Don't despair: Help wanted

Graduating seniors have a better chance of getting a job than the senior class before them, according to a national study to be released today.

The Michigan State University study said graduates can expect about a 4.7 percent increase over last year in hiring rates for students directly out of college.

"It remains a very competitive job market out there, so the graduates by no means will find it easy hunting," said Patrick Scheetz, the survey author and the director of the Collegiate Employment Research Institute at Michigan State. "It is a modest improvement."

Many college placement offices have released employment statistics backing up the results of the Michigan State survey.

In a 1994-95 survey of 136 college placement offices around the coun-

Graduation outlook

- There will be a 4.7 percent increase in the number of new college graduates who can expect to get jobs, the third straight annual improvement.
- The best job prospects are for engineers, computer scientists, business majors, health professionals and science majors.
- Chemical engineers will draw the biggest pay — $41,133 — while journalists will be offered the lowest starting salaries — $20,154.
- Of the survey of 522 businesses, industries and governmental agencies, those surveyed said 48 percent of last spring's new hires had career-related experience such as internships.

Internships key in struggle for jobs

UI senior Tim Blank already has a job lined up at Andersen Consulting in Minneapolis when he graduates in May.

It's at the same company he interned for last summer.

"I think internships are the most valuable thing you can do in college," Blank, a biomedical engineering major, said. "It lets you know that school and the real world are two different things."

As UI seniors prepare to graduate and enter the work force, it is often necessary for them to leave with more than just a degree and a decent grade-point average.

In a recent survey of 520 businesses, industries and government agencies by Michigan State University, 48 percent of graduates who were hired had some sort of previous work experience, such as an internship.

"Employers are looking for students who have a good solid educational background, but they also like to see some work experience."

Jane Schildroth, coordinator for the UI Center for Career Development and Cooperative Education

"I would say internships are almost a key to finding a job that puts you way ahead of everybody else," said Beth Merritt, assistant director of the UI Engineering Career Services.

Education is not necessarily the most important aspect of a student's resume when compared to experience, Merritt said.

"A lot of companies want to train graduates specifically with their company, so they don't necessarily have to have a graduate degree," Merritt said.

The average starting salary for students with technical MBA degrees but who had little experience was $42,093, a 1994-95 salary survey by the National Association of Colleges and Employers showed.

However, students with technical MBA degrees and about 4 years of work experience received about $68,557 per year.

"Employers are looking for students who have a good solid educational background, but they also like to see some work experience," said Jane Schildroth, coordinator for the UI Center for Career Development and Cooperative Education. "It could be a summer job, an

MINORITY ENROLLMENT STRESSED

Big Ten leaders meet, push federal aid for student loans

Chad Graham
The Daily Iowan

Student leaders from the Big Ten flocked to the Union last weekend with three things on their minds — gaining federal support for student loans, increasing minority enrollment and living it up in Iowa City.

The leaders were part of the biannual meeting of the Association of Big Ten Schools, which gathered Friday to discuss issues facing their universities.

Support for student loans

Madeleine Kunin, U.S. deputy secretary of education, who kicked off the event, said the Federal Direct Loan Program, in which the government lends money to the universities instead of banks for student loans, is in danger.

"Since the GI Bill of Rights, Johnson every president has added to the educational system," she said. "Last year there was seen a narrowing of educational goals. There are now proposals to cut these programs by $18 billion and raise interest rates."

Kunin said students should show their support of the program by contacting their congressmen.

"Support for the program is strong and there is uniform commitment all around," she said. "Be visible in the state and government legislature. Create a network to try and reach out-of-state representatives."

Jeremy Johnson, president of UI Student Government, said UISG would like to install a phone in the Union for students to contact their congressmen about the direct loan program.

"We are trying to focus on the direct lending program," he said. "We want to set out a phone with a 1-800 number that would connect the students to their representatives. Students then could call with their thoughts on the lending program."

President Clinton mingles with members of the U.S. Army's 1st Armored Division, 2nd Brigade, at Smith Barracks in Baumholder, Germany, Saturday. U.S. troops are set to enter the war-torn Balkans on a risky peace mission.

MADRID, Spain — President Clinton authorized a vanguard of 700 American troops to open a risky mission in the former Yugoslavia and rejected Bosnian Serb demands Sunday for rewriting the treaty U.S. forces will help enforce.

"When you make a peace agreement, not everybody is happy with it," Clinton said, referring to Bosnian Serb military leader Ratko Mladic's warning that Serbs in Sarajevo will never live under Muslim and Croat rule, as the agreement prescribes.

Despite the complaints of Mladic and others, Clinton said, "I don't think the treaty is in trouble and, no, I don't think it should be renegotiated." It is to be signed Dec. 14 in Paris.

Wrapping up a five-day European trip,

Clinton announced he had given the go-ahead for sending into Bosnia 700 U.S. troops trained in logistics and communications.

Within a few days, the advance troops will establish a U.S. headquarters in the northeast town of Tuzla in preparation for nearly 20,000 Americans set to follow. The Americans, part of a 60,000-troop international peacekeeping effort, will spend the winter and the months following trying to separate warring parties and disarming land mines hidden by snow-covered fields.

RESIDENTS URGED: 'JUST THINK SNOW'

Meager snowfall has Alaskans in doldrums

Rosanne Pagano
Associated Press

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Except for people who'd rather not have to shovel a few feet of white stuff to get to the mailbox, this season's been a dud.

The wind still rustles up the sound of fallen autumn leaves, unsoftened by snow.

Snowmobile fans in Alaska's largest city have had to haul their machines a few hundred miles out of town in search of snow.

Nordic skiers have almost given up, retreating to thickly frozen lakes for a few unrewarding laps. High school ski meets have been scrubbed.

Fans of warm weather pursuits, such as mountain bikers, on the other hand, are smiling.

A dry trend started in October because a high pressure area has been stalled over Nunivak Island in the Bering Sea, diverting moist air from the Anchorage area, the National Weather Service said.

It was the city's driest November since 1985 and among the brownest since 1921. Anchorage had a scant nine-one-hundredths of an inch of new snow during the entire 30-day stretch.

That may not sound so bad by

'PEOPLE DON'T REALIZE THE DANGERS'

Warning: Trekking tracks deadly

Cary Jordan
The Daily Iowan

Have you ever met anybody who's survived being hit by a train?

Probably not. That's something Mark Sandler, chief special agent for Iowa International Railroad, wishes everybody would think about when they consider walking along railroad tracks for a shortcut.

Sandler, who is also an instructor for Operation Lifesaver, an organization dedicated to educating children and adults about railway safety, said he sees the problem of people illegally crossing railroad tracks on foot getting more serious in Iowa City.

"People don't realize the dangers involved when they cut across the tracks just to save a little time," Sandler said. "So many different things can go wrong that you wouldn't even think of."

Since so many people don't understand the dangers involved with railway safety, the threat of injury or death isn't a reality for them, Sandler said.

See RAILROAD SAFETY, Page 8A

Railroad crossing facts

■ In 1994, 610 people were killed and 1,092 seriously injured in 4,291 highway-rail grade crossing collisions. Additionally, nationwide 529 persons were killed while trespassing.

■ About every 90 minutes a vehicle-train crash occurs.

■ Two motorists are killed daily in vehicle-train collisions.

■ A motorist is 30 times more likely to die in a vehicle-train crash than in other motor vehicle accidents.

■ In an average year more people die in highway-rail crashes each year than in airplane crashes.

■ More than 50 percent of grade crossing collisions occur at crossings where active warning devices exist.

■ Most vehicle-train crashes occur at grade crossings within 25 miles of the motorist's home.

■ Trains cannot stop quickly:

150-car freight train stopping distance
30 mph = 3,537 feet or 2 2/3 of a mile
50 mph = 7,920 feet or 1 2/3 miles
8-car passenger train stopping distance
60 mph = 3,500 feet or 2 2/3 of a mile
80 mph = 6,000 feet or more than a mile

Oddities & Idiosyncrasies

Rustic gear captivates trendy Americans

Maggie Jackson
Associated Press

NEW YORK — Quilts. Flannels. Jeeps. If it smacks of the country, it's chic. "Hungering for comfort and simplicity, Americans are reveling in things rural."

They're trekking up mountains — or down Madison Avenue — in fancy hiking boots. They're splashing houses and apartments with gingham, baskets and, as Christmas nears, garlands and gingerbread houses.

Ask Kurt Abrams, who oohs and ahs about his new Ford Explorer, the best seller among the "sport utility vehicles" that constitute the fastest-growing segment of the domestic auto market for several years.

No matter that he's a New Yorker, born and bred. With such a car, the country beckons.

"I'm starting to contemplate taking my kids camping," said Abrams, a father of two who works for a pharmaceutical company. "I didn't think about it before. I'm trying to figure out things to do with the vehicle."

Of course, not everyone gets the gear first and then wonders what to use it for. Many people are rock climbing, hiking, hunting or quilting. But the numbers of Americans buying into the country look without the life shows the strength of the pastoral allure.

"You talk about wanting to live this country life," said Peter Horn II, manager of Beretta Galleries, a New York boutique opened by the Italian gun company in June to sell tweedy hunting and "apres hunting" clothes, along with $100,000 handmade guns. "People come in here just to buy clothes for the weekend. It has nothing to do with hunting."

Whatever happened to the glitz, the glamour, the sparkle of city things to covet and emulate? After the ostentatious '80s, Americans seem to be clamoring for a warm, homey, outdoorsy look.

No matter that it can cost as much as sleek did in the last decade — it evokes down-home goodness. "There's a longing for a return at least symbolically to quality, to people who can be trusted, concepts that can be believed, products that will prove to be of value," said John Mack Carter, president of Hearst Magazine Enterprises and creator of Country Living, the most popular of the dozen or so magazines of the genre published today.

For the more urban or the young and hip, a streamlined country look offers less traditional furnishings.

"Sun-faded, soft colors, weathered furniture and fabric — Provencal would come to mind," Barbara Turf, chief buyer for Crate and Barrel, said of the style that the Northbrook, Ill., chain will push for a second year.

In clothing, too, Americans are choosing the woodsman or farmer look.

Whether they have any desire to hike or hoe is irrelevant.

"Urban Rustic — as in a plaid jacket that might at first look like a lumberjack's — then you catch the refinements," coos the fall J. Crew clothing catalog in touting a $168 women's wool jacket.

In the J. Crew world, pale women stand sternly beside stubbly bearded men in old pickups or fields. All sport flannel, corduroy and plaids.

Valerie Steele, an author and professor of fashion history at the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York, said this style, which is defying the sales doldrums suffered elsewhere in the retail world, tap into an American prejudice against fashion. "People perceive these clothes as being not fashion but real clothes," she said.

Sales of Timberland boots and clothes more than doubled to $637 million last year. Yet many wearers aren't tackling mountains in them.

"We're seeing a lot of people buying our very technical hiking boots and using them to hike Madison Avenue," said spokesperson Roger Rydell, referring to a line of footwear which costs $150-$200.

