PEROT'S PARTY EXPECTING THIRD-PARTY RALLY:

The federal budget battle and government shutdown will lead to more support for a third-party movement, Iowa supporters of Ross Perot's new political party, the Reform Party, say. Perot supporters from across the state met in Iowa City Sunday to begin organizing the 1996 caucuses and elections.

BOND IS BACK: Times have changed. The Iron Curtain has fallen to a new world order and the power plays of political agendas have been replaced by ruthless plots for profit. The war may have changed, but one thing, at least in the cinematic world, remains the same: Bond. James Bond.

President search: A $180,000 bill

Committee spent $18,000 on meals

Sarah Lueck
The Daily Iowan

The UI spent nearly as much money finding new UI President Mary Sue Coleman as they will spend annually to keep her here.

The UI spent a total of $181,175 for the search process, including $43,562 in travel and meeting expenses for the 21-member search committee and $18,203 in food purchases. The UI also doled out $82,212 to the Dallas-based search firm Korn/Ferry.

Coleman's salary will be $190,000, plus accommodations in the President's Residence.

The UI was frugal with its expenditures, said Iowa City resident Nancy Willis, a member of the

Ann Rhodes, UI vice president for University Relations

Presidential Search and Screen Advisory Committee.

"The costs were not exorbitant," she said. "There were a lot of off-campus interviews, so there were travel expenses. And we ate."

The 1988 search for former UI president Hunter Rawlings III, at $110,836, was considerably less expensive than Coleman's search. However, UI vice president for University Relations Ann Rhodes said there were several factors that made this year's search more expensive.

She attributed much of the increase to the higher number of off-campus interviews. She also said in the eight years since the last search, prices in general have gone up, and the committee worked hard to do a broad search, soliciting applications from many candidates.

"The effect of that was opening up the search," Rhodes said.

Although the UI spent a considerable sum for the process, it's important to focus on the outcome of the search, Rhodes said.

"We have a terrific president; it was worth every penny," she said.

Baby cut from womb of slain mother survives

Brian Bergstein
Associated Press

ADDISON, Ill. — Three people were charged Sunday with killing a pregnant woman and two of her three children, and slicing open the woman's womb to remove her infant son, police said.

The infant, named Elijah by relatives, was found with one of the suspects Friday, authorities said. The child was in good health at a hospital.

DuPage County Coroner Richard Ballinger refused to comment on whether the baby was delivered before or after his mother died.

Elijah was found hours after 28-year-old Deborah Evans — who was due today — and two of her children were found murdered. Evans' third child, 19-month-old Jordan, was found unharmed, shaking in a back bedroom of the slain woman's apartment.

Joshua Evans, 8, (left) was found dead Friday in Maywood, Ill., about 12 hours after his sister Samantha, 10, and nine-months-pregnant mother Deborah were found dead in their home in Addison, Ill., a Chicago suburb. Evans' unborn child survived the attack.

Tables turn: Once-homeless woman houses needy

Stacy Forrest

When Delphia Nelson came to Iowa City in 1988 after leaving an abusive husband, she found herself homeless and living out of her car with four children.

After staying in a shelter for 11 months, she finally found a home of her own and began helping people in the same situation she was in just a short time ago.

Nelson, who receives about $1,300 a month from Social Security income for herself and her daughter and Aide For Dependent Children for her other children, opens her home and heart to the homeless of Iowa City.

This Thanksgiving will be another example of Nelson's generosity as needy people descend upon her home for a traditional meal. Nelson said people hear about her free-to-all feast by word

Di shines in upcoming TV interview

Sue Leeman

LONDON — She doesn't want a divorce, values her royal role and desperately wants her children to be happy. And she understands her husband's decision to confess his infidelity to millions of TV viewers.

It's a resigned, reasonable, regal Princess Diana who emerges from a surprise tell-all interview with the BBC, The Sunday Telegraph reported, publishing what it said were quotes gleaned from unnamed "television insiders."

The interview will be broadcast in the U.S. Friday at 8 p.m. on ABC's "20/20."

The BBC dismissed the newspaper's account of the encounter as "total speculation."

"Only eight people have seen the program, none of them has talked about it and no one else has been given any indication of what is in it," a BBC statement said.

In the interview, to be broadcast in Britain tonight, Diana concedes that her marriage to Prince Charles is over, but asked if she wants a divorce, she reportedly replies, "No. There are two children involved here."

Charles and Diana, who married in 1981 and separated in December 1992, have two sons, Prince William, 13, and 11-year-old Prince Harry.

"It's sad when a marriage breaks up, but there it is. These things happen," she reportedly said.

Diana, 34, also says she "understands" Charles' decision to reveal in a 1994 television interview that he broke his marriage vows and committed adultery, The Sunday Telegraph reported.

The princess "attributes no blame to him on that account," said the newspaper, whose editor, Dominic Lawson, is married to a close friend of Diana.

The Sunday Telegraph said Diana rejects allegations that in pursuing an independent life she is trying to undermine the monarchy.

"Why should I wish to destroy my children's future?" it quoted her as saying.

Diana reportedly has caused consternation at Buckingham Palace by granting the interview without first consulting the royal family. News reports say Diana's press secretary, who wasn't informed, is preparing to quit.

There has been public speculation that she gave the interview as an act of revenge against Charles, and to improve her reputation, tarnished by reports of royal marital squabbles and her friendships with other men.

The Sunday Telegraph said the BBC did not directly question Diana about her friendship with England rugby captain Will Carling. Carling and his wife separated in September after intense media coverage of his friendship with the princess.

However, she is asked about some 300 telephone calls she is alleged to have made to the home of another friend, art dealer Oliver Hoare. This the princess dismisses with a curt, "How would I have had the time?" said The Sunday Telegraph.

Contemplating a planned visit to Argentina, she reportedly defines her role as "supporting the country around the world."

"I'm not going to let the country down. I'm not going to run away," The Sunday Telegraph quoted the princess as saying.

Jerry Garcia: Now a celestial being

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Spacey in life. Spacey in death.

An asteroid has been named for Jerry Garcia, the Grateful Dead leader who died Aug. 9 at age 33.

Two Deadheads — Simon Radford at the Radio Astronomy Observatory in Tucson, Ariz., and Ed Olszewski at the University of Arizona's Steward Observatory — began searching after Garcia's death for a way to honor him.

Fellow astronomer Tom Gehrels offered an asteroid he found in 1985 but had never named.

The "Garcia" asteroid is 100 miles across, orbits between Mars and Jupiter and can only be seen with a high-powered telescope. The International Astronomical Union, keeper of celestial names, confirmed the name Nov. 7.

Gary officials propose Graceland- like monument to the Gloved One GARY, Ind. (AP) — Elvis fans have Graceland in Memphis. Now devotees of his son-in-law could get a shrine of their own, right here in Indiana.

City officials are pushing to turn Michael Jackson's modest boyhood home in Gary into a museum, surrounded by a rock 'n' roll amusement park.

"I've been to Graceland. I've felt the excitement," said outgoing Mayor Thomas Barnes. "I think the dynamics of Graceland suggest how you can successfully build around a famous personality — and that's what we hope to do here."

Jackson family members support the project and investors are reportedly showing interest.

Jackson is married to Presley's daughter, Lisa Marie Presley.

Harding agitated with booing Portland crowd

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Tonya Harding is trashing her hometown.

"Portland people have been the worst to me out of any place in this whole, entire world," she told "Inside Edition" in an interview airing today. "It's sad for me because now I don't care what Portland thinks."

The former Olympic figure skater convicted in the attack on rival Nancy Kerrigan was booed and pelted with empty plastic bottles during her last public appearance in Portland, a Sept. 4 performance with her band.

Harding, who was banned from figure skating, plans Dec. 23 to marry Michael Smith, 29, a machinist who shares her love of horses.

Harding is divorced from Jeff Stone, formerly Jeff Gillooly, who served six months at a prison boot camp following the January 1994 attack on Kerrigan at the U.S. figure skating championship in Detroit.

English teachers present Gingrich, Dole with unhighest honor

SAN DIEGO (AP) — English teachers bestowed their unhighest commendation on House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., saying he used doublespeak in the GOP "Contract With America" and his recent book, "To Renew America."

Gingrich wrote in the book, for example, true Americans should not blame problems on other people.

But the Georgia Republican blames bureaucrats and the liberal elite for America's problems, said Charles Suhor, deputy executive director for the National Council of Teachers of English.

Harding

The contract's "Job Creation and Enhancement Act," Suhor added, has nothing to do with job creation, but rather reducing the capital gains tax.

For 21 years, the council has given its Doublespeak Award to public figures who use words in such a way that is deceptive, evasive, euphemistic, confusing or self-contradictory.

