UI sophomore Marj Wilkinson struggles to pay her college tuition fees by working two jobs over the summer and at the Shambaugh House Honors Center during the school year. Because Wilkinson's parents are financially unable to help pay for her education, she has to take on the task single-handed-

Wilkinson, along with other UI students, will feel the burden of the proposed tuition increases for the 1997-98 school year that will be discussed Wednesday at the Iowa Board of Regents meeting. If the proposal is approved by the regents in October, tuition costs will increase by at least $100 for the $2,646 cost to $2,760. Out-of-UI students.

Rapper Tupac Shakur's tough street life ended tragically Friday, Sept. 13th, saddening many Iowa City residents.

UI Associate Professor Venise Berry said it's sad to hear of Tupac's death because he was a man who had a lot of potential. She said it was too bad Shakur, 25, should die without a purpose, and hopefully his death will lead people to reflect on how precious life is.

"I am hoping it causes the people involved in the rap feud and gangs to see how ridiculous and unnecessary these acts of revenge are, and that life is far too precious to be wasted," she said.

Many fans expressed regret over the lamentable way Shakur's life ended. Vibes Records employee Scott Parrett said he was disappointed in the suddenness of Shakur's death. He said there are a lot of fans who will be deeply affected because Shakur was one of the few artists whose songs dealt with real problems people face in the inner city.

"Tupac's music created an outlet for the inner city problems that many people depended on and now that outlet is gone," said Parrett. Brian "DJ Taz" Judiesch, an Iowa City DJ, also was saddened by Shakur's sudden death. He said the rapper chose to live a high-profile life and knew he made many people angry with his raw lyrics. However, Shakur has to be respected for taking chances with his music and for singing about what he believed in.

Judiesch said Shakur should not only be remembered for his music, but also for his talent as an

LATINO HERITAGE MONTH

Holiday stresses celebrating cultural identity

Editors note: This is the first installment in a month-long series commemorating National Latino Heritage Month.

Rima Vesely

The Daily Iowan They come from Mexico, from Central America, from South America; from the barrios in large cities and the fincas in the rural areas; from backgrounds of both wealthy and poor. Since the late 1800s, Latin Americans have come to-Iowa in search of jobs and educational opportunities. They are from every different country, and yet under the American census system, people of distinct backgrounds have been categorized as

"Latino" and "Hispanic." In conjunction with the UI's second-annual celebration of National Latino Heritage Month, the DI will run a month-long series of 21 articles, extending through Oct. 15. The stories will explore issues of identity, racism, language, the generation gap, immigration, gender and stereotypes.

own ethnic heritage," Eugenia Hernandez, a first-year UI law student, said. "It's an important part of who you are, your ethnic identity."

The Latino population in the United States is the second largest ethnic minority in the United States. They made up nearly 10 percent of the population in 1990, after African-Americans, who make up almost 12 percent. Sept. 15 is celebrated as

Mexican Independence Day, when the Mexicans defeated the French. In 1980, President Jimmy Carter recognized the week of Sept. 15 as National Hispanic Week. It evolved into a two-week celebration after several Latin American countries achieved independence from Spain and England during the 14 days after Sept. 15, said Carlos Serrato, the chair of the UI Council of the Status

"Then the (Latino) community took more charge and made it into a month," Serrato said. However, he said in the Midwest, many Latinos don't "You have to celebrate your know National Latino Heritage Month exists. Last year Latino student organizations was the first time the UI celebrated the month.

Recognition of the Latino population is growing, said Ladimiro Urdaneta, a teaching assistant in the Spanish department.

"It's important to recognize Latino Heritage Month because nowadays we don't live in a monocultural world," he said.

In 1980, more than 26,000 Mexicans, Puerto Ricans. Cubans and other Latinos settled into Iowa communities, making up one percent of the state's total population. Of this number, Mexicans constituted 72 percent.

Twenty-six years ago, most of the Latino students at the UI were primarily Mexican-American or Chicano. Today, they are of every Latin American background. There were 586 Latino students last year, making them the third-largest ethnic minority on campus after Asians and African-other Latin American roots. Terms of identity change, especially with American society bent on categorizing and labeling. The terms "Hispanic" and "Latino" do not exist outside the United States. It is a political identity and not a cultural identity, said Rolando Arroyo-Sucre, UI director of special support.

In most Latin American countries, the national language is Spanish. Brazilians speak Portuguese. Haitians speak French and Creole. But the Spanish language is what holds most Latinos together and gives them a common bond.

Over the next month, six DI reporters will address the different cultures within the Latino community in celebration and recognition of Nation-

Thompson has to explain sitcom love to her daughter

NEW YORK (AP) - Lea Thompson will have a new boyfriend on "Caroline in the City" this fall, which is bad news for her real-life daughter, who doesn't like the idea of Mommy kissing somebody besides Daddy.

"She doesn't like it when I kiss other guys," Thompson says in the Sept. 23 People. "It really makes her mad. I had to explain to her that I would be kissing a new guy on the show this year. I say, 'Mommy loves Daddy, but this is her job.'"

Thompson, 34, is married to movie director Howard Deutsch. Daughter Madeline is 5.

Madeline was also critical of he mom's new hairdo. Thompson chopped off her shoulder-length hair at the suggestion of show producers. While she likes the bob, her daughter took one look and said diplomatically, "Well, it will grow back."

At his concert on Tuesday, he'll find plenty of pop-eyed fans, but also a large contingent with eyes narrowed in contempt.

"Michael Jackson likes to be called the 'king of pop,' although a more fitting name would be 'comrade general secretary,'" political commentator Leonid Zakharov wrote in Friday's edition of Komsomolskaya Pravda.

Wynonna cancels concert date due to time, distance

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — Wynonna backed out of a concert in Montana, blaming an extra 50 miles of highway.

Promoter Pat Roberts said the three 80-foot trucks that haul the country singer's gear can't get to Billings in time for the Wednesday show after a concert Tuesday night in Orem, Utah.

Initially, promoters thought the Utah show would be in Salt Lake City, which is about 550 miles from Billings. Orem is about 50 miles farther.

Roberts said ticket sales in Billings were "fair, not great," but that wasn't a factor in the decision to cancel.

Wynonna, formerly teamed with her mother as the Judds, has had solo hits with "Tell Me Why" and "No One Else on Earth."

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. - She finally won the crown she chased for six years. And new Miss America Tara Dawn Holland quickly showed she's determined to do more with it than pose for pictures.

Less than 12 hours after winning, Holland held forth on politics, publishing and her own perseverance in a news conference kicking off her yearlong reign as Miss America 1997.

She's for Bob Dole, against public-school voucher programs and has written and published her own book on job-hunting. She is something of an authority on the latter, having pursued her new job through three defeats and two

In 1993, Holland wrote and published a 75-page book entitled "A New Job for the New You," a guide to getting minimum-wage jobs.

Holland has had her eyes on the Miss America title since she was first runner-up in the Miss Florida Pageant at age 17.

"That's when I knew that God was teasing me, and that I could possibly achieve the title of Miss America," she said. Holland entered the Miss Florida Pageant two more times, finishing as fourth runner-up in 1994 and first runner-up in 1995.

Twice, she made the trek to Atlantic City anyway, just to watch the Miss America Pageant and pick up tips to improve her chances of competing in it.

She moved to Kansas to work on her master's degree and won that state pageant on her first try. Her father, James Holland, 51, of Longwood, Fla., said Sunday she had planned to seek the Miss Kansas

Superior Court Judge Fujisaki Judge Hiroshi

Fujisaki, determined not to have his style confused with that of the much-maligned Judge Lance Ito of Simpson's criminal trial, flatly banned all TV and still cameras from his court.

He also banned sketch artists from drawing in the courtroom and clamped an extraordinarily restrictive gag order on the attorneys. "It's excessive," said New York civil attorney Henry Miller. "But there's nothing like excess to breed excess. We always react to what's gone before. The generals are all fighting the last war.'

Restrictions or not, the press is arriving en masse. Forty seats in the 80-seat courtroom have been allocated to media organizations, with additional throngs of reporters expected to gather out-

"There will be differences in the coverage, but the press is not going away because America's interest isn't going away," said Loyola University Law School Dean Laurie Levenson. "Everyone is going to descend on the courthouse, but they won't have as much to report." She noted because "There is no TV without pictures," news shows will have to use videotape of last year's criminal trial to illustrate their stories.

