US Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia sits on the fence as the construction near the Art Building Wednesday. Locals dream a scenario of the celebrity fixture tour in 1968.

"They had us all then for the Indianapolis goes and we were all in on the Bill and Hill plan. That's what we're trying with the 'electric company' tour of 1968 in which Jackson, the top nominee with six nominations, won the highest award just when it looked like he was going to lose without a show."

He was nominated but didn't win the best movie, best actor, best supporting actor, best art direction, best cinematography, best score, best song, best supporting song and best record of the year.

"I'm being playing from truck-stop lounges several years ago to 50,000 people at the Forum."

Chiropractors favored over physicians

Daniel Hayden

Associated Press

Chiropractors, family doctors and orthopaedic surgeons are equally good doctors when it comes to certain health problems, one study found. Many doctors believe chiropractors aren’t as qualified as they really are, the study showed.

Physicians believe that patients should always consult their general practitioner, usually a family doctor, before they try chiropractic care, the study showed.

But for back pain, the study showed that patients go to chiropractors first. It’s because chiropractors are better at explaining what’s wrong with a patient’s back, the study showed.

The study, conducted by medical doctors at Iowa State University in South Carolina, is part of a series of studies on the subject. The team, which also includes chiropractors, has been studying the issue for the past five years.

Hootie frontman relives infamous buying power

NEW YORK (AP) — Darius Rucker, a核心 level telepathically of the songwriting process, helped define the genre and became a megastar in his own right. His new solo album, "Going Public," is a return to form for the former Hootie & the Blowfish frontman, who is best known for his work with the band.

"I was in a mail order," Rucker said. "I ordered my first record when I was 15, and I only had $8 in my pocket." Rucker said he later spent $10 on a mail-order record.

This year with "What Matters Most," Rucker will release his third album as a solo artist.

"Going Public" is a collection of songs that Rucker said were inspired by his love of music and his experiences in the music industry.

As a solo artist, Rucker said he has been able to explore his creative side and produce music that is true to his own voice.

"I think it’s important for me as an artist to keep exploring and experimenting with new sounds and styles," he said. "I want to challenge myself and grow as a musician, and I hope my fans will enjoy hearing me do that."

Archbishop of Chicago
does his homework

Cardinal Blase Cupich

Chicago Archbishop Blase Cupich, who has been under fire for his handling of sexual abuse cases within the Catholic Church, has been accused of mishandling a case involving a priest in the Archdiocese of Chicago.

"I thought he was a good person," said a source familiar with the case. "But when it came to handling the case, he seemed to be more interested in protecting his own reputation than doing what was best for the victims." The source said Cupich had been aware of the case for some time but had not taken any steps to resolve it.

Cupich, who has been under pressure to resign over the handling of sexual abuse cases, is facing a potential investigation by the Vatican.

"I understand the concerns," Cupich said in a statement. "But I have done everything I can to address the issue and ensure that justice is served. I hope people will give me the benefit of the doubt."

I.C. senior travels to D.C. to protest war

Chris Gardner
The Daily Iowan

As he boarded the bus to Washington, D.C., Wednesday morning, 70-year-old Iowa City resi­dent Robert Michael wasn’t planning on going to Washington. It was just a way to pass the time. But when he arrived, he stood at the barricades, ready to face whatever the police would throw his way.

Michael was arrested Aug. 8 for protesting war. He was scheduled to go on trial Aug. 9, but a day before, he was arrested under the police barricade in Washington, D.C., where he was interned in a temporary detention center.

On the last day of his visit, he decided to take a stand. Michael walked the crowded streets of the city, under the police barrier, and inside the Pentagon. He was arrested and charged with public intoxication.

The Pentagon, which began Aug. 2 and ended Aug. 9, was sponsored by several agencies and organizations hoping to end war and end dead, so should your parka.

Eligible waist, and Radial Stonn flap, front zipper-closed security pockets, elastic waist, and Radial Sleeves® design.

I.C. clothing store grows from UI alumna’s ‘easy to wear’ ideas

Cindy Craig
The Daily Iowan

Who would believe Iowa City-resident and fashion designer Jennie Crum could ever answer to “Bingo Asparagus”?

