Plan aims to boost bucks for books

Carly Jordan

"It is a good time to make sure your order is secure," said Carly Jordan, who is a member of the Literature and the Arts Commission. The commission is working on a plan to boost sales of books, and the goal is to sell 10,000 books by the end of the year.

STUDENTS: NO CLASS

Leap Day: A perfect excuse to slack off

Kristen Smith

The Daily Iowan

Even though Leap Day has never been a big deal, some students are taking advantage of the extra day to sleep in, hang out with friends, or do nothing at all.

"It's just another day," said one student. "I'm not going to do anything special." Another student said, "I'm going to sleep in and relax."

Chicago sausage makers plan to leave offfices get their way

CHICAGO AP - Ultimately, Chicago sausage makers have won out in their battle to stay off the city's streets and in their home offices to sell their product.

The sausage makers, who have been planning a protest for several weeks, reached an agreement with the city on Tuesday.

"We are very pleased with the outcome," said Mayor Richard Daley.

"We were able to work with the sausage makers to find a solution that works for everyone.

"The streets will remain clean and free of obstructions, and the sausage makers will be able to continue their business without disrupting the flow of traffic.

"We are committed to finding a balance that allows for the city's safety and the rights of our citizens to earn a living.

The agreement calls for the sausage makers to operate from a centrally located market, and to use electronic advertising to promote their product.

"We believe this is a fair and just solution," said Daley.

"We are grateful to the sausage makers for their cooperation and for working with us to find a mutually beneficial outcome.

"We look forward to the continued success of the sausage makers and to the prosperity of the city.

"Thank you for your patience and understanding during this time.

"We will continue to work with our citizens to ensure that our city is safe, clean, and economically vibrant.

"Thank you.

Arkin to star in film about kidnapping of U.S. ambassador

By John Smith

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) - Actor Alan Arkin has been signed to star in a film about the kidnapping of a U.S. ambassador.

The film, which is tentatively titled "Kidnapped in India," will be directed by famed filmmaker Brian De Palma.

"I am thrilled to be working with Alan Arkin on this project," said De Palma.

"He is an immensely talented actor and I am confident that he will bring a depth of emotion and realism to the role.

"Arkin will portray the victim of the kidnapping, a U.S. ambassador who was abducted while on a diplomatic mission.

"The story is based on true events and I am committed to bringing the story to the screen with the utmost respect and accuracy.

"I believe Arkin is the perfect choice for this role and I am looking forward to working with him.

"We will begin production as soon as possible and I am confident that the film will be a powerful and moving portrayal of this tragic event.

"Thank you.

Sick and tired of being P.C.

Kristin Schutte

After that experience, I made a conscious attempt to stop using the word when I referred to either females or males. I didn't stop altogether, I just made an effort. I still say it every once in a while. But I try to not use it all that often now. I have tried to get a little bit less sexist and sexist-free to the best of my ability. But I still use it. I just acknowledge that it is something that I need to be careful with.

I am a student, and I am passionate about the issue of women's rights. I believe that women should be able to make their own decisions and that they should be treated equally. I also believe that men should be treated equally.

It is important to recognize that words do have power. They can be used to empower or to dehumanize. I believe that we should be careful with the words that we use, and I try to be conscious of the impact that my words might have on others. I do not intend to offend anyone. I just want to be able to express my thoughts and ideas in a way that is respectful and inclusive.

I do believe that words can be used to make a difference. I want to be part of that change. I want to be able to make a difference.

Ending the embargo

The American civilians shot down in Cuba last night were two of the three American crewmen who died in the accident.

This is a sad day for the United States, and it is a day of mourning for the American people. We pray for the families of the crewmen, and we pray for the peace and security of Cuba.

Wetlands: Not just for ducks and frogs

Andy Barber

Like many kids, these women are darkness and improve water quality in rivers, streams, and groundwater. This is achieved through the natural filtering processes of wetlands, which remove pollutants and nutrients from the water.

Wetlands are incredibly important to our health, environment, and economy. They provide us with a variety of benefits, such as clean water, flood control, and recreation. They also support a wide range of wildlife and provide a habitat for many species.

The wetland protection laws are the result of a long and difficult process. They were passed in response to the crisis of the 1980s, when many wetlands were lost to development. The laws establish a framework for protecting wetlands, and they provide a mechanism for evaluating the impact of proposed development on wetlands.

We need to continue to support policies that protect wetlands, and we need to continue to work to educate people about the importance of wetlands. The wetland protection laws are a critical part of this effort, and we need to do all we can to ensure their effectiveness.

Iowa rally erases 9-point deficit

David Schwartz

For more mortals, the first 12 minutes of football were a nightmare. But for the Iowa Hawkeyes, it was just another day at the office.

Iowa coach Kirk Ferentz called timeout in the fourth quarter, trailing 28-19. The Hawkeyes were 0-2 for the season and seventh in the Big Ten West.

But after Ferentz's timeout, Iowa went on to score 17 straight points, including a 9-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Kirk Ferentz to wide receiver Marvin McNutt. Iowa went on to win 38-35.

"It's a big win for us," Ferentz said. "We've been working hard since October, and it's nice to get a win."

Frazier hospitalized, checked for blood clot

Associated Press

Lincoln, Neb. — Famer Tommie Frazier was taken to a hospital early Thursday after he was found unconscious following a game.

The senior quarterback, who is in good condition after being admitted but will not return to practice, said he was having headaches and nausea. Officials at Bryan on Monday had denied that Frazier was hospitalized.

The Omaha World-Herald quoted a friend of Frazier's who said he was taken to a hospital for tests to determine if another blood clot had formed in his right leg.

Frazier was admitted to Bryan on Monday after a game against Nebraska, and was discharged from the hospital Tuesday night.

Frazier's leg was also the site of a blood clot that formed in 1994. Calls were not made because a clot did not turn into a national championship at the hospital...

Wayne Gretzky, the Edmonton Oilers' sniper, scored his 11th straight goal of the season, and the nine-time All-Star made it look as though he was playing in a playground instead of in an NHL Rink.

Gretzky's 19th goal of the season was his second of the game, and it came as the Oilers' star center tried to set up a shot by Edmonton's Paul Coffey.

Gretzky's goal was the third of a six-goal outburst by the Oilers, who have won three straight. Third straight, yes.

Gretzky is making $6.5 million this season, and the nine-time All-Star has made $46 million to date this season.

The Oilers have won three straight and have outscored their opponents 14-7 in the past three games.

Thursdays at Malone's bring in hypnosis, mind readings, fun

It's not unusual to find UI students gallivanting around Iowa City's Chinatown, clad in cheap leather jackets and wielding wads of money. The noise of jukeboxes and the scent of garlic are why they come, wild cattails or an out-of-control hunger. But this Tuesday night, they come in search of guffaws, not grease.

Rick MacDonald, a self-proclaimed master of the hypnotism art, has been casting over his profession.

"I believe in hypnosis," Tammi Mincemoyer, city editor of The Daily Iowan, said. "I believe that people can be hypnotized and given suggestions, like 'You can't hear anything.'"

But this is the film's biggest weakness. It seems superficially serious, is a portrait of characteristic actors who are neither very important nor a pop-culture synonym. Not having any idea for an improvement, the purpose of "Unzipped" is understood, other than being a clever commentary on the fashions, and you'd be happy to spend an evening if the movie