"That's a very distorted image for the American public, telling a news story with old pictures and old quotes," she said.

Fujisaki also refused a request to allow closed circuit audio feeds of the proceedings to be piped into the press area - a decision which is being appealed by the AP and other media.

Simpson was found not guilty of the June 1994 murders of his exwife, Nicole Brown Simpson, and her friend, Ronald Goldman, on Oct. 3 after a one-year trial. The estate of his slain former wife and the Goldman family joined forces to sue him in civil court seeking to prove him guilty under a lower standard of proof.

"I am hoping it causes the people involved in the rap feud and gangs to see how ridiculous and unneccessary these acts of revenge are, and that life is far too precious to be wasted."

Associate professor Venise Berry, on the death of rapper Tupac Shakur

Watch out for Cyclones

nother Iowa-Iowa State game is over. The Hawkeye winning streak over our hapless cross-state "rivals" has increased to 14, and we have secured bragging rights for another year. Ho

But give the Cyclones a little credit. They did manage to find the field, and besides, no one actually expects the Cyclones to win, including the Cyclones. They are just happy to have the chance to be a mark in our win column every year. It was Jane Austen who said: "For what do we live, but to make sport for our neighbors and laugh at them in turn?" She was obviously thinking of Iowa State.

But enough about the game, for I have a more important issue to address. After talking to a number of students here in Iowa City, I learned there were some problems this weekend with our friends from Ames. Stories of clogged toilets and dead house plants are common among the people who were kind enough to let an Iowa State student stay with them.

I was afraid this was going to happen. Manners are disappearing from our society at an alarming rate, and nowhere is the decline more evident than in Ames. My advice is to show compassion for these people while doing whatever you can to help them rediscover proper ways of behaving. In the meantime, I have formulated a list of hints to prevent similar incidents in the future and to make things a little more pleasant for future visiting Cyclones.

Benjamin Franklin once said "fish and visitors smell in three days." He obviously wasn't thinking of Iowa Staters, who tend to smell from the minute they enter your house.

Once again, please exercise understanding running water is a luxury in Ames that not everybody has access to. All you can do is, patiently, explain to your Iowa State friends how to work the shower and encourage them to use soap. After they leave. just use a mixture of bleach and water to get rid of

Another problem frequently

encountered this weekend was shredded furniture. This is a tricky one. It is possible any torn or mangled furniture is the result of your cat and not your Iowa State guest. In order to tell the difference between the two and assign blame accordingly, follow this list of criteria:

1. If it ate all of your food, including any pet and plant food, it was probably your Iowa State guest. 2. If it went to the bathroom under your sink, it was probably your cat.

3. If it stayed out all night and started howling outside your window at 4 a.m., it could have been either, depending on which one hasn't been neutered.

Speaking of howling, it seems a number of enthusiastic Iowa State fans were heard yelling and screaming in the Pedestrian Mall on Friday night. It was all harmless and in good fun, and almost none of the cheers were directed

I find this to be appalling behavior. Not only were they behaving in a courteous, fun-loving manner, they were showing none of the trepidation and fear about the probable outcome of the next day's game. Someone needs to explain to them when you come to a rival campus with a pathetic football team which has no chance of even offering an interesting game, the least you can do is to start a small fight with the opposing students so they aren't totally bored the whole weekend. After all, we did take the trouble of inviting them into our homes, and didn't even complain when they killed our plants and ran off with our animals. When the situation is reversed and the game is held in Ames, the Iowa fans always have the common courtesy to run through the streets at 2 a.m. and yell obscenities about the Iowa State players and their mothers. No one would expect any less, and it is the least we can do for our Ames hosts. Besides, if we weren't running through the streets inciting confrontation we would have to go to a country bar. Did you know that Ames has more country bars than any other city in the world? It's true. And they have the second-highest rates of bowling alleys and farm animal abductions. Sadly, all of these facts aren't coincidental. They are a glaring reminder that when people stop practicing common decency and manners, their society will collapse - and their football teams will suck.

King: An Iowa City icon

early all Iowa City residents and UI students have seen and heard Monroe King render "Sittin' on the Dock of the Bay" in the Pedestrian Mall. The street musician is well known, not only for his guitar playing, but also for the way he smiles and waves at passers-by. So it is with a communal sense of loss that we receive news of his recent hospitalization for AIDS. Of the public figures that have contracted the virus, from Greg Louganis to Magic Johnson, King's is perhaps the most disconcerting of all.

While news of Magic's diagnosis shocked the world, the injury to one of Iowa City's many unique characters is felt only locally. He contributed in defining the landscape of our city. As the Old Capitol is symbolic of the city and unipresence. As a feature of everyday py man, satisfied with his life.

As the Old Capitol is symbolic of the city and university, so was King symbolic of the Pedestrian Mall experience.

life, his absence resonates as strongly as his voice once did, giving the phrase "closer to home" new meaning.

To be sure, Iowa City is not threatened by a street musician shortage. Yet those that remain have not become recognizable facets of the Ped Mall as King was. Part of his fame comes from the long hours he put in, strumming in front of the Tobacco Bowl. He played in cold weather that would have sent other street artists packversity, so was King symbolic of ing. His persona was constantly the Pedestrian Mall experience. friendly; he genuinely seemed to be For those who made the brick- enjoying himself. One can only speculate about how King contracted AIDS. Few can imagine the spontaneous lifestyle of the traveler who alighted in Iowa City four years ago. When we evaluate the life of street musicians who have spent the greater part of their life playing for quarters, we must hope they have chosen their path, that they're doing just fine. Monroe King lived in front of all of us, and now we cringe at the thought maybe there was something we could have done.

Whatever the factors may be which are responsible for his eventual contraction of the AIDS virus, let them not diminish his contribution to everyday Iowa City existence. Let us remember the public man, an irreplaceable piece of downtown. Here's hoping he makes it back to that familiar brick, about two paces away from the Tobacco Bowl door.

Most people do not pick up after themselves. That task is left primarily to two groups from Iowa City high schools. They brave chilly Sunday mornings to make a few bucks for cleaning areas that will only get soiled again at the next football game.

for the police n the wake of the police shooting of Eric Shaw, as he sat speaking with a friend by telephone in his father's place of business with the lights on, an odd thing has happened. The shooting is tragedy on a scale as close to epic purity as we come today. Ours is a world in which presidents call former advisors to express sympathy in the wake of ignominious falls from power. We live in an amoral world, in amoral times, yet this shooting cuts away all the rationalizing and smooth talk. It leaves our community in dire need of a taste of justice. But from whom will justice require its pound of flesh? One young man is dead, and the other, who is possibly facing the end of his career and bearing the brunt of the public's outrage, might as well be.

This is why organizational units such as police forces have leaders. Leaders oversee, they imbue with values, they create an atmosphere in which the coming generations can thrive and grow into decent leaders who will sustain the community. Once the atmosphere over which a leader presides crosses into amorality and outright lawlessness he must step down or be removed. This is the position of Iowa City's chief of police, R. J. Winkelhake.

Many will take issue with this opinion. City Councilor Dean Thornberry warns against rallying "a lynch mob." Other citizens voice support for the chief. They're right in general, yet wrong in this specific instance. The reason for this is very hard, yet clear and bright as sunrise on a bitter winter's day. There are some moments in which tragedy is best honored by being compounded. There are moments when it is not merely decent, but absolutely imperative, for somebody's head to roll. The senseless death of Eric Shaw demands someone step forward and fall on his sword. That man is Iowa City's chief

It is hard to speak of such things in a smalltown atmosphere like Iowa City's. We believe in giving people chances; we believe our law enforcement officers have our best interests at heart. They must, after all - they live among us, don't they?

Yet 42 people spoke to the city council last week, with three repeat speakers among them. With minor variations, they all told of years of rude and even criminal behavior among certain officers. There were allegations of police perjury against local citizens. Officers' cursing, physical violence, and leering smugness in dealing with citizens was confirmed by a wide swath of community members. Listeners were left with no doubt the civic atmosphere has curdled on Winkelhake's watch. Community trust has soured, and suspicion grows like a smothering haw's death is the closest thing to a civic crisis Iowa City has faced in two decades. Contrary to what Councilor Larry Baker said after the public spoke, it is precisely in such desperate moments that decisive action must be taken. Those with the authority to resuscitate this town's flagging trust in law enforcement had better move quickly to do so. That trust will only be revived with Winkelhake's removal, and the formation of a citizen review panel.

