UI hacker invades private e-mail

Computer pirate raided thousands of students' accounts

"It happens quite a bit. Those are people who are intrigued by the technology, for some it's a game to test the limits, but the student will be charged with three counts of criminal trespassing and one count of criminal mischief. Gordon said, it's a very public way to demonstrate the possibility he poses. Officials started watching the hacker a month after his first intrusion, in March. He said, "This is our job. It's about protecting people's information.""
UI researchers track construction-related injuries

UI researchers have been tracking construction-related injuries for the past three years, UI researchers at the University of Iowa have been tracking construction-related injuries for a number of years. The study, which was funded by the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, is part of a larger study being conducted at the University of Iowa.

The study found that construction workers are at a higher risk for injuries than workers in other industries. In 2016, construction workers accounted for 10% of all workplace injuries in the United States, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Construction workers are more likely to suffer injuries to the upper body, such as cuts, scrapes, and bruises, than workers in other industries.

The study also found that construction workers are more likely to suffer injuries to the lower body, such as sprains, strains, and fractures, than workers in other industries. Students spend day shadowing state legislators

By Dee

Iowa's political reporters

On Tuesday, April 1, between 7 a.m. and 11 a.m., students in school districts across the state were exposed to state lawmaking through the Iowa Legislative Intern Program, which allows students to experience first-hand the workings of the Iowa General Assembly.

Each student was paired up with a legislator who served as their guide for the day. The legislators also gave their interns a tour of the Statehouse in Des Moines, the headquarters of the Iowa General Assembly.

"It was very impressive to see how hard they work and how much they have to work about a wide variety of issues," said M.A. Industries. "It's important for them to be very informed."

U.S. Senator Ted Cruz said that lawmakers need to be well-informed before they make decisions that can affect the lives of Iowans. "We really need to have a good understanding of the issues before we make decisions," he said.

The day was also about the importance of working in collaboration and finding common ground. "I think it's really important to work with others and to listen to their ideas," said Senator Joni Ernst. "It's all about finding solutions and working together to make Iowa the best place it can be for everyone."

Helicopters evacuate Americans from Liberia

Associated Press

MONROVIA, Liberia — The first U.S. helicopters for evacuating Americans on Tuesday began evacuating Americans from the chaotic city, where rebel fighters were holding hundreds of civilians and peacekeepers captive.

Twenty-odd Americans, including five in the U.S. military, were flown by chopper from the U.S. Embassy to a seaside airstrip. A group of Liberian police and soldiers was to follow by jeep.

Some 5,000 people, mostly foreigners, have crowded into the U.S. Embassy compound since Monday seeking safety from the fighting.

The worst fighting in Monrovia since 1990 erupted Monday seeking safety from the fighting. Embassies and compounds have been crowded, and Relief Coordinator Dr. Glyn Davies said the UN in Liberia had said no further evacuation would be possible.

DENVER — Timothy McVeigh's lawyer asked for access to classified documents on the Ku Klux Klan, European intelligence files and conspiracies, hoping to show the Oklahoma City bombing was the work of a far-flung conspiracy.

Attorney Victor Arreaza said Monday he sought access to the material through the joint federal-state task force investigating the Oklahoma bombing.

An Associated Press review of the task force's Web site shows no special focus on the Ku Klux Klan.

MONROVIA, Liberia — Backed by United Nations peacekeepers and the American military, the first U.S. helicopters were flown Tuesday into the chaos in Monrovia to evacuate American citizens.

It was the first U.S. military effort to evacuate civilians since the U.S. Embassy compound was stormed last week by rebels. An Associated Press review of the task force's Web site shows no special focus on the Ku Klux Klan.

DENVER — Prosecutors asked a federal judge on Monday to make access to documents on the Ku Klux Klan, European intelligence files and specific conspiracies, hoping to show the Oklahoma City bombing was the work of a far-flung conspiracy.

The government learned through the FBI's investigation that Russians had used the black market to move supplies and money to the U.S. and that some of the material went to Russia and some to the U.S.

The government argued that the FBI had information on the foreign government's activities in Russia and that it had a right to look into the matter.

The government also sought access to documents on a list of 176 foreigners who had been interviewed by the FBI.

The government said it had evidence that some of the foreigners were high-level intelligence officers for foreign governments.

Some advice for the UI village

Lea Haravon

People tend to think of university as a place where people meet and have fun. It is a place where people have access to resources that they might not have had before. In some cases, it is also a place where people are able to learn more about themselves and their interests.

I know how hard it is to disturb people's preconceptions of society. I've tried. I haven't been surprised anyone to change his or her world view, but I do expect us to know by which of these two modes of society we are operating. And I would like us to be able to choose which mode we want to continue to operate in as a community. Is there a way for people to think about change through fundamental changes in our society?

People often ask me what I believe should be done to improve society. I think that we need to have a fundamental change in the way we think about society. I believe that we need to have a more participatory form of government, one where people have a say in the decisions that affect them.

I also believe that we need to have a more participatory form of education, one where people have a say in the decisions that affect their children.

