The Fleer Corp. is the latest in a string of companies that have abandoned factories and towns they called home for decades and moved their production elsewhere.

Just last month, Unilever, a Netherlands-based conglomerate, closed the Breyer's ice cream plant in Philadelphia, where William Breyer hand-churned his first batch of ice cream. Larsen, a global studies major from Mason City, served as a liaison between the news media and negotiators at the Bosnian peace talks in Dayton, Ohio.

Larsen's trip to the peace talks at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base was a bonus to her internship with the U.S. State Department's Public Affairs Office, and Clinton's speech Monday night allowed her to reflect on her

"For those of us out in Dayton, we saw the tug of war," she said.

Toward the end of the talks, the negotiators' emotions began to show through, Larsen said.

"They spent an extremely intense period of time," she said. "It was their life since last summer. To see it teeter (toward a breakdown) really puts you on

When the agreement was announced, the mood improved as negotiators looked forward to going to Paris for the official signing, Larsen said. However, an agreement between the warring factions was never a done

"It took me to the last minute to know if it would go through,' she said. "It was one of those things where you hold your breath and pray.'

A year as an exchange student in Germany sparked Larsen's interest in foreign policy and also made the Bosnian peace talks personally significant.

"I went to Dachau (a concentration camp in Germany). There they have a sign (reading) 'Never Again,' " she said. "When I saw pictures (from the former Yugoslavia), it brought back the same feelings.

Buchanan lambastes 'pathetic' GOP response

Mike Glover Associated Press

DES MOINES - Commentator Pat Buchanan on Tuesday blasted what he called the "pathetic" response by Republicans in Congress to President Clinton's effort to send U.S.

troops to Bosnia. Buchanan singled out Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, who also is seeking the Republican nomination for president, for criticism but also blamed House Speaker Newt Gingrich for what he saw as a timid response. "What happened to the idea that we've got a Republican revolution and a Congress that's coequal in governing?" Buchanan said. "If you're a leader, stand up and say what you believe. Take the consequences. After Clinton's nationally televised speech Dole said he was looking for a way to be supportive but had reservations.

"I think he ought to lead on this issue and not follow and wait for the president to make his case," Buchanan said. "I think Senator Dole should make our case, and I don't think they're Buchanan has said that sending U.S. troops is going to end in tragedy and perhaps a great mess." Dole and others have suggested that Clinton has a big job in trying to persuade Americans that his Bosnia policy is wise, but they have given him a chance to make that

"If you're going to lead, and Bob Dole's the leader of our party, you ought to stand up and say what our position is, what we believe, Buchanan said. "You don't get up and say, 'Well, President Clinton's making his case, let's see how well he does, let's see what the focus groups say, what the polls say, before we decide what we're going to do.

At a news conference, Buchanan conceded he was not doing what would be politically expedient, which would be to leave Clinton holding the bag on Bosnia.

"What's safe politically is to let the president lead and if it goes well we can say we went along with it and if it goes badly we can say he bollixed it up," Buchanan said.

While Buchanan often targets Dole as the made the case for U.S. peacekeepers in Bosnia, front-running Republican presidential candidate, he less often singles out Gingrich. The Georgia Republican announced Monday he wouldn't seek the GOP nomination.

> "What's Newt Gingrich's view? He's a leader of our party," Buchanan said. "I don't think the Republicans are leading in Washington."

> "I think that the Republican leadership in the Congress, especially Senator Dole who is a presidential candidate, should stand up and say what they believe," Buchanan said.

> Asked to describe the GOP response, Buchanan used the single word "pathetic."

Republicans vie for farmers' votes as caucuses loom

The Daily Iowan

Though farmers only make up a small proportion of Iowans, they tend to vote in the caucuses - and the GOP candidates are more than aware of that historical trend.

Five Republican presidential candidates - Lamar Alexander, Pat Buchanan, Bob Dole, Phil Gramm and Alan Keyes - will be in Des Moines today to court the support of Iowa Farm Bureau members at the organization's annual conven-

Are you eligible for Laser Vision Correction?

The next generation of eye care is here, and Wolfe Clinic is at the forefront of the new technology. If you are nearsighted and have healthy eyes with no other existing eye disorders, you may be eligible for Laser Vision Correction - a computer-controlled, excimer laser procedure known as photo-refractive keratectomy or PRK.

Wolfe Clinic physicians performed the first excimer laser procedure in the state of Iowa in October 1994, and Wolfe Clinic is Iowa's first center for Laser Vision Correction. This procedure has been performed more than 200,000 times worldwide and has helped many people become less dependent on glasses or contact lenses.

Now Wolfe Clinic invites you to participate in a study to prove the effectiveness of the excimer laser in correcting nearsightedness.

Many conventional pianists concentrate on practicing specific pieces, he said.

Despite some initial controversy among senators, the UI Student Government unanimously voted to switch the roles of its president and vice president Tuesday night.

Under the resolution, which goes into effect Friday, Tim Williams, who is president, and Jeremy Johnson, who is vice president, exchange positions. However, due to the cooperative nature of their administration, they both said the change will not affect their ability to function as executive officers.

"We ran as a team from the beginning," Williams said. "We were Tim and Jeremy. Not president and vice president. We work well together and that will contin-

Currently, Williams has authority over child-care issues and state relations, while Johnson specializes in handling nominations and other election issues. Under the exchange, the ultimate authority will switch and the primary authority, including veto power, will be with Johnson.

However, Williams said he believes these changes won't affect the progress of UISG, because he and Johnson work closely together on all issues.

"Often change slows things down and it is seen as a negative," he said. "However, this change shows how well we work together and because we can, it should build

Although he said he had confidence in Williams' and Johnson's abilities to take on the new roles, Sen. John Gardner, a UI graduate and executive, questioned how the change will be seen by UI students.

ELEMENTARY STUDENTS NAME CHARACTER

Hancher wins itself a phantom Oscar

Daisy Hutzell The Daily Iowan

Oscar Tappan's memory will live on through the Phantom of Hancher - a character drawn by cartoonist Wiley Miller for Hancher brochures and playbills.

Miller, who draws the awardwinning comic strip "Non Sequitur" and is an Iowa City resident, debuted the phantom last spring, but didn't name the little critter.

Hancher coordinated an essay contest for elementary school students to name the phantom, now known as Oscar.

A fifth- and sixth-grade class from Longfellow School, which had the winning essay, was inspired by Tappan, one of three workers who died in an accident during the construction of Hancher in the early

The class, along with instructor Nell Jackson, attended the San Francisco Ballet at Hancher through the Arts Education Outreach Program. The students toured the building after the show.

The tour guide told about the building of Hancher and about the three workers who died.

"The kids were so intrigued by research it," Michelle Coleman, education coordinator at Hancher said. "What intrigued them was the idea of the phantom."

Miller was one of the judges in the contest, and said the winning essay was written by very intelligent students.