A firing or forced resignation isn't pretty. In many cases it isn't even fair. But, as an important public gesture, it displays both decency and strength. It is accepted as a necessity of life and an occupational hazard by leaders in business, politics, education and even sports.

Until now, decency and strength have been strangely absent in the wake of Shaw's shooting. Pain and anger have filled the vacuum left by cautious authorities, and threaten to break the heart of the community. We have reached a point of moral critical mass, wherein only one outcome will suffice: Winkelhake must go.

I, for one, am sick of it. Let me tell you a story that is becoming more and more common. Just over three years ago my daughter lost her mother. Not because of a car accident or some tragic death, but because her mother had no room for her daughter in her life. My now ex-wife and I had separated and she was only too glad not to have the responsibility of raising her child. It took over two and a half years for the divorce to come about due to lack of funds. During that time my daughter's "mommy" only saw her about twelve times. All of this lack of concern happened while she lived only twenty short minutes away. I received a grand total of zero dollars in money, diapers and clothing, while "mommy" enjoyed her new-found freedom and a

Please understand, my frustration is not centered on the fact people want to persecute fathers who do not pay child support. In fact, I praise the recent efforts of our state and federal agencies in offering avenues of relief to single parents and trying to enforce child support. But the label of "deadbeat dads" needs to go. And it needs to go for this reason:

Two weeks ago I had to call the Office of Financial Aid because my financial aid award was being withheld. When I asked why, the response I received was that I had to provide proof my daughter was actually living with me.

In all my previous semesters of college (two of which were spent here at the UI) I had never been required to provide such "proof" before. I asked why I was being required to provide this information now. I was told most men who claim to have a child, in all actuality, do not. Since I was male, unmarried and claiming to have a child as my dependent, my file was redflagged - even after I had turned in a child care form that was completed and signed by my daughter's preschool provider.

I asked what more they could possibly need as proof my daughter was living with me. I was told a completed tax form would be sufficient. However, my ex-wife receives the tax exemption while I am in school. I was then told a letter, signed by my ex-wife, stating I was indeed the primary custodian would be just fine.

When I asked why single mothers and married parents were not required to provide such proof of the legitimacy of their claim the response I received was, "Well, just read the papers!"

Well, I am sorry, but because of the "papers", I was most certainly discriminated against on three counts: gender, marital status, and the fact I was indeed a parent.

am not pretending to ignore fact the majority of parents who do not follow through with their obligation to their children are men. I am only saying the term "deadbeat dad" seems to steer the public into believing parenthood is gender specific. Yes, men can be jerks when it comes to their children. But in the interest of equality, women can prove to be just as uncaring. Parenthood is NOT gender specific and it takes both a daddy and a mommy for things to go right or wrong. Almost every time I reveal to someone I am a single father, their reaction is nothing short of astonishment, and they almost invariably say, "Wow! Now there's something you don't hear about everyday." Well, thanks to the constant bashing of fathers in the media, chances are, no one will.

So here is something good. I went on a field trip with my daughter and her preschool class to an apple orchard last week. I was pleasantly surprised (and relieved!) that two other fathers had decided to go as well. I even overheard a remark from one of the teachers about how impressed she was so many dads were pre-

Even more than that, I knew the parents had gone, not because of an obligation, but because it

I am not a good father because I am a single parent nor because I am taking care of my responsibilities like a "man." I am just Daddy to a very special little girl, and I cherish that. So if we > are going to pay attention to deadbeat parents, be sure to include all those who deserve the title, not just those who fit the alliteration. And take heart:

There are more good Mommies and Daddies than there are bad

WASHINGTON - Heart disease, depression and car crashes will overtake infectious diseases to become the world's leading causes of death and disability by 2020, the World Health Organization said.

It will mark the first time noninfectious diseases kill more people than germs, a sudden rise propelled in part by tobacco.

The U.N. agency said in a new study tobacco-caused disease will be killing 8.4 million people annually within 25 years.

Independent ad strategy arouses controversy for Republicans

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Republican hierarchy meant it as a gift from above. But TV ads launched to aid Mike Enzi's Senate bid without his approval - sent his campaign into a frenzy of damage control.

As the ads attacking Enzi's Democratic opponent deluged the Wyoming airwaves - and were widely denounced as misleading -Enzi's campaign manager scrambled to reach Republican officials in Washington to protest.

"Finally I got a pager number of someone who called me back and said they couldn't talk to us. couldn't say anything that wasn't trol over the attacks.

Eager to capitalize on its huge fund-raising lead over the Democrats, the National Republican Senatorial Committee set up a special team for independent spending.

The six-member team was ordered not to talk to the candidates or to the rest of the committee staff, which continues advising the candidates.

Democratic officials have questioned the legality of the Republican ads, and sued in U.S. District Court to force the government to explain how a party can operate independent of its candidates.

But Sen. Bob Kerrey, chairperson of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, said Democ-court clarifies the rules.

Some observers say the whole thing is unworkable.

"The notion that either political party can make a truly independent expenditure on behalf of a candidate is utter nonsense," said Ellen Miller, director of the nonpartisan Center for Responsive Politics, which studies campaign financing.

Two days after Wyoming's Aug. 21 primaries, the GOP's Independent Expenditure Team began airing ads across the state with a picture of the Democratic Senate candidate and the message, "Kathy Karpan, we believe she's way too liberal for Wyoming."

The ad criticized Karpan for sup-

1995 extension of a 1-cent increase in the Wyoming sales tax. But Enzi, the Republican, also voted for that tax as a state senator.

The ad was criticized not only by Democrats but also by Enzi, Republican Gov. Jim Geringer and the state GOP chairperson.

A spokesperson for the independent expenditure team said it stands by the ads but couldn't talk to the Enzi campaign.

People can yell and scream, but we would just hang up the phone,' said Craig Engle, the committee's legal counsel. "The independent expenditure team, in its own judgment, will make a decision about what's to air and not to air.'

Choate: Insider's insider loves the pulpit

Katie Fairbank

Associated Press DALLAS - He may be new to politics, but Pat Choate is no

"I'm an insidinsider. That's how I've made my living. You've heard a lot of my speeches without ever knowing it," said Choate, who, for years, was the man behind the Buchanan and Ross Perot. Although he's been the Texas billionaire's running mate for less than a week, Choate has moved with ease from backstage to a leading role in the campaign. He's met with reporters almost non-stop, made several public appearances and sketched an in-person vision for the Reform Party ticket - all voids left by the press-shy Perot, who prefers TV infomercials.

Choate, a longtime Washington D.C. resident who has never held public office, has taken up residence in a Dallas hotel through Election Day. The well-known economist and talk show radio host also has given up his comfortable pullovers and jeans for a suit and "I feel like I'm back in uniform again," Choate said in an hour and 20 minute interview with the AP at Perot '96 headquarters, where blue Perot signs line the walls with no mention yet of Choate.

Still, Choate said he feels like a vital part of the third-party ticket. "I am definitely speaking for Perot/Choate when we talk of these issues," he said, referring to their shared views against free trade without first protecting America's interests, big government and the tax system.

A Texas native like Perot, Choate, 55, also comes from a background based on cotton. His father, who died in 1985, farmed cotton, starting out as a sharecropper and improving the family's lot year by year.

"He was hard working, religious, ethical and honest," Choate said. His 87-year-old mother, Bette, still lives in Red Oak, Texas, and still speaks her mind - so much so that Choate asked her not to grant any more interviews.

After Perot used a 30-minute infomercial to announce last Tuesday that Choate was his No. 2, Choate's mother said this of the Reform Party ticket: "I don't think it will ever amount to much."

Choate, sitting in a cramped conference room with muffin crumbs scattered across the table, laughed good-naturedly at her remarks. "I said, 'Well, Mama, you're doing news interviews now," he recalled. "I said, 'It was cute. How bout not giving any more.' She said, 'I'll never talk to them

WASHINGTON - The F-117A stealth fighters sent to the Persian Gulf look the size of a typical fighter plane but appear on enemy radar - if at all - as an object about the size of a hummingbird.

For that reason, the eight diamond-shaped warplanes stationed in Kuwait since Friday are capable of flying against Iraq's most heavily defended targets, including key military headquarters in downtown Baghdad.

They're neither invisible nor invulnerable, and government experts point at problems in their bombing accuracy. But for now, they're the best the United States has if tensions in the Gulf

"If we're going to put people in harm's way, this is the platform to do it in," said Air Force Maj. John Moring, an F-117A pilot.

