Hawk fans will get some sun

Chad Graham
The Daily Iowan

Forking over about $700 for the UI Alumni Association's official Sun Bowl game package could land Hawkeye football fans deep in the heart of Texas.

Sunday, the Hawkeyes accepted an invitation to play No. 20 Washington, the Pac-10 co-champions, in the Dec. 29 Sun Bowl game in El Paso, Texas. The Hawkeyes beat Minnesota, 45-3, to qualify for a bowl game with six

St., the UI's travel agency, said fans are showing a growing interest in the agency's trip, from Dec. 27-30.

"We have taken a lot of names and numbers for the package," he said. "The package includes round-trip airfare from Cedar Rapids and Des Moines on chartered airplanes, hotels, tickets to the games, transfers, baggage and a Hawkeye Huddle pep rally."

UI freshman Shawn McMillan said she might consider going to the Sun Bowl because the Hawkeyes are a good team.

"Yeah, I think the football team deserves it," she said. "They haven't been to a bowl game for a long time, and they look like a good team — we play good football. I maybe would consider going to the game. It would be a fun road trip."

UI senior Ben Thiessen said he wouldn't make the trip to El Paso when other teams are more deserving of a trip to the Sun Bowl.

"I don't think we really deserve it," Thiessen said. "It should've gone to another team. But Hayden has such a draw down there. He'll bring a lot of people to the game."

Tegen said he agreed the mixture of

Latinos discover heritage while at UI

Ann Haggerty
The Daily Iowan

When UI graduate student Lili Matteo, who is half Panamanian, went to the hospital with a broken thumb at age 6, the nurse wouldn't let her go home with the dark-skinned Panamanian woman who sat patiently in the waiting room.

She looked at Matteo's white face and little brown eyes and said, "Are you sure that is your mother?"

Matteo said there was little understanding of the small Latino population in Davenport, where she grew up. There wasn't even much of an understanding of Latinos in general — that a Latino could have blue eyes and blonde hair or speaking other languages as a bilingual child was normal, she said.

The only exposure Matteo had to her Latino roots was listening to Panamanian music and eating Panamanian food in her home. Outside of that, Matteo said, she knew no other Latinos and didn't really know what it meant to be Hispanic or Latino — until she went to college.

Matteo, who is one of 586 UI Latino students, joined several Latino student organizations and found a niche which understood some of her family's customs.

"When I was little my friends would ask me what I had for dinner and I would say, 'empanadas and platanos,' she said. "They would say, 'plato what?' Now when I say I had that for dinner last night (Latino students) know what I'm talking about."

Learning about the heritage of other Latino students opened Matteo's eyes to similarities and differences of the other cultures of Latin America, including the Dominican

The room was dark, colored lights spun on the dance floor and UI students talked at scattered tables — it could have been the scene of any Friday night at one of Iowa City's dance bars.

Except at this party, dozens of men and women were dancing in pairs and moving in sync with each other to the rhythmic sounds of merengue and salsa music playing from the loudspeakers.

This Latino dance party, held during National Latino Heritage Month, Sept. 15-Oct. 15, is one of the ways UI Latino students preserve their culture on campus, said Carlos Serrato, assistant director of UI Campus Programs and Student Activities. Officials: Bosnian treaty set

Jim Abrams
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Dayton treaty on Bosnia is final, senior American officials said Sunday in rejecting demands from Bosnian Serbs that provisions relating to the future of Sarajevo be changed.

"We are not going to renegotiate this agreement," Defense Secretary William Perry said of the pact worked out last week in Dayton,

Ohio, with the presidents of Bosnia, Serbia and Croatia.

Perry, chief U.S. negotiator Richard Holbrooke and National Security Adviser Anthony Lake appeared on Sunday news programs as a prelude to President Clinton's Monday night speech in which he hopes to win public and congressional support for his Bosnia policy.

Congressional Republicans have led the opposition to Clinton's plans to contribute 20,000 U.S. ground forces to a 60,000-member NATO peacekeeping force. But two key Republicans on the Senate Armed Services Committee suggested the traditional tendency of Congress to follow the president's lead on major foreign policy issues might again prevail.

Congress hasn't defied a president on military matters since it cut off funding for the bombing in Cambodia in 1974, Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., said on CBS' "Face the Nation." "I think the president can make the case."

Thousands of Bosnian Serbs in the capital of Sarajevo have protested the peace accord, which cedes control of their sector of the city to the Muslim-Croat federation. Bosnian Serb President Radovan Karadzic said Sunday "a new solution for Sarajevo must be found" and in the meantime, Serbs would not withdraw their troops.

Perry, also appearing on CBS, said such protests were expected, but stressed the terms of the treaty are final and "we fully expect that there will be compliance" from the Serbs as well as the other parties.

Holbrooke, an assistant secretary of state, also insisted on NBC's "Meet the Press" the Serb leadership has accepted the pact. "Dayton was an initialing, Paris will be a signing. There will be no change between Dayton and Paris."

Lake, speaking on ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley," said the Paris meeting to formally sign the accord would take place in mid-December and U.S. troops could be in Bosnia a few days after that.

RAFFLE FOR CHILDREN'S MIRACLE NETWORK

Who could forget the Magic Bus?

Evelyn Lauer
The Daily Iowan

After six years of beer bashes for Iowa football games, Brian Decoster had to say goodbye to his Hawkeye tailgating tradition Saturday.

His Melrose Avenue landmark, a school bus branded "The Magic Bus," was given away to Chris Skiba of Bettendorf in a raffle before the Iowa-Minnesota game. Decoster sold 116 tickets throughout the season for $5, with proceeds going to the Children's Miracle Network.

Decoster put the bus up for raffle because it was becoming too much of a hassle to keep up, he said. The impact of the loss hit him as he watched a friend of Skiba's spill a beer on a couch in the bus.

"I yelled at him, 'Hey watch where you spill the beer,'" he said. "Then I realized he was a friend of the new owner and I said 'I guess you can do whatever you want.' I don't own it anymore."

But among the leftover beer stains, six years of memories remain for both Decoster and the thousands of Hawkeye fans who have relished its excitement since its beginning.

Memories of 50-keg tailgating celebrations, road trips, bridal and bachelor parties and marriage proposals on the bus will last a lifetime for Decoster, who has put 70,000 miles on the bus since he's owned it.

"There's enough memories to write a book about it," he said. "I wouldn't trade the memories for anything. It was worth everything I put into it; all the gas, all the breakdowns, all the flat tires in 20 different states, it was all worth it."

The Magic Bus was first created when Decoster and his friends felt the urge to travel to Miami in 1989 to root for the Hawks and he bought a bus to go to the football game. Since then, the bus has made several

Specter's departure fails to create sparks in Iowa

Jay Dee
The Daily Iowan

It was a short, tough campaign for Republican presidential candidate Arlen Specter.

Specter, a third-term senator from Pennsylvania, suspended his bid for the Republican presidential nomination Nov. 22, citing a lack of funds for his campaign.

Specter's message combined conservative economics with a pro-choice position on abortion. A self-proclaimed moderate, Specter was booed by pro-life supporters at the August straw poll in Ames. His Iowa director, Burt Day, was called a "baby killer" by one of the pro-life demonstrators in Ames.

Rather than downplay his pro-choice stance — which could have cost him support in the caucuses — Specter attacked the Christian Coalition, a pro-life organization Specter claimed had too much influence in the GOP.

Some Republicans thought Specter went too far in his criticism of the party.

College drops tuition to lure students

Laura Meckler
Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Muskingum College, a small, private school in the hills of rural eastern Ohio, has a radical plan for recruiting students: slash tuition.

The liberal arts school is dropping tuition for the 1996-97 school year by $4,000 — 29 percent — for students enrolling for the first time, from $13,850 to $9,850.

"I have not heard of anything like that," said David Merkowitz, spokesperson for the American Council on Education, a group representing the nation's colleges and universities. "It is indicative of the degree of competition we are seeing in higher education based on price."

"Finally, we've been saying for years and years and years: We're pricing people out of higher education," said Laura McClintock, legislative director for the New York-based U.S. Student Association, a nationwide group of college students.

The school in New Concord, 75 miles east of Columbus, made its decision after extensive economic analysis, and a Gallup Poll it commissioned convinced administrators the school could bring in more money by charging less, said college President Samuel Speck.

After reaching a peak enrollment of 1,122 in the 1993-94 school year, enrollment at Muskingum dipped to 1,104 in 1994-95 and to 1,091 this year. It can accommodate 1,200, Speck said.

Muskingum wants to attract more of the students whose families cannot afford the higher rate but make too much money to qualify for financial aid.

"Families who may have felt they could not afford it will look at Muskingum," Speck said.

Muskingum, founded in 1837, is affiliated with the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.). Its most distinguished graduates include U.S. Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, and the late actress Agnes Moorehead.

Nationwide this year, tuition increased by an average of 6 percent — less than the double-digit increases of the early 1990s but still twice the inflation rate.

Annual tuition at Muskingum has risen 4.5 percent to 4.7 percent each of the past three years, said Janice Tucker, a college spokesperson.

Current Muskingum students will not benefit from the full tuition cut. Graduating seniors will see no discount, but students returning next fall could receive a "transitional" grant of up to $2,000, depending on the amount of financial aid they get.

That might rattle some students, said senior Holly Reynolds, vice president of a campus programming board.

But overall, she said, students are likely to welcome a move which makes their school more marketable.

"I think people are going to be shocked and surprised because it's something unheard of," she said.

"Most of the time you hear about things going up, not down."

John Lennon speaks from the grave

LONDON (AP) — Kc ab era seltaeB ehT. The Beatles are back — backwards?

Nearly three decades after fans thought Paul was dead, a BBC producer said the three surviving Beatles are again recording secret messages backwards into a song.

Simon Clifford said he heard John Lennon say "Turned out nice again," backwards at the end of the Beatles reunion number "Free As A Bird."

Clifford first noticed the phrase while watching the video, which concludes with a man in 1940s dress mounting a stage and playing a ukulele. The song closes with a ukulele.

George Formby, a popular ukulele-playing music hall comedian from England's north — like the Beatles — used to end his act with the phrase, "Turned out nice again." Formby died in 1961.

"I regard it as being very spooky, almost like a subliminal message to fans," Clifford told listeners Friday.

The Beatles' use of tapes spooled backwards on songs like "Tomorrow Never Knows" (1966) and "Because" (1970) prompted rumors of secret messages.

Fans argued over whether what sounded like "I buried Paul" on "Strawberry Fields Forever" (1967) and "Turn me on dead man" on "Revolution No. 9" (1968) were clues Paul McCartney had been killed and replaced by a look-alike.

Spokespeople for the group or for the recording label EMI could not be reached over the weekend for comment.

