Dole was the only candidate able to pull together a coalition of social and economic conservatives. By staying in the zone of acceptability, Dole was able to regain the title of undisputed GOP front-runner.

But playing it safe in the zone has opened up Dole to attacks that he does not stand for anything. By being just enough of one thing and not too much of another, Dole is criticized for not taking a stand on issues.

I never used to write like that. I was once proud of my penmanship. Ahhh, the great manual dexterity in my fingers, my beautiful print-

All right, I write neater than most guys.

Five months of therapy and I can admit my handwriting is immaculate. I don't go as far as dotting my I's and J's with cutesy hearts or smiley faces, and my P's don't look like little bubbles. But my printing was easier to read than a Gutenberg Bible and I'm darn proud.

But now the writing is on the wall, or at least my script is in the toilet. The past couple of weeks, with the advent of numerous midterms, my writing has become sprawled and jabs are now dotting my i's and j's.

According to Darlene Norton, vice president of the Iowa International Graphoanalysis Society (IGAS), sprawled writing and jabs show superficial thinking or hastiness which could indicate stress.

"If writing is sprawled out it means the person has to think enough to get by," she said. "At that point, they are rushed, maybe they don't have time and are brushing the surface. Stress or irritation shows in i's and j's with jab marks rather than regular marks."

"Your writing shows how you are feeling at the time of writing," she said. "When we analyze people, we like to get handwriting samples from different times if we are wanting a wellrounded person.'

Sherry Walljasper, president of the Iowa IGAS, said anyone's personality can be analyzed through his or her writing.

"We look at it stroke by stroke," she said. "By how big, long, heavy and slanted, we can measure their emotional category. If the writing slants further to the right, the person is more easily swayed in life

There is a personality difference between people who print or write cursive, and a reason doctors write so sloppy, Walljasper said.

"People write differently according to what they want the public to see. (With doctors), you do see a lot of stress. When people's writing flattens out it usually means they are in a hurry or have stress.

UISG president-elect Marc Beltrame said his

"I would call it post-election trauma," he said. "It has gotten sloppy. I can't read the notes I wrote last week. I was looking over my notes what the heck was I writing?"

Go to the local grade school and kick the little kids' butts at multiplication -"What's the matter, Billy? Can't remember eight times seven?"

Whatever you do, when your writing starts to look like a bank robber's hold-up note, get away from the midterm fiasco of books, I-notes and endless study guides.

House passes new bill to keep government running

WASHINGTON (AP) - In a fresh round of budget brinksmanship, the House narrowly approved a bill Thursday aimed at avoiding a new federal shutdown but billions shy of what President Clinton wants for domestic pro-

Congress moved on another front to head off an unprecedented and politically explosive federal default by voting to temporarily give the Treasury Department extra borrowing authority. But even with that issue solved for now, a yawning gap exists between the two sides over how to keep the government running.

Five months into fiscal 1996, the House voted 209-206 for a Republican-written measure financing dozens of government departments and agencies for the rest of the year. Temporary authority for these programs expires March 15, and without new funds there would be a third partial government shutdown since November — an unlikely outcome that neither party wants.

With moderate Republicans upset with low spending levels for some programs and abortion restrictions, GOP leaders lobbied hard all day to ensure the measure's passage. They argued that the bill will be changed in upcoming negotiations with the administration and the Senate, which debates it next week. A defeat would have left the impression that Republicans cannot govern effectively and complicated the path to a deal with the White House, the leaders said.

"Had we not passed it, the odds for closing down government would have been astronomically higher," House Appropriations Committee Chairperson Bob Livingston, R-La., told reporters.

Even so, the slim victory margin could weaken the hand of Republicans trying to give Clinton as little extra money as possible. Voting for the measure were 207 Republicans and two Democrats, while 21 Republicans, 184 Democrats and an independent voted "No." The 21 defecting Republicans were mostly a combination of moderates and freshmen.

First glimpse of solar system's outer limits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first surface photos of Pluto, the only solar system planet never visited by spacecraft, show it has icy polar caps, just like Earth, with clusters of dark spots and bright features.

Pluto, a frozen world now 29 times farther from the sun than is the Earth, resembles a soccer ball in the fuzzy pictures taken by the Hubble Space Telescope and released on Thursday by NASA.

Bright patches of white are probably caused by frozen nitrogen, said astronomer Alan Stern of the Southwest Research Institute in Boulder, Colo.

"We can see from the images that Pluto is the most variegated, contrasty object in the outer solar system," Stern said. The images reinforce astronomers' belief that Pluto is one of the strangest of the planets orbiting the sun, he said.

Jury deliberates on fate of 'Dr. Death'

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) - The jury in the assisted-suicide case against Dr. Jack Kevorkian began deliberating Thursday after his lawyer urged the panel not to make a crime out of "kindness and compassion."

Kevorkian, 67, could get up to four years in prison on each of the two counts in the deaths of two ailing patients who breathed carbon monoxide in 1993.

"We are about to make history," defense attorney Geoffrey Fieger said in closing arguments.

But prosecutor John Skrzynski, pointing to the black tanks that held the gas, said: "This stuff is not medicine. It's a toxin. It kills."

The key issue is Kevorkian's intent. The now-expired law under which he was charged exempts someone who provides medication or procedures that hasten death, long as the intent was to relieve pain and not to kill.

Arafat opens 1st Palestinian parliament, police raid Hamas institute

Associated Press

JERUSALEM - While his police agents showed off bomb-making gear and other confiscated terror tools, Yasser Arafat accused Islamic radicals Thursday of trying to "kill the Palestinian dream" just as it was beginning to come true.

Opening the historic first session of an elected Palestinian lawmaking council, Arafat lashed out at the Hamas campaign of suicide bombings that has killed 61 people since Feb. 25 and put the peace process with Israel in jeopardy.

But he also attacked Israelis for trying to halt the terror by barricading Palestinians inside their towns, saying the blockade was "like the occupation come back

Laying out an agenda for the legislators, he said the top priority was "to keep the peace and make it

"We must fight the terrorists and radicals on both sides," he said.

The opening of the parliament the first time an elected Palestinian legislature met on Palestinian soil - was supposed to be a step toward peace with Israel. The bombings have instead revived Israeli fears of Palestinians and produced demands for Arafat to crush the militants.

On Thursday, Palestinian police and Israeli troops worked in tandem to try to track down radicals from the Hamas group involved in four deadly explosions that killed 61 people in Jerusalem, Ashkelon and Tel Aviv.