Designed as Cold War weapons, they trace their radarevading technology, oddly enough, to an article that appeared in an obscure Soviet technical journal in 1966 and was discovered nine years later reports showed the F-117A by a radar specialist at Lock- achieving 80 percent bombing heed's fabled "Skunk Works" in accuracy in the Gulf, only 40 per-Burbank, Calif.

Two years later, in 1977, Lockheed briefed a Pentagon acquisition official named William Perry on its research. Perry, now the secretary of defense, immediately grasped its significance.

"This stealth breakthrough is forcing me into a snap decision," Perry told a colleague. He wanted swift action.

The first stealth-technology fighter flew in June 1981. It took nine years before the top-secret aircraft was shown to the public.

Lockheed engineers developed an aircraft that featured a single, clean line from the nose to the wingtip; an array of flat, angled surfaces; and a slightly dishshaped underside.

Aimed at a normal plane, electromagnetic radiation from a radar dish bounces off the metal surfaces and sends back a signal that is able to be plugged into a guided surface-to-air missile. The result can be a downed aircraft. Stealth uses curved or angular surfaces to reduce that radar reflection - known as a cross

But the technical problems of stealth go beyond radar.

Engineers also had to devise ways to reduce heat, smoke, noise and condensation trails. Because it lacks the aerodynamic integrity of conventional aircraft, engineers had to develop a computer to help the pilot control the

The F-117A went into action not against the Soviet Union but against tiny Panama, a two-bomb attack on barracks at Rio Hato in the 1989 operation to oust dictator Manuel Noriega.

A House Armed Services Committee report found limitations in the aircraft.

Muggy weather over Panama "severely and dramatically" limited pilots' ability to find their targets, the committee reported in 1992, "conditions the F-117A did not face a year later in Operation Desert Storm.'

In an interview Friday, Moring said the pilot "spends a great deal of time locating the target, determining that it's the correct target and guiding it with a very steady hand."

The magazine Defense Week, in an article set for publication today, cited Pentagon documents acknowledging that while earlier cent of its claimed hits were con-

Finding the target is made more difficult by poor cockpit visibility, according to the Gulf War Air Power Survey, a six-volume study of air operations in the Persian Gulf commissioned by the Air Force.

In addition, the study said the plane, which does not reach supersonic speeds, would be "extremely vulnerable" to gunfire from another plane. The result is the F-117A is used almost exclusively at night as a bomber.

Because bombs slung under the wing generate a stronger radar cross section, the F-117A is limited to the two laser-guided 2,000-pound bombs it can hold in its internal bay.

Clever tactics help in avoiding radar detection. In the Gulf War, the Air Force placed nonstealthy aircraft near the F-117As to sow confusion.

"The F-117 is not an invisible airplane, but it gets a lot closer to being invisible when people on radar scopes are occupied with seeing lots of other, more observ-When combined with radar able aircraft," Air Force Brig. absorbing composite materials, a Gen. Anthony Tolin said after the

Bahrain agrees to base U.S. forces, weaponry

MANAMA, Bahrain - With a fresh round of attacks on Iraq still a possibility, Defense Secretary William Perry said Sunday that Bahrain has agreed to become the second Persian Gulf country to serve as a base for American forces and weaponry.

Perry said the 23 F-16s to be based in the small island nation will help enforce a "no-fly" zone over southern Iraq, where U.S. warplanes have been patrolling since the end of the 1991 Gulf War.

"Just yesterday we had conducted more than 100 sorties over southern Iraq," Perry told a news conference after meeting with Bahrain's leaders. Perry is making the rounds among American allies in the Gulf, seeking additional support for the United States' stance against Iraq.

Perry noted Iraq has challenged "Operation Southern Watch," most recently in response to American cruise missile attacks on military targets in the zone Sept. 3 and 4.

Those attacks were in response to the troops were being sent from an Iraqi military incursion into a Fort Hood, Texas, but that opera-Kurdish safe haven in the north.

CARLOTTA, Calif. - Scores of environmentalists - including singer Bonnie Raitt - were arrested Sunday in a demonstration against logging in the world's last privately-owned virgin grove of redwood trees.

The protesters, many of them emerging from soggy camp sites after a nightlong drizzle, converged on a quarter-mile stretch of road in front of Pacific Lumber Co.'s Carlotta mill, about 280 miles north of San Francisco.

Nearly 4,000 people were at the site, and by early evening between 300 and 400 of them had been arrested and handcuffed on charges of intentionally trespassing on Pacific Lumber land.

Among the arrested were families with children, although none of the protesters were being jailed. They were processed at the site and released.

The protesters trickled in throughout the day by bicycle, car and on foot. Raitt was arrested along with her father, Broadway star John Raitt. Bonnie Raitt and Don Henley were among the singers who made appearances to aimed at Pacific Lumber's plans support the cause.

Private security guards and sheriff's deputies in riot gear were deployed in front of the mill. Demonstrators went prepared

"If we don't log it, somebody else will," said Bryan Chipps, a private timber worker.

Pacific Lumber scheduled the work to begin Monday, but agreed with the Clinton administration to delay the startup for two weeks during negotiations on preserving part of the forest.

The talks focused on a swap in which Texas billionaire Charles Hurwitz, whose Maxxam Inc. is the parent company of Pacific Lumber, would relinquish control of part of the Headwaters in return for surplus government property elsewhere.

Bossi declares northern Italy's freedom

Daniel J. Wakin Associated Press

VENICE. Italy - As thousands of followers cheered, secession leader Umberto Bossi declared northern Italy an independent nation Sunday, in his sharpest challenge yet to the country's political establishment.

"We peoples of Padania solemnly proclaim: Padania is an independent and sovereign federal republic," said Bossi, using the name he would give to an independent north.

The declaration was only a symbolic gesture, marking a finale to three days of rallies for secession and against the Rome-based government, which Bossi accuses of oppressing and exploiting Italy's comparatively wealthy north.

Bossi leads the Northern League party, which emerged in the early 1990s as a powerful force in the north's wealthy regions.

increases, and they are well-justified," she said.

Wilkinson, who is a political science and economics major, said it doesn't matter if the costs are justifled because she will still be grave-

"If costs go up, it hurts being able to get my degree in a timely fashion, because I will be worrying about how I am going to pay for all the extra costs," she said. "If you're always worried about how you're going to pay for college, it could end up hurting your school work."

State Board of Regents member John Tyrrell said these tuition increases are sometimes necessary.

"This is a preparatory proposal that is necessary to maintain a quality university which remains in competition with other universities in terms of salaries of faculty members, equipment and maintenance of buildings," Tyrrell said.

The proposed increases will also include slight rises in health/computer fees. A new $10 health facility fee will be added as well. In addition to undergraduate tuition increases, there will also be surcharges for UI's colleges of Pharmacy, Dentristy and Law.

First and second year in- and out-of-state dentristy students will be facing a 21.3 percent increase in tuition, and in- and out-of-state law student's tuition will increase by 10.6 percent. Tuition for in-state pharmacy students will be raised 11.3 percent, bringing costs from $3,758 to $4,184, and out-of-state tuition will rise from $11,346 to $12,638.

Part of the reason for the increase in pharmacy costs is the not acceptable to some students. addition of the advanced professional doctoral program.

According to Gilbert Banker, UI dean and professor in the College of Pharmacy, the doctoral program is a higher-cost program because of the experience it offers.

"The doctoral program is preparing students for clinical operations they will be engaging in," Banker said. "It will enhance their skills in the jobs they will receive.'

Banker said although tuition is being increased, students can help alleviate some of the costs. He added because most pharmacy students earn higher salaries once they join the working force, they should have less of a problem paying back student loans. However, this line of reasoning is change it, I will."

Wilkinson said since not all students are guaranteed a well-paying job after graduation, these added costs could cause problems for many students.

"Part of the reason I went to a state school is to get a good education for a cheaper price," Wilkinson said. "I didn't want to go into debt in a undergraduate program before I could get to a good graduate school."

Tyrrell said students are welcome to come to Wednesday's board obtain scholarships and loans to meeting to voice their concerns about rising costs.

Bettendorf sophomore dies after on-field collapse

He died at 8:04 p.m. Friday shortly after arriving at Muscatine General Hospital.

Officials said the death was being called a "cardiac episode," possibly brought on by an asthma attack. Velotas, a 6-foot, 204pound linebacker, collapsed during the third quarter.

