Professors to UI: See you in court

Former theatre professors ask UI for $50,000 in back wages, $65,000 for distress

Ann Haggerty
The Daily Iowan

The UI is likely to face a lawsuit even though it has met its two-week deadline to respond to gender discrimination charges filed by two former professors in the Playwrights Workshop.

The UI was given until the end of September by the professors' attorney, Kelly McClelland, to file a response to charges filed by former Professor Lavonne Mueller and Professor Shelley Berc with the Iowa Civil Rights Commission.

UI attorney Mark Schantz said he is sending a written response today to McClelland, who said last week he would file a lawsuit against the UI if Schantz didn't respond to the women's requests by the end of September.

The former UI professors are asking the university for $115,000 — $65,000 for distress and $50,000 for back wages. Berc is also asking for a salary increase of about $20,000 per year. Her salary would then be about $70,000 per year.

"I think we are pretty much going to sue because it's the only way to get (administrators) to answer to what they did."

Lavonne Mueller, former UI theatre professor

The UI will make a different offer to avoid a lawsuit, Schantz said. He would not disclose what the UI proposal, to be filed today, is or how it varies from the women's original requests.

Whether the UI alternate offer is accepted is up to Berc and Mueller, Schantz said Sunday.

"The ball is in their court now," he said. Mueller said Sunday she doubts she and Berc will accept any alternate offer from the UI and the situation will end up being decided in court.

"I think we are pretty much going to sue because it's the only way to get (administrators) to answer to what they did."

Craig said he's excited to go back to school and tell all his friends about his big day with the Hawkeyes.

"I'm gonna tell them that I went to the game and met all the players," he said. "Yeah, and also the Hawkeyes won big."

Oprah nears billionaire status

Forbes magazine's 1995 list of the 400 richest Americans released

Eric Quinones
Associated Press

NEW YORK — Soon it may be Oprah with nine O's.

In Forbes magazine's 1995 list of the 400 richest Americans, Oprah Winfrey stands at No. 399. Although she has a considerable way to go, she's en route to becoming America's first black billionaire, the magazine said in its Oct. 16 issue, released Sunday.

Microsoft Corp. Chairman Bill Gates, whose accomplishments this year included finally introducing Windows 95 and turning The Stones into software pitchmen, held the top spot for the second consecutive year. Forbes put Gates' net worth at about $14.8 billion.

Investor Warren Buffett again assumed the No. 2 slot, this year at roughly $11.8 billion. His bottom line was boosted by about $400 million after The Walt Disney Co. offered $19 billion for Capital Cities/ABC Inc., one of Buffett's longtime holdings.

Winfrey, the only entertainer on the annual list, is worth about $340 million, which Forbes said put her just ahead of New York money manager Leon Levy. The 41-year-old Chicagoan owns her top-rated talk show and production company, Harpo (Oprah spelled backward), and holds a big stake in the show's distributor, King World Productions Inc.

Winfrey's coffers will continue to grow as she benefits from five-year deals for "The Oprah Winfrey Show" signed last year with 210 television stations, plus a six-film commitment from ABC and King World stock options. She also plans

"I love it because we don't have to stick with poetry," said UI freshman Heather Pundt. "I want to discuss who shot JFK."

At Thursday's meeting, members gathered in a circle to listen to and read their own or well-known poetry.

UI Dead Poets Society: More than just poems

Chad Graham
The Daily Iowan

Thursdays at midnight, in a nook by the nursing building, the poetry of Walt Whitman and Emily Dickinson is juxtaposed with discussions on "Sesame Street" and the 1996 presidential election.

Welcome to the UI's own Dead Poets Society. UI sophomores Drew Britten and Mike Gallagher, who started the society, were inspired by the 1989 movie starring Robin Williams.

Although inspiration came from romanticized poetry readings in the movie, the UI group goes beyond strictly reading lyrical prose.

Oddities & Idiosyncrasies

It's do-or-die time for 'Saturday Night Live'

Frazier Moore
Associated Press

NEW YORK — Nations come and go. The hundred-dollar bill gets a fresh new look. Then there's "Saturday Night Live," hopelessly stuck in the past.

What about all the grand talk of bringing this 1970s relic into the '90s, of "reinventing" it for the new season?

Sadly, that was "Saturday Night" jive.

That's the disappointing news from NBC's Studio 8H, where "SNL" launched its much-awaited, supposedly do-or-die 21st season Saturday night, with Mariel Hemingway as guest host.

The program served as an apt warm-up for the 1996 presidential campaign: empty promises of change. From the O.J. Simpson sketch where "Judge Ito" orders lawyer "Johnnie Cochran" to declare, "Live from New York ...!", to the self-congratulating group huddle as the final credits roll, Saturday's show was "SNL" business as usual.

After all the hype, was it too much to hope for at least one genuine surprise during the long, long 90 minutes? In retrospect, yes.

Oh, and was "SNL" even funny in its season opener?

Not so's you'd notice.

If anyone from producer Lorne Michaels on down really believes this is a different show from last April — or April 1976 — they're delusional. Sure, there are new people on board, but the show's the same old heap with just another coat of paint, traveling the same road, stuck in the same ruts.

Of course, this is hardly the first time Michaels has promised great things, then failed to deliver. In fact, year after year he's like Lucy in the "Peanuts" strip, swearing she'll hold the football. The viewer is Charlie Brown, always falling for it.

This time, the only auspicious sign comes from the freshman class of repertory players. Although it's premature to rate the six rookies, one of them, Darrell Hammond, is clearly a welcome addition thanks to his impersonation skills (his was a dead-on Ted Koppel in an otherwise limp "Nightline" send-up).

As for the new crop of writers, they're clearly saving their good stuff for later in the season.

Veteran player David Spade has been rewarded with a weekly feature that, on its first outing, could just as well have been part of "Week-end Update" (or, better yet, bagged). It was a five-minute monologue addressed to the Unabomber, during which Spade cautioned, "You're coming off gay." Pointing to the much-published sketch of the anonymous terrorist, Spade likened his looks to those of Little Richard, "and that's not helping your 'straight case.'"

Norm MacDonald anchoring a weak "Week-end Update" had the crickets chirping.

So-so was a commercial parody for A.M. Ale ("Because you can't wait 'til afternoon"). Right after came a real, and far stranger, commercial for Budweiser.

The show's brightest elements? Musical guest Blues Traveler, which traveled in at the last minute to sub for the dropout formerly known as Prince, and Hemingway, who displayed an unexpected gift for comedy. Neither, of course, will be back soon enough.

Who's next week's guest host? Chevy Chase. Now there's a fresh idea!

QUOTABLE

"Some see this case as screaming out for jury nullification. Certainly Johnnie Cochran is screaming for it when he asks them to send a message about racism. ... Johnnie is saying, 'Don't follow the instructions. Follow your hearts.'"

Real-life 'Quiz Show' contestant leaves hospital

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Charles Van Doren, whose fall from grace in the game-show scandal of the 1950s was explored in the movie "Quiz Show," has been released from the hospital.

Van Doren, 69, collapsed at a gas station Sept. 25. Hartford Hospital, which released him Friday, would not say what was wrong.

He became a celebrity when he won $129,000 on the TV quiz show "21," then admitted before Congress he'd been given answers in advance. He's lived in semi-seclusion in Cornwall ever since.

Van Doren tried to protect his privacy by asking the hospital to list him under a false name, the Hartford Courant reported Sunday.

News guru Koppel: ABC nights not big enough for him and Letterman

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — Ted Koppel says he'll quit "Nightline" if ABC signs David Letterman and plops him into the late-night news show's time slot.

"I would wish them and David and my colleagues at 'Nightline' the very best of luck," Koppel says in the Oct. 7 issue of TV Guide.

When former Koppel Letterman agent Michael Ovitz joined The Walt Disney Co., which is taking over ABC's parent, speculation abounded that the network would lure Letterman away from CBS.

But barring that, Koppel expects to stay with the show: "Can I see anything on the horizon which would cause me to leave? The answer is no."

Dudley Moore's fourth marriage is over after 18 months, and his wife Nicole Rothschild wants $150,000 to sell her story, a British newspaper quoted her as saying.

Actor Moore's wife demands money for juicy marriage details

LONDON (AP) — Dudley Moore's fourth marriage is over after 18 months and his wife wants $150,000 for her story, a British newspaper quoted her as saying. Moore says all is well.

Nicole Rothschild is quoted as telling the News of the World the star of "Arthur" and "10" had moved out of their house in Newport Beach, Calif., leaving her to care for their 3-month-old son, Nicholas.

"I want money to talk about my marriage to Dudley," Sunday's newspaper quoted Rothschild, 31, as saying. "There's a lot the world doesn't know about Dudley, that's for sure."

The newspaper declined to pay her price.

Moore, 60, told the paper Rothschild and the baby were with him, and "all is domestic bliss and tranquility."

'Seinfeld' star assures fans he'll be Kramer for years to come

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — Kramer says Seinfeld and the gang aren't going anywhere.

Michael Richards, who plays Jerry Seinfeld's ungainly neighbor Cosmo Kramer on the hit NBC show, dispels rumors that this is the show's last season.

It's "a bunch of pooh-pooh," he tells TV Guide in its Oct. 7 issue. "I'm going to be Kramer a long time — at least two more years."

Richards co-stars in the current release "Unstrung Heroes," directed by Diane Keaton.

Hugh Grant becomes topic of British Trivial Pursuit

LONDON (AP) — Now you too can score with Hugh Grant.

His escapade with a Hollywood tart will be a question in the 1996 British edition of Trivial Pursuit: "Which film publicity launch was in its gestation stage when Hugh hooked a hooker?"

Grant was promoting "Nine Months" in July when Los Angeles police arrested him with a prostitute on Sunset Boulevard. He pleaded no contest and was sentenced to a fine and an AIDS education course.

"It is only in the adult version, not the family version of the game," Brian Highley, who compiles queries for the game, told The People newspaper.

He's invited Grant and his girlfriend, model Elizabeth Hurley, to the new edition's launch: "I hope he has sufficient sense of humor to come along."

Veteran actor Borgnine spurns foul-mouthed movies

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernest Borgnine says he's shied away from working recently because he refuses to appear in movies he calls "puke."

"I turned down more pictures than you can shake a stick at," the veteran actor tells Entertainment Weekly in its Oct. 6 issue, "simply because I refuse to swear in motion pictures."

The small screen, apparently, is a different story.

Borgnine is appearing as Manny, the goobal doorman in the new NBC series "The Single Guy."

Now 78, the actor has been in more than 80 movies, including "From Here to Eternity" and "The Poseidon Adventure."

He won an Academy Award for his role as the average-Joe butcher in "Marty."

His television roles include the jolly con artist Lt. Cmdr. McHale in the 1960s show "McHale's Navy."

Greeks cleanse I.C., their reputations

Evelyn Lauer
The Daily Iowan

A downtown cleanup sponsored by members of the Greek community Sunday was a called a "makeup" for a botched effort earlier in the year, organizers said.

The cleanup, called "Oktoberfresh," was conducted by Delta Tau Delta fraternity and Pi Beta Phi sorority, as a reconciliatory act to the city after an Aug. 27 cleanup arranged by the city and the Interfraternity Council was not held.

The cancellation was due to a scheduling problem which resulted in miscommunication between the city and the IFC. Fraternities on campus were scheduled to listen to a motivational speaker and participate in the cleanup on the same day.

Although the city didn't help organize Sunday's cleanup, Lorraine Saeger, administrative assistant to the city manger, said she was happy some of the Greek community made up for the misunderstanding.

"I was upset before because the city did a lot of planning and work," she said. "I'm pleased now that the work got done."

Sunday's cleanup involved 150 students, who broke up into groups to pick up trash, sweep leaves and wash the Civic Center windows.

Matt Ross, president of Delta Tau Delta, said his fraternity needed to fulfill community service hours and wanted to make up for the cancellation.

"We thought it would be a good idea and we would kill two birds with the same stone," he said.

Ross approached Neena Paul, president of Pi Beta Phi, and the two houses worked together to organize the cleanup.

The sorority was willing to help out because they had the day open, Paul said, and members thought it would be a good idea to do something for the community.

