UI to tackle student drinking

Kingsbury's arrest: Punishment pending

UI athletic officials will meet today to discuss what punishment UI basketball coach Tom Davis' replacement will receive for allowing his team to drink two hours after the December 7 tipping off of Iowa's game at Iowa State.

"Any time you have anything that's out of the ordinary like that, you're always a little disappointed," Iowa men's head basketball coach Tom Davis said.

"This is a big responsibility to have a team," said Davis, who was appointed to replace Tom Davis.

"They're only human, but it's a big responsibility to be in that position."

"I'm just trying to get back in the game," Davis said.

"I don't want to lose too many players," Davis said.

 Biosphere 2 falls into university hands **

Arthur Bottom

Application for incorporation of the Biosphere 2 Corporation has been filed at the office of the New Mexico Secretary of State, following "the on-going effort to find a home for Biosphere 2," the experimental environment created by the University of Arizona.

The agreement, to be announced tomorrow, gives Columbia five years to run Biosphere 2. The agreement, one of the "key steps" in bringing Biosphere 2 into existence, was signed last week in an "informal" meeting. Columbia University is taking over management of Biosphere 2, the glassed-in environment created by the University of Arizona.

The agreement gives Columbia five years to run the huge greenhouse in order to bring social, scientific legitimacy to a project that began as a "hot New Age ecological ark." The Biosphere 7 billion-dollar project was bankrupted by the project and then purchased from the bankrupt corporation to provide the basis for the new agreement.

Exact terms weren't disclosed, but officials and university sources agreed it was "in the millions" in excess of $15 million in 1987.

"We're thrilled," one university official said. But officials said Biosphere 2's "skeptic[s] are probably quite vocal."

"People pretty much tell me what they were and were not wearing in my car: 'Oh yeah, I can't find my underwear.' That's always pretty amusing. You gotta give 'em a hard time just 'cause you're making the ride of shame - "Oh, so you didn't want anyone to see you walking home, huh?"

Clintondenies GOP proposal to avert shutdown

Alan Frank

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Clinton administration refused Sunday to consider a seven-year balanced budget in the Republican plan for ending the government shutdown. That rejection, which would limit the break in Washington, supplied a prop for a suicide machine after years for the death of a man who died in Kevorkian's personal had happened.

The White House Chief of Staff Larry Pressler said on CNN Sunday that Monday morning's meeting was a "cabinet-level" session. "We are taking it very seriously, ", Pressler said.

The tough talk left little hope that the nuclear weapons would be in hold Tuesday when the main's executive to spend money and cut spending, money which President Clinton has threatened to veto.

Federal spending authority expires at midnight without tonight that will fix $16 billion and end the shutdown. Federal spending authority also lapses this week, which could crush financial markets.

Taking the chauvinist pigskin out of coverage

It’s no accident that "Monday Night Football" aims on Monday nights at 8. There’s a gold mine of female viewers for CBS and ABC in Monday nights here. The women are a guaranteed non-audience for ABC’s "Monday Night Football." It’s not that women aren’t interested in football in general but they are not interested in football from a chauvinistic ballet of male machismo. The thought of women being preconditioned to regard football as a male domain - beer commercials and near-naked cheerleaders - horrifies some of my conferees. The National Football League is the business of the football business; football is marketed and formulated as male dominated - business interests and mainstream interests keeping knowledgeable outside female viewers.

Whatever the reason, many women are not watching football on Monday nights and ABC would be smart to try to attract some female viewers. But how can they make "Monday Night Football" more attractive to women? It wouldn’t take a whole lot to turn it around. What’s missing over in the other sexual wards, while daughters help Mom clean up Thanksgiving dinner. Or at the other end of the spectrum, football is marketed and formulated as male dominated - business interests and mainstream interests keeping knowledgeable outside female viewers.