How long before crystal, silk and brocade come back in vogue?

"We always go through these cycles," said Christopher Cedergren, senior vice president of Autopacific Inc., a market research group.

Fishburne fan arrested for stalking while scantily clad

NEW YORK (AP) — An obsessed fan has been arrested for allegedly pursuing Laurence Fishburne while she was alternately naked and wearing a Playboy Bunny costume.

Regina Scott began harassing Fishburne on Halloween, when he was onstage in "Riff Raff" at the Circle Repertory Theater, police said Saturday.

Scott wore the bunny costume when she threw candy onto the stage and yelled, "Trick or treat, Mr. Fishburne!" police said. She was escorted out of the theater.

On Nov. 5, Scott, 33, interrupted a lecture Fishburne, 34, was giving to acting students at New York University, and tried to give him flowers, police said.

Then, on Nov. 9, Scott allegedly marched, naked except for a sandwich sign which read, "Larry is a Spoiled Homophobic Child," outside the Circle Repertory Theater.

She was treated for emotional disturbance and released from Bellevue Hospital, police said. She was arrested at her home Friday on harassment charges after Fishburne's representative filed a complaint.

Fishburne was nominated for an Academy Award for his portrayal of Ike Turner in the film "What's Love Got to Do With It?"

'Jumanji': A biography of Jim Janee?

NEW YORK (AP) — Robin Williams said there's been a little confusion about the name of his new movie, "Jumanji."

The movie, due out Dec. 15, features Williams as a man freed after being trapped inside a magical jungle board game for 26 years. But try telling THAT to people.

"Some guy came up to me and said, 'Jumanji?' That's the movie about the baseball player, isn't it?" Williams said in the latest Entertainment Weekly magazine.

"It's amazing how many times it has been mispronounced. I even get, 'You're doing that bio of Jim Janee. I've heard of him,'" he said.

"Now when people ask me what 'Jumanji' means, I tell them it's an island in the Caribbean."

Former Secretary of State claims 'Kissinger and Nixon' rife with mistakes

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — There's no need to be diplomatic; Henry Kissinger trashes a new television docudrama based on his relationship with President Richard Nixon during the Vietnam War era.

"The film brazenly reverses history," the former secretary of state writes in the Dec. 9 issue of TV Guide.

He said "Kissinger and Nixon," airing Dec. 10 on TNT, portrays a "republican Kissinger" who cons "a boozing, anti-Semitic Richard Nixon into peace talks with Hanoi."

"The viewer is spared any ambiguity: Every single American policy maker is depicted in various shades of sleaze," Kissinger said. "The few heroes are Vietnamese leaders, North and South."

He said he gave producers documentation of factual errors in the script, which he received from actor Ron Silver, who plays Kissinger. Kissinger said they ignored his contributions.

"The producers, unwilling to let evidence interfere with ratings, proceeded with essentially the original script," he said.

Lionel Chetwynd, the movie's writer and executive producer, defended his film.

"We went to all the supporting source material. I stand by the scholarship of the film," Chetwynd told the magazine. "I don't think the factual events could be in dispute, though Henry Kissinger may interpret them somewhat differently from the historians we consulted."

Hootie debut continues to top the charts

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Cracked Rear View by Hootie & The Blowfish is selling more than 1 million copies a month.

The Recording Industry Association of America said the album by the Columbia, S.C., group has now sold 11 million — including a remarkable 5 million since August.

The Washington-based association said Friday the LP is the fifth best-selling debut album of all time.

With the Christmas buying season under way, the album could be within reach of a couple more million before year's end.

Princess Michael injured after falling from horse

AYR, Scotland (AP) — Princess Michael of Kent fell from her horse while riding in a hunt on a Scottish estate and was treated in a hospital for a strained neck.

The 53-year-old princess, whose husband, Prince Michael, is a first cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, was taken by ambulance on Saturday to Ayr, the nearest town to Stair House, a country estate in southern Scotland where she was hunting.

She was taken into the hospital on a stretcher, but left walking with her husband.

In London, a spokesperson at Buckingham Palace said, "It was a minor neck strain and she was discharged after examination."

Card company settles lawsuit with astronaut

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — That's one small step for Neil Armstrong, one giant leap for Purdue University.

Hallmark Cards Inc. said Friday it had settled a lawsuit by the former astronaut over the use of his name and likeness on an ornament commemorating the 1969 moon landing.

Financial details were withheld under terms of the agreement, but Hallmark characterized the amount as "substantial." Armstrong will donate the settlement, minus legal fees, to his alma mater, Purdue.

"It will deter others from using names well-known to the public in commercial ventures without receiving the necessary permission of the individuals involved," Armstrong said of the settlement.

Iowa may have to contend with Louisiana for leadoff caucus status

Mike Glover

Associated Press

DES MOINES — The state's Republican leaders are once again learning the tough lessons involved in retaining Iowa's leadoff precinct caucuses.

The fight this time is with Louisiana, but it's another version of the same fight that's been waged for more than a decade. Republican Chairperson Brian Kennedy is the party leader involved in this fight, but Democrat Dave Nagle faced the same issues when he headed that party.

At issue is which states are first in the long list of primaries and caucuses that yield presidential nominees.

The consequences are significant.

Changes in the political calendar are generally of interest only to the most serious of political junkies. Most voters have yet to focus on the candidates for president, much less the venues in which they'll be competing.

But changes in the political calendar can — and usually do — have an enormous impact on the shape of a campaign and on the candidates who do well in the campaign.

Since 1984, Iowa and New Hampshire have cooperated and that's allowed Iowa's caucuses to lead off, followed in eight days by New Hampshire's opening primary.

There are a series of factors which put pressure on that arrangement.

First is the role of voters in a couple of small states. By the time Iowa and New Hampshire voters have their say, the presidential field is winnowed down to a couple.

It's not surprising activists in other states would like to have a say in that business.

From a pragmatic standpoint, there are good reasons for others to seek to join the early campaign business. Candidates must spend enormous time and resources in the early tests, and that gives state party officials a big boost.

They rake in money and organizational help as the candidates seek backing. Activists get a rare chance to view their candidates up close.

Change started to come this year. A host of other states moved their primary contests to earlier in the season, forcing candidates to divide their time and resources.

That altered the character of the race, by limiting the realistic candidates to those who could afford a competition stretching across the country within a matter of weeks.

Now Louisiana seeks to alter the complexion even more by leapfrogging ahead of Iowa and New Hampshire. That is driven by Texas Sen. Phil Gramm, who is looking for a place early on where he can score points against front-runner Bob Dole.

Iowa officials are slowly coming to the conclusion they must respond, most likely by moving the caucuses into January.

Candidates are drawn to an election like flies to honey. Though many have said they would ignore the Louisiana event, politicians act first and foremost from self-interest.

It's pretty likely that candidates other than Gramm could eventually decipher some benefit from making a showing in Louisiana and join in the hunt.

Officers make season merry for needy kids

Cary Jordan
The Daily Iowan

When 5-year-old Lajoyua Porter was told by her mother they were going to the police station Saturday morning, she thought she had done something wrong.

"When I first said we were going there she said, 'What did I do?'" Lajoyua's mother, Michelle Porter, said. "After she found out she was going to get presents out of it, then she was excited. Maybe too excited."

Lajoyua was one of 50 children taking part in Shop With a Cop, a day planned by the Iowa City Police Department to make Christmas a little brighter for needy kids in Iowa City.

The program was organized by Officer Deb Petersen of the Iowa City Police Department, and involved about 20 police officers who, after raising money through fund-raisers by the Police Local Union 16, walked the aisles of Wal-Mart Discount Cities, 1001 Highway 1 West, with the children and paid for their various gifts.

"Some of the officers weren't real excited when they heard that telemarketing would be involved to raise the necessary funds, but they were all very receptive to the idea of doing something for some local kids."

Officer Joel Myer

Each child was escorted by a police officer and received up to $100 to buy gifts for themselves, siblings and parents.

Officer Joel Myer of the Iowa City Police Department, who took part in the program, said the way the public responded to their idea made it easier.

"The public response to this was incredible — very positive," Myer said. "A lot of local businesses donated in one way or another.

Some weren't able to donate money, so they gave us other things we needed.

"Some of the officers weren't real excited when they heard that telemarketing would be involved to raise the necessary funds, but they were all very receptive to the idea of doing something for some local kids."

Serving the local community and giving children and adults interaction with police officers were the main goals of the program, Petersen said.

"We thought it was a great idea to do something for needy kids in our area," Petersen said. "I think giving the officers the opportunity to have positive interaction with the kids is a good idea, too."

For some of the kids involved, the image of police officers taking an active role in trying to make their Christmas better will make a difference in their lives, said Sarah Reha, a UI junior majoring in social work, who participates in the PAL program, which helps kids with attention deficit problems and hyperactivity. "We have about 10 kids involved here today," Reha said. "They were real excited at first, especially this morning when we were getting ready to come."

"I think it's a great program and a really good idea. I hope they continue to do it."

Myer said right now, the Iowa City Police Department doesn't know if the program will become an annual event.

"We've decided that we'd go through the project this year, and determine at a later date whether or not it's something we'll continue," he said.

Michelle Porter said she hopes the Iowa City Police Department realizes how much the Shop With a Cop program means to the people it benefits.

"I think this is so nice," she said. "It helps parents out a lot during Christmas. Even though it's Christmas, we've still got bills to pay and things like that. This year will be a lot easier."

Suspect in slaying maintains innocence

DES MOINES — The man accused of killing Patricia Howlett says he was there when she died, but he didn't kill her, according to a copyright story in Dec. 1 edition of the Des Moines Register.

Jerry Lee Proctor, 25, of Indianola, Iowa, was charged Friday with first-degree murder. He was arrested a year after Howlett's battered and burned body was discovered in a softball field north of Des Moines.

Howlett, 38, of Johnston, Iowa, disappeared Nov. 16, 1994. Her body was found nine days later.

In a telephone interview from the Polk County jail, Proctor told the Register he was forced by an unidentified man to rape Howlett, then to watch as the man slit her throat.

"I'm not a psycho killer running around doing this and that," Proctor said. "I'm a victim just as much as she was. ... I know (the Howlett family's) pain. I know their loss. I saw her die, but I didn't kill her. Yet, I'm being crucified for it."

In Friday's interview, Proctor described himself becoming entangled in a "nightmare" along with Howlett, whom he said he had never met before.

Proctor is being held on $500,000 bond.

Polk County Sheriff Bob Rice said authorities were led to Proctor after his live-in girlfriend began to believe he was responsible for Howlett's death. Rice said the girlfriend, whom he identified only as "Sara," told a friend she feared Proctor had committed the slaying.

Muslims in Bosnia welcome U.S. GIs

Bryan Brumley
Associated Press

LUKAVAC, Bosnia-Herzegovina — The region where 20,000 U.S. GIs will be enforcing peace in Bosnia is also patrolled by several groups of Muslim mujahedeen — holy warriors who came to Bosnia to assist the Muslim-led government.

