Spinning away from a wooden canoe on a leafy path, a man is turning a downhill course on a wooden canoe, using it to guide him through the woods. He is using his canoe as a vehicle to explore the woods, seeing the natural beauty around him.

The canoe is made of sturdy wood, with a curved shape and a pointed front. The man is wearing a light-colored shirt and shorts, and he is using a paddle to navigate the canoe along the path.

The canoe is accompanied by a dog, which is following closely behind the man. The dog's fur is shiny and well-groomed, and it appears to be enjoying the ride as much as the man is.

As the man paddles along, he keeps an eye on the dog, making sure it stays close by. The dog seems to understand its role and stays near the canoe, looking ahead as if to guide the man.

The path they are following is surrounded by tall trees, with leaves rustling gently in the breeze. The canopy provides some shade, and the air is fresh and cool.

The man and the dog continue their journey, exploring the woods and enjoying each other's company. It's a peaceful and serene moment, captured in time.

Former Dole official accused of illegal campaign contributions

Former Dole lobbyist F. Jay nicols was accused of making illegal contributions to gubernatorial candidates and Democratic state party organizations. According to the report, there was no evidence of any of the campaign activities or committees about the scheme and one case was to be prosecuted. The Senate committee and the illegal contributions would give rise to possible campaign violations.

Both the Clintons and Dole campaign sought to turn the press agreement to their advantage. Democratic National Committee Chair Howard Baker said the agreement to the press reports which made the contribution was going to the White House.

Former Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman would not agree to the agreement to the press reports which made the contribution was going to the White House.

Forrest, the owner of Aquan­ton Industries in Florida, was accused of making contributions and then fleeing to Taiwan. Forrest was found running in Hong Kong and then back to the United States. He was said to be $100,000 in capital funds for contributions to the Party campaign, the Senate Political Action Committee, and the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee.

Theodore Roosevelt’s “duty” was an idea of a political edge that was crucial for the early 20th-century American political landscape. His ideas of a “manly” approach to politics were an important part of his leadership style, and his emphasis on discipline and hard work helped to shape the political culture of the time.

Roosevelt’s humanitarian approach to the challenges of the day was a departure from the isolationist policies of his predecessors. He believed that the United States had a responsibility to intervene in the affairs of other countries, particularly when it came to protecting the rights of the underprivileged and oppressed. His support for the progressive movement and his implementation of New Deal programs were significant contributions to the development of social policies in the United States.

Roosevelt’s belief in the importance of public service and his commitment to the common good were reflected in his actions as a leader. He was known for his integrity, honesty, and dedication to the public welfare. His legacy as a leader who was committed to making a positive difference in the world continues to inspire generations of leaders today.

The Bears' decision, especially since it was the first player to make a multimillion dollar contract, was a shocker.

Thomas' consecutive game streak in serious jeopardy

CHRISTCHURCH (AP) — Chicago White Sox first baseman Thomas planned to have his streak end last week and said the injury may keep him out of action for two weeks.

"The disabled list is a possibility," Thomas said Sunday after injuring his right hand in a game in Philadelphia. "I've never been on the DL. But it's just one of those things, it's just not something I want to think about."

A left-handed batter, he hit the first-throw strike at the plate Thursday in Cleveland when he stepped partly on and out of the bag while rounding first base. He was forced to break, and the injury was listed as a strain.

"It's a strain, and that's the only thing I know of right now," Thomas said from the dugout.

On the disabled list would last at least a minimum of 15 days. And even under baseball's stipulated outlook, the second longest current consecutive game streak in the major leagues would end Thursday. Thomas has played in 84 straight games.

Free agent-to-be Belle could end up with Nationals

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cleveland Indians slugger Belle could be a free agent-to-be in a few weeks.

"I know I'm looking at it," Indians outfielder Belle said Saturday afternoon on the field before playing the Philadelphia Phillies. "I'm just waiting to see how it plays out."

Belle said he was "prepared for it" and "I've tried to keep those things out of my thinking, but it's not being prevented."

All eyes on Barkley as Team romps China

Chris Herdman

PHOENIX — On what was likely Charlie Barkley's last night as a member of the Phoenix Suns, the star made him feel at home here as he said goodbye.

"The fans made me feel very special," Barkley said. "I'm going to miss in Phoenix as a Dream Teamer, dominating the show Wednesday night in a 138-114 win over China.

Barkley, who is a suburb of Houston to be announced Thursday, was cheered every time he touched the ball. With one minute left, he was honored for an overseas appearance.

"We never won a championship in a year before, but the fans always voted for every single day," Barkley said. "I'm going to miss the organization, and with it the fan base, the TV exposure, the media, the travel."

The Dream Team, playing the third of five exhibition games, had no problem adjusting to China.

The United States shot 69 percent, had 34 steals and scored 45 points of their own in the most lopsided game of their tour.

The next game is Friday against Australia at the Great Western Forum. Barkley is expected to return for the last two games there.

When will that child ever grow up?

"He's 16," he said. "If I see a gift then it's diggity-dank. If I see 'em putting hands in their pockets, no they're not diggity-dank."

Brock Davis said both "Diggity" and "Dank" are terms that are used in the neighborhood.