Finally, I believe that we need to have a more participatory form of public service, one where people have a say in the decisions that affect their community.

I hope that we can all work together to make these changes happen.
GOCS-UE best alternative

The past few years have seen a group of graduate students work to create a broad-based student support for a graduate student union. The group hopes to have its offers. COGS-UE would not wait around. We offer our support to unionize.

By getting your support, COGS-UE offers a chance to review the offers of the group. We hope to attract the attention of the group's leaders. It is the best of both worlds, as both leaders and group members can create a new union.

The selection of UI shows a lack of real commitment to graduate assistants. COGS-UE could represent graduates, faculty and administrators. It would not represent graduate assistants. Instead, it would represent the group's leaders. The selection of UI shows that the group is not ready to create a new union.

Dues are not an issue, and neither are the quality of the union. That is up to the group's leaders. But it does show the potential benefits of organizing.

COGS-UE offers a chance to review the offers of the group. It would not represent graduate assistants. Instead, it would represent the group's leaders. The selection of UI shows that the group is not ready to create a new union.

Ewing's 26 points propel Knicks to win

Associated Press

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Patrick Ewing had a season-high 26 points and 12 rebounds as the New York Knicks beat the Kentucky), 97-64, last night to extend their winning streak to nine games.

Ewing, shooting 31 percent from the field in his previous three games, was 13-for-18 from the floor but 1-of-12 from three-point range. He had four assists, three steals and one block.

The win moved the Knicks (43-31) into first place in the Eastern Conference, a game ahead of Atlanta and Philadelphia. The Sixers, who beat the Knicks 101-95 on March 29, are 1 1/2 games behind the Knicks.

Ewing had 19 points in the first half, 10 in the second, five in the third and six in the fourth.

The win was Ewing's 26th of the season, tying his career high.

BOSTON — Rick Monday pitched a three-hitter and Charles O'Brien hit a two-run homer to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 7-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins yesterday.

Monday, who had salary arbitration rights in March, led off the seventh inning with a single that drove in O'Brien. The two baserunners were stranded at second and third. The Red Sox scored three more runs in the inning before closing out the game with a three-hitter.

Boston. (2-0) shutout.

Monday retired six straight batters in the first three innings before being replaced by Craig Burton in the sixth. Burton gave up five hits and two runs in the final three innings.

Boston won its second straight game and improved its record to 8-3 at Fenway Park.

The Red Sox have scored 20 runs in their last three games and have averaged 10 runs per game during their current winning streak.

Lindbergh, who pitched a one-hitter and struck out 12, was named the game's MVP.

The Twins were limited to seven runs in their last six games.

The Red Sox, who are fighting for a wild-card spot, lead the Twins by four games in the American League East.

The Twins are 1 1/2 games behind the Yankees in the AL West.

The debut of "Orfeo ed Euridice" at Hancher delighted audiences with a successful performance combining the students of the Mark Morris Dance Company and the Iowa City Civic Light Opera with contemporary dance, the performers brought the "greatest love story of life" to life.

KIM JOHNSON

"Dear God, I just wanted to drop a line for you. To thank you for sending Hancher a "Godsend," "Orfeo ed Euridice." If you hadn't, I wouldn't have had this fabulous experience. I think it was a pretty good one for you as well. Why?"

That's what began a letter after spending two hours at Hancher Auditorium Sunday evening. I could go on and on about the Morris Group and the Handel and Haydn Society, about the super coincidence of choral verse and ballet, about what a difference it makes when every single performer in a large group is attuned to the others.

right for the world premiere of Christopher Hogwood and his three-act opera. Between thescore and the orchestra, and choreography and choruses conducted by Christopher Hogwood, the enchanting moments of the Mark Morris Dance Company was an awful lot of perfection. It was all I had.

Dana Blanchard turned in a strong and affecting performance as Euridice, and I have worked so hard for the ones you weren't. You're not messed up for getting over and said, "What is a Hootie and the Blowfish or L.L. Bean?"

although difficult to answer. Good question, I replied, "It's a band from Carolina or Oregon or whatever, and they're a band from wherever they want it to be."

I'm not sure I'd be better off with more important topics, but I forget my parents like to go to their night for the world premiere of Christopher Hogwood, and said, "What is a Hootie and the Blowfish or L.L. Bean?"

Hogwood led the musicians through the often complex music, helping them achieve that tricky balance between striking precision and spontaneity that is so essential to a good operatic production.

In the soundness of the performance, Hogwood's keen eye for detail through the often complex music, helping them achieve that tricky balance between striking precision and spontaneity that is so essential to a good operatic production.

If you didn't make it to see Christopher Hogwood's "Orfeo ed Euridice," you can hear the music performed by the Handel and Haydn Society, about the same conditions of choral verse and ballet, about what a difference it makes when every single performer in a large group is attuned to the others.

The whole package takes it on the road. Of course, you could always wear a pair of Hootie and the Blowfish dress shoes, but I know a guy who's done that before.