Some mujahedeen joined special units of the Bosnian army. From their base nestled in the stark hills amid coal slag heaps and strip mines above Tuzla, they say they welcome the Americans and hope to receive U.S. training and arms. But others, more independent units who clashed with British troops earlier this year, are wild cards.

Some mujahedeen in the Bosnian army say they've already received clandestine training from former U.S. special forces officers near the small town of Lukavac.

U.S. officials have denied aiding the Bosnians. But one former mujahedeen said he fought alongside two American Muslims, who were acting independently of the U.S. government, on missions behind Serbian lines.

The 9th Muslim Brigade is based at Meskovic, 9 miles west of Tuzla, where the Americans may be headquartered. It is attached to the 2nd Corps of the regular Bosnian army.

A former mujahedeen, Amir Sakic, rejected Western fears that the Bosnian mujahedeen may pose a threat to NATO forces.

"I'm afraid that the American people look at us like some kind of aborigines," Sakic said.

A threat, however, might come from non-Bosnian mujahedeen units, the most militant warriors, said to include Afghan and Sudanese fighters funded in part by Iran.

Associated Press

Bosnian government soldiers hold on to a large prayer bead during a Muslim service in a mosque in Tuzla, Sunday. Bosnian troops are awaiting the arrival of American peacekeeping forces.

They are known to operate near Zenica, in an area now patrolled by British soldiers who will shed their U.N. peacekeepers' helmets to become part of the NATO force once the agreement reached in Dayton, Ohio, goes into effect. That is expected after a Dec. 14 signing ceremony.

British soldiers shot one Bosnian mujahedeen, Elvedin Hodzic, six weeks ago during a confrontation. The British say Hodzic threatened a U.N. armored personnel carrier. Hodzic's relatives say he was pushing a wheelbarrow of potatoes across a field and was shot when he approached the British to speak with them.

Since then, British troops have been involved in a series of tense standoffs with non-Bosnian Muslim fighters.

In the sharpest face-off, foreign mujahedeen briefly blocked a U.N. convoy which was moving through their territory.

Rabin assassin points to a wider conspiracy

Dan Perry
Associated Press

TEL AVIV, Israel — Yitzhak Rabin's confessed assassin suggested Sunday that one of the prime minister's bodyguards helped him, saying the truth about the slaying would "turn the country upside down."

Yigal Amir fed rumors of a wider conspiracy in the assassination when he said authorities killed a Rabin bodyguard who helped him by creating confusion during the Nov. 4 shooting at a Tel Aviv peace rally.

"Why don't you publicize that they killed one of Rabin's bodyguards? The one who shouted 'The bullets are dummies,' " Amir yelled to reporters as he was brought into a Tel Aviv courtroom to have his detention extended.

Amir

Amir, 25, has in the past insisted he acted alone, and previous reports indicated Amir was the one who shouted the bullets were fake. No evidence has surfaced so far to support his claim that one of Rabin's bodyguards was killed.

"I can say something that will destroy everything. ... Everything until now was a mask," said Amir, wearing a white T-shirt with a gray sweater draped over his shoulders as he entered the court.

"I did not think they would start killing people," he muttered.

"You are killing people," retorted Judge Dan Arbel.

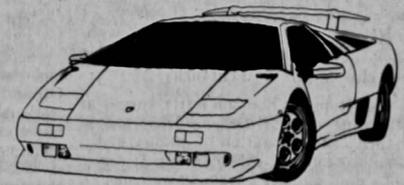

"If I tell the truth, it would turn the country upside down," Amir said, waving his hand dismissively and sitting down.

A government spokesperson called Amir's comments "nonsense."

Police investigator Arieh Silverman submitted to the court a document he said contained new material "that could change the nature of the charges" and requested Amir's detention be extended eight days beyond the maximum 30 days without charge.

The contents of the document were not revealed.

Graduate employees need a collective voice

Some graduate students are once again beginning their campaign of distortion, fear mongering and elitism to muddy the important issues surrounding the unionization of graduate students. They are making an attempt to undermine support for the Campaign to Organize Graduate Students (COGS) and the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (UE) and a letter to the editor in the Nov. 17 issue of the DI shows us this. The author's arguments are not only transparently thin, they also participate in classist, hateful rhetoric.

First, the distortions. When the letter sneers at COGS for affiliating with UE because "electricians" cannot "enhance ... the situation of graduate students," the author simply reveals his own ignorance. A union is not a craft guild or a training workshop; it is a group of people who recognize their common position as workers and organize to win some voice in the terms and conditions of their employment. Nobody in COGS or anywhere else imagines we need the UI to conduct "workshops on the proper use of audio/visual equipment." To counteract the letter's flimsy falsehoods, it can be noted that UE counts Iowa United Professionals — a group of some 3,000 social workers,

GUEST OPINION POINT OF VIEW

Graduate employees teach 40 percent of the classes on campus, but they don't have a say in the terms of their employment.

biologists and other state scientists — as a member. Other members include vocational rehabilitation workers, criminologists, librarians and road maintenance crews, as well as the UE's namesake electrical, machine and radio workers. Just as importantly for COGS, UE has a strong and active base in Iowa, while the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) has no one here. That's why the UE was democratically (and overwhelmingly) elected during the Oct. 26 affiliation vote meeting.

It's likely that the letter's author is perfectly aware of the absurdity of his attack on the UE, and only wanted to drag the conversation down into the gutter of classist, elitist propaganda he thinks will win converts to his side. Throughout the letter, the author portrays electricians and workers as figures of ridicule; as the ugly, untouchable "other" against which fine intellectuals — like him — will define themselves. Another person did the same thing during the last union election, proclaiming that graduate employees don't need a union because "we don't wear hair nets." Clearly, the author's agenda is to appeal to the lowest, most hateful fears and prejudices of the academy, diverting attention away from the real issues confronting graduate employees on this campus.

The facts are clear. Graduate employees teach over 40 percent of the classes on this campus. Yet, the terms and conditions of our employment remain at the unilateral discretion of the university. This year, for example, the maximum enrollment for classes in several departments increased "temporarily." No warning, no consultation with TA's, no discussion; classes just got bigger. The UI sees us as workers in the classroom.

So, when asked to sign that union card, remember the reasons for a graduate employee union on this campus. Graduate employees do an enormous amount of important, skilled and very cheap labor for this university. We should have a strong, collective voice in the terms and conditions for our employment.

Or, you can fantasize along with those against the COGS movement that if you don't wear a tool belt, you don't actually work (teach, grade, etc.), and that workers are foul types you ought to shun.

John Hoppe is a Teaching Assistant in the rhetoric and English departments.

Cartoonist's View

The U.S. has a moral obligation to answer Bosnia's call for help

U.S. troops are on their way to Bosnia.

The advance teams will peacefully enter the country in preparation for the 20,000 U.S. troops who will serve in the NATO peacekeeping force. Pentagon officials say all military forces will be in place by mid-February.

Late last week President Clinton signed the $243 billion Pentagon funding bill which will finance the U.S. portion of the Bosnian occupation.

The 60,000 NATO troops from 16 countries will be supported by thousands of non-combat soldiers across Europe.

Support among the Republicans in Congress has been mixed. Opposition has not been loud or organized because most members of Congress recognize that it is morally right to support the peace process and stop a war which has claimed thousands of lives. They may be afraid of the political ramifications, but they realize the United States must take a leadership role and that increased involvement in Bosnia is necessary.

The president made the situation clear in his message to the nation last week. The United States helped broker the peace accord, and the presidents of Bosnia, Croatia and Serbia asked for America's help to implement the agreement. So if the United States hopes to maintain a position of leadership in the world, we must answer the call when the world asks for our help.

EDITORIAL POINT OF VIEW

It would be wrong for the United States not to offer assistance to Bosnia and allow the conflict to reignite.

Some critics of U.S. involvement are trying to draw comparisons between Somalia and Bosnia, but there is no comparison. George Bush led this country into Somalia at the apex of its civil war, when people were starving and armed warlord gangs ruled the streets.

The situation in Bosnia is different. The Bosnian cease-fire has been in place for several months, and Sarajevo is beginning to move toward its prewar level of activity.

Another worry is that NATO will be able to keep the peace, but after the troops eventually leave, the peace will not keep. Critics are swayed by the idea that it will be difficult to forge a country from Bosnia's warring ethnic groups — the Serbs, Croats and Muslims.

The pressure for separation comes from outside forces like the countries of Croatia and Serbia. The different Bosnian leaders joined together to sign the peace agreement. It will be up to the rest of the world — including NATO nations, as well as the rest of Europe — to ensure the sovereign nation of Bosnia is free from the pressures of outside aggressors and invaders.

There are many critics of Clinton's foreign policy who use Bosnia to criticize the president, but they are unable or unwilling to see the reality of his successes.

Clinton ended last week by blowing fresh air into the 15-month-long peace process in Northern Ireland. His visit helped bring leaders who were not previously speaking face to face into the same room.

The Clinton administration negotiated the peaceful transfer of power in Haiti, and stopped the flow of refugees. This administration also helped to bring peace to the Middle East.

As Clinton said in his address last week, "We have stood up for peace and freedom because it's in our interest to do so and because it is the right thing to do."

Americans are increasingly blanching at questions of right and wrong. Now that peace has been forged in Bosnia, it would be wrong to not offer assistance and allow the conflict to reignite. It is morally right to help those in need; it is morally wrong not to help.

"The people of Bosnia, our NATO allies and people all around the world are now looking to America for leadership," Clinton said last week. "So let us lead. That is our responsibility as Americans."

All I want for Christmas is a computer of my own

There are certain places in this world that are just plain bad. A shopping mall the day before Christmas is crowded and hectic, but it's not bad. The waiting room of a dentist's office might be tense and unnerving, but it's not bad. Bad is the Bermuda Triangle.

Bad is a prison in Tijuana. Most of all, though, bad is any computer lab on this campus.

It used to be I couldn't think of anything in the world that I wanted more than Jennifer Anniston's phone number. But now I would trade an entire love connection with Anniston for a nice lap top and a laser printer. If I ever get lucky enough to own my own computer, I don't think I would ever leave my apartment again. I think I'll set up a little computer vigil. I'll light a bunch of candles, sing a few hymns and just stare at my gift from the gods.

I'm not a computer freak. I don't know the difference between a RAM and megabyte and gigawatt and watchamahoozit. I've never surfed the Internet and the only time I've been on line, I got everybody out in

I want a computer for two reasons: One, as a journalism, English and political science major, I have the tendency to write a paper now and then. And two, if I ever have another day of trying to get on a computer like I had last week, I'm going to go on a complete and total tirade and destroy everything in my path.

mainframe la la land so mad at me that the person whose terminal I was using had to change his code name for his own personal safety.

