big thing that goes well with our larger crowds that attract our younger audience." Plagge said there has been a loss in numbers on the lower age side.

"Of course we change the age, the total business is affected," she said. "Our new bar has attracted people who have lived here and they stay in our bar." Fuglsang said she has noticed that the Spartans Column is popular among students since the change.

"Any time you put a limit on something, there will be butterscotch萨icion of the legal age at 21," Fuglsang added.

"A tipical question," said Plagge. "Lately, we've been interested in only allowing people over 21 in bars." The legal age in Iowa is 21.

There are two types of bars in Iowa City: those that allow people under the legal drinking age and those that serve only adults.

"There are bars that allow 19-year-olds to drink and there are bars that allow people over the legal drinking age," Fuglsang said. "We want to keep a balance." The fines for second-degree theft in Iowa City are $90.

Oakridge, 590; Michael Ridenour, 245 S. Roosevelt St., both of Iowa City, were fined $90.

"It's hard to find a place to go to watch the games and I don't have the time to go to the stadium," said Ridenour. "It's a big problem." Ridenour said he's not willing to go to 21 bars because of their ages.

"I don't have the time to worry about that," Ridenour said. "I just have to do what I have to do." Ridenour said he's not willing to go to 21 bars because of their ages.

UI cafe tour gives food for thought

A group of about six students from the University of Iowa, world-renowned for its student-run cafes, was given a tour of the Hillcrest Dining Hall on Wednesday. The tour was led by Murray Tinsman, a residence hall director who oversee the operation of the dining hall.

The students began their jour- ney at the dining room. Connie Murray, the tour leader, pointed out the many different food stations available, including the deli bar, salad bar, and pizza station.

"The deli bar gives you one more choice. It's here so you can buy a sandwich and choose a potato side dish. If you want a salad, you can choose a potato side dish there," Murray said.

Students were also impressed by the variety of food options available at the dining hall.

"It's kind of a joint effort," Murray said. "We're not just doing this to make money, but to provide a variety of food for students who might be allergic to certain things."

Murray then guided the group through the student areas, explaining the benefits of the residence halls and their well-being.

"We're not just doing this to make money for an em- ployee, but to provide a variety of food for students who might be allergic to certain things," Murray said.

The students followed the tour guide to the student areas, where they were able to sample the food and ask questions.

"I really enjoyed the tour," said one student. "I learned a lot about the food options available at the Hillcrest Dining Hall."

The tour ended with a question-and-answer session with Murray.

"I enjoyed the tour," said another student. "I learned a lot about the food options available at the Hillcrest Dining Hall."

Murray said she hoped students would enjoy the tour and that they would come back for more.

"I hope they come back for more," Murray said. "I think they'll enjoy the tour."

The tour is open to all students, and Murray said she hoped to see many more students participate in the future.

Eagle stores mount sale to support employee

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — Hurricane Luis, the ninth tropical storm of the season, was forecast to make landfall in Puerto Rico early today, leaving at least 100,000 people stranded and washed without the facilities of power, water, fuel, cooking gas,通讯设备, and electricity. The storm's movement, forecast to hit land in the northeastern part of the island early Wednesday, added to the woes of government officials and residents who have been hit by hurricanes in recent years.

The government is expected to make an announcement as Hurricane Luis approaches land. Residents were asked to stay away from the coast. The governor, Mr. Diesselnbacher, said the region would be declared a disaster zone.

French officials today began focusing on aid to St. Martin, which is a part of the islands of St. Barthelemy.

The British government directed the British oil company to release funds to the United Kingdom to cover the cost of the hurricane.

School Board seeks to solve space constraints, construction of new grade school poised to vote

On Sept. 12, the Iowa City Community School District's school board will vote on a $48.2 million-bound referendum. The bond will pay for a new elementary school in the rapid-growth communities of Coralville and North Liberty. It is one of the few times in recent years that the school district has been able to request additional funds from the taxpayers.

The design of the Webber school has worked well and the district will follow the same design for the new school. A new school with the same design was approved in 2001, and the new school will be built at the earliest possible date. The new school will have a larger capacity than the old school.

"I was home in the Big Ten last season we're right telling stories of games against Chicago."

When his football coach took the podium, he revealed his defense's pride with the raw story.

"I was proud when I heard the news of the Big Ten title."

Later, he was shot in a World WAR II airfield while working professional baseball again.

"You, sorry?" Prase said after he bowed into Iowa in the 1940s. "I was proud when I heard the news of the Big Ten title."

Days later, he was proud of the present and proud of another.

Clarence Schwartz was a tremendous baseball player. His name is written on the scorecard.

The Hawks shouldn't have any problem with the top end. Many of them are in line for the American league according to some sources. If he remains healthy, something he's had trouble with recently, Autumn will be one of Tama's primary targets.

Patriots hope to show Dolphins they’re all grown up

The Sunday Times.

James [Hawkeyes will be tough tests at the new (Drew Bledsoe). The two teams have played against each other since they met in 1977, and are coming off a 49-10 win over the Bears in the Super Bowl. The Patriots have yet to lose a game this season.

The Hawkeyes battle preseason top team Miami as a preview for their game against the Dolphins. The Patriots have lost three straight games against the Dolphins, including a 38-9 defeat in the Super Bowl.

The Panthers and Dolphins are both in the middle of the pack in their respective divisions, and are looking to prove that they can compete with the top teams in the league.

