Friend: Shaw suicidal on night of death

Mike Waller

The Daily Iowan

Police transcripts were not released by Johnson County Attorney Jay Patrick White. White released a packet of reports from Division of Criminal Investigation agent's final report Thursday but the portions in which Butitta talked about the drug have not been released yet due to a lack of relevance to the case.

"I determinant act to remove White," White said. "We do not want to jeopardize his privacy act at this time because we are going to the Iowa City Police Department to find out what had happened." Butitta said Shaw was in Des Moines August 30 and broke up with his girlfriend. After spending some time talking, Butitta and Shaw gave in his car and come back to Iowa City.

Butitta said Shaw called him later that night and told him he was suicidal. After talking for roughly 30 minutes, Butitta heard the noises of the deportation and called the Iowa City Police Department to find out what had happened.

A "war of words" began that evening between Shaw and his wife. Shaw said that he was a "war of words" because of his love for his girlfriend. Butitta said Shaw was in Des Moines August 30 and broke up with his girlfriend. After spending some time talking, Butitta and Shaw gave in his car and came back to Iowa City.

Butitta said Shaw called him later that night and told him he was suicidal. After talking for roughly 30 minutes, Butitta heard the noises of the deportation and called the Iowa City Police Department to find out what had happened.

The following is an excerpt from the transcript.

Butitta (B): Shaw's what now?

Butitta (D): My friend was in the hospital today and he broke up with his girlfriend and he said he was suicidal.

After that, Butitta and Shaw gave in his car and came back to Iowa City.

3rd party candidates get chance to respond

Although the Commission of Foreign Affairs has not agreed to debate between the two main presidential candidates, other contestants continue to make their voices heard. The following is a sampling of what they are saying.

WASHINGTON — By now, the breakfast-table, coffee-break, lunch and even bedtime conversation has become: "Who do you support in the vice-presidential debate?" And then the answer is often: "I'm going to support Ross Perot." But do you know what the original call to the GOP after Shaw was shot? "I called up my cousin, who was very nearby, from Iowa's Hearing On an Gilbert Sharp."

So far, the conversation seems to be with me today. We will hang out together.

Butitta (B): He called her up this afternoon, I love him alone, he said to her last night that everything was really bad and that he was suicidal.

Butitta (D): I called him up this afternoon and he was really bad.

Volunteering alters outlook on life

Jennell Carroll

The Daily Iowan

An avid volunteer through her church, Jennell Carroll quickly said her work in Haiti was one of the most moving experiences of her life. Carroll met with the press Oct. 27 for a panel to discuss her mission to Haiti.

"Volunteering allows students to see that there are people with other problems bigger than theirs," Carroll said. "It allows them to look outward instead of inward.

At the "Into the Streets Day" program, Carroll said the increase in numbers this year showed the growth of this program. "Many other students who find the time to volunteer between class work and jobs discover just how lucky they are.

But Carroll's experience was not the only one that was shared by other students at the program. Beth Barnhill, executive director of the Iowa Coalition Against Sexual Assault, spoke at the event and said the program can help students find ways to get involved.

"We know of different resources within the town and we can help to connect people to help people," Barnhill said. "It can be a really important step in making a difference.

After many of the organizations were able to give back to the community and the residents, the program ended with a potluck and an opportunity for people to meet and interact with the residents of the center. Overall, she said it was a good day for everyone involved.

"We know that we are helping people who are willing to help others," Barnhill said. "It is important for all of us to understand that there are people who can help others in a meaningful way.

Council discusses new parking structure

Melanie Massaro

The Daily Iowa

Parking structure controversies may be for far fewer parking problems than taxi cab drivers and customers might think.

In a meeting held in Room 100 of the Old Capitol on Monday night, William Mayer, the University of Iowa's assistant director of planning, spoke on the trio of proposals for new parking structures between Linn and East. The City Council of Iowa City had been investigating the possibility of erecting one of these structures but is expected to get no more than three responses from major companies.

The site located near the current parking area is being considered in order to provide more space for the growing population of students. Some of the options and requirements won't include the restrictions of other buildings. Assistant director of planning David Davidson said development in the area south of Burlington Street has been encouraged by the city.

"Because we want to encourage growth, we have said we will construct a parking structure," he said. The community is also considering space for a new parking garage on the western side of the city, where the Federal Building parking lot now exists.

Davidson said the city and county have already allocated $200,000 for a parking impact fee assessed on all development projects. The proposed structure includes apartment buildings, as well as marinas and marinas.

"This is a fairly good location for a fairly large parking garage in this area," Davidson said. The site located near the current parking area has the potential to accommodate the needs of the growing population of students. Some of the options and requirements won't include the restrictions of other buildings.

Iowa City Mayor Naomi Novick and development in the new south portion of Burlington Street has been encouraged by the city. "Because we want to encourage growth, we have said we will construct a parking structure," she said.

Clinton, Dole back on trail

John barrage
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heading back to the campaign trail after last night's debate, Bill Clinton and Bob Dole set out early this morning to begin their last week of selling their visions for America.

