Forbes captures Arizona primary

By Ernie Deubel

WASHINGTON—John King, a long-shot candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, charged into Arizona on Wednesday with a new wave of aggressive campaigning and a promises to come out on top of the field of candidates who are all vying for a share of the state's delegate count.

King, who had been written off as a candidate weeks ago, has been making a last-ditch effort to win the key western state, where he is hoping to win the primary and become a viable alternative to the frontrunners.

King's team has been running TV ads in Arizona and canvassing the state, and he has been holding rallies and town halls in the state, where he has been able to attract a significant number of voters.

"We're going to continue to push the fence until we're out there," said King. "I'm going to keep fighting and working hard to make sure that John King is the nominee of the Republican Party for the 2020 presidential election."

Resented drunken-driving punishment proves effective

Josh Hart

The Daily Iowan

Educational programs, as an alternative to jail time or fines, are seen as a positive impact on the number of repeat offenders, a study by the US Department of Education has shown.

The study showed drunken drivers may be less likely to re-offend if they take an educational course. The study showed that the more times a drunk driver was caught, the more likely they were to seek an educational course.

Dr. Richard D. Blank, manager for the course and director of educational programs, said that there are current educational programs, but not in the state of Iowa's drunk driving laws or sentencing. "One of the things we need to look at is whether someone who had multiple offenses would benefit from taking the addi- tional educational course," Blank said. "The people who have multiple arrests didn't go right out and start driving again. The course seems to have some merit though.

Blank said further studies need to be done to see if the long term effects of the ed- ucational courses are beneficial.

The study is based on data given before the drunk driver's full punishment was admin- istered toward alcohol. It was released in 97 for community college classes, which were conducted at 14 Iowa community colleges in 1995.

"I think (the study) is definitely effec- tive," Blank said. "It is a positive experience and makes people think twice about drunk driving again."

The three curriculum used at the col- leges was developed in 1995 by the Research Institute of Lexington, Ky., and has been used by all 14 for the past year. The courses were funded by grants from the Iowa and Drug-Free Schools program. The course lasted two hours at community colleges and has a 24-hour hour format.

"The course is really a class while driving," Blank said. "I don't really think anything about the content of the classes as a good idea.

"If there is no future in the future, the judge has the option of a class or the course as part of a sentence," Blank said.

Blank said saving jail time is an ef- fective deterrent for repeat offenders but not a perfect one.

"I think jail time is definitely effective," Blank said. "But there is a lot of people in jail who don't think twice about drunk driving again."

Money, grassroots greener for Buchanan

Richard Bell
Associated Press
Washington—Once a poper in the GOP's baggage claim, Pat Buchanan is making in his strong early primary showdowns his strongest case for 1996 contributions, more than double the $2 million he raised in the first quarter and double the $5 million in all contributions that finished 1995 with the biggest fund-raising haul of any Republican presidential candidate.

It also gives him added staying power in the crowded field.

"Grassroots are greenest and furthest growers," Buchanan boasted in a tele­ thon at Cob’s Amos. "It's "

His former and campaign manger, Ray Buchanan, said the camaign expected to raise $5 million this month, more that doubles the $300,000 it raised in January, "to be able to keep up for awhile," he said.

There is a close link between Buchanan's new fund-raising success and his winning victory in the New Hampshire primary earlier this month — along with his second­place finish in the Iowa cau­ stion and a pair of strong poll showings.

GOP Ballooned 8 Million

Bob Dole hasn't been able to stop Buchanan's new fund-raising campaign expected to raise $893,000 including $300,000 in one day, $100,000 of which is out of state. America's, whose fund-raising was la­ gen in January, is also seeing a surge in money after the New Hampshire win and New Hampshire's other early vote, the New Hampshire general, which formerly lent the money. "I pledge to you that our campaign received more than $300,000 on Monday and another $100,000 in eight of the past 10 days. "We are doing very, very well," he said.

For presidential candidates, there's no fund-raising energy quite like strong finishes in the privote states and ended up in court.

World blamed in Rwanda genocide report

MART RENDONDEAU
Associated Press

Thousands of thousands of Rwandan children are said to have died or been orphaned as a result of the conflict and genocide that was evident in the years before and after the end of the civil war in the African nation. The report, which blames the Rwandan government for failing to take action against the genocide, is expected to be released soon.

The full report, an independent study, is expected to be released in the coming weeks. The report will provide new evidence of the Rwandan government's role in the genocide and will be based on interviews with survivors and other sources.

The Rwandan government has denied involvement in the genocide and has said that it did not have the capability to carry out the mass killings.

Likewise, Amanda Tyznorski, who lives in Davenport Student Residence Hall and has been to both UI and UI projects. "Trying to come up with new construction in our main campus area is going to be a real challenge." Many students will be affected by the temporary closing of the Music and Dance, and Tysnorski said.

Cubans aware plane was unmanned

Robert Reid
UNITED NATIONS - The United Nations' wildlife representatives Tuesday told U.N. diplomats that a plane may have been downed over Cuba as part of an effort to remove a callus from her foot.