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., and an academic group promoting bias-free writing were the runners-up for this year's awards, announced Friday. Neither Dole's nor Gingrich's offices returned telephone calls.

Bono returns to singing roots for government appeal

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rep.

Sonny Bono turned back into a singer to raise money for a fellow Republican.

Bono had planned to attend a fund-raiser Thursday for Rep. Martin Hoke at the Rock 'n' Bono Roll Hall of Fame and Museum, but the budget stalemate kept them both in Washington.

So they sang a duet parody, "We Need You Babe," by telephone to 400 Hoke supporters at the event, to the tune of Sonny and Cher hit "I've Got You Babe."

Bono: "They want to tax and spend all day, and run up bills our kids and grandkids pay."

Hoke: "They think that thrift's our big defect, just for once they're politically incorrect."

Comic books and collectibles bring big bucks at auction

NEW YORK (AP) — Legendary Marvel Comics writer and editor Stan Lee recalls so many comic books and illustration boards piling up in his office that staffers would give them away to delivery boys, messengers — anybody who walked through.

"We'd burn it. We tore it up. We didn't know what to do with it. And the same with the old magazines," Lee recalled. "Now, of course, I could kick myself. I didn't have the vision, the foresight to save this stuff."

Lee, now chairperson of Marvel Comics and Marvel Films, watched with a sentimental eye Saturday as a parade of superheroes he made famous went on the block at Christie's East auction house, where artistic taste usually runs to impressionist painters rather than the X-Men and the Fantastic Four.

The sale marked the first time Marvel Entertainment Group, the largest comic book publisher in North America, has opened its vaults for an auction of animation art and other collectibles.

The highest price of the auction, $27,600, was paid for a 1995 Harley-Davidson Fatboy motorcycle with illustrations of superhero Ghost Rider on the gas tank and fenders. The cycle, painted by Marvel artist Bill Sienkiewicz, had been used for promotions.

U.S., China relations back on track

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — U.S.-China relations are "back to normal" after a summer of strife, Chinese President Jiang Zemin said Saturday after talks with Vice President Al Gore.

In meetings with six other leaders before Sunday's Pacific Rim economic summit, Jiang also sought to defuse tensions with the Philippines in the South China Sea, demanded Japan apologize for World War II and promised that China's economic development would make the world safer.

Washington has refused Jiang an invitation for an official visit to the United States, saying relations are not good enough to merit one.

But Jiang talked with President Clinton at the United Nations in New York last month and was to meet with him again at the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation summit. Clinton canceled the Japan trip to deal with the U.S. budget crisis, and Jiang saw Gore instead.

Jiang seemed pleased with his talks with the vice president, according to a summary by spokesperson Chen Jian.

Gore said the New York meeting, described at the time as cool, was "a breakthrough," and Chen said U.S. policy toward China was one of "engagement; not confrontation."

Youth crimes rise by 7 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crimes reported to police declined slightly for the third year in a row during 1994, led by an 8 percent drop in violent crime in cities with more than a million residents, the FBI reports.

But arrests of youths under age 18 for violent crimes surged by 7 percent. "That's the dark cloud behind the silver lining of the nice drop" in total reported crime, said Alfred Blumstein, a professor at Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburgh. "There's less crime from older offenders but more crime among younger offenders."

"This is the calm before the crime storm," said James Alan Fox, dean of Northeastern University's college of criminal justice in Boston.

"An impending crime wave of teen violence is facing us as the adolescent population begins to rise in America. There are 39 million children under age 10, more than we've had for decades."

The FBI report, released Sunday, showed the number of teens under 18 arrested for murder rose 158.3 percent from 1985 through 1994.

COMPLEMENTS THANKSGIVING DINNER

Beaujolais '95: At a toast near you

Christie Midthun
The Daily Iowan

While Beaujolais Nouveau may not have graced the pilgrims' table on the first Thanksgiving, many modern-day turkey gobblers will probably complement their feast with this fruity wine.

The Beaujolais Nouveau of 1995 premiered at liquor stores and groceries last Thursday. This yearly event is something many local wine connoisseurs eagerly await, said Wally the wine guy for John's Grocery, 401 E. Market St.

"I started getting calls two weeks ago from people wondering when it was coming in," Wally said.

The store received 50 cases of the new vintage wine and has already gone through half of them since Thursday. The remaining 25 cases are the last of the wine John's will have this year. Wally said he has to decide early in September how many cases the store will need.

"I've been working in wine retail for 10 years in Iowa City," Wally said. "I have a pretty good idea of how much will go."

The Beaujolais Nouveau is a fruity wine made from grapes that are harvested every fall in the Beaujolais region of France. About a third of the wine produced makes its way to the United States around the third Thursday in November, just in time for Thanksgiving, Wally said.

Georges DuBoeuf, the largest producer of Beaujolais, said this year's harvest began on Sept. 6 with 50,000 harvesters hand-picking the grapes. The hot, fairly dry weather in July and August made for an unusual and tasty crop.

Because of rainfall in September, this year's crop just missed having an exceptional vintage. But this will not affect the wine's compatibility with traditional holiday dishes, Wally said.

"It's continuing the millennium-old harvest celebration," Wally said. "You can eat all the corn you want but it's not going to make you feel as giddy."

Wally suggested the Beaujolais be slightly chilled and best if served with fresh fruit, ham or turkey.

The wine's tart fruitiness is often the ideal complement for the cherry or pineapple glazes and cranberries which accompany the meats, he said.

"It's the first wine of the season," Wally said. "It should be purchased and enjoyed not because of how good the wine is but because it's the new wine of the year."

This type of wine dispels the myth that an expensive wine is a good wine, Wally said. He explained that the more expensive wines need to be aged; otherwise, the consumer tastes the bitterness of the grape skin. Wines like Beaujolais aren't meant to be aged and are softer in flavor.

Joe Knight, UI law professor and wine connoisseur, said while Beau-

Beaujolais isn't his favorite, he heard this year was rated a vintage year.

PUNCHES THROWN

Anything goes in Congressional disputes

Jim Abrams
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Congressional decorum has been shattered recently by everything from the childish to the offensive as the stakes have escalated in the debate over America's future.

"I've never seen things as bad as they are now," said Rep. Jim Moran, a three-term Democrat from Virginia. Moran knows firsthand. Last week he grappled with Rep. Randy "Duke" Cunningham, R-Calif., just off the House floor after the two exchanged insults on the floor.

The encounter between Moran, a former amateur boxer, and Cunningham, a former fighter pilot, preceded one of the most contentious days in the House in recent memory Saturday.

Rep. John Mica, R-Fla., had his words "taken down," or expunged from the record, after he said, in reference to President Clinton, "We are here to nail the little bugger down." Under a 200-year tradition in which lawmakers still refer to each other as "gentleman" and "gentlewoman," it's not permitted to impugn the character of the president or fellow members.

That didn't stop Democrats, who occupied the floor in a show of solidarity after Republicans went home, from putting in the speaker's chair a cartoon poster of House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., wearing diapers.

That didn't help the mood of quick-tempered Rep. Bill Thomas, R-Calif., chairperson of the House Oversight Committee. He ordered the microphones turned off so the Democrats couldn't be heard and threatened to fire a House employee who turned them back on.

Most of the fireworks have been in the House, whose members have been in the vanguard of the Republican drive to radically cut some government programs and balance the budget in seven years.

The verbal combat reached a peak in the past week with the showdown over the budget, but skirmishes began within hours of the convening of Congress last January when the new majority Republicans began to ram through — and the Democrats to resist — the GOP's "Contract With America" agenda.

Say something.

You have better things to do than babysit! Don't let someone else's rude behavior ruin your sleep, studying or fun. Here are a few tips—try 'em out:

- ✓ Say something...the next day. They will understand and remember what you are saying when they are sober and more reasonable. Plus, it's amazing the way a hangover can bring your message home!
- ✓ Say something...objective. Tell the person exactly what happened that bothered you, without being judgmental—for example, "Last night when you came home, you were so drunk you couldn't take care of yourself. You were loud, dropping things, and got sick in the sink. I was trying to sleep and instead ended up babysitting you. I was worried, I didn't like it, and I don't want to do it again!"
- ✓ Say something...and clear the air. Saying something can feel awkward, but it feels better than keeping it inside.
- ✓ Finally, if you or a friend feel worried about your drinking, get some help. For answers to your questions, or for a free confidential evaluation, call Health Iowa at 355-8394.

That's disgusting.

"My roommate came home very drunk. I didn't want to deal with it because I had three tests the next day, and had planned to study... She really stunk and was disgusting... I especially didn't want her to puke in my room. I didn't speak to her at all the next day."

* This quote was taken from a student who participated in the Harvard School of Public Health Alcohol Study, 1995.

Take a stand.

54% of UI students have had to 'babysit' a drunken student... and you can bet they didn't like it! Nobody wants to deal with a wasted friend... they've got bad breath and look gross.