"Sometimes people forget that the reason we join a sorority is not just for the social aspects, but for the service we do, as well," she said. "It's important that we show the public that we do more for the community."

UI senior Bryn Wilkinson, member of Pi Beta Phi, said her sorority enjoyed helping out the community.

"It felt great to help out," she said. "It's important for everyone in our chapter and everyone else to remember that we are partially here for service."

Because of the recent alcohol-related death of Lambda Chi Alpha associate member Matthew Garofalo, Ross said the Greek system needs an image boost.

"Right now, it's important for us to get out and create a positive image (of Greeks). Our image has been tainted by the recent incident," he said. "Hopefully (Sunday) we did something to help our image by performing a good act."

4TH SEMIANNUAL EVENT

Veggie-Fest promotes eating for a healthy body and Earth

Chad Graham
The Daily Iowan

What do you get when you cross a cake made from soybean milk and a room full of people who want to protect the environment?

The answer is the fourth semi-annual Veggie-Fest held at the Unitarian Universalist Society church, 10 S. Gilbert St., Sunday night.

The event — co-sponsored by the UI Animal Coalition, Tallgrass Prairie Earth First!, the UI Rainforest Coalition and the UI Environment Coalition — served up some knowledge about how vegetarianism helps save animals and the environment.

Sally Konrady, UI graduate and member of the Rainforest Coalition, said her group hopes the event will explain why eating at fast-food restaurants harms the rain forests in South America.

"Not many people know the United States imports cheap beef from the rain forest and mixes it with domestic beef; it is then sold to fast-food franchises, makers of baby food, and frozen beef products," she said. "Our government uses land that has been slashed and burned for their cattle to graze on."

She said for every quarter-pounder Americans choose not to eat they save 55 square feet of land in the rain forests.

The event also brought the community together and let them know that vegetarianism was only one aspect of environmentalism, said Laura Grigals, a UI sophomore and member of the UI Animal Coalition.

"The animal coalition wants to educate the public on animal issues," she said. "Most of our members are vegetarians, but you don't have to be to get involved in environmental issues."

"We're all still learning about how to be environmentally aware; people do that in different ways," she said. "For example, we have protested the rodeo, hunting in Kent Park and the circus in the past."

Grigals said Iowa City, not just the university, becomes involved in Veggie-Fest.

"Iowa City restaurants donate food and in return we advertise their names on the fliers," she said.

Maurene Morgan, member of Earth First, said the event won't make people instant vegetarians, but will lead them down the road to vegetarianism.

"People come here and they see how rewarding a vegetarian lifestyle can be," she said.

Will your company grow as fast as you do?

Almost every company's recruiting ad promises you rapid growth. But before making any decisions, ask them how fast they're growing. After all, you're going to have trouble moving up if your company isn't.

Over the last five years, while economic conditions have stalled many organizations, Andersen Consulting grew on the average of 20% per year.

Compare that figure to any other firm you're considering. It could be the difference between getting ahead. And banging your head.

Cottage spreads charm to Coralville

Christie Midthun
The Daily Iowan

The aroma of The Cottage's freshly baked breads and the comfort of its laid-back atmosphere no longer belong solely to Iowa City.

The Cottage opens the doors of a second restaurant in Coralville today, providing a bigger kitchen and baking space for the store's increasing amount of customers and catering orders, owner Lora Alberhasky said.

"I decided to have a second store when it became evident that our kitchen area was too small to produce needed foods," Alberhasky said. "I didn't want to just add on to the kitchen, and Coralville seemed like a natural place for a second store."

Alberhasky bought The Cottage, 14 S. Linn St., in 1987 and said she didn't imagine ever building another restaurant.

"In my wildest dreams I never expected to be opening a second store," Alberhasky said. "My employees and customers shape my business. What I thought The Cottage was going to be isn't what it is today. They determine what we do and who we are."

However, Alberhasky said she doesn't have any plans for a third restaurant.

"The only other restaurant I'd have is a coffee cart on the beach with me as the only employee," she said.

One of the things Alberhasky said she strived for when expanding her business was to preserve the uniqueness of The Cottage. However, some customers said a chain mentality might change the relaxed atmosphere of the restaurant.

"It's now a Cottage chain," Shelly Hall, a Cottage regular, said. "It's losing a lot of its casualness. I come here, sometimes all day, to get studying done, and it's OK that I come here and do that. I fear that someday it will stop being OK."

Hall, a UI graduate student in religion, said the central location of the Iowa City Cottage is the main attraction for her. She said she probably wouldn't venture out to the Coralville store on a regular basis.

The Cottage in Coralville is modeled after the Iowa City store, but with more of an emphasis on carry out.

Alberhasky said the new store will have more self-service cases with prepared sandwiches and decorated cakes.

Alberhasky would also like to offer individual entrees.

"If people are tired of pizza, they could get a chicken breast in wine sauce," Alberhasky said. "The take-out market is growing, and I see a need for a good, healthy alternative."

Plane wreck survivor recovers

One of the men who survived the plane crash near Myrtle Avenue Wednesday was released from the hospital Friday.

Mark Gravlee, from Tulsa, Okla., was a passenger in the single-engine plane that lost control and came down in a neighborhood near the Iowa City Municipal Airport. The pilot, Michael Wallace of Newton, Kan., remained hospitalized Sunday in fair condition.

The other passenger, Robert Roane, Jr., of Mounds, Okla., was killed in the crash. No one in the area or in the homes surrounding the crash was injured.

The cause of the crash will not be known for six to eight months, National Safety and Transportation Board officials said.

Balkan war continues despite diplomacy

Srečko Latal
Associated Press

SARAJEVO — U.S. envoy Richard Holbrooke took his peace mission to the third Balkan capital in as many days Sunday, trying to close the gap between the warring sides in the former Yugoslavia and forge a cease-fire.

But prospects appeared slim for a truce in Bosnia anytime soon, with government troops pressing an offensive in the west and rebel Serbs struggling to regain lost ground.

Holbrooke met Sunday in Zagreb with Croatian President Franjo Tudjman after inconclusive talks with the Bosnian government in Sarajevo and Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic, the main powerbroker in the Balkans.

"Every time we talk, each side clarifies its views a little," Holbrooke said before leaving Belgrade, the Serbian capital, for Zagreb.

"But while both sides say they want to stop the fighting, they haven't agreed on how this would be done. We are working very intensively on it."

Holbrooke, an assistant secretary of state, is trying to build on what Washington considers the best prospects yet for ending the war. The warring parties agreed last week in New York on a power-sharing scheme for a future government, although tricky details have yet to be resolved.

Earlier, they agreed to keep Bosnia as a single state, divided roughly in half between the Bosnian Serbs and a Muslim-Croat federation. Specific territorial division will require tough negotiations.

"As we said many times, the distance separating the two sides is very large on all the basic issues," Holbrooke said.

Milosevic, in a statement, said a cease-fire was a prerequisite for any high-level peace talks, after which "the cease-fire should transform into a permanent peace."

Tudjman and Holbrooke discussed the last Serb-held land in Croatia, an eastern stretch bordering Serbia. Holbrooke said afterward reintegration of that land into Croatia was critical, but emphasized it must be peaceful.

In an early August offensive, the Croatian army recaptured most of the territory its rebel Serbs had held since 1991.

The Croatian government has warned it would resort to force to retake the remaining Serb-held territory if a peaceful solution is not found soon.

Holbrooke is scheduled to return today to Sarajevo.

The Muslim-led Bosnian government's conditions for a cease-fire include the demilitarization of Banja Luka, the heavily defended Serb stronghold 80 miles northwest of Sarajevo. Serbs flatly reject that demand.

Banja Luka has become a major point of contention following extensive Serb territorial losses to combined government and Croat forces in the area. It is the largest city still held by Bosnian Serbs and is now swollen with Serb refugees.

Among other government conditions for a cease-fire are the lifting of Sarajevo's siege and the opening of a corridor to the eastern government-held enclave of Gorazde.

Sarajevo has been under siege throughout Bosnia's 3 1/2-year-old war, which broke out when Bosnian Serbs rebelled at a vote by the Muslim-Croat majority to secede from Serb-dominated Yugoslavia.

Likely to complicate Holbrooke's efforts to push the peace process along were reports of more fighting in northern Bosnia.

Government forces appeared to be pressing an offensive toward the Serb-held town of Mrkonjic Grad, 25 miles south of Banja Luka.

CHANGE SATISFIES EUROPEAN STANDARDS

Britain trades miles for kilometers

Sue Leeman
Associated Press

LONDON — So your boss, like Shakespeare's merchant Shylock, zealously demands his 0.45 kilograms of flesh? Beware: give him 2.54 centimeters and he'll take 1.6 kilometers.

Alas, such phrases could be in Britain's future. After more than nine centuries of pounds, inches and gallons, the sceptered isle is obeying a European Union decree and going metric.

It's the biggest cultural change in Britain since it abandoned shillings and pence for a decimal currency 25 years ago. Traditionalists are aghast.

"Has anyone given a thought to the English language after today?" wailed The Sunday Telegraph. "Many of our sayings and rhymes are as ancient as the measurements we are to lose. Is it a case of adapt or die?"

"This is a day of shame for all past governments who have pawned our heritage, knowing they can never buy it back," lamented Conservative lawmaker Sir George Gardiner.

Nevertheless, the government is bringing Britain into line with the rest of Europe — and almost everywhere else. The metric system has been phased in over the past few decades, with the final step to be completed in 2000.

The deadline for most goods was Sunday. From now, stores must label packaged foods in kilograms and grams, although unpackaged goods can be sold in pounds and ounces until 2000.

That roofing timber, that dress fabric? Now available only in meters, not yards. Fill 'er up, you must say, with 40 liters.

There are consolations. Weights and measures will be compatible with those of major trading partners, shoppers will use one system for domestic and imported goods, and most tourists won't have to do conversions in their heads.

Those mourning the pound's demise can still drown their sorrows with a pint of draught beer, lager, cider or even the milk they have delivered to their doorstep.

Road signs will provide distances in miles, and fast food joints will continue to dish out "quarter-pounders" and 12-inch pizzas.

Still, the British Weights and Measures Association, a new protest group, has called for "massive passive resistance" and said it will challenge the change in the European courts.

Small businesses lament having to buy new scales and labeling machines. Trading standards officers predict wholesale confusion.

There have also been worries shop owners could raise prices without confused buyers being aware of it.

Gore teen charged with alcohol possession

CHEVY CHASE, Md. (AP) — The 16-year-old daughter of Vice President Al Gore was among a group of teen-agers cited for underage possession of alcohol at a party, a spokesperson said Saturday.

Sally Aman, spokesperson for the Gore family, confirmed local television reports that Sarah Gore was issued what amounts to a ticket for holding an open container of beer in a car outside a party. She said the driver of the car was not drinking.

Montgomery County Police Sergeant Wayne Jerman said several juveniles were given civil citations for possession of alcohol at a party about 9:30 Friday night, but declined to identify any of them by name because of department policy on juveniles.

Jerman said the matter was referred to the department's juvenile services division. The maximum penalty for underage drinking is a $500 fine, he said.

Aman said the Gore family is treating the incident as a private matter and will have nothing further to say about it.

Lack of funds strikes Wilson from presidential race

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Barely a month after formally launching his campaign for the Republican nomination for president, California Gov. Pete Wilson is out of the race, his campaign $1 million in debt, and trailing even in his home state.

"I hope I haven't let you down," Wilson told about 150 supporters gathered Friday at a restaurant a block from his campaign headquarters. "I blame no one but myself. We entered late; too many donors were committed."

Wilson formed his exploratory committee in March but didn't formally kick off his race until Aug. 28.

That announcement was delayed first by his slow recovery from throat surgery, and then by his prolonged negotiations with California legislators to end a state budget stalemate.

"Although this campaign is not ending as we had hoped, I'm damn proud of it," Wilson said, declaring he had forced other candidates to address issues he had raised in the campaign, such as illegal immigration and repealing affirmative action.

Wilson closed his Iowa headquarters due to a lack of money three weeks ago and ordered a cost-cutting restructuring of his entire campaign.

