Where are all the cops?

President Clinton hired the new police officers he said he would, but their placement may leave you wondering why he bothered.

Laurie Meckler

WASHINGTON - Children screamed. Neighborhoods trembled. A riot raged every 20 sec-donds. Those were the images that greeted President Clinton and Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin in Jerusalem two months ago.

But two years later, specific patrol vectors that police officers are just as likely to end up in quiet small towns as in major city neighborhoods have deteriorated by violence.

On the 15,000 police officers in the plan that Clinton announced two years ago, the new of-cers want to live with lower-average violent crime rates or in towns so small they don’t even report their crime rates to the FBI, according to an AP computer analysis.

One-third of the 500 officers Clinton hired have been reassigned to positions other than the one for which they were hired.

"We’ve got a show in a show," said one pedestrian.

"It’s just a matter of getting out returns on Election Day.

Bob Rush stresses voting at UI visit

Stephen thin

The Daily Iowan

Bob Rush, Democratic congressional candidate for Iowa’s First Congressional Dis-brett, was back in his group one on the same day.

"I’m a little upset at the police officers on the ground," Rush said.

"We’ve got a show in a show," said one pedestrian.

"It’s just a matter of getting out before it’s too late," said one pedestrian.

"I’m a little upset at the police officers on the ground," Rush said.

"We’ve got a show in a show," said one pedestrian.

"It’s just a matter of getting out before it’s too late."
Abortion, education top issues

Iowa University SYMPHONY BAND and CHAMBER WIND ENSEMBLE

Personnel:_BYTES_Edited

The University of Iowa

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT IN YOUR GRADUATE STUDY FUTURE?
Iowa has a 2-year Master's program offering specialization in policy analysis relating to economic development.

Visitors’ Day, FRI., NOV. 1
347 Jessup Hall

Even thought about a career in publishing?

ELECTION '96

Candidates fail to support gay issues

The University of Iowa

CAMPUS AMUSEMENTS

CABIN WOODSTATE

Carroll

Peters

Gonzales said President Clinton's policies advanced gay and lesbian issues. He also said Clinton expanded the death penalty. But he said he would support a constitutional amendment to strengthen the rights of crime victims.

Iowa City

Weems said the lack of support for gay issues was not due to the lack of interest among gay community leaders. He also said the support for gay issues was not due to the lack of interest among Iowa community leaders.

The Daily Iowan

A Clinton supporter wears a placard on his head as he waits for the start of President Clinton's address to a campaign rally at the University of Iowa in Iowa City.

A Clinton supporter wears a placard on his head as he waits for the start of President Clinton's address to a campaign rally at the University of Iowa in Iowa City.
Downtown void of line dancing locals

Mike Voters

Best of all, UI students have a place to meet and connect on dates downtown for good food, drinks and music.

The only place in Iowa City to dance is Down by the Auditorium, a dance and music venue across from the University of Iowa Union.integer Teresa Leh and she said, “The downtown scene is absolutely dead right now.”

Brian Reynolds, dance instructor at Maxie’s, said the dancing popularity has grown in recent years, and in a big reason people enjoy dancing in the city.

He said he usually gets good crowds on Wednesdays for the $7 p.m. lessons.

“I don’t think there’s a key to a successful country night, he said, and the lack of interest around the UI, 131 I Low College St., is “frustrating.”

“People think it’s just not a country night, but they really help to do the dances. If you know how to do it, you can really help.”

Dave Moore, owner of The Field Bar, said his business, which has three different locations downtown, has been successful at bringing in a large volume of time and space.

“I think it’s a country night well, you have to be able to throw in a little bit of fun,” he said.

Steve Swisher, DJ for country music at Maxie’s and Mars, said it’s a very good crowd of regulars on Wednesday nights.

“We always get a really good turnout for a Wednesday,” he said.

“Country-dancing has become more and more popular. We offer lessons for people dancing and line dancing. The First Step School out dancing is out of the downtown.”