Witnesses said Velotas had taken himself out of the game. His parents were in the stands. The funeral is scheduled for 11 a.m. Wednesday in Birmingham, Ala.

Velotas is survived by his parents, Peter and Renee Velotas of Bettendorf, grandparents James and Marlene Velotas and Jean and Violet Rogowski, all of Birmingham, and his great-grandmother, Katherine Petenes, also of Birmingham.

Banks steals spotlight from Davis and Shaw

Chris Snider

The Daily Iowan

In a game that was billed as the showdown between Iowa's Sedrick Shaw and Iowa State's Troy Davis, it was another runner, Hawkeye Tavian Banks, that stole the show.

Banks ran 18 times for 182 yards, bettering his career high 147-yard performance from last season against New Mexico State.

"Tavian is an outstanding back," Iowa quarterback Matt Sherman said. "It makes my job much easier and Sedrick's job easier when Tavian can play well. It's just a beautiful one-two punch we have when those guys can run well.

Banks' first touchdown of the day came at the end of the first quarter with the score tied, 0-0. The junior from Bettendorf, Iowa, took a handoff on a sweep right from the Iowa 11-yard line, picked up a block from Shaw, cut back upfield at the Iowa 20 and outran everyone for the score.

"Sedrick had a key block and I just read from that," Banks said. "Tim (Dwight) had a good block down field and I read off that and just went straight up the field.

The Hawkeye junior reached the end zone twice more, on runs of 12

"Every time I touch the ball, I want to score a touchdown," he said. "I don't look for getting just one or two yards."

According to Iowa coach Hayden Fry, having Shaw and Banks both in the game at the same time, instead of one or the other and a Entering this weekend's Hawkeye Classic, Iowa carried a disappointing 2-4 record after two road tournaments in Florida and Ames. But for the next several days, at least, the Hawkeyes can enjoy a winning record.

Iowa went undefeated and took first place in its home tournament, losing only one game in the process. On Friday night, the Hawkeyes defeated Tennessee, 15-7, 15-11, 15-11. Saturday morning's victim was Miami of Ohio, 15-9, 6-15, 15-10, 15-9, and the Hawks finished the tournament by beating Kansas, 15-13, 15-4, 15-10.

The No. 3-ranked Iowa field hockey team trounced its first opponent last weekend, but had to come from behind in the championship to take the Hawkeye Invitational title.

Headed by U.S.A. national team coach Pam Hixon, the Massachussets Minutewomen gave Iowa all it could handle in a tough 2-1 Hawkeye win Sunday. Despite trailing 1-0 at halftime, Iowa dominated the Minutewomen with 29 shots-ongoal. Massachussets managed just two shots-on-goal.

Iowa, which scored the first of 13 goals in just 20 seconds against St. Louis the day before, was held scoreless for 62 minutes against Massachussets. At 16:35 in the first half, UMass scored a goal on a penalty corner to get on the board initially. Iowa goalkeeper Lisa Celluci looked to have saved the shot, but couldn't maintain control of the ball.

The Hawkeyes clearly outplayed the Minutewomen on both sides of the field with a relentless pressure attack. Iowa spent the entire half on the offensive, but UMass goalkeeper Hillary Rose, a member of the Great Britain national team, held tough. Rose finished the game with 25 saves.

"I told the team at halftime that things were going to be fine," Iowa head coach Beth Beglin said. "With the kind of pressure we were putting on (Rose), I knew we would get to her sometime.'

In the second half, Iowa found the scoreboard with 17:51 remaining when Kerry Lessard scored unassisted. Eight minutes later, Annette Payne hit paydirt for the game winning goal. Payne took a spectacular pass from Emily Smith in for the score.

"This was a very physical and

GAME OF THE WEEK

Two years after a Hail Mary pass completion produced an agonizing defeat, Michigan got the chance to celebrate when Koy Detmer's lastsecond pass was batted away, preserving the Wolverines' victory.

2-10

As rivalries go, the 1996 edition of Iowa vs. Iowa State had plenty of drama. Oh, and Iowa won going away, 38-13.

Prior to kickoff, Iowa coach Hayden Fry waited near midfield for his Cyclone counterpart, Dan McCarney, but the former Iowa assistant never showed.

"I parked myself right there at the 50-yard line with all of our linemen," Fry said.

Fry said he talked with ISU assistant coach Jay Norvell, but not McCarney.

"I didn't see Dan until right before pre-game warm-ups were over with," Fry explained. "He was down there with his people. I assume he was involved with his own players. I would have certainly enjoyed talking with him."

McCarney said he was just too busy.

"I'm trying to get my team ready to play and I'm sure he was," the second year ISU head coach said. "It's not unusual at all. There were a lot of coaches in the Big 8 last year who didn't shake hands before the game. The time to get with coaches is after the game.

The coaches did meet then. "I said, 'Win the rest of 'em.' He said, 'You've got a hell of a football team.' I think that's about it," Fry said. "There wasn't any time for allowed back-up quarterback Ryan the longest by a Hawkeye at Kin-Driscoll to take two throws into the end zone from the nine-yard-line.

Fry explained that Iowa State was in an eight-man front and he had no other choice. Driscoll hoped his coach was sending a message to the other sideline.

"I hope so," Driscoll said. "Those guys were over there predicting vins and all that stuff. You just don't do that and you don't disrespect Coach Fry."

Friction between the coaches began when McCarney allowed Arizona coaches to study Iowa game films on ISU's campus. Some Iowa players resented the fact that Iowa State tailback Troy Davis guaranteed a Cyclone victory.

"The big thing was the Arizona thing," Iowa receiver Tim Dwight said. "I think that was disloyal maybe to Coach Fry and he took it personally." Dwight said the players the ordeal upset some players, as well.

"When you read that stuff in the paper, yeah we were kind of pissed off. This guy (Head Coach Dan McCarney) is from Iowa and he coached under Coach Fry, and then he kind of pulled that kind of stuff." Record Book

Tavian Banks' 89-yard touchdown run in the first quarter was the fourth longest in Hawkeye history. Brion Hurley's 54-yard field

At the end of the game, despite a goal to end the first half was the comfortable 25-point lead, Fry third longest by a Hawkeye, and nick Stadium.

Ricchard Carter's 75-yard kickoff return is Iowa's longest since Sedrick Shaw returned a kickoff 75 yards in the 1993 season opener against Tulsa.

Fumble frenzy

In the first 24 seconds of the fourth quarter, there were four turnovers on three plays.

Iowa's Ryan Driscoll's pass was intercepted by Iowa State's Tracy Williams, who then preceded to fumble the ball on his return.

On the next play from scrimmage, Tavian Banks fumbled, giving the ball back to Iowa State. The Cyclones' Troy Davis then fumbled on Iowa State's first offensive play, giving the ball back to Iowa.

Iowa fumbled five times for the game, losing three, and threw one interception. Iowa State lost two of three fumbles and turned the ball over once through the air.

Shaw injury update

Sedrick Shaw, who was noticeably limping on a couple of occasions during the game, injured his ankle against Iowa State, but should not miss any action.

"I think Sedrick is going to be okay," Iowa coach Hayden Fry said. "The doctors think he will, but they'll probably X-ray it."

fullback, may have crossed up the Cyclone defense.

When Tavian made the long run, we had both of the running backs in the backfield. I think after we had pounded at them with the fullback, I think that destroyed their defensive keys," Fry said. "Of course, you can't predict the running ability of Tavian.'

Banks, who rushed for 400 yards on 66 carries last season, was not surprised by his career performance. Sedrick just happened to go down and I had to step in," he said.

"The offensive line did a really good job, getting me a lot of holes.' Shaw was slowed by an ankle injury, but should be ready to play next week at Tulsa. He finished with 79 yards on 10 carries.

Sherman, who said he doesn't change his approach when either Banks or Shaw is in the game, enjoyed watching both backs perform against the Cyclones. Watching those guys do their thing, it's a work of art," he said. Having to play behind Shaw for three years may have limited Banks' playing time, but he insists it hasn't een too frustrating for him.

"It sort of is, but it's not," Banks said. "Sedrick has taught me a lot about reading blocks and stuff like that. I'm really glad that he was outrushed the Cyclones 238-31. "I couldn't believe how we dominated the first half," Fry said.

