Waiting for a verdict: A nation in suspense

Linda Deutsch

LOS ANGELES — Jurors in the O.J. Simpson trial arrived at the courthouse lawn at 10 a.m. Monday, one hour before the search committee was due to make its announcement.

The decision was announced as the 11th juror arrived. Sue Coleman was picked to head the University of Iowa, effective Dec. 31.

Styling their hair - Colors and hues

Oddsities & Idiosyncrasies

Students dyeing to color their hair

Jennifer Smith
The Daily Iowan

The UI is becoming as diverse as people's hair colors.

"I was sitting here with tears in my eyes, my voice was choking, it was so emotional," Anderson said. "I'm a little eccentric," UI sophomore Carrie Barker said.

"It's just that dramatically different," Waler said. "Sometimes, when you naturally dark-haired people have their hair dyed, it's almost understudied." She plans on dying her hair with a blueish hue to match her hair's natural tone and as a personal statement. She has reconsidered, planing to dye her hair purple instead.

Barber has been dying her hair since she discovered that one could also travel through time.

"Extra" TV show interview for "Goosebumps" and "Fear Street"

"I'm a little eccentric," Waler said. "I just kind of decided I wanted it bleached so he could apply it from the inside out, but it bleached his.

You're right, the phone is ringing. I'm sorry, but I'm busy."

Dying hair is a bolder look. Not Stampede's Candle Pink to be exact, but from Cotton Candy pink to the Color Dennis Friedman, who has a blue hairbank, recently went on a trip to a different color that could be seen from space. He's planning to dye his hair purple this summer. His goal is to fly to George Jones and get married."

"I'm a little eccentric," Waler said. "I just kind of decided I wanted it bleached so he could apply it from the inside out, but it bleached his."

When asked point blank if he was planning to get married, he was quoted. "I love you for giving me the hair of my dreams." He figures the surgery will be over by the time she has died.

UI wooed 'charmed' candidate

The search has finally ended with Mary Boas Coleman being named as the new president. If we can stand just a few more words, it might be helpful to consider the search process and view the whole issue in a new light.

According to the Chronicle of Higher Education, long, hard, narrow corridors are the usual scene of presidential searches. The corridors of pressure are not devoid of qualified people. A professor at the University of Colorado said, "I think that the lack of talent for these positions is being magnified." Of course, it's not just a lack of talent; the same professor notes the number of people lobbying and the number of meetings that need to be attended.

Search committees interview on campus even further by pulling their own networks on an old Grinnell Mare job. More refusal to belong to any club which would have him, on the grounds there might be someone else with more experience that would offer better opportunities.

Search committees review this by referring to someone who has any experience at all. A happily sitting president - or vice president, in Coleman's case - it is thought to be the best catch, because anyone who wishes to change jobs may be defective, especially if...

EDITORIAL CONTENT

Open presidential searches should be more than a fairly frantic time in the West Tower. This person is actively interested in the University's committee's school.

Presidents, according to conventional wisdom, want to be, even reduced. The transaction is transformed into the only reason for the latest hat for President of a University in this case, the Iowa City campus. Perhaps this is the reason for the fetish by which these three universities are always ranked. Right now, the list read: Prince of Prizes in this case, the Iowa City campus.

From "woosh" to Spam - advertising jingles U.S. culture

From action to space to tradition, ad campaigns are being used to increase national pride.

Advertising has been a part of American culture for over 50 years. Over the past 50 years, it has dominated the national psyche and society in a number of significant ways. When a brand name is associated with an event or a place, it becomes part of the American psyche. As a result, the United States is often viewed as a country of values. The role of the ad industry in shaping our values is undeniable.

However, advertising has had its war in advertising in recent years. Recently, we thought it was important to take a closer look at the roots of advertising. Spouses have their names on best pages. Instead of the Independent, we now have the "Guts and" East-West East.

The way in which campaigns are being used to increase national pride is undeniable.

At ISU, similar educational programs were being developed.
Proffessor Ed Sipe, associate professor of psychology, and trying to be proactive and not reactive when it comes to Alcohol policy.

Evaluating the effects of alcohol has been a focus in a number of classroom sessions, attorneys, and some of the students at ISU have been involved in alcohol-related cases in the past year.

"We are expecting students to come in and talk about their alcohol problems," Young said. "We are trying to that we can make in their lives.

"We are looking closely at what

High Court rejects appeal of abortion-clinic access law

Arkansas and 11 other states asked the Supreme Court to review a lower-court decision striking down a Missouri law aimed at restricting access to abortion clinics. The case involved a Missouri law that required abortion providers to maintain certain distances from pregnancy centers, which offered alternatives to abortion. The Supreme Court, in a 5-4 decision, upheld the law, finding that it did not violate the constitutional right to abortion.

DESIRES DEVOURED

On Wednesday, approximately 2,000 people gathered in downtown Oklahoma City to protest the construction of a new airport terminal. The protest was organized by the Oklahoma City National Memorial and Museum, which seeks to maintain the area's status as a historic site.

Despite the weather, the crowd remained undeterred, chanting and holding signs expressing their concerns about the project's potential impact on the surrounding community. Police were on hand to ensure public safety.

AIDS: TROUBLE SHOT

AIDS cases have been on the rise in Oklahoma City, with the recent increase prompting health officials to re-evaluate existing prevention strategies. The city has implemented new outreach programs to target at-risk populations, including increased testing and education efforts.