"It was a matter of what was the strongest writing and storytelling," Miller said. "The one that won, I think, was done by students way beyond their years. The story they came up with was very well-writ-

Miller began working on the Phantom project late last year, when Hancher officials asked him to develop the character. Oscar was completed in January 1995, and was included in Hancher's promotional items for the spring 1995

Oscar was modeled after the Phantom of the Opera, Miller said, a fictional monster who lives in the Paris Opera House and is the main character in Andrew Lloyd Webber's musical "The Phantom of the process - white ink on dark background," Miller said. "I wanted to have something really different from anything that had been done before, so I took a little different approach.'

Miller said the white ink on the dark background method is not any more difficult than black ink on a white background, but there are a few differences.

"There wasn't really that much creative difference, but it does make you think more - it's a reverse process," Miller said. "It was fun going back and using instruments that I hadn't used in

Many times, an artist goes through several drawings before he completes a project. However, Miller said Oscar wasn't created

"(I did not do) many drafts," Miller said. "My drafting goes on in my head. After years of doing this, I can draft it in my head, then put it on paper and make changes."

Miller's syndicated comic strip "Non Sequitur," is printed in 350 papers worldwide, including 25 different countries. He has drawn cartoons all his life, and has worked professionally for about 20 years. Before moving to Iowa City, Miller was an editorial cartoonist for The

Clinton reluctantly ends federal speed limit

Randolph Schmid Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Clinton signed a $6 billion road bill Tuesday which ends the federal 55 mph speed limit that has been in place since 1974 and gives states the power to set their own, starting

But Clinton made clear that he had serious misgivings about the measure, fearing that its provisions will lead to more accidents, highway deaths and injuries.

"I am deeply disturbed by the repeal of both the national maximum speed limit law and the law encouraging states to enact motor-cycle helmet use laws," Clinton said in a written statement.

He said he also was troubled that the law potentially exempts large number of small- and medium-size trucks and their drivers from safety regulations involving driver qualifications and truck maintenance.

"Without question these laws have saved lives," the president

He urged the states to act responsibly and added: "My administration will redouble our efforts to protect those who travel on the nation's highways." He instructed the Transportation Department to develop an action plan to promote highway safety.

Overall, Clinton signed the measure because he believes it will strengthen the nation's transportation system, providing jobs and economic opportunities, said White House spokesperson Mike McCurry. "Delighted," was the response of D. Gail Morrison of the National Motorists Association who battled roads.

The White House had said earlier Tuesday that it was a reluctant Clinton who would wave the starter's flag in front of American motorists.

But, while being "very concerned about highway fatalities," Clinton felt a veto could cost states nearly $6 billion in "necessary highway improvement projects," including finishing missing links in the Interstate Highway system, McCurry

A half-dozen states have laws that raise their speed limits automatically when the federal cap comes off. The 10-day wait in the federal legislation is intended to give them time to change their minds. Other states are expected to raise their limits in the coming

With the end of the federal limit, Montana would have no limit at all; the limit would jump to 75 mph in Kansas, Nevada and Wyoming and to 70 in Oklahoma and South

The 55-mph speed limit was imposed in 1974 as an energy-saving measure in the wake of the Mideast oil embargo. Highway fatalities declined by nearly 9,000 the following year, prompting safety advocates to hail it as a lifesaver. States were later permitted to set a 65-mph limit on rural Interstates. States that failed to comply faced the threat of losing federal highway

Jim Baxter of the National Motorists Association headquarters in Madison, Wis., said that while the federal speed limit was heavily opposed in the large western states, his group also drew large support from the West and East coast states in its battle to raise the limit.

"Anybody who has driven from Chicago to Miami knows we don't have a 55 mph speed limit," he said. "But people in urbanized states did suffer from a lot more intense enforcement.'

President Clinton proclaimed his support of sending troops Monday night in a prime time broadcast. He said without American force, the war will reignite, despite the negotiations between the factions that occurred last week in Dayton.

UI junior Damir Seferovic, who is from the Bosnian city of Banja Luka, sided with Clinton and said he believes the fighting will stop when the U.S. troops are dispatched to Bosnia.

even with the presence of American soldiers.

The root of the problem is the economic competition of the world powers for the former Yugoslavia, not the hatred among the people, she said. If the countries remain separate, world powers, including Russia, the U.S. and Germany, will try to influence the area and cause more separation.

All countries need to leave Bosnia alone, Vujosevic said, and peace will eventually happen among the warring sides.

"Everyone will have to give in eventually because they know they have to live together," she said.

"We cannot be separated."

There is another way for Americans to help besides sending troops, said Martinasevic, which include some of the things individual Americans have done, including volunteering at the refugee camps where people are given food and taught how to speak English.

Vujosevic, who is Serbian, said she takes no sides among the warring factions in Bosnia and feels for everyone who has lost family and loved ones, like herself.

"My cousin has died. Four or five of my relatives have died," she said. "Every day I learn about friends who have died."

Seferovic said his family has lived in Germany for the past year, because his family was forced to leave his home town in Bosnia, which is under Serbian control.

"I will never be able to go back there," he said.

Clinton, Congress kick off budget talks

Alan Fram Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Capping a yearlong feud, the Clinton administration and Republican lawmakers began budget talks Tuesday, expressing hope that a deal could be struck, but warning of tough bargaining ahead.

Facing a possible Dec. 16 replay of this month's six-day partial feder-al government shutdown, negotiators met for more than an hour in a wood-paneled Capitol room to begin seeking a pact for balancing the budget by 2002.

President Clinton's goal was to temper GOP plans to extract savings from Medicare, Medicaid, welfare, education and environmental programs, and to shrink the Republican $245 billion seven-year tax cut for many families and businesses.

"The mood is somber because of the big job we know we have to do," Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M., told reporters allowed into the room moments before the closed-door talks began.

"Good start," said White House Chief of Staff Leon Panett when the meeting was over.

Five congressional Republicans sat at a rectangular table covered by a blue tablecloth, facing seven administration officials and congressional Democrats. Each side had more than a dozen aides in the room, across a corridor from the Senate chamber.

White House Chief of Staff Leon Panetta, right, gestures during a meeting on Capitol Hill Tuesday with House Appropriations Committee Chairman Rep. Robert Livingston, R-La. The meeting was to discuss federal budget proposals.

In that corridor, staring resolutely at the meeting room is a marble bust of former President Bush. In 1990, Bush participated in marathon budget talks that produced bipartisan tax increases that contributed to his 1992 re-election defeat by Clinton.

Hours before Tuesday's talks began, Clinton lunched with Democratic senators in the Capitol and told them he wants to strike a deal, participants said.

"He said he owes the American people his best efforts to do everything he can to bridge the gaps," said Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev. But Clinton also promised to fend off proposed savings from Medicare and other social programs, saying, "People will fall through the safety net in droves" under Republican plans, according to Reid.