Speak up.

If you've been 'babysitting' a friend who drinks too much, maybe it's time you said something. Think about it — if you and the rest of the 54% who babysat this weekend speak up, maybe you'll only have to say something once. After all, you're adults, right?

U.S. TROOPS WOULD ENFORCE ACCORD

Agreement or not; Peace talks near end

Barry Schweid
Associated Press

DAYTON, Ohio — Bosnia peace talks moved toward a windup Sunday with indications that spirited American mediation would produce an agreement to settle a 43-month war in which an estimated quarter-million people have perished.

As Secretary of State Warren Christopher tried to resolve remaining differences with Balkan leaders, U.S. officials said at least four key issues had been settled and were in a draft agreement being prepared for initialing at a ceremony today.

"Clearly, we are approaching the end," State Department spokesperson Nicholas Burns said. Cautiously, he told reporters, "it could be an initialing ceremony or it could be a press conference that marks the end of these peace talks without an agreement."

If there is an accord, President Clinton is pledged to contribute some 20,000 U.S. troops to help enforce it. The House voted Friday to deny the administration the funds for deployment. House Speaker Newt Gingrich said Sunday "the president has done almost nothing to explain to the American people why his Bosnia policy makes sense."

The agreement would set up two ethnic republics in the former Yugoslav republic, one controlled jointly by Muslims and Croats, the other by Serbs. The central government would be in charge of foreign affairs and little else.

There would be a collective presidency and the United States would help arm and train the Bosnian army, U.S. officials told the AP.

A draft agreement provides also for a separation of rival armies with a demilitarized zone four kilometers wide and for the Bosnian Serbs to retain control of Srebrenica and Zepa, Muslim enclaves they overran even though the United Nations had designated the zones to be safe havens.

Last week, the U.N. war crimes tribunal indicted Radovan Karadzic and Ratko Mladic, the Bosnian Serbs' political and military leaders, as being in control of killing squads that murdered thousands of Muslim civilians in Srebrenica after it fell in July.

Chief prosecutor Richard Goldstone urged the settlement require the parties to turn them in for trial along with some 50 other war crime suspects. Burns has said the United States was insisting on cooperation with the tribunal, but he has declined to say how specific the provision in the accord may be.

Egyptian Embassy in Pakistan bombed

Kathy Gannon
Associated Press

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan — A suicide bomber rammed his explosive-packed truck into the Egyptian Embassy on Sunday, killing 15 people and wounding at least 59 others.

Islamic militants claimed responsibility for the attack aimed at Egypt's secular regime, the United States' most powerful Arab ally. In Washington, the White House said the United States offered to help find the culprits.

In Cairo, Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak decried "the shedding of innocent people's blood." The attack came 10 days before Egyptians vote for a new parliament in elections Islamic militants have urged them to boycott.

Most of the dead were Pakistani security guards and visa seekers, although four Egyptians — one diplomat and three security guards — were among the dead carried out of the embassy on stretchers, hospital officials said.

Survivors said there were two explosions: a smaller blast followed by a second, much more powerful explosion. The explosions destroyed the entire visa section, leaving behind a 10-foot crater.

The second blast did most of the damage, blowing out windows in nearby buildings, sending chunks of concrete and shrapnel flying for several yards. An entire wall of the two-story building was blown away. A shattered picture of Mubarak hung crookedly on a damaged wall.

"I was standing outside the gate and the body of a police officer came flying over the wall and landed beside me," said Police Constable Mohammed Iqbal, a security guard for Egypt's Ambassador Mohammed Noman Galal.

Galal, who was unharmed, said "the bomb blasts were a ghastly act by someone lacking basic moral and human values."

Within moments of the attack dozens of people rushed to the embassy compound to search for survivors. They dug through the rubble with their hands, pulled at twisted pieces of metal and tossed chunks of cement aside.

Several stunned embassy employees stumbled over the rubble, some shouting for help, others weeping. A dozen ambulances raced to the scene.

Army troops cordoned off the street outside the Egyptian embassy. Soldiers in machine-gun mounted vehicles took positions in the diplomatic enclave, where most foreign missions are located.

Egypt's militant Islamic opposition group al-Gamma al-Islamiya, or Islamic Group, claimed responsibility for the explosion, Interior Minister Nasrullah Babaar said.

Babaar took responsibility for a "lapse in security arrangements" at the embassy.

"My head hangs in shame over the death of so many people," he said in a statement carried by the state-run news agency.

Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto sent her condolences to Egypt's president and vowed to "do everything possible to bring them (terrorists) to justice."

In Washington, the White House called the bombing a "murderous attack." President Clinton offered condolences for those killed and wounded and pledged to convey his outrage to Mubarak and Bhutto.

"The United States stands ready to work with the governments of Pakistan and Egypt to help determine those responsible for this crime and bring them to justice," the White House statement said.

Foreign Minister Sardar Aseff Ali said on national television the suicide bomber may have blasted his way through the embassy gate.

Pakistan is reviewing its security arrangements for foreign missions in the capital, said Gul Hanif, a foreign ministry spokesperson.

Associated Press

An employee of the Egyptian Embassy walks amidst the debris left following an explosion at the diplomatic compound in Islamabad, Pakistan Sunday.

A spokesperson for the U.S. Embassy, several blocks away from the bombing site, said security arrangements were being reviewed, but they had no complaints about the protection provided by Pakistan.

"We're satisfied with what Pakistan provides, but we also make our own arrangements with contract security personnel," said spokesperson Jack McCreary.

Since signing an extradition treaty with Egypt about a year ago, Pakistan has expelled several Egyptian nationals from the country, many of whom were believed to be involved in militant Islamic groups trying to overthrow Mubarak.

American skiers stray from trail, struggle to survive bitter blizzard

Thierry Boinet
Associated Press

GRENOBLE, France — American student Brent Van Hala hiked out into the snow seeking help after a blizzard stranded him and six of his friends on a mountain during an Alpine ski trip.

"It was after I left that they died," Van Hala, 21, said Sunday from his hotel in Tignes in a telephone interview.

Two of the students perished, and four others remained hospitalized Sunday in serious condition, suffering from hypothermia; their body temperatures had dropped to about 86 degrees. Two of the students, including Van Hala, have frostbite.

The seven were juniors at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, studying in Luxembourg. They went to the ski slope in Tignes, near the Italian border, for a weekend trip, but got lost and spent a terrifying night stranded in the storm.

The group was ill-equipped for the trip up the 8,000-foot Grande Motte mountain, wearing jeans and sweaters instead of ski suits, the ski slope manager said.

After they strayed from the marked trail, a blizzard hit, forcing them to spend the night in the shelter of some over-hanging rocks.

The next morning at dawn, Van

Hala, of North Canton, Ohio, spotted the ski lift line in the distance and trekked down the slope for help. An Alpine rescue squad rushed to the mountain by helicopter.

By the time it arrived, Rebecca Andrew, 20, of Bath, Ohio, and Christopher Eggerton, 21, of Mansfield, Ohio, had frozen to death.

On Friday, while the skiers were on the slope, operators shut down the lift two hours early, at 2 p.m., due to the storm. Security teams then surveyed the slope for stragglers.

The students went undetected because they had left the trail, said Roger Bouzon, assistant manager of the Tignes ski slope.

He also said the group left its equipment 300 yards from the edge of the trail and hiked 500 yards further to spend the night.

"It was a wrong turn by us. There was no fault on the part of the operators," Van Hala said. He refused to comment any further.

The four injured were recovering in three French hospitals Sunday.

The Miami University program sends 75 students annually to study at the John E. Dolibois European Center in Luxembourg. The university is planning memorial services in Luxembourg and in Oxford, 31 miles northwest of Cincinnati.

MAJORITY OF STATE'S GOP VOTE AGAINST FRONT-RUNNER

Dole wins with only 33 percent of votes in Florida poll

John King
Associated Press

NASHUA, N.H. — Even in victory, there was cause for Bob Dole to worry after Florida's weekend Republican straw poll: 33 percent isn't a particularly strong showing for a front-runner.

And some voters who broke from the Senate majority leader at the end raised troubling questions about his commitment to the conservative cause.

But as the campaign moved quickly Sunday to the site of the first presidential primary next year, there were plenty of reminders that as front-runners go, Dole may be fragile — but he is also quite formidable.

For starters, there was word the field isn't likely to have a final, dramatic entry: House Speaker Newt Gingrich indicated he would announce shortly after Thanksgiving he won't run for president next year.

And, with 85 days to Iowa's caucuses and 93 to New Hampshire's primary, there was compelling evidence of the organizational advantages Dole is counting on in next year's busy stretch of early primaries: the Republican governors of those two states, and 13 others, are behind Dole.

"This organization is deep and it is motivated," said New Hampshire Gov. Steve Merrill, who endorsed Dole two weeks ago.

"It is absolutely crystal clear that Dole is going to be nominated," said Mississippi Gov. Kirk Fordice, who is likely to back Dole soon.

Wisconsin Gov. Tommy Thompson, who is neutral in the presidential race, wouldn't go as far as Fordice but said: "Dole has got to stumble badly before anyone else will have a shot."

Dole's rivals predict he ultimately

Gingrich opts against running in '96

Kim Mills
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The flirting is over for House Speaker Newt Gingrich: He said Sunday he won't enter the 1996 presidential race.

Gingrich, R-Ga., had dropped broad hints last week that he was leaning against running. On Sunday, in classic Washington fashion, Gingrich said on national TV he'd made a decision, told the country what it was but said he wouldn't actually announce it for a few more days.

"Probably, we're going to announce I would say early next week or the week after Thanksgiving that I'm not going to run," Gingrich, R-Ga., said on ABC's

"This Week with David Brinkley."

The speaker said his wife, Marianne, and younger daughter were in Washington on Sunday and implied they had spent some time debating the question.

"We were going to get together over Thanksgiving and talk about this and make a final decision," Gingrich said.

He acknowledged Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., is leading the GOP pack, having won a straw poll in Florida on Saturday.

Gingrich was the last credible holdout on the Republican side after retired Gen. Colin Powell announced Nov. 8 he would not enter the fray but that he would join the Grand Old Party.

will stumble, and suggested Saturday's Florida results proved him vulnerable.

Texas Sen. Phil Gramm, who placed second, noted that 67 percent of the Florida GOP activists voted against Dole, hardly a ringing endorsement. Former Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander noted Dole has slipped behind President Clinton in head-to-head polls, and predicted GOP voters ultimately would turn to someone from outside Washington as a stronger challenger to President Clinton.

Dole had hoped for a big Florida win to create the aura his nomination was inevitable, and to convince GOP donors to give up on Gramm and Alexander. But his final total was below what aides had predicted, even below the campaign's count of solidly committed delegates, suggesting his pitch wasn't very convincing.

Handicapping the results, Gingrich said on ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley" that Dole "didn't do quite as well as he wanted to, but he's still the front-runner."

Florida GOP chairperson Tom Slade suggested "everyone south of third (place) ought to pack it in." One or two of them may do so before the year ends, a period also critical to Gramm, Alexander and anyone else who hopes to emerge as a threat to Dole.

It will take a few weeks to see whether Gramm and Alexander will be able to generate new campaign contributions. But both vowed they were in for the long haul.

Gramm, at a Republican Gover-ners' Association forum, served notice that he would blame Dole if any deal struck to end the budget impasse does not insist on a seven-year balanced budget based on Congressional Budget Office projections.

Using any other assumptions, as the White House wants, "is code word for spend more money," Gramm said.

Dole vowed in Florida this would be no "autumn of compromise" with Clinton, but it was clear in delegate interviews that Dole was hurt by the perception he is too quick to compromise.

Darin Pierce said he chose Gramm because Dole "seemed like he was hedging all his answers" in a debate Friday night. Another, C. Jane Rankie, called Dole a Republican treasure, but said he was "a legislator not a president."

Such impressions are the major risk of Dole's dual roles of candidate and Senate majority leader.

Candidate Dole tries to turn it to his advantage.

He told straw poll delegates that under his leadership "we have turned revolutionary rhetoric into legislative reality."

But Ohio Gov. George Voinovich, a Dole supporter, said the duty to seek consensus as majority leader kept Dole from "getting out in front" on some issues. Voinovich recommended Dole resign the post.

Dole has said he might step down if he won Iowa and New Hampshire — something that would give him a solid grip on the nomination. But Dole is unlikely to take Voinovich's advice in the short term because he believes being majority leader gives him enormous advantages over his rivals.

head. The suspects were charged with murder and kidnapping. A prosecutor said authorities believed the killings were planned and there appeared to be no relationship to drugs or devil worship.

Police refused to discuss a motive.

In custody Sunday were 24-year-old Laverne Ward, who they believe to be Jordan's father; Jacqueline Annette Williams, 28, and Fidell Caffey, 22. Elijah was found with Williams.

On Sunday, a memorial of teddy bears, cards, footballs and basketballs was propped up outside the family's apartment complex. A family friend, Earl Nix, added a fishing rod because he had planned to take Joshua fishing next summer. "Me and Josh were always talking about fishing together," he said.

DuPage County State's Attorney Anthony Peccarelli said the killings were not random or connected to drugs.

"It was more than domestic, but it was not devil worship. It was planned. Here's a woman who's home with her children, and somebody comes into the home; there apparently is no forced entry," he said.

"Various strong leads have developed which have provided us direction to identify the perpetrators," a police statement said Saturday without elaboration.

Various reports said police were questioning two men. WBBM Radio in Chicago reported Sunday Williams was a cousin of an ex-boyfriend of Evans; a woman identifying herself as the ex-boyfriend's mother confirmed that report outside the police station but refused to give her name.

Evans' live-in boyfriend, James Edwards, found the bodies when he returned home from work on the night shift, police said.

Edwards was held Saturday on outstanding warrants but police would not say Sunday if he remained in custody. He was not considered a suspect in the slayings, Addison Police Chief Melvin Mack said.

Brian Hennessy, who lives across the hall from Evans' apartment, said Edwards pounded on his door and pleaded for help after finding the bodies and Jordan in his home.

"It was clear (the baby) was out of her," Hennessy told the Chicago Sun-Times. "These people, I don't know what they are — demons or devil worshippers? I don't know what could explain this. I just can't see anyone being that vengeful toward her. She was really a good person."

SHUTDOWN ENDS

measures to reopen the government. The Senate also approved a bill funding the government through Dec. 15 and the House planned to follow today.

Both sides declared victory — Republicans because the deal reflected their seven-year timetable and Clinton because it spoke of protecting programs he considers important.

Senate Budget Committee Chairperson Pete Domenici, R-N.M., said, "I hope in the next three or four weeks we will produce a balanced budget with the president on board."

In the four-week spending bill, the White House and Republicans agreed the balanced budget legislation would "protect future generations, secure Medicare solvency, reform welfare, provide adequate funding for Medicaid, education, agriculture, national defense, veterans and the environment."

Sunday's agreement followed a long day of negotiating against a backdrop of restlessness among federal employees and the public. Forty percent of the federal work force — nearly 800,000 employees — have been furloughed since Nov. 13.

In a compromise that was key to the agreement, the two sides agreed the Congressional Budget Office will measure whether or not any eventual budget deal eliminates deficits, but only after consulting with the White House and other government and private economists.

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., and House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., and their chief deputies held a news conference where they were barely able to contain their euphoria.

"All I can say is, 'Yes!'" House Budget Committee Chairperson John Kasich said, thrusting two clenched fists in the air. Republicans credited Sen. Trent Lott, R-Miss., for the CBO compromise that proved key to the agreement.

A reporter asked Dole, "Who blinked?" He responded with two words and a smile, "Seven years."

But Clinton said the agreement "represents the first sign of their (Republicans') willingness to move forward without forcing unacceptable cuts ... on the American people."

If Clinton and Congress cannot resolve their deep differences in other areas, the government could again be shut down after Dec. 15.

EDUCATION IMPROVEMENTS

Tom Rocklin, who was named director of the center about two weeks ago.

"Our general mission is to support graduate students, faculty members, departments and colleges as they try to improve instruction, and improve the quality of instruction," Rocklin said.

Rocklin, a UI associate professor in Psychological and Quantitative Foundations, said the UI already provides places for improvement, and the Center for Teaching is not a remedial effort.

"The best teachers recognize that there is always room for improvement," Rocklin said. "Most of us want to improve what we're doing and I want the center to be a part of that."

The Iowa state Board of Regents approved the UI council's plan on Feb. 7. Rocklin said the UI is the last of the regents institutions to have a Center for Teaching. Regents also approved a budget of $60,000 for the project, consisting of $10,000 for release time for the director, a $40,000 salary for an associate director and $10,000 for general expenses.

The UI took longer than the University of Northern Iowa and Iowa State University in implementing a Center for Teaching because the UI's Council on Teaching wanted to evaluate other programs and decide what projects it wanted to focus on.

"Many people agreed that the UI wanted and needed a Center for Teaching, but its roles and functions needed added study and deliberation," said Don Yarbrough, chairperson for the Council on Teaching and associate professor in Psychological and Quantitative Foundations.

Associate Provost John Folkins said the Council on Teaching is planning to sponsor various symposiums and workshops that will encourage the academic community to address issues that can result in improvements in teaching. Some of these workshops will deal with classroom skills and how to deal with a distraught student.

In addition to the workshops and symposiums, the center will provide individual consultations, class visitations and class videotaping, Rocklin said.

Mark Holbrook, a Teaching Assistant in the biology department, said he would like to use videotaping by the center as a resource to improve his skills in the classroom.

"I would like to see more access to taping, so you can see what mistakes you are making," Holbrook said.

Judith Aikin, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, said she hopes the center will be a place to explore the technology that is in place in some of the classrooms, and a place to explore other teaching methods.

"I hope it will turn out to be a place where TAs and faculty will go to enhance their teaching skills," Aikin said.

Rocklin said the center will have a positive impact on all TAs' teaching skills.

"We have a lot of excellent TAs, and I hope to harbor that and help other TAs here at the UI," Rocklin said.

The center's temporary home will be at Brewery Square, at the corner of Linn and Market streets, Rocklin said. However, it will later be relocated to a more central location, possibly in Schaeffer Hall.

Rocklin said his first task is to hire staff, including a full-time associate director and secretary.

sleeping on the floors. They are not an ideal place, but they are better than the streets."

Nelson helps the city's less fortunate by providing warm meals, clothes and shelter for various lengths of time. She also helps teen-agers from broken homes by giving them a place to stay other than the streets.

"I know what it is like not to be able to get help because you're homeless," Nelson said. "You need an address to get a check, but when you are homeless you don't have an address. Nobody knows what it is like until you are in that situation."

Nelson said many of the people she helps are thankful for simple luxuries like a warm home, a meal or even a bath.

"A lot of these people go a long time before they get a decent meal or a change of clothes," she said. "The people I've come in contact with are very appreciative of what I am able to do for them. There is a stereotype of homeless people that all they want to do is rob you or harm you; that's not true."

Even though Nelson has had a hard life herself, she still tries to reach out and help those who are less fortunate than her. She remembers a time when she helped a woman realize she needed help with her drug problem for her sake and her kids' sake.

"After I got done talking and listening to her she realized she had to get help and that she couldn't do it alone," Nelson said. "When she saw the love in my family, she said she wanted it to be that way with her and her kids."

Ronna Hildebrandt, a close friend of Nelson's, said her unconventional parenting if effective.

"Being an unconventional parent is what works for Delphia," Hildebrandt said. "She is not judgmental and she accepts the kids for who they are. She cares for the kids and the kids know she cares — they have a level of mutual respect."

For many of these teen-agers, such as 14-year-old Nici Cox, Nelson has become known as "mom." A lot of times they will call her to talk or tell her something that happened in their life, Nelson said.

"These kids are waiting for someone to come along and see the good in them, that is all it takes," Nelson said.

Cox said she has known Nelson for about six years.

"I love everybody at the house; there is such a sense of family here," Cox said. "I know I am loved and understood here."

As Nelson's children grew older, they began to bring their friends home to hang out. Nelson was there to listen to the kids and give many of them something they had never been given before — a family.

"Teen-agers need to come home to a family and a lot of the time these kids have no one when they get home — they need love," Nelson said. "In today's society, everybody is out for themselves and they don't care about the young people."

Felipe Gravelin has been spending time at Nelson's house for about six months and said being there has been a positive experience for him.

"Before I started hanging out at Delphia's I was getting into trouble, but now my grades have improved and I've stayed out of trouble," Gravelin said.

Nelson said she was born to love, and a lack of wealth won't stop her from helping those in need.

"My name, Delphia, means love. I look deep inside of people and find the good," Nelson said. "Just because I don't have money, who says I can't love?"

Times have changed. The Iron Curtain has fallen to a new world order, and the power plays of political agendas have been replaced by ruthless plots for profit. The war may have changed, but one thing, at least in the cinematic world, remains the same:

Bond. James Bond.

Pierce Brosnan dusts off the role of everyone's favorite spy in the newest Bond installment, "Goldeneye." Combining explosive action, elaborate stunts and trademark humor, the 17th James Bond action adventure has all the elements that make it a worthy successor to the series.

"Goldeneye" finds Bond where we left him last — cruising around the British countryside. Before long, he runs into the first of the film's "Bond girls" — a ruthless, seductive spy with the classically laughable name — Xenia Onatopp (Famke Janssen). With the assistance of a corrupt general (Robbie Coltrane), Onatopp swipes a powerful helicopter to help complete a plan to — you guessed it — put the entire world at risk. The tandem's power stems from their control of the potent Goldeneye satellite, a relic from the Cold War, that can emit an electromagnetic pulse that will disrupt everything electronic in a targeted area.

Luckily for Bond, Russian computer programmer Natalya Simonova (Izabella Scorupco) survives Goldeneye's first test and forms an uneasy alliance with 007. The duo races across the world to stop Onatopp and her conspirators from turning the satellite on London. Once again, the fate of the world rests on the shoulders of Bond. James Bond.

Some of the most memorable moments in the Bond series have been provided by the incomparable Bond girls and the diabolical villains.

Courtesy of Keith Hamshe/United Artists

James Bond (Pierce Brosnan) gets a stern talking-to from Bond girl Xenia Onatopp (Famke Janssen).

"Goldeneye" introduces worthy additions to both categories. Onatopp is one of the most interesting and, at times, humorous villains to ever squeeze Bond between her thighs. Janssen's comic book portrayal of a villain includes her hilariously snarling the dialog and moaning contentedly while spraying machine-gun fire.

The Bond films also have several time-honored traditions: Three of the most beloved are Agent 007's colleagues in Her Majesty's Secret Service: M, Q and Miss Moneybags. The three add up to some of the funniest moments in "Goldeneye." The best of the bunch is Judi Dench's strong portrayal of M, who — in a break with tradition — is a woman. It is great to watch Bond be put into his place with lines like "I think you're a sexist, misogynist dinosaur."

Perhaps the most striking aspect of "Goldeneye" is its dazzling use of stunts and special effects. Director Martin Campbell ("No Escape") has loaded the film with one stunning visual after another. "Goldeneye" goes to great and almost ridiculous lengths to impress the viewers and assure us this is not the same old Bond.

In the end, "Goldeneye" turns out to be the best film in the Bond series. Brosnan has given viewers something Connery never could — strength and emotion. Although the plot may seem trite to some, the film ends up as a roller-coaster ride with explosions, action and humor around each corner. "Goldeneye" even serves up an examination of the Bond myth itself. It's a mixture of tradition and invention — never forgetting what fans have come to expect, while inviting a new generation along for the ride.

Savage goes industrial

Jonathan Hansen
The Daily Iowan

While the label of industrial music has been tacked on much of the loud, technified music being produced over the past decade, few groups are as literally industrial as Savage Aural Hotbed. The Minneapolis-based percussion ensemble incorporates into their act such heavy equipment as metal barrels, buzz saws and air compressors — and, surprisingly, no computers. Though all the sounds the ensemble produces are made the old fashioned way — that is, by hitting things — their sound is completely modern.

Savage Aural Hotbed is best experienced live. With synchronized saw blades spitting sparks and shrapnel across the stage, and minimalist choreography to go with guttural chants, the black vinyl-clad drummers perform what looks like a post-apocalyptic street ceremony. It's an intense show, to say the least, simultaneously frightening and riveting.

If you missed Savage Aural Hotbed's Nov. 16's performance at Gabe's, however, their most recent album, Cold is the Absence of Heat, is still worth checking out. The group's trance-inducing rhythms are on the cutting-edge of cutting edges out there, yet they borrow from traditional sources, such as Japanese Kodo drumming, as much as they borrow from the steel yard. It is hard to believe the intricacies of the album were composed with neither the aid of electronic sequencers nor synthetically produced or altered sounds, making one think of the word "acoustic" in a whole new way. Cold is the Absence of Heat is a carefully-produced and intriguing album.

CEDAR RAPIDS BAR KEEPS METAL ALIVE

Big Dog's slaughters competition

Todd Norden
The Daily Iowan

"Rockin' is our business and business is good." This motto is sprawled across the wall above the bar of Big Dog's, located in Cedar Rapids. Big Dog's presented a sold out performance Saturday night with Slaughter and opening act Top Heavy. The bar is one of few venues where one can still thrust an index finger to heavy metal and purchase a pair of Slaughter panties.

"There's not enough heavy metal," said Aaron Winter, an Iowa City native at the show. "There's too much grunge in Iowa City. It seems like there is a lull in the market right now, but metal is going to come back stronger than ever. It would be cool if there was some equality. I just wish the bars would give (metal) some redemption or deliverance. Right now there is none."

"Metal still has hardcore fans," said Big Dog's employee Jerry Siegel. "We get some bands that were playing arenas five years ago and now haven't had a hit album in five years."

Gunner Bartlett, a Big Dog's stage hand, said metal is being squeezed out of the business.

"All the biggest tours like Pink Floyd and The Grateful Dead are putting bands out of business," he said. "Their charges and fees are so outrageous at the arenas but the arenas are much more willing to have a group that can make that kind of money. Bands like Slaughter have to then go through the club circuit to make just as much money."

"A lot of groups look for the big PA systems and the capabilities to have a good show and that's why they come to Big Dog's, because we can do it," he said.

Local bands such as Top Heavy benefit from hooking up with a nationally recognized act. Top Heavy vocalist Shawn Claudin said, "We're excited. This is our sixth or seventh national show. It's great for us. It gives us the chance to expose ourselves to a huge crowd and get our original music out. This is the largest place we've played besides outdoor shows."

Claudin commented on the fall of formerly successful acts: "It's too bad that they're not at all the arenas because they deserve to be there. There's just not a demand for our music like there was in the '80s."

Top Heavy played a full-throttle cover of "Bark At The Moon." Slaughter ended the evening with the party hearty anthems "Up All Night" and a souped-up "Rocky Mt. Way," complete with voicebox. The hard-core fans got their money's worth.

ERICA

Gentlemen, start your Daisy Razors. The race is on to see how sexy and smooth your legs can be. Really.

Of all the strange things '90s men do to look manly — penile enlargements, pectoral implants and 18-hour days at the gym — perhaps the strangest fashion phenomenon of all is the hairless man. We've heard of hairless cats, dogs and kiwi fruits, but the hairless man seems to be the recent advent of Calvin Klein, Versace and Armani ads.

The strong, silent, stubbleless type fills the pages of fashion rags and men's magazines, as devoid of body hair as his female model counterparts. Sleek and cetacean, the hairless man would never be caught dead with Burt Reynolds' chest rug of yesteryear.

Gosh, and we gals always thought shaving our legs was simply another tool of corporate-male oppression. Maybe that avid gleam in our boyfriends' eyes as they watched us shave our legs was jealousy and lust.

Think marble statues when you think of the hairless man. Ad whizzes pick models resembling Greek gods and the Italian Renaissance version of the Chipendale dancers. David had no body hair. Adonis and Zeus waxed diligently on a weekly basis to make sure they didn't give their loved ones razor burn. The modern hairless man has all the buffness and machismo of classic masculinity intact, except that he's as hairless as a newborn baby.

Where did the hairless-man trend come from? Have men finally realized that feminization is the only way humankind will survive into the next millennium? Is the hairless look a response to multiculturalism, in which the hairy simian white man looks apeish next to his less-hairy Asian and African brothers?

Is it the influence of male swimmers and bicyclists shaving to increase speed? Maybe, but a more obvious origin of most male fashion lies in the hands of some fashion-forward gay men. They're the reason straight men feel any impetus at all to brush their teeth, change their underwear once a week and now, to wax their chests. Think about it: the manly, handle-bar mustache look reigned in the '70s, originating in the leather-bar club culture of cities such as New York. Men proudly paraded their chest rugs with low-cut shirts and gold chains. If a man didn't have enough hair, he got more.

Of all the strange things '90s men do to look manly ... perhaps the strangest fashion phenomenon of all is the hairless man.

The hairless man now offers his depilatory devices readily to millions of American men. The general consensus, as far as I've heard, is that the hairless-man look doesn't fly well with most men, gay or straight. It's high-maintenance, expensive and ultimately celebrates a look that is frighteningly focused on eradicating adult sex traits. While pubescent strive to grow beards, grown men strive to hide them. Ultimately, this trend will pass because it's just too hard to follow. Until then, ladies, it will be up to us to grow our leg hair long and show the boys how it's done.

GAME NOTES

Shaw rewrites record books

Mike Triplett
The Daily Iowan

Sedrick Shaw continues to rewrite the record books.

One week after becoming Iowa's all-time career rusher, Shaw set single-season marks for most carries, most rushing touchdowns and most yards.

With one game to go in this season, Shaw has 280 carries for 1,304 yards and 14 rushing touchdowns. Dennis Mosley set all three records in 1979 when he rushed for 1,267 yards and 12 touchdowns on 270 carries.

Nick Bell also ran for 12 touchdowns in 1990.

"I'm more or less just happy that we won the game. I'm not thinking about the record," Shaw said.

Shaw, who gives his Heisman Trophy nod to Ohio State running back Eddie George, also said that he's not really concerned with accolades like the Heisman. But he did admit that he always feels like he's got something to prove.

"A lot of people have questioned this team and questioned me since I've been here, so I feel like I always have something to go out there and prove," he said.

But don't the records prove his talents?

"Not good enough," he said. "I can't ever be satisfied."

Shaw can tie Iowa's single season touchdown mark (rushing, returning and receiving) with two more against Minnesota Saturday. But if he falls short, there will be next year for Shaw, who won't be heading to the NFL.

"I'll be here," he said.

Banks will not return Saturday

In recent weeks, Iowa coach Hayden Fry has hinted that sophomore running back Tavian Banks would return to the lineup soon and add some much-needed depth.

But Saturday Fry said that Banks wouldn't play anymore during the regular season, despite the fact that doctors have cleared him to play.

"I think it's probably more a personal choice between he and his mother, maybe not wanting him to come back until they feel he's really healthy," Fry explained. "I'm sad because he's such a gifted athlete. He could help us. But I've got to make sure that he and mama are happy."

Banks fractured his wrist against Indiana on Oct. 16.

"It doesn't make me angry because I'm sure they're doing it because of the health," Fry said of the decision, "but we've got a great hospital and our hospital has cleared him to play."

Interceptions abundant in '95

Iowa's defense added four interceptions to increase its total to 15 this season. A year ago the Hawkeyes grabbed just nine. The most the Hawkeyes have ever had in a season is 23 in 1986 and 1987.

Junior Damien Robinson had a pair of interceptions and junior Tom Knight had one, raising both of their totals to four. They joined sophomore Plez Atkins in a three-way tie for the team lead.

"Plez jumped right back in the game (after Knight and Robinson tied his total Saturday)," Knight said. "He wanted to get another opportunity at it."

Bobby Diaco got Iowa's other interception Saturday, his second ever. Another linebacker, Marcus "Tex" Montgomery and lineman George Bennett also had interceptions this year.

Atkins and Knight have each returned two interceptions for touchdowns.

Jonathan Meester/The Daily Iowan

Iowa junior running back Sedrick Shaw broke Iowa single season records for rushing touchdowns, attempts and yards with 41 carries for 214 yards and three touchdowns Saturday.

IOWA FOOTBALL

defense stepped up once again.

A mishandled punt snap and a holding call led to a Hawkeye safety.

Then late interceptions by Tom Knight and Bobby Diaco sealed the Iowa victory.

"We obviously were on a mission this week and we were successful," Fry said. "It seemed like our defense kept coming up with the big play and our offense did a heck of a job."

Matt Sherman finished with 177 yards passing, hitting on 12-of-25 passes.

Bevell tallied 352 yards, completing 35-of-51 passes, but four interceptions.

His 35 completions is a Wisconsin record.

"I'm not here to set records," Bevell said. "I'm here to win games and get to bowl games. And I didn't get that done."

Burger, in his first start at full-back, led the Hawkeyes with four receptions for 44 yards. Tim Dwight caught three passes for 69 yards. Wisconsin tight end Matt Nyquist caught 13 passes for 140 yards.

Iowa finished with 276 yards rushing. Wisconsin was held to -18.

Iowa dominated the time of possession, holding the ball 11 minutes longer than the Badgers.

one of which set up Iowa's second touchdown in the first half.

However, a pair of interceptions wasn't enough to make Wisconsin crumble. Things got much worse for the Badgers in the fourth quarter.

Wisconsin came within four points of the Hawkeyes after scoring on the first play of the fourth quarter and was given plenty of chances to overtake the lead.

Iowa's next three drives failed to produce points.

One time the Hawkeyes fumbled in Wisconsin territory, and on another occasion they fell victim to a Badger goal-line stand, turning the ball over on downs at the one-yard line.

But Wisconsin blew opportunity after opportunity.

The first blunder came on an attempted punt from the Badgers 31-yard line. Iowa's Damoni Shakoor fell on a fumbled snap and Iowa took over on the Badger 13.

Then came the Badger goal-line stand, followed promptly by the next Badger boner. On Wisconsin's second play, a Badger lineman was called for holding in the end zone. That's a safety and those were Iowa's first points of the half.

Iowa still wasn't ready to win the game, though. Shaw fumbled on Iowa's first play of its next drive and Wisconsin was again presented with a golden opportunity.

Three plays later, Bevell was picked off by Tom Knight.

This time Iowa scored on a clock-eating, 12-play drive.

With hopes dimming, Wisconsin got the ball back, only to see Bevell get picked off by Bobby Diaco.

Game over. Book closed. Thank you Badgers.