“I if I think it’s the need to see one nighttime, I think students would be willing to do it if they like something new.”

UI junior Dale Serebrineau, who has a bar dancing that offers country line dancing.

“I think it’s the need to see one nighttime, I think students would be willing to do it if they like something new.”

UI junior Dale Serebrineau, who has a bar dancing that offers country line dancing.

After more than 10 years of campaigning, Leslie Prejean, who has been overwhelmed with responses to his releases of the country and many parts of the world. Leslie Prejean and have done more than 100 talks in the last three months.

“People are curious to see the man who has seen the executions of over 1000 men,” he said.

Downtown void of line dancing locals

Mike Voters

Best of all, UI students have a place to meet and connect on dates downtown for good food, drinks and music.

The only place in Iowa City to dance is Down by the Auditorium, a dance and music venue across from the University of Iowa Union. integer Teresa Leh and she said, “The downtown scene is absolutely dead right now.”

Brian Reynolds, dance instructor at Maxie’s, said the dancing popularity has grown in recent years, and in a big reason people enjoy dancing in the city.

He said he usually gets good crowds on Wednesdays for the $7 p.m. lessons.

“I don’t think there’s a key to a successful country night, he said, and the lack of interest around the UI, 131 I Low College St., is “frustrating.”

“People think it’s just not a country night, but they really help to do the dances. If you know how to do it, you can really help.”

Dave Moore, owner of The Field Bar, said his business, which has three different locations downtown, has been successful at bringing in a large volume of time and space.

“I think it’s a country night well, you have to be able to throw in a little bit of fun,” he said.

Steve Swisher, DJ for country music at Maxie’s and Mars, said it’s a very good crowd of regulars on Wednesday nights.

“We always get a really good turnout for a Wednesday,” he said.

“Country-dancing has become more and more popular. We offer lessons for people dancing and line dancing. The First Step School out dancing is out of the downtown.”

“I if I think it’s the need to see one nighttime, I think students would be willing to do it if they like something new.”

UI junior Dale Serebrineau, who has a bar dancing that offers country line dancing.

“I think it’s the need to see one nighttime, I think students would be willing to do it if they like something new.”

UI junior Dale Serebrineau, who has a bar dancing that offers country line dancing.

After more than 10 years of campaigning, Leslie Prejean, who has been overwhelmed with responses to his releases of the country and many parts of the world. Leslie Prejean and have done more than 100 talks in the last three months.

“People are curious to see the man who has seen the executions of over 1000 men,” he said.

“People are curious to see the man who has seen the executions of over 1000 men,” he said.

Downtown void of line dancing locals

Mike Voters

Best of all, UI students have a place to meet and connect on dates downtown for good food, drinks and music.

The only place in Iowa City to dance is Down by the Auditorium, a dance and music venue across from the University of Iowa Union. integer Teresa Leh and she said, “The downtown scene is absolutely dead right now.”

Brian Reynolds, dance instructor at Maxie’s, said the dancing popularity has grown in recent years, and in a big reason people enjoy dancing in the city.

He said he usually gets good crowds on Wednesdays for the $7 p.m. lessons.

“I don’t think there’s a key to a successful country night, he said, and the lack of interest around the UI, 131 I Low College St., is “frustrating.”

“People think it’s just not a country night, but they really help to do the dances. If you know how to do it, you can really help.”

Dave Moore, owner of The Field Bar, said his business, which has three different locations downtown, has been successful at bringing in a large volume of time and space.

“I think it’s a country night well, you have to be able to throw in a little bit of fun,” he said.

Steve Swisher, DJ for country music at Maxie’s and Mars, said it’s a very good crowd of regulars on Wednesday nights.

“We always get a really good turnout for a Wednesday,” he said.

“Country-dancing has become more and more popular. We offer lessons for people dancing and line dancing. The First Step School out dancing is out of the downtown.”