As the Israelis raided a Hamasrun cultural center in Jerusalem and seized files and computers, Palestinian police arrested the center's director, Sheik Jamil Hamami, and took him to their headquarters in the West Bank town of Ghazi Jabali, head of the police in Gaza, said 500 men have been arrested in the West Bank and Gaza in the campaign to track down the bomb makers.

"We are now following anyone who has any kind of weapon," said Khaled Kidra, attorney general of Arafat's Palestinian Authority.

Clearly, the police raids and statements by Palestinian officials were meant to show that Arafat was cracking down on Hamas. But Palestinian police have detained only five of the 13 top Hamas leaders Israel wants arrested as one of its conditions for continued peace-

The day's events clearly illustrated the conflicting forces pulling Arafat apart - his desire to preserve his accords with Israel without appearing too submissive to Israeli demands.

The parliamentary session had all the trappings of independence: the Palestinian flag, the national anthem, an honor guard and Arab and Western dignitaries to lend legitimacy to the council.

Arafat desperately needed to surround himself with such symbols at a time when Israeli raids in the West Bank have eroded his authority among Palestinians.

But the suggestion of independence was belied by Israel's pressures on Arafat and by the Israeli army blockade of West Bank and Gaza towns — the harshest part of the crackdown on bomb suspects.

The roadblocks meant legislators from the West Bank had to be escorted to Gaza across Israel by Israeli border police Wednesday

And though Israel allowed movement of Palestinians Thursday, the West Bank lawmakers had to rush

PLAYGROUND TROUBLES

Court draws line in sandbox

Carolyn Thompson Associated Press

BOSTON - Three-year-old Jonathan had better not make little Stacy cry anymore. A judge has ssued a court order to make the little boy play "nice."

"Maybe it's a little emotional, maybe it's overprotective, but you do what you can," said Stacy's mother, Antonina Pevney, who filed for the restraining order with the claim that Jonathan kicked her daughter in the head.

The incident took place while the 3-year-olds were playing in the Charles River Park playground on the Charles River. Jonathan had bullied Stacy before, Pevnev said.

Pevnev went to court, asking that Jonathan - and his mother, Margareth Inge - not even be allowed in the playground while her daughter was there.

"I fear that both these people are violent and she applauds and encourages Jonathan to be violent, to fight and kick and to behave in a manner not becoming a responsible child," Pevnev wrote in her com-

On Monday, Superior Court Judge Charles Spurlock decided that the mothers must keep the children supervised and separated while at the playground.

Violators can be held in contempt of court, fined or even jailed - in theory, at least. But since it would be tough to prove a 3-year-old knowingly violated a court order, chances are that only the grownups would get punished.

Howard Speicher, the boy's lawyer, called the whole thing ludicrous and said it should never have left the playground.

Inge did not return a telephone message seeking comment.

Strip tease-less

■ The Coralville nude dance bar Dancers will soon close its doors leaving a void in the area for this type of entertainment.

ancers - a nude dance bar and an institution in the Iowa City/Coralville area for the past decade - is sadly closing its doors April 13. There is a definite need for a replacement. The building's owner has refused to extend the bar's lease, according to the workers at Dancers. This has nothing to do with the owner's moral objections against nude-dance clubs. Dancers was operating profitably and was paying a hefty rent, according to the same employ-

The speculation among workers at Dancers is that the owner's son may, in fact, open a new nude-dance bar. This would be a welcome development because the students and residents of the Iowa City/Coralville area need to have access to the unique entertainment one can only find at Dancers.

The atmosphere at a strip club is relaxed. It is unlike going to a downtown bar. Males in a strip bar do not try to impress women with the size of their biceps. A strip bar has a pseudo-realistic atmosphere to it. You can play pool and, at the same time, look around and see women walking around naked without anyone bothering them. In a strip bar, everybody can get close to the women on stage. Therefore, there is no competition among males. That is why the atmosphere is more relaxed and more honest than a conventional bar.

Unfortunately, a strip club cannot open next to a bar in downtown Iowa City. The location of Dancers in Coralville has a lot to do with Iowa City's stringent zoning laws. Here, an "adult business" such as

The atmosphere at a strip club is relaxed. It is unlike going to a downtown bar. Males in a strip bar do not try to impress women with the size of their biceps.

Dancers can only operate in the heavy industrial zone east of the airport. It also has to be 500 feet away from any restaurant or other adult business." Iowa City also has to issue a special exception to the zoning rules before any "adult business" can open even in the heavy industrial zone near the airport.

Dancers opened in Coralville because the zoning laws there are more relaxed. There is also less of the elite hostility towards nude bars in blue-collar Coralville than one finds in stuffy, politically-correct

Liberals in Iowa City would not let a strip bar open in the downtown area without a fight. Even without the zoning laws, there would still be an uproar if a strip club opened near campus. However, many people who criticize nude-dance bars have never been to one. They have huge misconceptions as to what goes on there. They wrongly think there is open sex.

Feminists are particularly hostile toward strip bars. They assert women are demeaned by dancing nude in front of a bunch of drunk guys. Nude dancers are certainly somewhat vulnerable to abuse by some men. However, the great majority of men in these clubs act like gentlemen towards the dancers.

You should check out the atmosphere at Dancers yourself or any other nude bar. Make up your minds, pro or con, regarding strip bars after you have been in one. Women, as well as men, are welcome at Dancers. Dancers, and the wonderful women who work there, will be

DI doing well on women's issues

To the Editor:

Kudos to the DI! Your inclusion of the Associated Press article on March 4 ("Taliban denies Afghan women rights") shows a sensitivity to women that is apparently lacking in the more mainstream press I am an economics major with a strong interest in women in development, especially vis à vis the United Nations, United Nations Development Program and the World Bank. The UNDP makes much of its newfound awareness of women's rights, and has even set up a web page describing many of their "accomplishments;" mostly forums conducted by and attended by women. This article seems to outline the general notion that most of this "concern" is so much lip service!

Women make up 70 percent of the world's poor and two-thirds of its illiterates. They occupy 14 percent of managerial and administrative jobs, 10 percent of parliamentary seats and 6 percent of cabinet positions. In Africa, approximately 80 percent of the food producers are women, yet they receive less than 10 percent of he credit to small farmers and only 1 percent of the total credit to agriculture. In 1990, multilateral banks allocated $5.8 billion for rural credit to developing countries, but only 5 percent reached rural women. ("Africa Recovery," Dec. 1995.)

Keep up the good work. I look forward to more articles which are relevant to the plight of the gross inequality toward women. Perhaps, some day, women will grow tired of simply sitting by the their way at our expense.