The Panthers are led by quarterback Dan Marino, who has thrown for 2,500 yards and 25 touchdowns so far this season. The Dolphins are led by quarterback Dan Marino, who has thrown for 2,000 yards and 15 touchdowns so far this season.

Sosa sizzles as Cubbies' savior

Milo Nadel  Associated Press

CHICAGO - The camera never left Sammy Sosa, the TV lights danced on the classroom to the degree. They tracked him as his every move in the field captured his every swing in the batter's box.

When they needed in on the NL home-run run and AL RBI leader as he struggled, a friend of his White Sox teammates, Mark Grace, called.

"The need's a lot run him out of here," Grace said. "He ran out of steam, he just kept hitting those strikes. We're worried about the stuff."

Chicago White Sox's Jeff Blauser hit a two-run single in the fifth inning, against Los Angeles Dodgers starter Hideo Nomo, to give the White Sox a 3-2 victory Wednesday night that improved their wild-card chances.

"That was a huge hit," said White Sox manager Tom历cro. "It's a very good win for our club and Sammy's hot right now."

The White Sox (92-63) took over first place in the AL Central in a series beginning Friday night in Seattle.

Iowa Memorial Union & Iowa Football, timeless traditions
Shaw runs toward greatness

Chris Snider
The Daily Iowan

When Sedrick Shaw started playing organized football at the age of seven, he probably never dreamed how far it would take him.

Fifteen years later, he’s run his way into the hearts of thousands of Hawkeye fans and is on his way into the Iowa record books.

“He’s an excellent football player, certainly one of the finest running backs, receivers and blockers we’ve ever had here,” Iowa football coach Hayden Fry said.

Shaw, a 6-1, 195-pound junior from Austin, Texas, ranks No. 13 on the Iowa career rushing list with 1,563 yards, only 999 yards short of Tony Stewart’s career rushing record set in 1990.

Shaw rushed for 1,002 yards last season, becoming only the second Iowa sophomore to rush for more than 1,000 yards in a year and only the seventh Hawkeye to reach that plateau.

But Shaw is not worrying about the record, or any other individual records for that matter. He concerns himself more with the team concept of the game.

“I’m not really concerned with (the record),” Shaw said. “I’m really concerned about going out there and doing the best I can to help the team.”

As he gets closer to Stewart’s mark, it is going to be mentioned more and more, but Shaw refuses to get caught up in the hoopla.

“It’s a possibility, but at the same time, it could be taken away,” he said. “You never know, I could get hurt or anything could happen, so I can’t just focus in and make that my No. 1 goal.”

Shaw says he learned his unselfish style of play when he first started playing organized football many years ago. He also gives Fry credit for some of his recent success.

“Ever since we first met, we had a special relationship,” Shaw said.

“He’s a great person. Even though he’s a living legend, when times have been rough or they’ve been great, he’s always been by my side, encouraging me and pushing me to keep doing better.”

Shaw came to Iowa in 1992, but Iowa junior Sedrick Shaw is in position to break Tony Stewart’s Iowa all-time rushing record. Shaw needs 999 yards in his final two seasons as a Hawkeye to reach the record. Last season, Shaw rushed for 1,002 yards.

—Sedrick Shaw
Iowa running back

“’I can’t imitate anybody. God put me on this earth to be Sedrick. I can’t be anybody else.’”

Shaw went to high school at LBJ High School in Austin, the same high school attended by current Hawkeye wide receiver Demarke Odems.

As a junior at LBJ, Shaw was a member of the national champion mile relay team that clocked a time of 3:10.4 seconds. He also ran personal-best times of 21.3 seconds in the 200 meters and 46.9 seconds in the 400 meters.

He rushed for 1,120 yards as a senior in high school, earning SuperPrep all-American honors.

UI athletic facilities get a facelift for 1995 season

Roxanna Pellin
The Daily Iowan

Weight machines have been transplanted down the hall, and the smell of sweat has been painted over.

Plush carpet and rows of orange-cushioned chairs now fill the space of Iowa's old weight room. What used to be a sweatshop has been turned into a brand new team auditorium complete with desks that fold down off the arms of the chair.

Down the hall and around the corner, about 60 shiny yellow hammer strength machines are put to use in the new Jacobson Athletic Building, which has been added on to the old football building.

It's easy to see where the $7.7 million was spent in the project, which houses 11 men's and women's teams. What's hard to believe is that every cent to build the facility was donated by Hawkeye fans.

But it wasn't an easy selling job, athletic director Bob Bowlsby said.

"The biggest obstacle was getting out and telling the story... and make sure and convince everybody that we're not adding a whole lot of bells and whistles that aren't absolutely necessary," he said. "We had fallen behind relative to our competition, particularly in the league."

Mark Jennings, assistant athletic director of development, was in charge of raising money for the Hawkeye Horizons campaign, which kicked off after the spring game in 1992. Not many fans realized a new facility was needed, Jennings said.

"Unlike the arena, we raised about $11 million when we built the arena," he said. "Well, everybody knew we needed a new basketball arena. People didn't realize that we needed this. This is a behind-the-scenes facility."

Defensive ends, defensive backs, quarterbacks and receivers, linebackers, offensive linemen and defensive linemen all have their own meeting rooms. There's even a separate tape removal room where players go after practice. Track, softball, field hockey, tennis and baseball also have offices there.