I want a computer for two reasons: One, as a journalism, English, political science major, I have the tendency to write a paper now and then. And two, if I ever have another day of trying to get on a computer like I had last week, I'm going to go on a complete and total tirade and destroy everything in my path.

It was about 4 p.m. last Wednesday and I had a four page paper due the following morning, so I decided to roll out of bed and take a whack at it. (Yes, I know that I probably should have started it earlier, but that would've been the simple, smart and easy way to do it and that's not my style.) I had no idea what kind of odyssey was in store for me. Apparently, every student at the UI also had a paper due Thursday morning. There wasn't a computer open anywhere and by the time I finally sat down behind a keyboard, two and a half hours had elapsed and I felt like I had just been knocked around by some of the American Gladiators. Nitro spanked me pretty good over at Weeg. Laser tossed me around like a rag doll in the Burge Residence Hall basement and Gemini kicked the living crap out of me before I even got inside Pappajohn Business Administration Building. I was totally exhausted by the time I got down to the Union.

When I'm aggravated, I like to have a lot of personal space — really be able to spread myself out. I find it really freeing and it seems to just melt all the tension away. However, I didn't have that luxury last Wednesday. There was only one computer open at the Union and it was actually stacked on top of another one, so I had to sit on some guy's lap while I wrote my paper. The bad thing about that is I couldn't get rid of any of the stress I was feeling. The good thing is that I think I made a new friend.

That guy wasn't the problem, it was the guy next to us. He smelled like a urinal in a frat house and had the worst soccer haircut I've ever seen. (I haven't seen mud flaps like that since the last time I was at the truck stop in Walcott.) He was wearing an old concert T-shirt with a toilet with a sword coming out of it on the front and holes in both armpits. The guy was pretty classy.

If he would've just looked and smelled like a reject from the "Muppets," I probably would've been able to deal with it. But, I think the guy was suffering from the strangest case nervous habit that I've ever seen. Every two minutes, like clockwork, he would shout profanities and slam his head on the keyboard three times. He always swore twice and slammed his head three times. I found it really hard to write intelligently on the presence of pop culture in modern day fiction while I had that crazy composer from "Sesame Street" a few inches to my left.

The computer lab, in theory, is a good idea. It's a noble gesture done by the university to aid students, like myself, who can't afford their own computer. However, I've come to the recent conclusion that the computer lab is like "Jurassic Park"; it's an experiment gone terribly wrong.

Election of first black mayor jostles genteel Southern city

Joan Kirchner
Associated Press

Associated Press

SAVANNAH, Ga. — Three days after this regal coastal city elected its first black mayor, the campaign manager warned the staff: Beware of all packages delivered to the office.

No one had threatened violence but "we can't take any chances," he said.

In a majority black city which has thrived on all-white social clubs, segregated neighborhoods and separate debutante balls for each race, residents are adjusting to the latest shattered racial barrier.

"It was long, long overdue, but changes are happening in Savannah," said W.W. Law, a black historian who led the local NAACP chapter for 26 years. "Now, as the world's eyes look to Savannah, there will be an African-American at the helm and that's as it should be."

The city is in the national spotlight as site of the 1996 Olympic yachting events and setting for "Midnight in the Garden of Good and Evil," John Berendt's best-selling account of a murder in the historic home of a gay antiques dealer.

Before black newspaper publisher Floyd Adams Jr. narrowly beat white incumbent Susan Weiner last week, Savannah already had witnessed the admission of the first black to an elite all-white yachting club, the birth of a civil rights museum financed by local tax dollars and the lifting of a longstanding federal court order to desegregate the schools, all within the last two years.

The rotund, bespectacled Adams, an alderman for 13 years, knows he owes his 256-vote victory margin to a small white crossover vote.

"They have faith in me that I will work hard and I won't cause them any harm or damage," he said.

Georgia's oldest city (pop. 140,000) has long suffered subtle bigotry but never racial violence, thanks to its veneer of Southern gentility.

"Savannah never had a black lynching," said college professor John Duncan, who teaches a course Mayor-elect Floyd Adams Jr., center, is surrounded by supporters after winning the Savannah, Ga., mayoral election Nov. 28. In a majority black city that has thrived on all-white social clubs, segregated neighborhoods and separate debutante balls for each race, residents are adjusting to the latest shattered racial barrier.

on city history. "There's a sense of civility here."

But peel back that layer and Savannah reveals its quirky, scandalous side. As Berendt's book illustrates, Savannah is an odd mix of cotillions and drag shows, blue bloods and funky art students. While the city is tolerant of its natives' foibles, nothing is begrudged more in Savannah than outsiders.

"I don't know what race problems you're talking about," said former Mayor John Rousakis, who served 21 years before he was ousted by Weiner in 1991. "I think we've done a hell of a job."

While millions of tourists flock each year to its cobblestone riverfront and stately squares dripping with Spanish moss, Savannah's black neighborhoods suffer the same blight as many inner cities: poverty and ramshackle housing. And blacks are typically missing from top corporate boards and social clubs.

While Weiner has asked for a recout, the rest of the city is warily ready to accept Adams as its new leader.

"The black community is justifiably proud. The white community is holding its breath," said architect Eric Johnson, a white Republican state senator. "If Floyd immediately reaches out and shows that he's pro-business, then there will be a big sigh of relief."

Voters said personality was as big a factor as race. Weiner, a former actress and teacher from New York, is referred to affectionately as "our Southern Yankee," and unaffectionately as "our Northern fluke."

Adams has pledged his first act upon taking office on Jan. 2 will be to create a human relations commission "to bring this city back together."

"It's not that she was a bad mayor, but her husband said terrible things and you just didn't know if you could trust her," said Stephanie Jackson, a black waitress. "And anyway, it was time for a black mayor."

Simpson trial cost L.A. County more than $9 million

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The O.J. Simpson trial cost Los Angeles County more than $9 million, with about a third spent on sequestering the jurors for nine months, a report released Friday said.

The trial cost more than all others in the county except the McMartin Preschool molestation case, which cost about $13.2 million. That case, which ended in January 1990, involved an 18-month preliminary hearing and two trials — one of nearly three years.

The District Attorney's Office spent more than $4 million on Simpson's trial, and the courts spent more than $2 million. Just tracking the expenses cost the auditor-controller's office more than $25,000, said Tyler McCauley, assistant auditor-controller.

The jurors' room and board alone cost $980,145. Other costs included guarding the panel around the clock, the judge's salary and autopsy expenses.

The figures do not include the jail costs for Simpson or the costs Los Angeles police and other agencies incurred during the slow-speed Bronco chase that ended with Simpson's arrest in June 1994.

Simpson was acquitted Oct. 4 of murdering his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman.

The cash-strapped county must bear the expense of his trial without state or federal money aid, McCauley said. However, the county made $300,753 in rental money from TV crews who staffed "Camp O.J." in the court parking lot.

Custody trial for Simpson kids remains closed to public

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — The guardianship case involving O.J. Simpson's two children will be closed to the public, with even the case's court schedule remaining secret.

Orange County Commissioner Thomas Schulte took the action Friday in response to a media request, saying it was necessary to protect the privacy of Sydney, 10, and Justin, 7.

Simpson was acquitted in October of the slayings of the children's mother, Nicole Brown Simpson, and her friend Ronald Goldman in June 1994.

Brown Simpson's parents, Louis and Juditha Brown, filed a petition seeking legal guardianship of the children the month after the slayings.

They had been given temporary guardianship of their grandchildren while Simpson was in jail. Simpson agreed to that arrangement until after his release, according to court papers.

In sealing the case, Schulte said he didn't mean to imply a dispute between Simpson and the Browns. He said both parties are working together for the children's best interests.

Yellow-bearded Santa raises eyebrows of mall patrons

MISSION VIEJO, Calif. (AP) — Santa Claus is back in town — yellow-bearded and all.

Richard Lintz, fired from his Santa job because of his off-color beard, was reinstated Friday after Mission Viejo Mall received numerous calls. He was fired in the first place last Tuesday because of customer complaints, the mall said.

"We've been listening to everybody's concerns," said Isabel Dixon, the mall's marketing director.

Lintz, who began playing Santa to make ends meet on his Social Security check, tried using whiteners on his gray-blond beard, but to no avail. And a fake beard was never an option.

The firing actually worked to his advantage, with offers coming in for special appearances, toy drives and fund-raisers through Christmas.

try done by the National Association of Colleges and Employers, 66 percent reported an increase in hiring of graduates from the previous year.

Similar results were produced by a U.S. Department of Labor Bureau, which estimated an increase in the work force from 127 to 151 million.

While hiring has increased for graduates as a whole, the best job prospects are for engineers, computer scientists, business majors, health professionals and science majors.

The Michigan State survey place engineering among the fastest growing and financially secure occupations, especially chemical engineering, which pays the highest starting salary — $41,183.

Beth Merritt, assistant director at Engineering Career Services at the UI, said of the 184 engineering graduates in 1995 who responded to an employment survey, 84.2 percent reported getting jobs in their field.

Tim Blank, a UI senior majoring in biomedical engineering who will graduate in May, already has a job lined up. He said job security was important in his choice of a major.

"If you get an engineering degree you're supposed to get a job when you graduate," Blank said.

For starting salaries, the Michigan State survey placed journalism near the bottom of the list.

Dale Serbousek, a UI junior majoring in journalism, said starting salaries for his field may be low, but he believes they can be overcome.

"In a way, it's kind of disheartening because you spend all this time going through college and end up getting the same amount as if you didn't go through college," he said. "But there is the hope that through work and experience you'll be able to work your way up."

In addition to the more promising numbers for graduates, the Bureau of Labor said employment chances for women are increasing, as well.

The bureau said women will make up 48 percent of the labor force by 2005, as companies begin to acknowledge the value of the candidate — regardless of sex.

"I think it really comes down to the candidate," said Mike Theobald, associate director of Business and Liberal Arts Placement Office. "Good quality candidates are the ones who will get the jobs."

INTERNSHIPS

internship — sometimes it could be gained through volunteer experience."

Schildroth said internships are increasingly important and are available for almost all majors. Some also offer college credit, depending on the department they belong to.

"We find that when students are interviewing for jobs and get an interview for a full-time job, much of the interview time is spent discussing what they learned in their internship," Schildroth said.

An important factor in getting hired is the ability of the candidate, not just the education the candidate possesses, Schildroth said.

"People are looking for experience in the field and that you have working knowledge in the field and the only way to do that is with internships or co-ops," she said.

Studying abroad is another option students have to expand their resumes.

"A lot of people think the experience of living in another country and learning the system of another culture is important," said Ann Hundley, peer advisor for the Study Abroad Center of the Office of International Education and Services. "If you can do that, then you can learn the system of a work place or you can learn how to get along with people in all sorts of different ways."

Tom Hinds, a UI sophomore majoring in both Spanish and geography, has applied to study abroad next year in South America.

