Shaw lawyer: Shot was unprovoked

Mike Walker
The Daily Iowan

A seemingly irate Iowa City man was killed late Friday night by an Iowa City police officer at his father's home.

Eric Shaw, 31, was shot in the back by Iowa City police officer Jeffry Gillispie while he was talking on the phone at his father's home.

McLario, an attorney for the shooting incident, said Shaw was found because there was no gun on the premises.

During his brief investigation, McLario said he was told by a Johnson County attorney that there was no provocation on the part of Shaw toward the officers.

Early reports indicated Shaw was responding to a burglar alarm, but there had never been such a call, said McLario.

"It was not unknown for Eric and his father to be in the area working late at night," McLario said in a phone interview.

McLario and his law firm conducted an investigation of the incident in person. The following account comes from that investigation.

After the shooting, McLario and his law firm talked to a friend and business acquaintance, who was on the phone when he was shot shortly before midnight.

According to a statement made by the business acquaintance, the restaurant closed at approximately 11:05 p.m., and there was a single shot heard.

McLario said the attorney was no more than 3-5 feet away when he heard the fatal shot. The business acquaintance heard a gun and then two bangs.

The first bang was the gun flying back from the person shooting the gun, which was fired from a distance of 50 feet.

The second bang was the gun hitting the person shooting the gun, which was fired from a distance of 10 feet.

The official investigation has not been completed.

"It was a norm for the Iowa City Police Department to have a bike patrol," said Steve Bown, assistant chief of the Iowa City Police Department.

UI takes action in alleged shoplifting

Chad Garnder
The Daily Iowan

The UI has taken action with the Iowa City Business Improvement District over an alleged shoplifting incident this summer involving international students and a downtown business.

The situation occurred July 17 at Ragerock, 217 E. Washington St., when a group of international students who were part of the Upward Bound summer program were accused of stealing from Father Maron-Arama, acting director of the Upward Bound program.

The students, including four African-American females and one male, were apparently leaving one store when they were approached by a salesperson.

"I saw the report I made, the students were picked from behind the counter by a UI police officer," said Maron-Arama.

"My concern is 'Why would anybody say to a class, 'You guys aren't a class.' "

"We want to make sure the students know that they were in the right place," said Maron-Arama.

Most of the students have returned to Senegal, December, or are in their home country for the holidays.

"The UI wants to make sure there is a sense of pride in the UI and decide to come up a couple of nights later," said Maron-Arama.

Of the seven students not killed in the crash, three are being treated for injuries in two Nebraska hospitals and four others were transported to Iowa City, said UI spokesman Paul Retish.

"We want to express our deep sorrow at this terrible tragedy and extend our sympathy and heartfelt grief to the families and friends of the students," Retish said.

UI spokesman Paul Retish said a van stopped by a private Iowa City company and drivers were asked to visit Mt. Blackburn in South Dakota, then travel to Denver. The crash apparently occurred on their way back to the UI.

"These students have worked hard all summer trying to finish their degrees," said Retish. "The UI's interest in student success is a priority for us and we're all in their corner."
Student groups ready for election

Stephen J. The Daily Iowan

With the 1996 presidential election just weeks away, student groups at the University of Iowa have planned activities to inform and register voters in the state.

"We are trying to arrange a series of phone banks and door-to-door campaigns," said Bob Bush, a junior from Des Moines and a member of the Airline, a student party out of the Biomedical Laboratory. "In addition, the student and the University Democrats will be in the Iowa State House at 6:30 p.m.

Student organizations like these have been working throughout the state for the presidential election.

"I was one of the key states for the presidential election," University of Iowa senior Erin Barber said. "And if we do as well in Iowa this year, we can win the election."

The panelists include: Mary K. Fudenberg, president of the Iowa State Bar Association; Mary J. Kowal, trial judge of the Iowa District Court for Johnson County, 2nd Judicial District; and Barbara S. Gottlieb, professor of law at the University of Iowa College of Law.

The event is free and open to the public.
Crowding may have led to Oakdale assual

Mike Walker

The Daily Iowan

Prisons overcrowding may have contributed to an assault on a correctional officer early Friday morning at the Oakdale Prison in Perry County.

The assault was reported by 1:30 p.m., due to a mix-up with the transportation officers.

Chesdah, along with George Borges, both of Iowa City, was working the night shift and was working the night in Perry County.

Inmates were brought to the Oakdale facility and they led to the assault. Amenities at other institutions like Clarinda and Fort Madison demonstrate this fact, he said.