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., called the chances of reaching an agreement by Dec. 15 "at a bad bargain.

least 50-50. I'm hopeful."

Tuesday's opening session focused mostly on the structure and timetable for the talks. The two sides agreed to meet each day this week including Saturday, and to have seven bargainers apiece. As a prelude, Clinton invited leaders of both parties to the White House to discuss the budget and Bosnia before he flew to Europe. Prior to that, White House aides... sounded notes of caution over the budget bargaining.

"It's not going to be easy. There are large differences here," acknowledged Panetta.

And on Fox television's "Morning. News," White House spokesperson Mike McCurry cited philosophical differences over the government's role in American life and its price tag and said, "I suspect that those kinds of issues will have to be settled in November of 1996," when presidential and congressional elections will be held.

That prompted Domenici to say that in that event, "It's the White House that's destroying the oppor-tunity to get a balanced budget."

The price of not getting a deal is higher than the price of getting a deal," said House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga.

Ultimately, both sides will consider both politics and budget numbers, deciding whether voters are likelier to reward them for a deal that proves they can move beyond gridlock, or for walking away from

Lebanese rocket attacks send Israelis to bomb shelters

Associated Press KIRYAT SHMONA, Israel - Tens of thousands of Israelis retreated to bomb shelters Tuesday after Lebanese guerrillas fired rockets on northern Israel in the fiercest crossborder assault in two years.

Israeli warplanes retaliated by pounding guerrilla strongholds, and the Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres blamed Syria for the renewed violence, saying it could have stopped the Hezbollah attack. No one was killed, but six people were injured and there was extensive property damage.

The first of five volleys of Katyusha rockets hit this border town and elsewhere in Galilee just before 8 a.m. (1 a.m. EST) Tuesday. TV reports showed bloodied residents being taken to hospitals and wailing children on their way to school. Some people fled the area for central Israel

Israel's army chief, Lt. Gen. Amnon Shahak, said that by allowing Hezbollah to attack Israel from its territory, the Lebanese government was "endangering the safety of many thousands of residents in southern Lebanon."

Russian ballerina returns to stage for 70th birthday

Plisetskaya lives in Germany, and has continued to teach and dance regularly. In the past year, she has performed in Japan, Argentina, Austria and Spain.

You have better things to do than babysit! Don't let someone else's rude behavior ruin your sleep, studying or fun. Here are a few tips-try 'em out:

Say something . . . the next day. They will understand and remember what you are saying when they are sober and more reasonable. Plus, it's amazing the way a hangover can bring your message home!

Say something . . . objective. Tell the person exactly what happened that bothered you, without being judgmental-for example, "Last night when you came home, you were so drunk you couldn't take care of yourself. You were loud, dropping things, and got sick in the sink. I was trying to sleep and instead ended up babysitting you. I was worried, I didn't like it, and I don't want to do it again!"

Say something . . . and clear the air. Saying something can feel awkward, but it feels better than keeping it inside.

Fuhrman faces jail if convicted of perjury

Michael White Associated Press

> LOS ANGELES - The key detective who tried to help put O.J. Simpson in prison could himself end up behind bars for four years if investigators find he committed perjury during the murder trial.

The state attorney general will investigate allegations that Mark Fuhrman lied on the witness stand, District Attorney Gil Garcetti said Monday. Garcetti * asked Attorney General Dan Lungren to handle the case to avoid any conflict of interest in his office.

Simpson's lawyers contend that the detective, now retired, lied when he testified he had not used a racial epithet in the last 10 years. The defense produced tapes, recorded more recently, on which Fuhrman used the slur in interviews with an aspiring screen-

Woman allegedly sells her son to drug dealer to pay cocaine dues

Brian Akre Associated Press

DETROIT - A 15-year-old boy who was missing for at least six months had been handed over by his mother to a drug dealer to settle her $1,000 crack cocaine debt, police said after finding the boy

Investigators sorted through conflicting accounts of whether he went voluntarily, sold drugs, was used as a sex slave or was forced to smoke crack himself when he was hungry so his captors could save

Student voices must be heard in GER debate

Students have been asking for it and now they will have their chance. A faculty-student forum will be held today for students to voice their opinions on the proposed changes to the UI's General Education Requirements. The meeting will be held from 3:30-5 p.m. in Room 100 of

The lack of student involvement in the GER revision process led UI Student Government president Tim Williams to arrange the forum with the Faculty Assembly.

There are currently two proposed GER revisions. Both involve decreasing the Natural Science requirement and the restructuring of GERs into categories to increase student choices for electives. The Faculty Assembly will make the final decision.

During the past several months, student involvement at the UI has been a prominent issue. Recently, there was a stir when students were, for the most part, left out of the presidential selection process. A student forum was held, but it included only selected EDITORIAL POINT OF VIEW

Students must speak up during the GER debate today and explain which cuts are most necessary in the minds of the student body.

The debate on the GER policy hits closer to home than the presidential selection, however. The president may affect students indirectly, but the GERs are of a more immediate concern.

The Faculty Assembly has come through for students. Perhaps due to lessons learned from the presidential search, the Faculty Assembly is encouraging students to voice their opinions.

Exactly what "this voice" will be is not clear. There will not be a Democratic vote taken among students. Students will not be presenting their own proposals. This brings up the possibility that students are only being invited to this forum to ease criticism leveled at the UI. Still, it is a start.

It will be interesting to see how many students actually go to the forum. While the UI has been criticized for not giving students enough say, it is no secret that the majority of students are fairly apathetic about university

While a few voices are heard, most students could have cared less who the next UI president would be. The majority of students don't vote in student government elections. And while they may be concerned with changing the GER policy, very few will make the effort to even research what the two proposals con-

Many people have a habit of allowing others to represent their views. They are used to having others to do the dirty work for them.

Fortunately, this is not representative of the entire UI student body. There are students who want to be involved in university policies. It is crucial for these students to attend tonight's forum.

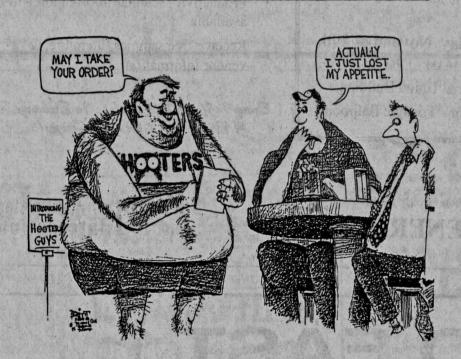

While the minds of the Faculty Assembly might already be made up, there is still the slim possibility of changing their minds. But it will take more than a handful of students to do this; students' power comes from the masses.

The GER issue is extremely important to students. If the goal of attending college is to expand one's mind, then the way to accomplish this becomes crucial. The voices on this issue must be heard.

