"Millennium' actor struggled to overcome illiteracy

NEW YORK (AP) - Before "Millennium" star Lance Henriksen could establish himself as an actor, he had to do something even tougher — learn to read scripts.

An eighth-grade dropout with minimal reading skills, Henriksen landed his first acting job at age 29 by getting a friend to read the script of Eugene O'Neill's "Sea 'Plays" into a tape recorder so he could memorize his lines.

Later, while attending acting school he taught himself to read once and for all, consuming script after script.

"It was rough," Henriksen said in the Dec. 9 issue of People magazine. "I could make out words, but there was no way I could put a sentence together."

Before switching to TV and the dark stories of "Millennium," Henriksen, 56, performed on stage.

Vampire cult devastates town

Associated Press

MURRAY, Ky. - For years, this quiet college town was perhaps best known as home of the national Boy Scout museum. Now it is newly notorious and its residents are increasingly afraid, with the discovery that some of its teens belonged to a vampire cult.

The news that four area teenagers are suspected of beating a Florida couple to death was frightening enough. Now prosecutors say the youths were involved in a strange role-playing game that went much too far - from the mutilation of animals to drinking each other's blood and eventually to

Few would discuss the case with outsiders, but the cult was the hot topic of hushed gossip among resi-

"People are talking about it," said Greg Duncan, sipping coffee at the Hungry Bear restaurant. "Some people are afraid."

Details remain sketchy but the secretive cult known as "The Vampire Clan" is believed to have been active in Murray, where members were suspected of breaking into an animal shelter and mutilating two puppies.

"The fear of the unknown is always greater than the fear of the known," said another man at the Hungry Bear, who refused to give his name.

Murray, a semi-rural town of about 13,000, lies in southwestern Kentucky near the Tennessee state line. Murray State University is there, an 8,300-student school known for its basketball program.

Now the town is linked to three Murray teens arrested along with another youth from nearby Mayfield. All four, along with the daughter of the slain couple, were arrested on Thanksgiving night in Baton Rouge, La. All are suspected in the Nov. 25 slayings of Richard and Naoma Wendorf of Eustis, Fla.

Police say Rod Ferrell met the Wendorf's 15-year-old daughter, Heather, when he lived in Eustis with his father. Ferrell, 16, moved back to Murray last year to live with his mother.

It was Ferrell who police think broke into the animal shelter, stomping one dog to death and pulling the legs off another. Neighbors at the public housing complex where he lived say they never noticed anything unusual about him or his mother, Sondra Gibson.

Yet Sondra Gibson is herself charged with solicitation to commit rape. Police say she wrote to a 14year-old, inviting sex and hinting she was involved in vampire-type

"I longed to be near you ... to become a Vampire, a part of the family immortal and truly yours forever," the letter reads. "You will then come for me and cross me over and I will be your bride for eternity and you my sire."

Accused with Ferrell and Heather Wendorf of killing the Wendorfs are Dana Cooper, 19, of Murray, and Scott Anderson, 16, of Mayfield. Charity Keesee, 16, of Murray was charged with being an accessory to murder.

Extradition proceedings in Baton Rouge are to begin today.

A young woman stopped in a grocery store who graduated from Calloway County High School with Cooper last year said the girl craved attention.

"But this vampire stuff?" she asked, refusing to give her name. "There was nothing that suggested that. She was just strange.' Harrington said the youths were involved in an on-going role-playing game, but that Ferrell had begun to take the vampire game more seriously, scaring others into quitting. The animal shelter thing was the first visible sign he had gone beyond game-playing," Harrington said, refusing to disclose more details because the accused are Perhaps the most frightened man

The state could supplement beyond that five-year limit, but in the political environment that currently exists, no one is seriously suggesting that could happen. Welfare reform is and always has been about saving money.

A problem down the road is someone else's worry, not an issue for the next election.

Even critics concede that "learnfare" will be this year's solution to the welfare problem, so it's best not to lie down in front of a train that's leaving the station.