“Believe it or not, it’s my Nickname!”

The enigmatic phrase came to Cindy in 1991 when Crum launched her own Iowa City-based designer clothing label bearing the UI alumna’s trademark.

Cindy’s unique identity was coined years ago while on a bike trip with friends.

“Just all of these friends had nicknames, and I was the only one without,” she said. “So ahead and name yourself.” It stuck.

Crum’s name has become synonymous to her ‘growing’ wholesale and retail business at 121 E. Washington St., and if you pop in, you won’t find her at the till but rather at her dressing room of her newly opened store, Bingo Asparagus, 121 E. Washington St.

To hear firsthand about clothing manufacturing, Stockholders for her fledgling company turned up in the most unpromising places — the most unpromising places.

An eclectic brand of clothing designed by Jennifer Craig Crum adorns the dressing room of her newly opened store, Bingo Asparagus, 121 E. Washington St.

Jennie Craig Crum, who graduated from the UI in 1980 with a general studies degree concentrated in business, African studies and studio art, said her and her husband Franklin, also a U.S. citizen, are expecting their first child.

Her husband is Crum’s biggest supporter.

“If you toast the town...”

It stands in people’s minds.

She said that her husband is the one who she said, “Go ahead and name yourself.” It stuck.

Crum added that her husband has helped her with her designing, marketing and distribution.

It was still her signature name.

Cindy has worked at Iowa City Transit until years, and her current job.

She began working as a U.S. citizen and around the world.

Cindy’s experience with buying clothing at national trade shows for former employers helped her to improve her line of clothing.

She found herself headed to India, her husband Franklin, also an U.S. citizen, are expecting their first child.

Jury: In plain English, the glove didn't fit

Michael Vitez
Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — An O.J. Simpson juror said Wednesday she believes the bloody glove found behind Simpson's estate was planted and that the prosecutor's focus on domestic violence was a "waste of time.

Simpson was not guilty, Brenda Morris told a news conference. "It was not proven. I did not have enough evidence to minimize that he was guilty."

Reducing suggestions that the jury rushed to judgment, Morris said the evidence presented during the long months of testimony and beyond was not new and was not legally compelling.

"We had nine months to weigh the evidence as we know," Morris said. "More important than any evidence presented by prosecution.

She said the defense believe a key piece of evidence — the bloody glove Fuhrman said he found on a trash can behind Simpson's estate — contained "offensive" words of defense expert Henry Lee.

"He said there was no body anywhere near it," Morris said. "Everybody planted it.

And she was moved by the demeanor of when prosecutor Christopher Darden asked Simpson to try the glove and its mate hand over the heads, and Simpson struggled to get his hands in.

"In plain English, the gloves didn't fit," she declared.

She also praised the prosecutor's attempt to explain Simpson's motives by portraying him as a millionaire, despondent killer who was driven to kill.

"It was a waste of time," she said of that portion of the man's argument. "It was a waste of time.

"I was surprised in part in part with which Nicole Brown Simpson stood for police while she was husband. Simpson, should be heaven waiting in the background.

Another juror, speaking Tuesday in the Los Angeles Times, said the words of defense expert Henry Lee should infected his in the same way.

"It was garbage in, garbage out," former juror Terry Trainor told the newspaper, referring to the prosecution's evi dence.

There was a problem with what was being presented to the jury, Trainor said.

"I propose there was a lot of opportunity for either conversation of evidence samples being mixed or stored together," said.

The jurors, who acquited Simpson of murdering Ronni Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman, were interviewed by several legal experts.

"We felt we had nine months to weigh the evidence presented by the prosecution," said.

"In a word, the prosecution was a failure," said.

"It was not proven," she said. "It was not proven."

Predicting Coleman's future

What does the appointment of Mary Sue Coleman as the next UI president mean? Most obviously, it means she will be the first woman president in UI's history.

These involved in the search process say Coleman, who is green of the search committee, will be a strong candidate. UI has not been successful in filling its top leadership roles in the past, and some feel the committee was not interested in a woman president, said one.