"I felt studying abroad would be necessary in order to become fluent in Spanish while also being a good way to know other cultures and see the world," he said. "I think it will definitely help my job search because if an employer looks at my resume and sees I spent a year in South America, it will show that I'm flexible."

Merritt said students' best chances for employment occur when they work in their fields as much as possible.

"A student with a high GPA but has no work experience and wasn't really involved with anything in college will probably get a good job, but a student who has experience and maybe a 3.5 GPA will probably have a better chance," she said.

BIG TEN STUDENT LEADERS

Minorities at Big Ten universities

Tim Williams, vice president of UISG, said the UI support system needs to improve to attract and retain more minorities.

"When you go to a school, you want to go to a school where you are relatively comfortable," he said. "Having talked with my friends, they admit it's an uncomfortable atmosphere."

Matt Plocki, the coordinator for student government at Penn State, said their low minority population, which is growing, was due to the location of their main campus.

"Our University Park campus is located in a very rural setting," he said. "Minorities don't feel welcome because of the town's problem with race and diversity."

Cori Ertz, legal affairs coordinator for the University of Minnesota's student government, said Minnesota attracts minorities through a tuition decrease and scholarships.

"Our Martin Luther King scholarship is for a non-white who is financially disadvantaged, educationally disadvantaged or has disabilities," she said. "Also, out-of-state minority students can receive in-state tuition based on their GPA."

Leaders learn UI basics

Sherry Brown, councilor for the University of Wisconsin at Madison's student government, said it was good to find common bonds between

Big Ten leaders.

"We've learned some new information with the direct lending program because we don't have direct lending," she said. "I love Iowa. I went and saw Dagobah. I want to get them to play Madison."

Nels Bjorkquist, vice-chairperson for UW-Madison student government, said the conference let students experience the social side of the UI and he got fired up at Friday night's basketball game.

"I got Herky the Hawk to start the wave," he said. "I was also dancing for the old women behind me and I started leading them in cheers. That Herky, man, he's great."

Chris Weideman, Penn State's student vice president, said their bar scene and UI's scene is like comparing apples to oranges.

"Penn State is nothing like this. We don't have anything like The Field House or Union," he said.

RAILROAD SAFETY

"There have been people killed while mooning trains, playing chicken with trains, just really senseless stuff," he said. "People lose fingers or hands while doing little experimental things like putting coins on the track just to see what happens."

"Recently on the Internet, someone put something out on how to hop a train, actually encouraging people to break the law and compromise their personal safety."

For Iowa City resident Elizabeth Shoemaker, who crosses at the Gilbert Street overpass regularly, the time it would take to go around the tracks wouldn't be worth the time saved by taking a chance cutting across.

"I live on one side of the tracks and work on the other," Shoemaker said. "I have a pretty hectic schedule and it's just a lot easier to cut through."

"I think I'm fairly safe here — it's pretty wide open. The trains I see here never seem to move," she said. "I've climbed over cars before, if the train is extended. But I never cross at night."

Climbing over stationary rail cars adds an extra risk to track walking, Sandler said.

"When you climb over a rail car, there's no way of knowing whether or not that car will be moving while you're on it," he said. "It's just not worth it."

Under Iowa law, taking short cuts via railroad tracks is considered trespassing on private property. Most of the track walking in Iowa City has occurred at the Gilbert Street overpass, and most of the violators are school-age kids, Sandler said.

"Younger kids from the junior high see the college students do it and don't think there's anything wrong with it," he said. "I don't think any of them think about being killed when they do it."

Last year, more than 500 people were killed nationwide while illegally crossing railroad tracks on foot, four of whom were from Iowa, according to Operation Lifesaver.

Though danger may not be immediately apparent to those who cut across, Tom Staley, who works in the mechanics' department for Iowa International Railroad, knows what can really happen.

"There's no doubt about it that they're putting themselves in danger when they cross," Staley said. "I've seen cars jump 30 or 40 feet when they couple in on the other end, and you don't even know it's coming."

"If they got their foot caught, odds are they'd be seriously hurt before help was available."

Sandler said while it may seem like Iowa International Railroad is nagging and harshly coming down on trespassers, the railroad is only interested in their personal safety.

"We don't think these people are causing trouble or anything," Sandler said. "We don't have a problem with stealing, since there's really nothing to steal down there. Vandalism has never been a major problem, either. We just don't want anyone to get hurt."

"Unfortunately, we've become a society that doesn't hold people responsible for their own actions. If someone was to get hurt or killed, people would want to blame us, even though there are 'No Trespassing' signs all over the place down there."

ALASKA

Lower 48 standards, but during the same month last year, this area of south-central Alaska got 39 inches. In an average year, nearly 10 inches falls in Anchorage by Thanksgiving.

Conditions are similar elsewhere around Alaska. Barrow, the state's northernmost city, would normally have about 15 inches of snow by now but this year had just 6 inches. Valdez, the oil port which got a record 9 feet of snow last November, has only about an inch on the ground.

There's no snow in sight at least through Thursday, the weather service said.

Icy but bare ground also is affecting sled dog teams.

"It ain't good," said Raymie Redington, a veteran Iditarod trail musher who trains dogs at Knik, north of Anchorage. "It will work out, but we're sure hoping for more snow."

Residents are trying to cope in whatever ways they can. One

Anchorage retailer set up a snow-making machine in the parking lot to get customers in the seasonal mood.

Allen first to reach yardage record

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Marcus Allen became the first player in NFL history to rush for 10,000 yards and catch passes for 5,000 yards when he caught a 7-yard swing pass in the third quarter of Kansas City's game Sunday against Oakland.

Allen, who spent the first 11 seasons of his 14-year career with the Raiders, was given the ball by referee Dick Hantak after surpassing the 5,000-yard receiving mark.

In the 1994 season finale against the Raiders, he became the ninth player in league history to rush for 10,000 yards.

Jordan heads list of most lucrative athletes

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael Jordan was the top earner among athletes for the fourth consecutive year, increasing his annual income to $43.9 million from $30.01 million.

The Chicago Bulls' star earned $3.9 million in salary and $40 million in outside income, Forbes estimated in its Dec. 19 issue. The magazine said he earned $36 million in 1993.

Jordan has made $170 million since 1990, the magazine said, and could become the first athlete ever listed in the Forbes 400 of wealthiest people.

Former heavyweight champion Mike Tyson, out of prison and back in boxing, was second on the list at $40 million — all from winnings. He made $25 million from his one fight and $15 million in signing bonuses.

Deion Sanders, the only two-sport athlete on the list, was third at $22.5 million. The outfielder and cornerback, who was 38th in 1994, made $16.5 million from salary and $6 million in endorsements.

Hawks win in a cakewalk

Senior Millard steals the spotlight

Mike Triplett
 The Daily Iowan

A career week for Russ Millard was capped off with a Super Chevy Shootout tournament MVP award and a promising forecast from Iowa coach Tom Davis.

"I'm proud of what he's accomplishing, but I don't think you've seen anything yet," Davis said of the 6-foot-8 senior. "I think what you're seeing is just the beginning."

In six games this season, Millard has averaged nearly 17 points a game. In a pair of blowout victories against East Tennessee State and Colgate this weekend, Millard led Iowa with 17 and 14 points respectively.

The Hawkeyes downed East Tennessee State 104-58 in Round 1, then won the tournament championship with a 79-59 win over Colgate Saturday night.

Millard was one of four Hawkeyes to make the six-member all-tournament team. Juniors Andre Woolridge and Chris Kingsbury joined Millard and senior Kenyon Murray on the squad.

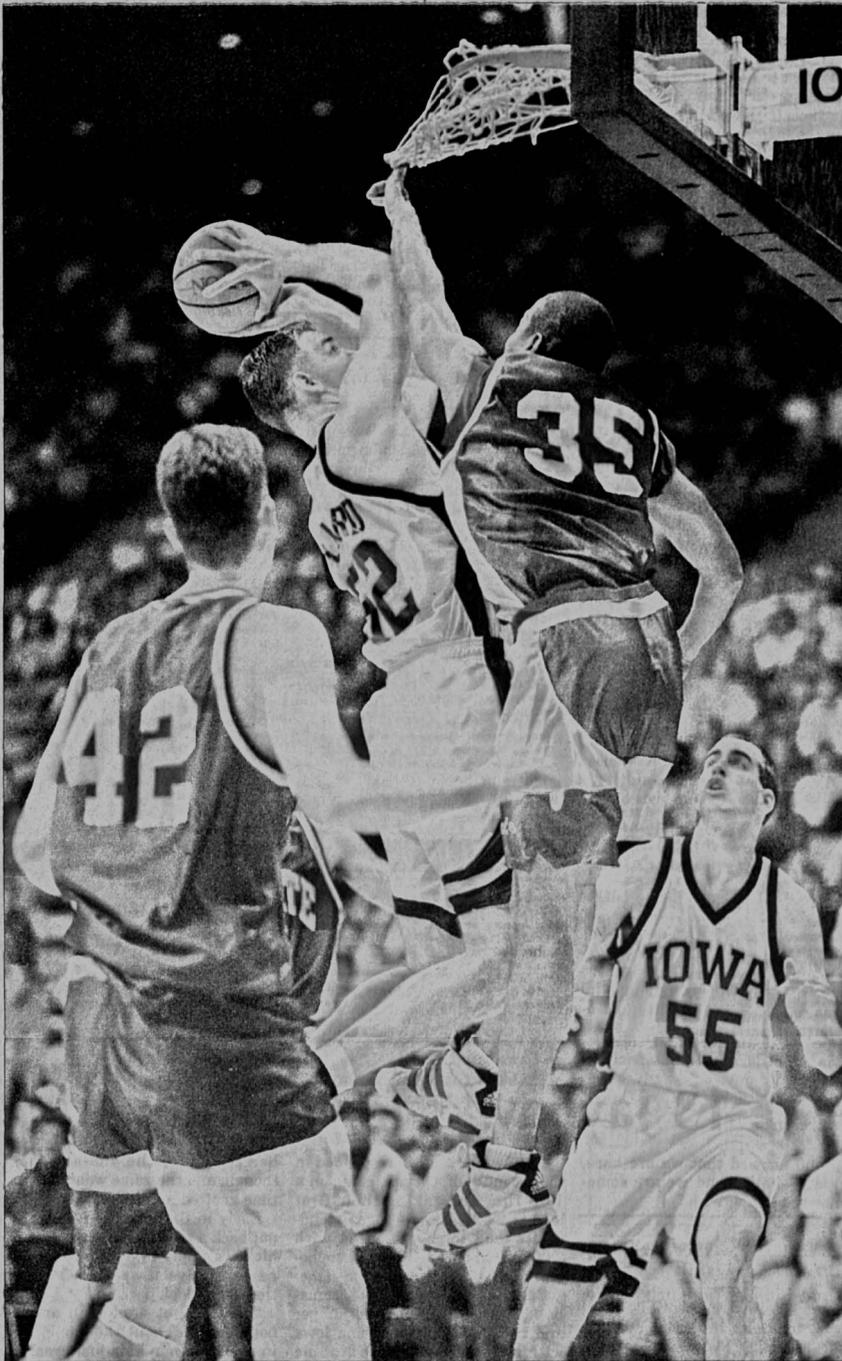

It was Murray's fourth all-tourney nod in his four years at Iowa; he's the first Hawkeye ever to win the award four times. But Murray wasn't interested in self-promotion.