Until that train goes off the tracks, it's unlikely politicians will worry about the destination.

with inherited biological traits. In Jacob Riis' "How the Other Half Lives," for example, Chinese immigrants who were "in no sense a desirable element of the population" and their religion was considered "mere grub-worship" - were genetically able to oke opium as the white man smokes tobacco, while whites became "enslaved by the (opium) pipe." The Chinese racial penchant for opening laundries was part of their cat-like nature, which combined cleanliness with cunning. Italians were genetically good-natured and "inoffensive as a child." Jews were simply "too gregarious to take that early racial theory had been a mistake. There were only three races now: Caucasoid, Negroid and Mongoloid (the same appellation given to children with Down's syndrome). Why these categories persisted when the others had been abolished was never explained, but it was only elementary school, after all.

After the Holocaust, no one speaks of the Jews as a "race," except perhaps neo-Nazis. Why is the term applied to Asians, African-Americans and even Latinos, who have the most diverse genetic makeup of any group? The videotaped cop-beating of two Latinos in Riverside, Calif., was "racially motivated," according to the media. Doesn't the fact that the "suspects" appeared to be transporting a truckload of illegal aliens, leading the police on a dangerous high-speed chase, have some bearing on the cops' behavior. Is speaking another language a "racial" attribute?

Keeping categories of race, whether for the benevolent purpose of affirmative action or more sinister purposes of exclusion, ensures that people will continue to think of others as different in some fundamental way. What is ironic is that those who insist on this terminology of difference, such as the critical "race" theorists and the proponents of race-based" affirmative action, are those who have the most to lose by it.

Tobacco lawsuit right thing for Iowa

Towans can breathe a little easier knowing Tom Miller is the

Now he takes on a greater challenge: the $45 billion tobacco

Iowa is seeking reimbursement for the millions and millions of dollars it has spent under the Medicare program to treat people sickened by smoking. Smoking is the leading cause of lung cancer, killing more than 157,000 Americans in 1995 alone. Iowa spends some $319 million a year treating smoking-related illnesses.

More evidence on IQ and genetics

R emember "The Bell Curve"?
The controversial book by Charles Murray and Richard Herrnstein argued that intelligence is, more or less, a function of genetics, not environment. Many people dismissed the findings, for they imply that humans lack substantial control over their own minds, in the sense that the limits of one's intellectual capacity are determined not by schooling, but by their very genes.

Be warned: The nature vs. nurture debate is far from over. According to Tom Wolfe, writing in the latest issue of Forbes ASAP magazine, there is a little-known invention called the IQ cap which can accurately measure your IQ in about 15 seconds. The process is relatively simple. Electrodes that monitor brain waves are attached to the scalp. The subject is instructed to stare at a point on the wall. Fifteen seconds later, a computer has analyzed the data and produced a number almost identical to what would have been scored using a conventional IQ test.

Using different methodology, the scientists who developed the IQ cap essentially confirmed the conclusions of Murray and Herrnstein: that intelligence is physical, hereditary, genetic — much like eye color and shoe size. The quest to ascribe human traits to genetics does not end with abilities. Some would go so far as to say that behavior is also largely shaped by genetics. A government program, known as the Violence Initiative, found that among chimpanzees, a handful committed almost all the murders of other males and physical abuse of the females, suggesting that something had gone wrong genetically. This led to the hypothesis that perhaps a similar genetic aberration is responsible for the behavior of chronically violent persons in human society. If this were true, those individuals could be identified in early childhood, and treated therapeutically with drugs.

Opponents of these theories quickly, vehemently and correctly object that they are remarkably dangerous. Genetic determination of abilities and behavior is evocative of a "Brave New World" scenario; indeed, every time a discovery is made in genetics, journalists manage to work Aldous Huxley's title into their own. This is merely indicative of the fear people have and a Ul junior.

for this branch of science and its potential for radically changing the way society exists. If criminality is linked to a person's DNA, people worry that the natural conclusion would be to test and exterminate such people. Others say that studies such as Murray's and Herrnstein's are used to scientifically validate racism.

