Ito on day 359: 'It's astonishing what we've sunk to'

Simpson Trial

Some of the things that all happen during deliberations by the O.J. Simpson trial jury had not been indicated.

The house of deliberations has not yet been set, and it is undecided whether juries will be able to use the house of deliberations in the case.

The trial of Simpson is unique in the fact that it is the first time that a member of the house of deliberations in a jury trial is released and a replacement is needed.

Stricklin is flanked by four members of the jury as she is released from the jury box. The jury deliberated for about 12 hours before reaching a verdict.

The Daily Iowan

While many students are waiting for next semester’s classes to begin, one University of Iowa student has already been busy this summer. Sting May, a second-year graduate student in biology, has been raising crickets and has been trickling in money as a result.

May started raising crickets last November at the request of her mentor, Dr. Mary Neary and Gardens Center, Lowman Administration building. She says that without her mentor’s encouragement, she would not have gone forward with the project.

“Sting has the facilities, the time to take care of them, and can clip them all night long,” it’s a good fit for both of us,” May said.

May’s mentor, Dr. Mary Neary, added that May is an excellent student and has proven that she can take care of her responsibilities while still pursuing her research.

May sells her crickets through a local pet store, and she is able to make extra money off of her project.

The crickets that May raises are used for a variety of purposes, from educational programs to research.

May’s research involves studying the behavior of crickets and how they interact with their environment.

May said that she plans to continue raising crickets and hopes to expand her business in the future.

May’s project is an excellent example of how students can take advantage of their unique skills and interests to earn extra money while pursuing their academic goals.

GOP pushes myriad funding cuts to balance budget

David Eddy
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Under relentless attack from the Democrats, Republicans targeted health care for the poor, student loan programs, Medicare and numerous smaller accounts Wednesday as Medicare.

A plan to impose a fee on colleges and universities equal to 2 percent of their total student loans ran into trouble from some Republicans, and Sen. Nancy Landon Kassebaum, R-Kan., postponed the drafting session.

"Unnecessary funding, tight funding will basically be forced on students and parents in the form of higher tuition and fewer or reduced student aid," charged Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

With bitter wrangling the gavel, the House Commerce Committee met in a closed session to review the GOP proposal to turn health care for the poor over to the states. The measure would end the federal guarantee of health care for needy children, adults and the elderly.

Racism taints U.S. education

In a vote that will soon ripple through the highest levels of education administration, the Iowa Board of Regents has been instructed to expand free tuition programs. The institution is one of the many American colleges and universities that are responding to the growing trend of public support for universal college education. By providing students with the opportunity to attend college without financial burden, these programs help to ensure that the benefits of higher education are accessible to all.

However, while these initiatives are commendable, they must be approached with caution. The history of American education, which has been fraught with inequality and discrimination, must be acknowledged and addressed. The expansion of free tuition programs should not be seen as a panacea for the systemic issues that have plagued the education system for centuries.

In the words of Martin Luther King Jr., "We must accept finitefailure as thepanacea for these systems of oppression."

Houghton said his squad should be competitive if it stays healthy.

"The key is coaching for 15 years and this is probably the fastest working group. Huntington said. "They've worked hard and they have good attitudes. I don't think that will fall off during the season."
Cincinnati closes in on NL Central crown

Associated Press

CINCINNATI — Cincinnati clinched at least a tie for the NL Central championship, beating Montreal 3-2 on Wednesday.

Mark McGwire (40-10) pitched eight innings and Montreal batters hit two ill-fated doubles for the Reds, who had lost three of four. A win would hand Cincinnati its first division title since 1982.

McGuire hit a two-run, third-inning home run, his 5th, and Todd Stadler drove in two runs as part of a four-run fourth inning, saved their magic number remained at six.

Dennis Eckersley relieved with a runner on first and one out, got two outs and the Reds doubled to 2-1 for his 26th save.

The only run of the game was in the eighth.

Martin (5-7, 4.00) gave up three hits and three runs. He struck out 12 to match his major league high.

McGuire and Borders had driven in two runs each. Aldrete and Veras had a two-run triple for the Reds.

White Sox 3, Indians 1

CLEVELAND — Chris Widger had three hits, including his first major league home run, and the Chicago White Sox beat the Cleveland Indians 3-1 Wednesday in the 12th inning.