Banks' touchdown ignited the Hawkeyes as they pushed their lead to 24-0 by halftime. Banks scampered in from 12 yards out less than three minutes after his first score. Later in the half, Matt Sherman connected with Damon Gibson on a 42-yard touchdown pass. And kicker Brion Hurley nailed a 54yarder through the uprights as time expired in the half.

Hurley's was the third longest kick ever by a Hawkeye, and the longest in Kinnick Stadium.

"On a good day I could probably hit from 60 yards (in practice)," said Hurley, who made up for a poor showing at Iowa State last year, where he missed an extra point and a field goal.

into the locker room having outgained the Cyclones, 356 yards to 61. The Hawkeyes' passing attack went almost unnoticed next to the rushing display, but Sherman and Ryan Driscoll managed to tally 235 yards through the air.

Driscoll saw his first action of the season when he entered the game with 3:34 remaining in the first half. Sherman started the second half, but Driscoll finished the game.

"That was fine with me," Sherman said of the decision to play Driscoll. "Ryan needs to get in there and play. He's an awfully talented quarterback and we need a good 1-2 going into the Big Ten season."

Driscoll completed half of his 14 Gibson, the second time the two have hooked up for a score this season.

Iowa's final two touchdowns were staggered in between Cyclone touchdowns in the second half. Tim Dwight carried the ball in from five yards out on a three-play drive that was set up when Ricchard Carter returned a kickoff 75 yards to the 13-yard line.

Banks capped the scoring with 1:14 remaining in the third-quarter on a 28-yard run.

The Cyclones, who gained 229 yards in the second half, came out of the gates quickly after halftime. Davis opened the half with a 14yard run, then shot through the Hawkeye defense for 61 yards before being tackled by Kerry Cooks and Plez Atkins on the two-yard line.

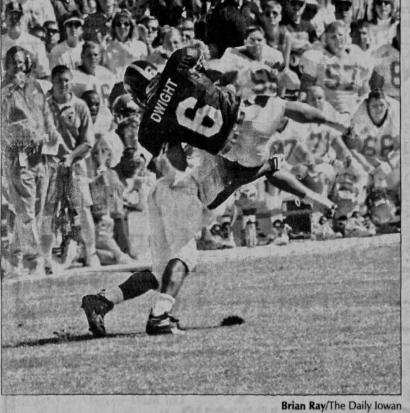

Two plays later, Davis bulled his way into the end zone.

"That (long run) gives you an insight as to just how dangerous Iowa State is," Fry said, "which means to me that we did a heck of a job defensively, in the first half and then to hold them to only 13 points."

The Cyclones' other touchdown passes for 86 yards and threw one came off a 10-play, 68-yard drive interception. Sherman connected on which was capped by a five-yard 13-of-16 passes, including the strike to touchdown pass from Todd Doxzon to fullback Joe Parmentier.

Doxzon completed 12-of-27 passes for 125 yards and threw one interception late in the game. Damien Robinson picked off his first pass of the year with 42 seconds on the clock.

Robinson and Plez Atkins had eight tackles Saturday, second only to Matt Hughes, who had eight solo tackles and 11 total.

lowa's Tim Dwight gets his feet taken out from under him Saturday against the Cyclones. Dwight caught three passes for 37 yards, rushed the ball once for a touchdown, returned two punts for 16 yards and returned two kickoffs for 36 yards, helping lowa to a 38-13 victory over Iowa State.

But one round later, the Hawkeyes watched as four other teams passed them by.

While the top seven teams each improved Sunday on their Round One scores, the Hawkeyes fell victim to the par 74 Les Bolsted-University of Minnesota Golf Course, as four of the six Hawkeyes had higher scores on the final 18 holes.

We really ran into trouble on a tough golf course," Iowa coach Diane Thomason said.

After shooting 323 as a team on Saturday, Iowa positioned itself to finish among the leaders of the 15 team tournament. Karen Schroeder and Becky Sjoholm wound up in a ninth-place tie individually after 18-holes with scores of 79.

Oregon went the opposite direction of Iowa, shooting a final round 301 to win the tournament by eight strokes over Minnesota. Iowa State ended up 20 strokes behind the Ducks to finish third.

Kansas, Arkansas-Little Rock, Charleston and Northern Illinois shot sub-320 rounds on Sunday to pass up the Hawkeyes.

"I'm not disappointed. It was our first tournament," Thomason said.
"We've got some work to do, but I'm optimistic."

Women's cross country

First-year Iowa women's cross country coach Rachelle Roberts learned last weekend that bad things don't happen to everyone on Friday the 13th.

Iowa finished fourth out of 15 teams at the Bradley Open in its season debut. Southern Illinois captured the 5K meet with a score of 38, followed by Indiana State (46) and Purdue (73).

"I'm a new coach here so basically I've spent the last three weeks just getting to know the athletes," Roberts said. "The first race is a good time to check your fitness level and get a grasp of your strengths and weaknesses. Times always vary from course to course but overall I was pleased with our performance today. We should have a good year."

The Hawkeyes sent nine runners with the top five times scoring. Seniors Kiersten Pauling and Becky Coleman finished eighth and ninth respectively out of 158 women. Pauling had a time of 18:20, just beating Coleman's time of 18:21.

Angie Menser of Indiana State won the race, finishing in 17:36.

Although Roberts was quick to two top runners, it was the Hawkeye freshmen who caught her eye.

Iowa has a week to prepare before it hosts the Iowa Invitational on Sept. 21.

The course at Bradley was a relatively flat course. Our home course is quite difficult. It is probably one of the most challenging in the Big Ten," Roberts said.

Men's cross country

The Iowa men's cross country team opened its season strong, placing second to Indiana State in both dual scoring and team scoring Friday night at the Bradley Invitational.

Hawkeye runners Stetson Steele and Mike Bakker paced the 11team field and ended up finishing first and second in the 8K race. Steele's time of 24:39 broke his own course record which he set last year at Detweiller Park. Bakker was right behind him with a time of 24:48.

The Iowa runners kept together most of the race as Coach Larry Wieczorek requested. In the last 600 meters, Steele and Bakker reeled in the Indiana State runcompliment the performance of her ners and scored the one-two finish

Softball

The Iowa softball team kicked off the fall season last weekend with a homestand against Oklahoma and Illinois State. Although fall games don't count on the win-loss record, it gives teams a chance to keep the rust from setting in.

Iowa split a twin-bill with Oklahoma Saturday. Iowa fell in the first game 2-1, but came back to pick up game two, 4-0. Last season Oklahoma was an NCAA Regional qual-

"We had a good showing against Oklahoma," Iowa head coach Gayle Blevins said. "They had a returning all-American pitcher going at us in Game 1, so it was a good experience.

Illinois State and Iowa went at it Sunday with the Hawkeyes picking up the 3-2 win. Thanks to graduation and personnel shifts, Iowa had many new faces in different places.

We played better than I anticipated," Blevins said. "We have a heavy fall schedule, so we're looking at new people in various positions. This was one of the busiest fall weekends I've had here.

If Brett Favre and the Green Bay Packers keep it up, they may supplant Vince Lombardi as Lambeau legends.

Offense, defense and special teams all scored Sunday as the Packers beat previously undefeated San Diego 42-10 to run their record to 3-0 for the first time since 1982.

Brett Favre threw three touchdown passes, LeRoy Butler returned an interception 90 yards for a touchdown, and Desmond Howard returned a punt 65 yards for a TD. That gave Green Bay 115 points to 26 for the opposition this season.

"They beat us in every which way, in every phase," Chargers coach Bobby Ross said. "There's really not much that I can say, other than the fact that we took the old butt-kicking. It started early and it didn't really stop.'

Buffalo is at Pittsburgh on Monday night. Atlanta, Carolina, St. Louis and San Francisco were off. Colts 25, Cowboys 24

Cary Blanchard kicked four field goals, including the game-winner from 43 yards with 51 seconds left. and Jim Harbaugh threw two touchdown passes as banged-up Indianapolis rallied from an 18point deficit. Chris Boniol's 57-yard field goal attempt for Dallas at the gun hit the crossbar.

Dallas (1-2) went ahead 24-22 with 13:26 left on Boniol's 52-yard field goal, but his 40-yarder hit the right upright and bounced away with 2:48 to go to keep the Colts, missing six injured players, in the game.