Craig Fuller, his campaign chairperson, said Wilson concluded after a meeting Wednesday with his top strategists that he could not raise the funds for a viable campaign.

Newsweek poll: Perot would get a mere 27 percent of votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most American voters wouldn't help elect Ross Perot president and half believe his primary goal in forming a new political party was to win more attention for himself, not help the country, a new poll said.

In a Newsweek poll of 590 registered voters conducted late last week, only 27 percent said they would be likely to vote for Perot if he ran as a third-party candidate.

Asked about retired Gen. Colin Powell, who has refused to rule out a presidential bid, 52 percent said they would vote for him if he ran atop a third-party ticket.

But only 25 percent said they would like Powell to be the standard-bearer of Perot's party. Fifty-two percent preferred he form his own.

Forty-two percent said Perot formed his new Independence Party for the good of the country, while 50 percent said he did it to gain attention or influence.

The poll had a margin of error of plus or minus 4 percentage points.

SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE HARD TO ESTABLISH

'Risk-free' cellars may not be as safe as originally thought

Jane Allen
Associated Press

Debra Wright, a real estate manager for a cellular phone company in Phoenix, used to live by her portable telephone — and now has a brain tumor. She contends the hand-held models she used daily for six years are responsible.

Susan Reynard of St. Petersburg, Fla., died from brain cancer. A judge dismissed a suit blaming the makers of her pocketphone, citing a lack of scientific evidence. But her husband is not convinced. He notes his wife's tumor formed on the side where she had held the phone.

From a Hollywood agent making poolside deals to a woman stranded alone with car trouble, some 12 million Americans now rely on portable cellphones, with more than a half-million new subscribers signing up each month.

Yet despite health concerns raised by at least eight lawsuits — none of which have made it to trial — scientists still can't assure consumers their phones are safe.

"Do you know what it's like to ... have your health go away?" asks Wright, 42, who has undergone multiple surgeries for her benign tumor. "It's been very hard to have pain 24 hours a day."

The first suit, filed by Reynard's husband in 1992, temporarily turned the emerging industry upside down. Users wondered if they were facing a hazard with each call. Cellular stock prices fell.

Manufacturers rushed to proclaim cellars risk-free, although they were later taken to task by the Food and Drug Administration for saying thousands of studies over 40 years showed the phones safe.

In fact, most of those studies did not directly look at cellphones. And most of the current research to determine if the phones are dangerous is coming from a $25 million trust fund financed by the cellular industry itself.

Unlike car phones with an antennae mounted outside the vehicle, hand-held cel-lulars like those in the Reynard and Wright cases have antennae that sit flush with the head, exposing callers to an electromagnetic field whose long-term effects remain a mystery to scientists.

"We don't have enough information to say the phones are harmful. At the same time, we really don't know enough to say they're not harmful," said Elizabeth Jacobson, deputy director for science at the FDA's Center for Devices and Radiological Health. "I think if there is a risk, it's probably small."

Dr. Ross Adey of the Loma Linda Veteran Medical Center — who is conducting cellular research funded by Motorola Inc., the world's largest manufacturer of cellphones — is worried by industrial studies linking other types of microwave exposures to cancer.

"There is some evidence that suggests the need to know more about these fields," he said, "because, after all, people are going to expose themselves ... for the rest of their lives."

Although there is no proof the phones are hazard-free, industry representatives flatly maintain that scientific studies to date show no health risk.

"The FDA and the EPA and the other agencies that are looking at this can't be very concerned about what they've seen so far if they're not jumping into and funding research," said Ron Nessen, vice president for public affairs and communications at the Cellular Telephone Industry Association and White House press secretary during the Ford administration.

But an industry watchdog said such remarks ignore preliminary scientific findings.

"The bottom line is, you can't deny there's a possible problem," said Louis Slesin, editor of the newsletter Microwave News. "It may turn out there's no serious health risk, but the denial has to stop."

Meanwhile, the FDA has some simple advice for minimizing exposure to radio frequency energy: Limit your cellular calls.

JERUSALEM — After 28 years of occupation, Israel will start withdrawing troops and shutting down the offices of its military government in the West Bank this month, Foreign Minister Shimon Peres said Sunday.

The impending transfer of power set off protests among Jewish settlers, who accused the Israeli government of abandoning them.

Peres, speaking to the AP by telephone from New York, said the troop withdrawal from the West Bank would probably begin "in several weeks."

He said Israel also would shut down the 12 offices of its military government in the West Bank. Shlomo Dror, a spokesperson for the military government, said the first four offices would be closed next week, and the others within six months.

Peres repeated Israel's intention to have its troops out of six West Bank towns by the end of the year.

This was part of a compromise worked out between Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and PLO chief Yasser Arafat just before they signed an accord Thursday in Washington on expanding Palestinian autonomy in the West Bank.

Israel has until March 30 to redeploy troops in the seventh city, Hebron, where 450 Jewish settlers live among 120,000 Palestinians.

The transfer of power in cities and villages will give the Palestinians control over almost a third of the West Bank, which Israel captured from Jordan in the 1967 Mideast War.

The Israel-PLO agreement faces stiff opposition from Jewish settlers in the West Bank.

About 200 settlers burned tires and blocked traffic Sunday morning on the bypass road around Jericho and at an army checkpoint before the Allenby Bridge to Jordan. Eighteen protesters were detained.

The settlers said they were protesting Israel's plans to remove army roadblocks and expand the area of Palestinian self-rule around Jericho. Jericho, in the Jordan Valley, and the Gaza Strip have been autonomous since May 1994.

"They lied to us," David Elhiani, head of the Jordan Valley settlers' council, told Israel radio. "We will not allow Palestinian police into the Jordan Valley. We will fight with everything we have."

Israel's parliament is scheduled to debate the Israel-PLO agreement on Thursday. Peres said he expects it to be approved.

The army is expected to withdraw first from the city of Jenin in the northern West Bank and surrounding villages, followed by Nablus, Tulkarem and Qalqilya, then Ramallah and Bethlehem and finally Hebron.

Dror, the military government spokesperson, said Israeli and Palestinian officials would meet Sunday to work out the details of the transfer of authority.

17 ARRESTS MADE

Violence intensifies at Detroit strike

Kelly Anderson
Associated Press

DETROIT — Police and guards clashed with picketers outside two Detroit Newspapers distribution centers early Sunday, and at least 17 people were arrested.

"Obviously things have escalated," said deputy police chief Benny Napoleon. "We've had several fires, several incendiary devices explode. ... Things are definitely getting a little more heated, no question."

At least two officers suffered minor injuries when they were struck by picket signs, and the union said four protesters were injured.

The clashes followed peaceful protests late Saturday at two printing plants. Last weekend, police dismantled a homemade bomb outside a distribution center.

Six unions representing 2,500 employees struck July 13 after management refused to extend contracts during negotiations.

Detroit Newspapers oversees business operations at The Detroit News, owned by Gannett Co. Inc., and the Detroit Free Press, owned by Knight-Ridder Inc.

The main issues are wages and staffing levels. The newspapers are publishing with managers, replacement workers and employees who have crossed the picket lines.

Most of those arrested early Sunday were accused of malicious destruction of property, police officer Fatima Cotton said. Two protesters were arrested on felony charges of hitting officers on the back with picket signs. Neither required medical attention.

The worst clash came as Detroit Newspapers trucks tried to enter the Clayton distribution center. Guards tried to push demonstrators back with their riot shields, and some protesters swung picket signs. At one point, as many as 150 protesters stood outside the center.

Tires and other debris set ablaze near the gate burned for about 25 minutes until firefighters put the fire out. A car parked inside the center's fenced lot later caught fire.

Police in riot gear moved in and cleared the driveway for delivery trucks and two other vehicles.

About 75 protesters gathered at another distribution site until union leaders urged them to go to the Clayton center.

SUPPORTERS WILLING TO 'OVERLOOK' ISSUES

GOP leaders brood over Powell's moderate views

Rita Beamish
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The allure of Colin Powell to Republicans hungry for an inspirational standard-bearer has ignited squabbling among party conservatives, who are deeply split over whether to welcome or disparage the popular retired general.

Powell's emergence also revives a debate over whether the GOP should be a "big tent" welcoming a variety of views or should hold to a firm conservative ideology that was solidified with the party's takeover of the House and Senate last fall.

Even though Powell remains cagey about whether he will actually run for president, many Republican activists are aghast that fellow conservative stalwarts are urging him into the party's nomination process.

Eying opinion polls that show Powell would run strongly in the GOP field, they worry he might attract Republican voters who don't even agree with him on issues like abortion, affirmative action and welfare. Powell has expressed moderate views on those questions that appear out of step with the party's congressional momentum.

But some conservatives seem willing to overlook that in their quest for a strong candidate. Their embrace of the former Joint Chiefs of Staff chairman is prompting a pre-emptive campaign against Powell by more rigid conservatives.

"I'm taking some heat from some friends on the right," said former Education Secretary William Bennett, who has not formally endorsed Powell but is a friend and said he would consider it.

Bennett, author of the best-selling "Book of Virtues," astonished many conservatives when he suggested he could overlook Powell's support of abortion rights and focus on his other qualities — leadership, family values and patriotism.

"I think he could wallop Clinton," Bennett said in an interview.

Former Housing Secretary Jack Kemp and GOP conservative analyst William Kristol also have urged a Powell candidacy. Arianna Huffington, a party activist and wife of unsuccessful California Senate candidate Michael Huffington, lavished praise on him last week.

Huffington accused the GOP front-runner, Senate Majority leader Bob Dole, of "political hackmanship," and said in a Wall Street Journal column that even though she doesn't agree with all Powell's views, he "has made it impossible to continue accepting a lackluster standard-bearer for the Republican Party."

Spearheading the countercharge is Gary Bauer, head of the Focus on the Family group.

"It's curious to me that some, Bauer said.

He faxed a memo to Republican leaders saying that despite Powell's leadership and military record, his views "contain enough ammunition to rattle economic and social conservatives alike."

Smoking bans burn now, save later

"Tobacco, I would all but die for you," — Alexander Pope.

President Clinton's effort to curb teen-age smoking got several big boosts Friday.

A bipartisan group of 20 lawmakers signed "A Commitment To Our Children" and pledged their support to Clinton's plan to stop the advertising and sale of cigarettes to children.

Also Friday, a coalition of health groups, led by the American Cancer Society, released a poll showing 86 percent of Americans want Congress to support Clinton's plan.

The support comes midway through the administration's review process following the president's Aug. 10 announcement.

Citing findings of the American Medical Association, the American Heart Association, the American Lung Association and the Food and Drug Administration, Clinton proposed regulations that would bar cigarette sales to children under 18, ban cigarette vending machines, limit the exposure of children to tobacco advertising and prohibit distribution of items such as T-shirts bearing tobacco logos or slogans.

Most political pundits agree that by taking this step, the president is writing off the tobacco-producing Southern states in the 1996 presidential election. He isn't doing what is easy and politically expedient, but he is doing what is morally correct.

Tobacco-related deaths are the No. 1 preventable cause of death in this country, and it is the responsibility of the government to stop the tobacco industry from preying on children.

EDITORIAL POINT OF VIEW

Clinton's smoking legislation is morally correct and politically damaging.

Iowa's own Democratic Sen. Tom Harkin said at the time Clinton "showed some real guts" by taking on the powerful tobacco manufacturers. For their part, the tobacco companies waited several hours before challenging Clinton's proposals in court.

Following his announcement, Clinton used his weekly radio address to introduce to the nation Victor Crawford, 63, a former lobbyist for the Tobacco Institute.

After years of practicing what he preached, the former Maryland state senator has lung and throat cancer.

"If you think the tobacco industry is going to work with you to stop minors from smoking, you've got to be crazy," Crawford said.

FDA Commissioner Dr. David Kessler is also an unusual ally for the president. Kessler holds a law degree from the University of Chicago Law School and a medical degree from Harvard Medical School. Before his 1990 appointment by President George Bush, the pediatrician was an assistant professor and medical director of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine and taught law at Columbia University.

Despite the steady decline in U.S. cigarette consumption, Kessler often cites statistics showing that 3,000 teens start smoking every day and 1,000 of them will eventually die of tobacco-related diseases.