It was a need to find improved facilities, not just football, that led to the campaign fund raising drive called Hawkeye Horizons, said Bowlsby.

"We didn't have a women's coaches locker room, a team meeting room," he said. "We were really cramped in the sports medicine facilities. The weight training facilities were the worst in the Big Ten. All of those things were leased for $100,000."

The renovation was the first major change in the pressbox since it was built in 1958. Cost of the project was $1.5 million.

The athletic department has taken on a $1.6 million project to install new scoreboards for all UI facilities.

Skyboxes, scoreboard give Kinnick new look

While most Hawkeye fans sweat it out in the stands Saturday afternoon, a privileged few will cheer, wine and dine in 17 new private viewing areas just completed this summer.

Depending on size, boxes were leased for 10 years starting at $100,000.

Iowa athletic director Bob Bowlsby said the UI had no problem finding fans to fill the boxes. In fact, it could have sold more, he said.

Private sky boxes are a trend for many colleges.

"The majority have private viewing areas, and some don't have any at all," Bowlsby said. "That would be a rare case."

The renovation was the first major change in the pressbox.

'94 season ends on a high note

Chris Snider
The Daily Iowan

1994 was a year of ups and downs for the Iowa football team.

Beginning the season without an experienced quarterback and without the services of linemen Vernon Rollins and Tex Montgomery, the Hawkeyes had a lot of questions still waiting to be answered when things kicked off.

But the answers came quickly as Iowa thrashed Central Michigan in its season opener, 52-21, in Iowa City.

Sedrick Shaw led the way for the Hawkeyes, rushing for 135 yards on 11 carries and Ryan Driscoll connected on 13 of 19 passes for 175 yards as the Hawkeyes raked up 566 yards of total offense.

But the story of the game was Tim Dwight. Playing as a true freshman, he returned two kickoff returns for 63 total yards on four punt returns, instantly becoming a crowd favorite.

In week two, Iowa State came to town, hoping to end an 11 game losing streak. The Hawkeyes, however, had other plans.

Iowa scored once in each of the first two quarters, each on an 11 yard touchdown run. Louisville's quarterback Matt Cakala added another in the third quarter, running through the Iowa line for 120 yards and the final score of 35-0.

The Hawkeyes were able to outgain the Nittany Lions in total yards 455-433, including 214 yards passing by Driscoll. Aside from its three touchdowns, Iowa marched inside the Penn State 20-yard line on four occasions, only to come out empty.

The Hawkeyes hoped to rebound the next week when they traveled to Oregon.

Driscoll threw for 255 yards and Shaw rushed for 89 more as the Hawkeyes outgained the Ducks 421-279 in total offense, but mistakes proved costly. Iowa had four turnovers and 10 penalties for 107 yards, allowing the Ducks to win 40-18.

Harold Jasper had a 68-yard punt return for a touchdown in the losing effort.

The Hawkeyes returned home for their fifth game of the season to host Michigan in front of a soldout Kinnick Stadium.

Driscoll threw for 196 yards, rushing for one touchdown and passing for another.

The Hawkeyes trailed by a score of 22-14 with the ball in Michigan territory early in the fourth quarter, but Michigan blocked a field goal and drove 77 yards for the final score of the game, winning 29-14.

Week six was homecoming for the Hawkeyes and a showdown with Indiana.

Iowa led 14-7 late in the second half when Driscoll scrambled, only to come up with a broken collar bone. With No. 2 quarterback Matt Sherman out with a fractured foot and Jefferson Bates suffering from a sore ankle, the call went to fourth-string quarterback Mike Duprey.

Duprey led the Hawkeyes to two scores in the second half, but the story today would be Indiana running back Alex Smith. Smith rushed for 232 yards on 43 carries as the Hoosiers spoiled Iowa's homecoming, 27-20.

The seventh week of the season sent the Hawkeyes across the Mississippi River to Illinois, a trip the Hawkeyes would prefer to forget.

The Illini held Iowa to just 71 yards passing, while throwing for 311 themselves, in winning 47-7. Duprey left the game in the second half with an injury and Corby Smith sprained his ankle. With Driscoll and Sherman still sidelined, Bates was left as the only Iowa quarterback.

With a 2-5 record, the Hawkeyes returned home bruised and beaten, but ready to play.

With Duprey back at quarterback, the Hawkeyes relied on a ball-control offense, only throwing the ball ten times.

Shaw rushed for 137 yards and Kent Kahl added 120 as the Hawkeyes gained 369 yards on the ground en route to a 19-14 victory. The victory broke Iowa's five game losing streak and set off a celebration that included tearing down the goalposts at Kinnick.

The next week, Iowa traveled to West Lafayette, Ind., to face Purdue.

The Boilermakers led 13-0 going into the final quarter, but the Hawkeyes were not done yet. A comeback, sparked by the return of Sherman, put Iowa ahead 21-13, before a controversial Purdue touchdown and two-point conversion forced a tie.

Kahl led the way with 108 yards rushing, and Parker Wildeman paced the defense with 12 tackles.

The tie meant Iowa could not attain the total of six victories necessary to reach a bowl game, making the final two games simply a matter of Hawkeye pride.

Week 10 would be the final home game of the season for the Hawkeyes, and the first start in the career of Sherman.

Iowa was never threatened as Sherman threw for 331 yards on 19-24 accuracy. Shaw rushed for 114 yards, and Harold Jasper caught 6 passes for 115 yards as the Iowa offense tallied 602 total yards.