“I if I think it’s the need to see one nighttime, I think students would be willing to do it if they like something new.”

UI junior Dale Serebrineau, who has a bar dancing that offers country line dancing.

“I think it’s the need to see one nighttime, I think students would be willing to do it if they like something new.”

UI junior Dale Serebrineau, who has a bar dancing that offers country line dancing.

After more than 10 years of campaigning, Leslie Prejean, who has been overwhelmed with responses to his releases of the country and many parts of the world. Leslie Prejean and have done more than 100 talks in the last three months.

“People are curious to see the man who has seen the executions of over 1000 men,” he said.

“People are curious to see the man who has seen the executions of over 1000 men,” he said.
Viewpoints

First criminal, now victim

Richard Jewell is not a suspect in the Olympic Centennial bombing. He is a hero.

In a written letter to his attorney, Senator Strom Thurmond stated: "Richard and the Blue Line are not considered a target of the federal criminal investigations which are under way.

"Being any newly discovered evidence, this statement is being made in order to avoid any outbursts of anger or resentment which may be directed at Richard and his family.

"In one case, there are no criminal proceedings against Richard Jewell. In the other, he is a suspect in the bombing.

"In the past, there have been several articles written in several newspapers.

"The Daily News - LETTERS POLICY

12:50 a.m., Tuesday, October 13, 1992

Tim Meisner

According to the lawyer for Richard Jewell, lawyers in Atlanta claimed to know of a number of witnesses who were against the criminal investigation. The lawyer claimed that some witnesses had been threatened.

Jim Colfer's column appears Tuesday on the Viewpoints page.

LETTERS POLICY

Letters to the editor must be signed and must include the writer's address and phone number. The letters should not exceed 400 words. The Daily News reserves the right to not publish letters that are offensive or inflammatory. Letters can be published only one letter author per month, and letters will be chosen for publication by the editors. Letters can be sent to the Daily News at 1101 North Avenue, Atlanta, GA 30311 or by fax to (404) 826-3031 or by email to letters@dailynews.com.

OPINIONS

Opinions expressed on the Viewpoints Page of the Daily News are those of the signed authors. The Daily News reserves the right to not publish any opinion.

FOOTNOTES

2.1 Like icebucket night at Magic's it is a lot. The downtown banks are markets; the guys are out for sex. Here, it's a great atmosphere.

Lt. senior Traci Leith, on why the goes to Magic's on Wednesday nights.

What really counts in America

There is a photograph of my father's Navy uniform on the front page of the newspaper. It was taken when he was about twenty years old.

I'm not sure if he is wearing a dress shirt and tie, or if he is wearing a suit and tie. It is possible that he is wearing both.

I feel I am not a good dressed man, or woman.

I wish I didn't have to dress for work.

"The Navy was my grandmother's favorite branch of the military."

-Mom

I Argentinean tourist who is visiting the United States.

Karrie Higgins

gives the public an accurate picture of the economy.

This tourist country. It is the only tourism that is not so good for me.

I'm not sure if I have had one.

"The most important thing is to never let your guard down."

-Mom

I have been a tourist in New York City, but I am not sure if I have been a tourist in New York City.

Karrie Higgins

Let's Get Newbie

To the Editor:

I am a relatively new reader of your newspaper, and I was very pleased to see your editorial on the importance of education.

Education is the key to a successful future for our children. I was impressed by the way you discussed the need for better funding for our schools and the importance of providing opportunities for all students.

I hope you will continue to champion these causes, and I look forward to reading your future editorials.

Sincerely,

Matt Jackson

Ph.D. Candidate

Karrie Higgins

Quotable

"Our greatest weakness lies in giving up. The most certain way to succeed is always to try just one more time."

-Thomas A. Edison

"Goodbye, They have left me a black heart, a black light, a black, white, green, red, and blue, they have left me a black, white, green, red, and blue, they have left me a black, white, green, red, and blue, they have left me a black, white, green, red, and blue.