The pilot identified the target as a Cuban-owned jet, but the plane was not authorized to fire. The pilot did, however, shoot the plane.

"I was struck by the joy of it," Reid said.

Immediately after the plane was shot, the pilot was arrested on charges of attempted murder.

The problem is that the foods we habitually choose. Under natural conditions, they live peacefully together in large groups. The only real solution to the abnormal aggression which their environment causes is to find alternative housing methods. A local firm is working on this problem.

And Roger Davis, President of Poultry Producers Cooperative, said earlier this month: "In 1980, I undertook to investigate the uses of personal contact in the laying hens and was amazed to read complaints from employees in the Iowa City area and on campus in Iowa.

We removed four brood hens and had them examined by a veterinarian specializing in poultry disease at the University of California.

The hens were healthy and had been reared by a local rooster. They were not prone to nip or scratch, resulting in remaining sharp, regular, smooth, attractive, shiny, and healthy.

In the absence of any negative experience, they reported having a very short list of hens that are all of their own, and none of the others.

Please feel free to do so. Regardless, I wish you the best of luck in your efforts to promote humane treatment of chickens.

CHICAGO — Michael Jordan scored 31 points and the Chicago Bulls settled for an 87-78 victory over the Detroit Pistons, staking a three-game lead in the Eastern Conference championship series going into Game 7.

The Bulls pulled away after a 40-39 first-quarter tie and kept the Pistons to the fewest points scored by a Detroit team in a playoff game.

Chicago has a 3-2 lead in the series and will try to eliminate the Piston in the deciding game, which will be played Saturday in Chicago.

"I'm real excited about tomorrow," Pistons guard Isiah Thomas said. "It's a chance to win the biggest game of the year for us."

The Bulls scored 23 points in the third quarter after a 16-11 run in the second quarter and led 72-63 going into the fourth quarter. Joining Jordan in double figures were Horace Grant with 19 points and Bill Cartwright with 17.

The Pistons, who scored 36 points in the first quarter, got 20 points from guard Isiah Thomas and 18 from center Rick Mahorn. Guard Joe Dumars added 11 points.

Jordan, who has scored at least 30 points in 10 of his last 12 playoff games, scored 21 of his points in the fourth quarter, including a 15-foot jump shot that gave the Bulls a 78-76 lead with 1:16 remaining.

"We had this game in our grasp," Thomas said. "We can't afford to lose anymore."

The Pistons, who led by as many as 11 points in the second quarter, forced a tie at 40-40 with 3:31 remaining in the half. But Jordan, who had scored only six points in the first half, scored 13 in the third quarter.

"We knew we had to make some plays to get to the fourth quarter," said Pistons center Rick Mahorn. "We just didn't do it."

The Bulls opened the game with a 9-3 run and led 17-7 after the first quarter, which ended 23-18 Chicago.

Jordan scored eight of Chicago's first 10 points and finished the first half with 13 points.

The Bulls shot .500 (32 of 64) for the game and had a 59-37 rebounding advantage.

Pistons coach Chuck Daly said of Jordan: "We've got to do a better job of grossing him from the game."

Pistons analy food John Howard said of the Bulls: "They're the team to beat. They've got guys who can step up and make big plays for them."

The series clinching game will be played at Chicago Stadium.

DI: What do you attribute your team's? performance to? Jordan.

RICK MAHORN: Our defense. We didn't give them enough opportunities to score.

BEHRON: We played well defensively and on offense.

ANNIE THOMAS: We had a good game plan.

DI: Do you see yourself as a person who could ultimately help our team win the championship?

BEHRON: Yes, I think I can help our team reach the championship.

DI: Do you have any real crazy stories that you can tell about playing basketball?

ANNIE THOMAS: When I was growing up, I used to play basketball with my brothers.

Debuts successful for Yanks, Sandberg

Jimmy Key and Dwight Gooden, two of baseball's most exciting newcomers, made their major league debuts in the season opener for the New York Yankees this week. Key pitched in the eighth and ninth innings of a 4-0 win over the Baltimore Orioles. Gooden, who had struggled in last spring's spring training, was effective against the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I'm not really concerned with results for the next little while," Key said. "I'm just trying to hold my own with the control and things like that."

The Yankees' victory came two days after Washington's setback. The team has struggled in the first two games and is likely to need some help from other teams in the division.

A dramatic moment in the game came in the 14th inning when Key had to leave the field due to an injury. He was replaced by Pat Gillick, who came in to face the next batter and allowed one hit in two innings.

Royals vs. Yankees: Game 2

Infielder Alan Trammell hit a two-run single in the first inning to give the Cubs a 2-0 lead. Leading 3-2 in the ninth, the Yankees tied it with a pair of runs on a walk and a hit by Matt Williams. The Cubs prevailed in the 10th on a two-run home run by Bill Buckner.

Dunn quietly rises to the top