Oakland's Mark McGwire hit a three-run home run off California Angels reliever Joe Roca (0-1), making his major league debut.

The A's took a 5-0 lead in the fifth off White Sox starter Shawn Boskie in the first inning. Only the Minnesota Twins scored more runs than the A's in 1995.

Boskie lasted 3 1/3 innings as the A's built a season-high 16-game lead over the White Sox, who have lost 25 of 33.

White Sox reliever Steve Bedrosian got his 14th straight save.

Elway still has his flair for dramatics

John Hunterson
Associated Press

DENVER - John Elway and the Denver Broncos made it look easy last week.

This time around, the offense will be the deciding factor.

The Broncos are favored by 7 1/2 points over the New England Patriots on Sunday in the AFC Championship Game.

"It's not a very revolutionary offensive," coach Wade Phillips said. "We've got our work cut out for us."

The game matchup two of the top teams in the league, with the Patriots (15-1) returning for the first time since 1986 after winning Super Bowl XX and the Broncos (13-1) making their second straight trip to the championship game.

Elway, who set a franchise record with 4,511 passes, completed 29 of 42 attempts for 455 yards and three touchdowns in the Broncos' 35-21 win over the Buffalo Bills in last week's divisional playoff game.

"They've got a very talented team," said New England coach Bill Belichick. "You've got to do a lot of things right to beat them."

The Patriots have won the AFC East title six times in the last seven seasons, including five straight under Belichick, who is returning for the first time since 2001.

"They're a great team," said Patriots quarterback Tom Brady, who has thrown for 38 touchdowns and 528 yards in the playoffs.

The Broncos have won five consecutive games, including the divisional playoff win over the Bills, and are looking to advance to the Super Bowl for the first time since 1998.

"We've got to play better and we've got to play smarter," said Broncos coach Mike Shanahan, who is trying to win his first Super Bowl.

The Patriots are favored by 7 1/2 points in the game against the Broncos, who are looking to make their first Super Bowl appearance since 1998.
No Shame: Venue for talent, 'dreck'

At first glance, "The Best Little Shop of Flowers" could have been written by a student in a high school or college drama class. However, the play, which has been running in the Downtown Theater in Iowa City for the past few weeks, is anything but amateurish. In fact, it is a masterpiece of comedic timing and brilliantly crafted dialogue.

The play follows a young woman named Audrey, who works in a flower shop owned by her boss, Mr. Seymour. Audrey is in love with Seymour's assistant, Orin, but he is too afraid of his mother to express his feelings. Audrey's life changes when a man named Audrey Jr. comes into the shop. He is a wealthy playboy who is looking for a bride. Audrey Jr. is played by a talented actor who brings a new life to this classic role.

The play is full of humor and sarcasm, and it is a great example of how a good script can turn even the most mundane situations into something funny. The actors' performances are outstanding, and the play is directed by a masterful director who knows how to bring out the best in his performers.

Overall, "The Best Little Shop of Flowers" is a must-see for anyone who enjoys a good laugh. It is a classic play that has been updated to fit modern audiences, and it is a testament to the power of good writing. The play runs through November 30th, so be sure to get your tickets now.

It can't get much better than the Wild Women

Soto dance to reveal sense of remembrance

The Daily Iowan

As summer turns into fall, we all get our presenters and wait for the leaves to change. This changing of seasons also means 100 days for the eastern Iowa songbird. It is during this season that the birds prepare for their migration. In the early morning hours of this new season, a pair of birds can be seen perched on a branch, observing the world around them. These are the leaves that will fall from the trees, marking the beginning of the fall season. The leaves are not only a symbol of the changing seasons, but also a reminder of the cycle of life. In the same way, the songbirds are preparing for their migration, a journey that will take them far away from their current home. As the leaves fall and the air grows colder, the songbirds will begin their journey to warmer climates, seeking a place where they can find food and shelter. This migration is a natural process that has been occurring for millions of years. It is a testament to the resilience and adaptability of these creatures, who are able to survive in a world that is constantly changing. As we look out at the trees and see the leaves falling, we can appreciate the beauty of this natural process and the importance of preserving the environment.