The Agriculture Department said Friday the rate of decline is slowing.

In the past few years the ever-shrinking domestic market's per-capita consumption has declined by about 100 cigarettes per year, but the department predicted use would drop by a combined total of about 70 cigarettes for 1994 and 1995.

The report blamed lower cigarette prices, but the administration could just as easily blame the types of marketing and advertising it is attempting to stop.

Since the FDA was formed in 1906, few fights it has entered into have been as important as this one. The tobacco industry has been wielding power in the U.S. for more than 350 years. It has purchased several members of Congress and developed a huge pool of supportive addicts.

Clinton and Kessler have a long, hard fight ahead of them. Future generations of nonsmokers will thank them.

Multiracial identity splits minorities, personal feelings made political

The point-fives — those of racially-mixed background — are speaking out.

In our category-regimented society, new laws are underway to adapt government standards to those who don't fit rigid racial slots.

Florida, bending under the demands of a mixed-race couple, has added a new "multiracial" category to school registration forms. Nearly a dozen other states are seriously considering the same. And in the next national census during the year 2000, a "multiracial" category will be added as well.

It's a personal and a political pursuit. The search for identity is a quest rarely understood in a linear world where everyone should have a place. The notion that one must choose where to belong is peculiar, as opposed to the days of segregation when the choice was made for them. Recently, a new thought has evolved: Why not create a place instead of molding oneself in a pre-existing one.

Forming a new category is a relief for some, not important to others and just plain wrong to a percentage of the population continuing to seek rights and freedoms. The African-American community has responded in anger, speaking openly against the descendants of slaves who check the "multiracial" category and has accused them of denying their ancestry. The August 1995 issue of Ebony, a leading black magazine, ran a news article blatantly suggesting those who check the "multiracial" category should instead choose to follow the example set by Halle Berry and Lenny Kravitz, mixed-race stars who consider themselves black.

Personal identity is the most important factor in categorizing people based on race or ethnicity.

It's easy to speak in "shoulds." This is an idealistic culture. It's far more difficult to question and even harder to want to hear the answer. But it's painfully clear to those who just "don't fit." Color is not simply a racial identity, it's a cultural and even political identity. If a person looks one way and is culturally brought up another, then he or she often doesn't know where he or she fits.

There are numerous questions raised as well. Should those who check the box be granted Affirmative Action rights? Will it create an entire new subculture seeking more political rights? Is the black community, in its struggle to achieve equality, being weakened?

Integration into mainstream society was the first step to dissolving the strength of a cohesive African-American population. It gave those who had the economic means an opportunity to move up, thus creating a sharp division between those with money and those without. There are few strong black leaders today, and none have been able to truly unite the community as Malcolm X and Martin Luther King Jr. did. It's no wonder those who have a voice are using it, loudly, in opposition to a new segment who again chooses to separate itself.

People must be allowed to take in all sides of their ancestry to determine who they are. A person shouldn't have to reject a part of him or herself to merely fit into a category. It's personal before it's political; and as African-Americans on the whole fought for rights, those who have a multiracial identity equally deserve to value all of their heritage, rather than just one part.

It must be a choice determined by the individual alone. Feelings are not right or wrong, they simply are real. If those of mixed race feel they don't belong, it's not a judgement, it's simply a fact. And if they are seen one way, they must be heard in another.

Careers Day — a visit into the fiery depths of real life

On Sept. 28, I was stupid enough to go to the Union and subject myself to the unimaginably, horrible torture of Careers Day '95. The day started out fairly normal, and I went into it with a good attitude. I got all spiffed up in a shirt and tie, changed my socks and underwear, shaved and even splashed on a little Old Spice. I was, in the immortal words of ZZ Top, a sharp dressed man. I had no idea what I had gotten myself into. Oh, the humanity! The horror, the absolute horror!

For starters, I think they should change the name of Careers Day to "It was pretty dumb to spend 40 grand on college because you're as marketable as a venereal disease" Day. I finally realized why I'm treated like a cancer patient when I tell people my major.

"Journalism," I say with a smile. Then they flip me a sad grin and shake their head.

I am not wanted in the business world. Walking around with "Journalism" on my name tag at Careers Day was like walking around with the Scarlet Letter tattooed on my forehead. They saw me coming and ran the other way. The only companies that would talk to me were the crappy ones, which bribed people with Nestle Miniatures. It was terrible!

"God, that's awful," they say. "And someone so young, too. How are your parents handling it?"

I am not wanted in the business world. Walking around with "Journalism" on my name tag at Careers Day was like walking around with the Scarlet Letter tattooed on my forehead. They saw me coming and ran the other way. The only companies that would talk to me were the crappy ones, which bribed people with Nestle Miniatures. It was terrible!

Also, if that's what it's like out there, I'm going to have to toughen up. If I don't, I'm going to find myself in a church basement, waiting for my feet to thaw out and eating brown slop for meals. It was crazy in there. It was like a battle royale — except everybody had too much gel in their hair and Jimmy Hart and Mr. Fuji weren't roaming around outside the ring. Both of my feet were stepped on, my shin kicked, my hair pulled, my eyes gouged, my ears smacked and some nerd elbowed me in my chops right in front of the Price Waterhouse booth.

By the time I got out of there, my pants were ripped, my shirt was stained and my undies were riding dangerously high. It was rough in there. People were wielding their resumes like nightsticks and I personally saw the student volunteers drag out three people with injuries so gruesome decorum prevents me from offering a description.

But worst of all — worse than the feeling of rejection and worse than all the blood and guts — was that Careers Day was just one more reminder that I'm getting old. Don't get me wrong, I'm looking forward to the day I can go into a bar and not be the oldest one there. I can't wait to live and work in a big city where I don't recognize everybody. In short, I'm ready to graduate and move on. I just don't want to graduate, move on and grow up. I just couldn't shake this vision of me sitting in some lodge somewhere with a pot belly bulging over my belt and some stupid looking Grand Pooh-Bah's hat on my head.

Everybody there — and most of them weren't more than two or three years older than I was — seemed so adult. If they were men or Mediterranean, they were clean shaven. Their socks matched their shirts and they could talk about last year's quarterly numbers like we can talk about last weekend's parties. I left there and did the only thing I could think of to do. I skipped all my classes and completely wasted the day doing absolutely nothing. I may have to grow up, but I'm not going to do it without a fight.

EQ test scores low, lacks good character

Finally the media is giving voice to new brain research which suggests human intelligence can't be measured by an IQ test. Many scientists agree the new concept of emotional intelligence, or EQ, is a more accurate predictor of an individual's future success than the old-fashioned IQ measurement.

EDITORIAL POINT OF VIEW

IQ replacement test struggles with credibility, paying little attention to environmental aspects of character building.

In this week's Time magazine cover story, emotional intelligence is defined, loosely, by qualities such as optimism, self-awareness, empathy, self-control — or what your grandmother always called "character."

EQ research consists of experiments like Columbia University psychologist Walter Mischel's "marshmallow" test. One by one, he took 4-year-olds into a room and told each, "You can have this marshmallow right now, but if you wait while I run an errand, you can have two marshmallows when I get back." Then he waited for them to grow up. Guess what? The kids who held out for the second marshmallow were, on average, more popular, more confident, better adjusted and scored an average of 210 points higher on the SAT.

In Daniel Goleman's new book, "Emotional Intelligence," he argues that scores on standardized achievement tests and IQ measurements matter far less than an individual's qualities of mind, and he seeks to "redefine what it means to be smart." But Goleman acknowledges a danger in attempting to measure a person's character. The very nature of emotional intelligence can't be reduced to a handy quotient for admissions committees and prospective employers.

This new way of looking at intelligence may be more sophisticated, more hip, and more '90s than the militaristic, simplistic IQ. But replacing IQ with EQ is still fraught with dangers, because it is still an attempt to quantify something that isn't uniformly quantifiable. If we are seeing the breakdown of the relevance of IQ, which many researchers now agree counts for only about 20 percent of success, we are replacing it with a formula that still doesn't take into account social conditioning. EQ still doesn't leave room for "SQ" or the social factor.

Assuming we all agree what success means, EQ doesn't account for how a wealthy, bright Boston boy who holds out for the second marshmallow might get into the Ivy League and climb the corporate ladder, while an equally bright boy in the Robert Taylor housing project in Chicago, can hold out for that second marshmallow all he wants, and still be lucky to get a job at McDonald's. In fact, the wealthy boy may pounce on that first marshmallow right away and still run the marshmallow corporation when he grows up. The boy in the housing project, however, can hold out for a whole bag of marshmallows and later on have trouble getting a job on the marshmallow assembly line in the wealthy boy's factory.

While EQ may give us a subtler way of evaluating our past presidents — Nixon, for instance, made up for his low EQ with his high IQ, while Reagan made up for a lower IQ with his EQ — it still doesn't explain why their wives, regardless of emotional or intellectual smarts, had to sit back and look pretty. If we accept EQ as the panacea indicator, it won't be long before Charles Murray comes out with "The Bell Curve II" proving once and for all why women earn 66 cents for every dollar men earn: PMS lowers EQ.

Any intelligence formula that does not take into account the SQ factor cannot adequately account for all the subtleties of an individual's success. IQ and EQ can both be misconstrued to mean nature is more important than nurture, that individuals who don't fare as well lack character from the beginning. But nurture is much more difficult to quantify. Striving for an overarching formula, however up to date, is ultimately misguided.

Playwright graduates say discrimination case is just an act

To the Editor:

As former students of the Playwrights Workshop, we felt it important to respond to the coverage of the Playwrights Workshop dispute. Over the past two years, the issues fueling this dispute have swelled disproportionately and now, through the press, have become bloated and unrecognizable. The facts are being manipulated by both McClelland, the prosecuting lawyer, and the press.

We, as students and feminists, must say we are certain this is not a case of gender discrimination. We are aware of how common gender discrimination is in this society and find it unfortunate and disappointing that it is being distorted by McClelland for his own means and ends.

It is the students of the Playwrights Workshop who have suffered the most as a result of this dispute. The workshop atmosphere was hostile and unsupportive to student work and eventually removed from the theatre department. A Playwrights Workshop without a theatre department is like a fiction workshop without any paper. It was simply an untenable solution.

Appropriately, the university took action in an attempt to protect the Workshop students' education. An unbiased review committee began a series of voluntary interviews with students and faculty culminating in a report which is now in McClelland's hands. If he releases the report, we believe the real issues at the center of this dispute will become evident.

If we were all to follow suit, so to speak, the students of the Playwrights Workshop would be filing lawsuits against the heads of the Playwrights Workshop for distress, lost time and repayment of the tuition and loans we acquired in order to witness this dramatization of greed. Then we could all say we learned something in graduate school. Why not? After all, they don't call it the drama department for nothing.

tors) to answer to what they did," Mueller said.

The two women claim the UI discriminated against them because of their gender, then retaliated against them and created a hostile work environment for them, McClelland said.

Berc is out of the country and could not be reached for comment.

In addition to their demands for increases in salaries, Mueller said she and Berc are asking to teach at the UI in the field in which they are qualified — playwriting. They also demand the head of the theatre department, Alan MacVey, be removed from his teaching position in the Playwrights Workshop.

Berc and Mueller said MacVey isn't qualified for his position and claim he physically intimidated them. Mueller said MacVey lunged at her at a faculty meeting and, on a separate occasion, cornered Berc against a wall and said she should stop talking badly about him.

MacVey has denied both charges.

When the women initially asked for the removal of MacVey or the transfer of the Playwrights Workshop out of the theatre department into another, their request was denied, McClelland said. Instead, the committee in charge of such action retaliated by removing the professors.

However, UI dean of liberal arts, Judith Aikin, said the women were given the opportunity to defend themselves last spring when five or six committee members interviewed students, faculty and the women to decide the fate of the Playwrights Workshop.

Because Mueller's and Berc's wish to protest the charges made against them in the committee meeting was not granted by Aikin, filing a lawsuit is more likely than a compromise, Mueller said.

Mueller said she will file a lawsuit if she has to teach rhetoric, which she said Aikin has already assigned to her in a letter.