"I'm really proud of our ball club and I'm especially proud of Russ," Murray said. "After all the stuff he's been through, he could have easily just folded and said, 'This is my last year, to heck with it,' but he stuck in there."

"He just worked his butt off. It's great to see all this stuff come through for him."

Millard was humble — he said he felt the whole team should have been named MVP — but he did admit that he likes being the go-to guy in the middle.

"I've really pushed myself," Millard said. "I want to be the one the team looks to as the inside pres-

'Super' shootout offers an education

Believe it or not, Iowa actually lost their own basketball tournament once.

The year was 1985 and Iowa lost to Arkansas State, 66-62, in the first round of the Amana-Hawkeye Classic. Alabama-Birmingham went on to win that tournament.

But don't worry, Iowa learned its lesson.

Ten years later, the tournament's name has changed and the only thing challenging for Iowa now is saying, "Super Chevy Shootout" five times real fast.

Iowa won its 13th title in 14 years, as Colgate, East Tennessee State and Mississippi battled for the coveted second-place cup.

Iowa came into the weekend ranked No. 11 in one computer ranking. Colgate, its championship game opponent, was ranked No. 225.

The game didn't even sell out. In fact, none of the tournament games sold out.

Before the championship game, Colgate coach Jack Bruen knew his team needed to play a perfect game in order to win. They shot 30.3 percent from the field. Needless to say, Iowa won, 79-59.

If Iowa needed an ego boost, this tournament certainly did the trick. The only thing that kept the Hawkeyes from completely filling the all-tournament team was the fact that Iowa didn't keep its starters in long enough to pad their stats and none of the gray team members wanted to shoot.

The highlight of the entire tournament seemed to be the Cedar Rapids Franklin Middle School Special Olympians, whose Orange vs. Blue game sparked the crowd Hawkeye reserve Jesse Whitmer led the way winning his first major college tournament championship as the top-ranked Iowa wrestling team tallied its best performance at the UNI Open since 1985.

The Hawkeyes rolled to six of the 10 individual championships while placing second in three other championship bouts. Not even ninth-ranked Michigan State could come close to matching Iowa's dominance. The Spartans captured three individual championships and Nebraska also claimed a lone title. Iowa's six championship wins matched a team record set in 1985. Whitmer was an unlikely hero at 118 pounds. At only 5 feet and one inch, Whitmer was perhaps the smallest of the 290 wrestlers to compete at the UNI Open. But he overcame his lack of size with sheer determination as he repeatedly outmaneuvered taller opponents before defeating Michigan State's David Morgan, 7-6.

Iowa's regular starter, Mike Mena, took the weekend off to study for exams, but Whitmer said he was happy to pinch hit for Mena.

"I'm the backup guy right now,"

The Iowa men's swimming team returned to its winning ways, crushing the field at the Iowa Invitational on Friday and Saturday.

Iowa more than doubled its closest opponent, scoring 1,145 points in the two day meet. South Dakota finished second with 564 points, Metro State third with 402 and Coe College fourth with 296 points.

"It was a low pressure meet for us," Iowa coach Glenn Patton said. "We swam very well and had some good highlights. We needed a meet like that after some tough competition."

Iowa crowned champions in all but one event, the 200 butterfly, which was won by Tony Snow of South Dakota.

Tete Gil, Joe Loftus, Jory Blauer and Marco Minonne all were double winners for the Hawkeyes.

Gil took first in the 1-meter and 3-meter diving events, setting an Iowa record with 547.40 points on the lower board.

Loftus swam to victory in the 400 individual medley and the Last weekend was one of firsts for the Iowa women's swim team.

An overall solid team effort, including strong performances in the diving competition and many first-place finishes, led the Hawkeyes to their first victory of the 1995 season at the Iowa Invitational.

The win was also the first for new head coach Patricia Meyer.

"It felt pretty good to get that first win," Meyer said. "It reinforces the positive attitude we have on the team. These girls have remained positive in our losses and to now go in and start winning really gives us an extra boost."

Iowa was led by strong performances on the diving board. In the one-meter competition, junior Kelly McCready recorded a pool-record score of 413.75. Jessica Riccobono finished second in the event with a 387.30. The scores catapulted McCready and Riccobono into the NCAA qualifying standard for the one-meter competition.

In the pool, senior leadership was evident as Rachel Bayster finished first in the 400 individual medley in 4:49.55 and classmate Lynn Dustin finished on top

Hawks best No. 13 Jayhawks for tourney title

Wayne Drehs
The Daily Iowan

The No. 16 Iowa women's basketball team took another step in proving they're back Sunday night, defeating No. 13 Kansas 65-58 in overtime for the championship of the Kansas Dial Classic.

Iowa (5-0) was led by sophomore forward and tournament MVP Tiffany Gooden's 23 points and nine rebounds. Senior center Simone Edwards, in her first start in two years, was also a key contributor to the Iowa victory. She grabbed 12 rebounds to accompany her 15 points.

"I think this win shows growth and maturity," Iowa coach Angie Lee said. "Again the team stepped up and showed that we are here, we are quality, and we are something to be dealt with."

"Again the team stepped up and showed that we are here, we are quality, and we are something to be dealt with."

Angie Lee, Iowa women's basketball coach

The Hawkeyes came out strong early as Edwards and Gooden combined for 20 of the Hawkeyes' first 26 points, en route to a 26-20 half-time lead.

The Jayhawks (2-2) responded in the second half, though, going on a 13-5 run, and taking their first lead at 28-27. Kansas then extended its lead to seven, 51-44 with 2:06 left when Lee inserted sophomore Tangela Smith into the game. Smith sparked the Iowa comeback, hitting a turnaround jumper and two free throws to bring Iowa within three. Sophomore Nadine Domond then hit a jumper to get Iowa within one.

Iowa took the 52-51 lead with six seconds remaining following a missed Kansas free throw and a Gooden turnaround jumper, but a foul by Domond sent Kansas back to the line.

Jayhawk Jennifer Trapp missed her second of the one-and-one, though, and the game went to overtime knotted at 52.

Early in the extra period, Smith put back a missed shot and Gooden hit Iowa's lone three-pointer of the game to give Iowa a 59-54 lead they didn't look back on.

"We had not done well on the boards throughout the game, but in overtime our kids just crashed the boards like crazy," Lee said. The Jayhawks were led by all-tournament teamers Tamecka Dixon's 20 points and Angie Halbleib's 18. Edwards, along with Northern Iowa's Shanah Kadner, and St. Joseph's Megan Compain rounded out the all-tournament team.

make up for it. Even I picked up on a few things. I learned that two things are no longer a part of basketball. The wave, after trying unsuccessfully to make its way into basketball arenas for many years, should now be officially retired.

And the high five has been officially replaced with the high fist. Ditto the low five and the plain "give me five." Although I'm not sure the new handshake of choice has been given a name, it seems to be catching fast.

Also, I learned that there is no great committee that closely watches and selects the all-tournament team as I once envisioned. In fact, I was even given a ballot.

East Tennessee State players learned that if you play Iowa in the first round of this tournament, you don't have a chance at second place. Their role in the tournament was best summed up when PA announcer Father Bob Holzhammer called them East Texas State.

They also learned that if they wear their warm-ups to the bar after the game, their scoring percentage goes up. Adonal Foyle, Colgate's highly-touted sophomore center, learned that it's a long way from the Patriot League to the Big Ten and an even longer way to the NBA. He showed why he is known as a shot blocking and rebounding force, but was a no-show in the offensive end of the court. Maybe in the next couple of years, he'll develop some dominant offensive skills. Iowa freshman Alvin Robinson learned two things. He found out his high-pitched scream when he calls for the ball or takes down a rebound, carries throughout Carver-Hawkeye Arena after half the crowd is already gone and he also learned why he hasn't played that much this season. His name wasn't even on Iowa's roster for Friday's game.

The whole Iowa team learned how fun basketball really is, especially when you have a 40-point lead. I think Chris Kingsbury even smiled once during the tournament, but he got a technical to good team you need to be tough and dominant," Gable said.

In particular, Gable was disgusted with Williams' 3-1 championship loss to Nebraska's Temoe Terry. Gable said Williams got into a shoving match rather than taking advantage of his explosive offensive abilities.

"Obviously when you've got a guy like Joe Williams that loses in the finals and doesn't wrestle hard it makes you upset," Gable said. "I don't mind guys getting beat if they wrestle hard."

On Friday, Iowa won seven of 10 matches against the Spartans, highlighted by heavyweight Erik Stroner's pin of Jason Peterson in a time of 2:15. The Hawkeyes overall record now stands at 4-0.

shows a lot of mental confidence," Gable said.

At 126 pounds, McGinness remained unbeaten in six matches with a 9-5 victory over Wartburg's Tom Smith. In the semifinals, McGinness pinned Nebraska's Jose Deanda with ten seconds left in the final period.

Mark Ironside (134), Bill Zadick (142), Mike Uker (150) and Daryl Weber (167) were Iowa's other champions. Ironside pinned three of his first four opponents before defeating Michigan State's Ted Kramer 6-4 in the title bout. Zadick earned a 10-3 decision over Wartburg's Jamal Fox. Uker beat Michigan State's David Hughes 5-1. Weber crushed Nebraska-Omaha's Raphael Kizee 12-2 to record Iowa's final championship win of the day. Kizee was the tournament's top seed at 167 pounds.

Joe Williams (158), Curt Heide-man (177) and John Degl (190) all finished second for the Hawkeyes. Zadick said the Hawkeyes wanted to turn in a solid outing after a lackluster 25-13 win over Michigan State on Friday in Gilbertville, Iowa.

"Hopefully we sent the message that we are the dominant force," Zadick said. Gable was happy with the six championship wins, but said his team needed to increase its "mental toughness."

"We needed a lot of good things to happen and I think there were a lot of good things that happened, but at the same time, to be a real

NFL ROUNDUP

Steelers, Chiefs claim division titles with wins over old rivals

Associated Press

Pittsburgh and Kansas City clinched NFL division championships on Sunday and except for old pal Norv Turner, the Dallas Cowboys might have been in the playoffs, too.

Turner, offensive coordinator for two Dallas Super Bowl champions, coached Washington to a 24-17 victory and a season's sweep of the Cowboys. Dallas is 10-3 for the season but 0-2 against Turner's Redskins.

Pittsburgh extended the league's longest winning streak to six games, defeating Houston 21-7 and clinching the AFC Central title. Kansas City got a season-high 124 yards from 35-year-old Marcus Allen and wrapped up the AFC West with a 29-23 victory over Oakland.