Kim Dupre-Life

Insecurity; not it

To the Editor:

In response to the viewpoint of Kristen Schutte in "Sick and tired of being P.C.," I wanted to write a few of my views. Schutte writes, "I'm sick of insecure people trying to make me sensitive to their feelings." Where does insecurity factor into the simple fact that all people deserve respect regardless of gender, race or religion? Being respectful in what you say is not a political statement, it's about being aware.

Furthermore, Schutte believes the use of Native Americans as team mascots "honors the courage of and strength this ethnic group of people exhibited." Really? As a member of the Meskwaki tribe, the very fact there are teams called "Redskins" or "Indians" offends me. Try walking up to me on the street and "honoring" me with the title "redskin." See what happens. Then try and explain to me how it is not degrading.

These teams do not honor my people. Rather, they make a mockery of my rich heritage and culture with their war paint, imitation feathers and tomahawk chops. Why not honor Europeans who came to this land with the title "whiteskins?"

A double standard is evident if any other racial or ethnic minority is put in this position. Schutte said, "Politically correct or not, a word is still just a word." This only proves what they say, "ignorance is bliss." Undoubtedly, people like Schutte must revel in this state of euphoria, while the rest of us in the educated community realize that behind every word there are meanings, connotations and attitudes. A word is not just a word.

One million miles away

Jon

Bassoff

I saw a photo on the front page of the paper the other day. A woman, whose face was burnt and bloody, was being held by a medic. The Jewish woman was wounded in Tel Aviv after a suicide bomber set off an explosive near a shopping mall on Sunday. The Israeli medic who was carrying her had a look of confusion and anger on his face.

I didn't read the article. I couldn't. Instead, I turned to the sports page. Israel is one million

This past summer, I visited Israel for the first time. My whole family decided it was time to go to our homeland. We spent two weeks in Jerusalem and a couple of days in Tel Aviv.

While tension certainly resonates from the dusty roads, I never felt unsafe while I was in Israel. Perhaps, it was because I was in the majority for once. I am Jewish.

Jerusalem is a remarkable city. The city is split into the "New Jerusalem" and the "Old Jerusalem." The New Jerusalem resembles a college town. Teen-agers seem to dominate the town. Music is playing all the time. It would be easy to mistake it for the University of Miami.

Just a half-mile away, in the old city, the dust of an unbelievable history resonates. One is ushered into a different time and place. The old markets still vibrate with commotion. The streets still carry the spirits of my ancestors who walked those same dirty roads thousands of years ago.

Throughout the city, I was struck by the sharp contrasts. In one part of town is the Muslim quarter. Walk a few steps and you are surrounded by the popular art work of Jesus in the Christian quarter. And walk a few more steps and you are in the Jewish quarter.

In the Jewish quarter, the Orthodox Jews stroll the streets, their heads down as if always in deep contemplation. Their paths are frequently crossed by strong, young soldiers with guns hanging from their shoulders. Jews all.

While tension certainly resonates from the dusty roads, I never felt unsafe while I was in Israel. Perhaps, it was because I was in the majority for once. I am Jewish. Most people in Israel are Jewish. The guns the soldiers held were never pointed at me. They were on my Israel is the Jewish nation-state. All Jews are welcome. Just by visiting Israel, any Jew can immediately become a citizen of Israel. Ethiopian and Russian Jews have been big immigrants in recent years.

Still, I never felt very comfortable in Israel. I felt safe, but I didn't feel comfortable. I felt like a stranger in my home country. I don't speak Hebrew. I am not in the Israel army. I live in the secular Midwest of the United States. Iowa City is a long way from Jerusalem. A long way.

As I looked into the eyes of all of my "brothers and sisters," I saw faces I didn't recognize. I... saw eyes that had seen things I would never see. I felt souls that felt things I would never feel. The experiences these people had had, I would never be able to understand. I would never er understand it from my padded seat in Iowa.

I am Jewish by definition. Both my parents are Jewish. We celebrate Passover and Chanukah. But I don't know exactly what it all means. I know it means something, but I'm not

I know I share certain things in common with other Jews. I know what it is like to feel like I'm in a minority. I know what it is like to feel like I don't fit in at times. We know a few of the same prayers. But that is about it. My Jewish. experience in Iowa is not the same as the Jewish experience in Israel.

If I had grown up in a different time or place, things would obviously be different. My grandmother lived in Nazi-controlled Europe during the '30s and '40s. When I look into her eyes, I can see the ghosts of her past. That experience is probably buried somewhere inside of me. At times, I want that experience to be a bigger part of who I am.

As I stared at the newspaper at the two Jews, I was struck by the looks of agony. The agony came from experiences I would never know. Still, I was able to understand the feeling of pain. Pain is the one experience all humans are able to understand.

I turned to the sports pages and tried not to think about the pain. And I tried to remind myself that Israel is one million miles away.

Police officers act as 'overseers'

I never thought I'd quote Flava Flav, but he wasn't lying when he said "911 is a joke." Through my experiences with police officers in Africana communities they are often referred to as overseers - I've realized many choose exactly who they want to protect and serve.

My experiences may seem trivial to some people, but you must look at where I come from. I am an Iowa girl. (We can keep that quiet.) Iowa is a utopia. No big cities. No high crime rates. No big drug rings. So, it can be assumed that Africana people in larger cities have these kinds of experiences on a much greater scale.

The first incident that I remember was when was about 11 years old. I was at my Granny's house with all my aunts, uncles and cousins. The adults had gone shopping, so just the kids were home. My cousin, who has sickle cell anemia, started to have a seizure. We immediately called 911 so my cousin could be rushed to the hospital. The 911 operator got the information and then asked for the address. When he heard "Sixth Street" (the Black part of town - yes, Davenport does have one), his tone suddenly changed. "Why doesn't anybody drive him here?" he asked. We explained the car was gone at the moment. "So basically what you want is a free ride to the hospital?" The medics reluctantly arrived about an hour later.

Being 11 years old, it didn't register that racism played a part in the long delay of the ambulance. I thought they got lost. But an event that occurred almost two years ago affected me so deeply that I'll never be able to view overseers the same.

"Sarge, here's the deal. There's a 17-year-old black male and a 19-year-old Hispanic female," the rookie overseer said.

"Have we determined the cause of death?" the sergeant overseer asked

"Well, what kind of gun was it?" the sergeant "That's the funny thing. There was no gun to be found. And the people who were in the house don't know a thing," the rookie overseer answered. "There were people in the house?" the sergeant overseer asked. "Did they hear or see "No," the rookie overseer replied. "There were six people in the house and they all said they ran outside when they heard the gunshots. We checked everyone for gun-powder residue and no one had any on them. Neither of the victims had powder on their hands. There must have been another person."