"There are weeks you get breaks and weeks you don't," Robinson said. "It's been against us all these last four weeks. But this week it just bounced into our hands."

He couldn't have said it better. Throughout the 1995 season, Iowa has either taken advantage of or fallen victim to the big plays.

Last week's loss at Northwestern was a carbon copy of Saturday's win — a resurging Hawkeye team had a fumble and an interception stop them in the second half against the Wildcats.

Late interceptions also killed the Hawkeyes against Penn State earlier this year. Just like the interceptions that ended Michigan State and Indiana's hopes in Iowa's earlier victories.

It's no real surprise that the team on the receiving end of the most turnovers gets the win. Robinson and Knight both said they're always looking for the big plays. Sherman said he's trying to avoid the interceptions.

Sounds like they've got the winning ingredient. If they don't turn the ball over, they won't turn Floyd over.

IOWA VOLLEYBALL

Seniors bid farewell with split

Jon Bassoff
The Daily Iowan

The home campaign came to an end for the Hawkeyes this weekend. In a season far below expectation, Iowa managed to come away with just its second Big Ten home win.

The Iowa volleyball team topped Northwestern on Friday, but fell the next day to Purdue.

The Hawkeyes looked impressive in putting away Northwestern (5-22, 1-16). Iowa was knocked around in the first game, but came back to win 7-15, 15-5, 15-13, 15-11.

The story for Iowa was the superb play by junior Heather Calomese. Calomese pounded match highs in kills (16) and digs (14).

"Heather Calomese was a big surprise to Northwestern, but no surprise to us," Iowa coach Linda Schoenstedt said.

Calomese's presence was never felt more than in the third game. She recorded seven kills to lead an inspired Iowa comeback. Northwestern jumped out to a 11-4 lead before the Hawkeyes came roaring back. Iowa scored seven straight points to tie the score, and ended up winning 15-13.

Jennifer Bell and Jill Oelschlager added some punch for the Hawkeyes finishing with 13 and 12 kills, respectively.

The Wildcats were led by Ryan Pliska who came through with 15 kills.

Schoenstedt said the match was a big test for her team.

"I think the players worked very hard in practice this week," Schoenstedt said. "The players felt this was a weekend they could show everybody that they were a good team. It's nice to see they were able to do that."

However, the Hawkeyes could not carry the momentum into Saturday's match with the Boilermakers. Purdue jumped all over a flat Iowa team and won 15-13, 15-9, 15-6.

Pete Thompson/The Daily Iowan

Iowa senior Tiffany McDaniel prepares for a dig against Purdue Saturday night during her final home match at Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

The match was the final home appearance for the Hawkeyes two seniors, Tiffany McDaniel and Lisa Dockray. Dockray totaled 30 assists, 10 digs and six kills. McDaniel finished with a match-high 15 digs to go along with five kills.

McDaniel said the emotions of her final match got the best of her.

"It really was sad and I was trying hard to focus on the match," McDaniel said. "For whatever reason my focus was horrible. I don't think anybody was focused tonight."

Jennifer Webb bounced back from a sub-par match against Northwestern with a team-high 12 kills. Webb's hitting percentage was .500.

The Hawkeyes battled hard in the first game before falling to the Boilermakers, 15-13. After dropping that heartbreaker, Iowa couldn't recover. Purdue blew Iowa out of the gate in the final two games. In the second game, the Boilermakers jumped out to a 7-1 lead. The Hawkeyes rallied to cut the lead to 8-7, but could never overtake Purdue.

In game three, Purdue led 7-0 and Iowa never made a serious run.

Lauri Grimes led Purdue's attack with 20 kills. Kelli Kerkhoff totaled 16 digs.

"The emotions were really high out there," McDaniel said. "After last night's win, everybody thought that we could come away with a winning weekend. I think everybody's disappointed."

Iowa returns to action next Friday as they travel to Wisconsin for another Big Ten match. The game is scheduled to start at 7 p.m. and will be televised on ESPN2.

Associated Press

Detroit Lions running back Barry Sanders scores on a 29-yard run in the third quarter against the Chicago Bears on Sunday in Chicago. The Lions defeated the Bears 24-17.

Dallas back in the win column

Associated Press

A different side of the bay, a different Dallas.

One week after losing 38-20 to the San Francisco 49ers at Dallas, the Cowboys defeated the Oakland Raiders 34-21 Sunday, keeping two games between themselves and Philadelphia in the NFC East.

Emmitt Smith ran for three touchdowns, and the Cowboys held on in the face of a determined Oakland rally, led by backup Vince Evans.

"When we lost that game last week, we lost a lot. A lot of emotion," Smith said. "Believe me, it upset a lot of people. I think this game was very important for us."

Cowboys at Raiders

Troy Aikman added to Dallas' offense with a 17-yard TD pass to Michael Irvin. Smith gained 111 yards on 29 carries and had scoring runs of 13, 4 and 4 yards. Irvin caught 7 passes for 109 yards, while Aikman was 19 of 24 for 227 yards.

Oakland played the second half without Jeff Hostetler, who reinjured his left shoulder, and Evans threw TD passes of 24 yards to Tim Brown and 16 yards to Kerry Cash, pulling the Raiders within 31-21 early in the fourth quarter.

Eagles 28, Giants 19

Randall Cunningham has found a niche with Philadelphia. He polished off the New York Giants for Rodney Peete when he gets injured.

Just as he did five weeks ago, when he last played, Cunningham finished for Peete, who hurt his hip. And the Eagles kept the pressure on Dallas in the NFC East with their 7-4 record.

The Giants (3-8), meanwhile, have lost four of five.

Peete threw two TD passes, both to Fred Barnett, in the first half and did not return after halftime. Ricky Watters had two short TD runs.

Packers 31, Browns 20

The way the Browns are playing, Baltimore might not want them. They lost their third straight as Brett Favre passed for three TDs and ran for another. That, coupled with Chicago's loss, put the Packers (7-4) into first place in the NFC Central.

Colts 24, Patriots 10

Just 10 games into his career, Curtis Martin of New England (4-7) invited comparisons with second-year running back Marshall Faulk of Indianapolis. OK, let's compare.

Faulk ran for 96 yards, caught eight passes and scored once as he and Jim Harbaugh led the Colts (6-5), who broke a two-game losing streak. Martin ran for 48 yards and a TD. Harbaugh was 20 of 26 passes for 232 yards and two TDs.

Panthers 27, Cardinals 7

Kerry Collins threw for 201 yards and two TDs as Carolina held Arizona to its lowest yardage total in 40 years.

In winning for the fifth time in six games, Carolina (5-6) continued to distance itself from the previous record for victories by a first-year NFL team. The 1961 Vikings won three games, a mark matched by the '66 Falcons and '67 Saints. Arizona (3-8) lost its third game in a row.

Lions 24, Bears 17

It looks like the Lions took owner William Clay Ford seriously. Even with Scott Mitchell injured, Detroit (5-6) won its second straight game since Ford told Lions coach Wayne Fontes he'd be gone if he didn't make the playoffs.

Backup QB Don Majkowski threw a 11-yard TD pass to Herman Moore with 2:32 left for the win. Chicago (6-5) lost its third straight.

Steelers 49, Bengals 31

Kordell Stewart caught a 71-yard TD pass that put Pittsburgh ahead as the Steelers (7-4) scored 36 straight points in the second half.

Pittsburgh overcame an 18-point deficit — its second-biggest comeback ever — for its fourth straight win.

Neil O'Donnell threw two touchdown passes, and Bam Morris ran for three more scores in the final 22 minutes.

With Cincinnati (4-7) still leading 31-28 late in the third quarter, Stewart sprinted down the middle and took O'Donnell's pass at the Bengals 43, turning it into a go-ahead TD.

Falcons 31, Rams 6

Jeff George passed for 352 yards and four touchdowns, three to Terance Mathis, as the Falcons (7-4) handed St. Louis (6-5) its fourth loss in five games and took over the lead in the NFC West. The two teams came into the game tied for the division lead.

George completed 20 of 34 passes, while Mathis had 10 catches for 134 yards.

Seahawks 27, Redskins 20

Robert Blackmon intercepted passes by Gus Frenette and Heath Shuler, and Chris Warren ran for 136 yards as the Seahawks beat Washington (3-8).

Seattle (5-6) took advantage of five Washington turnovers to win its third straight game. The Seahawks came in with the league's worst turnover ratio, but the Redskins (3-8) threw four interceptions and lost a fumble for their third loss in a row.

Buccaneers 17, Jaguars 16

Jacksonville coach Tom Coughlin decided to go for the 2-point conversion and the win. He wound up with a 1-point loss.

Steve Beuerlein, replacing the injured Mark Brunell, threw a 12-yard TD pass to Pete Mitchell with 37 seconds to play, pulling the Jaguars within 1. Jimmy Smith caught the conversion pass but was just out of the end zone.