-Bob Dylan"
Letters to the Editor

Neighbors shocked by allegations against Dameron

To the Editor: In the November 16 letter of Graham Dameron, we are shocked and dis­turbed by the allegations of improper behavior that have been made against him in a Donna. There have been no formal charges, and we are allowed to assume the press­ure has been due to personal differences, and that Graham has no legal or ethical issues.

To the Editor: We want to let you know that we have been aware of the allegations since November 16, and we have been following the news closely. We are concerned about the impact this could have on the community, and we are praying for all involved.

-- The Johnson County Community

COGS makes impossible claim

To the Editor: In the Oct. 11 editorial, the COGS-U of I graduate assistants received a packet of information about a new union-organized health plan. The claim that the union has made is simply not true.

Unfortunately, the union claimed an increase in the number of graduates who joined the union, from 50 to 100. However, the actual number of graduates who joined the union in the last year was 75.

The plan was introduced in 1994, when the number of graduates was 75. The number of graduates who joined the union in 1995 was 75. The number of graduates who joined the union in 1996 was 75.

-- The Daily Iowan

Rapists are to blame, not victims

To the Editor: It is impossible to fathom the logic of those who assert that rape victims are to blame for their own injuries. It is also impossible to comprehend how a woman can be held responsible for the actions of another.

We believe that rape is a crime, and that the victim of rape is not to blame. Rapists are to blame, and they alone are responsible for their actions.

-- The Daily Iowan

The hallmarks of his years in Congress is bipartisanship and statesmanship...Congressman Leach’s motives are above reproach

To the Editor: In his recent testimony before the House Agriculture Committee, Congressman Leach made several key points that highlight his strong commitment to bipartisanship and statesmanship.

One of the hallmarks of his years in Congress is bipartisanship and statesmanship. Congressman Leach’s motives are above reproach.

-- The Daily Iowan

The Conscience of Congress

To the Editor: In his recent testimony before the House Agriculture Committee, Congressman Leach made several key points that highlight his strong commitment to bipartisanship and statesmanship. Congressman Leach’s motives are above reproach.

-- The Daily Iowan

Driven by principle, not politics.

-- The Daily Iowan

A PREFACE TO THE ALIEN GARDEN

by Robert Alexander

November 7-19, 12-17 Theatre A Tickets: $15 general, $10 students

The Food of Tibet

by Luming Wang

November 7-19, 12-17 Theatre A Tickets: $15 general, $10 students

If I Still Have to Go, It’s Over

by George Miller

November 7-19, 12-17 Theatre A Tickets: $15 general, $10 students
Guatemalan praises human rights for reversing workers' difficult life

I. Woman dies in Missouri state troopers said Van Wyhe, 21, of Quincy, Ill., likely shot herself about 7:00 a.m. Saturday as Laura Van Wyhe, 21, of Donnellson, Iowa, preliminary hearing set for Nov. 14 at 2 p.m.; Darcy R. Popelka, 21, Donnellson, Iowa, preliminary hearing set for Nov. 14 at 2 p.m.; Tyler I. M. Berg, 21, 507 Olympic Circle Apt. 1, Iowa City, preliminary hearing set for Nov. 14 at 2 p.m.; Whitney L. Vail, Coralville, preliminary hearing set for Nov. 14 at 2 p.m.; Jason E. Strom, 2402 Astronomy Hall at 2:30 p.m.; Ben H. Farnsworth, 301 Armstrong Hall at 2:30 p.m.; Joseph A. Veldhuis, 235 Armstrong Hall at 2:30 p.m.; and Archie W. Kutzko, 500 University of Iowa Library, preliminary hearing set for Nov. 14 at 2 p.m.

U. S. Department of Justice said the woman was found about 7:16 a.m. Saturday as Laura Van Wyhe, 21, of Donnellson, Iowa, preliminary hearing set for Nov. 14 at 2 p.m.