"They have to know something," the sergeant overseer said. "How long ago did all of this happen?" "Only about an hour ago. The victims' families are outside and they want some answers," the rookie overseer said. "Try to wrap this up in another hour. There's not much we can do," the sergeant overseer

here to do the DNA tests on the blood droplets and dust for fingerprints on the window," the rookie overseer said. "Then we'll need to question the witnesses again. This is going to take a long time, Sarge. And we still have to find the murder weapon!'

"Listen, rookie," the sergeant overseer yelled," "you have a black boy and a little Hispanic girl dead. Both have a single gunshot wound to the head. Didn't the people say these two argued all the time? Then it must have been a murder-suicide. Case closed."

"But, if it's a murder-suicide, shouldn't the weapon still be on the crime scene?"

"Not if someone came in and stole it," the sergeant overseer said with a wink. "Oh, I see," the rookie overseer replied. "Not bad for my first murder investigation!' The overseers walked out of the house and announced to my family and me that my cousin shot his girlfriend and then shot himself. It didn't take long to figure out why the overseers only spent a total of two hours investigating the murder. The lack of concern for the deaths proved that their lives had not been valued.

So, as you see, the overseers have been "influencing" my life for a while. As I've said before," these incidents may not be as significant as the great overseers who beat Rodney King or the recent overseers who "accidentally" suffocated Johnny Gammarage. But constantly being told or reminded that you and your people are of little significance, or that you have to be constant ly watched and monitored, reiterates the enormous oppression which faces Africana people.

The great forces who are suppose to "protect" and serve" merely patrol and molest Africana communities.

"We still have to get a special investigator in Tysie McDowell's column appears Fridays on the

Protecting the forests To the Editor:

The mission of the UI Rainforest and Action Group is the protection of the world's temperate and tropical rain forests, their plant and animal species and the indigenous people within. We accomplish this through financial assistance, education outreach and direct, non-violent action. Our world's rain forests are being destroyed at the hands of timber companies who only see dollars fluttering in the breeze, not leaves. These companies receive funding from corporations who take in a large percentage of profits from the sale of tropical timber. Nearly half this timber is sold to the United States

Mitsubishi Corporation is the largest corporate destroyer of the world's rain forests. It owns stock in and sometimes entire timber companies, and gives these companies money to go into rain forests and extract huge amounts of tropical timber. They do not replant what they take away, and 5000-yearold forests cannot be replaced anyway. Mitsubishi is currently involved in 12 different countries. In Alberta, Canada, the corporation owns a timber company which makes disposable chopsticks. Because this wood must have a standard of brightness in order to be used, over 85 percent of the wood in this company is wasted. In Siberia, Mitsubishi is logging in the temperate rain forest, the fir and hemlock trees, endangering the last 200 white Siberian tigers in the process. And in Malaysia, Mitsubishi has almost succeeded in cutting the last area of oldgrowth forest; only a fraction remains of what was once a dense rain forest. The Penan people, who live in the area of Sarawak, Malaysia, are some of the remaining indigenous forest dwellers in the world. When the forest is gone, they will die.

Last year, the UI Rainforest and Action Group passed a resolution before the UI Student Government stating the UI "should not purchase Mitsubishi products until they stop their unsustainable logging practices." By purchasing Mitsubishi automobiles and electronic equipment, we are supporting Mitsubishi's other activities in the rain forests. It is only by refusing to purchase the corporation's products that the message will be sent to Mitsubishi loud and clear: STAY OUT OF THE FORESTS!

Perhaps you have heard about the petitions our group has been circulating for the past year boycotting Mitsubishi. Maybe you have even signed. For those of you learning about the corporation's activities for the first time, it is very simple: Mitsubishi destroys rain forests. You can help stop it. Help put pressure on this multinational corporation by refusing to purchase its products. If you already own a Mitsubishi, write the corporation a letter explaining you are now aware of its destructive activities and will not purchase its products until it removes itself from the forests. Mitsubishi is an enormous corporation. It will not listen to us unless we join together to pull it down. I will not sacrifice trees for tele-

Computer fees enough To the Editor:

Beware of new developments in the university e-mail system. According to the article, "Modem Users have busy signal reprieve," (Feb. 27), UI's Information Technology Services (ITS) has chosen telecommunications giant MCI to set up an additional pool of modems to handle the overload from dial-in modems. The catch is the $12per-month fee for 60 hours of service.

William Decker, associate vice president and director for ITS, correctly pointed out that the service for dial-in is not without cost and currently becomes easily overloaded due to some 20,000 students, faculty and staff accounts. He also mentioned that the upcoming additional cost can be avoided by using on-campus terminals and avoiding dialing in.

There are a few concerns I have about this new development. First, it unfairly penalizes those of us who do not live in a dormitory or are near a university terminal cluster. Is it the university's intent to provide 20,000 computer terminals so we can avoid another monthly fee, dial-in problems and access for all! Indeed, many students work at home with their own computers to avoid the already-crowded ter-

Support one another To the Editor:

On Feb. 10, at an event sponsored by the Christian Coalition, six Republican candidates for president gathered to defend the "institution of marriage" against a threat so serious that Pat Buchanan saluted his audience as the 'warriors of Fort Des Moines."

What is this threat to marriage and the sanctity of the American home? Did Lamar Alexander, Buchanan, Bob Dornan, Phil Gramm, Alan Keyes and Richard Lugar come to Des Moines — Bob Dole sent a letter of support — to speak out against cuts in wages and benefits, unemployment and overwork that are the reality for growing numbers of people in the United States? Surely, the deteriorating economic conditions faced by millions of people (including nurses who face downsizing at the UI Hospitals and Clinics) place a terrible strain on their relationships to partners, family members, friends and co-workers.

.But no, it isn't economic attacks on ordinary Americans that brought the Republicans to Des Moines, their fur caps on their heads and rifles at the ready. The threat to marriage and the home, they claimed, is a law pending in Hawaii that would legalize same-sex marriages. In response to this "threat," the Republican candidates lent their support to a bill in the Iowa Legislature to overrule the Hawaii law and keep lowa safe for homophobic bigotry.