The Iowa defense intercepted three passes and forced two fumbles in the game.

The final was a showdown with Minnesota. The only thing on the line was Floyd of Rosedale, but for the Iowa and Minnesota offenses, that was motivation enough.

Sherman threw for 258 yards and caught a nine-yard touchdown pass from Ryan Driscoll cut Michigan's lead to 22-14. Slutzker caught six passes for 63 yards in the game, but the Hawkeyes lost 29-14.

Iowa's season not over yet. From Ryan Driscoll cut Michigan's lead to 22-14. Slutzker caught six passes for 63 yards in the game, but the Hawkeyes lost 29-14. Slutzker, Guy and Driscoll all return this season.

Iowa veterans will ignite special teams

Chris Snider
The Daily Iowan

Never has a name so appropriately represented a group of Iowa Hawkeye football players than this year's special teams.

The Iowa special teams for the 1995 season can be considered "special" in many ways. With all the main members returning from a year ago, the Iowa kicking and kick returning game will be one of the strongest aspects of the Hawkeye attack. It all begins with the heart and soul of the unit, Tim Dwight.

As a true freshman, Dwight finished the year first in the Big Ten in punt returning, averaging 12.4 yards per return. This year, Dwight will be used more on offense, but he'll also be around for special teams.

"Anytime we think he can help us win, Tim Dwight will be there," Iowa football coach Hayden Fry said. "He's an inspirational, greatest competitor of any youngster I've ever had in my whole coaching career. Pound for pound, he's the best." - Hayden Fry, on punt returner Tim Dwight

Dwight was a member of every kicking and cover unit last season, leading the way on punts and kickoffs. As a true freshman, Dwight led the Big Ten in punt returning last season (11.4 yards per return) and Gallery finished second in punting (42.0 yards per punt). Tim Dwight (top) and Nick Gallery (right) will both be relied on to help the Iowa special teams this season. Dwight led the Big Ten in punt returning last season (11.4 yards per return) and Gallery finished second in punting (42.0 yards per punt).

Hawkeye Ironmen relive glory days

Nile Kinnick and the 1939 Iowa football team finished the year 6-1-1. Amongst the wins was an upset of Notre Dame that set off such a celebration throughout Iowa City, University President Eugene Gilmore cancelled Monday classes. Five members of the Ironmen, as they are called, gathered Thursday to share old memories and relive their glory days.

David Schwartz
The Daily Iowan

The team of '39 became an instant legend after its defeat of Notre Dame, the nation's powerhouse. The Fighting Irish came to Iowa City looking for an easy game; what they found was a smothering Hawkeye defense.

"We couldn't score, but boy could we play defense," Green said.

A week later, Iowa beat Minnesota to finish the season 6-1-1, and again the town celebrated.

"In the history of Big Ten schools, I don't think that Monday classes have ever been canceled two weeks in a row — except at Iowa," Green said.

"Nobody was going to be there anyway, so it was the president's wisdom to call them off," Coupee said.

"The surviving Ironmen still carry heavy hearts for their teammate, former Heisman Trophy winner, Nile Kinnick. Kinnick was the epitome of drive and determination, a swift halfback keen on making opposing defenses look like uncoordinated preschoolers."

"I don't think I ever met a man who had the will and the purpose that (Kinnick) did," Prasse said. "If he had the mind to do something, he would just do it. It was as if there were no doubt whatever he wanted to do he would just put his mind to it and do it."

Kinnick's teammates remember him as a studious athlete, showing the same ambition in the classroom as on the football field.

However, that's not to say Kinnick was never caught off guard.

"I remember Whitey and I had geology my freshman year, and Nile Kinnick was also in there," Prasse said. "Well, there was a test coming up and Whitey and I weren't exactly ready — not much of a surprise — so we decided to go over to Quad dormitory and see Kinnick.

"Well, we had always wondered about his hair. It was always so short and perfect, like mine (Prasse is almost completely bald). No matter what time of day it was or when we saw him, Kinnick's hair looked the same.

"So we go over to the dormitory and push open Kinnick's door. And what do see?" Prasse said as he looked toward the audience through the corner of his eye, "there's Kinnick with a woman's stocking on his head with the top tied in a knot.

"Here was this great runner, and there he was walking around his room with a pair of women's stockings tied right around his head."

Kinnick died June 2, 1943, over the temperature was soaring.

The deceased Enich was a tackle out of Boone, Iowa. He was the son of Serbian immigrants and lived in a renovated train car. Coupee said, to this day, Enich was the toughest player he ever met.

One game, early in the season, the temperature was soaring. Since coach Williams rarely substituted for the Ironmen, the players were unable to catch a breather.

Prasse lost 18 pounds on that day alone, Coupee said. After the game was over, Enich just laid on the ground. They watched him try to get to his feet, but he kept falling back to the grass, unable to move.

Finally, the trainer went out. "I'm OK," Enich said. "I just can't stand up."

After Enich was taken to the hospital, he was pumped full of fluids.

He returned the next week and went on to play in six-straight games without a substitute, 36 consecutive minutes.

The Ironmen meet once every five years, with each meeting becoming more sparse of players.

Well, we had always wondered about (Nile Kinnick's) hair. It was always so short and perfect, like mine (Prasse is almost completely bald). No matter what time of day it was or when we saw him, Kinnick's hair looked the same.