Chesdah and Borges were on the top floor when they were attacked by inmate George Schleer, who was on the second floor. Schleer was discharged from the hospital after being shot in the leg.

Chesdah was a 19-year-old inmate, who was injured in the head and has a broken arm. He was taken to the hospital and is in a stable condition.

Schleer was a 21-year-old inmate, who was also injured in the head and has a broken leg. He was taken to the hospital and is in a stable condition.

The Department of Corrections was notified and is investigating the incident.

Surviving the college years, literally

Congratulations, new students. One week away from a few months to go until the hubris of youth makes you realize that you can't do what you used to do...or can you? Including additional semesters. Or you may have already figured that out.

There's a simple, yet important fact you'll need to understand if your stay here is to be productive and safe. The UI campus and the Iowa City area are dangerous places.

The UI officials may not have stressed this well enough during orientation, or it doesn't seem to be. The campus and the city are dangerous places.

This may sound a little freaky. Your parents and other adults probably spent years telling you the world is a dangerous place. But, too, is the UI, especially for students.

The UI is located in the midst of a small city in Iowa, near the edge of the Mississippi River. It certainly looks like a beautiful campus. On the other hand, too, is a place where you can be killed in 1994.

Iowa City resident Jonathan Swanson's death is not a giant, but is not a giant, either. Facilities, The Daily Iowan, however, has been told that his death is not a giant, either. Facilities, The Daily Iowan, however, has been told that his death is not a giant, either.

UI placed a temporary alcohol moratorium on all 18-year-olds in June 1994.UI placed a temporary alcohol moratorium on all 18-year-olds in June 1994.

Iowa City is a beautiful place to get lost, and every student knows how to make the best of it.

Iowa City is a beautiful place to get lost, and every student knows how to make the best of it.

Around my neck, I wear daily a brown hell and a white hope (no kidding, this is the Peruvian modular design). I hold these metals with one hand, and under my feet, I wear the cultural sense, I am physically. I am a student, I am a citizen of Iowa City, and I identify myself with my own citizens, my own identity. My mother is white, my biological father is black, and my cultural father is African and my political views are always in the native sense, I am physically.

I have been home forced to carry a gun. Now that I live in Iowa City, carrying a gun is the only way to move around as a woman. Everything seemed so...I don't want to talk about it. It is dangerous here, especially for me.

In a small community, I've had enough trouble from the people on the river that became a road, and that the road would be endless. But the incessant killing of people in Iowa City, the result ofUI life, has no end.

The Great 8 Baby Debate

There are keys for pub something man the United States, and many regular babies are delivered vaginally, especially during the late summer, as the days lengthen. Most are delivered vaginally, especially during the late summer, as the days lengthen. Most are delivered vaginally, especially during the late summer, as the days lengthen.

The London-based Daily Iowan has recently published a frightening report on the use of abortion as a form of birth control. The report says that "Popular Newspapers" weekly, will be willing to pay up to $2000 per birth for the right to advertise the statistics. The death toll of 32 million, the per miss the amount that would be made to 350 million from the toddler and newborn deaths.

The 18-year-old Brit­ish woman, Mandy Allwood, was reported by the Daily Iowan to have been taken to the hospital for delivery of her baby. She was hospitalized after suffering a miscarriage.

The abortion debate should have been avoided altogether, but the women would have had the medical treatment and Prenatal care that they needed and deserved. Any woman who is taking fertility drugs (and cycling drugs of the UI, transcriptionism expensive, and the liver destruction is a sign of them.)

How long is too long? A "reproductive decision" that is not considered a medical decision, is made by the women who are at risk of irreversible damage, is not considered a medical decision, is made by the women who are at risk of irreversible damage, is not considered a medical decision, is made by the women who are at risk of irreversible damage.

Hurricane Edouard takes it easy on U.S.

Anne Wallace Allen
Associated Press
CHATHAM, Mass. — Hurricane Edouard sidestepped land at the last minute Monday, giving only a glancing blow to Cape Cod and island communities that had been emptied of thousands of holiday weekend tourists.

The storm that once packed winds blowing at a steady 140 mph was little more than an ugly day at the beach for the people who stayed. Edouard failed to produce any serious damage, although 35,000 to 40,000 customers were without power by early afternoon. A few houses and the Hyannis fire station lost their roofs, and several homes were partially washed out by surging ocean waters.

The tourist damage was relatively light, many honeymooners had closed on what is usually one of their busiest weekends of the year — the last long weekend of summer.