Christmas" and can't believe the TV special has been a hit for 30 years.

"The continued success of the special has surprised me as much as anyone," Schulz said in the Dec. 2 issue of TV Guide.

"A lot of the drawings are terrible, which (animation director) Bill Melendez and I are still ashamed of," he said.

Schulz, 73, speculated the popularity of the score, by composer Vince Guaraldi, has helped. "You add that to Linus' recitation from Saint Luke and all the little things, and you had a show that worked."

If he could give his characters holiday gifts, Schulz said he would repaint Lucy's shabby psychiatric booth; give Linus "some books on self-help so he can get rid of his blanket" and give Snoopy his own hockey team.

Charlie Brown would get a new right fielder because "the one he has now is driving him crazy."

Director wants fans laughing in the aisles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Director Steve Oedekerk knows what he wants from the people who see his comedies.

"As long as people are laughing so hard that their tongues are shooting out of their noses and they are rolling on the floor with their JuJufruits, I'm completely content," said Oedekerk, a veteran stand-up comedian who made his directorial debut with "Ace Ventura: When Nature Calls."

Oedekerk got his break when the film's original director, Tom DeCerio, left shortly after filming began. Star Jim Carrey has said he and DeCerio "didn't see eye to eye."

Although Oedekerk almost turned the job down because his wife, Tonie, was pregnant, she eventually joined him on the set and gave birth to a daughter, Zoe, in Charleston, S.C.

Tom Arnold and Roseanne together again — in court

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It could have been a three-way marriage made in fashion heaven: TV star Roseanne, then-husband Tom Arnold united with a maker of a line of clothes for big people.

Then came that other three-way marriage. And the lesbian revelations. And the 21 personalities. And the Star Spangled Banner.

And all of a sudden, the clothes maker feared, the Arnolds' peccadilloes wouldn't play in Peoria.

So Roseanne and Tom — together again, if only as parties in a civil lawsuit — sued New York-based CelebSales for allegedly failing to make good on a $250,000 payment as part of an agreement to put their famous names on a line of clothes.

CelebSales has counter-sued for $24 million-plus, contending the couple not only reneged on agreements to market the clothes on television, but generated publicity so vile that nobody would want to buy their product.

Trial is set for Tuesday in U.S. District Court here.

At center stage are three flamboyant personalities. Roseanne and Tom are matched, wit for wit, with CelebSales owner Stanley

Warner, a Seventh Avenue manufacturer with a tongue as sharp as pinky shears.

At the peak of his pique, Warner once said he'd "rather have Hitler's name on clothes than Roseanne's."

Under a November 1993 agreement, the Arnolds were to allow CelebSales — a company formed just for this deal — to use the couple's names and images for a line of clothes.

The Arnolds would get $1 million in installment payments.

"There were two separate licenses for each of the two of them: one for a large-sized Roseanne and one for a large-sized Tom," said CelebSales lawyer Jed Schlacter.

The deal stood to make everybody a mountain of money, since celebrity clothes lines have proven successful and celebrity-endorsed large-sized clothing was considered a major untapped market.

CelebSales figured Roseanne and Tom could do for big clothes what Jaclyn Smith did for K mart apparel.

Her K mart line has had sales of $150 million, while talk show hostess Kathie Lee Gifford's line of clothes at Wal-Mart is expected to gross more than $250 million.

'Birdie' returns in interracial remake

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — Vanessa Williams, no stranger to racial and sexual controversy, is undaunted by her role in the TV remake of "Bye Bye Birdie" as half of an interracial couple.

The singer and actress said she took the part because it deals realistically with the family problems created by the couple's racial differences.

Williams was crowned the first black Miss America in September 1983 but renounced her title nine months later after Penthouse magazine printed nude pictures of her.

She stars in the musical, which aired Sunday on ABC, with Jason Alexander, who plays George on "Seinfeld."

"When it comes to Jason and me kissing at the end, well, for the people who hate interracial couples, get those letters ready. We're waiting for them," she said in the Dec. 2 issue of TV Guide.

Derailment leaves residents worrying about living on wrong side of track

Daisy Hutzell
The Daily Iowan

Almost one week after the derailment of an Iowa Interstate Railroad train, residents living in the Kennedy Plaza apartments are skeptical of the trains that run near their apartment building and the bridge where the train jumped the tracks.

At 3 a.m. Wednesday, a west-bound Iowa Interstate Railroad train derailed, leaving three cars on their sides and two hanging over the bridge in the 700 block of Gilbert Street. The road was blocked off until about 4:30 p.m.

"It's kind of scary," said UI senior Heather Haynes, who heard about the derailment after returning from Thanksgiving break. "I think about it when I walk underneath the tracks everyday."

"You'd like to think it never would (happen), but then it does and you're even more scared. I'm glad I wasn't here. It makes living close to the tracks a little too close for comfort."

Mike Hodge, owner of Kennedy Plaza apartments, said the area has seen a train derail before.

"There was one less than five years ago where a grain car spilled over," Hodge said.

UI senior Traci Ripperda said she saw the cars off the track and wondered why residents of the building weren't evacuated.

"(My roommates and I) were surprised that the bottom floors weren't evacuated, because if it had rolled, it could have rolled onto the bottom floors," she said.

However, Hodge said he is not worried for his building or his tenants' safety because of a creek which comes between the building and the railroad.

"There's a pretty good-sized creek there, so something would have to roll uphill (to hit the apartments)," Hodge said.

UI senior Jim Cox, who lives in the apartment building, said he slept through the derailment. He did not see the derailed cars until he walked out his door later that morning to go to work.

"There were two tankers, one that previously held hydrochloric acid," Cox said. "When I saw them, they were at about a 45 degree tilt."

UI junior John Henricksen thinks something should be done, safety-wise.

"I question the safety of the building, because if it had fallen off, I don't know what would have happened," Henricksen said. "I think the management or railroad should do something about the safety of the building. I won't be living here next year, that's for sure."

Iowa Interstate Railroad spokesperson Dick Cairney was unavailable for comment.

Jackson's son works to make own mark

Sharon Cohen
Associated Press

CHICAGO HEIGHTS, Ill. — The stocky, bearded young man in a sleek gray suit leans over from his chair, surrounded by preschoolers who giggle and hang on his every animated word.

To the Head Start toddlers listening to him read a story, Jesse Jackson Jr. is just a visitor.

But to almost everyone else he meets, he is The Son, the presumed heir to his father's activist legacy.

On Tuesday, the eldest son of former presidential candidate Jesse Jackson tests his own appeal to voters. He is one of five Democrats vying for a ballot spot in a special election to fill the 2nd Congressional District seat vacated by Mel Reynolds, who was convicted of having sex with an underage campaign worker.

Four Republicans are also campaigning for a chance to run in the Dec. 12 general election, although winning the Democratic nomination is considered tantamount to victory.

In his first bid for public office, the 30-year-old Jackson must make a delicate transition — shifting from years of identification with his father's social agenda to try to make his own mark, and from within the system he has been taught to challenge.

No matter what he does, Jesse Louis Jackson Jr. learned early on he cannot hide from his name. Nor does he want to.

"It's a name that's synonymous with public service, with helping people, and I've always strived to live up to that commitment," Jackson said with the practiced earnestness of a man who carries a Bible in his briefcase and passed his 21st birthday in jail for protesting apartheid in South Africa.

But the family name also "is a double-edged sword," he said. "You inherit your father's friends, your parents' friends and you inherit their detractors."

Jackson, called Junior by friends, has traveled with his father to Cuba and Syria, met popes and presidents and broken bread with former Nicaraguan leader Daniel Ortega. He can boast he needs no introduction to Nelson Mandela or many members of Congress.

"Unlike other candidates in this race, I'm not going to Washington to get to know people," said Jackson, a member of the Democratic National Committee.

"He's been preparing for this all his life," said the elder Jackson, who was agitating for voting rights in Selma, Ala., the day his son was born. "It's a tender age, but he has a tough mind."

"The most difficult question I probably have answered is what's it like to be Jesse Junior. I don't know what it's like to be John Doe. This is my only reality. ... And it's been quite an experience."

Jesse Jackson Jr.

Jackson's name recognition seems to be paying off: A recent Chicago Tribune poll found he was the best-known of all nine candidates for Reynolds' seat, topping even Illinois Senate minority leader Emil Jones, a 22-year legislative veteran.

He led the Democratic pack with 33 percent support — but almost the same percentage of district voters had reservations about his lack of elective experience.

His name "may not get him to the finish line," said Paul Green, a political science professor at suburban Governor's State University, "but it gets him to the starting gate."

Supporters said Jackson is a dogged grassroots organizer who thrives on details and computer wizardry, a style distinct from his father's chaotic, seat-of-the-pants approach.

"He's very much into planning and organizing and building institutions," said Frank Watkins, Jackson's campaign manager and long-time aide to his father. "His dad has always been more of a mobilizer."

Jackson has promised to bring jobs to ravaged industrial areas of the 2nd District, which is 68 percent black and encompasses parts of Chicago's poverty-pocked South Side as well as middle-class and affluent southern suburbs.

Critics call Jackson a rookie — he and his wife, Sandra, a lawyer, moved from Washington to the South Shore neighborhood to establish residency only last year. And they say he offers little more than snappy slogans, a much-stamped passport and years spent working for dad as national field director of the Rainbow Coalition.

Jackson was recently put on the defensive by disclosures that his salary was paid by the Hotel Employees and Restaurant Employees International Union, which settled federal racketeering charges this year by agreeing to rid itself of mob influence.

Jackson insists he was unaware of the alleged criminal connections and said the Rainbow Coalition worked legitimately with the union on organizing projects.

Unlike his father, who grew up poor in a starkly segregated society, this second child of five (he has two brothers and two sisters) had a privileged upbringing: He became an expert fencer at military school and a dazzling running back at the elite St. Alban's School in Washington, then zipped through his dad's alma mater, North Carolina A&T, in three years. He has degrees in both law and theology.

Though father and son share a philosophy, Jackson said his mother, Jacqueline, was the children's guiding force.

"Mama really raised us," he said. "Our values are mama's values. Our courage is daddy's courage."

But he knows the public sees him as his father's son.

"The most difficult question I probably have answered is what's it like to be Jesse Junior. I don't know what it's like to be John Doe. This is my only reality. ... And it's been quite an experience."

REPORT NAMES BRADLEY, TSONGAS

Politicians challenge two-party system

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Seven prominent politicians, including New Jersey Sen. Bill Bradley and former Connecticut Gov. Lowell Weicker, have been secretly planning an independent presidential campaign, according to a published report.

The seven, five Democrats and two independents, have discussed in telephone conference calls the need for a new voice to challenge the two-party system, according to Time magazine.