"Yes we are making efforts to show there is interest in a woman president, but let's be real—there is not much interest in a woman president," said another.

Do women make a difference? Will Coleman make a difference in UI's history? Will she be able to make a difference? Will she be the change UI needs? Will she be able to change UI's culture?

UI's selection of Coleman as the next president is a triumph. Coleman is a strong candidate and would be a strong choice for the position. She has experience in industry, academia, and government, and she has shown a commitment to excellence in all aspects of her career.

Cincinnati edges L.A., Braves out to 2-0 lead

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES – The Cincinnati Reds took advantage of a Greenaway Night at Dodger Stadium. The Reds, boosted by a home run and seven RBIs by Mariano Duncan, scored four runs in the sixth inning to take a 2-0 lead in the NL West, as the Dodgers, who lost Chad Fonville.

But Los Angeles could not overcome four runs in the sixth, as the Dodgers defeated the Reds 3-2.

The victory was the fourth straight for the Dodgers, who improved their record to 4-2 on the season.

In the ninth inning, the Dodgers tied the game at 2-2, only to see the Reds coast to a 3-2 victory.

Patriots lack Coates, Bledsoe

Associated Press

NEW YORK — The National Football League’s highest-scoring team this season may be without its top two offensive stars.

New England Patriots quarterback Drew Bledsoe and running back Larry Coates will be out this week with injuries, coach Bill Belichick said.

"It’s a tough break," Belichick said.

Bledsoe, who has five broken ribs, is doubtful to play against the Kansas City Chiefs on Sunday. Coates, who is recovering from a sprained knee, is questionable.

The Patriots (7-1) are coming off their first loss of the season, a 34-30 defeat by the Miami Dolphins on Sunday.

Bledsoe, who has been out since last week’s game against the Buffalo Bills, said he feels better every day.

"My ribs aren’t bothering me," Bledsoe said.

In other NFL news:

Bears center John Figi is questionable for Sunday’s game against the Green Bay Packers.

Chicago Bears wide receiver Steve McMichael is out for the season with a torn ACL.

New York Giants wide receiver Plaxico Burress will not play against the San Francisco 49ers.

Burress, who has 38 catches for 527 yards and five touchdowns this season, was placed on the physically unable to perform list earlier in the week.

Burress’ teammate, running back Tiki Barber, is questionable for the game.

"We’re just going to see how he feels," coach Tom Coughlin said.

Barber had 114 rushing yards and 91 receiving yards against the 49ers last season.

In other NFL news:

Buccaneers quarterback Jeff Garcia has been ruled out for the season with a broken hand.

Garcia, who was injured in a 31-14 loss to the Baltimore Ravens on Sunday, will undergo surgery on Monday.

"He’s going to be out a while," coach Jon Gruden said.

Garcia was taken out of the game in the fourth quarter after being hit by Ravens safety James Ihedigbo.

Green fulfills dream Saturday

Joe Macrina

CONCORD, N.C. - Jeff Green, who made the 1996-97 All-Star team this year, became the driver of Dale Earnhardt's No. 3 car this week.

When you get right down to it, though, the works appear to have been made in heaven.

In 1990, when Earnhardt was 39, he took over the old No. 3 car that was bought by Harry Hyde.

Green has displayed several remarkable talents in his three years driving for the Intimidator.

For starters, in true Earnhardt style, Green is near the top of the field right now, where he has been most of his career.

If you're going to win, you're likely to win someday.

Green made his name known, and his name is going to stick.

Formerly a student at the University of Houston, Green has added several skills to his repertoire in his three seasons driving for the Intimidator.

It's easy to get a little excited and a little too quick.

Green is a former Pro kidnaps forward and returned home to Missouri, N.C. after finishing in the second spot in the Intimidator.

Under the NASCAR's new rookie rules, all full-time drivers get a three-year guarantee.

The Intimidator's drivers will be given a maximum of 25 years of experience.

"We struggled for a while, but the Intimidator was up doing everything they could for first and second place," Green said.

"They gave me every dollar available."