According to David Dunn in Room 5-110, it took a long time of constant struggle for people to realize the actual destruction in a civil war that began as a representation of human rights.

Guatemalan praises human rights for reversing workers' difficult life

The people had no access to political parties, Robles said. "They had no other outlet. They didn't even have a system of total exclusion. The people had no way to express their political feelings.

Robles said he and his compatriots attempted to organize a labor committee at the Coca-Cola Bottling Company plant they worked in 1977 in Guatemala City. At first, the plant was affected, and in turn the repression of the police and army became greater.

This paved the way to the brutal Government in Guatemala. There were 7,000 laborers in the Coca-Cola Bottling plant. More than 200 people disappeared and never heard from again.

"There was institutionalization," Robles said. "We were under constant vigilance. Our fellow workers fled to Mexico and Honduras, and 30,000 led in the mountains. They went into rural areas and killed more villages of people. They took many more people.

Many of those people fled and went to the city to form the social base of guerrilla groups. Robles said. They began working in factories of textiles and paper, and the conditions were not favorable.

Most of the workers were women ages 18-25. After they turned, they were killed. Official authorities are still investigating the accident.

but the accident likely did not occur where she was found.

Authorities from the county's human rights department said the cause of death cannot be verified. Officials are still investigating the accident.

Guatemala is in a war right now. We need to pressure these groups to make sure there are not more deaths. We have to mobilize the workers.

Kevin Blumen, a U. S. graduate student and treasurer of the UI chapter of Amnesty International, agreed with McCoy.

"These human rights violations are very important because we are protecting a chance to keep the problem from spreading," Blumen said. "If we stop this, we could make a difference in the human rights of citizens in this world.

"These human rights violations are very important because we are protecting a chance to keep the problem from spreading," Blumen said. "If we stop this, we could make a difference in the human rights of citizens in this world."
Refugee camp becomes world's largest

Karin Davies
Associated Press

NABUGO, Uganda - The biggest refugee camp in the world has reached a milestone. The Kibumba camp, home to more than 100,000 Rwandans, has seen its population swell to more than 150,000, making it the world's largest camp.

The population of the Mugunga camp reached to nearly 200,000 just three weeks ago, making it the second largest camp in the world. However, the influx of refugees continues to strain the camp's resources.

The UNHCR has warned that the situation in the camp is critical, with food and water shortages becoming more frequent.

"The situation is becoming more and more difficult," said UNHCR spokesman, Simon Premont. "People are starting to run out of food and water, and the camp is becoming overcrowded."

The influx of refugees is due to the ongoing conflict in the Democratic Republic of Congo, where tens of thousands of people have been displaced by fighting.

The UNHCR is working to provide aid to the refugees, but resources are stretched thin.

"We are doing our best to provide aid, but the situation is very challenging," said Premont. "We are trying to provide food and water, but it's a constant struggle."

The situation in the camp is being closely monitored by the UNHCR, and the agency is working to provide as much assistance as possible.

"We are doing everything we can to help," said Premont. "But it's a tough situation, and we need the international community to step up and provide more aid."
Police officers in 2nd Simpson trial testify they only found one glove

Linda Deutsch
Associated Press
SANTA MONICA, Calif. — Prosecutors said Friday they had found only one glove in the Simpson trial, and that it did not match the one made famous by a former police officer in the O.J. trial.

"No, sir," Terrance Kellum, a police officer for the Los Angeles police department, said Friday. Kellum was the officer who recovered the glove in the O.J. Simpson case.

"No one asked me," Terrance said. "I was told to have one." Kellum was the only officer who testified in the Simpson trial.

Kellum also testified that he was told to be on the lookout for a "negative" finding. He was the only officer who was on the lookout for a "negative" finding.

"I think everyone should have been told that," Terrance said. "I think everyone should have been told that this was a negative finding." Kellum was the only officer who was on the lookout for a "negative" finding.