Fighting averted; Serbs give up land

Jeffrey Meehan

Associated Press

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Rebel Serb leaders agreed Sunday to submit the last remaining Serb stronghold in Croatia to an international military authority, reversing a crisis that had threatened to plunge the country into another round of fighting.

The agreement, signed in this morning’s news conference by Ivan Štakić, the head of the UN-mandated coalition of war crimes, and Serb militias in the town of Kupres, is a major victory for the UN and a boost for the peace process.

The agreement is a major step toward ending the conflict in the former Yugoslavia, which has left more than 10,000 people dead and millions of refugees. It also marks a key milestone in the international community’s efforts to bring peace to the region.

The agreement includes the release of all prisoners of war, the withdrawal of all military forces, and the establishment of a joint commission to oversee the process.

The agreement also commits both sides to a commitment to the peace process and the withdrawal of all military forces from the area.

The agreement is a major step forward in the peace process and is a significant achievement for the international community.

Vojislav Koštunica, the president of Serbia and Montenegro, welcomed the agreement and called it a “landmark moment” in the peace process.

ALCOHOL STUDY

"Part of the reason for the most recent alcohol-related deaths that have occurred recently -- the deaths of several students from breaking the alcohol monopoly," Ms. Martin said.

Gonzalez, 19, a UI sophomore, said he vida the practice of going to open-top fraternities such as Lambda Chi Alpha because they have "a more informal atmosphere with the drinking of alcohol."

Drinking was originally planned for this November, she said, "but now every time someone brings up the idea in any class, everybody gets this guy's stomach churning with just the thought of doing something like that."

But there are AIDS educational classes that may be more relevant to students who have AIDS than to those who have been infected with HIV. "Sometimes when we're put up with people who have had AIDS, like gay men, they are not happy to hear that they have HIV," said Smith. "We need to take a different approach and make students feel more comfortable talking about their status."

DrUNK BUS

The University Transit System was hit with the news that two people had been injured in a drunk bus accident in the early morning hours on Friday.

"The accident occurred in the early morning hours on Friday," said University Transit System spokesman Ron Smith. "We are still investigating the incident, but it appears to be an accident involving a drunk driver."

Northwestern holds off Iowa

21-year streak comes to an end

Mike Jenjet
The Daily Iowan

EVANSTON, Ill. — In a matter of seconds last Saturday, the tale of two teams turned on its head. Games switched sides...literally.

With three minutes remaining, an streaked Iowa traveled to the No. 18-ranked by four points, but the Hawkeyes were mounting a final drive sandwiched that could have turned the game.

That drive ended in Iowa’s end zone, however, when Northwestern defensive back Josh Mays returned a fumble 80 yards for the game-winning touchdown.

‘Think Big’ to must wins

Iowa’s Brad Sheehy bars through the Northwestern defense Saturday in Evanston, Ill. Sheehy rushed for 113 yards on runs to make Iowa this year’s All-America running back, surprising Terry MacNovel.

The Hawkeyes defeated the Wildcats 38-21, their fifth straight victory and 21st in 22 attempts.

One of Iowa’s biggest challenges this season is its strength in the trenches, and the Hawkeyes were able to overpower Northwestern’s offensive line.

Redshirt freshman offers Iowa a lift

David Schwartz
The Daily Iowan

For the first 32 minutes Sunday at Carver-Hawkeye Arena, Iowa found itself trailing in a battle with the Boilermakers. However, the Hawkeyes found themselves on top in the second half.

The Hawkeyes started the second half methodically, putting themselves in position on a 4-yard gain that led to a fumble-offense passing game. However, after a 1-yard line-out throw, the Hawkeyes needed to catch the ball.

HAWKEYE BASKETBALL

Redshirt freshman offers Iowa a lift

Over the last 13 seasons, the Hawkeyes have jumped up 20洋 in the national rankings.

Iowa will face Nebraska on Thursday in Lincoln, where the Hawkeyes have won 27 of their last 29 games. The Hawkeyes are looking to extend their win streak to 13 games.