The decision to teach rhetoric is retaliatory, Mueller said, because English is not in her field of study and she is not qualified to teach it.

If the UI assigned her to teach playwriting somewhere else in the UI or if she was able to do research, Mueller, who is a tenured professor, said she may consider dropping the lawsuit threat.

WISHES COME TRUE

Wish Foundation.

"During the game, the kids sat on the edge of their seats picking out the players they wanted to meet after the game," said Rob Hallberg, a UI senior and president of the Student Alumni Ambassadors, a student group connected with the UI Alumni Association, which sponsored the event.

After the game, the kids raced back to the Recreation Building to get their pens and paper ready for their big chance to meet their heroes.

"When the football players first came to see the kids after the game, the kids just stood in awe," said UI sophomore Dana Spiewak, student ambassador and chairperson of the event. "They just see the players as bigger than life — they're stars to these kids."

More than 20 players stopped by the tailgater after the game to take pictures and sign autographs for the children. The cheerleaders also stopped by to show off a few stunts, and the pompon squad performed a routine for the kids.

"Meeting these kids really brings you back to reality by noticing that you shouldn't take everything for granted," said Chris Jackson, an Iowa defensive back. "We are able to play football and be healthy when some of these kids can't run or play."

"I think it was the most fun for Craig running around and getting all the football players' autographs," his father, Marty said. "It was really an exceptional event — the players really made his day."

Spiewak, who has volunteered with the Make-A-Wish Foundation for more than a year, said the event was far more successful than she expected and hopes to make it an annual event.

"These families have so many burdens to deal with on a daily basis that we just wanted to give them a chance to let go and have a fun day," said Spiewak. "To watch these kids' faces light up with a smile is just amazing."

The day started off with a tailgater at the Recreation Building behind Kinnick Stadium. Lunch was provided by Wendy's. During the pregame festivities, the kids met some freshmen football players and Herky; the marching band even stopped in to play a few tunes.

"It gave everyone a chance to forget about their illness and just have a good time," Hallberg said.

DEAD POETS SOCIETY

One member read her journal entry from the day she witnessed a man get hit by a car. She then asked the group members to remember the man in their thoughts.

A discussion on Colin Powell's bid for the presidency followed. The discussion centered on Ross Perot's independent party and whether Colin Powell will join it.

The topic then evolved into a discussion of "Sesame Street's" puppets because the show has a character based on Ross Perot named "Ross Parrot."

Gallagher and Britten advertised the weekly meetings by chalking sidewalks around campus.

"We were sitting around one night and we came up with the idea," Gallagher said. "Since we've started, anywhere from 25 to 55 people have attended our meetings and this is only the third one."

"I think we are normal. It shouldn't be considered strange to want to express your opinion and thought. Everyone needs a way to express themselves."

UI freshman Deborah Katz

The first meeting was held Sept. 14 with 55 people in attendance.

"We want a place where people can read poetry, yet talk about whatever they want," Britten said. "People need a place where they can feel uninhibited."

The typical stereotype that poets dress entirely in black, are depressed and read from a stage surrounded by a spotlight was dismissed by UI freshman Deborah Katz.

"I think we are normal," she said. "It shouldn't be considered strange to want to express your opinion and thought. Everyone needs a way to express themselves."

Katz said she writes poetry, but doesn't read it at the meetings because it's too personal.

"I'll read anything that doesn't put me to sleep," she said. "This is my second time here and I'm definitely coming back."

Gallagher and Britten like to think of their group in terms of a Walt Whitman poem.

"The poem says, 'I went to the woods because I wanted to live life deliberately. I wanted to live life deep and suck out the marrow of life, and not when I had come to die, discover that I had not lived,'" Gallagher said. "I hope we can give that feeling to the UI campus."

JURY DELIBERATIONS

Cases which have resulted in jury nullification often involved political causes, civil disobedience or — an issue raised in the Simpson case — racism.

Historically, it was a tool used by Southern white juries to avoid convicting other whites who had lynched blacks, Levenson said. They ignored the facts and voted from prejudice — exactly what Superior Court Judge Lance Ito told the Simpson jurors not to do.

During the Vietnam War, lawyers representing protesters routinely called for jury nullification, suggesting the defendants were answering to a higher law.

One of the earliest cases in which jurors defied the law was the 1670 unlawful assembly trial of William Penn for organizing Quaker meetings. The jury was told by the judge they could be jailed if they failed to convict. Nevertheless, they acquitted.

In 1740, John Peter Zenger, publisher of the New York Weekly Journal, was jailed on a charge of seditious libel for satirizing the king's appointed governor for the British colonies. His lawyer, Andrew Hamilton, argued for jury nullification and won.

In a few states, jurors are given legal instructions about nullification, but California is not one of them.

Perhaps the most troubling thing about jury nullification is it is implied rather than stated. Anyone reviewing the trial record would have no overt evidence that is what the jury did. The verdict would be "Not guilty," and the only way jury nullification would become obvious would be if one or more jurors chose to state publicly they had disregarded the evidence and voted for reasons outside the law.

"It's contrary to everything you learned in civics class," Levenson said. "And yet it's very American. It says, 'No immoral law controls us. We're Americans.'"

"But in modern times, jury nullification sometimes has been known as payback."

And that's what worries Clark. In his final argument, Cochran asked jurors to be "the conscience of the community," implying they should look away from Simpson and turn their attention to the racist views and possible misconduct of Detective Mark Fuhrman and others.

Cochran suggested they had the chance to change history.

"Maybe you are the right people at the right time in the right place to say: 'No more!'" Cochran told jurors in his thundering summation.

In a 1992 speech on jury nullification, later published in the Law Review, U.S. District Judge Jack Weinstein of the Eastern District of New York said, "Nullification occurs when a jury — based on its own sense of justice or fairness — refuses to follow the law and convict in a particular case even though the facts seem to allow no other verdict but guilt."

BILLIONAIRES

to become a Hollywood producer.

Gates, 39, of Bellevue, Wash., called the Forbes list "silly" last year when he edged Buffett for No. 1 at $9.35 billion. This year, his 20-year-old company, which supplies the software for 80 percent of the world's personal computers, dominated news pages and advertising space with the Windows 95 software launched Aug. 24.

Buffett, 65, of Omaha, Neb., renowned for building his Berkshire Hathaway Inc. investment firm with long-term investments in steady successes such as Coca-Cola and Cap Cities, is about $2.6 billion richer than last year.

Gates and Buffett also are the wealthiest commoners in the world, Forbes said. The only foreigners who aren't royalty and approach their riches are Swedish packaging magnate Hans Rausing and Japanese railroad and hotel tycoon Yoshiaki Tsutsumi, both worth about $9 billion.

Rounding out the top five:

• John Kluge, 81, of Charlottesville, Va., chairperson of Metromedia Co. Kluge announced in August the sale of his entire $930 million stake in WorldCom Inc., the nation's fourth-largest long distance company. Kluge, worth about $6.7 billion and also No. 3 last year, has interests in restaurants, entertainment, broadcasting and medical technology.

• Paul Allen, 42, of Mercer Island, Wash., co-founder of Microsoft and owner of the Portland Trail Blazers basketball team. The value of Allen's Microsoft shares helped him jump from No. 16 to No. 4 with a worth of about $6.1 billion.

• Sumner Redstone, 72, of Newton Centre, Mass., chairperson of Viacom Inc. He jumped 12 spots to No. 5 with a worth of about $4.8 billion, in part by paring the entertainment empire. Viacom put "Mars Place" producer Spelling Entertainment Group Inc. up for sale, agreed to sell its local cable television systems to Telecommunications Inc. for $2.25 billion and sold its Madison Square Garden division to ITT Corp. for $1.01 billion.

Among those bumped from last year's list were Bill Cosby, producer Aaron Spelling and Penthouse publisher Bob Guccione.

This year's total of 94 billionaires on the list tops last year's record 83 billionaires. The top 400 have a combined worth of $395 billion — about $26 billion larger than the economy of Brazil.

TERRORISM TRIAL

The jurors, who had deliberated for a week, looked tired as their verdict was read.

Most of the defendants looked on sternly, but one smirked and another repeatedly yelled in Arabic, "Allahu Akbar!" or "God is great!," after jurors left the room.

Abdel-Rahman kept his head bowed, as he had throughout the trial, while listening to an interpreter through headphones. He tried to comfort his lawyer, Lynne Stewart, as she cried.

Afterward, she told reporters the blind cleric said he's not the first person to go to prison for his beliefs and he won't be the last.

Lawyers for the defendants said all will appeal.

The verdict concluded a nine-month trial which brought more than 200 witnesses and hundreds of exhibits to a heavily guarded Manhattan courthouse patrolled daily by a bomb-sniffing dog.

Facing a rarely used Civil War-era seditious conspiracy charge, the defendants were accused of plotting to force the United States to stop supporting Israel and Egypt, two enemies of militant Muslims.

"Terrorism is real. It is here. It is in this courtroom," Assistant U.S. Attorney Patrick Fitzgerald told the jury. He also said Abdel-Rahman called the United States "the No. 1 enemy of Islam."

Introducing a new way to help bridge the gap between what you've saved and what you'll need during retirement.

Teachers Personal Annuity® now offers more flexibility with the new Stock Index Account... a variable account specifically developed for the long-term investor who is looking for more growth opportunities and is willing to accept more risk.

When you're planning for the future, every dollar counts. Now you have more choices to help you make the most of your after-tax retirement dollars. With Teachers Personal Annuity, you can select either our Fixed Account or our new Stock Index Account. Or, you may choose to allocate your money to both accounts. That way you can take advantage of the highly-competitive effective annual interest rate of the Fixed Account and the growth potential offered by the Stock Index Account. With both accounts, taxes on any earnings will be deferred until you withdraw them — which gives you a big edge over taxable accounts. However, if you withdraw money before age 59½, you may have to pay a federal tax penalty in addition to regular income tax. And remember — as a variable annuity, the Stock Index Account doesn't guarantee returns, which will fluctuate over time.

With a low initial investment, no front-end sales charges or transfer fees, and no surrender charge at this time, Teachers Personal Annuity can help bridge the gap between what you've saved and what you'll need during retirement.

Iowa State reduces

McCarney's income

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The disclosure of football coach Dan McCarney's domestic problems has prompted Iowa State officials to reduce his guaranteed income from outside sources by more than $100,000.

McCarney is now guaranteed $61,000 from public appearances, television and radio shows, apparel contracts and other endorsements, according to figures from the Iowa State University Foundation, which oversees McCarney's outside income.

That's $104,000 less than he had been guaranteed when he signed his contract last November.

Murray Blackwelder, Iowa State's acting vice president of external affairs, said the reduction is "unfortunately the result of what happened earlier this year."

Last March, it was disclosed that McCarney's estranged wife, Brenda, had obtained a restraining order against McCarney from a district court judge in Madison, Wis.

Mariners, Angels set for showdown

Associated Press

ARLINGTON, Texas — The Seattle Mariners, attempting one of baseball's greatest comebacks, couldn't quite finish it — at least not yet.

Seattle has one more chance to win the AL West, a winner-take-all game with the California Angels today in the Kingdom.

The 145th game was forced because the Mariners lost 9-3 to the Texas Rangers on Sunday. A few hours later, the Angels beat the Oakland Athletics 6-2, leaving both teams at 78-66.

"It will be nice to win it in front of the home folks," Mariners manager Lou Piniella said. "We've got a darn good pitcher and a team that plays darn good baseball. We're still in great shape."

Seattle will send Randy Johnson (17-2) against Mark Langston (15-6). Seattle won a coin flip last month for the right to play host.

"The beer tastes better at our place anyway," Mariners outfielder Vince Coleman said. "We look forward to clinching at home. We play well there. We'll be hyped."

The winner of that game will travel to New York for a best-of-5 first-round series against the Yankees, who won the wild-card spot with a 79-65 record.

A loss for Seattle today would make it 19 straight years without the postseason for the franchise. It would be especially devastating because the Mariners overcame the midseason loss of Ken Griffey Jr. and still fought back.

The Mariners turned what had been a 13-game deficit on Aug. 2 into a three-game lead with five to play. As of Friday, they were up by two with two to play; they then lost 9-2 Saturday and by nearly the same score Sunday.