— Erwin Prasse
Iowa captain, 1939

Each present member spoke of the need to keep the memory of the Ironmen and what they stood for alive.

"The relation of the '39 team is an everlasting feeling," Green said. "The group is smaller now, but the spirit is still there.

"We could not have won those games without our spirit and determination."

But perhaps it was Coupee, the quarterback, who summed it up best.

"Tradition builds a program," he said.
Twelve months ago, the Iowa Hawkeyes had two promising young quarterbacks, but neither one had game experience.

Ryan Driscoll and Matt Sherman both had their sights set on being the Hawkeyes' quarterback of the future, and both brightly shined in 1994.

This year, they're back, and they're experienced veterans, a luxury the Hawkeyes are happy to enjoy.

"We can win with Sherman or Driscoll," Iowa football coach Hayden Fry said. "They're both quality quarterbacks."

Sherman comes in as the No. 1 quarterback, and the job basically is his to lose.

But don't think you've heard the last of Driscoll. Driscoll is in the No. 2 spot and should see plenty of action this year. Fry plans on using as many quarterbacks as possible early in the season, just in case there is a repeat of last year's rash of quarterback injuries.

Sherman knows the competition won't go away. "That will go on as long as I'm here and Ryan's here," Sherman said. "We'll always be right there competing with each other and that's only going to make us better."

Chuck Long joins staff

Roaming the Iowa sidelines this season will be a familiar face to Hawkeye fans.

As a Hawkeye quarterback, Chuck Long led Iowa to four bowl games in four years, including the 1985 Rose Bowl in his senior season.

He was a consensus all-American and runner-up for the Heisman Trophy.

This year, after nine seasons in the NFL, Long enters his first year as the defensive backfield coach for Iowa.

"Chuck's a great addition to our staff," Fry said. "Being a Hawk, people know about him, from a recruiting standpoint. He'll recruit here in Iowa and up in the suburbs of Chicago where he's from."

Despite coaching the defense, Long has been able to help the Iowa quarterbacks a bit.

"He gave another insight on how I should prepare for the game, different things you can do in the weight room," Sherman said.

Panthers looking for respect, upset

Chris Snider

The Daily Iowan

UNI is a team on a mission, with nothing to lose.

Despite battling its way to the top of the Gateway Conference five years in a row, becoming one of the most respected I-AA teams in the nation, and defeating Division I Iowa State last season, the Panthers still have one more hurdle to get over — beat Iowa.

But they’d settle for looking respectable.

“We’ve done everything we can to establish ourselves as a legitimate program in the state,” UNI Coach Terry Allen said. “We have a lot of kids who were recruited by Iowa but who were not offered scholarships. It’s our opportunity to say we can play competitively.”

There has been mention lately of the Panthers moving into Division I, a move that would help the program financially, but would hurt their winning ways.

“We’ve had some success early playing middle of the row I-AA teams, but we’re going up against a seasoned team,” Allen said. “I think they’re unknown nationally. The reality is this (Iowa) team is a legitimate top three or four team in the Big Ten. It’s the best team we’ve played in the last 10 years.”

For the Panthers this game represents a golden opportunity. More than just showing they can compete with Iowa, it is a chance to prove that they can compete with all Division I schools.

“We have nothing to lose,” Allen said. “We have a lot of men from the state. We need to be capable of and elevate our play. I don’t know if that will be good enough.”

The Panthers are coming off a disappointing 26-7 loss to Stephen F. Austin in Texas, but that doesn’t mean Hayden Fry isn’t resting any easier.

People don’t realize how tough Stephen F. Austin is, I lived there and coached there, I know the kind of players they have (in Texas),” Fry said.

“You have to realize how many thousands and thousands of high school athletes they have in Texas. They all can’t go to Southwest Conference schools.”

Allen, in his seventh year at the helm of the Panthers, has been named the Gateway Conference Coach of the Year for the past four years.

Last season, Northern Iowa won its fifth straight Gateway Conference title, finishing the year a perfect 6-0 in the conference, earning a berth in the 1-AA playoffs.

The Panthers were defeated in the first round by Montana, 23-20, and finished the season 8-4, ranked No. 11 in the final Sports Network poll.

This year, the Panthers are led by pre-season second team all-American wide receiver Dedric Ward and third team all-American tight end Matt Harken. Ward caught four passes for 44 yards against Stephen F. Austin. Harken missed the game with a separated shoulder. He is listed as uncertain for this week’s game.

At quarterback for UNI is Chris Berg, Berg, who transferred from Stanford two years ago, completed 20-of-31 passes for 242 yards with one interception last weekend.

UNI very easily could have won the Stephen F. Austin game. The Panthers were inside the SFA 10-yard-line three times without scoring, giving the ball up on downs all three times.

The Panthers managed just 31 yards rushing the ball 35 times against Stephen F. Austin, an average of 0.9 yards per rush. James Porter led the team with 23 yards on eight attempts.

Defensively, Tyree Talton had 12 tackles for UNI. Kevin Hammond added the Panthers’ only sack of the game.

The Panthers are excited going into the Iowa game, something that worries Fry.

“UNI is going to be 20 feet off the ground when they come into Kinnick Stadium for the first game, so we know that will be tough,” Fry said.

Allen has some worries of his own.

“(Iowa’s) a golden opportunity for us; but it presents some problems. First of all, we’re young and we could be intimidated,” Allen said.