That bill has now passed. The effort of lowa legislators and Republican presidential candidates to deny gays and lesbians public recognition of their relationships should fill us with disgust and concern. We should be disgusted that politicians, once again, have chosen the politics of fear and hatred over serious discussion of the problems which face us all regardless of sexual preference, gender, race or national origin. And we should feel deep concern about this most recent effort to legislate our pri-

To fight the Republican attack on human rights, we cannot rely on Clinton and Democrats, whose best answer to homophobia in the military was the "don't ask, don't tell" rule. The way to fight attacks on homosexuals and bisexuals, welfare recipients, undocumented workers, women, minorities and working people everywhere is to support each other in our common struggle for a just society.

minal clusters with limited hours. Secondly, this seems to be yet another small fee that plagues students and, in this case, would amount to $144 per year. For those looking for a comparison, this would be more than enough for renter's insurance for a year. Next, I am also concerned with the university showing preference with a particular private, for-profit company. I do not recall within in the article any promises of keeping this fee static or keeping it low over time. In other words, the fee could easily rise at the direction of MCI, adding more cost to student

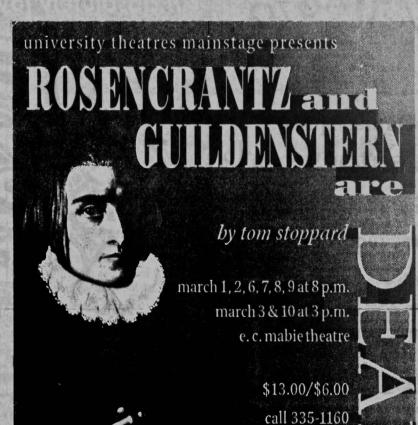

Finally, supporting the move to charge for e-mail and for dial-in modems sends a message saying it takes a little extra money to take advantage of a system which is free for some due to their proximity to cam-

In essence, it would seem the university has chosen to privatize certain parts of its services. In doing so, there will be added school-related costs for some because they choose not to live in a dormitory, while simultaneously providing a potential business of some 20,000 people to a particular telecommunications company. Perhaps I am just upset that I will have to pay for yet another university service. But I think there are other fellow students who might have similar feelings and are just as concerned as I am.

are flat-tax boosters.

Forbes was hoping the endorsement from Kemp — a Buffalo, N.Y. native and former quarterback for the Bills — would improve his chances in Thursday's New York primary. But the nod from Kemp did not come until two days before the election, and it had little effect.

If Kemp would have endorsed Forbes months ago, Kemp's stilllarge number of supporters - he ran for president himself in 1988 could have worked for Forbes.

The timing of Kemp's endorsement is troublesome for another reason. It came at a time when Dole seemingly had the nomination wrapped up. Thus, it came at a time to cause maximum anger in Dole. Kemp said a high-level GOP for months. Both Kemp and Forbes official told him he is "finished" as "It won't change my campaign. It might change Jack's," Dole said, perhaps hinting that Kemp is out of the running to be Dole's vicepresidential running mate.

Speaking of VPs

Since Dole's "price" on the Iowa Electronic Market has increased from 56 cents a share to 91.6 cents in the last two weeks. Professor Bob Forsythe and his colleagues in the business college need to start a GOP vice-presidential market.

With the GOP presidential market so one-sided, investors need another contest for their portfolios.

Here is an early line on potential vice-presidential selections:

Colin Powell: Powell would be a dream choice for Dole, but the retired general said he does not want to be on the ticket. Powell's pro-choice views would also upset anti-abortion activists in the party.

Rudy Giuliani: Giuliani is the first Republican mayor of New York in a generation. He is popular in the city and could help Dole in a state Clinton is expected to win. However, some party activists may think he is too liberal.

Carroll Campbell: The former governor of South Carolina scored big points when Dole won his state. But few voters outside the South know who he is, and Dole needs no help to win South Carolina. Clinton won't win a single state on the NASCAR circuit.

A DIFFERENT EDUCATION

A typical day for Mellen students will involve reading and discussion as a group, computer work, physical education and eating together, Will said. Cutting out many of the activities typically associated with undergraduate learning is what makes Mellen inexpensive.

"There's a contemporary need for a fast-paced education at a low price," he said.

The administration already has recruits in mind, Will said. "There are four people who are pretty clearly going to join us from around here," he said. Other students will come from Mellen University's campus in the Caribbean.

There will be no papers at Mellen; instead students will write creative pieces on books, Will said. A science requirement is also part of the curriculum, as well as a month-long internship at Mellen Publishing in New York

Will has been retired from teaching for about 15 years. Disinterested students were a factor in his decision to take a break, he said.

"I was teaching a short story class, and there was a certain girl who chewed bubble gum in the front of the room," he said. "One day she did a big bubble; she was a real zaphead. I thought then that and the marketplace is big enough at the end of the semester I'd find something else to do."

He is joined in the endeavor by Herb Richardson, who is a former theology professor and the founder of Edwin Mellen Press in Lewiston,

Will described Richardson as a "brilliant scholar ... full of ideas."

There are some similarities between Mellen Honors University and nearby Cornell College in Mt. Vernon. Both schools are based on intensive three-week courses, with small classes. Mellen students will be eligible to use the Cornell library, which is also Mt. Vernon's public library.

But there's no competition between the schools, said Cornell President Les Garner.

They're offering an alternative, to support all kinds of alternatives," he said.

UI Dean of Students Phillip Jones said the term "university" refers to a wide range of learning experiences, in both cognitive development and affective learning, Mellen Honors University, he said, provides a different kind of education.

"A university has diversity of academic pursuit, as well as a universe that's broad in its learning opportunities," he said. Don Swenson, guidance coun-

COLLEGE BASKETBALL Floyd takes Big Eight's top

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - This was supposed to be a bite-the-bullet year for lowa State. Instead, the Cyclones' foes were biting their nails. Shrugging off the loss of their top nine scorers from the year before, they won 20 games and finished second to Kansas in the Big Eight race. You might think Tim Floyd did a pretty good job of coaching. The 16 voters on The Associated Press all-Big Eight panel thought so, making the Cyclones' secondyear man a unanimous choice for AP Big Eight coach of the year.

"The job Tim Floyd did this year was masterful," Kansas coach Roy Williams said.

When told of the honor, Floyd was nearly speechless.

"I don't know what to say. We've always been very team-oriented. My assistant coaches did a great job for us. It was truly a team effort."

Vaughn named Big Eight player of the year

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) -Hardly anything irritates Jacque Vaughn more than somebody giving a report of a basketball game and only talking about the high scorers.

"So many times, there are other things that are more relevant," he said. "Who scores a lot of points doesn't necessarily tell the story of the game."