A spokesperson for Bradley confirmed Sunday that the seven have been discussing issues — but not an independent presidential candidacy.

"I don't think the discussions have focused on that, but I don't know that for a fact," said Bernie Tonn, Bradley's chief of staff.

In editions going on sale Monday, Time identified the seven as Democrats Bradley; former Massachusetts Sen. Paul Tsongas; former Colorado Sen. Gary Hart; former Colorado Gov. Dick Lamm and former Minn. Rep. Tim Penny, as well as independents Weicker and Maine Gov. Angus King.

Tonn confirmed the names, saying Bradley "has been participating with that group, discussing issues facing the country generally."

Dennis Bailey, a spokesperson for King, also confirmed the governor had participated with the group in "just general discussions about problem-solving and the direction of the country," but not a presidential race.

"I can't say anything about it. I just can't," said Lamm, when asked for comment.

None of the others mentioned in the Time story were immediately available for comment.

Several members of the group have expressed interest either in running for president or backing an independent candidacy but it would be unusual for so many political figures with diverse ideological backgrounds to discuss it together.

Di's image used in condom ad

Associated Press

OSLO, Norway — An advertisement that used Princess Diana's admission of adultery to promote condom sales stirred protests from Britain and furious debate in Norway.

The newspaper ad showed a photograph of the British princess, wearing white, on one page. On the opposite page was the headline: "It's hard to see on the outside whether someone has had casual sex with casual partners."

"It happens in the best of families. One can never be too careful," said the ad for RSU condoms, published by the Oslo tabloid Dagbladet on Friday.

The ad appeared the day after Norwegian television aired a British Broadcasting Corp. interview in which the princess admitted to having been unfaithful to her husband, Prince Charles.

Norwegian newspapers reported Saturday that Buckingham Palace was furious about the advertisement, which used Diana's picture without permission.

But the man behind the campaign, Ingebrigt Steen-Jensen of the JBR agency in Oslo, said the ad was motivated by the need to promote the use of condoms to prevent the spread of sexually transmitted disease.

"As we see it, it was Diana who made her life above and below the belt the No. 1 topic of conversation this week," he said. "She must have known that her statements would be used commercially around the world."

Photographer suspected in death of model

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Investigators who unearthed the body of a model from a makeshift mountain grave said Sunday they doubted a photographer's story that he killed her by accident.

An autopsy was being conducted to determine how 27-year-old Linda Sobek died, Los Angeles County coroner's spokesperson Larry Reiche said.

Photographer Charles Rathbun told investigators he accidentally struck Sobek with a Lexus sport utility truck while showing her how to drive it in a series of spins for a photo session. He said he panicked and buried her.

"We are very skeptical that (he) is telling the truth at this point," said Sheriff's Capt. Dan Burt. He declined to elaborate.

Sobek's body, clad in shorts and a top, was exhumed Saturday from a shallow grave near a rocky ravine in the Angeles National Forest, 25 miles north of the city.

Small amounts of blood as well as hair similar to Sobek's were recovered from the vehicle, authorities said Saturday.

Sobek, 27, a former Los Angeles Raiders cheerleader, vanished on Nov. 16. A message left on her telephone answering machine at home in Hermosa Beach said she was heading to a modeling assignment, but did not give any details.

Rathbun, 38, led investigators to the grave Friday.

Rathbun remained in custody Sunday under suicide watch. He attempted to shoot himself just before his arrest Wednesday at his Hollywood home. He also tried to slash his wrists in jail Friday, just hours before he led searchers to the grave.

Rathbun was booked for investigation of murder and was expected to be arraigned today.

U.S. officials predict an end to Aristide's leadership

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Clinton administration signaled strongly Sunday that it expects Haiti to hold presidential elections as scheduled next month and President Jean-Bertrand Aristide to step down next February.

"We expect him to leave," White House National Security Adviser Anthony Lake said Sunday after Aristide implied last week he would consider the requests of his followers to stay in power for another term.

U.S. troops entered Haiti 14 months ago to restore Aristide to power under the assumption that the former Roman Catholic priest would not seek re-election and would cede power when his term ends in February next year.

Administration officials also sought to play down concerns that increased street violence in Haiti and a recent political killing indicate a return to the bloody lawlessness which preceded U.S. intervention.

Arkansas bankers' records subpoenaed in Whitewater investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — White-water prosecutors have expanded their investigation to examine donations two Arkansas bankers made to Bill Clinton's 1990 gubernatorial campaign. The bankers are waging a secret court battle to fight subpoenas for their records, according to lawyers.

In a step approved by a federal appeals court in late July, prosecutors are investigating whether $7,000 from the families of Herby Branscum Jr. and Robert Hill came from federally insured funds at their bank, the lawyers said.

Attorneys for Branscum and Hill deny there was any misuse of bank funds.

The Whitewater investigation's original interest in Clinton's 1990 campaign focused on Bruce Lindsey, a longtime friend of the president who was the campaign treasurer then and now is a top White House aide.

Perry County Bank in Perryville, Ark., which is owned by Branscum and Hill, is where Lindsey kept the 1990 campaign accounts.

Holiday shoppers say 'humbug' to frivolous spending

Joyce Rosenberg
Associated Press

Consumers sent retailers a mixed message at the start of this holiday season: They hit the stores without spending a lot.

Analysts expect this to be one of the toughest Christmas seasons in years. Consumers uncertain about the economy and their own finances already owe billions to credit card companies and banks.

Thanksgiving weekend sales, the traditional first hint of the season's flavor, were strong for household items from computers and electronics to tool kits and Snake Lights.

Pragmatic consumers, if they bought personal gifts, were choosing small items like perfume and cosmetics, or those with long-term value like jewelry.

In mall shops, jewelry sales Friday rose 6.8 percent while music, video, electronics and software retailers saw a 9.3 percent gain. Clothing sellers managed only a 1 percent gain and home furnishings stores saw business fall 2.3 percent, said John Konarski, a vice president with the International Council of Shopping Centers.

The big picture was still blurry: While the International Council of Shopping Centers found business on Friday alone rose 5.8 percent over last year at mall specialty stores, TeleCheck Services Inc., a check approval service, said the amount of sales paid for by check that day fell 4.8 percent.

Still, there were spenders out there, and at all hours, too. Anna Coger was buying Christmas ornaments at nearly 4 a.m. at the Wal-Mart Supercenter in Benton, Ark.

"I just couldn't sleep," Coger said Saturday. "So I decided to come get some more of these so I could finish the tree."

Some retailers were equally enthusiastic.

Sears, Roebuck and Co., with its wide assortment of merchandise and big inventory of competitively priced appliances and electronics, "had the best Thanksgiving weekend in our history," said John Costello, senior executive vice president for marketing.

Sears' big sellers were computers, big-screen TVs, tool sets, cosmetics, fragrances, scarves and gloves.

Welfare program not responsible for murders

A woman was murdered and her child was cut out of her belly. The woman was on welfare. According to Newt Gingrich, that means welfare should be taken away.

If Aid to Families with Dependent Children is repealed, 4.7 million families and 9 million children will not have money, housing or food. If it is eliminated, a family of three in Mississippi will not receive their allotted $120 a month. The family of three in Connecticut will not receive their $581 per month. If there is no welfare, there will be starvation, pure and simple.

Yet, Gingrich is ignoring these facts. The Speaker of the House, on national television, said welfare was responsible for the murder of Deborah Evans and her two children.

The Senate estimates it will save $65 billion to $70 billion over seven years with their new plan. Of course, money is always more important than human life. Let the government cut back on welfare. Let children starve.

EDITORIAL POINT OF VIEW

Welfare services may have gone astray, but blaming recipients, as Gingrich does, won't solve the problems.

The current welfare system, and thus the reform, focuses on curbing adult behavior, not on meeting the needs of children. According to a law professor at Loyola University, the federal government annually spends $14 billion on Aid to Families with Dependent Children and the states provide $11 billion. But that $25 billion is only 8 percent of the total annual federal spending on Social Security benefits.

Welfare needs to be reformed, there's no question of that. One of the biggest problems our country has is the mind frame that everything should be made easier. Welfare recipients don't have to work. With no goals or standards, apathy sets in.

Welfare entered the picture in 1935 with Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal plan. It was needed to support children who lacked parents to support them. It's still needed. Perhaps Evans was on welfare. Perhaps she was having children out of wedlock, including the baby she was carrying. Perhaps she had problems and the government adopted the subsequent role of supporting her. It's not fair to the citizens whose taxes support her. But it's not fair to her children either.

The children are, or were, what the system is about.

Evans' behavior is controversial, and certainly something welfare is fighting: women who continuously have children and expect the government to support them. But that in no way gives Gingrich the right to blame the multiple murders on welfare. People were killed. Blame the murderers, not the financial system that supports the victims. It wasn't about money; it was about people who obviously need some mental assistance. Taking Evans off of welfare would not have prevented her or her children's deaths.

It's pathetic that our nation's politicians are so far removed from the people they are supposed to be representing. While the project is necessary — the motives are wrong. It should be about helping people, not saving money. Congress must revolutionize the system, and the thought foremost in mind should not be the national deficit, but the citizens of America.

Waging war is not a game

To the Editor:

Mike Brogan's piece following the Non-Violent Toys Fair held Nov. 11, humorous attempts aside, revealed a shallow opinion about the role toys play in the development of children. Perhaps if Brogan had attended the toy fair he ridiculed he would be able to offer a more reasoned assessment of what the organizers and participants saw as an important event.

Brogan attempts to persuade that "violent toys are the best kind" because "a violent toy is a fun toy." It is specious to suggest that the "brain trusts behind this little operation" overlooked this issue. Fun toys are the best, but there are a lot of things more fun than violence. Instead of trying to establish authority by denigrating the intelligence and operations of persons involved with the Non-Violent Toys Fair, Brogan should have improved his arguments.

Brogan's opinion is essentially supported by his statements that kids prefer violent toys. It is an economic fact that most toys are available only in mass market settings where overriding objectives of dominant players in the toy market support little product line innovation. Preferences are influenced by available options. These companies don't want to drop toys like

G.I. Joe and try and compete in more specialized, higher quality niche markets. It is no wonder that a $27 billion industry has convinced many kids to "prefer" their toys.

Cultivating an interest in education, cooperation and play is more preferable than a practice of stereotyping, competing against the enemy and waging war. These realities of human existence must also be taught to our children, without inculcating violence through the positive reinforcement of toys.

As a consumer society, both materially and culturally, market forces are powerful. The Non-Violent Toy Fair was an opportunity to explore what constitutes a beneficial toy. This focus is about the excitement and revelry of play. Kids like toys that are fun. As toy consumers, we are challenged to select toys which have a positive individual and social impact.