Kudos to sports columnist

To the Editor:

Hats off to Chris James for providing such a comprehensive explanation of how and why Dan Marino and the Miami Dolphins will yet again choke their way out of a potential Super Bowl season. But then, even a "mentally unstable" sports columnist should know better than to expect so much, so early, from Dan and his pod of yet-toevolve-from-the-ocean-cetaceans. So what if Marino wasn't throwing — a cardboard cut-Boris Gregoric out and a dash of defensive diversity could have taken care of business against the worst record the NFL.

The only addition I would offer to James' otherwise thorough analysis of Miami's incompetence is to note that the division rival New England Patriots, no NFL powerhouse themselves, squashed the fish and flushed the bowl, with the greatest passing quarterback in NFL history on the field.

So good luck all you Dolphin fans — you will need it. And Chris, come January, when you're filling that Pilsner with salty sorrow, wondering what happened — it didn't.

It is unfortunate the letter to the editor printed in the Nov. 17 DI did not present an accurate account of the Campaign to Organize Graduate Students' current effort to unionize graduate student employees. Contrary to the letter, COGS meetings are not secret and elite. They are open to all graduate students, including those who are opposed to unionization, and they have been widely advertised. Approximately 400 flyers were put up around campus to inform graduate students of the meeting on Oct. 26 and the vote to affiliate. No organization who wants to conduct business in secret

The letter also failed to give an accurate description of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (UE). The letter should have pointed out the wide variety of workers who are part of the UE, including scientists, social workers and librarians. It is not just a "group of electricians," but a dynamic organization which is interested in promoting the rights and working conditions of many in our society. Maybe author Mark Wrighton is an elitist who does not value the work of electricians - but many graduate students believe in the rights of all workers in our democracy.

An early Christmas present for President Clinton

Christmas has arrived early for President Clinton, just as the 1996 race for the White House is heating up. With the Iowa Caucuses and the New Hampshire

Jamey Pregon appears alternate Wednesdays on the Viewpoints Page

Primary a little more than two months away, the GOP's goal of unseating Clinton has had serious setbacks - the most serious being the recent shutdown of the federal government. In reality, the president is as much to blame as the Republican Congress for the standoff which produced the six-day shutdown. For much of his term in office, Clinton has struggled with decision-making, posing as a liberal one day and a moderate the next. His public support has not been strong, and this could make him vulnerable during the 1996 elections. But the public has a short memory, and Clinton is ready to jump on the chance to turn his popularity around in the polls.

Clinton's numbers were inching up in the polls before the federal government shutdown, as he start-

President Clinton certainly has a lot to be thankful for during this holiday season. Ross Perot's new Reform Party is an obvious winner from the shutdown, which will certainly steal some GOP votes. GOP frontrunner Dole stood by Gingrich's side during an unpopular standoff with Clinton, which will probably not help his declining support. A lot can change before next November, but for the moment, Clinton is looking at a happy New Year. But if the government shuts down again on Dec. 15, both Clinton and the GOP may find their stockings overflowing with coal.

ed to step up his verbal attacks on the GOP Medicare proposals. Batting for America's senior citizens, Clinton vowed not to sign the GOP's budget: " ... not now, not ever," he said. The Republicans, with Newt Gingrich leading the way, tried to force the president to accept the budget by taking the government to the brink of shutdown - hoping Clinton would blink. He didn't and the shutdown began.

The public disapproved the whole fiasco, but the polls indicated Clinton was not at fault. According to The New York Times, only 7 percent of the respondents held Clinton responsible for the shutdown, while 35 percent blamed Congress. It is easy to see why the public does not blame the president: He has his job almost certainly depends on it.

sold himself as the defender of the nation's elderly, ready to stand up for Medicare and protect it from the heartless GOP. If that sounds a little far-fetched, that's because it is.

Clinton agreed with the GOP and the majority of this country, saying the budget must be balanced. To do this, deficit spending must be converted to surplus. The GOP promised to do this in seven years, and they said Medicare must be slowed in order to accomplish this. While Clinton denounces the GOP plan, his own plan to balance the budget includes cutting Medicare, almost as much as the GOP plan. He will try his best not to let the public see this -

How many people will buy into the new image Clinton carried from the shutdown? It's hard to say at this point, with the budget battle far from over Clinton will probably stick to his guns on Medicare, provided he doesn't lose his recently discovered backbone. This will continue to gain points with the American people. Gingrich's remarks about the treatment he and Bob Dole received on Air Force One also helped Clinton score points with the public - and it's hard to imagine Gingrich staying away from such controversy in the near future. Add these together and Clinton seems to be gaining support.

President Clinton certainly has a lot to be thankful for during this holiday season. Ross Perot's new Reform Party is an obvious winner from the shutdown, which will certainly steal some GOP votes. GOP frontrunner Dole stood by Gingrich's side during an unpopular standoff with Clinton, which will probably not help his declining support. A lot can change before next November, but for the moment, Clinton is looking at a happy New Year. But if the government shuts down again on Dec. 15, both Clinton and the GOP may find their stockings overflowing with coal.

Cheryl Hammond, manager of Metropolis, a downtown El Paso dance club, said El Paso's dance clubs stay open until 3 a.m.

'Club 101, which was an old furniture warehouse, is the only alternative dance club in El Paso," she said. "We also have E-9, which is a coffee house, cyber cafe and a dance club - they're filming a movie there so they're setting up an airplane deli in the parking lot. El Paso also has Metropolis, which has Fugazi and Dead or Alive coming in December."

El Paso also has its share of country music clubs and grunge hang-outs, Hammond said.

We have Denim and Diamonds, where mostly college students go they mix retro music with country," she said. "We also have The Stampede, which is closest to the Sun Bowl stadium. There is The Attic, which is a really neat place where they play grunge and a lot of local music.

"You can drink at 18 in Juarez, but they have a new chief of police who's cracking down," she said. "They do a lot of searching and frisking, and the police can do whatever they want to. If you go get plastered, be cautious. Don't go alone and don't leave people behind."

Women's basketball team seeks revenge at Creighton

So far this season, head coach Angie Lee's Iowa basketball squad has been trying to get revenge for last year's losses, and tonight will be no different, as the team travels to Omaha, Neb., to take on Creighton.

The Lady Jays beat Iowa last season at Carver-Hawkeye Arena 63-53, and lead the series 2-1, with the only lowa victory coming in 1985-86 by a score of 66-60.

In their own Prairie Lights Hawkeye Classic last weekend, the Hawkeyes defeated two teams that beat them in 1994-95, Stephen F. Austin and UC-Santa Barbara, en route to the tournament championship.

Sophomore guard Nadine Domond was the tournament MVP, pouring in 27 points in the championship win over UCSB.

The Hawkeyes go into the game ranked 16th in the latest Associated Press women's basketball poll, up from 19 last week, while Creighton enters unranked without any votes.