The consecutive losses were the first since Sept. 6-7. Seattle still is on a roll of having won nine of its last 12, 13 of 17 and 16 of 21.

It was somewhat surprising that Texas would be the spoilers. The Rangers had lost 15 of their previous 16 against the Mariners before the consecutive victories to close the season.

Best of all for Texas, the two season-ending victories meant Seattle has to ship back home the champagne and T-shirts proclaiming them AL West champs.

"We were hoping that wouldn't happen here," said Texas' Otis Nixon. "We were going to play as hard as we could and not lay down. Now they have to go back and see if they can take it in their own city."

Seattle never put itself in position to win Sunday. Tim Belcher (10-12) gave up a three-run home run to Mickey Tettleton in the first. The Rangers increased their lead to 5-1 after four and 7-1 after five.

Seattle closed to 7-3 following a two-run homer by Mike Blowers in the sixth, but Texas answered with two runs in the bottom of the inning. The Mariners' first run was a solo homer by Jay Buhner in the second.

Hawkeyes annihilate Aggies

Iowa pounds out over 600 total yards

Chris Snider

New Mexico State won the coin toss, but found little more reason for celebration while Iowa cruised to a 59-21 victory Saturday at Kinnick Stadium.

Iowa struck first and often, as five different Hawkeye players scored first-half touchdowns, including a pair of scoring strikes from Matt Sherman to Tim Dwight.

"Our No. 1 defense did a super job and our No. 1 offense did a super job," Iowa coach Hayden Fry said. "We needed that going into Big Ten play."

But the story of the day was freshman walk-on kicker Zach Bromert, who connected on all eight of his extra point attempts and his only field goal attempt, in his first game as a Hawkeye.

Iowa was 4-of-8 on extra point attempts coming into the game.

The Hawkeyes rushed for 350 yards and threw for 262 more, finally finding the balance they have been looking for on offense.

"We had the running game established two weeks ago against Iowa State," Dwight said. "Really, we wanted to come out today and throw the ball a lot, and that's what we did."

Dwight caught five passes from Sherman for 88 yards and two touchdowns, a 25- and 21- yarder.

Sherman finished with 217 yards, completing 11-of-13 passes for three touchdowns and no interceptions.

Iowa scored on every first-half possession except its final one, which began with 36 seconds left in the half.

Sedrick Shaw started the scoring with a three-yard touchdown run three minutes into the game. Shaw rushed for 62 yards on six carries during the 80 yard drive.

Sherman's 25-yard strike to Dwight on fourth and six gave Iowa a 14-0 lead with 5:56 left in the first quarter.

Hawkeyes balance their offensive attack

Mike Triplett

The Daily Iowan

With the Big Ten season just around the corner, the Hawkeyes feel they've attained exactly what they need — balance.

The running game has been there, but Saturday the passing game matched it step for step.

"It feels good," receiver Tim Dwight said of the emergence of the passing game. "We feel like we're moving, like we're actually going somewhere. We can throw the ball and we can run the ball."

Quarterback Matt Sherman threw his second, third and fourth touchdowns of the season en route to a 217-yard passing performance. He completed 11-of-13 passes without tossing an interception.

Ryan Driscoll came in to relieve Sherman after the opening drive of the second half and helped boost the Hawkeyes' passing total to 262 yards. Iowa also rushed for 350 yards as it compiled 612 yards of offense.

"Let's hope (we can keep it up); I can't guarantee anything," Sherman said. "But that's what you want to do is balance the

CITY VS. WEST

West shuts out City for No. 1 state ranking

By Wayne Drehs

The Daily Iowan

Heavy downpours and a determined Iowa City West High football team handed Iowa City City High its first loss of the season in an often-ugly 14-0 victory at City High's Frank Bates Field Friday.

The win will surely propel No. 2-ranked West ahead of No. 1 City in the state poll. It will also serve as a morale booster for West, which hasn't beaten its intracity rival in seven years.

Heavy rain mixed with scattered drizzle made the football field seem more like a pig pen and the ball more like a slimy fish — conditions which led to 10 fumbles, switching possession between the teams seven times.

"You have to prepare for all conditions," West head coach Reese Morgan said. "Anytime you go into a game with conditions like these, you know turnovers will be significant, and you just have to do your best."

The best West High had was a tough defense and an offensive line that opened holes for running backs Carlos Honore and Vong Xaykosky all night long. The two combined for 220 yards rushing on 40 carries, for a more than respectable 5.5-yard average. Each back scored a touchdown.

"The offensive line was incredible tonight," Xaykosky said. "They made huge holes for us all night, but especially in the fourth quarter."

The game was put away during the last period, when a City drive was stalled on a facemask penalty, thus moving City back and forcing a second-and-27. The Little Hawks couldn't convert, however, and were forced to punt.

The ball was then turned over to the West offense with approximately 9:30 left, and West up 14-0 when Honore, Xaykosky, and the Trojan offensive line took over. The team converted four first downs and held the ball for 5:57.

"I just knew we had to stall the clock and keep moving the chains," Honore said.

"We didn't do anything fancy," said Morgan. "We just wanted to Kenny Rogers (17-7) started on three days' rest and allowed three runs and five hits in six innings. Matt Whiteside finished for his third save.

Angels 8, Athletics 2

ANAHEIM, Calif. — After wasting an 11-game lead in the AL West, the California Angels rebounded to force a one-game playoff for the division title by beating the Oakland Athletics.

Chuck Finley (15-12), who beat

Seattle on Wednesday to cut California's deficit to two games, allowed four hits in 7 1/2 innings and struck out nine. Jim Edmonds had four hits, drove in three runs and scored three times as the Angels won their fifth straight.

Finley limited the Athletics, who closed with a nine-game losing streak, to two runs, one a solo homer by Terry Steinbach in the second inning.

Troy Percival relieved in the seventh with one out and a runner on first, and blanked Oakland the rest of the way.

Mel Stottlemyre (14-7) was raked for six runs and 10 hits in four-plus innings. Tim Salmon, who also had three hits, drove in two runs as the Angels built a 6-1 lead by the fifth.

Tony Phillips led off the game with a double and scored on Edmonds' single. Edmonds came home on J.T. Snow's single for a 2-0 lead.

Edmonds led off the third with a double and scored on Salmon's single. Chili Davis doubled Salmon home, then eventually scored on rookie Garret Anderson's sacrifice fly.

California built the lead to 6-1 in the fifth when Edmonds, who has scored a club record-tying 120 runs this year, singled and came around on Salmon's double. Edmonds added a two-run triple in the eighth.

The Angels led the division by 11 games as late as Aug. 9, but then lost 24 of 30 as Seattle — 13 games back on Aug. 5 — caught them on Sept. 20, then went ahead.

catching the ball," Dwight said. "We have a lot of confidence in Sherman and (back-up quarterback Ryan) Driscoll to get the job done."

Tavian Banks, Rodney Filer and Mike Burger all added touchdowns as Iowa took a 42-0 lead into the locker room at halftime. Burger's score was his first as a Hawkeye.

Iowa played its second and third string players most of the second half and was outscored 21-17.

offense. If you can do that, then you can put 59 points on the board every week."

In the opening half, the Iowa offense looked like a finely tuned machine — one that could have churned out a lot more than 59 points if the desire was there.

The first of Iowa's six first-half touchdown drives consisted of six Sedrick Shaw runs for 62 yards and a pair of 11-yard Sherman passes. The Hawkeyes still went with the run on their second drive, handing the ball to Rodney Filer twice for gains of 41 and five yards.

Then Shaw was stuffed and Sherman threw incomplete, leaving Iowa with a fourth-down-and-six situation at the 25-yard line. Iowa chose not to kick a field goal and even passed up the reliable running game, opting to go with a pass play.

The decision panned out. Sherman hooked up with Tim Dwight for Iowa's second touchdown.

"It showed us that Coach Fry has confidence in us to throw the ball," Dwight said. "And it showed our fans and it showed ourselves that we can throw the ball even if it's in a tight situation."

Sherman's next pass was incomplete, but he hit his target on his final eight passes, including a 7-for-7 performance in the second quarter.

Sherman hit Willie Guy on a 41-yarder to set up Iowa's fourth touchdown, then threw a 10-yard touchdown pass to Mike Burger and a 21-yard scoring strike to Dwight before the half ended.

"I feel great. Today's just the kind of day I needed," Sherman said. "I knew I could do it, I just had to get the confidence."

Sherman was a little down on himself after average performances in Iowa's first two victories, but said he felt things coming together against New Mexico State.

"The first two weeks I was struggling. I always want to play a perfect game — you probably can't, but that's my goal," he explained. "Today I came a step closer."

Sherman isn't the only reason the passing game clicked Saturday. Guy and Dwight each made spectacular diving grabs in the 41-yarder and touchdown, respectively. And Burger made a great spinning catch to turn his reception into a score.

"I definitely think the passing game is ready for the Big Ten season," Guy said. "I think that was evident in the one catch we hooked up on."

Iowa's passing game had better be ready for the Big Ten season. The Hawkeyes head to Lansing, Mich., Saturday to take on a Spartan football team that tied Purdue and beat Boston College in its last two games.

"It's nice to go into the Big Ten season knowing that we can throw the ball," Sherman said. "We knew we could, we just had to do it on game day. Practices don't count."

Sherman said his confidence rose with Saturday's performance, but he needs to continue to have that kind of success.

"I'm learning more every week, I'm still a young quarterback," he said. "But it's at the point where I have to make some plays and try to get this team back to the Rose Bowl."

Hawkeyes falter in weekend matches

Jon Basso
The Daily Iowan

One thing is certain for the Hawkeyes. There is a lot of work ahead.

The Iowa volleyball team dropped a pair of Big Ten home matches over the weekend to fall to 1-3 in the conference. The Hawkeyes stand 8-7 overall.

Friday, Michigan topped the Hawkeyes in five games, while Saturday, No. 8 Michigan State held off Iowa 15-5, 15-9, 15-17, 15-8.

The Spartans won their ninth straight match and improved to 15-1, 4-0 in the Big Ten.

The Hawkeyes did snap Michigan State's streak of 26 consecutive games won with the victory in the third game.

Freshman Jenna Wrobel led a balanced Spartan attack with 22 kills and 17 digs. Sophomore Veronica Morales added 21 kills on a 34.1 hitting percentage.

The Hawkeyes missed senior Tiffany McDaniel (out with a knee injury) as they were dominated near the net.

Iowa's Jill Oelschlager said Michigan State deserved a lot of credit.

"We knew they'd be good and they were," Oelschlager said. "We have a lot of stuff to work on, mainly mentally. Physically we're all there."

Oelschlager had a solid game against the Spartans finishing with 14 kills and 14 digs. Her hitting percentage was a match-high .522.

Katy Fawbush led the Hawkeyes with 22 kills, while Jennifer Webb slammed 19 kills and collected a team-high 22 digs.

Lisa Dockray performed well, finishing with 55 assists and 17 digs.

The highlight of the night for the Hawkeyes came in the third game. Iowa won one of the longest points in recent memory when Fawbush slammed home a kill. Iowa made several dramatic saves to keep the point alive. The Hawkeyes received a thundering standing ovation.

"I should have just stayed on the ground on that point," Oelschlager said. "We wouldn't have done that last night (against Michigan). That's just pure heart and attitude."

That point sparked the Hawkeyes to come back from a 12-14 deficit to win the third game, 17-15.

Friday night, Iowa suffered a disappointing loss to the Wolverines, 12-15, 15-10, 15-12, 4-15, 15-10.

The Hawkeyes looked dominating at times, especially in the fourth game, but were handled by Michigan down the stretch.

Senior Shannon Brownie led the Wolverines cause with 22 kills and 14 digs.

Webb and Fawbush led the

"If it were happening to me, I'd be working a lot harder in practice, so I wouldn't be on the short end of the stick four out of five times in five-game matches."

Linda Schoenstedt, volleyball coach on Iowa's recent struggles Hawkeyes with 20 kills apiece, while Oelschlager finished with a team-high 13 digs. Dockray handed out 59 assists.

Iowa coach Linda Schoenstedt said Michigan was the better team on Friday.