“The second problem is Iowa is very, very good on offense. Offensively, you’re only as good as your offensive line, and they have excellent leadership. Their quarterbacks are good, running backs are special. I could go on and on offensively.”

Iowa items...

Webb drops out, leaves gap on defensive line

Iowa defensive tackle Chris Webb has decided to forego his final season of eligibility and drop out of the university.

Webb was listed as a starter for Saturday’s game, but due to nagging injuries and a problem with academic leaving without football without earning a degree, he has decided to move on.

“I needed to get out of Iowa City,” Webb said. “It’s hard enough leaving football without having to be around it every day.”

“He’ll be helping out on the farm,” Fry said. “He made that decision. We’re real sad about that because he’s a fine young man.”

NOTES

10-game season

The addition of Northern Iowa to the Iowa schedule reduces the schedule to a 10-game season, from a bowl game standpoint.

Because the Panthers are a Division I-AA school, an Iowa victory will not count towards the six wins necessary to play in a bowl game.

The Hawkeyes will have to win at least six of their remaining 10 games to reach postseason play.

Since the division was established in 1978, Iowa has played only one other Division I-AA school. The Hawkeyes defeated Drake, 58-0, to kick off the 1985 season.

Rose Bowl?

If the Iowa Hawkeyes don’t go to the Rose Bowl this year, it will mark the first time in the Hayden Fry era that a fifth-year senior doesn’t take a trip to Pasadena.

No fifth-year senior recruited by Fry has ever gone all five years without a trip to Pasadena until New Year’s Day.

Currently, there are 11 fifth-year seniors on the Iowa roster — George Bennett, Lloyd Bickham, Bobby Diaco, Chris Jackson, Aaron Kooiker, Mark Mulherin, Matt Purdy, Todd Romano, Danami Shakoor, Scott Slutzker and Casey Weigmann.

Quote of the week

“I’m a nice guy. I truly feel like it’s good to keep all the money in the state.”

- Hayden Fry, regarding the benefits of playing UNI

Injury report

Iowa’s only remaining injured defensive starter, Tom Knight, is still questionable for Saturday’s game with UNI.

“It’s possible that he’ll play in the ballgame on Saturday,” Fry said on Tuesday. “That will not be determined until later in the week.”

Knight started the first six games at defensive tackle last season before missing the final five with a knee injury. He had surgery in the off season.

As of yet, he has not been released to play, but is listed as the Hawkeyes second string cornerback for the UNI game.

Burger joins backfield

One of the most pleasant surprises of the fall for the Hawkeyes has been the emergence of redshirt freshman Mike Burger at fullback.

Burger came to Iowa as a tight end, will not count towards the six wins necessary to play in a bowl game.

Burger joined the backfield in the spring of his freshman year before missing the final five games with a knee injury. He had surgery in the off season.

As of yet, he has not been released to play, but is listed as the Hawkeyes second string cornerback for the UNI game.

Youth movement

When the Iowa defense takes the field this Saturday, it will be the youngest starting defensive unit ever fielded by a Hayden Fry coached team.

Corey Brown, a true freshman from Houston, Texas, will back up Lloyd Bickham at nose guard.

The other two freshmen are cornerback Eric Thigpen and tackle Aron Klein.

Iowa’s probation continues

Iowa’s probation continues as the second year of probation was served in 1995.

Steve Sifford, the former Iowa defensive coordinator, is listed as an assistant football coach for the University of Wisconsin.

Sifford served as the Iowa defensive coordinator from 1986 to 1995.

Webb not at practice

“I don’t know if he’s going to play or not,” Fry said.

Pregame's pick...

UNI beat Iowa? I don’t think so!

The biggest blowout in the history of Iowa football came in 1914, when the Hawkeyes defeated Iowa Teachers College 95-0 in Iowa City.

Not surprisingly, Iowa Teachers College didn’t return to face the Hawkeyes the next year, or the next 80 years for that matter.

But this year it’ll return, looking to finally avenge the loss and end 80 years of hardship. A few things have changed since then: The team’s changed its name to Northern Iowa, donned a Panther as its mascot, updated its uniforms and become a pretty fine football team.

Unfortunately for the Panthers, they’ll still lose. It won’t be 95-0. In fact, they’ll probably even score, but even after 80 years, they’re still no match for the Iowa Hawkeyes.

Sure, UNI is a good Division I-AA football team, and it has even talked of moving into Division I, but there’s still a big difference between Division I-AA and Iowa Hawkeye football.

The Hawkeyes are a team on the rise. With the majority of their big-name players from a year ago returning, Iowa is looking to make that next step and return to their mid-1980’s status as a Big Ten powerhouse.

The Panthers, on the other hand, have been a Division I-AA powerhouse for years. Their pre-season rankings ranged from No. 5 in the country to No. 19. Even if they did make the jump to Division I, it would take years to reach the status of a Big Ten school.

The largest crowd ever to see the Panthers play was 50,120 in 1987 when UNI traveled to Minnesota to play the Golden Gophers. The largest crowd this particular group of Panthers has ever played in front of is probably significantly smaller.

The Pregame’s Pick...

IOWA UNI
52 10
HAWKEYES PANTHERS

The UNI-Dome seats just more than 16,000 people, a far cry from the 68,000 plus expected for Saturday’s game. In fact, I’ll be surprised if all 70,397 seats aren’t filled for this in-state battle.