"I think everyone should have been told that," Terrance said. "I think everyone should have been told that this was a negative finding." Kellum was the only officer who was on the lookout for a "negative" finding.
Today's Sports

Owen Holmes

Hockey

Florida Panthers at New York Rangers, 4:00 p.m., ESPN

Chicago Blackhawks at Tampa Bay Lighting, 8:30 p.m., ESPN2

SportsBriefs

LOCAL

Edward- baskı senior given one more year to play

Wayne Driskel

The Daily Iowan

Senior center Simone Edwards always had the dream of playing in a Big Ten basketball game. Despite issues commonly faced by women's basketball players, Simone's desire never wavered.

Edward's plan was given a second wind this summer when the NCAA granted the senior another year of eligibility. Following her second surgery in 2002, Edwards, who struggled with back stiffness, struggled this season. Edwards worked her way back into shape.

"You talk about character. Anybody who has rehabilitated once is a strong person, but anybody that has done it twice has to have a certain kind of love and passion for this game," former Iowa center Angie Lee said.

"People that have been hurt in the back and recovered, that's serious," Lee said. "So I was glad that she was given another year."

Iowa center Simone Edwards poses at Iowa basketball media day. Edwards was granted a second red-shirt and another year of eligibility to play for the Hawkeyes this season.

"I never thought she'd be able to play again," Lee said. "My goodness, I was happy just to see her on the court."
The Que Bar
Halloween Costume Contest!
This Thursday @ 11:30 pm
Specials: $3.00 Well or Domestic, $12.00 Moscow Mule
Other drinks available! Free Pool! Scary Stuff!
We Deliver!
Open 11:00 AM to 1:00 AM
314-664-6816
Mon-Thurs, 10:00 AM to 2:00 AM
Connect with Us at QueBarStL on Facebook

Gu亿元以上

You can dance with your pints.
No cover upstairs tonight
70's, 80's, 90's Music
75¢ Airliner Pint refills.

Never a Cover 337-5314 Free Delivery
$2 off $20 or more
Rutherford "Best Pint" winner last year and "Beer Ranger"
TILLEY MICHIGAN • SWEDISH • PORK CHOP • STEAK SANDWICH
PGA CHAMPIONSHIP

Lehman runs away with title

Ron Sirak
Associated Press

NEW YORK — Three years ago Tony Lehman was a virtually unknown refugee from just about nowhere. He didn’t even have a PGA Tour card. He didn’t even have a driving iron. He didn’t even have anything to lose.

It turns out he was a dreamer.

Lehman said, “I really didn’t think about winning the money title until this year. I just thought about winning the money title until this year, which is determined by both the money and the victory.”

Lehman is now a strong contender for both the money title and the victory, which is determined by both the money and the victory. The victory gave Lehman the Player of the Year award, which is determined by both the money and the victory.

As an unknown refugee from just about nowhere, Lehman had to earn every dollar and every small tour in the world and the money title. As an unknown refugee from just about nowhere, Lehman had to earn every dollar and every small tour in the world and the money title.

The victory gave Lehman the Player of the Year award, which is determined by both the money and the victory. The victory gave Lehman the Player of the Year award, which is determined by both the money and the victory.

Lehman’s $1,654,959 won by Greg Norman in 1993. Lehman’s $1,780,159, breaking the rookie earnings record. Lehman’s $1,780,159, breaking the rookie earnings record.

The victory gave Lehman the Player of the Year award, which is determined by both the money and the victory. The victory gave Lehman the Player of the Year award, which is determined by both the money and the victory.

WVU President embraced by fans

Associated Press

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — West Virginia University President David C. Shrum and his family will extend a formal apology to fans for the way Mountaineer fans and students acted toward WVU’s players and coaches during Saturday night’s game.

Mountaineers coach Rich Rodriguez said Saturday’s game was a “disaster”.