Fortunately for Vaughn, voters on the Associated Press panel see the sport as he does. By a vote of 10-5 over Oklahoma's Ryan Minor, the league's scoring champion, Vaughn was named the AP's Big Eight player of the year.

GREAT GAME, BUT ..

Kingsbury, What were you thinking?

Not since Arnold Schwarzeneg ger decided to become the Last Action Hero has someone missed as badly as Chris Kingsbury did Wednesday night during Iowa's 72-64 loss to Minnesota. After being tossed aside by Gopher defender in the second half, Kingsbury, presumably out of frustration, put up a 3-point shot that NASA picked up then lost - on its radar, after the ball strayed from its target.

What makes the situation so frustrating is that Kingsbury, the Bad Boy Bomber of the Hawkeyes, was playing so well before he reverted to his old, uncontrollable

Wednesday, at least statistically, was Kingsbury's best game since returning from his three-game suspension for living out many Iowa fans' fantasy of taking a swing at Penn State's Dan Earl.

Personally, I think Kingsbury should have been suspended again for not taking a swing at Illinois guard Matt Heldman when he had the chance. Maybe if we face the Illini in the tournament ... oh wait, never mind. I forgot. Illinois won't be going to the NCAA tournament.

Anyway, I digress. Kingsbury connected on four-of-seven 3-pointers and finished with 16 points. He played smart, barring that transcontinental shot he launched, and passed the ball to open team-

Hawks' load doesn't lighten up tonight

Chris James

The Daily Iowan

After getting stung last week in East Lansing, Mich., by the Spartans and top-ranked Ohio State, the Iowa men's gymnastics team looks to regroup at home today when it hosts No. 7 Illinois-Chicago.

Iowa coach Tom Dunn said he isn't concerned that last week's losses will carry over to tonight's 7 p.m. clash with the nationally ranked Flames.

"Last week was last week," Dunn said. "We're ready to get back out there and perform like we have all year. Jay's coming back this week and I expect us to be confident and I expect us to win."

Jay Thornton will compete for the first time since a Hawkeye victory at Minnesota nearly a month ago. Nagging injuries have kept Thornton on the sideline, but teammate Aaron Cotter said he's glad to have the two-time all-American back.

"It will be good to have Jay back," Cotter said. "We definitely need him for Friday's meet. It seems like every time we get back to being healthy something happens to someone else."

Senior Hugh Lau injured his finger at last week's triangular meet and is doubtful for tonight's meet. This is the last home dual meet for

The Hawkeyes are ready for a little home cooking after being burnt at Iowa State.

The Iowa women's gymnastics team hosts Big Eight squad Oklahoma, Saturday at 7 p.m.

The Hawkeyes will try to bounce back after falling to the rival Cyclones, 193.975-190.400.

It was a disappointing loss since the Hawkeyes were gunning for Iowa State all week.

"It was a tough loss, and we're trying to have a little more consistency," senior Kim Baker said.

Against ISU, the Hawkeyes were led by Lori Whitwer, who finished first in the all-around with a 38.75. Whitwer hit a 9.800 on the bars and a 9.500 on the vault.

Hawks center Christian Laettner (32) is double-teamed by Chris Mills, left, and Tyrone Hill of the Cavaliers Thursday.

Scoreless streak doesn't halt Hawks

Associated Press

CLEVELAND — The Atlanta Hawks went scoreless for more than five minutes late in the fourth quarter Thursday night but still sent the Cleveland Cavaliers to their fourth straight loss, 83-72.

The drought lasted from Steve Smith's 3-pointer, which put the Hawks up 79-68 with 5:42 left, until Grant Long made a layup with 16.9 seconds to play.

The Cavs, however, couldn't capitalize, scoring only four points in those same five minutes. Cleveland hasn't won since losing starting guards Terrell Brandon and Bobby Phills to

Christian Laettner had 22 points, Long had 20 points and 12 rebounds and Smith scored 16 for the Hawks, who have won

CHARLOTTE, N.C. - Anthony Goldwire replaced Kenny Anderson at point guard and had the best game of his NBA career Thursday night as Charlotte snapped a four-game losing skid with a 119-105 victory over Dal-Goldwire, who finished with 20 points and 15 assists, was pressed into duty because Anderson sprained his right ankle two days earlier and was placed on the injured list. Goldwire was playing his 19th game for the Hornets after spending 1 1/2 seasons in the CBA.

Larry Johnson had a tripledouble with 21 points, 10 rebounds and 10 assists and Matt Geiger had 20 points and 15 rebounds.

The Hornets had a 49-31 rebounding edge over a Dallas team that frequently used a fourguard lineup.

The Hornets were coming off their worst loss of the season, 123-97 to Orlando on Tuesday.

Tony Dumas had 28 points and Jason Kidd 16 for Dallas, which was outscored 60-36 in the paint. The Mavericks, who tied an NBA record Tuesday by making 18 three-pointers and set a record by putting up 49, couldn't get their outside game going as they went just 10-of-35 on 3-pointers.

Bulls 102, Pistons 81

CHICAGO - Michael Jordan went on a scoring binge Thursday night, hitting for 53 points the most in the NBA this season — as the Chicago Bulls routed the Detroit Pistons 102-81 to go 30-0 at home this season.

The previous high this season was 51 by Hakeem Olajuwon, Karl Malone and Mahmoud Abdul-Rauf.

Jordan scored at least 50 for the 34th time in his career. It was his biggest output since going for 55 against the Knicks last March shortly after coming out of retirement.

Jordan made 21 of 28 shots and scored 34 in the second half against the Pistons and former coach Doug Collins.

Collins, fired by the Bulls after the 1988-89 season, was making his NBA coaching return to

The Bulls' 30-0 start at home matches the NBA mark established this season by Orlando. Chicago also has won 37 straight regular-season home games dating back to last season. That ties the Magic and is one shy of the NBA record set by the Boston Celtics from December of 1985 to November of 1986.

Nuggets 103, Suns 92

DENVER — Dale Ellis came off the bench to score a seasonhigh 33 points, going 5-of-7 from 3-point range, and the Denver Nuggets beat the Phoenix Suns 103-92 Thursday night.

The Nuggets outshot Phoenix 48 percent to 40 percent and had a 54-27 rebounding advantage, but they couldn't pull away until the final five minutes when they outscored the Suns 15-5. Jalen Rose added 17 points on 7-of-9 shooting, Tom Hammonds had 12 points on 6-of-8 shooting and Dikembe Mutombo had 11 points, 10 rebounds and eight blocked shots. Charles Barkley led Phoenix with 26 points and Kevin Johnson had 21.