The UNI players may come in pretty pumped up, but don’t be surprised if they are a little intimidated by the Hawkeye faithful.

Sure, the Panthers will have quite a following travel down Interstate-380 for the game, but they won’t compare to the number of Hawkeye fanatics aimlessly tossing marshmallows onto the field.

The Panthers are a good team, and maybe if the game was in Cedar Falls, they’d have a chance to hang in for awhile, but let’s face reality.

When it comes down to it, Iowa would win no matter where the game was played.

The Iowa Hawkeyes are a young, powerful, hungry ballclub, and they are not about to get caught up in some in-state rivalry hoopla.

The Hawkeyes have had to stand by and watch their Big Ten foes open their seasons a week early, while Iowa has had to continue beating up on each other in practice, hungering for some new competition.

Expect the Hawkeyes to feed on the Panthers as Sedrick Shaw and Tavian Banks have a heyday running behind the huge Hawkeye offensive line.

Also, expect Matt Sherman to continue the marksman-like passing he showcased at the end of last season, hitting on more than 70 percent of his passes.

Of course, UNI will have some highlights, too, but only after the Iowa first team has hung up the cleats for the day.

Take close attention as the new Iowa scoreboard is put to the test. Iowa 52, Northern Iowa 10.

Iowa’s Kooiker to battle brother-in-law, former Hawkeye in clash of Iowa schools

Roxanna Pellin
The Daily Iowan

Michelle Kooiker is caught in the middle of a battle, but she’s not about to pick a side.

Her husband, Derek Fulton, is a senior linebacker for Northern Iowa. Her brother, Evan, is an offensive lineman at North Dakota State, and her older brother, Lance, played at Central College.

For the big game, Fulton and his friends have sold shirts that say “Finally a state rivalry worth watching.”

On Saturday, Fulton’s just hoping for a chance to play.

“As Aaron’s played quite a bit and he’s established himself,” Fulton said. “I’m still trying to convince coaches here that I can play. I’m trying to earn myself a spot.”

More than 50 friends and family members will trek to Iowa City for the big matchup, which has split some loyalties, Fulton said.

“Most of my Dad’s side will be there, and they’re really big Iowa fans,” Fulton said. “But I think they’ll be cheering for UNI. They’ll always be Iowa fans, but since I’m here, they’ll be pulling for UNI.”

Football is big in Aaron Kooiker’s family. Aaron’s twin brother, Evan, is an offensive lineman at North Dakota State, and his older brother, Lance, played at Central College.

As for predictions for the game, neither brother-in-law would really say much.

“We can’t afford to look past them,” Aaron Kooiker said. “The last two years they played Iowa State, they beat them. If we get beat, then that’s doesn’t bode well for the rest of our season.”

“Win or lose, it won’t change anything,” Fulton said. “If we are able to pull off an upset, I’ll give him a hard time.”

Fulton was in the wedding. “A lot of people ask me who I’m going to cheer for, and I’m staying neutral,” she said. “Even though I have to live with Aaron if (Iowa) happens to lose.”

Aaron Kooiker and Fulton said they really don’t discuss the big game with each other.

“We’ve talked a little bit,” Aaron Kooiker said. “But it’s really not fair for us to talk trash to each other. We want to have a good game against UNI and get the ball rolling for the Big Ten.”

Fulton walked on at Northern Iowa last year after transferring from Iowa. He walked on at Iowa, especially on special teams, he said. “A lot of guys were in the same position I was, but they didn’t transfer. Some quit, but I knew I had the ability to play.”

Needless to say, Fulton is excited about his return to Kinnick Stadium.

“There’s some tension there,” he said. “It’s my opportunity to prove what I can do. Aaron will be starting, and I’m still trying to prove myself. He understands where I’m coming from.”

UI sets 'Safe Saturday' guidelines for football fans

Backpacks, large packages and duffel bags are prohibited from Kinnick Stadium.

Other guidelines are as follows:

- Alcoholic beverages, botas, all coolers, canned and bottled beverages, banners, seat backs, noisemakers, horns, bugs and video equipment will not be allowed.
- Smoking is prohibited, including concourses, restrooms and the press box.
- No objects may be thrown from the stands.
- No "body passing" is permitted.
- No beer trucks or kegs allowed in UI parking areas.
- No alcohol is permitted in the stadium, andUI parking areas.
- Smoking is prohibited, including concourses, restrooms and the press box.
- No objects may be thrown from the stands.
- No "body passing" is permitted.
- No beer trucks or kegs allowed in UI parking areas.

Road construction on Interstate 80 could cause delays for Hawkeye fans traveling to Iowa City this weekend.

Fans who don't want to drive through the traffic near the stadium should consider parking in any of three municipal parking ramps in downtown Iowa City.

Free UI CAMBUS service will shuttle fans from downtown Pentacrest and from Hancher Auditorium to the stadium area, starting two hours before the game. The return pickup point is UI Hospital School on Newton Road.

UI parking areas will open at 7 a.m.

combined led us to believe that the time was right to get going on it. I guess there's really no good time to go out and raise $8 million, but it was believed that we ought to get to it."

One person who couldn't be happier with the roll is Iowa football coach Hayden Fry. "We really have finalized a lot of our projects this year. All of those things are really first class," he said.

"It's natural that young men and young women compare facilities like they do the food, the athletic program or the academic prestige of the university. When you walk into our physical plant, they have to be very impressed."