Hardy said the university is reaching out to the community in a variety of ways, including through video messages by WVU president David C. Shrum and WVU athletic director Michael Hamrick.

The university has also announced that all Mountaineer games will be broadcast on WVU’s local cable television network, WVU TV, and that the university will release a video message by Shrum and Hamrick to the community.

Sports

COACHES MOTIVATED TO WIN

Pregame prayer inspired by fans

Donnie M. Freeman
Associated Press

EWING, Texas — The Dallas Cowboys believe a series of events after their victory over Jimmy Johnson and the Miami Dolphins prompted the team to come together and pray.

"We’re trying to play our best football and to win," Johnson said and the response for the 19-10 victory was a series of events that prompted the team to come together and pray.

The victory inspired both the team’s offensive and defensive units to play well. The team’s offense scored a touchdown on each of its three possessions, and the team’s defense held Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino to 14-of-31 passing for 124 yards.

"We’ve been playing well defensively," Johnson said. "We’ve been playing well offensively, and we’re trying to play our best football and to win."
The New York Rangers, Wayne Gretzky has started.

Not that he hasn't been the Rangers' best player in the last two seasons. He's had a good three seasons and 143 points in 199 games, new career highs in goals and assists. But now, as the Rangers' training camp comes to an end, he seems to be doing it his way with his new coach, John Tortorella.

"It's a pleasure to watch him play," Buf falo Sabres coach Lindy Ruff said. But most everyone in the NHL agrees with Gretzky that the league's record scorer is playing a game of his own.

"He deserved first-star status," Barry Beck, the Sabres' general manager, said. "Wayne is the best player ever to play the game.

Gretzky was a Ranger's season-winner, Gretzky was pointless. He never had more than two points in any game thereafter through the next 15, although scoring in each one. But 13 points in his first seven games, including one hat trick and two game-winning goals, is cause for optimism.

"I don't think he's in peak form yet," Gretzky said. "I don't think I played at my best. I think I can still improve.

But he can still stop him, Buffalo coach Ted Nolan said. Gretzky was like an artist painting a masterpiece, he carried the job into the NHL.

"He had a good three seasons and assorted controlled play from start to finish. He was so sharp, so sharp, so sharp," Nolan said of Buffalo's power play.

"It's a pleasure to watch him play," Bul lalo Sabres coach Lindy Ruff said. But most everyone in the NHL agrees with Gretzky that the league's record scorer is playing a game of his own.

"He deserved first-star status," Barry Beck, the Sabres' general manager, said. "Wayne is the best player ever to play the game.

The Associated Press

The Associated Press

Playing in an NBA game for the first time since he became the league's youngest All-Star in 1990, Pippen learned how to work with the Olympic Dream Team.

Team management wasn't thrilled that Jordan was going to have to be tuned in to what. Pippen learned from the last season, he was going to have to work with the Olympic Dream Team.

"It's a pleasure to watch him play," Buf falo Sabres coach Lindy Ruff said. But most everyone in the NHL agrees with Gretzky that the league's record scorer is playing a game of his own.

"He deserved first-star status," Barry Beck, the Sabres' general manager, said. "Wayne is the best player ever to play the game.

The Associated Press

The Associated Press

According to the last arrest, he was living in a car at the time. He was charged with criminal trespass.

"I've been living in a car for about a month," he said. "I'm just tired of being on the street.

Pippen, on the strength of his strong first half, was named the slammer.

He hopes it's the beginning of training camp, but not at this point. The Bulls closed training camp on Sunday.

"I'm ready to get back to work with the Olympic Dream Team," Pippen said.

"We're going to have to be tuned in to what," Jackson said of the last. arrest.

Pippen isn't going to play in the Olympics.

"I'm not going to play in the Olympics," Pippen said. "I'm not going to play in the Olympics."
Tongoneo: The next Macarena?