The Suns lost Danny Manning for five minutes of the final quarter when he was hit on the back of the head by a falling teammate and suffered a bruised

Hawks shoot for yet another opener

David Schwartz

The Daily Iowan

It's the opening of the Iowa baseball season ... take two.

After last week's disappointing rainout of what was supposed to be the Hawkeyes' season opener at Kansas, Iowa will travel to Murray, Ky., to battle with Murray State.

Murray State has gotten its feet wet, already compiling a 4-9 record. The Thoroughbreds lost their first five games of the season before recovering to go .500 for their next eight.

Iowa and Murray State are scheduled to play three games; a doubleheader Saturday and a 1 p.m. finale Sunday afternoon.

"We have practiced and prepared as much as possible and the best thing for us now is just game experience," Iowa coach Duane Banks be moving back to old positions, as is the case with junior C.J. Thieleke, or learning new ones. After playing third base last season, Thieleke goes back to second, the position he played en route to the Big Ten Freshman of the Year award he won in '94.

However, expressing a need for game experience and actually getting it are worlds apart. Only two Hawkeyes from last season's 29-24 squad are starting at the same position, shortstop Eric Martinez and centerfielder John Ostwald.

"Everybody is excited to play," Banks said. "Hopefully we will be able to get all three games in at Murray State.'

Yet it may not be Iowa's hitting, but pitching that makes the biggest difference against the Thoroughbreds. In 13 games, Murray State catcher Tom O'Brien is batting a nifty .395 to go along with 11 RBI and a home run.

Murray State's top pitcher is senior Keith Gallagher. He's earned credit for three of the team's four wins, while posting an ERA below four.

And if the Hawkeyes are going to get to Gallagher, or any other Thoroughbred pitcher for that matter, the second inning may be their

Grant to represent Iowa at NCAA indoors

Chris James

The Daily Iowan

Iowa women's track coach Jerry Hassard was "Granted" his wish to have the Hawkeyes represented at the NCAA indoor track and field championships this weekend in Indianapolis.

Iowa junior Ellen Grant will attempt to capture the 400-meter dash championship for Iowa, adding to her list of 400-meter dash titles.

Grant won the 1994 and 1995 Junior College championship in the 400-meter dash in both indoor and outdoor track. She was also a silver medalist in the 1993 Pan-American Junior Championships in the same Hassard said Grant could very easily bring home the 400-meter title from Indianapolis.

"She can be downright dominating sometimes," Hassard said.

"Ellen is a very talented runner and I'm very proud to have her representing Iowa at the NCAA Championships. It would be very special if she won the 400-meter dash," Hassard said.

Grant, from Manchester, Jamaica, qualified for the meet last week in Ames. She won the 400-meter dash with a season best time of 52.95. It is the second fastest time recorded by a collegiate woman this season. Her personal best time in the 400

The 200-meter track in the RCA Dome in Indianapolis is one of the fastest indoor tracks in the country. Hassard said it will be to Grant's advantage to have a banked board track.

"Those types of tracks are typically very fast. Ellen has one of the best environments in indoor track to help her win the title," Hassard said.

COLLEGE ROUNDUP

The Tark creeps closer to tourney

Associated Press

Tark the Shark is making another run at the NCAA tournament.

After a three-year absence from college coaching, Jerry Tarkanian is back — and leading Fresno State closer and closer to an automatic bid into the NCAAs.

Dominick Young scored 24 points and Kendrick Brooks had 18, including five 3-pointers apiece, as the Bulldogs beat Wyoming 91-82 in the quarterfinals of the WAC tournament.

Fresno State offset a tournament-tying 33 points from the Cowboys' LaDrell Whitehead.

By moving into a semifinal against the winner of Thursday night's New Mexico-San Diego State game, the Bulldogs (20-9) are set to give Tarkanian a 17th appearance in the NCAAs. If they win the WAC, they're in; if they don't, it could be another showdown with the NCAA, whose selection committee would have to invite them.

Before the tournament, Tarkanian said his team needed to reach the WAC final for a shot at the NCAAs.

"There was a time in November when I wondered if I would get five wins this season," said Tarkanian, whose team lost four of its first seven games.

Elsewhere, some of the nation's top teams advanced in their conference tournaments.

In the Big East, No. 3 Connecticut beat Seton Hall 79-58 and No. 15 Syracuse defeated Boston College 69-61. UConn plays Syracuse in Friday's semifinals.

In the Atlantic-10 quarterfinals, No. 2 Massachusetts downed St. Bonaventure 69-56 and Temple topped Xavier 67-50.

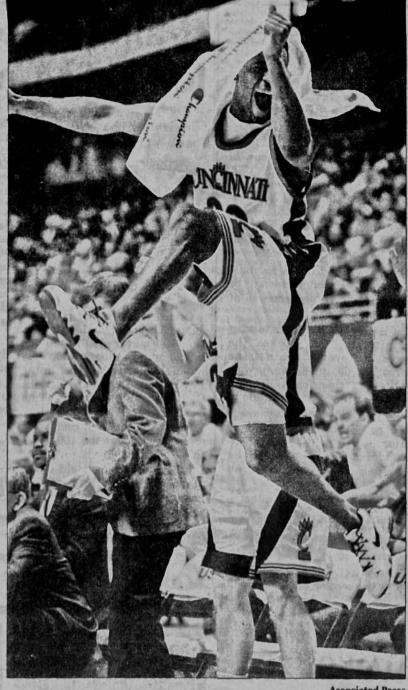

In Conference USA, where the winner does not get an automatic NCAA bid, No. 22 Louisville dropped Tulane 98-76 and No. 8 Cincinnati edged Saint Louis 62-59

Elsewhere, it was Florida 75, Mississippi 62 and Auburn 68, Vanderbilt 65 in the first-round of the SEC tournament; Texas 86, Baylor 65 and SMU 63, Houston 57 in the SWC tournament.

Later Thursday, it was Boston University at Drexel for the North Atlantic Conference title, Florida State vs. North Carolina State in the first round of the ACC at Greensboro, N.C., No. 15 Virginia Tech vs. Rhode Island and George Washington vs. St. Joseph's in the A-10 quarterfinals.

Also, it was Idaho at Montana and Idaho State at Boise State in the Big Sky, No. 21 Marquette vs. South Florida and No. 14 Memphis vs. DePaul in Conference USA quarterfinals, South Carolina vs. LSU and Alabama vs. Tennessee in the first round of the SEC.

