Southern Rose Queen legacy makes debut

Julia Prodis
Associated Press

TYLER, Texas — In her 100-pound gown with the 17-foot train, the queen of the Texas Rose Festival will take her bow.

The orchestra will play the first notes of "Pomp and Circumstance" as the lights come up on stage. A raised drawbridge hiding her will slowly fall, and the crowd will catch its first glimpse of her bejeweled dress — the color and design kept top secret for months.

She will turn to the Rose Festival president, decked out in tuxedo and tails, and kneel before him as he crowns her, tapping her shoulders left and then right. Rising slowly under the weight of her gown, she then will descend the stage's grand staircase, holding her rhinestone-encrusted scepter, wrist slightly cocked.

On Thursday night, Martie Wolf will perform the Tyler time-honored tradition she has been perfecting for months — a reverential bow to the high society that has cradled her.

It isn't just a demure nod, a coy little dip or a flouncy curtsy. This is Texas, remember. It's a nose-to-the-floor "full court bow," also known as the "Texas Bow," or modified "Dallas Dip."

With the exception of the World War II years, the pomp and pageantry of Texas festivals and their royalty have survived and even flourished through the anti-establishment '60s, the oil-busted late '80s and the downsized '90s.

In an age when many a teenager isn't cool without a tattoo, grungy clothes or a pierced nose, Tyler is a place where young ladies are still presented to society in white gowns and kid leather gloves.

"It's very anachronistic. It's like something out of the Civil War days," said Julia Sweeney, former society editor at the Dallas Times Herald. "They make something so social such an important part of their lives."

Life in Tyler, a town of 80,000 people about 100 miles east of Dallas, revolves around the Rose Festival. The elite families, rich in the oil money that has purchased their grand antebellum homes and country club memberships, start planning a year in advance. And girls who would be queen start practicing their bows in grammar school.

The night Martie was designated

"It's very anachronistic. It's like something out of the Civil War days."

Julia Sweeney, former society editor at the Dallas Times Herald

this year's queen by the festival president, who has sole discretion, her parents and brother had gathered in the living room. When she entered, the president presented her with a bouquet of roses. Then, she knew.

"It was wild," said Martie, 19, a Delta Delta Delta sorority girl who is studying fashion and design at Texas Christian University.

The anticipation has been building since Martie was named queen a year ago. If truth be told, it's been building since she was a little girl in a green velvet dress, holding her father's hand at the Rose Festival's elegant garden tea party. Her father remembers Martie's big brown eyes gazing up at the queen in wonderment.

"It was a look of 'Will I ever be like this?'" Sam Wolf recalls. You see, Martie is a legacy. Her aunt was queen 20 years ago and her mother was a lady-in-waiting. Her father owns a lumber company and is a past president of the festival — and was his wife's escort at the 1969 coronation before they were married.

Martie has done her part to be eligible — she was a Chamber of Commerce Azalea Belle, personal attendant to the 1991 queen and volunteer at a local hospital through high school.

Ascending the throne is a dream of many Southern girls who possess the right bloodlines and bank accounts. For some, it's a birthright.

"A Southern belle is born knowing she is going to be Southern royalty," Marilyn Schwartz, a columnist at the Dallas Morning News, wrote in her book "A Southern Belle Primer, or Why Princess Margaret Will Never Be a Kappa Kappa Gamma."

"If her mother was a queen or a princess or a duchess of the Pilgrimage or the Fiesta or the Cotton Carnival, then she knows one day if she does well in dancing school, behaves herself at her grandmother's pink teas and has a daddy who is willing to mortgage the family home to pay for her royal robes, then she, too, will one day wear a crown and sit on a throne."

The parents must be able to afford the honor — a subject none like to discuss. A coronation costume often costs more than $25,000 and involves a personal designer and more than a dozen seamstresses. Parents also must throw a tea party "open to the world" at the city rose garden — and that can cost upwards of $75,000. And the queen must buy a solid white gown for the Friday night ball.

Her ladies-in-waiting also must be dressed for coronation night in personally designed costumes that complement the festival's annual theme — this year, it's "Magical Wonderland."

They, too, will have white gowns for the ball, all of which must be registered to guard against duplications.

Before Martie takes her bow at the coronation Thursday, her ladies-in-waiting will have paraded on stage and each will have taken her bow.

Martie will be in her personal dressing room, waiting. Her nails will have been polished in a French manicure and her hairdresser, makeup lady and a handful of attendants will be fluttering around her.

'Roseanne' to deliver new character on Halloween

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — Roseanne and husband Ben Thomas welcomed son Buck in August, but her television alter ego, Roseanne Conner, will give birth on the Conners' favorite holiday, Halloween.

The Oct. 21 issue of TV Guide reports that Roseanne's character will have a baby girl on the Oct. 31 episode of the ABC show that bears her name.

Details of the delivery are being kept secret.

Actor Travolta laments snubbing 'Officer'

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — John Travolta has only one regret — turning down the hood-to-hero lead in "An Officer and a Gentleman."

"I was studying to be a pilot at the time," he said in the Oct. 21 issue of TV Guide. "And I didn't want to play one when I was on the verge of being one."

Travolta

The character helped make Richard Gere a star while Travolta's career languished until his performance as junkie-hit man Vincent Vega in "Pulp Fiction" won him an Academy Award nomination this year and a slew of movie offers.

Travolta reprises the tough-guy-with-a-twinkle image in the upcoming "Get Shorty." He plays a loan shark who finds himself in a far more treacherous world when he decides to go legit and break into movies.

Mary Tyler Moore may make it after all

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — For those who treasure her as pert Laura Petrie and sweet Mary Richards, Mary Tyler Moore has an update.

"I'm not perfect. I have a lot of years ahead, and I think there will be ups and downs and turns and twists. I'll probably go under again, but hopefully not as far down as I've been."

Moore said in the Oct. 21 issue of TV Guide that people compliment her too much.

Her new book, "After All," details her personal and professional trials: the accidental shooting death of her only son, her battle with alcoholism and the collapse of two TV series in the 1980s. She's also had a face lift.

Moore is looking ahead to renewed success with her role as icy newspaper editor Louise "The Dragon" Felcott on the new CBS drama "New York News."

She said she's grown since her days on "The Dick Van Dyke Show" and "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

"Now I've learned how to get through life," she said. "I've opened up my life to goodness. I take spiritual strength from nature and especially from animals."

Princess Di to attend film premiere benefiting anorexics

LONDON (AP) — Princess Diana, who suffered from an eating disorder during her unhappy marriage, will be the main guest at a film premiere to aid victims of anorexia.

"Haunted," starring Anthony Andrews, Aidan Quinn and Sir John Gielgud, is a story of the supernatural based on a novel by James Herbert. The Oct. 26 premiere in London will aid the European Anorexia Fund and the British Red Cross.

Andrews said he was delighted that Diana, estranged wife of

Moore

Prince Charles, had accepted the invitation.

Andrews' daughter Jessica was treated for anorexia.

"Having been through that as a family, it has brought it home to just us how important treatment and research is," he said.

Actor Ulrich expresses aversion to watery filming

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — Robert Ulrich isn't much for movie-making on the high seas.

"There's nothing worse than doing movies on the water," he said. "When you get 45 guys on an 80-foot boat and it's pouring rain and there's no place to go and the galley holds about 10, it's like, 'If I give the money back can I go home?'"

Television's "Spenser: For Hire" went to sea to film "Captains Courageous," a remake of the 1939 classic starring Lionel Barrymore and Spencer Tracy.

The first eight days on the water were done in pleasant autumn sunshine.

"Then we had two solid days of rain. And after a while I just gave up. I put on my rain gear and got in a chair and sat in the rain all day long," he said.

An adult prom was held at the American Legion in Solon Saturday night. The dance offered adults a chance to relive their high school prom memories. Live music was provided along with candlelit tables and a bartender clad in a tuxedo. About 150 people attended the event.

Adult prom offers return to youth

Chad Graham
The Daily Iowan

Underneath the hanging stars and spinning disco balls, the big band sounds of Glen Kelly's Velvet Tones wafted through the rafters of the Local American Legion as Solon residents waltzed the night away.

Welcome to Solon's second annual adult prom, held last Saturday. Organizers estimated that about 150 people showed up to relive fond prom memories or just have a night of dancing in the American Legion hall, complete with candlelit tables and a fully stocked bar.

Vickie Julsen, club manager of the American Legion, said she got the idea of an adult prom due to the popularity of theme parties. She said she hired a band for about $150, and spent about $200 total on the evening. Julsen never went to her high school prom, and said the Solon proms have made it possible to recreate the experience.

"It's everything I would want it to be," she said. Julsen said a variety of people attended last year's prom.

"Last year we had a couple use the prom for an informal wedding reception," Julsen said. "We also had people come from nursing homes, and some who never had the advantage of going to their prom. Some people dress up in tuxedos and formals and wear the corsages and boutonnieres."

Harold Owens, a Solon resident, said his high school prom was postponed until he returned from service in World War II. He said he attends the adult proms for the music of his youth.

"I went into the service before I got out of high school so I went when I got back," he said. "I like the big band sound of the late '30s and '40s and the waltz, fox trot and the polka."

Glen Kelly's Velvet Tones, a California band which plays songs of Big Band era, was the big draw for the evening, Julsen said.

The featured musician/accordionist of the evening was Linda Herman, a local Solon woman who now performs with Kelly in Los Angeles.

"Last year we had a couple use the prom for an informal wedding reception. We also had people come from nursing homes, and some who never had the advantage of going to their prom. Some people dress up in tuxedos and formals and wear the corsages and boutonnieres."

Vickie Julsen, club manager of the American Legion

Herman said she travels back to Solon each year to visit family and friends and finds this a time to relive the ballroom dancing era that is dying in popularity.

"Younger people aren't interested in the big band sound anymore. I don't know if ballroom dancing will be around too many more years," she said. "The band is just the two of us — Glen Kelly is on the drums and I'm on the accordion and we both sing."

Pauline Owens, a Solon resident, said the adult prom experience was made worthwhile by the music.

"They have good music here that you can really dance to," Owens said.

"At my high school prom we didn't have a dance. It wasn't like now; it was actually dead."

Herman said the big band orchestra sound is alive and well in California and it makes for a profitable career and a good musical atmosphere.

"We play all over the place (in the Los Angeles area) — especially a lot of Latin functions," she said. "The buildings aren't as nice as in Iowa, but many people just come to dance."

Herman said she doesn't see a difference between her audiences in Solon or California.

"We get to play for a nice crowd in front of people I knew from years ago," she said. "People are the same all over except for the fact that in Solon no one shoots each other."

Foreign students score football knowledge

Ann Haggerty
The Daily Iowan

A handful of UI foreign students tackled the basics of one of America's beloved sports in a session at the International Center Friday afternoon.

Members of Kappa Sigma fraternity, which co-sponsored "Football 101" with the UI Office of International Education and Services, taught international students basic football rules, such as tackling, punting and scoring.

"I was very glad to have the words of the song. I brought them with me in my pocket and the rules of the game."

Olivier Ridel, UI graduate student from France who learned the Iowa fight song

The hour-long session included some TV clips of the Hawkeyes in action, an overhead screen of the playing field and a Hawkeye uniform, complete with helmet, jersey and pads.

UI graduate student Catherine Videlo, who is from France, said the Hawkeyes on the TV screen appeared very large.

"They look so scary and so strong," she said. "(The uniform) looks like some Halloween costume, especially with the shoulder pads."

The fraternity members also handed out the words of the Iowa fight song and stood up and sang with the marching band tune that blared from a boom box.

Olivier Ridel, a UI graduate student from France, said the song handout and the notes he took during the session came in handy during Saturday's Homecoming game.

"I was very glad to have the words of the song. I brought them with me in my pocket and the rules of the game," he said.

The Homecoming game was a good time for international students to learn about America's passion for the pigskin, said UI sophomore Patrick Enright, a staff member of the OIES and Kappa Sigma member who led the session.

"This was a great week to teach (football)," he said. "Many foreign students don't know what Homecoming is. They saw the excitement and they were probably overwhelmed. It was a great week to tie the two together."

Ridel said he bought a Homecoming game ticket because he heard the whole weekend was a big deal for UI students, and he wanted to understand why Americans are so crazy about the sport.

"American people make a big fuss over football. It's such a social event — a big stadium, the songs, the pom-pom girls," he said. "You feel like the (football players) are heroes."

Ridel said he felt more prepared after Kappa Sigma's presentation and could explain to other foreign students what happened during the game.

"I knew what to watch for on the fields," he said.

Enright said he led the first "Football 101" session by himself last year and presented the idea of a group effort to his fraternity brothers for this year's Homecoming game.

"The guys were excited to teach someone different something new that is an American trait," he said.

Remembering parts of the game that football spectators and players take for granted was challenging for Enright, he said.

"The hardest part is to step back and start from square one — this is a football, a helmet ... because I'm sure (foreign students) have never seen it before," he said.

Next year, Kappa Sigma plans to sponsor the event again and hopes to have a larger turnout of international students, Enright said.

Exploiting death is the next big advertising ploy

A musician dies. Sales go up. Who profits? Their companies.

Nothing is sacred in this country anymore. Everything is exploited: women's bodies, children, sex and now death are used in the marketing business.

Since Mexican-American singer Selena was murdered last March, she has become the fastest-selling female artist and the first Latina singer to be at the top of the pop chart in music history. The Doors have sold 1.5 million copies since Jim Morrison died of alcohol and drug abuse. Jimi Hendrix, who died of a drug overdose in 1970, had only put together three studio albums, but there are nearly 400 releases of his songs out today. After Jerry Garcia of the Grateful Dead died of a heart attack, 10,000 copies per week of his greatest-hits collection Skeletons from the Closet have been sold. And Elvis? Elvis lives.

Death is a marketing tool. There's no compassion on the part of producers and advertisers, who are out to make a big buck anyway they can. And there shouldn't be any surprise, since nothing is reserved from the consumer of humanity — money.

The most brilliant people in America are advertisers. Exploitation sells, and consumers purchase. People can't seem to escape it, and no one stops to think about it. From magazine ads to TV commercials to billboards, people can't avoid the marketers

EDITORIAL POINT OF VIEW

in America. They are told to buy, buy, buy. And they do. It is obvious in the grand scheme of things that nothing is immune to money.

The user mindframe has infiltrated every part of life. The modeling industry has directly affected women's bodies in this country. Thin — to the point of anorexia — is in. Likewise with age. The younger the better, and now children are modeling Calvin Klein clothes in all sorts of sensational, sexual positions. Images of sex, a private act between two human beings, assaults us everywhere.

Using death is now one of the easiest ways to make a profit. Last year, Hendrix's merchandise made $2 million in records, movies and memorabilia items. Hendrix's producer used a "shrewd" marketing strategy by selling the musician's products in trickles, instead of flooding stores all at once with Hendrix memorabilia. Likewise, Morrison's label, Elektra, compiled The Best of the Doors 16 years after the group disbanded. The album has sold 3.2 million copies since 1987, when it was released. Fans still go to Morrison's grave in Paris, 24 years after his death.

John Lennon, Kurt Cobain, Buddy Holly — death elevates everyone and no one wants to be left out of the worship. There is something to be exalted — something exceptional in the fact that these famous musicians are dead and people continue to worship them. And there's no question that their death contributed to their popularity. The Beatles are still using Lennon for marketing plans. November 20 Capitol/EMI starts a series of albums featuring Lennon's voice with new songs by Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo Starr. The book "Dead Elvis" by Greil Marcus simply said Presley was getting less interesting while he was alive; after he died, he could be turned into a marketable saint.

There is no compunction about using death for money.

The greater the image, the more it sells. And even if the celebrity wasn't famous during life, after death, with ambitious marketing companies, he or she will stay alive while profit can be made.

LETTERS

God is coming and she is miffed

To the Editor:

While near the tables for the Campus Bible Fellowship and the Gay, Lesbian and Bisexual Peoples' Union, I noticed the man at the CBF table was typing something. Little did I know, it was more harmful propaganda against who we are and the way we live naturally. Apparently, he literally ignores the Bible's "love thy neighbor" quote.

To follow the Bible literally, one must not eat pork (Iowa is quite the sinful state), wear garments made from more than one kind of thread or be gay, lesbian or bisexual. Does the letter writer follow all the rules of the Bible? Do hypocrites inherit the kingdom of God?

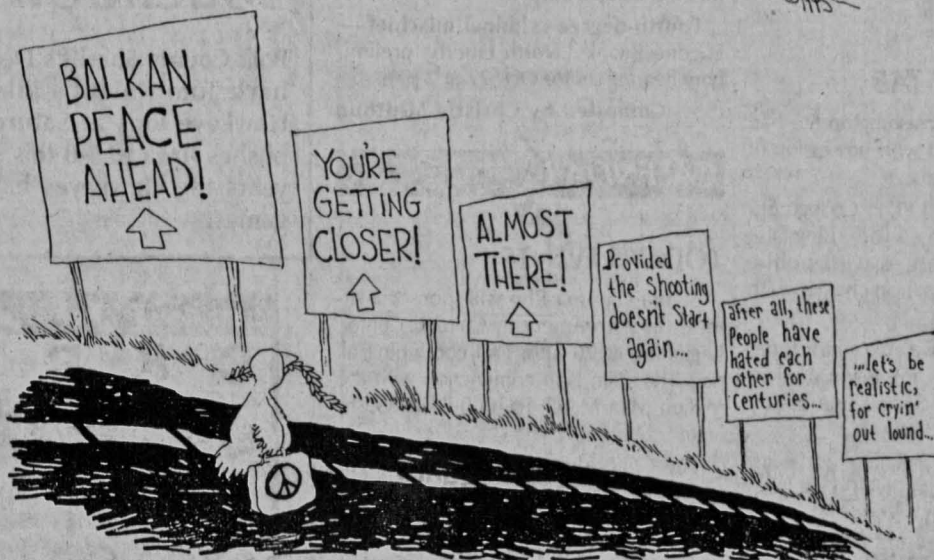

If the Bible does mean to say that homosexuality is wrong, don't blame gay, lesbian and bisexual people for this. We can't help it if the Bible is incorrect on the matter. The truth is God knows homosexuality is equal to heterosexuality. And Her girlfriend does too.

Million Man March more than a few miles

To the Editor:

Let's get a few things straight. I'm not a follower of Farrakhan and I don't believe all of his commands for black action are on target. However, I do agree with the goal of the Million Man March — to have as many black men gather collectively in recognition of their obligation to their children and families and to answer the call to be independent of government support.

Farrakhan said in an interview with David Brinkley that the march is in Washington because many policies formed in D.C. have led to a dependency of blacks on social programs. Outside of government, the march — which is actually a rally — has the potential to divert the mild case of "woe is me" victimization stories which have encompassed the minority movement and could curtail retorts that perceive victimization as tom foolery.

So Washington D.C. will become an outdoor cathedral for prayer today. Participants will ask God for forgiveness of their sins and will pray for family unity and new directions for independence.

Unlike it's name, the march does not exclude black women. Women attending the march include civil rights activist Rosa Parks and poet Maya Angelou. So the nation's population should not see this event as a demonstration of angry black men, but as the influential and unified presence of the black community.

The Million Man March symbolizes what we all seem to be yearning for — self-dependency, personal responsibility and a greater importance of family cohesion. The goal of the march and its participants is to take from those pages of bitter and divisive anecdotes we hear being broadcast from Washington and inner cities and turn them into something positive. Everyone should take time to understand the meaning of the march. It would make a world of difference.

Erica is out like last season's stirrup pants

To the Editor:

Obviously Erica Gingerich (sic) didn't look at a current J. Crew catalog when writing her Oct. 9 column on the J. Crewification of America. J. Crew hasn't featured a barn jacket in at least two years and pre-distressed chinos went out with the two-button sport coat.

If she is basing her column on casual observations around the Pedestrian Mall, she may be witnessing something other than "J. Crewification." How about "Outlet Mallification," in which unsuspecting customers are set loose on the streets wearing fashions that could never make it off the rack. Most likely, she's observing the sorry state of fashion in Iowa — where all good trends come to die.

Brogan proves college boys are schmucks

To the Editor:

I thought Mike Brogan's editorial on the Miss America contest was great. It validated what I thought was just my stereotype of young male college students. He confirmed the fact that these young minds are polluted with beer, surf the channels for lack of any imagination on how to spend an evening in a more interesting manner and think women vacuuming would be the best way to judge a good woman.

American's super justice system

To the Editor:

In the days since the O.J. Simpson verdict was read, there have been countless articles, interviews and commentaries about what it means. You cannot walk down the street without hearing something in passing about the case. However, people have failed to understand what the verdict means. To this day, people are saying what a great job the jury did or what horrible people jurors are.

Unfortunately, no one realizes we have the greatest judicial system in the world. No matter what flaws there might be in the system, it is a system to be proud of! When our forefathers wrote the Constitution and gave the power to our citizenry in the way of the jury, they knew it would be controversial at times. Nevertheless, they said it is better to have ten guilty men go free than to have one innocent man go to jail.

I, myself, am still uncertain if Simpson is guilty or innocent, but he has been acquitted. Let's get on with our lives and remember we are fortunate to have our judicial system, which is by far the greatest in the world.

Watch out — Junior is taking the wheel

My son is learning to drive. This terrifies me. He is 4 years old.

Well, OK, technically he's 15. But from the perspective of the aging parent, there is no major difference between 4 and 15, except that when your child is 4, his motorizing privileges are restricted to little toy Fisher-Price vehicles containing little toy Fisher-Price people who are unlikely —

Dave Barry
is a syndicated columnist for the Miami Herald

by Ted Kennedy.

I want to get tougher restrictions than that. I want the law to say that if my son is going to drive, he must be accompanied by a licensed paramedic and at least two Supreme Court justices. Also, I believe that — as a safety precaution — his car should be attached via a stout chain to a restraining device such as the Pentagon.

I want the law to say that if my son is going to drive, he must be accompanied by a licensed paramedic and at least two Supreme Court justices.

It's not that I think my son is a bad driver. He's actually a pretty GOOD driver, careful to signal his turns. That's what worries me: He'll be driving in Miami, where nobody else, including the police, does this. If Miami motorists were to see a turn signal, there's no telling how they would react. They could become alarmed and start shooting.

And what if my son actually believes the official Florida state driver's manual when it says that the left lane is for passing only? Not here in Miami, it isn't! The driving public here apparently believes there is some kind of deadly voodoo curse on the right lane, so Everybody drives in the left lane here, at speeds ranging all the way from Indianapolis 500 to Car Wash. This means that if you get behind somebody traveling, say, Funeral Procession, and you want to pass, you have to disregard the driver's manual, risk the voodoo curse and use the right lane, UNLESS the driver in front of you is talking on a cellular telephone because these people frequently receive urgent mandatory instructions from whoever they're talking to, such as, "SWERVE ACROSS ALL AVAILABLE LANES IMMEDIATELY!" So when you're behind cell-phone drivers, it's generally wise to wait patiently for a few moments until they ram into a bridge abutment; then you can pass safely on whichever side has the least amount of flame spewing out.

We veteran Miami drivers know this, just as we know that in Miami it's considered acceptable to park on any semi-level surface, including roofs, and to go through a red light as long as you can still remember when it was yellow. But how is my son supposed to know these things?

What really scares me is, he'll want to drive a lot. I know this, because I remember exactly how I felt when I got my driver's license in 1963. I was a student at New York's Pleasantville High School, where cars were EXTREMELY important if you were a male. There were two major religions: Ford and Chevy. Ford guys would carve "FoMoCo" (for "Ford Motor Co.") on desks; Chevy guys — this was considered extremely witty — would change it to read "FoNoGo." We found great wisdom in Beach Boys car songs, which are just like love songs to a woman, except they're (a) more passionate, and (b) more technically detailed, as in these lyrics from "Little Deuce Coupe":

"She's ported and relieved and she's stroked and bored; She'll do a hundred and forty in top end floored ..."

At lunchtime we stood next to the circle in front of the high school and watched guys drive around slowly, revving their engines. Sometimes, if we were especially impressed with a car, we would spit.

I applied for my New York state driver's license the instant I was old enough, and the day it arrived — finally! — in the mail, I borrowed my mother's car, which was a Plymouth Valiant station wagon that could attain a top speed of 53 miles per hour if dropped from a bomber. I didn't care: I HAD WHEELS. I drove around at random for the next two years. It made no difference to me where I was going. I was happy simply to be in motion, with the AM radio turned up loud and tuned to WABC in New York City, which would be playing "He's So Fine" by the Chiffons:

"He's so fine (Doo-lang doo-lang doo-lang) Wish he were mine (Doo-lang doo-lang doo-lang) That handsome boy over there ..."

And behind the wheel, with my arm draped casually out the window, I imagined that I WAS that handsome boy, not some dweeb driving his mom's Valiant. I was cool. I was DRIVING.

These days when I'm driving I rarely listen to music. I do listen to traffic reports, because I'm always late for some obligatory grown-up thing. I'm never driving just to be driving.

But my son will be, soon. He'll be out there every chance he gets, feeling so fine, cruising to nowhere, signaling his turns, playing his music, cranking it up when a good song comes on, maybe exchanging high-fives with the Supreme Court justices.

Yup, he'll be on the road a lot — a teenager, but still, in many ways, a human being. Please watch out for him.

Fatigued Serb refugees fight to survive

Julijana Mojsilovic
Associated Press

BANJA LUKA — Fighting ebbed Sunday in northwestern Bosnia, where up to 50,000 exhausted Serbs were struggling to survive after fleeing advances by government and Croat forces.

In a bitter twist in the 3 1/2-year-long war, many of the refugees are now at Omarska, site of one of the most notorious prison camps set up when Serb rebels overran much of Bosnia in 1992.

A field hospital has been treating both civilians and soldiers wounded in the latest fighting. Aid workers said some older refugees are dying, apparently exhausted after being uprooted by rapid shifts in front lines in northern Bosnia in the past six weeks.

The U.S.-brokered truce that started Oct. 12 was largely observed throughout the country, U.N. officials said Sunday. The Muslim-led Bosnian government claimed on Saturday that it was halting its offensive, amid reports Serbia had to threaten to send in the Yugoslav army.

A mechanized Croatian army unit, including 22 tanks, was crossing from Bosnia back into Croatia on Sunday, U.N. spokesperson Leah Melnick said in Zagreb. In addition, more than 2,500 crack Croatian troops moved away from positions along Bosnia's northern border with Croatia on Saturday, he said.

Government army commanders met for five hours in the Bosnian capital late Saturday and dispatched a senior officer to the bitterly contested northwest, apparently to ensure that government troops there observed the truce, army sources said.

Bosnian Serb military sources cited by the Belgrade news agency Tanjug, however, claimed fierce fighting continued in the northwest Sunday, including government shelling of Serb-held Prijedor. There was no independent confirmation.

Muslims and Croats in the northwest have a powerful motive to keep fighting: revenge for reported Serb atrocities during the Serb takeover of the region in spring and summer 1992.

John Sparrow of the international Red Cross said Saturday that some of the Serb refugees were living in a mine that served as a Serb detention center in 1992, but most are in the open.

Prison camps such as the one at Omarska provided the world with some of the most gripping images of alleged Serb atrocities in the war. Footage of emaciated Muslim prisoners and reports of mass killings focused outrage at the Serbs and helped spur calls for international action to stop the war and punish war criminals.

Sparrow said he had no exact figures on how many of the Serb refugees have died.

"Some of them have been uprooted three or four times as the front lines have come and gone," Sparrow said. "They have lost everything, they have lost hope. They are saying enough is enough, and they are giving up the ghost."

Aid agencies have very few supplies stockpiled in the nearby Serb stronghold of Banja Luka. Refugees have flooded the city since early August, when Croatia retook most Serb-held land and sent more than 100,000 Serbs fleeing into neighboring Bosnia.

A refugee family from a village near Turbe, in central Bosnia, uses a horse to pull a wagon-load of their goods back to their home Sunday. The family, expelled by Bosnian Serbs three years ago, was returning for the first time since Bosnian government forces recovered most of central Bosnia last month.

In mid-September, government and Croat forces started taking large chunks of Serb-held land in Bosnia, triggering a second Serb exodus.

The Red Cross has handled 130,000 more refugees in northern Bosnia since then, Sparrow said.

The disarray has caused rifts among Serb leaders over the U.S.-led peace process. The current truce is supposed to last 60 days, ushering in peace talks in the United States on Oct. 31 that Washington hopes will lead to an international peace conference. President Clinton is ready to dispatch up to 25,000 U.S. troops as part of a much larger NATO-led force to enforce the peace.

The Serbs held the upper hand throughout most of the war, controlling about 70 percent of the country until recent government and Croat offensives tore large chunks of territory from them.

Many Serbs are angered at the losses, and Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic insisted Sunday that the rebels would not recognize any change in front lines since Sept. 8.

GENERAL RELATED TO WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR

Powell's lineage proves famous

Edith M. Lederer
Associated Press

LONDON — Colin Powell is related to the British royal family and many other European royal houses, as well as several former U.S. presidents, including George Bush, Burke's Peerage reported

"This child, born in or around 1807, was General Colin Powell's great great grandmother."

Harold Brooks-Baker, publishing director of Burke's Peerage publishing firm

Sunday.

In Washington, Powell's spokesperson Bill Smullen said he "wouldn't put much stock" in the reports.

The retired four-star general, son of Jamaican immigrants, is descended from six generations of Jamaicans and his ancestry includes English, Irish, Scottish, Jewish and Arawak Indian blood, it said.

In "My American Journey," his autobiography released in September, Powell wrote about an aunt and uncle named Coote.

According to the research, Powell is a direct descendant of the Coote family of Irish military baronets.

While lieutenant governor of Jamaica, General Sir Eyre Coote (1762-1823) had a child by one of his slaves.

"This child, born in or around 1807, was General Colin Powell's great great great grandmother," said Harold Brooks-Baker, publishing director of Burke's Peerage.

Through Sir Eyre, Powell is related to most of Britain's great ancient families, including the royal family, to many royal and noble families in France, Italy, Germany and Spain, Brooks-Baker said.

He is also directly descended from England's King Edward I and Caroline Stanhope.

The link with Edward means his lineage can be traced to William the Conqueror, and through the Stanhope line he can claim kinship with presidents George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and George Bush, Brooks-Baker said.

Burke's Peerage publishes books about royal families and royal collections and specializes in ancestor research in the Western world.

MARCH

been its chief organizer, with the help of ousted NAACP chief Benjamin Chavis Jr. But it has attracted a wide coalition of support, including Jesse Jackson, Rosa Parks and several black members of Congress and mayors and ministers. Many say it's unfair now to characterize it as Farrakhan's event.

"It was his idea; he dropped the seeds," said Clarence White, a postal worker who traveled from San Antonio, Texas, for the rally. "But it's no longer his. It's ours."

Scattered early arrivals — black men of all ages and several women, too — milled about the event site on the National Mall. Several exchanged greetings of "Brother!" or "Hey, black man!"

Vendors hawked T-shirts and hats that said "One in a million," and city crews began closing some streets along the Mall.

Three members of the Coalition for Jewish Concerns appeared on the Mall with signs that said "David Duke and Louis Farrakhan — two sides of the same coin." They got in a brief shouting match with some black passersby.

Farrakhan's remarks have infuriated Jews, Catholics, gays, feminists and others. He has called Judaism a "gutter religion" and recently defended his use of the term "bloodsuckers" to describe Jews or others who open businesses in minority communities and take the profits elsewhere.

Farrakhan canceled all his public appearances Sunday to prepare for the rally.

Huge speakers and giant video screens were being set up on the grassy Mall Sunday afternoon, and yellow tape marked the spot behind the Capitol where organizers planned to erect a stage.

Crowds were expected to begin converging on the Mall soon after midnight. Some city subway stations were opening at 12:30 a.m., five hours earlier than usual, to accommodate them.

Activities start at 5 a.m. with prayer and African drumming, followed by speeches, music and more prayer throughout the day.

No one knows how many men will arrive. City officials say they are preparing for 500,000 to one million. Organizers predict more than 11,000 buses will bring men to the rally.

Reaching the goal of 1 million would take more than one out of every 10 of America's black adult men. The 1963 civil rights march led by Martin Luther King Jr., which included men and women of many races, drew 250,000 people.

ment of the others around.

"Since the band didn't play the song, I figured that I would, since it is the students' favorite song," Paul said.

The people enjoyed the song so much, Paul's girlfriend and UI junior Deb Poschner said, that fans in the stands collected $3.75 in appreciation.

Wayne Bergman, sousaphone player and member of the Alumni Band, said his section began playing the song. Before long, others in the band joined in.

"It kept getting louder and louder," he said.

Morgan Jones, director of the Alumni Band, cut off the band after a couple rounds of the song, Bergman said.

John Gilbert, public relations officer for the UI bands and member of the Alumni Band, said he wishes the band could still play the song.

"I think that it's too bad that the song degraded into what it has become," Gilbert said. "I think that it is a fun song."

Band director Dave Henning said the UI Marching Band would love to play the song. However, he supports the university's decision to ban the song.

"We don't want to dampen the enthusiasm," he said. "I wish they wouldn't cuss."

SIMPSON

Stewart refused to discuss the money involved in the deal.

Rosborough and Moran were part of the jury that acquitted Simpson Oct. 3 in the slayings of his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman. The 12 jurors deliberated less than four hours.

Polls have shown most blacks approve of the acquittal, while most whites disapprove.

"They are very upset about the reaction to the verdicts," Stewart said. "They feel it is very unfair. Brenda Moran is a five-time juror who convicted two men to prison before, including a black man. Neither one of them sees color."

LOCAL MARCH PLANS

need to raise the awareness of the African-American students on campus to the issues the march deals with."

Nationally, said Joey Thurman, UI senior and manager of the Afro-American Cultural Center, the event will raise awareness of African-American issues.

"(This will) draw national attention to the African-American plight that people are not aware of — there is still a problem with a lack of government funds," he said.

Between 20 and 30 men from the UI are planning on attending the march in Washington, D.C., Thurman said.

Melita Pope, former president of the Black Student Union, said a sense of pride and the agenda of the African-American culture needs to be seen.

"First of all, Iowa City is a liberal place where people think there are no problems," Pope said. "This is a problem that we need to deal with. We are supporting the march in Washington, D.C., as well as doing something personal to represent ourselves."

Holmes said it is important to show local support for the national march and is not upset women are excluded from the march.

"The support is for us as well to raise the awareness of the African-American community," Holmes said. "This is a national apology by African-American men for not supporting the woman in the role of supporting the family. They are taking responsibility."

Pope said local support was a responsibility.

"For African-Americans it is time to take personal responsibility for the issues being addressed," Pope said. "We also need to recognize our accomplishments and not only the failures that the march is dealing with."

The activities also aim at unity, Holmes said. It is a spiritual thing and will hopefully allow the students to know themselves better.

"I wish people would not focus on the fact Louis Farrakhan is involved, but that the meaning is unity."

Farrakhan, Nation of Islam leader and originator of Monday's mass rally of black men, said Friday Jews are only one of several ethnic groups he considers "bloodsuckers" because of their business dealings in African-American neighborhoods.

Gerri Siterman, vice president of the B'Nai B'Rith Hillel Foundation, said insulting comments aimed at the Hebrew community made by Farrakhan offended her.

"I don't know exactly how, but he made the point in the past, and it really hits home," she said. "When I see it in the paper, it angers me."

The remarks also upset UI senior Jason Fine, who said they were uncalled for.

"It's a shame that an event that can be so positive for the African-American community has to be tainted by an ignorant man that doesn't represent the community as a whole," he said.

WEEKEND ROWDINESS

cially early, around 10:30 p.m., when we usually do it an hour later."

Long waits and large crowds upset some bargoers this weekend.

"(The lines) were really long and everywhere you went it was packed," said Debbie Bishop, a Kirkwood Community College student. "It was so cheesy waiting in line. I just wanted to get in and drink. The entire Ped Mall was filled with stupid drunk asses."

Downtown was especially crowded Saturday, Vokac said.

"I wouldn't go downtown on Homecoming weekend," he said.

"People attract people. It's Homecoming. People need to understand that it's going to be crowded. If they don't, they need a little lesson in patience."

TEETER TOTTER

The event, held 24 hours a day, will continue through Saturday at noon with hopes of raising $7,000 for the March of Dimes.

"We thought it would be a good act of fraternal brotherhood and we didn't want to see such a valuable cause go to waste," said Delta Tau president Matt Ross.

When Lambda Chi Alpha's charter was revoked in response to the death of sophomore associate member Matthew Garofalo, Ross approached the fraternity with the idea of allowing Delta Tau and Delta Gamma to take over the fundraiser. Lambda Chi Alpha members voted to allow the fund-raiser to be transferred.

"I was very impressed the Delta Tau's saw this as something not to let die," said Brett Devore, March of Dimes coordinator for the event.

A representative from each house will ride the teeter-totter in one-hour shifts throughout the day and evening.

"Everyone's very excited about this," said Delta Gamma president Allison Sesny. "The night hours were filled up right away."

Each person participating will be responsible for collecting $30-minimum donations. An open donation container will also be present for walk-by contributions. Bonuses are being offered to those who raise the most money.

"They have very interesting incentives," said Devore. "One of them, I believe, is a drum set."

Sesny said everyone was pleased with the high turn out to yesterday's opening ceremonies. Philip Jones, UI dean of students, as well as members of other chapters and representatives from the March of Dimes, attended the ceremony.

Ross said that high enthusiasm can sometimes be difficult to get from all the participants, but so far there have not been any problems.

"The attitude has been really good," he said. "I'm really impressed with the guys."

Scottish boxer dies after title fight

GLASGOW, Scotland — Scottish boxer James Murray died Sunday of injuries suffered in a title fight with Drew Docherty, leading to a renewal of calls for the sport to be banned in Britain.

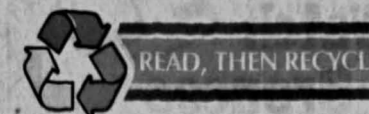

Richard Morgan, a spokesman at Glasgow's Southern General Hospital, said doctors had pronounced Murray "clinically dead" Saturday but left him on a life support machine.

They reassessed his condition Sunday, decided he was dead and then removed him from the machine.

The 25-year-old Murray underwent brain surgery following the knockout by Docherty in the final round of the British bantamweight championship fight on Friday night.

Docherty, who appeared anxious about Murray's condition even as he was being hailed the winner in the ring, was said to be "shattered" by the news of his death.

His manager, Tommy Gilmour, issued a brief statement that read: "Words just cannot express how badly we feel about James' death. Our thoughts are with his family and friends."

Indiana suffers Nightmare

Joseph Strathman/The Daily Iowan

Iowa defenders Bill Ennis-Inge (9) and Bobby Diaco (45) combine to take down Indiana running back Sean Glover Saturday at Kinnick.

Inspired third stringer boggles Iowa D

Mike Triplett

The Daily Iowan

A year ago Indiana sophomore Alex Smith ran wild at Kinnick Stadium, spoiling Iowa's homecoming with 232 yards on a stadium-record 43 carries.

That record fell Saturday when the Hoosiers returned to Kinnick, but Smith wasn't doing the work. It was Indiana's third-string running back, senior Sean Glover, who gave fits to the Iowa defense with 48 rushes for 199 yards.

Glover found out Wednesday that he was going to start in place of Michael Batts, the second-stringer who went down with a knee injury. After Saturday's game, he had trouble believing he carried the ball 48 times.

"They kidded me about it this week after Mike went down, but the first thing I told them was, 'As many carries as you give me, I'll take them,'" Glover said.

Glover was pleased with the opportunity he had received after Smith went down with three broken ribs, but he had mixed feelings about taking over for his close friend Batts.

"It was really hard because Mike and myself have become really, really close. And my heart was with him when I found out (about his injury)," Glover explained. "When he got hurt, my heart was hurting with him. I feel his pain and this game, for me, I was playing it for him."

Batts suffered a major disappointment a year ago when a torn anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee ended his season after just two carries. But he fought back this year and was ready to fill in for Smith.

"I knew he wanted to be here and he is someone who really, really worked his butt off to get back and to have something like that happen to him is really a shame," Glover said. "But he's given me strength, trying to keep my head into it, knowing that I'm hurting along with him."

Glover had 21 carries for 42 yards this season before coming to Iowa City. In his four-year career, he had just 109 carries and 355 yards. But one thing kept him from calling this game the highlight of his career.

"I'd throw everything away just

One year ago, Iowa cornerback Tom Knight wasn't sure if he'd ever play college football again. A knee injury sidelined Knight for the remainder of the '94 season, and possibly the rest of his career.

But three weeks into the 1995 season, he returned to the field, and on Saturday, he returned to glory.

With 4:36 to go in the fourth quarter, Iowa up by one point and Indiana driving into Hawkeye territory, Knight came up with the biggest play of his life — returning an interception for a touchdown.

"Everybody's screaming, 'Big play, Big play.' Somebody's got to step up to make the big play," Iowa linebacker Bobby Diaco said. "When you've got Tommy Knight in the huddle, a lot of times it's going to be him."

"It was a curl and out combination," Knight said. "They'd been running it all day. I finally decided to jump the out route and I did and the ball was there."

Knight returned the ball 60 yards to score, Ryan Driscoll ran in the two-point conversion and Iowa never looked back, winning 22-13.

"We pulled out a big victory today in a very difficult situation," Iowa coach Hayden Fry said. "Between a fired up Indiana football team and the wind, it was an extremely tough day."

Iowa (5-0, 2-0 in the Big Ten) started the scoring at the 7:57 mark of the first quarter when Tim Dwight took an end around 56-yards for the score.

CLEVELAND — Triumphantlly, Omar Vizquel took the game in hand.

Vizquel stabbed Luis Sojo's eighth-inning line drive to short-stop and demonstratively turned it into a double play as the Cleveland Indians held off the Seattle Mariners 3-2 Sunday night, taking a 3-2 lead in the AL playoffs.

Jim Thome put Cleveland on top with a two-run homer off Chris Bosio in the sixth inning, and the Indians twice wriggled out of difficult situations to stay there.

Hawkeyes drop a pair to Big Ten rivals

Jon Basso

The Daily Iowan

The agony continues for the Hawkeyes.

The Iowa volleyball team dropped a pair of Big Ten home matches over the weekend. The loss was the sixth straight for the Hawkeyes.

Saturday, Indiana edged the Hawkeyes in five games, 15-11, 9-15, 15-9, 4-15, 15-13. Friday, No. 22 Illinois took care of Iowa, 15-13, 15-9, 15-9.

A season that started with a 7-3 record and high expectations has turned into a nightmare for the Hawkeyes. Iowa now stands at 8-11 overall and 1-7 in the Big Ten.

Saturday's match featured several momentum changes. Unfortunately for Iowa, the final momentum switch went the Hoosiers' way.

After dropping the first game and trailing 5-2 in the second, Iowa received a burst of emotion from freshman Nikki McCleary. McCleary received her first extended playing time of the season when junior Jill Oelschlager went down with a twisted ankle.

McCleary responded with three digs to go along with a kill and a serving ace. By the time Oelschlager returned, Iowa had evened the score, 8-8. The Hawkeyes dominated the rest of the game, winning 15-9.

"We just have to be more consistent, that's the bottom line."

Katy Fawbush, Iowa volleyball player

After Indiana took game three, Iowa thrashed the Hoosiers in the fourth game, 15-4.

However, Iowa could not keep the momentum in the final game. Indiana ran out to an 11-7 lead before holding off the Hawkeyes, 15-13.

"I think we got just too emotionally high after the fourth game," junior Katy Fawbush said.

Fawbush led the team with 11 digs to go along with 11 kills. As usual, Jennifer Webb led the way

7-0 with a 1.47 ERA. He broke a tie with former Yankees pitcher Lefty Gomez for most postseason wins without a loss.

Game 6 will be back in the Kingdome on Tuesday night, and Randy Johnson once again will be asked to save the season for Seattle. It'll be his fourth appearance this month with the Mariners' season hanging in the balance.

Indians reliever Paul Assenmacher was the first to step up big on Hershiser's behalf. The left-hander struck out Ken Griffey Jr. and Jay Buhner in succession to end the seventh inning, stranding the potential tying run at third base.

The Mariners then put runners at first and second with one out in the eighth, but Sojo — whose RBI double had won Game 1 — hit a 3-2 pitch directly at Vizquel.

Vizquel, the former Seattle shortstop, caught it before tagging out Alex Diaz as he overran second. Had there been no outs, Vizquel would have had an easy unassisted triple play, because he stepped hard on second base for emphasis.

Had it not been for Tom Knight's interception late in the fourth quarter, Glover may have received his wish. The surprise performance from the 5-foot-11, 205-pound tailback nearly lifted the Hoosiers to an upset victory.

After the game, Hawkeye defenders had to answer questions about coming out flat and allowing a third-stringer so much success.

"I can't deny Illinois," Schoensted said. "They dug the ball very well. When a team gets hot like that digging the ball, it's awfully hard. I thought we hit with them, but I didn't think we dug with them."

The Hawkeyes now face four-straight road matches, starting with Purdue Friday. Iowa returns home November 3 against Penn State.

Cleveland scored its first run on Murray's RBI single in the first, set up when Seattle first baseman Tino Martinez let Omar Vizquel's grounder go through his legs — a striking imitation of Bill Buckner's error for Boston in Game 6 of the 1986 World Series.