The Hawkeyes were able to capitalize on the Boilermakers’ mistakes, including a turnover on downs near the end zone.

This is where the Frogs come up short.

The Frogs come up short as the 2011 Big 12 Conference season comes to a close.

The Frogs fell to the No. 4-ranked team for the second time this season.

The Frogs were hopeful to make it three in a row, but the No. 4-ranked team was too much for the Frogs to handle.

The Frogs, led by7-3-0 record, are now 9-2-0 overall.

The Hawkeyes were able to defeat the Golden Gophers, 31-20, on Saturday at Williams Arena.

The Hawkeyes were able to overcome the Gophers’ early lead and go on to win the game.

Iowa junior fencer Dara Adamek was named the Big Ten Freshman of the Year on Sunday.

Iowa’s defense held the Golden Gophers to seven points in the second half, helping the Hawkeyes come back from a 13-3 deficit.

The Hawkeyes improved to 6-3 overall and are now 3-1 in the Big Ten.

The Hawkeyes will face Minnesota on Friday at 7 p.m. at Williams Arena.

Iowa’s defense will be tested by the Golden Gophers, who are 6-2-0 overall and 3-0 in the Big Ten.

Men's swim team devours Wisconsin to remain undefeated

The Iowa men's swimming team outscored the Wisconsin Badgers 207-106 Tuesday in the final regular season meet at the University of Iowa Aquatics Center.

The Hawkeyes grabbed victories across the board with top finishes in the men's 100-yard breaststroke, the men's 100-yard butterfly, the men's 100-yard backstroke and the men's 100-yard freestyle.

The meet was moved to its original-scheduled Saturday date because of snow, but was still held indoors at the Aquatic Center as temperatures were in the teens.

Iowa will head to Michigan this Saturday, November 17 and 18. Iowa will play a doubleheader against Michigan at 5:30 p.m. Saturday and 4:30 p.m. Sunday. The meet was moved from its original-scheduled Saturday start because of snow, but was still held indoors as temperatures were in the teens.

Chris Mitchell, who swam a 35th-place finish, said, "We played with a lack of heart, which the Hawkeyes finished 207-106 Tuesday in the final regular season meet at the University of Iowa Aquatics Center.

Shaw reaches milestone

Chris Snider

The Daily Iowan

Late in the first quarter on Saturday, Sedrick Shaw dove for his longest run of the day, 41 yards, against conservative Michigan State defensive linemen.

After the run, Shaw did not quite make it to the end zone, but he was brought down for a 2-yard touchdown. This run was followed by a 50-yard kick return, which brought the Hawkeyes to the 1-yard line. The drive ended with the last play of the game.

"I feel like my year was just now starting," Shaw said. "I feel like the worst of it is behind me and I feel like I'm feeling better."

"I don't like to lose, so it's been a rough year for me, but I feel like I'm getting better," Shaw added.

Sophomore Adrian Autry returned a punt on Saturday for 55 yards, including a one-yard touchdown. This was Autry's second punt return for a touchdown of the season.

"It's just heartbreaking," Autry said. "I mean, I was really excited, and then all of a sudden ... "

"I feel like my year was just now starting," Shaw said. "I feel like the worst of it is behind me and I feel like I'm feeling better."

‘Ace Ventura’ hits potty shots

Nathan Graygeer

Through Jim Carrey’s new comedy, "Ace Ventura: When Nature Calls," the audience is forced to listen to a raccoon make dirty jokes.

When the first "Ace Ventura" was released, Jim Carrey was a relatively unknown comedian. The film, which included "The Mask" and "Death and Donald," was well-received by critics, but had a lower box office than "When Nature Calls." However, Carrey’s career took off after the success of the first film. In "Ace Ventura: When Nature Calls," Carrey returns as the goofy "Ace Ventura" who is forced to find a sacred object known as the "Muskogee Art, Spirituality and Culture." The race is on to find the missing object before it falls into the wrong hands.