ATLANTIC 10 At Philadelphia

Cincinnati's Melvin Levett leaps as his team defeats St. Louis in overtime in second round play of the Conference USA Championship.

Bonaventure 56

Carmelo Travieso scored 19 of his 21 points in the first-half and Donta Bright added 15 second-half points as UMass (29-1) cruised despite only 12 points from Camby. Rashaan Palmer led the Bonnies (10-18) with 21 points. Temple 67, Xavier 50

Levan Alston scored 17 points SOUTHEASTERN and the Owls (18-11) held the Musketeers (13-15) to its lowest point total of the season. Temple went on an 11-0 run early in the second half and built a lead as large as 24

BIG EAST At New York

No. 3 Connecticut 79, Seton

Doron Sheffer had 19 points and Travis Knight had 19 rebounds as UConn (28-2) won despite 11 points from Ray Allen, half his average. Kirk King grabbed 12 rebounds.

NEW YORK - Peter Scolari's career carries an asterisk in some people's minds.

And after all these years, the actor wishes those folks would baseball eventually did with ready. That's all." Roger Maris.

"I love this Maris-Ruth discussion. I could have it all day," Scolari says, warming to the analogy that "the asterisk markers" stigmatized Maris' achievement of hitting 61 home runs in one year Babe Ruth hit 60 in a shorter sea-

Scolari's Ruth is Tom Hanks, the Hollywood heavy hitter.

They started out together as scrabbling young actors in the 1980-82 ABC series "Bosom Buddies." The series became a cult fave, Hanks went on to win backto-back best-actor Oscars.

And Scolari ... well, he's most remembered as the smarmy, pretentious Michael on "Newhart" for which he received four Emmy nominations between 1984 and son," Scolari said matter-of-factly.

"As for comparisons, I don't know. Gee. Tom's a better actor than me, there's your comparison."

Former "Bosom Buddies" co-star, Peter Scolari on his co-star, Tom Hanks

On Saturday at 10 p.m. EST, he's back on television starring in ment Network's recurrent owing. "Clairol on Broadway" series. (The show, taped at a Muskegon, Mich., theater, airs again at 9 a.m. Sunday.)

He sings, dances and juggles in the role Anthony Newley originated in the 1961 musical, which includes the songs "Once in a Lifetime," "What Kind of Fool Am I?" and "Gonna Build a Moun-

The 41-year-old Scolari, who lives in Ojai, Calif., with his wife machinery can work for a career and two sons, says he's trying to pursue stage work, swearing off TV for a while. (His last series, "Dweebs," in which he played a Bill Gates type, was short-lived.)

He says it's "not a snob thing" about television. In fact, he kids about how he easily could return to the medium on which he's had two well-regarded series.

"Oh, sure. I'm a slut," he said in

that's S-L-U-T."

In the past, he's groused about being "bypassed" for films. But now he amends that self-assess-

"No. 'Bypassed?' I don't think I can live with that ... at this time just forget about it, as the lords of of my life. I don't think I was Looming over all of it, however, has been Hanks' superstardom.

Scolari said he's told Hanks over the years: "This isn't altogether that easy, my friend, you going through the roof."

Hanks has been understanding by footnoting it with the fact that and supportive, Scolari said, but unfortunately, others have made too much of how they once stood in the starting blocks together.

He felt particularly hurt by a Los Angeles Times article last year that made a big deal of the Scolari feels lucky and successful while having nothing but admiration and respect for Hanks and his work.

"It's almost an impossible thing for me to ask myself, regarding the last 10 or 12 years. There are fun stories and anecdotes, about Tom and I at the callback for 'Splash' in 1983, and me looking at him going 'What the hell you doin' here?' (and Hanks saying) 'What are you doing here?'

"Much more important than anything to do with show business, and actors and our performances and our careers and where they go and haven't gone and might go, is friendship."

All of the nice words aside, Sco-"Stop The World, I Want to Get lari says he doesn't mean to Off," part of Arts & Entertain- equivocate about any overshad-

And that public relations or against it, he noted.

He still remembers "the one really terrible review" he has received in his 21 years as an actor. It came when he was 20. "And I'm still in shock, because I remember that one sentence." The critic said he played "with a sense of menace that never paid off dramatically."

"I thought, 'Oh my God, I a telephone interview from the chewed every bit of scenery on West Coast. "Come on. Let's not the stage. Whaddya mean it nevmince words. I'm glad that I'm er paid off?" Gallery tour spotlights local artists for International Women's Month

Kelly Shaughnessy

The Daily Iowan

In celebration of International Women's Month, ARTS Iowa City Center and Gallery, 129 E. Washington St., has featured exhibits from different women throughout the gallery. The new exhibition opened March 5 and will run through March 30.

The exhibition features the installation of two women, Naomi Schedl and Karin Connelly.

"They present opposing sides of the impact of pollution on the river," said Shirley Wyrick, president of ARTS Iowa City. "One is very beautiful, and the other seems to be a metaphor towards life."

Schedl is a nationally known artist from South Africa who has exhibited her work in Japan and a number of places around the country. She is the former president of the Johnson County Arts Council.

Opposing exhibitor Connelly is a former student of Schedl's and a UI graduate. She is now an English instructor at Grinnell College.

"(Connelly) likes to be known as a cultural worker rather than an artist," Wyrick said. "She likes dealing with social issues. She says, 'It's not so much about the quality of life, but it's the quantity

Also featured at the gallery is a video installation by Mara McCann titled "On My Body." McCann is a UI inter-media graduate student who has taken on the theme of women's bodies.

"They present opposing sides of the impact of pollution on the river. One is very beautiful, and the other seems to be a metaphor towards life."

Shirley Wyrick, president of ARTS Iowa City

a "(McCann) is challenging what a has been known as the traditional form of beauty," said Dianne Kaufman, coordinator of ARTS Iowa Also featured is Printmaking Women of Iowa City, is a collaboration of work from six women who live in Iowa City and have worked together for several years out of the Robert A. Lee Community Recreation Center's printmaking facility, under the instruction of Duffy O'Conner.

The artists are: Mary Gail Bentz, Barbara Buckley, Jean Soper Cater, Dorothy Durrenberger, Jane Huit and Ruth Muir.

"We all have enjoyed working together for many years," Bentz said. "Over the years we have gradually developed into different types of art."

ARTS Iowa City wants to give people an opportunity to view their work seriously, Kaufmann said.

"The exhibit is a reflection on a group of women that have seriously worked at art for many years," Kaufman said. "It is also a great reflection on community." It shouldn't take you long to figure out that if you're going to be in Chicago for the summer and are thinking about taking a