Chiefs 29, Raiders 23

The Chiefs (11-2) won their second AFC West title in three years as Allen became the first player in the NFL's 77-year history to run for more than 10,000 yards and catch 5,000 yards in passes. It was Kansas City's fifth straight victory and 12th in 13 games against the Raiders.

Steelers 21, Oilers 7

Pittsburgh stretched its winning streak to an NFL-high six games and wrapped up its third AFC Central championship in coach Bill Cowher's four seasons. Neil O'Donnell threw a pair of first-half touchdown passes and Bam Morris ran for 102 yards and a late fourth-quarter touchdown.

The Steelers wrapped up the division title faster than in any season since their four Super Bowl runs during the 1970s.

Redskins 24, Cowboys 17

Terry Allen scored two touchdowns and Heath Shuler passed for another as Washington (4-9) snapped a four-game losing streak. The Redskins beat Dallas 27-23 in the fifth game of the season when Allen scored twice and gained 123 yards.

Broncos 31, Jaguars 23

John Elway compensated for Denver's poor special teams play, passing for four touchdowns as the Broncos improved their playoff hopes. Denver (7-6) is tied with Indianapolis and Miami for the final two AFC wild-card slots.

Chargers 31, Browns 13

Rookie Aaron Hayden, replacing injured Natrone Means, rushed 32 times for 127 yards and his first two NFL touchdowns as San Diego kept its faint playoff hopes alive with its second win in six days.

Cleveland (4-9) lost its fifth straight game, a streak that began the day before owner Art Modell announced he was moving the team to Baltimore. The Browns even came to San Diego two days early in an attempt to escape the distractions back home.

Seahawks 26, Eagles 14

Seattle used a career-best four field goals by Todd Peterson to beat Philadelphia, which lost for just the second time in nine games. The Seahawks have won four of the last five.

The Seattle Seahawks, coming off a loss to the New York Jets in the Kingdome last week, beat the Eagles Sunday as Todd Peterson kicked a career-best four field goals, Chris Warren ran for a touchdown and Rick Mirer ran for another.

Panthers 13, Colts 10

Carolina won its sixth game and fourth straight at home, using a face mask penalty by Derwin Gray to set up John Kasay's 38-yard winning field goal. The Panthers sacked Jim Harbaugh, the NFL's top-rated passer, six times, knocking him from the game with a sprained knee.

Packers 24, Bengals 10

Brett Favre threw three touchdowns and completed 31 of 43 passes for 339 yards, his fifth 300-yard game this year and 10th of his career.

Favre became the third-fastest quarterback in NFL history to reach 100 career touchdown passes, reaching the plateau in his 62nd game.

The record of 44 games was set by Dan Marino from 1983-86. Johnny Unitas did it in 53 games from 1956-60.

Dolphins 21, Falcons 20

Marino threw a 21-yard TD pass to Irving Fryar with 11 seconds left, and Miami rallied with two touchdowns in the last eight minutes to end a three-game losing streak.

Marino took Miami 72 yards in the final 1:49 for the winning touchdown.

Vikings 31, Buccaneers 17

Minnesota's defense had eight sacks to overpower Tampa Bay. Quarterback Trent Dilfer absorbed six sacks before being ejected for fighting with tackle John Randle. The Vikings got a 66-yard TD run from Amp Lee, the longest of his career, and Warren Moon had TD passes of 27 and 60 yards to Kris Carter.

Rams 23, Jets 20

Stymied for most of the day, Isaac Bruce broke free for a pair of TD catches to lead St. Louis. Bruce, the league's leading receiver in passing yardage, wasn't a factor for nearly three quarters. But he caught TDs of 1 and 11 yards from backup Mark Rypien and finished with six receptions for 69 yards.

Saints 31, Patriots 17

New Orleans used three big scoring plays to move closer to the playoffs in a season that began with five losses. The Saints have won five of their last six. They were backed by Jim Everett's touchdown passes of 50 yards to Quinn Early and 69 yards to Lorenzo Neal and Mario Bates' 66-yard TD run.

49ers 27, Bills 17

Linebackers Gary Plummer and Lee Woodall formed an unlikely and stunning scoring combination

Sunday night. Plummer forced a goal-line fumble by Darick Holmes with a devastating hit and Woodall recovered and raced 96 yards for a touchdown in the San Francisco 49ers' 27-17 win over the Buffalo Bills, their fourth straight victory.

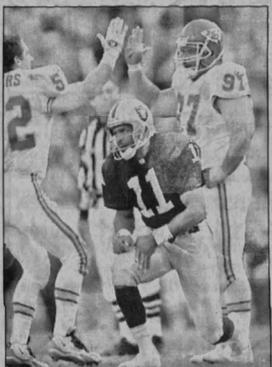

The score was tied 10-10 about five minutes into the third period, and the Bills appeared poised to take command after a 15-yard run by Holmes put them on the 1. But Plummer launched himself into the end zone and knocked the ball loose.

Miami's Irving Fryar (80) is congratulated by teammate O.J. McDuffie after catching a touchdown pass in the final moments Sunday.

Bears, Lions lock horns in playoff hunt

Harry Atkins
Associated Press

PONTIAC, Mich. — Just a year ago, Erik Kramer was fighting for playing time in Chicago and Scott Mitchell was getting booted in Detroit. Now each directs one of the most high-powered offenses in the NFL.

Kramer and Mitchell will oppose each other Monday night when the Bears (7-5) play the Lions (6-6) for the second time in just over two weeks.

In each case, it appears the two quarterbacks just needed time to adjust to new surroundings.

Kramer left Detroit as a free agent after the 1993 season when the Bears offered him $8.1 million over three years. Mitchell left Miami as a free agent to replace Kramer in Detroit.

"It took me some time to get comfortable with the Bears' system," Kramer said. "Everything we ran in Detroit was completely different. Plays had different names, different terminology."

Kramer vowed things would be different this season. He devoted himself to learning everything there was to know about the Chicago offense during the off-season. When camp opened last July, there was no question the job was his.

Kramer is the only NFL quarterback to have taken every snap this season. He has thrown 26 touchdown passes and needs only three more to break Sid Luckman's club record of 28, a record that has stood since 1943.

The Bears and Lions have split the season series for the past six years. The Lions have not swept the Bears since 1983.

1,650 freestyle event. "I was particularly pleased with our distance freestyle events," Patton said. "Joe Loftus had his best meet for us."
Blauer swept the 100 and 200 backstroke and Minonne captured the 100 and 200 breaststroke titles. Other Iowa winners included Brian Brinkley in the 100 butterfly, Tyler Holcomb in the 200 freestyle and Marc River in the 100 freestyle. "Everyone had good times overall," River said. "We knew we didn't have much competition, but we still swam good times."
The Hawkeyes also won the 200 medley, the 400 freestyle and the 800 freestyle relays. Iowa travels to Ames to battle the Iowa State Cyclones in a dual meet Dec. 8. It will be the Hawkeyes final competition of the fall semester.

in the 1,650 freestyle in 17:54.62. Iowa's freshman class again performed strong, with Jessica Knippenburg winning the 100 (58.91) and 200 (2:09.24) butterfly and Lindsay Garver taking the 100 and 200 backstroke in 1:00.71 and 2:10.83. Besides winning, Iowa went into the meet with an additional goal of learning more about next weekend's home opponent, Iowa State. The Cyclones were supposed to be Iowa's toughest challenge this weekend, but Iowa defeated the second place Cyclones by 165 points. "Winning and beating Iowa State well really makes us more confident for next week," Meyer said. "It was also a really good chance for our team to swim in a three-day, Big Ten-type event."

Hawkeyes iron out the kinks

Chris James
The Daily Iowan

The Iowa men's and women's gymnastics teams smoothed out the rough edges Saturday during an intrasquad scrimmage. The men's team divided into black and gold squads with the black squad coming out on top 168.0-166.65. The women's team participated in all the events, but no team overall score was kept. Men's coach Tom Dunn said he was pleased with the overall performance. "I was very happy with our performance today," Dunn said. "We wanted to pace ourselves this season, so some roughness was expected."
The black squad was led by senior all-American Jay Thornton, who won the all-around and the floor exercise. Junior Tyler Vogt led the gold team by finishing first in the still rings and vault. Senior Aaron Carter and junior Greg Gebhardt snagged the horizontal and pommel horse titles, respectively. Dunn said he was glad to see Gebhardt perform especially well. "Greg did an excellent job on the pommel horse," Dunn said. "I'm happy to see him come back after not seeing action last year." On the women's side, the Hawkeyes were led by senior Kim Baker, who finished first in two events and tied for first in two other events. Baker won the all-around with a 37.85 and captured first on the uneven bars with a 9.35. Freshman Lori Whitner finished first in the vault competition with an impressive 9.5.

Head coach Diane DeMarco said her team performed very well. "Our effort was outstanding for being in front of judges and a crowd for the first time. I thought the whole team gave everything they had and it showed," DeMarco said. Hawkeye senior Shelly Burns, who was returning from knee surgery, finished fifth on the uneven bars with an 8.4. But DeMarco said just seeing Burns compete was a sight. "She's worked so hard to come back that it was inspirational to see her get out there and compete. It really didn't matter how she finished. Just seeing her out there made it worthwhile," DeMarco said.

ence. I feel confident that I can assume that and I need to convince my teammates."
Millard said a lot of people have been there for him while he's struggled through problems including a bout with pneumonia and academic ineligibility. "I think that's what makes our team unique is that we all help each other out," he said. "And that's how we got a great team chemistry, a great team bond."
That team chemistry has been evident on the court this season. Iowa has had a noticeable penchant for making the extra pass and looking for the open man. "At the beginning of the season we were trying to overpenetrate. A lot of us were going one-on-one, myself included," Murray said. "Now we're just settling down. After the Duke game we went back and looked at how we were playing and realized we had to pass the ball a lot more."
To the crowd's enjoyment, a few of those passes ended with explosive dunks, twice by Millard in the second half. Iowa's up-tempo style and on-court chemistry has made the alley-oop one of the Hawkeyes' fortes. "It fits the system right now," Millard said. "We're a real unselfish team. We like making the nice pass and making the extra pass and it just so happened that I was able to be on the end of those passes."
The unselfish Hawkeyes balanced the scoring all weekend. Friday night six Hawkeyes reached double figures and Saturday seven Iowa players scored at least eight. Kingsbury led the Hawkeyes with 18 points Friday and scored 10 Saturday. For the weekend he made six-of-14 three-pointers.

Iowa's Chris Kingsbury is fouled by Colgate's Adonal Foyle Saturday as he drives toward the basket during the championship game.