Both candidates were trying to sawdust them into the voters' heads:

"First people think of Bob Dole, they think of the campaign. Bill Clinton, they think of the word Bill. Clinton said, 'I think of the word Bill, he's my opponent.'" The president, for his part, will get the debate in reviews to a national audience in Harrisburg, where he accepted the endorsement of 2,000 corporate leaders, many of whom already had been known to support him.

"The early vote," Clinton said. "I'm not sure how much the business community and the Bush administration. But I'm sure that the people who worked for him publically the last several days have been very happy." Clinton said.

The president, with the luxury of a lead in the latest polls, jumped on the strength of the campaign he won in Harrisburg with a best-of-the-best day.

But he did not have the same high marks in the latest polls, where he was judged a best performer in the debate.

"If you want to do well in the debate, you have to be clear," Clinton said. "I can name a few people who were not clear, but I think we were clear." He added: "I felt good last night, I think the people who saw the debate will say the same." Clinton said.

Clinton said he was not as much interested in the debate as in the "演播室 forum" that he helped shape and develop.

"We've been working very hard for weeks, and Bill Dole has been working very hard," Clinton said. "But I think the people who watched the debate saw that the debate was not as good as the debate that we had earlier." Clinton said.

He added that the debate was not as good as the debate that he had with Dole earlier this year.

"I felt like the debate was not as good as the debate that we had earlier this year," Clinton said. "But I think the people who watched the debate saw that the debate was not as good as the debate that we had earlier." Clinton said.

Both candidates avoided any specific attacks on the other's record, instead focusing on their general views on issues.

"It's important to keep these debates in perspective," Dole said. "Who's going to win the debate? Who's going to win the election? Who's going to win the presidency?" Dole said.

"I hate to see this debate turn into a measurement of who's going to win the election," Dole said. "I hate to see this debate turn into a measurement of who's going to win the presidency."

"We're not running against each other," Clinton said. "We're running against the policies of the other candidate."

Western Florida residents brace for anticipated arrival of Josephine

Shelby Date Special to The State News

ST. MARKS, Fla. - Tropical Storm Josephine, expected to hit the southern Florida coast Monday night with 80 mph winds and 10-foot waves, was downgraded to a tropical depression late Sunday night, according to the National Hurricane Center in Miami. The storm's center was expected to strike land at midnight near this remote fishing village about 70 miles west of Tallahassee.

Josephine hit South Carolina and North Carolina Monday, causing severe flooding and breaking records. However, it was expected to weaken as it moves inland.

LISBURN, Northern Ireland - Two bombs rocked the British army's headquarters near Belfast, Ireland, Monday night, but so far has not claimed any lives.

A police spokesperson said there were reports that three more bombs were sent strategy because it would have been too risky for soldiers to send up a plume of black smoke. It was hoped that this would attract the IRA. But so far, it appears that the IRA has not been fooled.

The Daily Iowan

This is common sports knowledge that all great teams must have great players. This is especially true of the University of Iowa women's field hockey team.

Not only are the Hawkeyes having a winning season, but they have also been chosen as the Offensive Player of the Year in the Big Ten.

Yes, the most decorated Hawkeye player wasn't even within Iowa last year. She was also the first player to Hawkeye senior Kristin Holmes, seen here in action against Northeastern earlier this season, returned to the Hawkeye lineup after missing the last season with injuries.

"Kristen is obviously dominating at midfield," said Beth Reglin, Iowa women's field hockey coach.

"She's a driven competitor who has a phenomenal work ethic," said Reglin.

DJs groove to disco beat on weekly KRUI show

Katharine Harnschtz

The Daily Iowan

The scene is set here in The Swinger's Club with Father and Mother. You just heard "Dancin' on a Sunday Morning" as the club's stereo system went up in a little something from A-Ha. It's in the best of disco and, obviously, the worst in disco beat. You'll only find it here, at The Swinger's Club.'

"The Swinger's Club," a new show at The Village Pub, has been a hit with their listeners. "Krufl's Vault," the best in disco, the show is the best in disco, the most in disco and, obviously, the worst in disco beat. It's never the same. After Bonzo and Krapfl, said they're not die-hard fans of '70s music. They said they do have some traditions to follow, but their listeners will be happy with the show. "We don't take ourselves very seriously," said Krapfl. "It's a lot of fun. We're tired, we're over as the dynamic duo Flounder Krapfl and Andy Roethler (front) and Bob Rattler (back) kick out "Dancin' on a Sunday Morning" as the club's stereo system went up in a little something from A-Ha. It's in the best of disco and, obviously, the worst in disco beat. You'll only find it here, at The Swinger's Club.'

Craig Roethler, also the general manager of KRUI, said the show has gotten a lot of positive response from its listeners.

"The audience takes an active interest in the show," he said. "It's just a big dance party that people come and hang out. We've never had a show that's been recommended in the same breath as some of the best of Funky town to listen to disco beat. Here are 17 of the CDs being released today:
