A time for thanks

The short-lived day of giving thanks, especially people in Iowa City and across the nation see not only celebrating Thanksgiving but also remembering Oklahoma City bombing survivors.

On April 19, Wayne Harvey Bii brings free meals and landed on his back after the blast that destroyed the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in downtown Oklahoma City.

"I don't think they're dwelling in the past."

Eight months after the first-ever live and kidney transplant was successfully performed at the University of Chicago and Christ Hospital, the recipient, a 17-year-old girl, on June 13 is thankful to be alive.

"I am thankful to be alive," Riley said. "I had three months left to live before I knew I was saved. I was fortunate to be the first person who survived that blast.

It's so clean you could eat off the back of his head," said another survivor, a 10-year-old Oklahoma City resident who survived the blast. "That was the way you live."

Princess Di: Strong woman of the '90s

Associated Press

LONDON — Princess Diana doesn't want to divorce or end her marriage, but is willing to do so if it means to satisfy the public's desire for a separation, the Daily Iowan reported Wednesday.

"I may try had my own desire on how the public feels and if they do that, I would make an announcement," Diana said in an interview broadcast nationwide last week.

"If I think there is a possibility that this way will make the public happier, then I would definitely make a move," Diana said. "I don't want to leave my marriage, but I do want to satisfy the public's desire for a separation."

Immigration reform threatens UI diversity

Mary Jo Coleman is going to have a hard time achieving her goal of diversifying the UI campus if the Immigration Reform Act of 1995 is passed. The bill is an outright attack on foreign students, scholars and researchers, with alarming implications for campuses such as the UI, which rely heavily on the talents and abilities of such people.

One of the bill's provisions imposes a 14-year mandatory availability to foreign students, scholars and researchers including post-doctoral students for foreign students who graduated from UI in the last five years or foreign students employed on campus and who have continued to work in the same field. In addition, UI students must undergo background checks and employers must be able to determine the true identity of their employees. The UI will also owe the number of times the bill has been introduced in Congress and will continue to do so until such time as it is no longer a threat to the future of UI.

The bill also would cut the number of times the UI would have to renew visas for foreign students, scholars and researchers, with the result that UI students must undergo background checks and employers must be able to determine the true identity of their employees. The UI will also owe the number of times the bill has been introduced in Congress and will continue to do so until such time as it is no longer a threat to the future of UI.

Guest Opinion

Point of view

Tightening immigration laws will have adverse effects on diversity, which value diversity because foreign students will be unable to afford an American education.

The editorial board comments that allowing foreign students to stay in the country long enough to complete their education would be a boon to UI and the state. In addition, UI students would be able to compete with foreign students in the job market.

The editorial board also comments that UI has a long tradition of welcoming foreign students and scholars, and that the UI community will continue to support and welcome foreign students and scholars in the future.

Free meals at I.C. churches

brighten Thanksgiving

Mark Statham
The Daily Iowan

A pair of "Home-style" Thanksgiving dinners will make Iowa City's little bit more cheerful Thursday, thanks to the efforts of local churches.

Bethel Baptist Church, 1024 Harrison St., will have its annual free Thanksgiving Dinner Thursday. In addition to its own dinner, the church will provide meals to the church and deliver meals, as well.

"If I will a traditional Thanksgiving meal with all the trimmings and pies," and youth Pastor Duerksen.

The church welcomes an estimated 15 Thanksgiving diners at Bethel, and they typically reach out to 20 before each year.

"There are a number of them at Bethel who like to say," and one of the church's long-term members.

"But the ones who have become aware of what we're doing and have come to help out.

"By the way, we have a number of people involved who make this a very easy service for everyone to take along with the dines.

"I can do this - I have to keep my weight up," and he said.

The generosity of others also helped to make the dinner special, said Pastor David Duerksen.

Iowa City area.

For anyone in the area over the holidays, be sure to check out the menu at The Airliner in Iowa City.

Thankfully, The Airliner provides an introduction to the area's Portuguese cuisine. The focus is primarily known for its best-kept secrets. The best-kept secret in Iowa City can be found at The Airliner.

The place is bustling and the food is amazing. The kitchen staff is working hard to ensure that every plate is prepared with care.

If you're looking for a little bit of health, try the salad. It's a generous portion of tuna steak, dressed with lemon, chives, and a side of sauce that makes such a unique combination. It's a great way to start the meal.

For our first course, we ordered the chicken in black pepper sauce. The chicken was perfectly cooked, and the sauce added a nice touch of flavor.

For the main course, we chose the seafood platter. It was beautifully presented and full of delicious options like shrimp and salmon.

For dessert, we couldn't pass up the chocolate cake. It was rich and decadent, and the perfect end to the meal.

In summary, The Airliner is a must-visit destination for anyone looking for a delicious and memorable dining experience in Iowa City.

MIAMI — Even Gohor and the Bobcats' fourth-round opponent were upset by the decision to allow punt returner Dubai "Dub" El-Khatib to return punts for Miami.

"We're going to see if we can beat the great teams, but also the ones that came against us," said the Hawks' returner, who also led the Hawks in rebounding against the Gophers.

"Iowa's sixth victory, but the Gophers' worst defense (442.9 yards per game)," he said. "We've just got to come in together and if we've improved on defense, it will most likely meet Iowa's defense in the next game."

In Tom Izzo's first game as coach, the Hawkeyes outscored Northwestern 31-15, 3-13, 16-11 on Friday but fell in three close games on Saturday.

Hawkeye Confidence led the Hawkeyes to the victory Friday with 10 kills and 20 errors. The Hawks serve the winning team to the championship.

Never has a bronze pig meant so much to two football teams

David Schwartz
The Daily Iowan

Football practice takes on an added dimension this week — and it involves a 21-inch long pig.

Saturday’s game at Kinnick Stadium will mark the 60th anniversary of the first time Iowa played Minnesota for Floyd of Rosedale, a bronze hog with a storied past.

This game takes on significance because even if Iowa were not in contention for a bowl game, Hawkeyes would be dead set on maintaining their third-consecutive win over the Gophers because even if Iowa enters the next season as a second-tier team, the Hawkeyes would still be the class of the Big Ten Conference.

"Floyd means a lot to us," Iowa quarterback Matt Sherman said. "We want to keep him in Iowa City. It may sound kind of stupid, but we'll have him out there for practice next week and we'll go get him before practice. It's a big thing for us."

But how does such a ritual begin? Why do two teams playing in the Big Ten Conference regard a legendary piece of memorabilia that has become synonymous with the sport? The answer lies in the history of the game.

Ozzie Simmons was Iowa’s first African-American all-American in football in 1934-35; he earned the honor twice from The Sporting News, but never managed consensus honors.

"He was one of the greatest running backs I have ever seen. He could make those moves that were something else," Simmons’ teammate Erwin Prasse said.

Racial bigotry made him the target of unwarranted attacks on the football field by opposing teams. Perhaps the most vicious of those attacks came from Minnesota, then a national powerhouse.

In 1934, the Golden Gophers held true to their reputation and pummeled Iowa, 48-12, in Iowa City. During the onslaught, Simmons was subject to intense battery by Minnesota’s defense, often times well after the play had been ruled dead.

Simmons, who averaged more than five yards per carry during his career, was held to just nine yards on four carries, while the officials took their time getting Minnesota tacklers away from him.

Simmons was knocked out of the game three times. After the third ribbing, Iowa coach O.M. Solem opted to keep Simmons on the sidelines.

The next season, Minnesota was again scheduled to play in Iowa City. Hawkeye fans were seething at the actions of the Gopher squad from the previous year and were threatening physical harm to Minnesota players.

Bottles and other blunt objects weren’t banned from the stadium, so the chances of a fan outbreak were extremely high.

Iowa Governor Clyde Herring did little to weather the situation by refusing to condemn the feelings of Iowa fans. Minnesota players and coaches hired extra security to protect themselves from a potentially volatile crowd.

Then Minnesota Governor Floyd B. Olson came up with an idea. To help divert the Iowa fans’ attention from their hatred of the Minnesota defense, Olson proposed that Herring bet an Iowa hog against Olson’s Minnesota hog.

Herring presented Olson with a full-blooded champion pig named Floyd of Rosedale. St. Paul sculptor Charles Brioscho was commissioned to sculpt Floyd’s image, and from that day on the two teams have played for Floyd of Rosedale.

"We want Floyd to stay in Iowa City and it’s something that we’re going to talk about all week and be motivated by," Sherman said.

Minnesota leads the overall series between the two schools 55-31-2, but has won only three times in the last 10 meetings.

One of Iowa’s biggest home losses ever came at the hands of Minnesota in 1989, when the Gophers stormed into Kinnick and pounded the Hawkeyes, 43-7.

Three years ago, Minnesota used three second-half touchdowns to down Iowa, 28-13, despite missing every PAT.

In 1993, Iowa cruised to a 21-3 win and Hawkeye fans stormed the field after the game.

Last year’s contest was the highest scoring ever between the two teams, with Iowa outgunning the Gophers, 49-42.

With the Hawkeyes going for their third-straight Floyd win on Saturday, the game takes on a similar look to the 1993 matchup, when Iowa needed a win for a chance at a bowl game. Iowa lost to California in the Alamo Bowl, 37-3.

"We know we have a lot to play for. It’s not just for Floyd of Rosedale now. We have to play for an opportunity to play in a bowl game," defensive back Tom Knight said.

Iowa running back Sedrick Shaw has never lost to Minnesota, but was redshirted in 1992 when the Hawkeyes lost in Minneapolis. He understands how important this game is to the players, the fans and Iowa’s bowl aspirations.

He also offers his own hypothesis as to why the game has come to bear such a deep-rooted meaning.

"It’s a big thing," Shaw said. "It’s a big rivalry because those people think it’s a big city against a small, I guess you could say, farm town."

Seniors bid farewell to Kinnick Stadium

By Wayne Drehs

Pregame. Saturday will also bring about the senior class of football players, and a loss. So could their Iowa playing days.

"It's the last home game for the seniors, and you want to go out there and give them something they can remember," junior running back Sedrick Shaw said.

These seniors joined the team in either 1991 or '92, and although they attended the Holiday and Alamo Bowls, they have the dubious distinction of being the only Iowa fifth-year class to graduate without a trip to the Pasadena and the Rose Bowl.

Despite this, the thought of saying goodbye still isn't an easy one to digest for the seniors, especially when many of their closest friends are on the team.

"I'll miss a lot of things about being a Hawkeye, the general team atmosphere, and a lot of the guys I've been with every day for the last two years. You see them every day, come out and play with them, and it's going to be hard," Team captains.

Lloyd Bickham: The nose tackle from Chicago, has started all 10 games for Iowa this season. In Bickham's career, he has tallied 73 tackles, six sacks and a fumble recovery.

Chris Jackson: After coming to Iowa from Houston, Texas, the defensive back has 162 tackles in 18 games, including six for a loss in his four years at Iowa.

For the past four to five seasons, these seniors have dedicated themselves to Hawkeye football and the Iowa fans. Following Saturday, their Kinnick stadium career will end, and with a loss, so could their Iowa playing days.

Although the continuation of Iowa's 1995 season rests upon its outcome versus Minnesota, Saturday will also bring about the senior class of football players.

Lloyd Bickham: The nose tackle from Chicago, has started all 10 games for Iowa this season. In Bickham's career, he has tallied 73 tackles, six sacks and a fumble recovery.

Chris Jackson: After coming to Iowa from Houston, Texas, the defensive back has 162 tackles in 18 games, including six for a loss in his four years at Iowa.

George Bennett: The defensive end out of Miami, has 77 tackles, including six for a loss in his four years at Iowa. Bennett was the scout team defensive player of the year in 1991 and started 12 games in 1994 and 1995.

Bobby Diaco: Going into the Minnesota game, the linebacker from Cedar Grove, NJ, ranks eighth all-time for the Hawkeyes in tackles with 315. He led the team in tackles in 1994 and 1995, and was named Big Ten Conference player of the week against Indiana this season.

Aaron Granquist: The fullback from Osage, Iowa, joined the team in 1994 as a walk on after being a junior college All-American as a sophomore. He has played in nine games this season, rushing for 13 yards on five carries.

Willie Guy: Splitting time with Tim Dwight at wingback, Guy has 267 yards receiving on 17 receptions this fall including one for a touchdown. In his four seasons, he has three touchdowns with 563 yards receiving.

Eric Hilgenberg: The sixth Hilgenberg to attend Iowa, Eric was named scout team defensive player of the year in 1992. The defensive end from Prior Lake, Minn., started four games his senior season, totaling 24 tackles before a broken leg at Northwestern prematurely ended his season.

Aaron Kooiker: The right tackle from Marengo, Iowa earned the starting job following spring practice and has played a key role in the success of Shaw at tailback.

Jon Moffitt: The wide receiver from Des Moines, joined the team as a walk-on in 1994, seeing limited playing time. He had 12 catches for 152 yards and two scores in the 1995 spring game.

Marcus Montgomery: The linebacker from Walnut, Calif., has seen action in nine games this season, spelling Bobby Diaco and Vernon Rollins. He has totaled 22 tackles and an interception in 1995 after missing most of 1993 and the entire 1994 season following a broken leg suffered versus Penn State in 1993.

Damani Shakoor: The senior from Calumet City, Ill., joined the team in 1991 as a walk-on. He has played in nine games this season, rushing for 70 yards on 15 carries. He was named scout team offensive player of the year in 1992.

Scott Slutzker: The tight end from Hasbrouck Heights, NJ is second on the team in receiving with 495 yards on 34 receptions and a touchdown. For his career, Slutzker has 1,191 yards receiving, 70 yards on 15 receptions, and five touchdowns.

Jeff Westhoff: The linebacker from New Vienna, Iowa, joined the team in 1992 as a walk-on, seeing limited action in his three seasons.

Big Ten celebrates 100 years

As it looks to the future, the Big Ten reflects on its storied past

David Schwartz
The Daily Iowan

It's impossible to think of the Big Ten Conference without thinking about football.

Iowa could win the NCAA title for wrestling, Indiana in basketball and Michigan for hockey, but if the Big Ten's football teams have a down year — which are few and far between — that is what the critics will focus on.

While recent powerhouse teams such as 1994's Penn State squad and this year's Ohio State juggernaut steal the headlines, it was single characters that defined what the Big Ten is all about.

Here is a brief list of some individuals who helped shape the character of the Big Ten, who have left their indelible mark on the most fabled conference in the land:

• Harold "Red" Grange. The Galloping Ghost was a halfback for Illinois from '23-'25 who once ran for 402 yards and five touchdowns in one afternoon. The first four times he touched the ball were good for scores. He was named an All-America three times.

• Perhaps the greatest fullback to ever play the game, Bronko Nagurski, played for Minnesota in the mid-1920s. During his three years as a Gopher, his team lost just four games — by a total of five points.

• In 1934 Michigan had a team captain named Ford. Forty years later this standout would become president of the United States and be more known as the man who pardoned Richard Nixon than the Wolverine big wig.

• University of Chicago's Jay Berwanger became the conference's first Heisman Trophy winner in 1935. Four years later, Iowa's Nile Kinnick took home the honors. In 1943, Kinnick's Navy fighter would go down during a training flight, killing the Hawkeye hero.

• During the 1940s, Michigan would claim four of the Big Ten's 10 national championships and three of its 11 Heisman Trophies. On one of those championship teams was Forest Evashevski, who went on to coach Iowa to three Big Ten titles. Michigan, with 37, has won more conference titles than any other team.

• In 1942, Paul Brown coached Ohio State to the Associated Press national title. Brown would later go on to have an entire NFL franchise named after him: the Baltimore Browns.

• The legendary Woody Hayes took the reins of Ohio State in 1951 and didn't let go until he was forced to in 1978 after taking a swing at an opposing player he felt had thrown a cheap shot. Under Hayes, the Buckeyes went to eight Rose Bowls. In only his fourth season, Hayes led his squad to the AP title.

• 1953 saw insertion of Michigan State into the Big Ten. The Spartans hadn't lost since 1950, but quickly fell to Purdue, 6-0, to end its winning streak at 28 games.

• Dick Butkus dominated Big Ten offenses in the early 1960s, climaxing with an Illini conference title in 1963.

• A number of NFL standouts made their niche in the early 1960s, climaxing with an Illini conference title in 1963.

• The last time a Big Ten team won the national championship was in 1968, when Ohio State beat USC in the Rose Bowl. The Buckeyes managed to contain Trojan Heisman Trophy winner O.J. Simpson on the way to the win.

• Although not part of the Big Ten, future member Penn State hired a new coach in 1966: Joe Paterno. Papa Joe would lead the Nittany Lions to consecutive undefeated seasons in '68 and '69.

• Archie Griffin, now working in the Ohio State front office, was a Buckeye tailback from '73-'75. He led a storied career during his tenure with Ohio State, bringing home consecutive Heisman Trophies. Griffin remains the only player in college football history to win the award twice. Griffin's NCAA record of 31-consecutive 100-yard games still stands.

• A pair of special teams came to the limelight in the early 1980s. Reggie Roby, a punter at Iowa, and place kicker Morten Anderson of Michigan State still roam NFL sidelines today.

• Bo Schembeckler became Michigan's all-time winningest coach in 1986, surpassing Fielding Yost. Yost implemented a hurry up offense in the early 1900s. In 1901, Yost's squad outscored its opponents 550-0.

• The 1985 Heisman Trophy vote was the closest in NCAA history. Iowa's Chuck Long finished just 45 points behind Auburn's Bo Jackson.

• Four seasons later Michigan State's Percy Snow became the first player ever to win the Butkus Award for defense and Lombardi Award in the same season.

• Michigan's Desmond Howard is the Big Ten's most recent Heisman Trophy winner, taking the honor in 1991. He was the first since Griffin to win the award.

• A Big Ten player has been the No. 1 pick in the NFL draft two years running. Ohio State's Dan Wilkinson went in '94 and Penn State's Ki-Jana Carter in '95, both to the Cincinnati Bengals.

Since Wisconsin won the first two Big Ten title back in 1906-97, 263 Big Ten players have been named consensus all-Americans, more than any other conference.

And with names like Darnell Sutry and Eddie George floating around, it appears as if the Big Ten's dominance will continue for another hundred of so years.

Nile Kinnick was the only Hawkeye player to ever win the Heisman Trophy. He won the award in 1939, becoming the second Big Ten player to take the honor. Kinnick played 402 of a possible 420 minutes in the final seven games of that season. Iowa's football stadium is named in his honor.

Iowa's Hayden Fry and Penn State's Joe Paterno meet after last season's game in Happy Valley. The two coaches have combined for 487 victories during their coaching careers.

Recruiting process brings talented defensive back to Iowa sideline

Chris Snider
The Daily Iowan

The odds of the name Eric Thigpen being called on the loudspeaker at Kinnick Stadium this week are very slim. At best, he might make a special teams tackle.

But even before he dresserd for his first football game this season, the freshman defensive back had accomplished a lot.

Thigpen is the first member of his family to go to college, something he had been planning since an early age.

"I was five years old when I told my mother that I was going to go to school on a football scholarship," said Thigpen, who backed up his promise 13 years later.

Thigpen, who redshirted last season, came to Iowa after leading a storbybook high school career, earning USA Today, Parade and Blue Chip all-American honors as a senior at Thornridge High School in Dolton, Ill.

He was recruited by every Division I school in the country, but leaned toward his home state of Illinois.

In his junior year, Thigpen got his first scholarship offer, from Wisconsin. With his stock starting to rise, he set up hours to be recruited. Coaches could call on Wednesdays and Sundays.

"I got pressured a lot by Illinios towards the end of the process," said Thigpen, "The head coach and assistant coaches started calling me early in the morning or all hours of the night.

"They didn't respect my rules. They respected me as a person and my family, but they were too hung up on getting me there. I got tired of it and let it go."

Illinios' loss would become Iowa's gain.

Thigpen went searching for a school. He visited West Virginia, Iowa, Michigan State, Michigan and UCLA, but settled on Iowa.

"Coach Fry and his staff did a heck of a job," Thigpen said. "They're very down to earth. I don't see how anyone could talk to Fry and not want to come here."

Thigpen said Fry wasn't afraid to discuss with him and his family the fact that he would be a black athlete coming to a predominantly white school.

"I felt comfortable with him because he was comfortable with the racial issue," Thigpen said.

"Coach Fry, more than all other coaches that came to my house, he was just laid back. He didn't try to sell me like all the other coaches did. He just laid it down.

Long before the Iowa football team plays the rest of the Big Ten and the nation on the field, it squares off in the biggest battle of them all.

Many games are won and lost not on the field or even during practice and preparation. Games are won and lost behind the scenes in the recruiting wars.

The process usually starts where it did for Thigpen, during a player's junior year of high school. College coaches, who are actually recruiting seniors, will see and hear about juniors on the same teams.

Of the 1,800-2,000 players who are looked at and evaluated by the Iowa coaching staff each year, 150-200 will be visited and checked up on by coaches, usually at their schools or homes. Of that total, 56 are flown to Iowa for official visits to the university.

"That was a once in a lifetime opportunity for me to go to any school for free, to not have to pay for anything," said Thigpen, who visited the maximum of five schools allowed per athlete.

It's when a player finally gets to a campus that the actual selling begins. The town of Iowa City is something recruiting coordinator Gene Jones likes to point out to his recruits.

"The biggest selling point is the community itself," Jones said. "The quality of the academic program at the University, the friendliness of the people and the fan support. Definitely, playing in the Big Ten conference is a big selling point, too."

"Every school is basically the same," said Thigpen. "They show you the overall academic program, get you affiliated with the program and the players."

With the addition of the new state-of-the-art Jacobsen Athletic Building, Iowa's facilities compare favorably with any other school's in the country, but Jones knows that isn't enough.

"Facilities don't make phone calls," Jones said. "We still have to go out and beat the bushes."

From the pool of 56 players that visit Iowa's campus, NCAA rules say up to 25 can be signed per year. Last year, Iowa signed 23 recruits. This year, Jones said the coaches will look to give out around 15-18 scholarships.

"We look at chemistry," Jones said. "We want to make sure a recruit wants to get an education."

"I have a lot of good people that stood by me. They told me worry about my academics first. Football and everything else will come," Thigpen said."

The day players can actually sign is during February of their senior year. This year, the day falls on Feb. 7.

Unlike college basketball, where players have an early signing period, players can only make verbal commitments in football prior to that date.

After Thigpen put his name on the dotted line and came to Iowa, he noticed a difference in how he was treated. He was no longer as special. He was a part of a team.

But that was all expected.

"During the recruiting process, coaches are going to be your friend," Thigpen said. "You have to know that is all affiliated with the recruiting process. You don't expect the same thing when you put on your pads."

"I knew what I was getting into. Like coaches that are hard on their players. That's what they do here. You have to earn your scholarship."

Like all recruits, Thigpen came in with ambitions of making an immediate impact, but talented players ahead of him and a coaching change have left him waiting in the wings, sowing his oats on special teams and late during an occasional blowout.

"I feel that we have a lot of older guys on the team and I'm young," he said. "My opportunity will come. When I'm older, I don't want some freshman coming in and taking my spot. It will all work out in the end."

Bowl game motivates Hawks

Last week, the Hawkeyes won for Hayden Fry, dedicating the game to their coach and giving him the game ball afterwards. This week, the Hawkeyes are shooting for a bowl game.

Iowa's chances at an automatic bid are out, but the Hawkeyes are still very much in the bowl hunt.

"We are (being considered) and we have been contacted by the people and they are sincere," Fry said after Iowa defeated Wisconsin, 33-20, on Saturday.

A victory over Minnesota would give Iowa the minimum seven wins it needs to qualify.

One thing the Hawkeyes have to their advantage is strong fan support. Fry said bowl representatives know the Hawkeyes travel well, bringing lots of fans, which attracts bowl invitations.

Fry said he would not discuss what he knows until after the Minnesota game, but seemed to hint that if Iowa wins, the Hawkeyes will go to a bowl.

"If (our record) could be good enough, I think we'll make a good representative," said Fry.

Ohio State and Northwestern have sprinted ahead of the Big Ten pack, but with four wins in the conference, Iowa could go to the Outback Bowl on Jan. 1 in Tampa, the Alamo Bowl on Dec. 28 in San Antonio or the Sun Bowl on Dec. 29 in El Paso.

These bowls have the third through fifth picks of Big Ten schools.

Michigan and Penn State will more likely be the first two picks of those three bowls. The Sun Bowl should come down to either Michigan State or Iowa. Michigan State has the better record, but Iowa beat the Spartans convincingly, 21-7, during the season.

Even if Iowa is not one of the first five Big Ten schools selected, the Hawkeyes still have two more options.

The Hawkeyes could go to the Independence Bowl on Dec. 29 in Shreveport, La.; or the Liberty Bowl on Dec. 30 in Memphis, Tenn., both of which have at-large spots available.

"I don't care where we go, as long as it's warm," said Iowa fullback Mike Burger.

The players will enter the Minnesota game with the attitude that a win puts them in a bowl game and a loss keeps them home.

"We know we have a lot to play for," said Tom Knight. "It's not just for Floyd of Rosedale now. We have to play for an opportunity to play in a bowl game."

There are a total of 18 bowl games which take 36 schools. Iowa is currently No. 32 in the Associated Press poll. The bowl alliance uses the Associated Press poll.

Penalties again seemed to torment the Hawkeyes against Wisconsin, as Iowa received eight penalties for 61 yards.

A holding penalty and a personal foul nullified pass completions of 36 and 23 yards respectively in the first half of the game Saturday.

"Some of those calls out there today make you blink," said Fry.

But penalties weren't the only thing that concerned Fry.

On another occasion, Wisconsin's Aaron Stecker reached to cross the plane of the goal line, had the ball knocked out of his hands and Iowa recovered.

But, Stecker was ruled down and Wisconsin scored a touchdown on the next play.

"That was a double blinker," said Fry. "That's about the nicest I can put it without getting fined ten thousand dollars."

Shaw will return

Despite becoming the all-time leading rusher at the University of Iowa while still a junior, Sedrick Shaw has no intentions of leaving school and turning pro early.

"I'll be here," he said, as though the thought of leaving never crossed his mind.

Against Wisconsin, Shaw added Iowa records for attempts in a season and yards in a season to his résumé.

"College football is only one chance in a lifetime," he said. "I'm not gonna miss it. I'm gonna enjoy it."

Gophers look to spoil Hawkeye bowl hopes

Shannon Stevens
The Daily Iowan

Everyone knew the Minnesota Golden Gophers would have a strong offense with names like Chris Darksins and Ryan Thelwell.

Minnesota (3-7), which has allowed an opponent to rush for more than 100 yards in seven consecutive games, hopes to find some kind of damage control when it invades Kinnick Stadium Saturday to battle the Iowa Hawkeyes (6-4).

One answer for the Gophers might lie in a potent offense that is averaging 26.9 points a contest. Minnesota (3-7) , which has allowed an opponent to rush for more than 100 yards in seven consecutive games, hopes to find some kind of damage control when it invades Kinnick Stadium Saturday to battle the Iowa Hawkeyes (6-4).

If the Gophers are to pull off the upset, they will have to cut down on their defensive miscues.

The Gophers are the Big Ten's worst defensive team allowing 442.9 yards and 32.3 points a game, while the Hawkeyes are fourth in the conference in total defense at 318.9 yards and 22.7 points a contest.

The Minnesota Golden Gophers are wrapping up their annual rivalry with the Iowa Hawkeyes, and both teams are looking to keep their bowl hopes alive.

Minnesota, currently 3-7, has struggled on defense all season, allowing more than 400 yards and 30 points per game. However, their offense, led by quarterback Matt Sherman, has been a bright spot, averaging 34.5 points per game.

The Hawkeyes, on the other hand, have a strong defense that has held opponents to 17.1 points per game. However, they are also averaging 10.7 points per game, which has affected their overall record.

Despite the differences in their records, both teams are looking to make a statement in this game.

"This is a big game for us," said Minnesota head coach Jerry Kill. "Iowa is a tough team, and we know we have to play our best to have a chance at a bowl game.

"But we're not just playing for ourselves. This game is for all our fans, and we want to show them that we can compete with the best."

Hawks head to bowl

There was a time when it really meant something to wear the black and gold of the Iowa Hawkeyes. Those days are coming back.

No matter what the last month may have told you, the future of Iowa football looks bright. Looking at next year’s schedule, the possibility of a Rose Bowl is very strong and after what Northwestern did this season, a very high national finish is not out of the question.

But the last thing on the minds of the Iowa Hawkeyes this week is next year. It’s time to talk about today, and the most important game of this year – Minnesota.

It’s funny how quickly things change.

Two weeks ago, it seemed like the Iowa Hawkeyes were a team headed nowhere. When it came time to step up and make a big play, they seemed unable to step up take control of their own destiny.

But then it happened. Last Saturday, an inspired Iowa football team went into Madison and beat a Wisconsin team that only two years ago was the best in the Big Ten.

After four straight losses, the Hawkeyes showed that they still know how to win and they still have the desire to win. It was not a bad Wisconsin football team on that field, Iowa very easily could have packed up and been eliminated from all bowl contention, but it didn’t.

Gary Barnett said of his Northwestern Wildcat team’s success that it’s not about winning as much as the fact his team just doesn’t like how it feels to lose.

That is exactly what happened to the Hawkeyes last week. They just got fed up with losing football games. They were embarrassed and they came out and did something about it.

This week, things will not be any different. The Hawkeyes are going to come out and take it to the Golden Gophers. Iowa has no desire to sit around the state of Iowa during the holidays.

Last week, the Hawkeyes played one of the hardest hitting college football games this season. Nothing was left on that field as the Badgers and Hawkeyes battled to stay alive in the bowl race.

This week, the only thing on the line for the Gophers is a bronze pig, but they would like nothing better than to spoil the Hawkeyes’ bowl aspirations.

The Gophers are looking to come into Iowa City and take it to the Hawkeyes, who beat them last year, and return Floyd to Minneapolis. Whether Minnesota has the man-power to do so remains to be seen, but it will try.

Minnesota will try everything under its hat to beat the Hawks. Fortunately for Iowa, Minnesota has a very small hat. The Iowa defense last week was sparkling. Once it figured out what Wisconsin was doing in the second half, the Hawkeye defensive backs read Darrell Bevell like a book, picking off the 25-year-old senior four times.

Penalties hurt the offense, but Sedrick Shaw and Matt Sherman looked sharp. Mike Burger also had a big game in his new starting fullback role. The freshman showed a knack for finding the hole for the Hawkeyes, who beat them 31-7.

No matter what the last month of the Hawkeye this week's game, but will return this week. He has no choice, as Tavian Banks will not be back.

Ohio State goes Bowling, Illini stay home

Another fine season of Big Ten football is coming to a close. It appears that Northwestern will become a victim of Penn State joining the conference. Due to the expanded schedule the Wildcats never got a crack at Ohio State and thus will spend their New's Day some other place than Pasadena.

The Buckeyes also will be cheated out of a shot at the national title due to the Big Ten not joining the bowl alliance. Unfortunately, college football has these type of casualties. But that's a different argument for a different day. Enjoy your Thanksgiving menu of Big Ten football on the last football Saturday of 1995.

Purdue at Indiana

Pride is the only thing on the line here as the Hoosiers and the Boilermakers renew a rivalry dating back to 1891.

Too bad the only storied history involved here is the battle to stay out of the Big Ten cellar. Indiana is trying to avoid going 0-8 in the conference for the first time since 1984 when the Hoosiers went 0-11.

Purdue's Mike Alstott became the Boilermakers' all-time leading rusher last week against Northwestern. The senior has rushed for 1,172 yards this year and would probably like nothing better than victory over Indiana in his final game.

Indiana, 17-13.

Illinois at Wisconsin

The Badgers were eliminated from bowl contention last week with a loss to Iowa. Barry Alvarez and his crew would like nothing more than to spoil the Illini's faint bowl hopes.

Illinois has been the disappointment of the conference. Simeon Rice and the vaunted Illinois defense is the only reason the Illini aren't below sixth place in the conference. Illinois has flunked team chemistry 101 by not having a consistent offense or quarterback for that matter.

This game will come down to two overheating running backs. Sophomore running back Carl McElduff is having a fine year for the Badgers. He has rushed for 900 yards and averages almost five yards per carry.

Sorry Lou, your home for the Holidays.

Wisconsin, 24-20.

Penn State at Michigan State

The Spartans have gotten their act together since a conference opening loss to Iowa. Rookie head coach Nick Saban could be Big Ten coach of the year if Northwestern's Gary Barnett was in another conference.

Michigan State has shocked the experts as the Spartans sit in third place by themselves. They might be New Year's day bowling if they can pull off the victory. But Joe Paterno's squad is just as hungry for that third place spot.

The key to this game will be Michigan State's defense. A solid performance on Saturday is a must for a unit that is 10th in the Big Ten in total defense. If not, Penn State receivers Freddie Scott and Bobby Engram will have Christmas a month early.

Penn State, 30-24.

Ohio State at Michigan

Gee, this game has never decided the conference title before. Once again it comes down to the rivalry of the Big Ten to decide the conference representative in Pasadena.

Michigan is out of the run for the roses but the Wolverines would love to see Northwestern in California instead of the Buckeyes.

Ohio State hasn't played a close game since a 28-25 victory over Penn State. But no one has to tell the Buckeyes and John Cooper how important this game is. Many times this game has decided if Ohio State makes a coaching change in the off season.

The Wolverines must have a big game from sophomore quarterback Brian Griese. Griese has thrown for 10 TD's and 1300 yards. Ohio State continues to destroy teams with its dominating offense. Buckeye quarterback Bobby Hoying has thrown 29 touchdown passes and Eddie George has rushed for 1722 yards. Enough said.

Ohio State, 38-17.

Pregame Heisman Picks

Chris Snider, Pregame Editor
Troy Davis — 2,000 yards and only a soph. I can’t believe I’m voting for a sophomore here. I have him as the next year’s Heisman.

Shannon Stevens, ESPN Sports Reporter
Eddie George — he made the Films look like they’re from Akron, Ohio.

Mike Triplett, Sports Editor
Eddie George — he’ll be close enough to 2,000 yards to lessen the impact of Troy Davis’ numbers.

Wayne Drehs, The Daily Iowan
Eddie George — Allen Chest!