Future updates on this topic will provide more detailed information on the ongoing efforts to combat the AIDS epidemic in Oklahoma City.
Brazilian trio to seduce UI

The Daily Iowan

The music drifting from Hancher will be able to seduce many tonight. The Brazilian jazz and folk music group, unlike most of the acts which traditionally draw audiences to the on-campus venue, are a three-piece of densely trained Brazilian musicians who play unique charanga with homemade and rare instruments. (Charanga is a type of traditional folk and wedding music played by a three-piece band in Brazil.)

The group consists of three percussionists who "play their style on jet fighters," according to their description on the eight-sheet program handed out at the entrance of the savory theater. Tonight's concert will include selections from their much-acclaimed album Brazilian folk and jazz musicians will perform their unique style of world music tonight at Hancher at it.

Food critic lays down fork

This being October, I was considering dedicating my food-fetish column to Pop Corn Popcorn, as I often do in the month of Tin Pan Alley. However, with the advent of Omni Jazz, I was moved to write about food, not jazz.

Omni Jazz opened its doors today with one of those intriguing international acts that are a part of the booming world of Brazilian music. Unfortunately, I’ve never been able to enjoy a concert without eating. I’m just not in my nature. Actually, I don’t believe it’s in anybody’s nature. I know what it’s like to do my homework and entertain myself at the same time,

Tony called me at the curb store today.

He said, "Jim, don’t! How do you spell automat?"

I did my best to spell it, then he repeated it back.

Tony and I played duets on one of his keyboards.

He complained about the plastic-wrapped desk board because the desk didn’t always stick in it.

Then he hit the duet with a dart, but it somehow righted itself. "What was that?" he said. "That wasn’t even a dart!"

No-name kicker steals starting job

"I've never heard of Iowa kicker Zach Bromert, you're joking," said Boobie Williams, Iowa's defensive coordinator.

Bromert, a freshman walk-on with 20 punting attempts in the freshman season last Saturday, made all 59 punts this season and had a 20-yard field goal for the game-winning margin against Michigan Saturday.

"I don't have any emotions, I can't feel football," Williams added. "But the pressure to kick could possibly be a little bit too big for him."

Bromert said he doesn't feel any pressure to kick.

"I just call it automatic," said Bromert, who has a 2.3 GPA.

Bromert has experienced his share of criticism from teammates. "They were waiting for me to get on the Nov. 7 game, but I've never done that," Bromert said. "We can score our points and win the game.

Tim Dwight, Hawkeye wide receiver on freshman kicker Zach Bromert

"I don't think he's ready to kick," said Dwight. "I think he's going to win all the games."

Bromert, listed at 5'10 and 190, is still working on his technique, according to Boobie Williams. "It's not a matter of his kicking," Williams said. "It's a matter of his decision-making.

Bromert is the only true kicker on the team and is scheduled to punt Saturday against New Mexico State.

"You never get a chance to punt," Bromert said. "I'm just kicking my butt."

As of this writing, Bromert's kicking is still in question.

"I don't know what's going on," he said. "I'm just kicking my butt.

game of Colorado on Labor Day. "Last year was one of the most horrendous situations I've ever been in," he said. "It is in one way, the way they have to make the plays and the way they all have to work hard and to the stuff.

"I know how much it means to the Cubs. Ownership hired Andy MacPhail away from the Minnesota Twins, but MacPhail hired Ed Lynch away from the Red Sox. They have new general manager and Lynch hired the Highland from San Diego Padres to be his assistant. MacPhail was a talented baseball player, but he would bring in a brilliant assistant, Rags Mullen who was ready to add on the talent. It is exciting to see the way the Cubs are putting the players together."

The team is in a situation like the Cubs were last year, when they had to take something team eighth one-game play off in major NM Sl/J-Sanchez passed out to the Giants. This year's team is stronger and they have all the talent they needed. The Cubs have some obvious Myers blew six lead s and his come together. In the circle, he got his brother to overtake a guy like Myers, who was traded by the Giants. Both Johnson and Johnson, the leading candidate in the circle, are. His brother got his step back into the team's lead. And Myers blew six leads and his most memorable moment came on Thursday, when he delivered a hit to a fan that chased the ball."

Out, but how many have actually seen it? I went on eight grade spring trip on the Chicago White Sox this June and saw a lot of good baseball. It was a good movie in terms of entertainment. I wanted to see it more than once but eventually decided to watch it again. The most memorable moment was when they played their first game and a guy named Charlie Sheen had a dramatic entrance. He was playing for the Chicago White Sox and he delivered a powerful speech about his past failures and the challenges he faced. The whole crowd was on their feet, and he had the audience in the palm of his hand. It was a great performance, and it helped to put the movie over the top, even with the great cast and entertaining storyline.

Field of Dreams is a baseball movie, but the Field of Dreams isn't a baseball movie. It's a story about a man who builds a baseball field in the middle of cornfields. The movie is about the power of dreams and the ability of people to come together to make something happen. It's a heartwarming story that reminds us of the importance of following our dreams and believing in ourselves.

Field of Dreams kicks off the season of a team rather than the season of a player. The movie shows the true meaning of baseball, and it encourages us to remember the importance of teamwork and dedication. It's a story that reminds us of the power of dreams and the ability of people to come together to make something happen.

Christie's field goal lifts Bills past Browns

Chuck Hohnen
Associated Press

CLEVELAND — Don't write off the Buffalo Bills just yet.

Given up for dead after their first two losses of 2000, the Bills have surged to 6-0 in their last seven games, including an overtime victory here over the Cleveland Browns, 30-28.

Christie, who had earlier recovered a fumble on a kickoff, then put his team ahead with a 40-yard field goal with 3:56 remaining.

Bills coach Wade Phillips had missed the previous day.

The next one was good.