So Brogan, if your intention was to rhapsodize about the fun you had playing with your toys, there was no reason to begin your piece with an attack on the Non-Violent Toys Fair. But if you really want to take issue with the people and the ideas involved in the Non-Violent Toys Fair, I welcome the opportunity to continue this dialogue.

Only history can predict next Iowa caucuses winner

History is an indicator of who will and who won't be president.

What do millionaire Steve Forbes, businessperson Morry Taylor, Rep. Bob Dornan, radio talk show host Allen Keyes and political commentator Pat Buchanan have in common? All of them are campaigning for the Republican presidential nomination, but none have a chance of winning.

With less than three months left before the Iowa caucuses, the Republican field has been narrowed to three candidates. Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, Texas Sen. Phil Gramm and former Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander are the only candidates with a chance of winning at next spring's Republican National Convention in San Diego.

Although the Iowa caucuses are the first hurdle in the race to the nomination, some candidates have already fallen out. California Gov. Pete Wilson had trouble in the starting blocks and never fully recovered. During his re-election campaign, Wilson promised California voters he would serve out his term. However, this promise must have plagued him; he declared his candidacy, floundered, declared his candidacy again and finally quit.

Pennsylvania Sen. Arlen Specter can't quit — he has a commitment to his few support-

EDITORIAL POINT OF VIEW

The history of the Republican party points to three possible Iowa presidential nominees: Dole, Gramm and Alexander.

ers. Citing a lack of funds and dim prospects of raising more, Specter has placed his presidential campaign into cold storage.

Indiana Sen. Richard Lugar's campaign has been in cold storage since its inception. The smart money in the GOP horse race will be Lugar as the next viable candidate to drop out or at least put his campaign on hold.

Despite what others suggest, Wilson, Specter and Lugar are all viable candidates. History has shown us that U.S. Senators can be elected president; John F. Kennedy was promoted from the Senate to the White House. Our country is willing to elect governors — just ask Ronald Reagan and Bill Clinton. History is an indicator of who has a chance of receiving the nomination.

While voters have been willing to reward war heroes with the highest position in the nation, they have been slow to use the presidency as an entry-level proving ground for people who have never been elected to anything. Iowa's own Herbert Hoover was never elected to any other office before being elected president, but he served as Secretary of Commerce under two presidents. He also served an important role as the chairperson of several relief committees during World War I.

After years of making money and eschewing significant public service, millionaires Forbes and Taylor will not be elected president.

Abraham Lincoln was the last man elected president after only serving in the House of Representatives, and Rep. Bob Dornan is not Abraham Lincoln.

Both Buchanan and Keyes have served in appointed positions under Republican presidents, but neither served at a cabinet level. Today, both represent a small minority of the Republican Party.

When the snow finally settles in February, only Dole, Gramm and Alexander have a chance of winning the Iowa caucuses.

Packaging — the ultimate war against drugs

Recently I had a simple, foolproof idea for eliminating the drug problem in this country. It came to me while I was making spaghetti sauce.

I use an ancient Italian spaghetti sauce recipe that has been handed down through many generations of ancient Italians, as follows:

Dave Barry
is a syndicated columnist for the Miami Herald

1. Buy some spaghetti sauce.
 2. Heat it up.
- Sometimes I add some seasoning to the sauce, to give it a dash of what the Italians call "joie de vivre" (literally "ingredients"). I had purchased, from the supermarket spice section, a small plastic container labeled "Italian Seasoning." My plan was to open this container and sprinkle some seasoning into the sauce.

Already I can hear you veteran consumers out there chortling in a good-natured amusement. "You complete moron," you are chortling. "You actually thought you could gain access to a product protected by MODERN PACKAGING?"

Yes, I did, and I certainly learned my lesson. Because it turns out that Italian Seasoning has joined the growing number of products that, for your protection, are packaged in containers that you cannot open unless you own a home laser cannon.

This trend started with aspirin. Years ago — ask your grandparents — aspirin was sold in bottles that had removable caps. That system was changed when consumer-safety authorities discovered that certain consumers were taking advantage of this loophole by opening up the bottles and — it only takes a few "bad apples" to spoil things for everybody — ingesting aspirin tablets.

So now aspirin bottles behave very much like sting-insects in nature movies, defending themselves against consumer access via a multilevel security system:

- (1) There is a plastic wrapper to keep you from getting at the cap.
- (2) The cap, which is patented by the Rubik's Cube company, cannot be removed unless you line an invisible arrow up with an invisible dot while rotating the cap counterclockwise and simultaneously pushing down while pulling up.
- (3) In the unlikely event that you get the cap off, the top of the bottle is blocked by a taut piece of extremely feisty foil made from the same impenetrable material used to protect the Space Shuttle during atmospheric re-entry.

(4) Underneath the foil is a virtually unremovable wad of cotton the size of a small sheep.

(5) As a final precaution, there is no actual aspirin underneath the cotton. There is only a piece of paper warning you that the first piece of paper could give you a paper cut.

Even this may not be enough security for the aspirin of tomorrow. At this very moment, packaging scientists are working on an even more secure system, in which the entire aspirin container would be located inside a live sea urchin.

With aspirin leading the way, more and more products are coming out with fiercely protective packaging designed to prevent consumers from consuming. My Italian Seasoning container featured a foil seal and a fiendish plastic thing that I could not remove with my bare hands, which meant of course that I had to use my teeth.

These days you have to open almost every consumer item by gnawing on the packaging. Go to any typical consumer household and you'll note most of the products — food, medicine, compact discs, appliances, furniture — are covered with bite marks, as though the house is infested with crazed beavers. The floor will be gritty with little chips of consumer teeth. Many consumers are also getting good results by stabbing their products with knives. I would estimate that 58 percent of all serious household accidents result from consumers assaulting packaging designed to improve consumer safety.

Anyway, I finally gnawed my seasoning container open, no doubt activating a tiny transmitter that triggered an alarm in some Spice Security Command Post (WHEEP! WHEEP! WHEEP! INTRUDER GAINING ACCESS TO ITALIAN SEASONING IN SECTOR 19!). While I was stirring my spaghetti sauce, it occurred to me that if we want to eliminate the drug problem in this country, all we have to do is:

1. Make all drugs completely legal and allow them to be sold in supermarkets ("Crack? Aisle 6, next to the Sweet 'n' Low.")
2. Require that the drugs be sold in standard consumer packaging.

My reasoning is that if physically fit, clear-headed consumers can't get into these packages, there's no way that strung-out junkies can. Eventually they'll give up trying to get at their drugs and become useful members of society, or at least attorneys.

I realize that some of you may have questions about this plan. Your most likely concern is: If dangerous and highly addictive narcotics are sold freely in supermarkets, will the packages be required to have Nutritional Facts labels, like the ones that now helpfully inform consumers of the protein, carbohydrate, Vitamin A, Vitamin C, Calcium and Iron content of products such as Cool Whip Lite?

Of course they will. Even though, if my plan works as expected, an addict would be unable to consume his heroin purchase, he still has a vital right to know, as an American consumer, that if he did consume it, he'd be getting only a small percentage of his Daily Requirement of dietary fiber. This is just one of the many benefits we enjoy as residents of this Consumer Paradise. My head aches with pride.

Serbs challenge Balkan peace accord

Jovana Gec
Associated Press

PALE, Bosnia-Herzegovina — Rebel Serb leaders demanded international protection Sunday for Serb-held parts of Sarajevo, where residents' refusal to submit to government authority could jeopardize the Bosnian peace accord.

The accord, brokered in Dayton, Ohio, would unify the capital under the Muslim-led government. Sarajevo's 120,000 Serbs, however, fear for their homes and future if they come under government control.

Serbs in Sarajevo demonstrated for the third straight day Sunday to protest the accord, and rebel leader Radovan Karadzic called for protection for the city's Serbs while the peace terms are renegotiated.

"A new solution for Sarajevo must be found," Karadzic told Bosnian Serb radio after meeting all night with representatives from Serb-held districts of the capital.

"Until a new solution is found, it is the international community's duty to protect Serbs in Sarajevo," he said, adding that in the meantime, Serbs would not withdraw their troops as foreseen under the Dayton accord.

Karadzic has urged the Bosnian Serb assembly to accept the peace accord, but he is under pressure to get the terms for Sarajevo changed. Despite government assurances that they can remain in their homes without fear for their safety, Sarajevo Serbs are unlikely to accept the plan without some guarantees of protection.

The chances for changes in the accord are slim.

The Bosnian government is unlikely to agree to any renegotiation, having won its key demand

A woman walks with her child past a French U.N. peacekeeper after attending mass at the cathedral in downtown Sarajevo Sunday. Some 60,000 NATO troops are scheduled to take over from the U.N. in Bosnia to enforce the peace agreement initialized by Balkan leaders Tuesday in Dayton, Ohio.

that Sarajevo be united under its control.

And U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Richard Holbrooke, the chief American negotiator, ruled out any changes to the plan, which is to be signed in Paris next month.

"Dayton was an initialing. Paris will be a signing. There will be no change between Dayton and Paris," Holbrooke said on NBC's "Meet the Press."

In the Serb-held suburb of Ilidza, about 1,000 women, dressed in black, gathered at the cemetery to protest the peace accord, chanting, "Slobo, come here and count our dead" in a reference to Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic, who many feel betrayed the Bosnian Serbs in the Dayton peace talks.

Hologram offers surgeons '3-D x-ray Vision'

Martha Mendoza
Associated Press

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — The surgeon leans into the drill as it grinds into the patient's skull. Then he pauses, turning to study a shimmering, translucent image of a head projected nearby.

He moves his fingers through the ghostly image sculpted in light, gauging the distance between a tumor and a blood vessel, estimating how deeply he should scoop his instruments into the patient's brain.

Then he returns to his drill and continues his work.

This is medical technology in 1995.

About 100 surgeons around the country have been using such hologram displays in clinical trials for the past four years, and the University of New Mexico was one of the first places to use them in the operating room.

"It's very cool technology. It actually gives the surgeons a preview of what they're getting into," says Dr. Frederick Rupp, a radiologist at the university.

The hologram system, sold under the name Voxgram, was being offered for sale for the first time this weekend at the Radiological Society of North America conference in Chicago. The technology, produced by VOXEL of Laguna Hills, Calif., received clearance from the Food and Drug Administration on Oct. 1.

Rupp planned to present some of his findings at the conference and in the new issue of the Journal of Neurosurgery's CD-ROM edition.

The system includes a $175,000 machine that makes holograms of already high-tech images such as computed tomography or CT, X-ray scans and magnetic resonance images, called MRIs.