Harbaugh, who was 19-of-28 for 244 yards, hit Ken Dilger with a 28-yard pass and Zack Crockett with an 18-yarder to position Blanchard for his field goal try. Chiefs 35, Seahawks 17

Marcus Allen became the eighth player in NFL history to rush for 11,000 yards in the Chiefs victory at Seattle.

touchdown from Steve Bono. Dolphins 36, Jets 27

In Miami, Dan Marino celebrated his 35th birthday by rebounding from Aaron Glenn's 100-yard interception return with three touchdown passes and rallying the Dolphins past New York (0-3).

Trailing 14-0, the Dolphins scored on four consecutive possessions and got 33 straight points. It began with Marino's 74-yard scoring pass to rookie fullback Stanley Pritchett. He also had TD tosses to backup tight ends Frank Wainright and Brett Carolan, the first TD receptions of their careers. Bengals 30, Saints 15

After weeks of saying that all he needed was a hole, Ki-Jana Carter finally found one, bursting through it for a 31-yard touchdown run that set up a 30-15 victory over the Saints (0-3) at Riverfront Stadium.

Carter's second-quarter run, the longest by the Bengals in two years, gave Cincinnati (1-2) a 17-6 lead. Carter, last year's No. 1 overall draft pick who missed his rookie season with a knee injury, had 63 yards on 19 carries after gaining 27 yards on 21 carries in the first two games. Oilers 29, Ravens 13

The smallest crowd ever to see the Oilers play in the Astrodome, 20,082, watched them beat Baltimore (1-2) as the defense got three interceptions, two by cornerback Darryll Lewis, and Chris Chandler threw two touchdown passes.

The Oilers (2-1), whose attendance has plummeted since they announced their proposed move to Tennessee a year ago, broke the previous Astrodome attendance low of 21,955 in 1973 against the New York Jets.

Eagles 24, Lions 17

Ricky Watters, who hurt the Eagles with fumbles in each of their first two games, ran for 153 yards on 27 carries for Philadelphia (2-1).

Rodney Peete completed 25 of 30 passes for 284 yards, his highest total in two seasons with the Eagles. And second-year wide receiver Chris T. Jones chipped in of his career - one a 46-yard with nine catches for 121 yards and a touchdown.

The visiting Lions (1-2) dropped to 13-18 in September games during Wayne Fontes' eight-year tenure as head coach.

Patriots 31, Cardinals 0 In Foxboro, Drew Bledsoe threw touchdown passes of 13 and 7 yards to Curtis Martin and 2 yards to Ben Coates in a battle of winless teams.

The Patriots (1-2) scored on their first five possessions and had 18 first downs to one for the Cardinals (0-3), who were outgained 256-26. Boomer Esiason had three completions and two interceptions for Arizona before being relieved by Kent Graham. Raiders 17, Jaguars 3

Oakland broke an eight-game losing streak as 320-pound defensive tackle Jerry Ball broke the game open by returning a fumble 66 yards after Mark Brunell had led the Jaguars to the Oakland 26 in the fourth quarter.

Tim Brown caught a 19-yard scoring pass from Jeff Hostetler, making his return from injuries for the Raiders (1-2), who had not won since last November. Mike Hollis' 33-yard field goal was the only score for Jacksonville (1-2). Redskins 31, Giants 10

Terry Allen ran for 146 yards and a game-clinching touchdown, Gus Frerotte threw a 30-yard scoring pass on a fake field goal and Tom, Carter had two fourth-quarter interceptions for the Redskins (2-1), who ran for 241 yards.

The Giants, who have failed to make the playoffs the past two years, have now started the last two seasons with 0-3 records. Broncos 27, Buccaneers 23

DENVER - John Elway gets credit for his 38th career gamewinning drive in the fourth quarter. It was Terrell Davis who did most of the work.

Elway drove the Broncos 80 yards in 14 plays in the fourth quarter, capped by Davis' 3-yard plunge up the middle with 3:32 left, and the Denver Broncos stayed unbeaten, rallying to defeat the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 27-23 Sunday night.

COUPLES SINKS DRAMATIC PUTT

U.S. retains Presidents Cup

Joseph White Associated Press

GAINESVILLE, Va. - The outcome hinged on a dramatic 25-foot putt on the next-to-last hole of the final match, exactly the type of finish the Presidents Cup needed to build a pedigree.

With his 11 teammates and captain Arnold Palmer watching anxiously by the side of the green, Fred Couples made that birdie putt Sunday to beat Vijay Singh and give the United States a 16 1/2-151/2 victory over the International team to retain the trophy in the second edition of the biennial competition.

Singh had a chance to match Couples' birdie, but he missed a 15-footer that would have sent the match to the 18th hole. The U.S. team was jubilant, while International co-captain Ian Baker-Finch was among those wiping away

It appeared that wouldn't happen after the home team won seven of 10 matches on the first day, but the International team roared back within one point Saturday to set up Sunday's cliffhanger conclusion.

Over the weekend, Mark O'Meara was perhaps the biggest of the American heros. His 1-up victory over Nick Price gave the three-time Ryder Cup veteran a 5-Singh, had three holes to play 0 record over the three-day compe-

Woods blows his cool and his lead

Ron Sirak

COAL VALLEY, Ill. - It was quad city for Tiger Woods.

A quadruple bogey on the fourth hole and a quadruple-putt green on No. 7 did in Woods, who first lost his composure and then lost his chance to win the Quad City Classic on Sunday.

Trying to get his first tournament victory as a professional in only his third try, Woods shot a shaky 72 and finished - what else? - four strokes behind Ed Fiori, who won for the first time since 1982.

"I had a three-stroke lead and it all slipped away in a heartbeat," a dejected Woods said. "I just putted horribly."

Amonte goal catapults U.S. to title

MONTREAL -It sounds impressive: United States, world champion in hockey. And so it is.

Sixteen years after Mike Eruzione scored the goal that elevated hockey to another level in the United States, another Italian-American has done the same.

Tony Amonte sent Canada into a state of disbelief Saturday night, breaking a 2-2 tie with less than three minutes remaining in the third period of the finale of the World Cup of Hockey.

The goal, as deflating as any goal could possibly be, sent the United States to a 5-2 victory and its neighbor to the north into mourn-

The loss may be difficult for accept, considering that Canada outplayed the United States by a wide margin in Game 3. Canada lost because U.S. goalie Mike Richter refused to cave in to pressure applied by the likes of Gretzky, Eric Lindros and Paul Coffey, making 35 saves for the second straight game and capturing MVP

The tournament demonstrated that every nation has learned how to play the game Canada's way, the NHL way - a combination of finesse, force and fury. And for that, the Great White North can remain proud.

"We're aware of the fact that the game of hockey was originated in Canada," said Mark Messier, who uncharacteristically was on the ice for three of the U.S. goals Saturday

BOULDER, Colo. - This time there was no miracle.

Two years after a Hail Mary pass completion produced an agonizing defeat, Michigan got the chance to celebrate when Koy Detmer's last-second pass was batted away, preserving the 11thranked Wolverines' 20-13 victory over No. 5 Colorado on Saturday.

Michigan seemingly had Colorado beaten in 1994 at Ann Arbor, but Kordell Stewart's 64yard pass was pulled down in the end zone by Michael Westbrook as time expired and the Buffaloes had a 27-26 victory.

Incredibly, it came down to the final play in the rematch. Michigan turned the ball over on downs at its 38-yard line with five seconds left, and Detmer heaved an end-zone pass which was tipped away from intended receiver James Kidd.

"I was thinking, Here we go again," Michigan coach Lloyd Carr said. "When the ball went up in the air, I held my breath. We were in a better position to hit the ball this time. Colorado got a good bounce two years ago. They didn't this time."

Colorado coach Rick Neuheisel said the ball "was in the right place, we just didnt get the carom we got in '94. That's just luck. You hope one of your guys comes up with it. It would have been unbelievable if it had happened again. I thought they (Michigan) could have run out the clock. Lo and behold, they gave us a chance to repeat history.' Carr admitted the Wolverines should have managed the clock better at the finish. On fourth down, quarterback Scott Dreisbach kneeled for a loss.

"We should have run off more time," he said. "We worked on this in practice. But in the excitement of it all, we didn't handle it

"It was my fault," Dreisbach said. "I should have scrambled around and killed time."

Dreisbach threw a 3-yard touchdown pass to Jerame Tuman late in the third quarter as Michigan (2-0) took control, scoring 10 points while Colorado's offense could manage only 11 yards on 10 plays. Colorado then turned the ball over on downs twice in the final peri-

Midway through the third period, Dreisbach completed three passes, including a 17-yarder to Tai Streets, to set up Remy Hamilton's 42-yard field goal, producing a 13-13 tie.