Eddie Dominguez
Associated Press

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — A sexy sway of the hips, a few pelvic thrusts and a whole lot of fun: It all adds up to the new tongueo, and it's likely the next step in the Latin dance craze.

First came the Macarena, which shook basketball stands and political rallies alike and sits atop the Latin charts.

But since the emergence of the Macarena, there has been a new wave of 'tongueo' dances, according to the Miami radio personality Dan "The Tongueo" Mendez.

In Spanish, a tongueo is a combination of turns, arm movements, hip swaying and pelvic thrusts that make Elvis look stiff. In English, it's a collection of simple arm movements, which sponsor in September in Miami Beach, "Everybody is really getting into it now," he said. "It's the new Macarena." The Macarena took two years to catch on. It's a reflection of simple arm movements and the dance craze.

America's Got Talent

The tongueo is a new dance that uses a sexy sway of the hips, a few pelvic thrusts and some simple arm movements.

The tongueo was started in 1994 in Spain. It's definitely a crossover record, once they got the beat," said Miami radio personality Dan "The Tongueo" Mendez.

The tongueo has already hit Mexico and the United States, but the bigger records are for a cross-cultural crossover in the English language market.

It's getting a big-ears marketing boost from record labels Polygram Latinas and Miller Brewing Co., which sponsored the dance competi-

The tongueo was started in 1994 in Spain. It's definitely a crossover record, once they got the beat," said Miami radio personality Dan "The Tongueo" Mendez. "It's really starting to get hot," he said. "It's the next Macarena, but it's the next step." "Everybody is really getting into it now," he said. "It's the new Macarena." The Macarena took two years to catch on. It's a reflection of simple arm movements and the dance craze.

The tongueo has already hit Mexico and the United States, but the bigger records are for a cross-cultural crossover in the English language market.

It's getting a big-ears marketing boost from record labels Polygram Latinas and Miller Brewing Co., which sponsored the dance competi-

The tongueo is a new dance that uses a sexy sway of the hips, a few pelvic thrusts and some simple arm movements.

The tongueo was started in 1994 in Spain. It's definitely a crossover record, once they got the beat," said Miami radio personality Dan "The Tongueo" Mendez. "It's really starting to get hot," he said. "It's the next Macarena, but it's the next step." "Everybody is really getting into it now," he said. "It's the new Macarena." The Macarena took two years to catch on. It's a reflection of simple arm movements and the dance craze.

The tongueo has already hit Mexico and the United States, but the bigger records are for a cross-cultural crossover in the English language market.

It's getting a big-ears marketing boost from record labels Polygram Latinas and Miller Brewing Co., which sponsored the dance competi-

The tongueo is a new dance that uses a sexy sway of the hips, a few pelvic thrusts and some simple arm movements.

The tongueo was started in 1994 in Spain. It's definitely a crossover record, once they got the beat," said Miami radio personality Dan "The Tongueo" Mendez. "It's really starting to get hot," he said. "It's the next Macarena, but it's the next step." "Everybody is really getting into it now," he said. "It's the new Macarena." The Macarena took two years to catch on. It's a reflection of simple arm movements and the dance craze.

The tongueo has already hit Mexico and the United States, but the bigger records are for a cross-cultural crossover in the English language market.

It's getting a big-ears marketing boost from record labels Polygram Latinas and Miller Brewing Co., which sponsored the dance competi-

The tongueo is a new dance that uses a sexy sway of the hips, a few pelvic thrusts and some simple arm movements.

The tongueo was started in 1994 in Spain. It's definitely a crossover record, once they got the beat," said Miami radio personality Dan "The Tongueo" Mendez. "It's really starting to get hot," he said. "It's the next Macarena, but it's the next step." "Everybody is really getting into it now," he said. "It's the new Macarena." The Macarena took two years to catch on. It's a reflection of simple arm movements and the dance craze.

The tongueo has already hit Mexico and the United States, but the bigger records are for a cross-cultural crossover in the English language market.