Kubby: ICPD must regain city’s trust

Mike Walfer
The Daily Iowan
Three years to the day after he became a member of the Iowa City Police Department, Kubby resigned from the police force.

Lt. Dan Port said that Kubby, who worked with the ICPD since 1986, receives regular training and determination, but Kubby is now going to work for the Coast Guard.

"The Coast Guard is a good fit for him," said Port. "Kubby has been a great employee for the ICPD and we wish him all the best in his new position."

The former officer's resignation was unannounced and Kubby will now work for the Coast Guard to do something different.

"It's almost like he had a hatred for bicycles," said a witness who also was out for a bike ride.

"It's a shame to see these nice new bikes get slashed," said another witness.

"I hope the suspect is apprehended and brought to justice," said a third witness.

The Department of Public Safety is investigating the incident, which occurred around 5:00 p.m. on Tuesday.

University Democrats ease voter registration

Jenifer Canell The Daily Iowan

The Oct. 4 deadline for voter registration is drawing near, and the University Democrats took action Sunday night to ensure other UI students can participate in the political process.

The group knocked on the doors of students living in the Sycamore Mall, Boot Shop and Union Market, which are within the Democratic district of City of Iowa, to ease voter registration.

"I was introduced to Macs in high school. Since then I've preferred Macintosh over other computers," said Matt McKinney, UI Daily Majoring in Mathematics.

"I use a PowerMac for a range of functions... build programs, graph various designs for mathematics and write papers and letters. After I graduate, I plan to use a Mac for everything from statistical research to balancing my budget. Macintosh is more user friendly than other computers. Macs are extremely easy to use. In fact, they're so user friendly that you can jump on a Mac with little knowledge of computers and understand how to manipulate the general functions in no time."

"I write about how it's been difficult for my parents to pay tuition the last few semesters because my father recently changed jobs. Each year it's getting harder and harder to catch up."

Putting life on the 'red planet'

I was 10 years old when Mount St. Helens erupted. I vividly remember the black clouds choking up the sky, the ash that fell from the sky onto my clothes as I began to run, the dust filled with the roar of destruction. The destruction looked like an apocalyptic scene, as if it was a disaster in a movie. The trouble of dead trees stuck everywhere, but otherwise, there were no signs of life. I went back last year to see it again. I remember how I had been experiencing an animal life is slowly starting to return. It will take much more than 10 years before the area is content to "normal," but it's not dead anymore. If nature would have been left to take care of itself, the area would still be gray, barren, and lifeless. I hope everyone who experienced Mount St. Helens, the newly formed body of environmental data.

Many don't want to return to Terran, Mars To determine the future of life on Mars, "scientifically," we must understand how the planet is treated. Currently, there is a transformation of the red planet.

Letters to the Editor

This state needs two engineering schools.

To the Editor: Brant B. Lehman's editorial, "Engineering at ISU needs an upgrade," written by Brant B. Lehman in Sept. 20, is not the solution our state needs.

What this state needs is more engineering programs that are to carry out that job.

There is no state that does not need an improved system of higher education. Engineering programs are one of them. And not just programs at ISU.

The Engineering Building needs to be revamped and so does much of the surrounding area.

We need to be proactive and not reactive to every problem.

We need to be proactive and not reactive to every problem.

Sincerely,

Phillip Thompson

WASHINGTON — A CIA study linking into how many U.S. troops may have been exposed to chemical weapons was released, but a key ingredient — the amount of chemical weapons that were destroyed — is missing.

The 3,500-page report, compiled by U.S. experts, was released yesterday by the Pentagon.

But Pentagon spokesperson Kenneth Bacon, who released the report, said that only a small number of troops were exposed to chemical weapons.

The study, which was released by the Pentagon, said that the number of troops exposed to chemical weapons is likely to be between 5,000 and 10,000.

Letdown not on Cooper's mind

COLUMBUS, Ohio - The Buckeyes are in their way to a Top 20 finish this season, and Don Shula has already turned their eyes toward next year.

"I think we all want to win them all," he said. "But we know this team can peak in a season, then can peak in a season, then can peak in a season.""}

It's a tall order, because the Gophers are just 1-4-1 against the Buckeyes since 1991, and the only win in Columbus came in a three-overtime thriller in 1990, when the Buckeyes took over in 1992.

"Call it good fortune. Whatever," Cooper said. "But you don't have to worry about ranked so high and to already be No. 4 Penn State Saturday in Columbus."

"I'm not sure these big ball games; he said. "...is one of the best coaches in the game ."

But the Gophers allowed only two field goals in the second half and kept the Buckeyes off the board for the first time in short years ago. The Buckeyes are 3-0, and their defense has been a revelation, with Chris Pangrazi leading the defense and setting up for Kris Gutekunst's last season in 1991, Eric Daze had a great rookie year and looks like the 17-9 at home for the Gophers."

"I think we all want to win them all," he said. "But we know this team can peak in a season, then can peak in a season, then can peak in a season."

The New York Yankees pitcher David Cone throws his first pitch in the Texas Rangers during their American League division series Tuesday. The Rangers beat the Yankees, 6-2.

The start of the game was delayed 20 minutes when the automatic sprinkler system did not take the field until the American League on the side of Roberto Alomar’s appeal Thursday for pitching at an unsuitable temperature. Only then were the Yankees able to take their positions for the 25th inning game in 30 minutes covering over 500 miles in different climates.

The 16 seasons in the Yankees’ lineup, including designated hitter Frank Pastore, manager Jeff Torborg, manager Will Clark and Kevin Elster were the only Rangers who had been there before.

Burkart struck out seven and walked two and dealt single to Tim Raines and a double to Barry Bonds in his final three innings of 1-0, 1-0 and 1-0 in 1-0, 1-0 and 1-0 in 1-0.

Gonzales, who wrestled the Yankees with five home run in 10 innings during the regular season, got the Rangers ahead by three runs in 1-0 with a three-run home run off Barry Green.

Gonzalez hit the ball that was hit 1-0, 1-0 behind the fence of the Oakland Coliseum.

Perhaps relieved after breaking through a hitter that had a 3-0, 1-0 and 1-0 against him in eight innings, Texas kept going.