Hershiser didn't seem to be himself at the start, struggling with his control and giving up hard line-drive outs by Edgar Martinez in the first inning and Tino Martinez in the second. Outs through the air are often a bad sign for Hershiser, a sinkerball specialist who usually makes his living on ground balls.

By the third inning, he also had walked two batters, after giving up just one intentional walk in eight innings of Game 2 at Seattle.

But gradually he gathered himself, and even though Seattle scored a run on Griffey's double in the third, Hershiser struck out three batters that inning and two batters each of the next two.

Winds gusting up to 30 mph played havoc with just about every ball hit into the air.

Wayne Kirby replaced Belle in left two innings later when Belle's ankle stiffened up again. The Indians committed four errors in all.

Braves make another title run

Chris Sheridan
Associated Press

ATLANTA — The last two times the Atlanta Braves made it to the World Series, the rap against them was a poor bullpen and weak bench.

That's not the case anymore, and the Cincinnati Reds will attest to that.

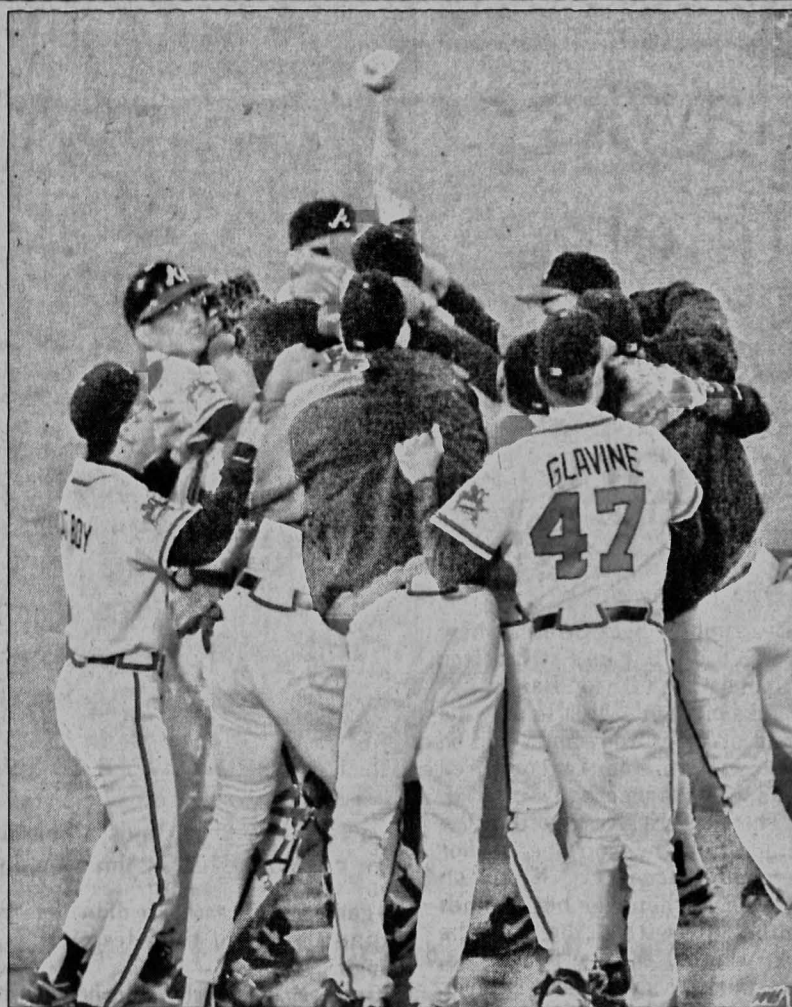

The Braves finished off a four-game sweep of their NL playoff series against the Reds on Saturday night with a 6-0 shutout that showed just how dominant Atlanta can be.

Atlanta trailed only once in the four games, had its 28th and 29th last at-bat victories and took the last two games with ease.

Mike Devereaux, acquired in late August to bolster the bench and be a right-handed designated hitter in the World Series, won the MVP award by hitting a three-run homer in the seventh that gave the Braves a 5-0 lead. Devereaux, who was inserted into the starting lineup due to an injury to David Justice, also had the game-winning hit in the 11th inning of Game 1.

There were other examples of the Braves' depth.

Steve Avery, who was not expected to get a start in the series, got the call after Atlanta won the first three games. He was the MVP of the 1991 series but struggled through 1995. In the clincher, he worked six scoreless innings and allowed only two hits with eight strikeouts.

Greg McMichael, Alejandro Pena and Mark Wohlers each worked an inning apiece to finish a combined three-hitter.

"Our bullpen is probably the best we've had. We've had depth before but the bench really came through for us in the series," manager Bobby Cox said.

The Braves hit .282 in the series, led by Chipper Jones and Fred McGriff, both at .438, Javier Lopez at .357 and Devereaux at .308. They outscored the Reds 19-5 overall, played excellent defense with eight double plays and benefited from Cincinnati's failure to hit with runners in scoring position (.103).

The pitching gets most of the credit. The team ERA was 1.15 with 12 walks and 31 strikeouts. The bullpen had an 0.82 ERA in 11 innings, the only run coming in the ninth inning of Game 3 when the outcome was already certain.

Johnstone excels at ITA tourney

Apparently Ryan Johnstone doesn't believe in a sophomore slump.

For the second weekend in a row Johnstone strung together a series of big wins to pace the Iowa men's tennis team at the ITA All-American Championships in Austin, Texas.

After a first round bye, Johnstone dispatched Texas San Antonio's Sergid Esteban in the second round 6-1, 6-1. From there, Johnstone breezed to a 6-0, 6-3 third round victory before falling to Ball State's Denny English 7-6, 6-3 in the fourth round.

Iowa coach Steve Houghton said Johnstone barely resembles the freshman he saw a year ago.

"He's really put together a couple of good tournaments for us," Houghton said. "He's made a bigger jump in terms of improvement in one month than anyone I've ever had."

Seven other Hawkeyes also saw singles action, but only senior Marcus Ekstrand advanced past his opening match. Ekstrand thwarted Texas San Antonio's Ricardo Fuentes 6-0, 7-5 before he was knocked off 2-6, 6-4, 7-5 by LSU's Chris Dudley in the third round. Ekstrand had two match points in the final set, but was unable to capitalize on either opportunity.

Hawks take two from state of Michigan

The Iowa field hockey express is rolling and it looks like nobody is going to stop it.

The Hawkeyes put a virtual lock on its 11th regular season Big Ten Conference title, sweeping past Michigan and Michigan State last weekend. Iowa doubled its pleasure by defeating the Spartans and Wolverines by the identical scores of 3-2.

The Hawkeyes have a three-game lead with three left to play before the Big Ten tournament. A No. 1 seed in the tournament is almost assured for the No. 3 team in the country. Iowa advanced its record to a spotless 6-0 in the Big Ten and raised its overall record to 11-2. Hawkeye coach Beth Beglin said the team is putting everything together at the right time.

On Friday, Iowa spotted Michigan State a two-goal lead before roaring back. Three unanswered goals later and the Hawkeyes had their sixth consecutive victory. Mary Casabian, Ann Paré, and Diane DeMiro all scorched the net. Casabian also picked up a pair of assists.

Sunday, Iowa grabbed the lead from Michigan when Casabian scored on a penalty corner with 11:59 left in the first half. The Wolverines answered exactly eight minutes later on a goal by Sherene Smith. From there on, Hawkeye freshman Quan Nim took over.

Nim sliced through the entire

Michigan defense and scored unassisted to put Iowa on top 2-1 with 24:38 left in the contest. Nim caged the Wolverines for good, scoring off a corner rebound to put the Hawkeyes up 3-1 with just 10 minutes remaining. Michigan added a goal with 7:22 left, but it wasn't enough and Iowa was on its way home with a sweep.

Coleman's absence hurts squad

The importance of junior Becky Coleman and senior captain Shawn Fleck to the women's cross country team was blatantly obvious this weekend.

The Iowa squad, minus Fleck and No. 1 runner Coleman, finished with 710 points, good for 22nd place out of 22 teams at the Iowa State Classic in Ames.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Fleck was unable to perform in the meet due to GRE testing, and Coleman was held out of the race because of a nagging calf strain.

"We obviously knew it would be tough without Shawn and Becky and we didn't run like we needed to," junior Briana Benning said. "We are disappointed with our races and we are putting it behind us."

Iowa's top finisher was junior Kiersten Pauling, who finished 121st with a time of 19:21. Freshman Jenny Kiciak had a time of 20:16, good for 164th place.

Iowa will look to use its poor performance in Ames to motivate it to perform well in Minneapolis.

"We've been running well all season, so this meet just shows we need to work extra hard to prepare for Big Tens," Benning said.

— Wayne Drehs

Hawks finish 14th

The Iowa men's cross country team bent but did not break in this weekend's Iowa State Classic.

The Hawkeyes finished 14th out of 22 teams in Ames, despite being without No. 2 runner Jared Pittman and running a poor race.

"We definitely didn't have our best day," head coach Larry Wiczorek said. "It was a very difficult field, and it will be good for the guys to experience this competition now."

Freshman Stetson Steele continued his success as the Hawkeyes' top finisher with a 27:21 time for 37th place.

— Wayne Drehs

Brantner, McCarty place in the top ten

After watching his squad finish in last place at the Windon Memorial, Iowa men's golf coach Terry Anderson decided it was time to scrap an inconsistent young lineup in favor of a group of Hawkeye veterans.

The move proved to be successful.

In a strong fall season finale, the Hawkeyes regrouped to place sixth out of 18 teams at the Northern Invitational last weekend. Ohio State won the team title with a score of 576. Iowa finished with 603.

Leading the way for Iowa were senior Laine Brantner and junior Chad McCarty. Both players finished in the tournament's Top 10. Brantner shot a final round 75 to finish in seventh place at 146. McCarty posted a final round 74 en route to a ninth-place finish at 147.

Brad Heinrichs, Bob Richards and Scott Carpenter also competed for the Hawkeyes. Heinrichs and Richards both finished with 156. Carpenter recorded a two-round score of 159.

Divided Hawks have successful weekend

A team divided cannot stand, unless it's really good.

That's the lesson the Iowa women's tennis team learned last weekend when it split its squad to compete in both the Hoosier Classic and the Riviera Regional Qualifier.

At the Riviera in Malibu, Ca., seniors Sasha Boros and Nikki Willette advanced to the qualifying round in doubles action after capturing three victories in the prequalifying draw. The duo recorded an opening round 8-4 decision before cruising to an 8-3 victory over Pacific's Molly White and Marsha Kuurine.

On Sunday, Boros and Willette posted a 6-2, 6-3 victory over San Diego State's Christy Propstra and Metete Lindhal to move on to Tuesday's qualifying round of 32 doubles teams.

Iowa assistant women's tennis coach Jen Hyde said in a phone interview Saturday night that Boros and Willette looked sharp.

"They played unreal doubles today," Hyde said.

"They're finally realizing what we've been working on in practice. It's exciting to watch them play."

The rest of the Hawkeye squad did not fare quite as well in Bloomington, Ind. against a tough field that featured Baylor, Arkansas, Georgia Tech and Indiana.

Junior Robin Niemeier was Iowa's top finisher in singles play. Niemeier finished fourth at the No. 3 singles position, highlighted by a 6-3, 6-4 victory over Georgia Tech's Autumn Richards.

Krissy Campbell and Erin Wolverson were Iowa's top doubles finishers.

"Nobody ever gave up, they stuck in there and came out and played strong doubles," Coach Jenny Mainz said.

Iowa Football

Bobby Diaco takes down Indiana's Sean Glover for one of his game-high 17 tackles Saturday.

GAME NOTES

Hawks suffer losses in victory

Mike Triplett
the Daily Iowan

Iowa running back Sedrick Shaw is banged up, but he's still better off than back-up Tavian Banks.

Banks broke his wrist in only his second play Saturday and could be out anywhere from two or three weeks to over a month.

"The fracture is a type that the doctor thinks he won't be lost for the whole season," Coach Hayden Fry said. "Whenever he becomes comfortable with it, he could be back, whether that be two weeks, three weeks, a month or whatever. But he said that he should be back sometime in the season."

Shaw missed practice this week because of a pulled groin, but begged to be played, according to Fry.

Without Banks, Iowa is left completely helpless. Third-teamer Damani Shakoor will move to the second-team while flanker Tim Dwight and fullback Rodney Filer could have some plays come their way, too.

"We've got a lot of different combinations," Fry said. "We'll be OK. We've got to get Sedrick healthy, that's for sure."

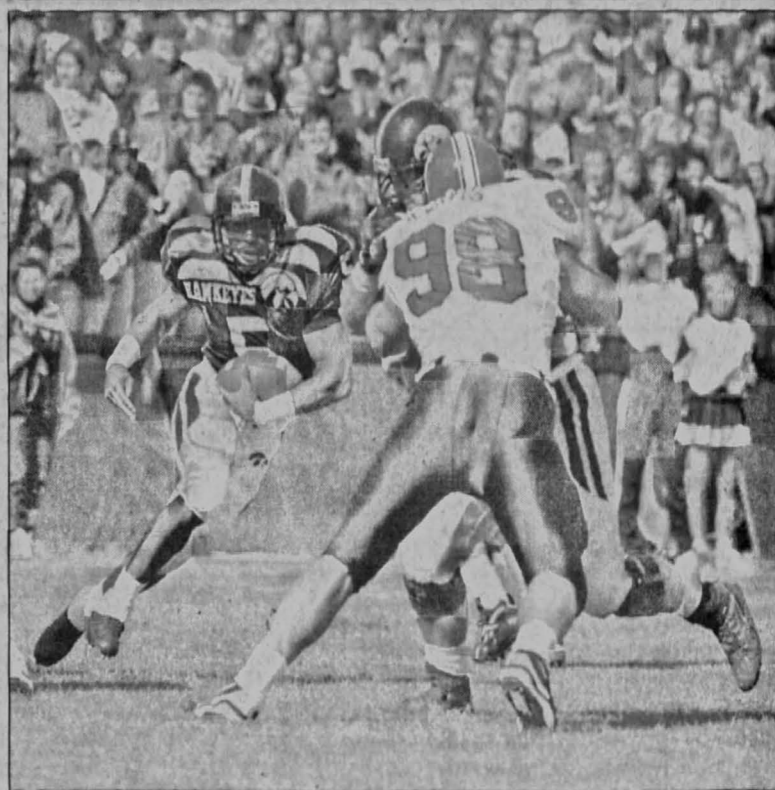

Shakoor has seven carries this season for 36 yards.

Other injuries Iowa suffered Saturday include a probable broken ankle to lineman Ross Verba, a sprained ankle to Lloyd Bickham that should keep him out for a while, and various other minor injuries.

"Thank gosh it was on grass," Fry said. "I'd hate to think what it would be like if it was on artificial turf."

Hawkeyes show trickery

With a seven-point lead late in the fourth-quarter, Coach Hayden Fry elected to go for two and put

Joseph Strathman/The Daily Iowan

Iowa's Sedrick Shaw finds a hole in the Indiana defense Saturday. Shaw carried the ball 22 times for a season-low 81 yards.

the game out of reach. He didn't let Indiana know of that decision, though.

Kicker Brion Hurley and holder Ryan Driscoll went out on the field to set up for the kick, but Driscoll took the snap and ran the ball in for two points.

Hurley's presence may have tipped Indiana off, but according to Fry, the normal kicker, freshman Zach Bromert, was too small for the job.

"We didn't want little Rudy (Bromert's nickname) to get killed," Fry explained. "The kicker has to fake his kick and then block the back side and he's not the biggest guy in the world to have him block a big defensive end."

Second best in the nation

Iowa has the nation's second longest streak of games without a loss. Only No. 2 Nebraska has more consecutive wins.

Iowa has won its last seven games and hasn't lost any of its last nine. The Hawkeyes tied Purdue last season to interrupt the win streak.

Shaw continues his climb

Despite his first sub-100-yard rushing game, Iowa junior Sedrick Shaw moved past Ronnie Harmon into third place on Iowa's all-time rushing chart. Shaw rushed for 81 yards, boosting his career total to 2,276 yards. He needs less than 300 yards to surpass Tony Stewart's school-record mark of 2,562.

Dwight does damage in the air, on the ground

Iowa sophomore Tim Dwight led the Hawkeyes with four receptions and 56 yards. His groundwork was more painful to the Hoosier defense, though.

In the first half, Dwight carried two reverses a total of 80 yards; one into the end zone on a 56-yard scamper.

Indiana finally caught on in the second half though and Dwight was stopped deep in the backfield for a 14-yard loss.

Finally ... a homecoming victory

Iowa hasn't won its homecoming game since 1991, when the Hawkeyes defeated Illinois. Since then, Purdue, Illinois and Indiana have each taken turns spoiling the big day.

Iowa senior, Lloyd Bickham, said that Sedrick Shaw addressed the team earlier in the week and spoke of Iowa's homecoming woes.

"He said, 'A lot of people come from all over, the alumni and everything, to watch the Hawks play,' and we hadn't won in three years. So that was another motivating factor for us," Bickham said.

BACK FROM INJURY

Knight has had turbulent year

Chris Snider
The Daily Iowan

The last time Iowa cornerback Tom Knight saw the Indiana football team come to Iowa City, it wasn't a happy occasion. Not only did the Hoosiers defeat the Hawkeyes, 27-20, it was Knight's final game before knee surgery.

One year later, Knight had the last laugh, returning a fourth quarter interception for a touchdown against the Hoosiers, sealing a Hawkeye victory.

"He's gone from down in the dumps, thinking he was going to end football, never playing again, to the high today," Iowa linebacker Bobby Diaco said after the game on Saturday. "He's a fabulous cornerback. They just don't catch balls on his side. He doesn't miss tackles."

Finally everything Knight, who has been troubled by injuries all of his Iowa career, had gone through, was worth it.

Bobby Diaco, Iowa
linebacker on Tom Knight

"Obviously, anytime you've gone through things like this, it kind of helps you focus on the things that have happened to you," Knight said. "Now, for me, it means a lot just to be out on that football field and be able to play in games like this."

The play came at a crucial time in the game, with Iowa up by one point and Indiana threatening.

"There was a definite sense of urgency in that huddle. We knew we had to do it and it was time," Knight said.

"(The defense) always has the attitude and the mentality that it's our game to win. At that situation, late in the game, third-and-six, we knew we had to make a big play."

Knight, a junior, recorded seven tackles in the game, his high since returning to the Iowa line-up this season.

In the past two seasons, Knight had 30 tackles and two interceptions.

He also recorded seven tackles in 1993 before being given a medical redshirt.

His interception made a believer out of freshman defensive tackle Jared DeVries.

"I ran down there trying to catch him, but I knew I wasn't going to catch him," DeVries said. "I was just so happy that he got that interception."

FOOTBALL

But the Hoosiers (2-4, 0-3) hung tough. Behind the running of third-string tailback Sean Glover, who scored on a 1-yard touchdown run with 38 seconds left in the first half, Indiana knotted the game at seven.

Sedrick Shaw fumbled the Hawkeyes' first play from scrimmage, giving the ball back to Indiana with 25 seconds left in the half. Bill Manolopoulos added a 34-yard field goal, putting the Hoosiers in the lead, 10-7.

Iowa took back the lead when Sedrick Shaw trotted in from seven yards out with 8:30 to go in the third quarter.

However, Manolopoulos added a 23-yard field goal with 8:07 left in the game, tightening the score to one point and setting up Knight's heroic play.

"Good football teams make big plays and thank God for Tommy," Fry said.

Indiana's Glover finished the game with 199 yards rushing on 48 attempts.

Shaw, who missed practice all week with a pulled groin, finished with 89 yards for the Hawkeyes. Dwight had three carries for 66 yards.

"Indiana played inspired football," Fry said.

"We had no idea what they were going to do with the new quarterback. We had never seen that great big fullback that they put in. The other running back, we must have missed 12-15 tackles behind the line of scrimmage."

The Hoosiers dominated the game from a statistical standpoint, outgaining the Hawkeyes 346-224 in total offense.

Indiana had 40 more offensive plays from scrimmage than Iowa and held the ball 15 minutes longer. The Hawkeyes were penalized eight times for 62 yards.

"This will be a great learning experience for our football team," Fry said.

"They brought the kitchen sink after us from a defensive standpoint and, going into the wind, it really hurt us."

Diaco led the Hawkeyes with 17 tackles, followed by Damien Robinson with 11 and Vernon Rollins with nine. Eric Smedley paced the Hoosiers with nine stops.

Iowa quarterback Matt Sherman finished with nine completions in 18 attempts for 96 yards.

Adam Greenlee finished with 111 yards on 12-of-29 accuracy.

Bills continue surprise run

Associated Press

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — Bill Brooks has given the Buffalo Bills plenty of reasons to believe they will be just fine without Andre Reed.

The 10-year veteran caught six passes for 109 yards and two touchdowns Sunday, lifting the Bills to their fifth straight victory, a 27-21 win over the Seattle Seahawks.

Brooks, who took a $1 million pay cut when he was released by Buffalo in April and re-signed in June, had his biggest day in three years with the Bills.

Jim Kelly completed 21 of 36 passes for 275 yards and three touchdowns in 30 mph winds. Steve Christie kicked field goals of 43 and 26 yards.

Buffalo was without Reed, its career receiving leader, after he sustained a severely pulled hamstring last week.

Brooks' second touchdown catch was as pretty as they come, and it gave Buffalo a 24-7 lead in the third quarter.

The Bills had a third-and-10 when Kelly threw a high pass near the goal line. Brooks outleaped Carlton Gray and came down with a one-handed grab as he fell into the end zone.

Seattle drew within 24-14 on its next possession when Rick Mirer hit Joey Galloway with a 52-yard touchdown pass. Galloway made a leaping catch and split two defenders before running untouched into the end zone.

Mirer completed 15 of 34 passes for 218 yards, three interceptions and one touchdown.

Chiefs 31, Patriots 26

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Arrowhead Stadium's capacity crowd of 78,000 must have felt cheated.

Instead of sprinting 76 yards for the go-ahead touchdown, Steve Bono ambled 2 for a score. Instead of going into overtime as they did in winning their first three home games, the Kansas City Chiefs needed only 60 minutes to beat New England 31-26 on Sunday and go to 6-1 for the first time since their Super Bowl year of 1969.

The Patriots did provide late drama, however, with the help of a weird play in the final 2½ minutes. Tony Brown caught a Drew Bledsoe pass but fumbled. In the scramble for the ball, 295-pound tackle Max Lane grabbed it out of the air and ran 30 yards to the 6, setting up Bledsoe's scoring pass to Will Moore that made it 31-26 with 2:07 left.

The Chiefs had to punt with 1:41 left, but Dale Carter intercepted Bledsoe on the first play.

New England coach Bill Parcells, who promised lineup changes after the Patriots (1-5) lost their fourth straight the week before, unveiled different starters at several positions, including center, tight end, nose tackle, free safety and right inside linebacker.

One man he stuck with was right cornerback Ricky Reynolds, who got beat for touchdowns by two different receivers within 2:12 of each other in a 21-point third quarter.

Leading 24-10 at halftime, the Chiefs managed only three first downs until late in the fourth as the Patriots closed to 24-19 on Matt Bahr's field goal and Bledsoe's first TD pass of the year.

Bears take advantage of missed field goal

Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — The Chicago Bears brought Jacksonville back to reality on Sunday — barely.

The Jaguars, seeking to become the first expansion team to win three straight games, staged a gutsy rally in the final two minutes, but fell to Chicago 30-27 when Mike Hollis missed a 54-yard field goal on the final play.

The Bears appeared to seal the victory when Kevin Butler's 20-yard field goal with 2:18 remaining pushed their lead to 30-20.

But Mark Brunell, who threw for a career-high 302 yards, tossed his third touchdown, a 23-yarder to Cedric Tillman with 27 seconds left, and Mike Dumas recovered an onside kick at the Chicago 41.

Operating with no timeouts, Brunell moved Jacksonville to the Chicago 36 with two seconds remaining.

But Hollis, who made two field goals, was wide left.

Saints 33, Dolphins 30

NEW ORLEANS — Even without Dan Marino, Miami was supposed to handle New Orleans. Instead, the Saints won for the first time this season.

Jim Everett threw four touchdowns Sunday, outdueling Dolphins backup Bernie Kosar in New Orleans' 33-30 victory.

It was the second straight loss for Miami, which blew a 21-point lead to Indianapolis last week. This time, the Dolphins never led, but they kept it interesting.

Kosar, an 11-year veteran making his first start for Miami, completed 29 of 42 for 368 yards and three touchdowns. He was intercepted twice.

Everett completed 20 of 32 for 242 yards. It was the sixth time in his career Everett passed for four touchdowns in a game.

Colts 18, 49ers 17

INDIANAPOLIS — The comeback Colts did it again Sunday and this time the victim was the Super Bowl champion San Francisco 49ers.

Cary Blanchard's fourth field goal, a 41-yarder with 2:36 left, lifted Indianapolis to an 18-17 victory over the 49ers. San Francisco (4-2) missed a chance to go ahead with 50 seconds left when Doug Brien's 46-yard field goal attempt went wide right.

Earlier this season, the Colts (4-2) rallied from 21-point deficits to beat the New York Jets and Miami Dolphins.

It was the third straight upset for the Colts (4-2), who also surprised then-undefeated St. Louis and Miami the previous two weeks.

San Francisco reached the Indianapolis 28 with 50 seconds to go, but Brien's kick missed and the Colts ran out the clock.

Cowboys 23, Chargers 9

SAN DIEGO — Gale Gilbert's shot at glory kept ending up in the hands of the Dallas Cowboys.

The career backup quarterback had a miserable day in relief of the injured Stan Humphries, ending San Diego's first four drives with turnovers, including three interceptions. Two of them set up touchdowns by Emmitt Smith as the Cowboys beat the Chargers 23-9 on Sunday.

Smith, the NFL's leading rusher, was held under 100 yards for the second time in three games, but it hardly mattered. He finished with a season-low 68 yards on 22 carries, and set the club record for career touchdowns with 88.

He had been tied with Tony Dorsett at 86.

Troy Aikman recovered from a safety on Dallas' first play from scrimmage and had an outstanding day, completing 21 of 30 passes — including his first 11 — for 222 yards and no interceptions. Michael Irvin had seven receptions for 103 yards, his team-record fifth straight 100-yard game.

Panthers 26, Jets 15

CLEMSON, S.C. — The Carolina Panthers played like an expansion team Sunday, and it was still good enough to get the franchise's first victory. Anything, it seems, is good enough when the New York Jets are in town.

With rookie quarterback Kerry Collins playing easily his worst game yet, the Panthers used a strong showing on defense for a 26-15 victory that added to the Jets' woes.

Collins, who looked sharp in his first two starts, was intercepted twice by the Jets, including one by Mo Lewis, who returned it 15 yards for a touchdown.

NFC ROUNDUP

Tampa increases lead in Central

Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla. — Maybe it's time to stop using the word surprising to describe the first-place Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

The perennial NFC Central doormat won its fourth consecutive game to stay atop the division Sunday, getting a 51-yard field goal from Michael Husted 6:23 into overtime to beat the Minnesota Vikings 20-17.

Husted kicked the Bucs (5-2) into first place with a 53-yarder in the final minute of a 19-16 victory over Cincinnati last week, yet a lot of people weren't convinced Tampa Bay was as good as its record.

This week's heroics came a little more than two minutes after Minnesota's Fuad Revez, who kicked three field goals in regulation, missed a 53-yarder that would have vaulted the Vikings (3-3) into the division lead.

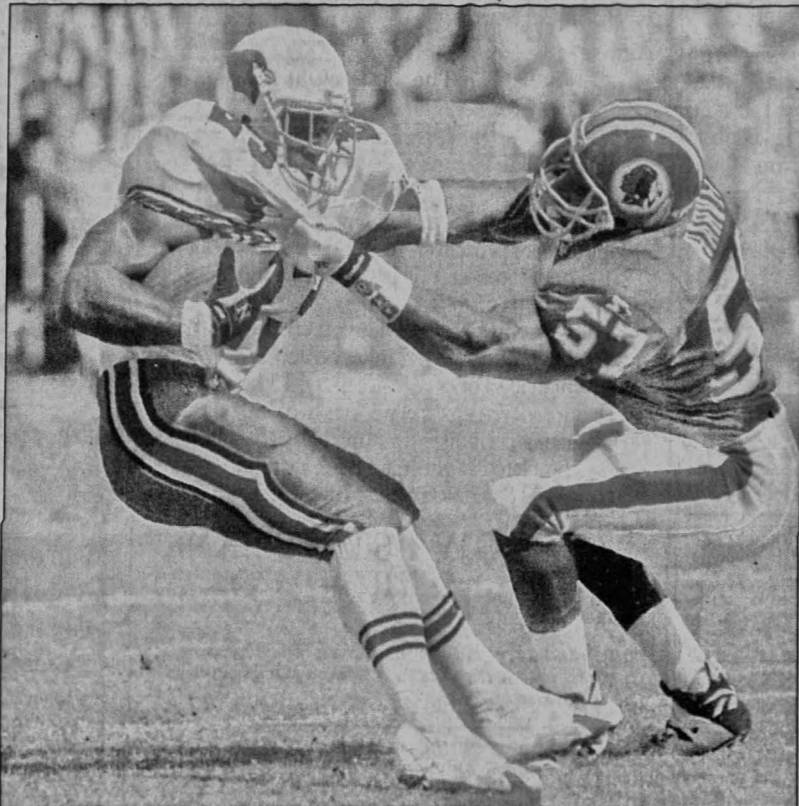

The miss gave Tampa Bay field position at its 43, and the Vikings (3-3) dug themselves into a deeper hole when safety Orlando Thomas recovered a fumble, only to lose the ball back to Tampa Bay when he fumbled after a 2-yard return to the Minnesota 45.

The four-game winning streak is the second longest in Tampa Bay's history, equaling one the team put together at the end of last season. The Bucs have won nine of their last 12 games, dating back to December, a stretch of success surpassed only by the San Francisco 49ers.

Once again, defense was the key. Martin Mayhew scored on a 78-yard fumble return in the second quarter and the Bucs also got a 6-yard touchdown run from Errict Rhett and a 36-yard field goal by Husted for a 17-6 lead.

Redskins 24, Cardinals 20

TEMPE, Ariz. — Dave Krieg and Garrison Hearst gave Arizona the last-minute lift they needed to end a three-game losing streak.

Associated Press

Cardinals running back Garrison Hearst is shirt-tackled by Redskins linebacker Ken Harvey and stopped for a loss Sunday.

Krieg completed a 1-yard touchdown pass to Garrison Hearst with 76 seconds remaining on Sunday as the Cardinals beat the Washington Redskins 24-20.

Starting at the Redskins' 42, Krieg passed 8 yards to Hearst, who then carried the ball five straight times. A 5-yard penalty moved the ball to the 21 before Krieg hit Frank Sanders for 20 yards. After one carry, Hearst swung into the left flat and caught the winning pass.

Gus Frerotte then drove the Redskins to the Arizona 34. On first down, a strong pass rush forced Frerotte to intentionally ground the ball with eight seconds left. But the penalty, if it occurs with two minutes or less in the game, calls for officials to run 10 seconds off the clock, so the game was over.

Eagles 17, Giants 14

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — With four quarterbacks bumbling their way through Sunday's game, it wasn't surprising that Eagles safety Mike Zordich stole the ball and the spotlight.

Zordich returned a fumble 58 yards for a touchdown and intercepted Tommy Maddox's pass at the Philadelphia 40 to snuff out a late New York rally, leading the Eagles to their third straight win, 17-14 over the Giants.

Philadelphia (4-3) had six sacks against Dave Brown and Maddox, his replacement, and limited New York (2-5) to just 66 second-half yards in a sloppy game played in winds gusting from 15-to-25 mph. Both teams had four turnovers.

Packers 30, Lions 21

GREEN BAY, Wis. — The Green Bay Packers didn't have to hold Barry Sanders to negative yardage this time. They buried the Detroit Lions too deep for it to matter.

Brett Favre threw for 342 yards, Edgar Bennett gained 148 yards from scrimmage and Chris Jacke kicked three field goals as the Packers built a 20-0 halftime lead and won 30-21 Sunday.

The Packers (4-2) used tight coverage to befuddle Lions quarterback Scott Mitchell, and George Teague's interception ended Detroit's last gasp with 1:11 left.

The Lions pulled to 27-21 in the final period on Herman Moore's leaping 8-yard touchdown catch on fourth down, his second of the day.