"I just think Michigan outplayed us," Schoenstedt said. "It hasn't been a problem in the past, but it is this year. We're having a hard time finding confidence late in matches."

The Hawkeyes played from behind all match long. Other than the fourth game, Iowa never led by more than three points. The Hawkeyes trailed for virtually the entire four games.

"If it were happening to me, I'd be working a lot harder in practice, so I wouldn't be on the short end of the stick four out of five times in five game matches," Schoenstedt said. "This is a team that knows how to win in five game matches, they did it nine out of 10 times last year."

Schoenstedt said she was especially disappointed with the soft backcourt defense displayed by the Hawkeyes.

Iowa will try to regroup in time for Friday night when it travels to Ohio State.

FIELD HOCKEY

Beglin not satisfied despite two wins

Chris James
The Daily Iowan

Down three goals to the No. 13 team in the nation with less than 13 minutes to play in driving rain, the Iowa field hockey team pulled off an outstanding comeback with two wins.

The team came out on top as the Hawkeyes came back twice to sweep a pair of Big Ten Conference contests from Michigan and Michigan State.

Iowa improved its record to 9-2 overall and a perfect 4-0 in conference play.

On Friday afternoon, Iowa triumphed 4-3 in overtime against Michigan in a game that saw Iowa play one of its worst halves of the year and also make one of its biggest comebacks. Iowa coach Beth Beglin said her team definitely had their heads in the rain clouds.

"We did not play smart hockey," Beglin said. "Our decision making in the first half was terrible. I think we have a real difficult time walking out of classes and then being ready to play a half an hour later."

They are not making a quick enough transition from being in class to pulling together and being prepared for what they have to do."

On a rain-soaked Grant Field, Iowa saw Michigan jump out to a 2-0 lead in the first half. The Wolverines Gia Biagi and Sherene Smith got Michigan going with goals at 14:58 and 11:50 left in the first half. Smith struck again early in the second half to put the Wolverines up 3-0 and it looked as if Michigan would score its first victory over Iowa in 27 tries.

But Iowa sophomore Annette Payne suddenly became the Wolverines' worst nightmare. Freshman Quan Nim dumped off a dandy assist to Payne and the sophomore slapped home the goal to put the Hawkeyes on the board with 12:41 left in the contest. Payne did the damage again three minutes later unassisted, pulling Iowa within one.

Iowa's Diane DeMiro, in the clutch again, tied the score at 3-3 when the junior put in the game-tying goal with 4:53 remaining in regulation.

DeMiro put the nail in the coffin

9:72 into the extra period when Iowa sophomore Melissa Miller delivered the game-winning assist. Beglin said it was a credit to the team to be able to dig itself out of such an enormous hole.

"I wasn't quite sure we had it in us to comeback. But thank God players like Annette Payne and Michelle Wilson stepped in a did a terrific job for us today."

I thought those two did an outstanding job of coming off the bench and giving this team a spark when they needed one badly," Beglin said.

Sunday the Hawkeyes ran into a very physical Michigan State team and had to pull off the game in the waning seconds again. The Hawkeyes and Spartans fought to a scoreless tie at half. Michigan State grabbed the lead with 31:06 remaining in the game when Emma Fernandez put the Spartans on top, 1-0.

DeMiro snatched Iowa from the jaws of defeat when she rebounded a penalty corner shot to tie the game at 1-1 with 4:01 left in the game. Then, in a heart-stopping finish, Iowa freshman Quan Nim put home the game-winning goal to give Iowa the 2-1 triumph. Nim described the final 17 seconds.

"I was pretty much just there and Mary (Casabian) hit me with a great pass. It was a bang-bang play," Nim said.

Nim said her and some of the younger players were just starting to get comfortable.

"We've played hard the last few games," Nim said. "There is still a long ways to go but we're getting there."

LOCAL ROUNDUP

Men's tennis team crumbles in debut

Sometimes determination just isn't enough.

The Iowa men's tennis team entered the Tom Fallon Invitational in South Bend, Ind., with no experienced doubles teams and four newcomers playing their first singles matches in an Iowa uniform.

The result was a lot of early exits as the Hawkeyes lost five of their eight first-round singles matches and all four of their doubles contests.

Senior Marcus Ekstrand paced the Hawkeyes in singles play by advancing to the semifinals of Flight B before falling to Purdue's Derek Myers in three sets, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Ekstrand advanced to his semifinal match with Myers by defeating Richard Harrison of Marquette in the quarterfinals by a score of 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Compounding problems for the Hawkeyes was an injury to Mattias Jonsson. Jonsson, who was scheduled to play at the No. 2 singles slot and the No. 1 doubles position, was forced to miss the competition after straining a tendon in his knee.

Iowa coach Steve Houghton said the Hawkeyes played well, but were hindered by a lack of experience.

"Everybody played well at times, but we couldn't sustain it from match to match or point to point," he said.

Hawkeyes successful in Minnesota

The Iowa women's cross country team traveled to Minneapolis this weekend to learn about the course that will carry this year's Big Ten Conference championships, but what they came away with was the knowledge that the field doesn't hold water well.

Four to five inches of mud hampered runners, but didn't keep the Hawkeyes from a successful performance.

Iowa scored a 342, good for 12th place out of 23 teams, a strong showing considering that six of the 23 teams at the meet were nationally ranked. Iowa finished in the middle of its Big Ten counterparts, defeating Michigan State and Illinois, but being overcome by Wisconsin, Penn State and Minnesota.

"To come through with another good solid team performance is a positive sign," said head coach Jerry Hassard.

Individually, Iowa was led by junior Becky Coleman's personal-best time of 18:12.

Steele leads way in Iowa victory

After a six-day rest, the man of Steele was again a driving force in Iowa's victory at the Illinois Invitational last Friday.

Freshman Stetson Steele led the way to the narrow Hawkeye victory in Champaign, Ill., with his third-place time of 32:07 in the 10-kilometer race. Steele's time was 15 seconds behind the leader, Jason Zieren from Illinois.

"Stetson had three terrific meets," head coach Larry Wiecek said. "He's been a real boost to our team this year."

Right behind Steele was last year's Big Ten Conference freshman of the year Jared Pittman, who ran 32:10. Pittman finished a disappointing eighth in last weekend's Bradley Invitational, so a good performance was due.

"Jared did a really good job bouncing back from last weekend's meet," Wiecek said.

Additional contributors to the victory over Illinois were junior Chris Peters, who finished in seventh with a time of 32:16, sophomore Chad Feeldy, who ran a 32:31, and Chad Schwitters who finished 14th at 32:46.

Golf team finishes 12th at Lady Northern

The Iowa women's golf team finished 12th at the Lady Northern Invitational Saturday and Sunday.

Jenny Nodland led Iowa with a three day total of 242.

"Nobody played particularly well," Coach Diane Thomason said. "We have a lot to work on."

Irvan's return a success

Associated Press

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C.

There was one part of Ernie Irvan's old racing habits that he couldn't quite duplicate in the Tyson Holly Farms 400.

"Winning," said Irvan, whose first run in a NASCAR Winston Cup race in more than a year ended in a sixth-place finish at North Wilkesboro Speedway Sunday.

On Aug. 20, 1994, Irvan nearly lost his life in a practice lap crash at Michigan International Speedway.

He was given little chance to recover from the severe head injuries that resulted.

Thirteen months later, Irvan almost completed an incredible comeback, having started Sunday's inspiring race from the seventh position.

Buffaloes impress in 38-17 victory

Associated Press

Even though Colorado's showdown with Nebraska is almost a month away, get ready for the hype to start now.

After the Buffaloes' 38-17 win at Oklahoma Saturday, their home date with the Cornhuskers could well determine the Big Eight championship, if not a major bowl berth. Second-ranked Nebraska did its part by defeating Washington State 35-21 at Lincoln, Neb.

Sooners coach Howard Schnellenberger came away from Saturday night's game thinking No. 4 Colorado is the team to beat.

"They have so many play-makers," he said. "During the course of the game, they began to make the big plays."

While Colorado-Nebraska will be huge, the Big Ten's much-anticipated Ohio State-Penn State meeting Saturday lost a little of its luster after the Nittany Lions' loss to Wisconsin.

"Beating Notre Dame should give us a lot of confidence going into Penn State," Ohio State tailback Eddie George said, after rushing for 207 yards and two touchdowns. "This was a great win, but we have a lot of tough games left to play in the Big Ten."

No. 3 Florida 28, Mississippi 10

Danny Wuerfel threw three touchdown passes at Gainesville, Fla., as the Gators (4-0, 3-0 SEC) improved its record against unranked teams to 39-0 under coach Steve Spurrier.

No. 5 Southern California 31, Arizona St. 0

Keyshawn Johnson became the first college player with 100 or more yards receiving in 12 consecutive games. He had 13 catches for 171 yards for the Trojans (4-0, 2-0 Pac-10) at Tempe, Ariz.

No. 7 Michigan 38, Miami, Ohio 19

Brian Griese, son of NFL Hall of Famer Bob Griese, threw two touchdown passes for Michigan (5-0) at Ann Arbor while subbing for injured Scott Dreisbach.

No. 25 Northwestern 31, Indiana 7

Off to a 3-1 start for the first time since 1963, Northwestern beat Indiana behind the running of Darnell Autry, who gained 100 yards for a fifth straight game.

Standout Indiana running back Alex Smith suffered three fractured ribs in Saturday's loss and will be out for four to six weeks, school officials said Sunday.

Indiana comes to Iowa City in two weeks to face the Hawkeyes.

Smith gained 136 yards on 23 carries Saturday, but was carried off the field on a stretcher with 9:32 left after he was tackled. The game was delayed 10 minutes while Smith was attended to near midfield.

NFL ROUNDUP

Redskins upend rival Dallas

Associated Press

Barry Switzer proved prophetic. "Humility is only seven days away," he said last week and his Dallas Cowboys proved it Sunday, losing 27-23 to hated rival Washington on a day when Miami emerged as the last of the NFL's unbeaten.

With Troy Aikman missing all but the first series with a strained right calf muscle that is expected to keep him out 2-3 weeks, the Redskins handed the Cowboys their first loss in five games as Terry Allen rushed for 121 yards and Gus Frerotte threw for 192 yards and two touchdowns.

The St. Louis Rams, a far more surprising 4-0 than the Cowboys, also lost for the first time, 21-18 at Indianapolis, while the Dolphins improved to 4-0 by beating Cincinnati 26-23 in the second Shula vs. Shula coaching confrontation as Dan Marino hit O.J. McDuffie with a 16-yard touchdown pass with 1:03 left.

In other early games, it was Atlanta 30, New England 17; Tampa Bay 20, Carolina 13, and Philadelphia 15, New Orleans 10.

But the shocker was in Washington, where Aikman went out after the first series when his leg gave out after he threw a pass. Then the Dallas defense gave out.

"We wouldn't have beaten them if Troy Aikman played today," Switzer said. "Troy Aikman doesn't play defense."

After Darren Woodson's 37-yard interception return gave Dallas a 10-3 lead, Washington (2-3) scored 24 straight points.

It was 27-10 when Allen went in from 1 yard out midway through the third quarter after a fumble by Emmitt Smith, who gained 95 yards in 22 carries, the first time this year he's been under 100 yards in a game.

The Cowboys tried to rally behind backup quarterback Wade Wilson, who was 21 of 29 for 224 yards, but the Redskins hung on, clinching the victory when Tom Carter intercepted Wilson's desperation pass in the final minute.

"I believe that's the best team in football and it's great to beat them in our own home," said Washington coach Norv Turner, who was Dallas' offensive coordinator until he took over the Redskins last season. "No question this is our best win. I see guys everywhere on the field getting better but the bottom line is winning."

Dolphins 26, Bengals 23

At Cincinnati, Dan Marino threw a 16-yard touchdown pass to O.J. McDuffie with 1:03 left to keep Don Shula's Miami Dolphins unbeaten with a 26-23 victory over Dave's Cincinnati Bengals.

Cincinnati (2-3) wasted a chance to tie in the closing seconds when Doug Pelfrey's 45-yard field-goal attempt drifted feet wide left and left Miami at 4-0 for the fifth time in club history and the first since 1992.