But Kingsbury wasn't the only Hawkeye shooting the three. Iowa made six 3-pointers in the first 12 minutes as it jumped to a 28-12 lead to start the Colgate game. Woolridge added 24 points over the weekend. And Murray scored 19 points in two games to put himself over the 1,000-point mark in his career at Iowa, prompting a standing ovation. Davis received an honor of his own from Colgate coach Jack Bruen after the title game. "For the record, Tom Davis is one of the class coaches in the country," Bruen said. "His team had us down and out, and you could have named the score. "A lot of guys in this profession like to bury people and he didn't." Early in the second half, Iowa wasn't so kind. The Hawkeyes started the second half with a 23-8 run that gave Iowa a 71-33 lead. A night earlier, Iowa ended the first half with a 17-1 run. With 10 minutes left in that game, Iowa led 80-37.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Bowl alliance produces matchup of No. 1 & 2

Rick Warner
Associated Press

The much-maligned bowl alliance worked perfectly in its rookie season.

The system was supposed to produce a national championship game, and that's what it did.

Top-ranked Nebraska (11-0) and No. 2 Florida (12-0) will play for the title Jan. 2 in the Fiesta Bowl. The winner of the game between the nation's only undefeated, untied teams will be the undisputed champ of college football.

"We have one more bridge to cross, one more obstacle," Florida safety Lawrence Wright said. "We can either go around it or through it."

The Nebraska-Florida matchup would have been impossible under the old system of conference tie-ins.

Nebraska would have gone to the Orange Bowl as the Big Eight representative and the Gators would have gone to the Sugar Bowl as the Southeastern Conference champion.

Now, except for the Rose Bowl's agreement with the Pac-10 and Big Ten, league champions are free to play each other in the Fiesta-Orange-Sugar bowl alliance.

The Fiesta Bowl's dream game became a reality Saturday night when Florida beat Arkansas 34-3 for the SEC championship. Florida is seeking its first national title, while Nebraska is trying to become the first team to win consecutive championships since Alabama in 1978-79.

There have been 10 other 1-2 matchups in bowl history.

The most recent was No. 1 Florida State's 18-16 victory over No. 2 Nebraska in the 1994 Orange Bowl.

That was Nebraska's last loss. The Cornhuskers have won 24 in a row and need one more win to become the first team to win two straight national titles with perfect records since Oklahoma in 1955-56.

The Fiesta Bowl will be a game of contrasts: Florida's high-tech "Fun 'N Gun" passing show vs. Nebraska's ground-and-pound option attack, outspoken Steve Spurrier vs. low-key Tom Osborne, and Danny Wuerffel's pinpoint passes vs. Tommie Frazier's elusive runs.

"I don't think Nebraska is more physical than us," Wright said. "We're not scared of anybody."

Nebraska tight end Mark Gilman said the Huskers are more versatile than most people think.

"We often get stereotyped as a running team only, but that doesn't mean we can't catch the ball, too," he said.

Wuerffel threw for 276 yards and two touchdowns against Arkansas and finished the season with the highest pass efficiency rating in NCAA history.

Now he must wait until Saturday to find out if that was enough to beat out Frazier and Ohio State's Eddie George for the Heisman Trophy.

"I'm not even sure how that goes or who votes or anything," Wuerffel said. "But it's an honor to be mentioned. It's a credit to the teammates around me."

The Orange and Sugar bowls made their selections Sunday. The Orange took No. 6 Notre Dame (9-2) and No. 8 Florida State (9-2), while the Sugar got No. 9 Texas (10-1-1) and No. 13 Virginia Tech (9-2).

Texas earned an alliance berth by beating No. 19 Texas A&M 16-6 Saturday for the final Southwest Conference championship. The 81-year-old league is disbanding, and both schools are joining the new Big 12 Conference.

"The SWC era is over and I'll have fond memories of the good times and the good friends," Texas A&M coach R.C. Slocum said.

Associated Press

Tony Delk (00) and Wayne Turner (5) of Kentucky box in Indiana's Sherron Wilkerson, left, during first-half action Saturday.

UMass, Camby start their seasons strong

Associated Press

Massachusetts and Marcus Camby are off to great starts.

The fifth-ranked Minutemen beat Florida 80-58 Sunday to win the Franklin National Bank Classic and once again it was the 6-foot-11 junior leading the way.

Camby had 30 points on 9-for-15 shooting and grabbed eight rebounds Sunday to earn MVP honors of the four-team tournament at the USAir Arena. The points were two off his career high which he matched earlier in the week in the victory over top-ranked Kentucky.

"I'm a whole lot more confident than last year," said Camby, who was pulled with six minutes remaining. "I have to take a leadership role."

The Minutemen didn't need a whole lot of leading against the Gators (2-2) as it 37-18 at halftime. They held Florida to 37 percent shooting and finished with a 46-28 rebounding edge.

"We learned a lesson today. It was painful, but a lesson we can benefit from," Florida coach Lon Kruger said.

Carmelo Travieso had 11 points and Edgar Padilla had 10 assists for UMass, while LeRon Williams led Florida with 17 points.

No. 9 Connecticut 63, Boston College 62

Doron Sheffer made two free throws with 9.2 seconds left as the Huskies (4-1) withstood a late rally in the Big East opener for both. Ray Allen led Connecticut with 22 points, 20 in the first half, while Danya Abrams had 14 points and 10 rebounds for the visiting Eagles (3-1).

No. 19 Maryland 98, George Washington 81

The Terrapins (2-2) rallied from their 50-47 loss to Massachusetts the day before to take third place in the Franklin National Bank Classic. Johnny Rhodes had 21 points for Maryland, which led 52-35 at halftime. Alexander Koul led the Colonials (2-2) with 22 points.

No. 25 Arkansas 116, Alcorn St. 75

Sunday Adebayo had 19 points to lead six Razorbacks (3-2) in double figures as they forced 37 turnovers, three more than the Braves had committed all season. DeCarlos Anderson led Alcorn State (2-2) with 23 points.

Viva Las Vegas in 'Casino'

Nathan Groepper
The Daily Iowan

To many, Las Vegas seems like a city of unlimited glitter and dreams.

It's a stage for billionaires, dirty politicians and glamorous show-girls. The home of slot cheats, card counters, chip hustlers and bottom dealers. And it's the mecca to millions of tourists and gamblers of all walks of life who arrive with high hopes and leave their wallets behind.

And a paradise for the mob.

In "Casino," esteemed director Martin Scorsese ("Goodfellas") applies his unique cinematic vision to 1973 Las Vegas. The film, based on a fictionalized account of real-life wheeler-dealer Frank "Lefty" Rosenthal, is a visual triumph. However, "Casino" is lengthy use of narration and three-hour running time may try your patience.

Those with weak stomachs beware: "Casino" is filled with some of the most ghastly, gruesome violence ever to be shown on the silver screen.

Sam "Ace" Rothstein (Robert De Niro), the consummate bookie who could change the odds merely by placing a bet, has scored the win of a lifetime. He has been hand-picked by mob bosses to run a casino in Las Vegas. Ace's canny eye for cheats and hustlers soon doubles the mob's take and changes the very rules of how casinos are run.

Ace lives and breathes the odds, but he can't control them when it comes to Ginger McKenna (Sharon Stone), the chip-hustling vamp who charms him and becomes his wife.

The third member of this triangle of intrigue and obsession is Nicky Santoro (Joe Pesci), Ace's best friend and fellow graduate of the city streets. Nicky is the hair-trigger hit man all too familiar with the holes in the desert surrounding the man-made paradise of Las Vegas.

Together, Ace and Nicky run the perfect operation, with Ace in charge and Nicky providing the muscle. But as each man gains more power, their lives become entangled in money, love and deception. The machine they have created is running out of control.

While the film bears similarities to Scorsese's other works, such as "Mean Streets" and "Goodfellas," it is not a mob movie in the same sense. "Casino" is rooted in humanity. The complex film interweaves the grand scale of Vegas, its political subplots and clashes between the law and mob with the intimate relationships of Ace, Ginger and Nicky. The film captures the nuances of the characters' day-to-day lives and blends these aspects into an interesting story about the power of overwhelming pride.

While the film works well on a personal level, the overall effect of all these minute aspects is one that is all-encompassing. Scorsese has given the audience too many little details. By the end of "Casino," you know the characters very well, but after being constantly bombarded for almost three hours, the film loses the emotional pull it had in the beginning.

In "Casino," Scorsese enlisted the efforts of a familiar team. As "Ace" Rothstein, De Niro ("Cape Fear") gives another solid, engaging performance, but Pesci ("My Cousin Vinny") is again the one who steals the show. Pesci's creation of the violent, cocky Nicky is sadistically brilliant. He carefully balances the character's hazardous combination of greed and rigid sense of loyalty to the mob.

However, the best performance may have come from a non-Scorsese regular. Sharon Stone ("Basic Instinct") holds her own as Ace's drug-abusing, alcoholic wife. Stone displays emotional intensity that is riveting to watch.

Ace mentions, "Running a casino is like robbing a bank with no cops around," and, as viewers, we get to partake in the visual pleasures of dazzling Las Vegas without fear of getting caught. But just like Nicky, Ace and the other mobsters, we pay the price.

Those with weak stomachs beware: "Casino" is filled with some of the most ghastly, gruesome violence ever to be shown on the silver screen. Much as the characters suffer retribution, it seems as if Scorsese is punishing viewers who enjoy the details of mob life with grisly violence.

In the end, "Casino" lives up to its high advance billing. The film is bogged down at times by its overwhelming use of self-narration, but is extremely well acted and directed. Deal me in.

~~Buy~~. Borrow. ~~Steal~~.

Sure, there's more than one way to get the money you need to buy a Macintosh computer. But none is as painless as this. Because all you have to do is visit the authorized Apple reseller listed below, apply for an Apple Computer Loan, and if you qualify, you can own a Mac for a buck or two a day. That's right, for the price of a daily latte, you can get a Mac and have money left over for software and a printer. It's easy. No groveling for funds on the phone with the folks is required. There'll be no bail to post after robbing the bank. You won't even have to make a payment for 90 days! Just call 1-800-Apple-LN to apply, and the power of Macintosh could soon be yours. The power to be your best.

Hey, you wouldn't give your money away to just anyone, would you? Neither can we. Offers expire January 15, 1996. No payment of principal or interest will be required for 90 days. Interest accruing during this 90-day period will be added to the principal and will bear interest which will be included in the repayment schedule. *The monthly payment quoted above is an estimate based on a total loan amount of $1,768.09, which includes a sample purchase price of $1,662 for the Performa 6214CD system shown above. The total loan amount also includes a 6.0% loan origination fee. Interest is variable based on the Commercial Paper Rate plus a spread of 6.35%. For example, the month of October 1995 had an interest rate of 12.17% with an annual percentage rate (APR) of 13.95%. Monthly payment for the total loan amount described above would be $30.36. Monthly payment and APR shown assumes no deferral of principal and does not include state or local sales tax. Monthly payments may vary depending on actual computer system prices, total loan amounts, state and local sales taxes, and a change in the monthly variable interest rate. Prequalification expedites the loan process, but does not guarantee final loan approval. Subsequent acceptable verification documents must be received before your loan is approved.