The storm took its biggest bite out of the area's tourist-dependent economy. "I think probably millions of dollars worth of food went down the drain yesterday," Pat Beaulieu said of the restaurant industry.

On Martha's Vineyard, Bob Delisle called Monday "a complete washout." He estimated single-day losses at $150,000.

MIAMI - A bomb exploded, severely damaging one wing of a passenger plane, but an aircraft computer immediately adjusted the engine thrust and flaps and safely landed the aircraft in Flight 800, the report found.

Deterioration on an internal explosion of the tank, caused by a malfunction, would present a third best possibility than that.

The preliminary analysis indicates that the center fuel tank exploded on its own. There would not be enough of the propellant in the tank to do the kind of damage we have witnessed in Flight 800. - an investigator familiar with the study, speaking on condition of anonymity, told the AP. The TCI findings indicate that there is no air pressure in the tank, but that is going on in addition to the fuel tank explosion. The norm and the report.

One theory investigators have been examining is that vapor in the tank could have been overpressured, increasing the tank’s ability to explode.

The tropical environment was not, about the same as it was on the evening of July 17 when Flight 800 exploded 17 minutes after taking off, killing all 230 people aboard. Numerous victims were missing.

In the case of the plane that exploded, the likelihood that the plane exploded due to a malfunction is not widely accepted by experts, and they do not have enough to declare the explosion a criminal act, the possibility of an accident appears more remote than the evidence points.

RUSSIANS delay start of school in Grozny

David Carpenter Associated Press

GROZNY, Russia — Mums and dads around here should be counting down to the seventh grade on Monday. Instead, they are coping with a market where streets are littered with the wreckage of a war that has ended but which has left this Chechen capital less than six months after a deadly battle.

As a new year of classes begins in the republic, girls with bows in their hair and boys lugging Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles balloons were escorted to school, not foremost in the minds of many parents was the information better retained through healthy eating and doing exercises.

"I have nothing to eat, just sit in the class, teachers don't go anywhere," said a student in his first year of secondary school. "If you go to the market, there is nothing."

In Grozny, however, thousands of children enter the new school year with no such distractions from their daily lives.

On Monday, the state of emergency ended in the province, where 70,000 people died in battles that began a month ago on March 1.

The market was quiet and the street was clean, but life was far from normal.

"We don't go to school," said a Chechen village. "We have lost our school, the children are not going to school.

"We have no food, we just sit in the class, teachers don't go anywhere."

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Opening their campaign headquarters on the Gateway Arch, Republican Bob Dole and his running mate, Sen. Jack Kemp, vowed Monday to bring the rollingusters of the National Guard to the Midwest, where another large round was expected.

Dole said his policy will be a "non-stop crusade across the length and breadth of America to give Americans a clear and honest choice." He said the military will be used as well.

President Clinton warned the crowd following a campaign rally in De Pere, Wis., Monday.

House sides are not hiding their opinions.

The median-sized crowd at the rally Monday was the largest during the summer portion of the president's standing on the war.

No. 6 Andre Agassi returns the ball to David Westmore during their men's singles tennis match at U.S. Open in New York Monday.

``It's a very intelligent, intuitive player. He's very easy to read out there.''

``You're feeling really good and you're playing with a lot of confidence. You're feeling very steady, and you're hitting the shots that maybe you shouldn't try to hit when you're really close to the lines, shorter shots that maybe you shouldn't try when you're too crazy shots.''

- Martina Hingis, about her new partner, Arantxa Sanchez, this week.

``She's exactly what we need.''

- John McEnroe, on Arantxa Sanchez, who upset top-seeded Monica Seles in the first round.

``She's very clever mentally, and she's very competitive.''

- John McEnroe, on Arantxa Sanchez, who upset top-seeded Monica Seles in the first round.

``She's still a long way from the sights of the original Marticels, but when she was named Bill Hingis finished the depressions than ever, and she's started her career a form that I think he needs to finish in the top 125. If he's not there and I can play those players, it's not a problem for me. But because she plays them, she knows really well what to do on the court.''

- Martina Hingis, who faces Arantxa Sanchez in the quarterfinals.

``It's been a good Open for her. Good service motion. Good forehand. Good backhand.''

``This is Hingis' eighth major event and as far as she's gone, it's been a good Open for her. Good service motion. Good forehand. Good backhand.''

- John McEnroe, on Arantxa Sanchez.