Erriett Rhett rushed for 100 yards and scored two TDs for the Bucs (6-5). Jacksonville is 3-8.

Broncos 30, Chargers 27

Terrell Davis ran for 176 yards, including 53 on Denver's game-winning drive, and the Broncos won on Jason Elam's 32-yard field goal with 2 seconds left. Denver moved to 6-5 and still is in the playoff hunt, while San Diego, playing for the second straight week without running back Natrone Means, fell to 4-7.

With the game tied at 27, Davis took control when the Broncos got the ball at their own 33 with 3:43 left. Davis, who had all 30 Denver rushing attempts, got the call on six straight plays and his 9-yard run on third-and-4 set up Elam's game-winning.

Bill 28, Jets 26

Jim Kelly threw for 316 yards, hitting Billy Brooks seven times for 103 yards and two touchdowns, and Buffalo held on to win when Thomas Smith broke up the Jets' 2-point conversion pass.

The Jets pulled within 2 points when Boomer Esiason hit Adrian Murrell with a 41-yard desperation pass in the end zone on the game's last play.

The win kept the Bills (8-3) on top of the AFC East. The Jets are 2-9.

Vikings 43, Saints 24

Warren Moon turned 39 Saturday, then turned in one of the best performances of his 12-year NFL career a day later. He threw for 338 yards and four touchdowns for Minnesota (6-5).

Moon completed 25 of 32 passes before leaving midway through the third quarter.

He led the Vikings on scoring drives all seven times he got the ball against a defense that had given up fewer than 20 points in each of the last four games.

Moon has 11 touchdown passes and no interceptions in the last four games, and he stretched his career-best streak without an interception to 167 passes Sunday. Chiefs 20, Oilers 13

The Kansas City Chiefs were heading for overtime, then came a crunching hit on Todd McNair.

Mark Collins returned McNair's fumble 34 yards for a touchdown with 15 seconds left Sunday night, lifting Kansas City past the Houston Oilers 20-13 and giving the Chiefs their first 10-1 record in team history.

McNair, a former Chief, fumbled when hit by Doug Terry, and Collins scooped up the ball and scored almost untouched as the Chiefs maintained the best record in the NFL.

The Oilers (4-7), who just four days earlier announced they were moving to Nashville, Tenn., had forged a 13-13 tie with 1:50 left on Chris Chandler's 40-yard pass on fourth down to Chris Sanders.

IOWA SWIMMING

Winless women, unbeaten men fall short

The Iowa swim team suffered their first dual meet loss in nearly two years this weekend, falling to Nebraska, 104-138 on Thursday.

On Friday, the Hawkeyes placed fifth at the Nike Sprint Classic. Host Nebraska won the meet, followed by Alabama, Miami, Kansas, Iowa and Utah.

Saturday and Sunday, the Hawkeyes took fourth out of six at the Husker Shootout.

Iowa assistant coach John Davey said Todd Harvey, Marco Minonne, Tyler Holcomb and Marc River all swam well over the four days of competition.

River won the 25 freestyle at the Sprint meet and Minonne won the 50 breaststroke at the Sprint meet

COLLEGE ROUNDUP

Bowl picture begins to clear up ... a little

Rick Warner
Associated Press

Colorado and Oregon are going to the Cotton Bowl and UCLA is headed to the Aloha Bowl. Washington is bound for the Sun Bowl, while Nebraska and Notre Dame have earned spots in the Fiesta-Orange-Sugar alliance.

The bowl picture is coming into focus, although many pieces of the postseason puzzle still aren't in place.

The Cotton Bowl became the first New Year's game to set its matchup. No. 8 Colorado earned its berth Saturday with a 27-17 victory over No. 10 Kansas State, while No. 12 Oregon gained the other invitation with a 12-10 win over Oregon State.

UCLA's 24-20 win over No. 17 Southern Cal sent the Bruins to the Aloha Bowl, where they may play No. 11 Kansas.

No. 20 Washington got a Sun Bowl bid after defeating Washington State 33-30. The Huskies' opponent is expected to be Michigan State or Iowa.

Top-ranked Nebraska didn't play Saturday, but the Cornhuskers clinched the outright Big Eight title and a spot in the alliance when Colorado beat Kansas State.

The Huskers will play for the national championship in the Fiesta Bowl if they beat Oklahoma on Friday. Their opponent should be the winner of Saturday's game between No. 3 Florida and No. 6 Florida State.

No. 7 Notre Dame, which locked up an alliance bid by beating Air Force 44-14, appears to be headed to the Orange Bowl to play No. 25 Miami or No. 13 Virginia Tech. Miami will get the bid if it beats No. 22 Syracuse.

That would leave the Sugar Bowl with a matchup between the Florida-Florida State loser and the Southwest Conference champion (No. 9 Texas, No. 15 Texas A&M or Baylor).

Of course, the Orange and Sugar lineups could change if Florida State beats Florida and the Gators defeat No. 23 Arkansas the following week in the Southeastern Conference title game. Then the Orange might take homestate favorite Florida, leaving Notre Dame in the Sugar.

There's also the remote chance of Florida losing to Arkansas and dropping completely out of the alliance, which awards berths to the SEC, SWC, Atlantic Coast, Big Eight and Big East champions along with Notre Dame if it finishes in the Top 10.

Despite its loss to UCLA, Southern Cal is going to the Rose Bowl as Pac-10 co-champion. The Trojans finished with the same league record as Washington, but they earned the Rose Bowl trip with a better overall record.

Southern Cal's Big Ten opponent in Pasadena will be No. 2 Ohio State or No. 4 Northwestern. It will be Ohio State if the Buckeyes beat No. 18 Michigan.

No. 2 Ohio St. 42, Indiana 3

At Columbus, Eddie George rushed for 130 yards and two TDs and Bobby Hoving threw two scoring passes to Terry Glenn. Hoving sustained a concussion in the third quarter, but doctors said he should be available for the Michigan game.

No. 3 Florida 38, Vanderbilt 7

At Gainesville, Chris Doering caught 11 passes for 169 yards and two TDs and Danny Wuerffel threw for 299 yards and two scores.

No. 4 Northwestern 23, Purdue 8

At West Lafayette, Darnell Autry gained a career-high 226 yards as Northwestern clinched a share of its first conference title since 1936.

No. 5 Tennessee 34, Kentucky 31

At Lexington, Peyton Manning passed for two touchdowns and ran for another in the second half as Tennessee rallied to beat heavy underdog Kentucky.

No. 6 Florida St. 59, Maryland 17

At Tallahassee, Danny Kanell set an ACC record for career TD passes as Florida State tied Virginia for the league title.

No. 7 Notre Dame 44, Air Force 14

At the Air Force Academy, Randy Kinder and Autry Denson each ran for more than 100 yards to take the pressure off quarterback Tom Krug, who made his first college start.

No. 8 Colorado 27, No. 10 Kansas St. 17

At Manhattan, John Hessler threw a 20-yard scoring pass to James Kidd with 1:04 left and Kerry Hicks recovered a K-State fumble in the end zone with 45 seconds remaining.

No. 9 Texas 27, Texas Christian 19

At Austin, Shon Mitchell ran for two scores, including a 2-yard TD with 2:08 remaining.

No. 11 Kansas 22, Oklahoma St. 17

At Stillwater, Mark Williams threw for one touchdown and ran for another as Kansas reached nine wins for the first time since 1968.

No. 12 Oregon 12, Oregon St. 10

At Eugene, freshman Joshua Smith kicked four field goals as Oregon handed Oregon State its 10th straight loss.

No. 13 Virginia Tech 36, No. 19 Virginia 29

At Charlottesville, Jim Druckenmiller threw a go-ahead TD pass to Jermaine Holmes with 47 seconds left and Antonio Banks clinched it with a 65-yard interception return on the final play.

No. 14 Penn State 27, No. 18 Michigan 17

At State College, Wally Richardson threw two TD passes and Penn State scored on a fake field goal with 2:40 remaining.

No. 15 Texas A&M 56, Middle Tennessee St. 14

At College Station, Albert Connell caught a 61-yard TD pass on the second play of the game and Leeland McElroy ran for two scores in the first quarter.

No. 16 Auburn 31, No. 21 Alabama 27

At Auburn, Fred Beasley's 22-yard TD run and a late defensive stand lifted the Tigers over the Tide.

UCLA 24, No. 17 Southern Cal 20

At Los Angeles, Jim McElroy set up one touchdown with a reception and threw for a TD as UCLA beat its cross-town rival for the fifth straight time.

No. 20 Washington 33, Washington St. 30

At Seattle, John Wales' 21-yard field goal with 1:02 left gave Washington a share of the Pac-10 championship.