Ice Hawks play in Waterloo this weekend

The Ice Hawks will take to the rink against UNI in Waterloo on Sunday. The club hockey game will begin at 1 p.m. in Young Arena. Directions to the game can be received by calling 291-4300.

Average salaries drop

NEW YORK (AP) - The average baseball salary went down by nearly $58,000 this year, the first substantial decline in 30 years.

The average salary was $1,110,766, according to final figures released Tuesday by the Major League Baseball Players Association at its annual meeting in Aventura, Fla. That was a 5 percent drop from the 1994 average of $1,168,263.

Clubs spent more money on players this year — about $924 million, an increase of $15 million.

But the average declined because there were far more players in the majors on Aug. 31, the last day before rosters expanded. While there were 762 players in the majors in Aug. 31, 1994, there were 824 on Aug. 31 this year. The increase was caused by more players on the disabled list.

SWIMMING

FINA implements stricter penalties on doping

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) - The United States applauded stricter penalties on doping approved Tuesday by swimming's world governing body, calling the new sanctions "a giant step forward" for the sport.

At a special Congress convened here, the International Swimming Federation voted to extend to four years a mandatory ban on first-time steroid users. The current suspension is two years.

That means swimmers who flunk drug tests will automatically miss an Olympic Games.

FINA also ruled that swimmers who test positive for banned substances will lose all "medals, victories and accomplishments" from the preceding 12 months.

Hawks shoot down Drake

Bulldogs never threaten, lose by 32

David Schwartz The Daily Iowan

Despite sporting four seniors in its starting lineup, intrastate rival Drake was unable to mount any remnants of an offense Tuesday night until it was too late.

Iowa, led by seniors Russ Millard, Kenyon Murray and Mon'ter Glasper, thumped the Bulldogs 98-66 in a contest that was even more distant than the score appeared.

"You never know as a coach how your team is going to respond," Iowa coach Tom Davis said. "We just wanted to establish what we had established in the first half."

The Hawkeyes led at halftime 52-31, headed by point guard Andre Woolridge's seven assists and shooting guard Chris Kingsbury's 14 points - 12 coming on three-pointers.

One of Kingsbury's threes came at such a distance that even Carver-Hawkeye Arena public address announcer Bob Holzhammer stuttered with laughter while trying to make the announcement to the home crowd.

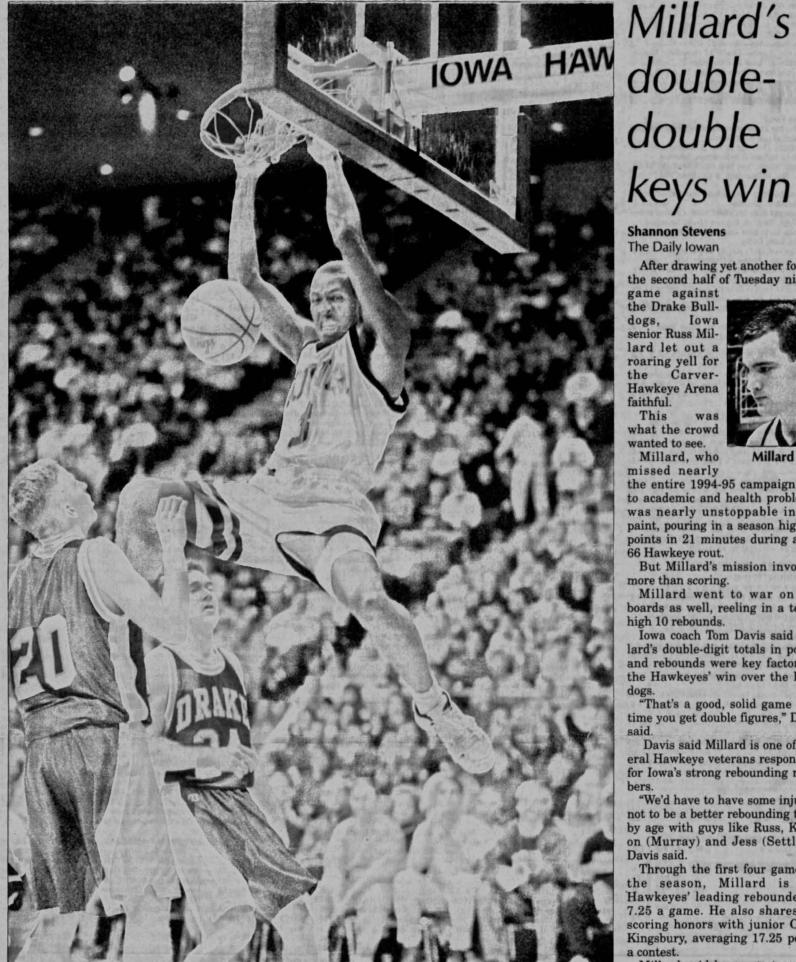

But it was Millard who put up the big numbers. Millard compiled game-highs in points (22), rebounds (11) and blocks (two).

"It feels good," Millard said. "I think the team's playing better, too. Tonight I just felt the rebound was going for me and we put together a good team win tonight."

After four games this Iowa's been rebounding better than last season, Davis said. The Hawkeves manhandled Drake Tuesday on the boards, 52-22.

"I'd be shocked (if this year's team wasn't a better rebounding team than last year's)," Davis said. "I think we'd need to have some injuries to not be a better rebounding team. There should be improvement with age."

Iowa led 88-51 when Davis pulled his regulars in favor of freshman J.R. Koch, seldom-used sophomore Greg Helmers and AUBURN HILLS, Mich. Michigan State coach Tom Izzo just wanted improvement. The Spartans gave him that, and more.

Jon Garavaglia scored six of his 14 points down the stretch Tuesday night and the Spartans defeated No. 25 Arkansas 75-72 in the first game of the Great Eight basketball

Izzo, in his first season after being Jud Heathcote's assistant since 1983, was disturbed that his club lost two of three games at the Maui Classic.

"This was certainly the most exciting win of my short career," Izzo said. "It was a big win for our kids. We got some things straightened out the last four days in practice, and that made a difference. We took a big step in the right direction tonight.'

Top-ranked Kentucky and No. 5 Massachusetts played in the second game with two more games scheduled for Wednesday night.

"He's got a good victory over a great program," Arkansas coach Nolan Richardson said. "Not a great team but a great program.

"I told Tom the two of us are searching. He's looking for something and so am I."

idle since losing to Arizona in the second round of the Preseason NIT. But their fullcourt press helped hold the Spartans without a basket for a six-minute stretch of the sec-

Arkansas took a 69-61 lead on Darnell Robinson's three-point play with 6:04 remaining. Then Garavaglia took over.

"Jon Garavaglia stepped up big-time tonight," Izzo said.