Last year, in the first meeting between father-son coaches, the Dolphins ground out a 23-7 win. But this year, Jeff Blake kept Cincinnati in it by throwing three touchdown passes to Carl Pickens. Marino completed 33 of 48 for 450 yards.

Colts 21, Rams 18

At Indianapolis, Marshall Faulk rushed for a career-high 177 yards and three touchdowns as the Colts (2-2) handed the Rams their first loss as a St. Louis-based team.

The Colts (2-2) forced three turnovers from a team that hadn't committed any this season, took a 14-10 lead at halftime and scored the clinching touchdown on a 1-yard run by Faulk in the third quarter.

Both of the touchdowns for the Rams (4-1) came on passes from Chris Miller to Isaac Bruce, including a 34-yarder and 2-point conversion with 52 seconds to go. The Colts then covered an onside kick and ran out the clock for the victory.

Buccaneers 20, Panthers 13

At Clemson, S.C., Casey Weldon replaced the injured Trent Dilfer for Tampa Bay and kept expansion Carolina winless in Kerry Collins' first start.

Weldon, getting the first extensive action of his four-year career after Dilfer left with a concussion, completed 15 of 25 passes for 181 yards for the Bucs, (3-2).

Collins, the Panthers' first-ever draft choice, completed 18 of 33 for 233 yards.

He had one scoring pass and was intercepted once, as Carolina turned over the ball four times inside the Tampa Bay 35.

Eagles 15, Saints 10

At New Orleans, Rodney Peete replaced Randall Cunningham as the starter and moved Philadelphia into range for five Gary Anderson field goals that kept the Saints winless.

Anderson, who established himself as one of the most accurate kickers in the league during his 13-year career at Pittsburgh, hit field goals of 20, 43, 36, 37 and 42 yards for the Eagles (2-3).

The Saints (0-5) are off to their worst start since 1980. Peete, named the starter after a 48-17 loss in Oakland, completed 18 of 29 passes for 173 yards.

Falcons 30, Patriots 17

In Atlanta, Morten Andersen kicked five field goals to beat New England, playing with Scott Zolak

Andersen kicked two of his five field goals in the final 9:42 to break a tie and give the Falcons (4-1) a 30-17 victory over New England.

Zolak engineered the first touchdown drives for the Patriots (1-3) since the season opener and got the team's first touchdown pass this year, a 2-yarder to Sam Gash.

Chiefs 24, Cardinals 3

Steve Bono threw two TD passes and stunned Arizona with a 76-yard touchdown run, the longest scoring run ever by a quarterback in NFL history.

After a fake handoff to Marcus Allen fooled the Arizona defense, Bono circled to his right and took off while Allen was being wrestled down and ran. The slow-footed quarterback lumbered along the sideline in apparent disbelief, while lineman Joe Valerio waved him on.

Seahawks 27, Broncos 10

Chris Warren scored three touchdowns on short runs and rushed for 115 yards as Seattle downed Denver.

Warren carried 24 times for 115 yards, his second straight 100-yard game and the 15th of his career.

49ers 20, Giants 6

San Francisco bounced back from last Monday night's defeat at Detroit, shutting down New York's ground game. Steve Young passed for 202 yards and directed four scoring drives for the defending Super Bowl champions.

Steelers 31, Chargers 16

Pittsburgh got even for last January's AFC title game loss, battering San Diego. Willie Williams and Alvoid Mays returned interceptions for touchdowns for the Steelers, who ended a two-game losing streak.

Jaguars 17, Oilers 16

Desmond Howard caught a 15-yard touchdown pass from backup Mark Brunell with 1:03 to play and Mike Hollis added the winning extra point as Jacksonville won for the first time in the regular season.

The Jaguars (1-4) got their big break with 2:27 left when safety Darren Carrington recovered a fumble by Houston's Rodney Thomas at the Oilers 45.

Colts running back Marshall Faulk breaks loose from St. Louis cornerback Anthony Parker for a 32-yard touchdown run Sunday.

Raiders 47, Jets 10

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — It was a gorgeous evening for football. Too bad only one team showed up.

The Oakland Raiders never were tested Sunday night by the New York Jets as Jeff Hostetler threw for four touchdowns, three in the first half, in a 47-10 rout. The Raiders (4-1) built a 31-3 halftime edge over their inept hosts, who sustained their worst home loss since the 1989 finale.

Hostetler, in his return to the stadium where he played for the other tenant, the Giants — leading them to a Super Bowl title — picked apart a Jets defense ravaged by injuries. His main victim was rookie cornerback Vance Joseph, in his first NFL game. Tim Brown and Daryl Hobbs each beat Joseph for scores in the final 2 1/2 minutes of the second quarter.

From the opening play, Hostetler and Brown were unstoppable against the Jets, who were missing four regulars on defense. Brown caught a 12-yard pass to get things started and also had receptions of 17, 14, 11 and another of 17 for a touchdown. He wound up with eight catches for 156 yards.

Hostetler, who was 14-for-23 for 261 yards, also had TD passes of 2 yards to Andrew Glover and 6 to Hobbs in the opening 30 minutes. Harvey Williams ran for an 8-yard score.

Erotica cures hittin'-the-books blues

Steve Willard
The Daily Iowan

The midsemester slump is epidemic. One certain cure is pleasure reading. The prescription is easy — a swipe of the university ID at the bookstore, and the road to recovery is set.

Erotic books may make for the finest pleasure reading. The back cover of Gregory Spatz's "No One but Us" promises forbidden love, and Spatz delivers for dozens of pages; his craftsmanship planting us firmly in the eyes of Charlie, who has a "torrid" fling with his mother's drinking partner.

The romance is erotically drawn in the best sense — tantalizing and titillating, not quite pornographic — and gotten out of the way quickly, which leads to the more formal pleasures of watching a posterotic world through Charlie's eyes.

Charlie is never in much legitimate danger from his affair, and this allows him to be fascinatingly insensitive to the creatures living around him: he puts others in danger. Despite his tuned and precise observations (which one might consider compassion for the observed), when the opportunity arises for cruelty or kindness, he is piquantly cruel, telling his recovering-from-a-suicide-attempt mother to go talk to her shrink when she engages in the slightest bit of soul-baring.

Charlie's mother's various moral cave-ins create a space for the teen-age Charlie to assume her parental mantle of authority. Hence the reason for authoring this book: Charlie's moral failing as watcher allows the story to be driven by those he watches. Spatz handles all this quite subtly, under the sheen of story-telling.

At the book's climax, Charlie listens to his lover tell a story about her twin sisters. Here Charlie is transformed from narrator to listener. As Charlie watches his lover invade the book between quotation marks and assume his function as teller, he is displaced by his buildup of inaction with a response of "Huh?" A few pages later, Charlie begins to actually act on his

Cheapness and Beauty (Virgin) — Boy George

Hearing Boy George's voice over driving rock tracks is one of the year's most jarring musical moments. He insists there's nothing unusual, that his tastes run toward the Iggy Pop tune he covers, and we won't pick nits about his rock credibility.

Yet, like a jockey suiting up for the NBA, his skills are better applied elsewhere: George's gentle voice doesn't have the power for punk rock. Fortunately, Cheapness and Beauty is deeper. Some of the quieter numbers — the violin-driven folk rock of "Same Thing in Reverse" and the ballad "Unfinished Business" — are among the best things he's ever done.

Not coincidentally, George also uses these songs to forthrightly talk about homosexual love in ground-breaking ways for the rock world.

Indian arts college faces fatal cuts

Deborah Baker
Associated Press

SANTA FE, N.M. — Perry Horse finds himself glancing frequently toward a corner of his office, where a wooden staff hung with cloth, feathers, buckskins and beads stands at attention.

A gift from his fellow Kiowa tribal members when Horse took over last year as president of the Institute of American Indian Arts here, the staff symbolizes leadership.

These days, "it's a reminder to me that leaders have to endure hardship," Horse said.

There's hardship aplenty at the two-year Indian arts college, the only one of its kind in the nation.

Its federal funding — virtually its sole source of operating money — has been slashed in half for the upcoming school year, and Congress wants to cut it off completely.

Horse has laid off 40 percent of the school's employees and cut enrollment by one-third by limiting new students.

"It's just been a real tough time for us this summer," the president said. "We're looking survival in the face."

Opened 33 years ago as a high school, IAIA became a junior college in 1975. It was a Bureau of Indian Affairs school until Congress chartered it separately in 1988.

Officially called the Institute of American Indian and Alaska Native Culture and Arts Development, it's the only school devoted exclusively to the artistic and cultural traditions of American Indian peoples.

Its students, who represent 76 tribes, come from 32 states and a few foreign countries. If they're enrolled tribal members — and most are — their tuition, room and board are free.

The school offers accredited, two-year degree programs in two-dimensional arts such as painting and photography; three-dimensional arts such as sculpture, jewelry and pottery; creative writing; and museum studies.

IAIA never has had its own campus, operating from an assortment of World War II-era barracks and newer, portable buildings in a corner of the campus of the private College of Santa Fe.

And for some, it literally has been a lifesaver.

"For me, it was either come here, go to jail, kill myself or kill somebody," said Al Hubbard, 22, who expects to get his degree this year.

Hubbard, who is Navajo and Apache, grew up in Las Vegas, Nev., but moved at age 18 to a reservation in Wyoming. It was a difficult transition, one he said was propelling him toward trouble.

"This is a really good school," said Hubbard, who draws, paints and sculpts and aspires for a master of fine arts degree. "It gave me direction ... it gave me purpose."

Charlene Teters, former director of placement and alumni relations, said IAIA's students often come from troubled environments on reservations or in urban communities.

"The institute has played a very important role in reclaiming ourselves as native peoples. This is a place where it's OK to be Indian," said Teters.

Dominatrix look hits Iowa City

FASHION

20-inch shafts and oodles of Tina Turner-circa-"Mad Max Beyond Thunderdome" attitude. Several years after it made a comeback in the world's major fashion centers, The Dominatrix Look has stomped into Iowa City. My only question is this: how is the dominatrix going to fare in a college town where women routinely wear Keds and flannel shirts out for a hot Saturday night on the town?

Drooling over these boots and actually owning a pair are two different things — like the diamond commercials all say, "What's two months of your salary for something that's supposed to last forever?" The one or two fashionplates clunking around in these boots are the same girls who accused more fashion-forward individuals of dressing like hookers when they wore these boots 10 years ago.

Resembling nothing more than daughters dressed up in their mother's hipwaders, these 5-foot-2-inch Gidgets are ridiculous dominatrix wannabes perched perilously on boots designed for bigger and better things. It takes a big launchpad to launch Apollo rockets: mere spaceshuttles should practice with flats until they're ready for The Boots; and being ready for The Boots symbolizes passage into a higher state of femmehood.

The Boots have a promise of safety and security for women. Like the elevator shoes short men use to boost their stature, it provides a better view and a bigger stride for the "weaker sex." The knee-high length encompasses the lower leg, protecting the wearer from poisonous snakes and gratuitous bootlickers alike. A woman stands taller, kicks harder and walks faster in these boots. Surely men must be experiencing some boot envy — and possibly boot fear — with these dominatrix boots that are sized exclusively for female feet.

What does The Dominatrix Look mean to men? Certainly, everything's safe when the dominatrix is a mere two-dimensional glossy, but what happens when she assaults a man's masculinity on the street? What happens when The Boots appear on the feet of his girlfriend, his sister, perhaps even on the feet of his mother? What happens when a woman eschews her wimpy, 10-speed-tire spike heels for the sure-footed, mountain-bike monster tread of big black boots?

Amazing things happen. The Boots promise us from their display windows. Dorothy's sparkly red ruby slippers changed her life. They protected her from flying monkeys and wicked witches and when she was ready to go home, they took her there faster than a Boeing 747. While normal shoes have the power to keep our feet physically safe, boots like the Feet Boots have the power to change us into Nancy Sinatras, go-go-ing on the backs of nasty situations and broken hearts.

The dominatrix is visiting Iowa City en route to a cobbler Vahalla, so try her boots on while you can. Accessorizing with the cat o' nines is optional at this point.