The Jacobson Building is named in honor of Des Moines businessman and UI alumnus Richard O. Jacobson, who donated $1 million to the project last spring.

An honor roll engraved on a plaque in the reception area lists everyone who had donated $750.

About 1,000 fans who gave $1,500 have their names on bricks in the Walk of Honor, the sidewalk leading to the facility. For $3,000, donors got their names on a locker. And for $20,000, fans had their names on a room or area of the building.

New scoreboards are just some of the new additions to Hawkeye football this season. The athletic department renovated scoreboards for most facilities.

Although the campaign successfully raised the money it needed for the facility, Jennings said the money keeps trickling in. There's still more that needs to be done.

"We're still getting bricks. People look at them and say "hey, they look so nice, I'd like to get one." It's not too late," he said.

Shaw

Currently, Shaw in No. 13 on the Iowa career rushing list, 21 yards behind Tim Sullivan, who played for Iowa from 1967-1970. Shaw needs 103 yards on Saturday to move into ninth place overall and just 99 yards to crack the top 10.

With great blockers to run behind, Shaw's chances of breaking the record this season seem optimistic. The Hawkeyes offensive line is a veteran one, led by captains Matt Purdy and Casey Weigmann.

"We'll have a much better running game because of these great big physical guys up front, than say, the Paul Burmeister team (in 1993)," Fry said.

Aside from injuries, the only thing standing in Shaw's way of the record is a large group of backs and receivers. With Tavian Banks, Tim Dwight, Scott Stratton, Willie Guy and Demo Odems all competing for the ball, Shaw may not see as many carries as in years past, but he's not losing any sleep over it.

"My role is to help the University of Iowa win football games," Shaw said. "If it's blocking, receiving, running or being a decoy, that's the main thing. Individual honors are great, but the most important thing is to win, and that's win as a team, not as an individual. That comes secondary."

This week in the Big Ten...

Let's play can you top this. Last week the Big Ten conference was on its highest of highs and lowest of lows.

Northwestern pulled the shocker of the year, beating Notre Dame for the first time since 1962. Purdue, a team picked to clean out the Big Ten barrel, upended then No. 23 West Virginia on the road.

Wisconsin showed its true colors getting embarrassed at home by Colorado, and that much-hyped Michigan-Illinois game was a bust as the Wolverine howed upended Virginia on the Big Ten title.

So if this weekend is just a godly as the last one then Big Ten fans should be in for a real treat.

ILLINOIS at OREGON
Illinois had better start praying. First the Illini suffer their worst loss to Michigan since 1988, then they have to turn around and play the defending Pac-10 champions on the road.

This will be Illinois’ first trip out to Oregon, and the Illini will be looking to avenge a 13-7 loss to the Ducks in 1993.

With Arizona next week, Illinois should be on the warpath or the Ducks will do the hunting. Sorry Lou, I like roost Illini.

OREGON, 20-14

WESTERN MICHIGAN at INDIANA
This will be the first meeting ever between the Hoosiers and the gang from Kalamazoo.

The Hoosiers are counting on Alex Smith and his ailing hamstring. Smith should run for about 800 yards against the Broncos. But what did you expect? A Big Ten team in its home opener against a non-conference opponent.

You figure it out.

INDIANA, 30-7

MEMPHIS at MICHIGAN
The Memphis Tigers roar into Michigan Stadium in what could be the college football game of the... get real!

Michigan finally gets a break after facing two top 25 opponents.

This is the first meeting between the two schools, and freshman QB Scott Dreisbach will gain more experience without any pressure.

Michigan rolls to 3-0.

MICHIGAN, 49-10

NEBRASKA at MICHIGAN STATE
This is the best game of the week and could be Spartan head coach Nick Saban’s ticket to an 80-year contract, if he can pull out the upset.

Michigan State has one of the best quarterbacks in the Big Ten in senior Tony Banks. Banks threw for 2,000 yards and 11 TDs last season and finished No. 16 nationally in passing efficiency.

But the Cornhuskers have too many weapons in Tommie Frazier and Lawrence Phillips. Nebraska’s defense gets sent to the fifty. Spartan’s hang tough for a quarter.

NEBRASKA, 35-14

TEXAS TECH at PENN STATE
I think Texas Tech picked the wrong stadium to raid. The Nittany Lions average 96,000 fans a game at Beaver Stadium and will pick up where the Boilermakers left off last year, when they went undefeated and won the Big Ten title.

The NFL and graduation may have pulled a few teeth from the Lions but Penn State has more than enough to replace them. Wally Richardson is a solid QB and running back Mike Archie, along with receivers Bobby Engram and Freddie Scott, are dangerous enough to be wanted in 10 states.

This is the first meeting between the schools and the Red Raiders will be feeling blue.

Penn State, 50-12

NOTRE DAME at PURDUE
Normally I would say an Irish walk but after seeing how both teams played last week I’m reconsidering.

Notre Dame is lucky they weren’t excommunicated from the Catholic Church after losing to Northwestern for the first time in thirty years.

Purdue shocked critics when the Boilermakers stopped West Virginia 26-24 in Morgantown, VA. Purdue is led by burley fullback Mike Alstott, who needs only 1,000 yards to become Purdue’s all-time leading rusher.

But rest assured Lou Holtz won’t let the Irish sink any lower.

Notre Dame, 27-20