His jumper from the top of the key put the Spartans ahead 71-70

The Razorbacks (1-2) had been with 2:05 remaining and his tip of Daimon Beathea's shot gave Michigan State a 73-70 lead with 53 seconds left.

"The end of the game tonight was gut check time," Garavaglia said. "We either had to play hard and win or give in and lose.

Kareem Reid, who had 18 points, made two free throws with 44 seconds left, but Beathea matched them for the Spartans.

The press forced 16 Michigan

"There's a lot of things I need to prove to myself," Millard said. "I want to play basketball for a long time hopefully, so I need to do it right now."

Millard said his immediate goal was just to keep crashing the pride in and we try to go our hardboards with his teammates.

State turnovers, but the Spartans had a 47-23 edge in rebounds with Jamie Feick and Garavaglia each pulling down 12.

"It was a well-played game except we thought we'd be a good rebounding basketball team and tonight we weren't," Richardson said. "The Michigan State kids really got after it."

Jesse Pate scored 13 of his 20 points in the second half for the Razorbacks, who had to replace five starters since losing to UCLA in the title game of the NCAA tournament last spring.

Feick scored 20 points for the Spartans (2-2), who snapped a twogame losing streak.

"Rebounding was the key out there tonight," Feick said.

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. (AP) -Marcus Camby scored 32 points, 16 in each half, as No. 5 Massachusetts opened its season with a 92-82 victory over No. 1 Kentucky in the Great Eight basketball festival Tuesday night.

The win gave the Minutemen a perfect 3-0 record against top-ranked teams. Last season they defeated Arkansas when the Razorbacks were No. 1. A year earlier they defeated North Carolina when the Tar Heels were No. 1. Massachusetts used one of Kentucky's favorite tactics, the fullcourt press, to open an 18-point lead midway through the first half. But the Wildcats, getting two 3-pointers by Tony Delk and one each from Allen Edwards and Walter McCarty, battled back for a 45-45 halftime tie.

The Minutemen opened the second half with an 11-1 run and led the rest of the way. Two of the points in that opening burst came on free throws by Edgar Padilla after Kentucky coach Rick Pitino was hit with a technical foul.

The Wildcats (1-1) closed the gap to 64-62 on Delk's 3-pointer with 10:07 remaining and narrowed the deficit to 76-74 on McCarty's free throw with 3:45 left to play.

Camby scored six more points the rest of the way, however, and the Minutemen kept up the defensive pressure at both ends of the court. As a result, the Wildcats went without a basket from Delks's jumper with 4:09 remaining until Walker connected with 54 seconds left.

Donald said. "I don't think you need a rule in the book that says this is showing off and this isn't. But players do step out of line sometimes and I would hope that the coaches would do something to discourage it."

Wisconsin coach Jane Albright-Dieterle agreed that it really is up to the head coach to set a good example.

"It's our team and our kids." Albright-Dieterle said. "We should make clear what is acceptable and what isn't and I think most coaches on this level do."

Many who feel a rule is unnecessary have argued that it takes some of the emotion out of the game. Rene Portland, head coach of women's basketball at Penn State, said it can be tough on the players, especially at pivotal points in a

"Imagine making a three-pointer or blocking a shot at a key moment in the game and having to worry about if the official is going to get on your case if you celebrate with your teammates. I agree that an athlete shouldn't focus the attention totally on themselves. But don't kill the emotion and the excitement of the sport by saying this is what we will and won't tolerate," Portland said.

Northwestern coach Don Perrelli

said a rule isn't needed and if there was one, the officials wouldn't be that stingy enforcing it.

"If they enact a rule, fine, but I don't think the officials are going to specifically look for over-celebrating. I say, let the kids play and show all the emotion they want. Ninety-nine per cent of them aren't trying to show somebody up, they're just out there having fun, Perrelli said.

SLUMPING OAKLAND

Raiders struggle in AFC West race

Ken Peters Associated Press

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. - Despite an overtime loss at Kansas City and the debacle at Denver earlier in the season, the Oakland Raiders looked like they were back among the NFL's best a couple of weeks

Now, with one of their biggest games of the year on the horizon, the Raiders are a team in trouble.

Within a span of nine days, they the Dallas Cowboys, one of the league's elite teams, and shown up by the San Diego Chargers, who have fallen on

Two games behind Kansas City in the AFC West, the Raiders have a rematch against the Chiefs on Sunday at Oakland. Kansas City can clinch the division title with a

The Raiders are 8-4 after losing two in a row for the first time this year, and they have an ailing quarterback. Jeff Hostetler, who reinjured his bruised left shoulder in the 34-21 loss to Dallas, watched in street clothes Monday night as backup Vince Evans and the Raiders stumbled in a 12-6 loss to San Diego.

Hostetler's status for the showdown against Kansas City (10-2) is uncertain. He's listed as day-to-day with the lingering injury to his non-throwing shoulder. Coach Mike White was unavailable on Tuesday, opting out of what is a day-after-game routine for most

'FLORIDA AND THE 11 DWARFS'

Gators dominating SEC during the '90s

Paul Newberry Associated Press

GAINESVILLE, Fla. - The Southeastern Conference likes to proclaim itself the best football league in the country from top to

Actually, it has become little more than Florida and the 11 dwarfs since Steve Spurrier returned to Gainesville as the

In six seasons, the Gators have won three conference titles and are an overwhelming favorite to make it four when they meet Arkansas in the SEC championship Saturday night.

"Winning is a habit," said Spurrier, whose team is 11-0 this season and ranked No. 2 in the country. "Unfortunately, so is losing. Right now, we're in a good

Florida also had the league's best record in Spurrier's first season but was ineligible for the crown because of NCAA sanctions. The only time this decade that the Gators didn't finish atop the SEC standings was 1992, when they lost to eventual national champion Alabama 28-21 in the conference title game.

"It's just a matter of attitude," receiver Chris Doering said Tuesday. "Coach Spurrier came in here and taught us that we should expect to win, we should expect to be competing for the conference championship every year. I think that attitude has really allowed us to be successful in the conference."

Under Spurrier, who constantly preaches that winning the SEC is his top goal every year, the Gators have compiled a 43-6 record within the league. From Columbia, S.C., to Little Rock, Ark., Florida has come to be known as "The Evil

"When you have that air of confidence, sometimes it may be intimidating to other teams," Doering

They might say, 'Well, Florida has been so good in the past it's going to be tough to beat them.' They start to believe that."

Granted, Florida's domination of the SEC has been accomplished during a period of decline for traditionally strong programs such as Georgia and Louisiana State. But teams like Tennessee, Alabama and Auburn have been among the nation's best in recent years - just not as good as the Gators. Florida lost two in a row to Auburn but re-established its dominance with a 49-38 victory this season. The Gators are 4-1 against Alabama this decade, 3-2 against

The only other team in the 12-school SEC to beat Florida during the '90s is Mississippi State, which shocked the Gators early in the 1992 season, a week after they had lost to Tennessee. It's the only twogame conference losing streak of the Spurrier era.