A light box displays the hologram as a three-dimensional image floating in space, unlike the flat CT or MRI picture. A surgeon can put a hand into this mirage and gain a sense of depth.

Republic, Puerto Rico and Mexico, she said.

On the East and West coasts, Latinos tend to live with others with roots from the same country, said Israel Reyes, a UI graduate student, who is a second generation Puerto Rican American. Being Latino in the Midwest is unique because, outside of Chicago, the region lacks large Latino communities.

"In the Midwest, people tend to group together more under this term, Latino, because no one group really dominates over the other in numbers, although there are more Mexican-package price will soon be finalized, along with accommodations, Tegen said.

"We have to wait for the teams which get the first choice, so we can't announce the hotels yet," he said. "The same package two years ago in San Antonio cost $699, and there should be no big changes. It may go up a little bit, but it's up to the Alumni Association."

Tegen said he has been to El Paso many times, and the area would be a big draw for Hawkeye fans.

"I like the physical look of it with the mountains in the background," he said. "The temperature could be in the '60s and '70s, it will be warm and it's near the water," he said. "The only problem would be that there aren't many students around at Christmas. I do think students will be responsive because it is a fun city."

Though the Alumni Association is demanding a low-cost package, students can find cheaper ways of attending the bowl by bypassing the Wine-brenner Travel package, Tegen said.

"Our basic commitment is to the Alumni Association — this is obviously not a student package," he said. "There are hotels that cost a lot less and there are cheaper ways to get there than with the official U of I package."

Season ticket holders will receive applications this week for ticket information. Others can order tickets, which cost $35, by calling the Iowa ticket office at 319-335-9323 or 800-424-2957.

Americans in this country than any other group," he said.

However, universities all over the country lack large Latino populations, Reyes said.

"Being a Latino in this country, you're going to be one of the few. Iowa in that sense is not unique," he said. "We are completely outnumbered here."

UI junior Jonathan Carter, a second generation Cuban-American, said he grew up in a Chicago suburb, St. Charles, also a town with few minorities. He said moving to Iowa City exposed him to a greater diversity of people which made him identify himself as a Latino for the first time.

"I guess since I've been to college, I think I have a stronger realization of what it means to be Latino, as opposed to saying, 'My mother is from Cuba and I'm Cuban-American,'" he said. "Seeing people with different Latino backgrounds and talking about similar issues, I've come to identify with the Latino race."

UI junior Rebekah Salinas, a second generation Mexican-American, said she also learned more about the similarities and differences among the Latino groups when she came to the UI.

However, her exploration of the Latino identity happened when she moved to Iowa City from a community in California with a large Mexican-American population that celebrated Mexican Independence Day and had taco trucks, which sold food in the streets.

When Salinas joined the Latino organizations on campus, she learned about the food and holidays of different Latin American countries through her friends with family roots from Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic.

"Latina always meant Mexican to me," she said. "I learned other cultural aspects of being Latina."

want to be speaking Spanish all of the time. I wanted to practice my English," she said. "But it's hard to make (American) friends. It's hard to break the wall they sometimes put up. They are so nice to me, but it's the friendship that is hard to establish."

In addition, Ramirez said some of the characteristics others find in different Latino cultures she feels aren't as important in the American culture. Those characteristics include showing emotions and affection, anticipating a person's need for help and inviting new people into conversations and out to social events.

Matteo, who is half Panamanian, said she identifies with both white students and Latino students. However, she tends to gravitate towards Latinos because Latino students sometimes speak her second language (Spanish), listen to some of the same types of music and aren't afraid to depend on each other.

While she has found a comfortable niche in the Latino community, Salinas said, she believes she should spend more time outside her support group.

"I don't know if there is such a thing as being too immersed in your culture, but I think that's what I may be doing," she said. "But actually, I want to move towards trying to see myself in the broader picture, especially now since I'm getting closer to graduation and I'll be going out into the real world — and the real world is everybody."

LATINO GROUPS

academically support other Latino students and provide a support group for Latinos.

Ten percent of the 586 UI students who marked "Hispanic" on their applications are involved in any of the nine organizations or participate in the cultural events, said Lili Matteo, who is co-chairperson of LUGAR, a Latino graduate student organization.

UI junior Rebekah Salinas is one of the nine members of the Latina sorority Sigma Lambda Gamma. She said the sorority, which now consists of only Mexican-Americans, tries to hold onto their Mexican roots.

"We participate in cultural diversity day, we give presentations at the UI and we tutor Hispanic students," she said. "We do all the regular stuff any sorority does, but we add a cultural flair to it."

Jonathan Carter, co-chairperson of the Latino Student Union (LSU), said because of the different goals of the nine organizations, it is difficult for all the groups to come together to make decisions.

UI graduate student Vanessa Ramirez, who grew up in Puerto Rico, said she didn't expect to participate so much in the Latino student community when she came to the UI about a year ago. She said she joined because it was sometimes difficult to make friends with Americans.

"My first language is Spanish and in the beginning I was kind of hesitant to have Latino friends because I didn't moderates, he lacked the charisma to make his message stand out from the rest of the field, he said.

"I could listen to him all day and not get excited," Foss said.

Being a lonely voice, however, may have been by choice, said UI senior Bob Frick, president of the UI College Republicans.

"He isolated himself early on," Frick said.

Specter might have done better in Iowa by focusing on his call for a flat tax rather than by criticizing the Christian Coalition at the Ames straw poll, Frick said.

Nevertheless, Frick said the abortion issue only played a small part in Specter's decision to suspend his campaign.

"It had more to do with his personality," he said. "He did not come across well to the public."

Frick also said Specter's campaign was not well-organized.

"(The Specter campaign) did not road trips — including ventures to the Kentucky Derby, the Indianapolis 500, Grateful Dead shows and Mardi Gras.

Before he drew Skiba's name Saturday, Decoster bid a final farewell to his bus and shared some of his many memories with the crowd of tailgaters, who gathered near its parking spot. Many fans came back to the bus during halftime and some even chose to stay and skip the game.

"They wanted to relish in the final Magic Bus party," Decoster said. "It was the last tailgate."

Even though the original Magic Bus is no longer his, Decoster plans on renovating another bus which is made out of aluminum and used to be an audio visual lab for a community college. The silver bus has been in storage for three years and Decoster hasn't driven it in more than a year, but promises to have it raring to go by New Year's Eve so he and his friends can venture to New Orleans.

The bus, called "Magic Too," will take over the tailgating and road tripping role and is much different from the Magic Bus, which is equipped with beds, couches, a toilet and a bar.

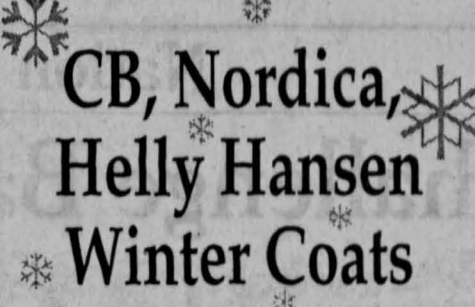

"The school bus had a certain character," he said. "I'll miss that, but the new bus is much bigger, roomier and faster."

However, Magic Bus gurus may be disappointed to know that Decoster plans on toning down his tailgating parties for future home football games because the celebration got "out of control."

"It's like a job, throwing a party," he said. "It takes a small committee to throw one. If I have parties in the future, they'll be small ones."

As of now, the whereabouts of the Magic Bus are unknown to Decoster, who only knows that Skiba sold the bus for $10 to his friend from Des Moines immediately after he won it. Skiba couldn't be reached for comment Sunday night.

Decoster's friend Erik Liu, who has had many adventures on the Magic Bus — including the original trip to Miami — said he plans on buying it back and is willing to pay $250. Liu, who lives in St. Louis, wants to build a deck off of it and park it outside of Nick's bar in New Orleans as its final resting place.

Celtics send Douglas packing for Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks, looking to jump start their offense, traded guard
Todd Day and center Alton Lister to the Boston Celtics on Sunday for point guard Sherman Douglas.
And Bucks guard Eric Murdock said the dealing isn't done yet.

"The team hasn't been playing that well and we were looking to make a change," Bucks coach Mike Dunleavy said.

Douglas is "a veteran point guard who ... can provide us with strong leadership. He has the ability to run a team."

Murdock said he believes he will be sent to another NBA team.

"I really think I'm going to move (Monday), that's the latest I've heard. I'm very happy if that is the case," Murdock said before Sunday night's home game with Minnesota. "It's part of the game.
It's part of the business. It won't be hard."

Douglas was caught in a backcourt logjam. Since last season, the Celtics acquired free agent Dana Barros to go along with guards David Wesley, Greg Minor and Dee Brown.

"We've had these ongoing conversations," said M.L. Carr, Boston's coach and director of basketball operations. "It was businesslike. They started back before training camp."

Soaring into the Sun

Hawks use all their weapons in victory

Mike Triplett

The Daily Iowan

Just as Sedrick Shaw began heating up, his body gave out on him Saturday.

Abdominal strains took Shaw out with less than five minutes remaining in the first half and Iowa's numbers weren't all that spectacular. Shaw had 47 yards on 15 carries at that point and the Hawkeyes led just 7-0.

So Iowa turned to other heroes to guide its 45-3 regular season finale over Minnesota. The Hawkeyes turned to quarterback
Matt Sherman and his favorite target on the day, Tim Dwight. The Hawkeyes turned to their stifling defense.

And the Hawkeyes turned to seldom-used, fifth-year senior Damani Shakoor.

"That's a real story," Iowa coach Hayden Fry said of Shakoor's performance. "Here's a little guy who's a walk-on in his fifth year, who's never gripped about anything. He just wanted to be a member of the team and help the team win. And today he got his chance."

Shakoor's first carry didn't come until the second half. His call came on 3rd and 1. Shakoor responded, blasting forward for seven yards and a first down.

Then he tacked on three and on the next play eight. He followed with six more, than a season-long, 15-yard carry. The Hawkeyes kept going back to him.

And four plays later, he capped off the drive he dominated with a career moment — a 14-yard touch-

Iowa accepts invitation to Dec. 29 Sun Bowl

Chris Snider

The Daily Iowan

The Iowa football team received its Christmas present a month early Sunday, accepting an invitation to play in the Sun Bowl on Dec. 29 at 1:30 p.m. in El Paso, Texas.

The Hawkeyes will play the Pac-10 co-champions, Washington, who defeated the Hawkeyes 46-34 in the 1991 Rose Bowl and 28-0 in the 1982 Rose Bowl.

"This team has been through an awful lot this year," Iowa coach
Hayden Fry said
in a statement.

"To end up with a bid to the Sun Bowl is a testament to all the hard work put in by the players, coaching staff and everyone associated with Iowa football."