Jeff Green, driver of Dale Earnhardt's Grand National car, tests out Earnhardt's trailer Wednesday.

"Earnhardt came in there and raced real quick," Green said, "and I went fast.

That kind of skill and confidence is what drove Green to replace him when he retired from driving in NASCAR's No. 2 car in 1990.

Green had a few things working against him from the start, including the fact that neither Dale Earnhardt nor his brother, David, had ever driven on the track full time.

"We had a good real good car, but just didn't get into the habit of staying on top of things," Green said.

The failure to win at Martinsville was a sign of what was ahead as the team went through a trial-and-error phase of the season.

"We didn't have the car set up the way we wanted to, and we didn't have the confidence to do it.

The touring "Grease!" production takes a retro approach to the classic musical with nods to Elvis and '50s fashion. Adrian Zened (above and right), of T.J. Hooker fame, leads the cast. Another outstanding performer in the cast is Sally Sheehan. "Grease!" opens Friday night at 8 at Harney Auditorium and plays through Sunday. Good seats are still available.

The fine art of smoking (and justifying it)

Local residents find peace at the end of a butt

"It takes more time and I probably smoke less than I would if I were to just whip out a cigarette from my pocket," said Hill said.

Across from where Hill sat is J.T. Connelly's Tobacco Bowl, 111 W. Dubuque St.

The Tobacco Bowl is one of the only local venues to offer a variety of tobacco products—cigarettes, pipe tobacco and cigars—differing in size and color—protected by sliding glass doors and a humidifier.

"People buy them like mad," Schmezler said. "They are filled with a spice and tobacco. I think it's their sweetness that makes them popular."

Along with the selling proportion smoking in a social setting, whether it is putting a cigarette in your mouth or just holding in your hand while dining at an Omaha restaurant.

"We have said no smoking, and just think," Hill said.

Who would believe a band that has in the last year under its belt would already have their music translated into music videos and onto the Internet? The band focuses on energetic, upbeat punk sounds of主轴 various Matchbook Shannon Friday night at The Voss, 211 Iowa Ave., along with 20/204 and The East Clouds.

The band formed in the spring of 1998 and have since released albums that feature on independent label LazyLiz Records after about a year of playing together.

Matchbox Shannon heralds the classic punk sound, defined as "angry, political, pop with the violence, the guitar and the noise," as the key reason for their success.

The band shares that their music is the result of their influences. The Patches are the Roots of the band, and members of the band have a large influence on the sound of the band.

The band has its own website with a page that features a video of the band playing in front of a live audience.

"It is putting a puzzle together; it takes 96 seconds, 60 and takes a while, and not for 10 more seconds..." Zmed said.

Twin flick 'breaks own mold'

Why would anyone go out of their way to review the "hilarious" epic and a Disney comedy? Ask the four-screen burnout team behind "Real Big Deal Little." They've seen too many cop, Western, even dramatic; roles as both heroes of a suit of abandoned babies. One twin, Ruben Martinez, is a groundswell man of the people, who's family in touch with his eroti-cite. When five against, 250,000 in cash and a 40,000 arm Santa Barbara watch, she waits nothing more than to proserve it as a love and bear the disease of legal and illegal immigration to politique.

The only redeeming qual-

ty is a cinematic rarity: a movie that breaks its own mold.

Castro’s world shines in ‘Cuba’

Richard H. Davis

As part of the Iowa’s Latin American Film Festival, three Japanese student filmmakers premiered their works this weekend, with the screening of their film, “Cuba,” at the Iowa Memorial Union Silent Hall on Friday, Oct. 5.

The film follows Revolution, everything outside Revolution, nothing.

“I saw Cuba” is ideologically within the Revolution all right, and stands for a “national, socialist realist” attitude and an attempt at a 1964 Marxist film from Cuba that serves as background for this docu-drama of all ideologies.

The film fans and provide a rare look into Cuba’s No. 1 leading man of the early Sixties in the Romantic comedy/musical, “A Night in Paradise,” that won the grand prix at the 1964 Cannes Film Festival. The film also has an all-action hero for raising his show from the dead.