So how long will Florida's reign

"I've heard those other schools say it runs in cycles. They don't seem to be worried. They think our cycle is about over," Spurrier said. He was quick to add, however, that he's not one of those people. "I think we're in good shape," he said, cracking a smile. "Technically, this is our youngest team. I should have come out this year and said we're two years away from being really good."

30 POINTS PER GAME IN LAST THREE OUTINGS

Anderson coming on strong to boost Magic The defending Eastern Confer- Friday and had 25 at Washington the first 11 games didn't frustrate

Fred Goodall Associated Press

ORLANDO, Fla. - Nick Anderson counted the reasons the Orlando Magic are winning without Shaquille O'Neal and resisted the temptation to exclude himself.

While he relishes his role as a player whose contributions are often overlooked, the numbers he's posted this month - 18 points, seven rebounds and three assists per game - are difficult to ignore.

With O'Neal expected to be sidelined until late December with a broken thumb, Anfernee Hardaway has led the Magic to the best 14-game start (12-2) in the franchise's seven-year history.

The All-Star point guard hasn't done it, though, without a lot of help from a supporting cast that includes Horace Grant, Dennis Scott and Anderson, who's pulled out of a shooting slump to average 30 points in the last three games.

ence champions have won five straight and can equal a team record for victories in a month by beating Dallas at home Thursday night. Anderson said one of the keys is no one, including Hardaway, feels as if he has to carry the load every night.

"One night it's Penny, the next it may be Dennis or Horace, and another night it's me," he said. "It shows the kind of maturity we've got on this team.'

Anderson

Anderson was shooting only 36 percent before regaining his touch during a two-game road trip last weekend. He scored a season-high 34 points against Minnesota last the following night. The success continued at home when he hit his first six shots, five of them 3-pointers, and finished with 31 points in a 96-95 victory over Detroit on Monday night.

"He came out like gangbusters and we just rode his coattails,' Scott said. "We just got on his back and said, 'Carry us, baby, because you're feeling it."

Primarily a post-up player when he entered the NBA as the Magic's first-ever pick in the college draft in 1989, Anderson is a 47 percent career shooter who thrives on open shots created when opponents double-team O'Neal.

In the past three games, he's shooting 52 percent, including 16for-27 behind the 3-point line. He's averaging a little more than two points and three rebounds per game more than last season. Anderson said shooting poorly him as much as it might have if other facets of his game - primarily rebounding and defense - had been suffering, too. "I shoot the basketball every day and don't get frustrated when it's not falling," he said. "I just keep working and do other things. Sooner or later, the shot will come back." Coach Brian Hill agreed Anderson's shooting was not a concern because the 6-foot-6 guard contributes in so many ways.

'If you look at all of our games, Nick's always stepped up big at the end," the coach said.

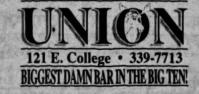

"He's either getting every big defensive rebound, or he's making shots, or he's blocking a shot, or he's getting a stop defensively on a key player. ... You look at our stats and he's got more defensive rebounds than anybody on our team. He's just playing a great, allaround game right now."

ROSE BOWL BOUND

Going wild over the Wildcats

EVANSTON, Ill. - There's only a week to go until final exams at Northwestern, the school known for having the brains of the Big Ten. The buzz on campus, however, isn't about tests, it's about Rose Bowl tickets. And how to

With the once hapless Wildcats heading to Pasadena for the first time in over 40 years, pigskin fever has hit with a vengeance.

"Students are talking about football. That hasn't happened in nearly 50 years," said John Paynter, the school's director of bands who, as a student, cheered on the Wildcats at their last bowl appearance - the 1949 Rose

The campus bookstore had to add more cash registers to handle all the sales of Northwestern sweatshirts, hats, pompons and T-shirts.

Vases of roses are plentiful around suburban Evanston. University flags flap in store windows. Former students, including Charlton Heston, Cindy Crawford and Ann-Margret, have voiced their support for the Wildcats on television.

And on Monday, so many Californiadreaming fans jammed the phone lines

"Students are talking about football. That hasn't happened in nearly 50 years."

John Paynter, Northwestern's director of bands and student in 1948, the year of the Wildcats' last Rose Bowl bid.

Mary Doi, a senior and selfdescribed fairweather fan, was among those trying to get tickets. "It's a once in a half-century chance," she said.

Until this season, when the Wildcats became the nation's favorite underdogs, racking up a 10-1 record and capturing the Big Ten championship, the average SAT scores of Northwestern freshmen was more often a source of pride than the football team - especially during a 34-game losing streak between 1979 and 1982.

But this year's team was different,

As for those much-desired Rose Bowl tickets, Northwestern will be allotted 21,904 at $80 each.

Priority will be given to season-ticket holders, including student and faculty season-ticket holders, as well as certain university donors.

Amid the Rose Bowl rush, signs of the old Northwestern were still evident on campus. After all, this school of 7,400 undergraduates - the only private university in a conference of giant state schools - didn't earn the reputation as the brains of the Big Ten "Students won't be forgetting their studies. You can't do that at Northwestern," said Paynter.

Sex-art show leaves little to erotic imagination

Marilyn August Associated Press

PARIS - Erotic potpourri? Pornographic hodgepodge? Sex encyclopedia? Leave the kids at home.

The mega-show on sex in art at the Pompidou Center puts genitalia on parade in a provocative display which includes Picasso's sexually explicit drawings, Brancusi's "Princesse X" in polished bronze, photos of Andy Warhol in drag, Robert Gober's "Man Coming Out of a Woman" and Tony Wesselman's "Woman With a Cigarette."

The beautiful and kinky cohabit in this labyrinthian display of 500 paintings, drawings, sculptures, photographs, collages and installations by 100 artists from around the world.

There's everything from bondage and sadomasochism to voyeurism, cross-dressing, masturbation, urination and fetishism, making "Femininmasculin: The Sex of Art," a no-no for the very young or faint-

Museum officials caution that some material may be found offensive, a rarity for a show designed as one of the season's main cultural

"The questions sex and gender, transformation and identity are among the important issues raised by contemporary artists," said American art critic Joan Simon. "Until now, no one has looked into them in such a comprehensive way."

The tone is set by two French actors reading erotic literature on video screens in the main entrance. The show gets right to the point with Gustave Courbet's famous "Origins of the World," a 19th-century hyperrealistic painting showing a naked woman lying spreadeagled on her back.

Arranged thematically in five sections, the exhibition features familiar works by the century's leading artists - among them Marcel Duchamp's 1919 mustachioed Mona Lisa, Magritte's "Rape," Picasso's "Kiss," "Couple" and "Embrace."