The Sun Bowl, which has the fifth Big Ten selection, chose Iowa over Michigan State. The Spartans finished with a better Big Ten record, but had one less win overall than the Hawkeyes.

Iowa started the season 5-0, but dropped four straight games, meaning the Hawkeyes had to win their final two games to qualify for a bowl.

"We knew we had to bounce back

Domond guides Iowa to fast start

Mike Triplett

The Daily Iowan

Former Hawkeye coach C.
Vivian Stringer and the Iowa women's basketball team each began the "Big Payback" last weekend.

Stringer kicked off her reign at Rutgers with a two-point victory over Penn State, the team that ended Iowa's season a year ago while she was still the coach. The Hawkeyes, meanwhile, took the title at the Prairie Lights Hawkeye Classic, knocking off Stephen F.
Austin and UC Santa Barbara, a pair of teams that ousted Iowa last season.

Sophomore Nadine Domond emerged in the Hawkeyes' opening weekend, guiding Iowa in its 68-57 championship win over UCSB, as well as its 64-58 win over Stephen F. Austin in Round 1. Domond was named tournament MVP after

MEN'S BASKETBALL

Hawkeyes fizzle in final seven minutes

Associated Press

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — In most years, a narrow loss to Duke and the runner-up spot in the Great Alaska Shootout would be satisfying, something on which to build the rest of the season.

But this is expected to be much more than an ordinary season for the Iowa basketball team, so the 10th-ranked Hawkeyes' 88-81 loss to Duke in the Shootout finals Saturday night was disappointing to coach Tom Davis.

All the more so after Iowa couldn't hold an 11-point lead in the final 7 minutes.

"I want this to hurt a little bit," Davis said. "There's some games when you just want them to get it all out of there and not think about it. This one, I think they should think about and try to learn from."

"I don't think we responded as well as I would have liked to have them respond in some pressure situations."

Iowa had come through in those situations the previous night, when the Hawkeyes beat No. 6
Connecticut 101-95 in overtime.
They also had turned in a solid effort in beating Ohio University 78-51 in the first round.

Davis, however, felt there was a dropoff Saturday night.

"I don't want them to be real happy with their performance," he said. "I don't think we played as hard and as tough."

Iowa appeared to be on its way to a victory after a flurry by Jess Settles produced a 69-58 lead with 6:58 left. Settles first drove for a basket, then stole the inbound pass, scored while being fouled and made the free throw.

But Duke promptly rallied behind Chris Collins, who led all scorers with 30 points, and Steve Wojciechowski, who had two key 3-pointers.

Collins scored six points to lead a 10-1 run that pulled Duke even at 70 with 4:04 left. Wojciechowski's
3-pointer from the left side put Duke ahead to stay at 74-71 with 2:45 remaining.

The Hawkeyes' impatience contributed to their downfall. On Iowa's first two possessions after Settles' three-point play, first J.R.
Koch and then Andre Woolridge fired up quick shots that missed.
Duke converted after both.

"We thought we were in good shape," Davis said. "But we had a couple of empty trips. We came down and did not get scores, they came down and knocked in a cou-

LOCAL ROUNDUP

Wrestling team dominates inaugural meets

There was never any doubt the top-ranked Iowa wrestling team would squash a group of smaller opponents to open its season.

As if things weren't already in Iowa's favor, senior Bill Zadick was wrestling in his hometown of Great Falls, Mont.

Zadick and John Degl each captured four individual wins to highlight three Iowa blowout victories.

The defending national champion Hawkeyes easily dispatched South Dakota State 29-6 in their opening match last Friday in Philip, S.D. Degl led the way for Iowa at 190 pounds with an 8-6 overtime victory over two-time NCAA Division II champion Chad Lamer. Zadick (142), Degl, and Erik Stroner (heavyweight) also recorded individual wins against Augustana of South Dakota, but no team scores were kept.

On Sunday, Iowa pummeled Western Montana 48-6 and Montana State-Northern 50-0 to run its record to 3-0 for the season. The Hawkeyes won 19 of the 20 matches against the two schools while recording 12 pins, four major decisions and one match termination.

Zadick was Iowa's pin leader over the three-day period with three, including one pin in only 25 seconds over Augustana's Derek Outland. Mike Uker (150), Daryl Weber (167), Degl, and Stroner also recorded two pins.

Volleyball drops finale

The Iowa volleyball team fell to Minnesota Saturday to end its disappointing season.

The Hawkeyes extended Minnesota to four games in a 15-10, 15-12, 12-15, 13-15 loss to the Gophers in Minneapolis.

Junior Jennifer Webb paced Iowa yet again with a team-high 20 kills. Hawkeye Jill Oelschlager racked up 13 of Iowa's 63 digs, more than any other player.

Iowa, picked by coaches in the preseason to finish fourth in the Big Ten, finished with a conference record of 3-17 (10-21 overall).

This was the final match for seniors Lisa Dockray and Tiffany McDaniel. Dockray totaled 50 assists Saturday, while McDaniel completed the match against Minnesota with five kills and 11 digs.

if we wanted to be in post-season play, not be home at Christmas," sophomore cornerback Plez Atkins said.

The Hawkeyes finished their season with victories over Wisconsin and Minnesota to clinch the berth.

"We did a good job of doing things like eliminating the penalties in the past couple of weeks," senior captain Matt Purdy said. "During that four-game skid, we had too many penalties. We beat ourselves."

"The main part was guys not quitting."

Iowa Athletic Director Bob

Bowlsby said the invitation was a fitting end to the Hawkeyes' season.

"The Sun Bowl Invitation to the University of Iowa football team has been accepted with pride," he said. "We will take a very deserving team to El Paso to face the Pac-10 co-champions."

Iowa finished the regular season 7-4. Washington finished 7-3-1. The Huskies hold the edge in the all-time series, 3-2.

The last time Iowa faced a Pac-10 opponent was a year ago, when it lost to Oregon, 40-18. Iowa last faced a Pac-10 team in a bowl game in the 1993 Alamo Bowl, when it was defeated, 37-3, by California.

Many current Hawkeye players

remember that game well.

"There was a little talk about that," said Purdy. "That's obviously sitting in the back of our heads. We can't let it worry us. We have to let it drive us."

Junior defensive end Bill Ennis-Inge said there is a big difference in that team and the current Hawkeye team.

"We just have more players making the plays," he said. "Now, we have athletes just like they do." Fan support was beneficial to the Hawkeyes receiving the bid, as well as the fact that the team is on a winning streak.

"Once again the Iowa fans played a large part in Iowa's receiving this invitation," said Bowlsby. "This game will be a just reward for the thousands and thousands of Iowa fans from all over the country."

Fry, a Texas native, coached SMU in the 1963 Sun Bowl, losing 21-14 to Oregon.

"El Paso is a great city with its diverse culture and proximity to Mexico," he said. "The fans that choose to make the trip will be pleasantly rewarded. We're very honored to be picked by such a prestigious bowl."

Season ticket holders will receive applications this week for ticket information. Others can order tickets, which cost $35, by calling the Iowa ticket office at 319-335-9323 or 800-424-2957.

ple of big ones. So you give them credit. A couple of those were real good shots.

"As a coach, you're always picky and say, well, we should have defended this and done that. But in reality, those were some big-time shots by some big-time players."

Ricky Price added 25 points for Duke, which opened the season unranked after going 13-18 a year ago.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

scoring 27 in the championship and 19 in the opener.

"We just played well as a team and it just happened that the shots I was taking were falling," Domond said. "First of all I credit my team because they did an excellent job this weekend. Everything that came down to me was just the crumbs on the table."

Domond was basically a third-team point guard last year who didn't see many minutes behind now-graduated Ardena Yarbrough and senior Karen Clayton. But Lee said she could tell just by watching Domond that she would thrive at another position.

"The day I got the job I knew that Nadine would become the ago and winning only two games in the Atlantic Coast Conference. With their performance in Alaska, which included a 70-64 victory over No. 23 Indiana, the Blue Devils served notice that they're back.

"I had a couple of kids crying in there and they're crying for good reasons," said coach Mike Krzyzewski, who missed the final 19 games last season because of a bad back. "I don't think I've had a team play any harder in (the final) eight minutes."

shooting guard," Lee said. "Nadine has that knack. Nadine wants to shoot the ball; I think that's what she naturally looks for. And if you look at her jumper, that's what you want to do with it. You want to get it in Nadine's hands."

Domond was 13-of-25 from the field on the weekend and 17-of-26 from the free-throw line. Joining her on the six-person all-tournament team were Clayton and sophomore Tangela Smith.

Clayton had 18 assists in two games and scored 10 points against UCSB. Smith scored 12 points and pulled down 11 rebounds against Stephen F. Austin and had seven blocks over the weekend.

Another member of the all-tournament team, UCSB's Erin Alexander, had a tournament-record 52 points

Settles, Chris Kingsbury and Russ Millard all had 16 points for Iowa. Kingsbury, though, made only three of 18 shots after scoring 30 points against Connecticut. Iowa was just 4-for-20 on 3-point shots. Duke went 9-for-20, including a 5-for-7 effort by Collins.

"I think the problem was that we couldn't get anything inside established," Davis said.

Although he wouldn't be specific, Davis indicated on his postgame radio show that he would make some changes for Tuesday's home game with Drake.

"We're going to try to find some new combinations that can play well under all conditions and things like that," he said. "You've got to kind of pick and choose, but I don't think we responded as intelligently and with as much mental toughness as I thought this team would respond with."

selves as a man defensive team. Coach Stringer played an awful lot of zones. We'd like to have that as back-up, but we want man-to-man to be our bread and butter."

Sophomore Angie Hamblin didn't play because of an injured ankle, but should be ready for Iowa's next game, against Creighton. Senior Simone Edwards was still a little nervous about playing on a knee that kept her out of competition a year ago. But she went 18 minutes Saturday without a brace, making 3-of-5 shots and scoring eight points.

Iowa did lose Timicha Kirby though. The sophomore has decided to transfer.

SHAKOOR

down run, the first of his career in his last game ever at Kinnick.

"I can't explain the feeling I had when I scored that first touchdown," Shakoor said after the game. "I can't really explain the feeling I'm feeling right now, to end my senior year, my last game at Kinnick, with a game like that."

Shakoor ran for a pair of touchdowns in the victory and finished with 16 carries for 91 yards, a 5.7-yard average.

"When I came in the game the offensive line was like, 'Just stay focused and run hard and follow us,' and that's what I did," Shakoor said. "They opened the holes and I just followed."

Shakoor, a 5-9, 190-pounder from Calumet City, Ill., had previously gained 70 yards on 15 carries this season. He carried the ball seven times for 28 games a week earlier at Wisconsin, which he said was his career highlight before Saturday.

But his first touchdown easily beat that performance.

"I was running with the ball, holding onto it, then I see the end zone and I was like, 'I'm getting to it, somehow,'" he recalled.

Shakoor stepped aside toward the end of the game when Tavian Banks entered the game, making his first appearance since injuring his left wrist against Indiana. Banks, sporting a cast, gained 27 yards on four carries.

Fry was certainly glad to see Banks and Shakoor play so well, considering Shaw's shaky health status (pulled groin and abdominal muscles in November). Shaw will have a month to heal, but the depth will be comforting.

Also comforting were the performances of Iowa's passing attack and defense.

Sherman completed 17 of 21 passes for 240 yards, a pair of touchdowns and no interceptions. His top target was Dwight, who caught both TDs en route to an eight-reception, 147-yard receiving day.

"He's just one of a kind and we're lucky to have him here," Sherman said of Dwight. "And I think, over the season, we've learned how to utilize his abilities and talents."

Dwight ended the regular season with team-highs of 43 catches and 776 yards.

For the second-consecutive week, Iowa's defense showed that it can shut down the run, holding the Golden Gophers to just 25 yards on the ground. Iowa has allowed just seven rushing yards in its last two games.

The Minnesota offense, which ranked third in the Big Ten Conference coming in (415.1 yard per game), was held to 217. The 45-3 margin was certainly a major change from last year's 49-42 Iowa victory over the Gophers.

NFL ROUNDUP

Marino breaks TD mark in loss

Associated Press

Listening to Rodney Peete, Brett Favre and Dan Marino, it was tough to tell the winners from the losers on Sunday. Steve Young, though, was just happy to be playing again.

Young made a triumphant return to the 49ers, passing for 226 yards and three touchdowns in a 41-13 rout of the St. Louis Rams. Young missed the last five games with a shoulder injury.

Peete was peeved about being benched for two series in the third quarter of Philadelphia's 14-7 win over Washington, while Favre threw three TD passes and moaned about the cold weather in Green Bay's 35-13 victory over Tampa Bay.

And Marino was pleased with his record for most career TD passes — he now has 346 — in Miami's 36-28 loss to Indianapolis.

49ers 41, Rams 13
At San Francisco, Young was intercepted on his first pass, but was 21 of 32 as the 49ers scored 35 straight points, including an 86-yard interception return by cornerback Eric Davis.

Young had TD passes of 16 and 18 yards to J.J. Stokes and a 2-yard score to Jerry Rice.

Eagles 14, Redskins 7
At Washington, Ricky Watters (25 carries for 124 yards) ran 1 and 9 yards for TDs as Philadelphia won its third straight.

Washington has lost four in a row, guaranteeing the Redskins' third consecutive losing season for the first time since 1963-65.

Packers 35, Bucs 13
At Green Bay, Robert Brooks caught two of Favre's TD passes and had six catches for 144 yards as he went over 1,000 yards receiving for the first time. Favre, the NFL's leader with 28 TD tosses, completed 16 of 24 for 267 yards.

Colts 36, Dolphins 28
At the RCA Dome, Jim Harbaugh threw for three TDs and ran for another as Indianapolis moved a game behind first-place Buffalo in the AFC East.

Oilers 42, Broncos 33
Chris Chandler outdueled John Elway with three TD passes as only 36,113 showed up.

Elway was 27 of 41 for 332 yards and two TDs — 50 and 35 yards to Anthony Miller. Chandler was 18 of 26 passes for 280 yards.

Jets 16, Seahawks 10
Adrian Murrell carried 24 times for a career-best 116 yards and a 2-yard TD as the Jets won their first road game in over a year.

New York held Joey Galloway to three catches for 24 yards and Chris Warren, the AFC's leading rusher, to 63 yards on 16 carries.

Steelers 20, Browns 17
Norm Johnson's 27-yard field goal at the start of the fourth quarter lifted Pittsburgh. Neil O'Donnell, 21 of 30 for 251 yards and a TD, led the Steelers on a 16-play drive over the last 8:52.

Cardinals 40, Falcons 37, OT
At Tempe, Ariz., this time Arizona won in overtime, getting a 28-yard field goal from Greg Davis 1:43 into the extra period.

Dave Krieg passed for 413 yards and four TDs as Arizona snapped a three-game losing streak.

Patriots 35, Bills 25
At Orchard Park, N.Y., Drew Bledsoe threw three TDs to Ben Coates, the last a 15-yarder with 1:23 left to cap a 22-point fourth quarter. New England put the game away when Chris Slade returned an interception 27 yards for a score with 57 seconds remaining.

Bengals 17, Jaguars 13
At Jacksonville, Fla., Jeff Blake (19 of 39 for 210 yards) threw a 5-yard TD pass to Carl Pickens with 17 seconds left to lift Cincinnati. It was the 19th straight game with a TD pass for Blake.

The Jaguars went ahead on a 39-yard field goal with 3:19 left.

Bears 27, Giants 24
At East Rutherford, N.J., Kevin Butler kicked a 37-yard field goal with seven seconds to play.

The game-winning kick capped an eight-play, 48-yard march that started after Giants coach Dan Reeves decided to go for a first down on fourth-and-4 from the Chicago 32.

Saints 34, Panthers 26
Mario Bates ran for two touchdowns and Derek Brown had one as New Orleans found its ground game against one of the NFL's toughest defenses in a 34-26 victory over the Carolina Panthers on Sunday night.

Bowl race clears, Heisman clutters

Associated Press

While the national championship race may be down to two teams, the Heisman Trophy race is a three-man competition.

Barring a huge upset Saturday, top-ranked Nebraska (11-0) will play No. 2 Florida (11-0) for the national title in the Fiesta Bowl.

Florida made the matchup all but certain Saturday by beating No. 8 Florida State 35-24. The last roadblock for the Gators is this week's Southeastern Conference championship game at Atlanta, where they will be heavy favorites over No. 23 Arkansas.

"The work ain't over yet," safety Lawrence Wright said. "We're going to bring our briefcases to work this week and take care of the business at hand."

Danny Wuerffel, considered a Heisman Trophy long shot last week, made himself a serious contender with a 443-yard, four-touchdown passing performance against Florida State.

The Heisman had been viewed as a two-man race, but front-runners Tommie Frazier of Nebraska and Eddie George of Ohio State ended their regular seasons with unimpressive performances.

Frazier threw for 128 yards and one TD and ran for 35 yards in Friday's 37-0 victory over Oklahoma, but he completed less than 50 percent and had a pass intercepted. George was held to 104 rushing yards, 48 below his average, as previously unbeaten Ohio State lost to Michigan 31-23 Saturday.

While the Fiesta Bowl has virtually locked up a 1-2 showdown between Nebraska and Florida, the matchups for the other two bowl alliance games still aren't set.

The Orange Bowl would like Notre Dame and Miami, an attractive television game between two popular teams that waged a bitter rivalry during the 1980s.

But the Sugar Bowl, which gets the next pick after the Orange takes Notre Dame, could spoil the Orange's dream game by selecting Virginia Tech, which tied Miami for the Big East title. Since there's only room for one Big East team in the alliance, that would drop Miami to the Gator Bowl.

If the Sugar takes Virginia Tech, Notre Dame probably would play Florida State in the Orange and Tech would meet the Texas-Texas A&M winner at New Orleans.

Otherwise, the Orange would get Notre Dame-Miami and the Sugar would pit Florida State against the Texas-Texas A&M winner.

Unlike past years when all three games were played on Jan. 1, the Fiesta, Orange and Sugar will be held on consecutive nights.

Ohio State's loss made Northwestern the outright Big Ten champion and the league's representative in the Rose Bowl for the first time since the 1948 season. The No. 3 Wildcats (10-1) will play No. 18 USC (8-2-1) at Pasadena.

No. 5 Ohio State (11-1) now goes to the Citrus Bowl, where it probably will play No. 4 Tennessee (10-1).

Other announced or projected bowl matchups: Cotton (Colorado-Oregon); Aloha (UCLA-Kansas); Sun (Washington-Iowa); Holiday (Kansas State-Colorado State); Outback (Penn State-Auburn); Liberty (East Carolina-Stanford); Peach (Virginia vs. Arkansas, Alabama or Georgia); Gator (Clemson vs. Virginia Tech or Miami); Las Vegas (Nevada-Toledo); Copper (Texas Tech vs. Utah, BYU or Air Force); Alamogordo (Michigan vs. Texas-Texas A&M loser); Independence (LSU-Michigan State); and Carquest (Syracuse-North Carolina).

No. 2 Florida 35, No. 8 Florida State 24

At Gainesville, Florida tied a school record with its 11th straight victory and beat Florida State (9-2) for only the second time since 1987. Ike Hilliard caught six passes for 192 yards and two TDs for the Gators, while Chris Doering had seven receptions for 124 yards and one score to set SEC records for TD receptions in a season (16) and career (30).

No. 4 Tennessee 12, Vanderbilt 7
At Knoxville, Jay Graham ran for 211 yards, including a 1-yard TD with three minutes left, as Tennessee survived a scare from 37-point underdog Vanderbilt. Vols quarterback Peyton Manning was 26-of-42 for 265 yards to set school records in all three categories.

No. 14 Michigan 31, No. 5 Ohio State 23
At Ann Arbor, Tim Biakabutuka rushed for 313 yards, second best in Michigan history, as the Wolverines (9-3) spoiled Ohio State's perfect season. Biakabutuka was 34 yards short of Ron Johnson's single-game record, but he did break Jamie Morris' school record for rushing yards in a season with 1,724.

No. 15 Penn State 24, Michigan State 20
At East Lansing, Bobby Engram caught a 4-yard TD pass with eight seconds remaining, giving Penn State (8-3) the comeback victory. Working without any timeouts, Wally Richardson completed 11 passes in the winning 73-yard drive.

GAME NOTES

Atkins has big day ... for the most part

Chris Snider
The Daily Iowan

Plez Atkins doesn't like to be ribbed by teammates.

After fumbling an interception right back to the Golden Gophers on Saturday, Atkins heard about it in the huddle. "I was like Plez, 'what happened?'" defensive lineman Bill Ennis-Inge said. "I was going to block someone and I didn't see what happened. The next thing, I looked down and the ball was right in front of me."

Atkins didn't take long to make up for his mistake, intercepting Cory Sauter's next pass, less than a minute later, and returning it 38 yards to set up an Iowa touchdown.

"You saw me gripping it with two hands," said Atkins. "I didn't want to have deja vu."

The two interceptions moved Atkins into the team lead with six on the season.

"Those turnovers come from working hard as a unit, playing hard and playing tough football," said Atkins.

