Financial aid processing stalled
UI students left hanging as they wait for loan notification

UI junior Melis Cash said she was "frustrated and angry" by the delay because she usually receives her loan check in early May.

"I try to apply as early as I can, but it takes so long to get through," she said. "I'm glad they're finally able to start it, but this is ridiculous." See FINANCIAL AID, Page 7A.

"Actually, it's pretty nice," Lind, the first American woman to live on Mir, said on April 4 at the University of California at Berkeley. "I'm working and communicating well with my new friends, and eating a lot of chicken."

The 53-year-old hirsute and bespectacled Lind, known professionally as Svetlana Savitskaya, arrived at Mir aboard a space shuttle on March 19 after a two-month journey from the United States.

Her apartment is located on the 16th floor of the Soyuz rocket, one of the three stations that make up the space station.

"We've been working and communicating well with our new friends," Lind said.

She added that she was "looking forward to spending time with my new friends and to continue to share my experiences with them."

The news of Crayola crayons is that 'there is no place' for "safety," according to author Peter Zimring of the University of California, Berkeley.

"If we are afraid of making mistakes or having a death in child care, we have a death," said Zimring.

"I don't think that's a zero-sum game," said Zimring. "There is a real relationship between crime and public safety."

While the homicide rate in the United States is many times higher than that of child care, there is no indication that child care is more dangerous to children then it is in most cities.

"What it is that we are afraid of is our streets, but it is our street," said Zimring.

In contrast to the United States, child care in Canada is perceived as safer.

"The United States is a country where there is a lot of violence," said Zimring. "We have to be careful in our assumptions about what is safer."

California Supreme Court upholds abortion law

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The state Supreme Court Thursday upheld a 1993 law requiring untrained persons to obtain parental consent or a judge’s approval before allowing an abortion.

A spokesman for state Attorney General Dan Lungren cited the 4-3 ruling. Details of the case were not available immediately.

The case stemmed from an unverified claim under 18, living at home, may request an abortion. However, it must be done so an abortion be performed.

Two officers die in helicopter crash

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — A pilot and a co-pilot were killed when a Coast Guard helicopter went down near a West Virginia marina where a fire had been reported.

A Coast Guard spokeswoman said the crew of the helicopter had been identified, and that the cause of the crash was under investigation.

It was not immediately clear what had caused the crash.

Cows rescued from death

In a story that has touched the hearts of many, a group of cows were rescued from a farm in the western United States.

The cows were found to be sick and starving, and were taken to a nearby sanctuary for treatment.

The sanctuary provides care and comfort to the cows, helping them recover and adapt to a new life.

Clinton signs bill ending government-guaranteed crop prices

The president has signed a bill into law that will end government guarantees for crop prices.

The bill, which was passed by Congress, will phase out the government’s role in supporting farm prices over the next decade.

The president said the bill is a significant step forward in ensuring a fair and stable market for farmers.

The administration has been working closely with farmers and consumer groups to ensure that the transition is smooth and that farmers are not disadvantaged.

The bill will also provide assistance to farmers who are transitioning to a market-driven economy.

The president said he is committed to ensuring that farmers have the tools they need to succeed in a competitive market.

Lightfoot prepares for campaign trail

With the reformation of the Senate and the House, Republicans have a majority for the first time in 40 years.

Lightfoot said he has been working hard throughout the district to organize an effective campaign organization that is prepared for the primary election.

Lightfoot said he is excited about the opportunity to run for Congress and is looking forward to the challenges that lie ahead.

“Lightfoot is a strong candidate and he has a great opportunity to win,” said one political analyst. “He has a strong base of support in the district and he has been working hard to build on that base.”

The race for the Republican nomination is expected to be competitive, with several candidates vying for the nomination.

Lightfoot said he is confident that he can win the nomination and go on to victory in the general election.

Most women's another shot at U.S. team

Berry is getting another chance to make the U.S. women's national basketball team.

Berry is one of six players invited to a four-day tryout that started Thursday in Colorado Springs, Colo., to make the U.S. women's basketball team.

Berry, who was recently shot and has since undergone surgery to remove a bullet from her right leg, was among the final four players who will be invited to the national team. The other three players invited to the tryout are: Georgia's Tricia Murphy, Duke's Brandi Carlile and Tennessee's Cheryl Miller.

Berry was shot outside a nightclub in St. Louis on Feb. 8 and has been sitting out for most of the season. She was wearing a cast and tape when she attended the tryout.

Berry was shot in the right thigh and left leg. She had surgery to remove the bullet on March 3 and had been sitting out for the past three weeks.

She said she was not sure if she would be able to make it to the tryout, but she said she was feeling much better.

Berry has played in 18 games for the U.S. women's national team, averaging 20.2 points per game.

The U.S. women's national team will be announced on Sunday, March 10, and the team will play its first game on April 10.

Iowa women's basketball coach Dave Scharper said Berry is doing well and that he was hopeful she would be able to make it to the tryout.

The U.S. women's national team will play its first game on April 10 in the United States.

Iowa senior Marcus Fiskelson returned a shot earlier this season at the University of Iowa. Fiskelson was able to make a basket after being fouled on a shot attempt.

After an 0-3 start in Big Ten Conference play, the Hawkeyes have only one way to go now — to win.

"We've been out of shape," said coach Gary Barta. "But we have to keep playing hard and getting stronger.""The Hawkeyes had a week of practice where we didn't have to do anything," Houghton said. "It was a great opportunity to get some rest and recovery.""We have a tough game ahead of us," said Stevens. "But we're confident in our ability to come out on top.""The difference between us and our opponents is our preparation," said Gable. "We have done our homework and are ready for the challenge.""We can't afford to take our foot off the gas," said Schott. Banks hopes players perk up

The Daily Iowan

Coach Duane Banks has a good reason to have a positive outlook. His team has won three of its last four games, and the Hawkeyes aren't going to buy into that claim either.

"I really have trouble with guys who are going to write excuses about our finish," Banks said. "I’ve never been one to accept the fact that they aren’t ready to play on a regular basis."

That’s why he laid down some rules on Wednesday. He’s not going to take, for example, the team on a weekend trip to Penn State if it doesn’t want to get a feel of what they have.

"That’s the one thing I really have trouble with," Banks said. "You can’t go to Penn State and get a feel of what you have."

That might be a little harsh, but Banks is expressing the attitude the Hawkeyes have taken.

"I think we need to have a team score around 80. I don’t want our kids to skipper when we really have trouble with guys who aren’t ready to play," Banks said. "I’m not going to make any grades for them this week."

With the warm weather this week, the team will have an opportunity to get some extra practice. "Most of the Big Ten teams aren’t going to have it like this," Banks said. "We’re going to have this opportunity."

The Hawkeyes captured a 7-0 victory over the Michigan Wolverines on Friday.

"We’re really going to want to get the team ready, get our nose peeled during the meet and somebody else."

The team will have the opportunity to do this on Saturday when they head to Finkbine Golf Course to compete in the Invitational March Meet.

"I feel we’re in good shape in our finish," Banks said. "Then, we just need to keep that up."

The verdict is in. The jury is out. The case is over. For Earl Jones, now 31, the search for his birth parents is over.

"I'm just happy it's over," said Russell. "I really am. I don't want to worry about it any more."

But the jury is not out for everyone. The case of the milkshake, the milkshake that killed the father, has dragged on for years. It seems as if no one can agree on what happened.

"I want to know the truth," said the father. "I want to know what happened that night."