Also on show are portraits of the artist Georgia O'Keeffe by Alfred tographs by Edward Weston and Out latest Imogen Cunningham.

American Robert Mapplethorpe, whose sexually explicit photographs have fueled controversy in recent years, is represented by a tame photograph of Ken Moody holding an orchid and Bourgeois holding a giant phallus.

Sue Williams' "Try to Be More Accommodating" (1991) is a cartoon-like portrayal of a woman's mouth, eyes, nose and ear being penetrated by four penises. Her 1992 sculpture of a naked woman is covered with boot prints, bruises and phrases commonly uttered by abusive men. "Look what you made me do" runs up one arm, while "I think you like it" runs down the other.

One of the most amusing pieces is a photograph by Noritoshi Hirakawa, "At a Bedroom in the Middle of Night.'

Elsewhere, there are photos of Warhol wearing a blond wig, along with his sexually explicit drawings rarely seen in public.

The Doghouse Blues Band will perform at G.A. Malone's at 8:30 tonight. Their classic electric blues spans the 1950s to 1970s.

Blues to rock Malone's pub

The Daily Iowan

Iowa City's own The Doghouse Blues Band will bring their eclectic mix of electric blues tonight to G.A. Malone's at 8:30. Their tastes range from Chicago bluesman Willie Dixon to the ever-present B.B. King.

The Doghouse Blues Band is comprised of a tight quartet of musicians: Jon Klinkowitz, who has backed Bo Diddley, provides vocals and guitar. Dan Berkowitz backs the ensemble with "doghouse" — a foundation of electric and string bass. Steve Price and Tom Dostal round out the group with blues harp, accordion and vocals, and percussion, respectively.

The members of The Doghouse Blues Band are veterans of various blues venues, both in Iowa City and around the country. Klinkowitz has been the house band leader for the now defunct Yacht Club and Metro, with regular drummer Dostal, and also performed at The Que.

The band has performed with "Blues in the Schools" program, and recently played at the UI Riverbank Blues Festival.

For veteran listeners and beginners, don't miss it.

Passengers: Original Soundtracks 1 is the baby of mega-production wizard Brian Eno collaborating with U2 to create a strange, quiet album of compositions from films around the world.

The music contained on the album alienates pop music listeners and serves as an interesting study on how background music accentuates cinema.

The opener, "United Colours," demonstrates the techno mastery of Eno wandering with ambient flavor. The song "Your Blue Room" features The Edge playing a sexy ethereal organ and Bono's soothing

"Always Forever Now" contains pure, slick percussion from U2's Larry Muller Jr., and the tempo builds throughout the track bouncing off stark sound textures from

The Edge handles vocals on "Corpse (These Chains Are Way Too Long)" and his falsetto rises over looped marching feet and a somber saxophone drone

The discs' highlights are "Miss Sarajevo" and "Elvis Ate America." The saturnine, ironic "Miss Sarajevo" is from a documentary done by Bill Carter during the war in the Balkans, where several artists held a beauty contest during an attack. The lyrics depict finding beauty in the face of war. Luciano Pavarotti accompanies Bono with a rich, beautiful tenor as only Pavarotti

"Elvis Ate America" was meant for a super 8 film by Jeff Koons who explores pop icons as subjects for his productions. The song pokes at idolatry of The King with bitter tongue-in-cheek humor: "(Elvis) White trash/(Elvis) Memphis flash/(Elvis) didn't smoke hash/(Elvis) woulda been a sissy would I Johnny Cash?" Bono sings with convincing bite. The shuffling snare drum and Bono's embellished burst "Elvis don't mean shit to Chuck D." makes this song the best.

Associated Press

NEW YORK - "Do you want to confront the person who disfigured your face? If so, call us ..

"Have you or a relative ever made love to President Clinton? If so, give me a call ...

One of these overtures, and the talk show it was made, on which, is for real. The other is a hoax. Can you tell which is which?

Now try these: Here's a "Jerry Springer Show" titled "Loving Myself," where an overweight woman who loves to kiss her own breasts displays the lipstick smears to prove it. Click! On "Sally Jessy Raphael," a man named Rich tells of suing a nightclub where he was attacked by a ghost. Click! On "Night Stand with Dick Dietrick," four illegal aliens compete in a talent show where the winner gets a green card and the losers are deported.

"Night Stand," of course, is the ringer. Launched earlier this fall, it's a weekly syndicated spoof of talk shows, airing on most stations in a weekend late-night slot (check local listings).

That nocturnal scheduling is one easy way to distinguish "Night Stand" from "Carnie," "Rolonda," "Geraldo," "Gabrielle" and the other weekday talk shows it lampoons.

Other notable differences: "Night segments such as "Frivolous Law- talk." suits (Drop Your Briefs and Give Me Ten)," "Whoops! I Think I Like My Cousin," and, as part of the ohso-caring "Night Stand's" Save Our Kids initiative ... "Teenage Hardbody Prostitutes.'

Host Dick Dietrick, a gangly underachiever with an overbite and thinning hair atop a thick head, is played by actor-writer Timothy Stack, who formerly was in the Groundling improv troupe and the father on the sitcom "Parker Lewis Can't Lose.'

Now throw in the tearful testimony and heated confrontations, the rowdy audience, the arena set, the throbbing theme music and Dick's transparently insincere sincerity, and it becomes obvious that "Night Stand" is the plastic barf of talk shows: As funny as the real thing, yet no one had to really get sick. Earlier this month, the former Education Secretary blasted talk shows as "cultural rot" and cited several by name. "Night Stand's" host fired back.

"I am deeply disappointed," pronounced Dick Dietrick in an open letter to Bennett - disappointed, that is, at being left off Bennett's

"You referred to talk shows as 'the pollution of the human environment,' " Dietrick said in his let-

Stand" is fully scripted, and rather ter. "I've always considered 'Night cleverly. Actors play all the roles on Stand' to be the Two-Mile Island of Bennett's self-described strategy is to create "a hue and cry across the land" that will shame talk shows - the REAL talk shows into mending their ways. But maybe a better way to get their goat is to make wicked fun of them. That's Stack's game plan, anyway.

"Any genre that takes itself so seriously, or at least pretends to, is ripe for parody," he said. "Sally Jessy could have Siamese-twin Nazis on the panel, and she'd say, 'Let's listen to what they're saying, because this affects all of us.' C'mon! They're Siamese-twin

He's exaggerating, if only slightly. But since Siamese twins and Nazis are both talk-show staples, a hybrid guest can only be a matter of time.

When it happens, Stack will be watching - and taking notes.

"We look at talk shows every day to see what they're doing," he said. "Sure, they inspire us. We did 'One-Night Stand Reunions' right off 'Jenny Jones.'

"But ultimately," he said, "we have to be clever in our own right.' Not to mention gracious. Bill Bennett, according to that letter from Dick Dietrick, is welcome to appear on "Night Stand" anytime.