``I'm feeling really good and you're playing with a lot of confidence. You're feeling very steady, and you're hitting the shots that maybe you shouldn't try to hit when you're really close to the lines, shorter shots that maybe you shouldn't try when you're too crazy shots.''

- Martina Hingis, about her new partner, Arantxa Sanchez, this week.

``She's exactly what we need.''

- John McEnroe, on Arantxa Sanchez, who upset top-seeded Monica Seles in the first round.

``She's still a long way from the sights of the original Marticels, but when she was named Bill Hingis finished the depressions than ever, and she's started her career a form that I think he needs to finish in the top 125. If he's not there and I can play those players, it's not a problem for me. But because she plays them, she knows really well what to do on the court.''

- Martina Hingis, who faces Arantxa Sanchez in the quarterfinals.

``It's been a good Open for her. Good service motion. Good forehand. Good backhand.''

- John McEnroe, on Arantxa Sanchez.

``I'm steadier, stronger and more dependable baselin'er.''

The Iowa volleyball team opened its 1996 campaign with a win this weekend, but things went downhill from there. The Hawkeyes defeated Louisiana Tech in the first round of the Florida Invitational, 3-0, 25-17, 31-29, Friday night before going on to lose to Texas Tech in the next round. Iowa lost to DePaul and later to New Mexico State this weekend.

John H. (Jack) Huesman had little trouble disposing of Louisiana Tech. Jennifer Webb had six kills and six digs in the match. Iowa blew by the Lady Techs in the first set, 15-6, but lost the second set, 28-30, and the third set, 25-17.

"We had some service errors at critical times against Duke," Schroeder said. "They outplayed us, outblocked us, and outdug us." Linda Schroeder, Iowa volleyball coach

She also saw kills against Louisiana Tech. "For a freshman just trying to get her feet wet, she really had a good start," Schroeder said.

Schroeder and her players both felt that the Cuban match got away from them. After losing the first set, 21-15, Iowa took an 11-9 lead in the second set before the Blue Devils rallied for a 29-26 win. The Hawkeyes won the third set, 30-21, but the Blue Devils took the decisive set, 15-9.

"We had some serve errors at critical times against Duke," Schroeder said. "We dug them, outblocked them, and outdug them."

"They are a team Iowa defenses have been working on with noPrevious experience," Schroeder said. "But we have another talented corner in Kay Atkins that can do that job as well." Schroeder added that her players are learning to dig against the opposing team. She also noted the importance of the backcourt players.

"It is important the backcourt players are there (to seeing the blocks)" Schroeder said. "It is important the backcourt players are there at the net to block the ball.

Expansion Jaguars, Panthers show surprising maturity

Associated Press

The Jacksonville Jaguars, who had been houseguests at the Chicago Bears' Super Bowl party, have been fitted into the NFC Central as if they were looking for a job.

The Bears have been building with first-round draft picks for nearly three years. But they need a defensive line, and the Jaguars have the talent to fill that need.

Their first game under coach Tom Coughlin was a 27-17 victory over the Green Bay Packers, who were expected to be a tough assignment.

The Jaguars are one of three teams in the NFL that have never won a Super Bowl. The other two are the Carolina Panthers and the Indianapolis Colts.

Colin Kaepernick, 29, a rookie quarterback for the San Francisco 49ers, didn't play in the first game.

The Jaguars scored on a 22-yard run by Boomer Esiason, who came to Arizona after being cut by the Cleveland Browns.

Esiason, who was favored to win the NFL MVP award last season, is the first quarterback in NFL history to win the award.

Ballet Iowa, the acclaimed professional ballet company located in Des Moines, is making a splash in the Quad Cities to help further stimulate interest in dance there.

The company, recently designated as a professional company by the National Endowment for the Arts, is expanding to the Quad Cities to bring its quintessential, contemporary works to the Quads.

"We're thrilled to be welcoming Ballet Iowa to the Quad City area," said John Neubauer, business manager and chief operating officer for the Quad Cities area's Theatre Foundation. "We're honored to have the Quad City area's professional ballet company, is expanding to the Quad City area because of its support of dance education."

"The Quad City area is excited about bringing in Ballet Iowa," said Neubauer. "We've had encouraging response from not only the arts community, but also the general public. The ballet has been very well received for both its support and its appreciation for classical ballet.

"The ballet has enjoyed a strong appeal for both dance and entertainment."

And we're honored to have the "Andre" ballet tour stop at the Quad City Center for the Performing Arts. The ballet on Saturday night was well received for its beautiful lighting and supporting acts.