A holding penalty and David Bowens' sack of Detmer then forced Colorado (2-1) to punt from its 6-yard line, and Andy Mitchell got off only a 26-yarder. Michigan went the 32 yards in seven plays.

Streets caught a 14-yard pass which he tipped twice before grabbing, and Dreisbach hit the wide-open Tuman in the right corner of the end zone for a 20-13 lead with 59 seconds left in the

In the final quarter, Colorado surrendered the ball on downs at the Michigan 41 and 9. Lendon Henry was dumped for a 2-yard loss by Bowens to end the first possession, and Detmer threw incomplete on the second.

Before Detmer's incomplete pass, the Buffs appeared to have scored the tying touchdown on his 46-yard pass to James Kidd, but Colorado was whistled for illegal motion.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL ROUNDUP

Mismatch blowouts fill Top 25 schedule

Richard Rosenblatt Associated Press

The Big 12 Conference may not be so big after all.

With four of its six Top 25 teams playing non-conference games Saturday, the Big 12 had two winners and two big losers - Colorado and

The Aggies were shocked at Southwestern Louisiana 29-22 and fell from the Top 25. Colorado tumbled from No. 5 to No. 12 in this week's poll.

Top-ranked Nebraska and No. 6 Texas were idle, so it was left for No. 16 Kansas State and No. 22 Kansas to uphold the Big 12 honor with easy victories.

Kansas State beat Cincinnati 35-0 and Kansas routed TCU 52-17. In four other Big 12 non-conference games, Iowa State and Missouri were losers, and Baylor and Oklahoma State were winners.

It doesn't get easier for the Big 12 next Saturday. Among the top non-conference games are No. 9 Notre Dame at Texas and Nebraska at No. 17 Arizona State.

No. 5 Penn St. 49, N. Illinois 0

At State College, Pa., Curtis Enis missed the game with strep throat, but Chafie Fields filled in nicely with two TDs in a 21-point burst in a 2:17 span of the second quarter. Tight end Joe Jurevicius caught two scoring passes for the Lions (3-0), including a 51-yarder from backup Mike McQueary. No. 9 Notre Dame 35, Purdue 0

At South Bend, Ind., Autry Denson ran for two TDs and caught a scoring pass from Ron Powlus (19of-32 for 238 yards) and Allen Rossum returned the opening kickoff 99 yards for a TD.

Lou Holtz has now coached the Irish (2-0) in 123 games, one better than Knute Rockne.

No. 16 Kansas St. 35, Cincinnati

At Tuscaloosa, Ala., the Crimson Tide (3-0) scored three TDs in a three-minute span of the third quarter and held off big-play Vandy (0-2).

Alvin Duke had an 88-yard punt return and Bill Marinangel ran 81 yards on a fake punt for Vandy scores as the Alabama faithful booed their team for most of the fourth quarter. For 'Bama, Freddie Kitchens ran 15 yards for a TD and

At Los Angeles, LaVale Woods' school-record, 96-yard TD run on the second play of the game gave the Trojans (2-1) a quick start, but they needed a 26-point third quarter to put away the Beavers, losers of 12 straight.

Woods broke the mark of 94 yards shared by Dwight Ford (1977) and Zef Lee (1984). Chad Morton added a 73-yard scoring run for the Trojans.

At Manhattan, Kan., Marlon Charles scored twice and gained 106 yards and Mike Lawrence added two TDs for the Wildcats (3-

Paltrow sparkles in lively 'Emma'

Greg Kirschling The Daily Iowan

At a time when dumb comedy is at its popular peak, "Emma" is a smart, sophisticated comedy made for an audience with a sophisticated sense of humor.

Although many movie comedies today could be based on lesser "Saturday Night Live" skits (i.e., "Bulletproof"), "Emma" is an adaption of a Jane Austen classic. Writer/director Douglas McGrath (who co-wrote the equally sophisticated "Bullets Over Broadway" with Woody Allen) remains faithful to Austen, while still giving the movie its own goofy yet elegant charm.

Gwyneth Paltrow gets rolling with the first line of the film: "The most beautiful thing in the world is a match well made." The actress, previously best-known as Brad Pitt's girlfriend, displays a fresh winsomeness. Behind her coy, innocent smile lies a hidden mischievousness as she attempts to defy fate by posing as Cupid for her friends and acquaintances.

As amateur matchmaker, Emma's most frequent victim is Harriet (Toni Collette, "Muriel's Wedding"), her plain-looking friend. Most of the film's humor lies in the fact Emma isn't very good at spotting a winning match, barely realizing, most of the time, with whom she herself is in love.

Very capable of projecting this devious and meddlesome side, Paltrow still makes Emma almost unbearably likable. At the end of the film, as true love sneaks up on Emma herself, Paltrow's poignant joy and surprise make it easy to see why she enjoys setting other people up - a match well made is a beautiful thing.

Paltrow also has a hilarious array of facial expressions, which are essential to McGrath's vision. Despite the literary source, he turns "Emma" into a very subtle glances, expressions and raised eyebrows, proving to be surpris-syntax. Ashbery will read from his collections of poetry tonight at 8 in Lecture Room I of Van Allen Hall.

"Reading his works is like having a direct party line in his John Ashbery head - you get to hear the various dictions and arguments," said Forrest Gander, a visiting professor from Providence College and a fan of Ashbery's work. "You read them through and they are deliciously surprising, poignant and funny."

Known as a post-modernist poet, Ashbery has been compared to Cubist painters because of his poems' fractured nature. An example of Ashbery's radical disjunctions can be found throughout his most recent collection of poetry, "Can You Hear, Birds."

"Ashbery's point of view is like riding on a train," Gander said. Looking out the window, he doesn't describe the landscape rolling by, but the tips of the telephone poles."

The poet's appeal stems from his ability to express the numerous possibilities of language, morality, humor, sex and a full range of human experiences, Gander said.

"It is rare for any artist to write genius and Ashbery has written several," Gander said. "His poetry sounds like people talking and is also lyrical and beautiful because he expresses a huge range of our language and sometimes uses peculiar repetition."

Rapper Shakur dies at age 25

Michelle DeArmond Associated Press

LAS VEGAS - Tupac Shakur ended his short, violent life a victim of the "gangsta" rap culture he glorified in his lyrics, after once bragging that his brushes with death would never catch up to him.

"Five shots and they still couldn't kill me," Shakur sang on the album All Eyez on Me, after he was wounded during an apparent rob-bery in a New York recording stu-

After undergoing two surgeries and losing his right lung, Shakur died Friday of wounds he suffered a week ago in a drive-by shooting after a Las Vegas boxing match. He was 25.

The death of one of the most successful and notorious rappers prompted many in the industry to question their fascination with vio-

"I hope this is a wake-up call for a lot of us," said rapper Heavy D, who called Shakur's death "the most unfortunate thing that has we can put together an aggressive ever happened in the hip-hop cul-

This is so, so sad," the Rev. Jesse Jackson said Friday from his home in Chicago. "Sometimes the lure of violent culture is so magnetic that even when one overcomes it with material success, it continues to call. He couldn't break the cycle."

Rappers like Snoop Doggy Dogg had similar brushes with the law and with violence. The singer, whose real name is Calvin Broadus, was acquitted in February of murder in the death of a Los Angeles gang member.

Shakur - who has served time for assault, weapons violations and sex abuse - was hit by four bullets Sept. 7 as he rode in a car driven by the head of Death Row Records, Marion "Suge" Knight. He died at 4:03 p.m. Friday at University Medical Center.

The Rev. Al Sharpton, who counseled Shakur in prison, said, "I hope in the midst of this tragedy, and strong drive against violence among young people and dedicate it to Tupac's memory."

Shakur, as controversial as he was successful, wrote about his scrapes with the law in his 1995 release Me Against The World, a multimillion-selling album that contained the prophetic tracks "If I Die 2Nite" and "Death Around The Corner. The Las Vegas shooting occurred as Shakur's fourth solo album, All Eyez on Me, remained on the charts, with some 5 million copies

Ironically, Shakur indicated while in prison last year he was rethinking his gangsta rap image, typified by his photo on an album with the group Thug Life that showed his face framed by two extended middle fingers.

"Thug Life to me is dead," Shakur told Vibe magazine. "If it's real, let somebody else represent it, because I'm tired of it."