Senior say goodbye to Kinnick

Saturday's win was made sweeter because it marked the final game at Kinnick Stadium for 19 Iowa seniors.

"This game, we dedicated to the seniors," said Iowa quarterback Matt Sherman. "We wanted to play well for those guys."

Team captain Lloyd Bickham didn't want the team to get too emotional over the seniors' last game.

"I told the d-line before the game, 'Don't do it for me, because you worked just as hard as I did,'" Bickham said. "I think in the back of their mind, they were playing a little bit for (the seniors). It felt good to have somebody do that."

Floyd stays home

Jonathan Meester/The Daily Iowan

Iowa tight end Chris Knipper (left) and lineman Jeremy McKinney hoist Floyd of Rosedale after the Hawkeyes retained the bronze pig by defeating the Golden Gophers Saturday. The "pig to the winner" tradition began in 1935 when a live pig was offered as the prize, an idea thought up by Minnesota Governor Floyd B. Olson as a way of distracting Iowa fans angry at the way Minnesota players had treated Ozzie Simmons, Iowa's first African American all-American, a year earlier.

Fellow captain Matt Purdy had mixed emotions about the game because he knew he would have one more left, but did say what he would miss about being a Hawkeye.

"I'm not going to have that structured life anymore," he said. "I'm not going to have to get up a five o'clock in the morning and come run or have to go to this or that."

Sherman evaluates his season

Possibly the biggest key to Iowa receiving a bowl berth was keeping quarterback Matt Sherman healthy.

After Iowa went through five quarterbacks last season, Sherman didn't miss a start this year.

Sherman did not have the greatest of seasons, finishing with 14 touchdowns and 14 interceptions, but was content with his sophomore season.

"Coming in, I had big expectations for myself," he said. "I learned a lot. I made some key mistakes at key times, where it cost us the game. It's only going to make me better down the road."

Gallery and Slutzker are honored

Senior tight end Scott Slutzker and junior punter Nick Gallery were both named to the all-Big Ten first team last week.

Slutzker finished the season with 35 receptions for 509 yards and one touchdown.

Gallery finished the season with an average of 45.6 yards per punt.

Offensive line lights up

While they didn't know if a bowl birth was a lock yet, the Iowa offensive line got one reward on Saturday — a cigar.

"Coach (Frank) Verducci promised us a cigar if we came out and played well and we did," Purdy said.

Verducci did the same thing last year against Minnesota, when Iowa won a shootout, 49-42.

Purdy seemed content to just hold his cigar, never once itching to light it up.

"I'm not very good at smoking, actually," he said.

'President': love story, White House twist

Courtesy of Francis Duhamel/Castle Rock Entertainment

President Shepherd (Michael Douglas) takes lobbyist Sydney Wade (Annette Bening) on a tour of the Lincoln Bedroom in "The American President."

Nathan S. Groepper
The Daily Iowan

"The American President" suffers an identity crisis.

On one hand, it is a compelling love story full of humor and wit. On the other, it is a thinly veiled political vehicle for the Democratic Party. The outcome is a film that is often charming and entertaining, but politically charged.

President Andrew Shepherd (Michael Douglas) leads the average life of an American president — meetings, speeches, dinners — until he meets environmental lobbyist Sydney Allen Wade (Annette Bening). Needing a date for a formal State dinner, he sheepishly calls Wade, which begins their uncommon romance.

The president soon finds balancing his obligations to his country with ordinary demands and everyday rites of courtship is not an easy job. Simple things such as ordering flowers or having dinner become complex obstacles. Slipping approval ratings, an aggressive political opponent (Richard Dreyfuss), and an inquiring press soon complicate matters to a frenzied level. The American president must find a way to fulfill the responsibilities of the office, as well as the needs of the woman he loves, all during an election year.

The highlight of "The American

FILM REVIEW

"The American President"

*½ out of ****

Director..... Rob Reiner
Screenwriter..... Aaron Sorkin
Andrew Shepherd..... Michael Douglas
Sydney Allen Wade..... Annette Bening

"The American President" is its heartwarming love story. Writer Aaron Sorkin ("A Few Good Men") has developed an entertaining script which includes likable characters, an interesting setting and numerous comedic undertones. With just the right touches from popular director Rob Reiner ("Sleepless in Seattle"), "The American President" works best when it stays away from politics. The film shines during scenes where the president struggles through everyday situations, such as going on a date or driving a car.

Both Bening and Douglas produce a believable relationship and turn in solid performances, but a great amount of fun lies in the film's stellar supporting cast. Richard Dreyfuss' ("Down and Out in Beverly Hills") portrayal of snarling Bob Dole look-alike Sen. Bob Rumson is hilariously realistic. Dreyfuss' swaggering delivery of bitter morality speeches and self-righteous campaigning reminds viewers of the real-life Kansas senator. Just as entertaining is the spirited performance of Michael J. Fox ("Back To The Future") as the President's Domestic Policy Advisor. Fox shifts effortlessly between comedy and drama creating an enormously engaging character.

"The American President" does get bogged down its political messages about gun control, environmental issues and the evils of the Republican Party. Luckily, the film makes up for this with a classic love story and some lively characters.

Iowa native CDs range from trash date to hot lips

Jonathan Hansen
The Daily Iowan

The release of Dirt Track Date, the new album from Southern Culture on the Skids, attests to the growing popularity of what is probably best called "White Trash Rock."

Of course, the phenomena of rock bands turning the twang knob up and singing sarcastically of a poverty-stricken, morally and culturally bereft population in the Midwest or rural South is not new. Recently, however, there has been an influx of bands flirting with the genre, and Southern Culture on the Skids is now offering their five cents worth.

Dirt Track Date borrows from classic rock, country, 60s surf, funk and rockabilly. The end result is a surprisingly consistent, light-hearted sound. The lyrics position themselves from within white trash culture, perhaps best summed up in the song title "Fried Chicken and Gasoline" — two of the most prevalent topics on the album.

With some rock-out moments, such as the single "Soul City," most of the album is more groovy and laid back.

Dirt Track Date, while not incredible, is a lot of fun. In that respect, it's fairly representative of the genre as a whole — entertaining and not to be taken too seriously.

Clouds Taste Metallic Flaming Lips

If there's a band that continues to push in new directions, it's the Flaming Lips.

Lips' Clouds Taste Metallic is both fresh and a logical extension of the band's past releases. The single "Bad Days," which was first released on an untitled EP last year, is the backbone of the album.

The loud guitars paired with xylophone melodies typify the sound of the Lips' most recent songs, which are both sticky-sweet and sinister. For example, the single "Bad Days" almost sounds like a Christmas carol, until you realize that guitarist/vocalist Wayne Coyne is singing about dealing with the world through homicidal fantasies.

The album offers many different permutations of the band's studio experimentation, from the cutesy "Brainville" to the danceable "Christmas at the Zoo." Other high points include "When You Smile" and "Lightning Strikes the Postman." Although the Flaming Lips are flirting with mass consumption more than ever these days, Clouds Taste Metallic remains a distinctly left-of-center album, bearing the mark of personal attention from the childlike masterminds behind the Flaming Lips.

Penthouse Luna

The laid-back sounds of Luna continue with the band's second major label release, Penthouse.

While many bands have responded to the '90s with volume and distortion, Luna has not; the band is far from loud, angry rock. Listening to Luna is easy on the ears. The vocals are quiet and melodic, the guitar tones clean and the drummer even plays with brushes.

But Luna is far from sleep inducing. The lack of volume calls attention to the song structures, clever lyrics and the distinctive guitar work of front man Dean Wareham, which make Penthouse a very engaging album. The songs are insightful and the overall tone is pensive.

Those without the patience to appreciate the calm sounds of Luna will completely miss one of the tracks on the CD. The hidden track, "Bonnie and Clyde," which is sung in French, is one of the high points of the album.

This well-crafted collection of songs is one of the better albums to be released this year.

No Condom No chance

You know what I like in a guy?
Someone who cares. Someone who thinks enough of me to respect the fact that I insist on using protection.
Sorry, honey, but casual sex is out. As far as I'm concerned, there's nothing casual about it. I need to know I'm safe. Don't you? Think about it. what if the guy I was with last month, or last year, was a total jerk who didn't care about me in the least? Or, what if I didn't care either?

Asking me to risk my life is the quickest way to turn me off. I insist on using a condom. I like a guy who does, too.

Irish Soda Bread

from Cristine Perry's recipe collection. Author: Mom Cat Perry

4 c. flour	Mix and sift flour, sugar, salt and baking powder.
1/4 c. sugar	Cut in margarine until it resembles coarse corn meal. Stir in raisins.
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder	In a separate bowl, combine buttermilk, egg and baking soda. Then stir buttermilk mixture into flour mixture until just moistened. Bake in greased
1/4 c. margarine	casserole in a moderate oven until golden brown.
2 c. seedless raisins
1 1/3 c. buttermilk
1 egg
1 tsp. baking soda	Bake: 375°
	Time: 45-50 minutes.

Pumpkin Pie

from Amy Schmitt's recipe collection. Author: Unknown

9" unbaked pie shell	Beat together all ingredients except pie shell. Pour into pie shell. Bake at 375° for 50 to 55 minutes, until knife inserted into the center of the filling comes out clean. Cool and store in the refrigerator. Serve with
16 oz. can pumpkin	whipped cream.
14 oz. can sweetened condensed milk
1 large egg
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. ginger
1/4 tsp. nutmeg

New Tuna & Noodles

from Heidi Jess' recipe collection. Author: unknown

3 T. margarine	In 1 quart microwave bowl, melt 3 T. margarine and stir in 3 T. flour, 1/2 tsp. chicken bouillon granules.
3 T. flour
1/2 tsp. chicken bouillon granules	Add 1 1/2 c. milk and a dash of salt - cook in the microwave on HIGH 5 1/2 minutes.
1 1/2 c. milk
dash of salt	Pour over cooked wide egg noodles (3-4 c. pre-cooked noodles).
6 1/2 oz. water
packed tuna
2 oz. mushrooms	Add 6 1/2 oz. water packed tuna, 2 oz. mushrooms and 1/3 c. shredded cheddar cheese. Heat through and serve.
1/3 c. shredded cheddar cheese

Baked Pork Chops

from Deb McCreedy's recipe collection. Author: unknown

4 to 6 Pork Loin Chops (trimmed)	Trim the fat off of 4 to 6 pork loin chops. Spread prepared mustard on both sides of the pork chops.
Mustard
Flour	Roll pork chops in a flour, salt & pepper mixture. Fry in oil until brown on both sides. Place chops in a greased baking dish. Pour 2 cans of chicken with wild rice soup over the pork chops.
Salt & Pepper
Oil
2 cans chicken with wild rice soup	Bake at 375° for 40 minutes.