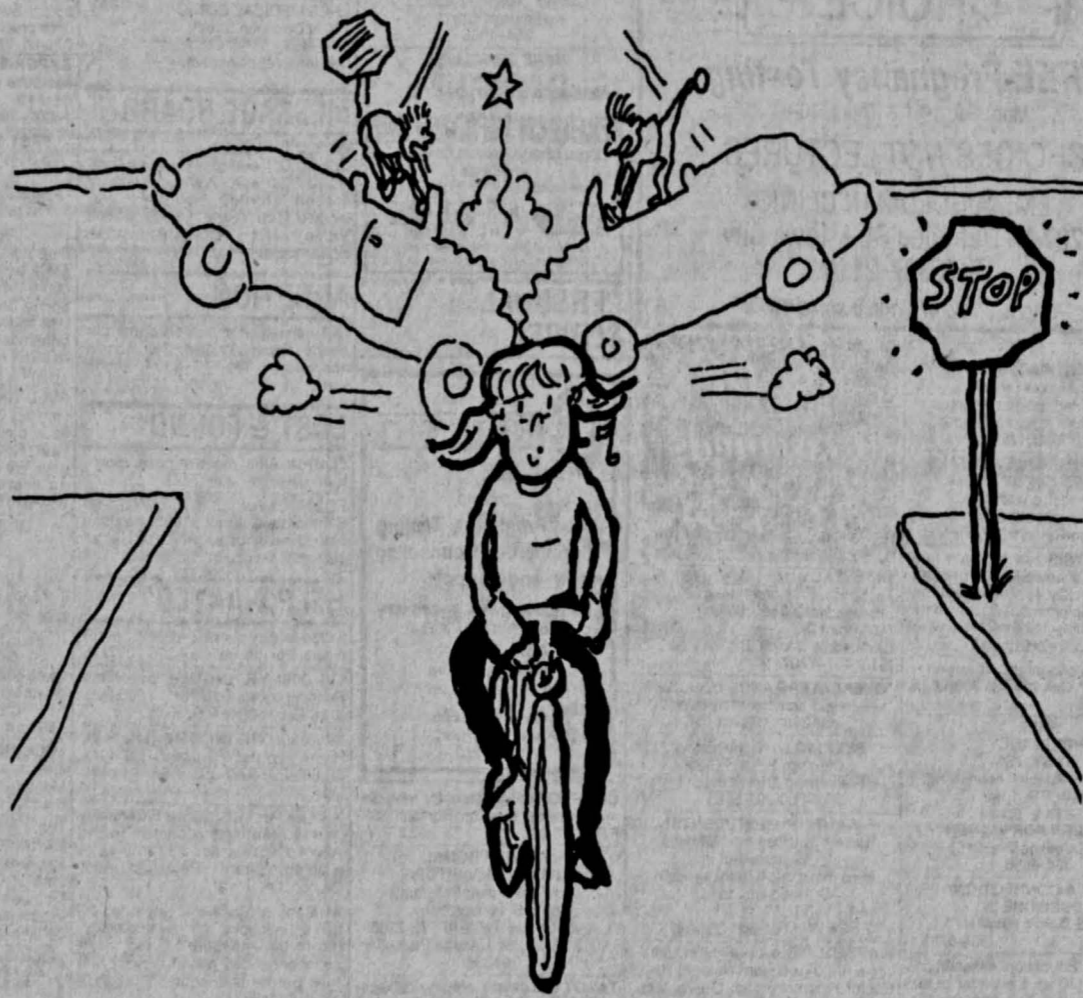

But the Packers, behind Charles Jordan's career-longest 35-yard catch to the Lions' 36, responded with Jacke's third field goal, from 20 yards with 7:58 left.

Favre, 7-2 against Detroit, completed 23 of 34 passes for two touchdowns. He was 15-for-19 for 215 yards and a TD in the first half alone.

Maddox, who replaced Brown on the Giants' second series of the second half, finished 6 of 23 with three interceptions and frequently was booed.

Northwestern's Dave Beazley stretches but can't reach a pass from Steve Schnur against Minnesota Saturday.

Top seeds continue to win with ease

Rick Warner
Associated Press

They are college football's version of the Fab Five.

Top-ranked Florida State, No. 2 Nebraska, No. 3 Florida, No. 4 Ohio State and No. 5 Southern Cal are all 6-0 and looking like legitimate contenders for the national championship. Three others teams — No. 7 Kansas, No. 8 Kansas State and No. 18 Iowa — also have perfect records. But except for Kansas' 40-24 win over No. 9 Colorado, they haven't done anything impressive enough to warrant serious consideration for the national title. At least not yet.

The Fab Five, on the other hand, continue to look fabulous.

On Saturday, Florida State whipped Wake Forest 72-13, Nebraska blanked Missouri 57-0, Florida beat No. 13 Auburn 49-38, Ohio State defeated No. 24 Wisconsin 27-16, and Southern Cal downed Washington State 26-14.

The easy victories were typical for Florida State and Nebraska, both winning by an average of about 40 points.

Florida has beaten SEC powers Tennessee and Auburn, Ohio State has defeated four teams in the current Top 25, and Southern Cal is giving up only 9.5 points per game.

No. 1 Florida St. 72, Wake Forest 13

At Tallahassee, Danny Kanell threw five TD passes in the first half and Warrick Dunn rushed for 112 yards as the Seminoles won their 28th straight conference game.

No. 2 Nebraska 57, Missouri 0

At Lincoln, Tommie Frazier ran for three scores, passed for two and became Nebraska's career touchdown leader as the Huskers beat Missouri for the 17th straight time.

No. 3 Florida 49, No. 13 Auburn 38

At Auburn, Danny Wuerffel threw for 380 yards and four TDs, including three to Chris Doering, as the Gators snapped a two-game losing streak to the Tigers.

No. 4 Ohio St. 27, No. 24 Wisconsin 16

Eddie George rushed for 141 yards and three touchdowns, including a 51-yard dash with 6:33 remaining.

No. 5 Southern Cal 26, Washington St. 14

At Los Angeles, Kyle Wachholtz and

Brad Otton each threw a TD pass and Southern Cal held off Washington State after building a 26-0 lead.

No. 6 Tennessee 41, No. 21 Alabama 14

Peyton Manning threw for three touchdowns and ran for another as Tennessee (6-1) ended a nine-game winless streak against Alabama.

No. 7 Kansas 34, Iowa St. 7

At Lawrence, L.T. Levine scored twice and Kansas (6-0) held national rushing leader Troy Davis to 120 yards, 80 below his average.

No. 11 Northwestern 27, Minnesota 17

At Minneapolis, Darnell Autry rushed for 169 yards and three touchdowns to lead Northwestern (5-1).

No. 12 Oregon 52, California 30

At Berkeley, Tony Graziani threw three TD passes to Josh Wilcox, and Ricky Whittle ran for 161 yards and two touchdowns. The Ducks (5-1) held Cal to minus-1 yard rushing.

No. 14 Virginia 44, Duke 30

At Charlottesville, Mike Groh threw for a school-record 346 yards and four touchdowns, and Tiki Barber gained 185 yards for the Cavaliers (6-2).

'Strange Days': cyberpunk extravaganza

Merie W. Wallace/Fox Pictures

Gender roles reverse when Mace (Angela Bassett) protects Lenny (Ralph Fiennes) in "Strange Days."

Tasha Robinson
The Daily Iowan

It's two days before the millennium and every third car in L.A. seems to be overturned and on fire in the streets. Army tanks and angry teens are competing for control of those streets, lashed on by the militant urgings of a wildly popular rap artist named Jeriko One. Activists — both religious and social — predict the year 2000 will bring about profound social change. But they're all likely to get more than they expected when Jeriko One is murdered.

This is the world of "Strange Days," an oddly timely cyberpunkish thriller that successfully taps into America's socioemotional flux over Rodney King, Reginald Denny, Mark Fuhrman and O.J., by way of the Unibomber, Ice-T and a little Trent Reznor. "Days" is a huge and crowded film that tries to take on a great deal of action and a great deal of subtext all at once, with spine-shaking results. A scorecard won't help audiences keep track of the players: They'll be so busy boggling at the explosive visuals and hairpin plot twists that they'll never remember to check the who's who.

The nominal center of this cinematic whirlwind is obligatory cyberpunk antihero Lenny Nero (Ralph Fiennes, "Schindler's List"). Nero's an ex-vice cop who's set up a one-man empire dealing in an illegal form of virtual reality called "wirejacking" or "play-back." By wearing something akin to a jeweled hairnet, his employees or dupes can have their experiences taped directly into mini-disks, which can then be played into other users' cerebral cortexes. The result: the ability to live someone else's life for up to 30 minutes at a time. The capacity to experience anything that someone else can be paid to try.

Naturally, users are mostly interested in experiencing great sex, exciting crime and "the big black" — death itself. Nero claims he doesn't deal in "black-jack," or snuff clips, but he buys them anyway. None of this puts him in the good graces of his best friend Mace (Oscar nominee Angela Bassett, "What's Love Got to Do With It"), a hard-nosed, straight-arrow limo driver/bodyguard who apparently fell in love with a somewhat less cynical version of Nero years ago. But he insists he's doing society a favor. "I'm your priest, I'm your shrink, I'm your main connection to the switchboard of the souls," he whispers to his marks.

The technology and its ramifications alone could make for a fascinating film, even if it hadn't already been done in "Brainstorm" in 1983. But no, this is an epic from the mind of James Cameron ("True Lies") so there's always got to be more. Cameron normally limits himself to one major genre, but he jumps through every hoop in sight to keep "Days" unpredictable. There's a mystery surrounding Nero's friend who has gotten into deep, deadly trouble. There's a bitter sort of romance, as Nero pursues his stone-cold ex-lover Faith (Juliette Lewis, "Natural Born Killers") through a maze of playback memories into a bleakly unpleasant future. There are moments that almost seem like documentary footage of L.A. before, during and after the riots. There's drama, there's horror, there's science fiction. And of course, Cameron returns to his one great love, the full-scale action/adventure extravaganza.

The acting in "Days" ranges from memorable to brilliant, with Bassett and Lewis leading the way. Bassett, above all, treads an amazingly fine line between macho and feminine, killer and lover. Lewis, similarly, reaches miles beyond the "bimbo vs. bitch" paradigm. Both are simply fascinating to watch.

But there are plenty of other things to distract the eye in "Days." Director Kathryn Bigelow ("Point Break") does a beautiful job of keeping balance through all the winding plotlines, but she probably went out of her way to keep things utterly overwhelming. She pops together more gorgeous, disconcerting, dissonant, unsettling images than 10 hours of MTV, and manages to somehow steer them all into a coherent whole that savages the senses until the credits roll. Wirejacking may be a lot more real than this, but it's hard to believe it could be more intense.

Fashion doesn't jive for humans and pets

ERICA

FASHION

He's a poodle with a mohawk, and they'll never call him Fifi again! From little diamond kitty collars to schnouzer sweaters and toy dogs dyed pink, animals are the unwilling victims of all our human hangups and good fashion intentions gone very, very bad.

Does it ever seem like pet owners pick their pets less for companionship than for accessory purposes? You know, the swinging bachelor who gets a big dog and walks it in areas heavily populated with "chicks" and blue-haired socialites who have replaced their clip-on mink stoles with Chihuahuas?

Psychologists say we often pick our human significant others because we're trying to find our own face on another person — whether that's true or not, there seems to be an undying human propensity for pet selection based on physical similarities. It's rather frightening, of course, to see a Henry Rollins type walking some übermacho dog like a pit bull, but even more frightening are the things people do to make their pets a more integral part of their fashion statement.

First and foremost is the salon look for pets — the "If-you-don't-look-good-we-don't-look-good" hair-care motto for the canine and feline worlds. I became familiarized with haircare for pets one hot summer day when my twin sister and I shaved our cat.

Because we felt sorry for our wee fur-bearing friend who couldn't strip down in the sweltering heat, we denuded him faster than Weyerhaeuser strips firs from the Cascades: the cat suffered much psychological damage and hid inside the house until all his fur returned. The shave job was unnatural, unnecessary and traumatizing, mostly because fur on cats and dogs is there for a reason. It should be left alone both for the animal's physical and mental health — hey, if you don't think the balls and puffs of a classic poodle cut aren't socially degrading, just venture down to your local mall to see poodle-perm humiliation in action.

Another heinous enactment of human fashion sense on animals includes the various items of apparel into which people sausage their animal friends. Bows and sweaters and booties and matching holiday outfits. Some folks try to justify dressing their pets with the "Hey, I'm just improving on evolution" defense. The defense really doesn't work because humans are the only animals stupid enough to go jogging in sub-zero blizzard weather — bears hibernate, squirrels hole up in trees and dogs and cats in the wild shack up for cozy nights at home when the weather gets bad.

One good thing emerges from the human desire to civilize our companion animals — and it's not hair bows or nail polish for Persians. Getting pets registered and properly identified with tags means there's a better chance of finding lost and stolen animals. Otherwise, save the studded leather collars and weird haircuts for your next excursion to a biker bar.