But worst of all, if neuroscientists and geneticists are right, this implies a certain loss of what Americans prize most — the ability of the individual to become whatever he or she wants to be.

Fear not. In modern society, it is necessary that individuals be held responsible, punished or rewarded, and praised or degraded for their actions. Why? Because the intangible influences of society and genes cannot be incarcerated, or given a paycheck. That our criminal justice system punishes individuals for their crimes proves that persons are assumed to have free will. Even if it is an entirely artificial construct, there is no other way to account for the behavior of individ-

So long as Americans insist on believing that in a free country a person can do just about anything, free will shall remain untouched, and the nature vs. nurture debate will be observed with a healthy dose of skepticism.

Holidays time for reflection — not frenzy on't ask how it happened, but we are suddenly smack in the middle of the holiday season. We are just beginning to turn from turkey with disdain, and Christmas shopping awaits us. It is a hinge point, the week in which we swing from an autumnal period of relaxation at Thanksgiving to a frenetic round of holiday events. We are about to embark on the constant calculating of cash and calories that constitutes

Christmas. It is a strange time for reflection, but what better time than when we find ourselves on the cusp of doing so many things we would really rather not? This is the perfect moment in which to look both forward and back, review the past year and attempt to come up with a strategy to avoid its rep-

Those who reflect at all during the holidays will be struck by the odd fact that a way of life has crept up on them in stealth - America has forsaken the consideration of ideas for the sake of reacting to events, complaints and suggestions. Our country has become a giant service industry composed of 50 states, each with a legislature and governor in service. Our president serves; in fact, our current executive officer is under scrutiny for appearing to serve anyone willing to part with significant sums of money on behalf of his political

It is almost inconceivable — what with all of us dashing about in hair nets taking calls on cellular phones and figuring out how to do everything better, faster, cheaper - to ask a question that ierces this veil of constant quality improvement While America's adults struggle like spawning salmon in their frenzy to improve, who is minding the nation's store of thought?

It doesn't do to rail against computers or bureaucracy-laden institutions having to deal with a customer in their face for the first time in decades. These things are, by and large, benign. What isn't benign is how we have assimilated computers into our lives, how we've allowed them to reduce our patience for those who move through life in a ponderous way. What has hurt is how we lead institutions designed to provide healing and education in ways that ignore the humanity of those we rely upon to do the healing and educating. By inference, we have rendered contemplation passe, boring and just too damned slow. Caring for the sick and inspiring young minds have become acts of treason within the corporate culture. Such initiatives aren't cost-effective. They do not represent the most productive use of our time. In essence, we are told the auditors won't like the way compassion and intellectual exhilaration play out on the budget sheets. This is how we have reduced the breathtaking imaginative powers of humanity. This is how we have devalued our unique ability to foresee and assess the consequences of our actions. Do we really think there will be no consequences to such monumental acts of cultural hubris?

eading a book by James Hillman titled "A Blue Fire," I came upon a passage that chilled me. Hillman is a Jungian psychotherapist with a broad grasp of his culture and a mind more than adequate to address the full territory he seizes upon. In answering the question of why we as a nation have become "more and more illiterate," he describes our engagement in a pathological circle of the wrong kind of assessment. As we practice this cold calculus, we lose our human ability to imagine the "Descriptions of psychopathy, or sociopathic per-sonalities, speak of their inability to imagine the other. Psychopaths are well able to size up situations and charm people. They perceive, assess and relate, making use of any opportunity. Hence, their successful manipulations of others. But the psychopath is far less able to imagine the other beyond a fantasy of usefulness, the other as a true inferiority with his or her own needs, intentions and feelings. An education that in any way neglects imagination is an education into psychopathy. It is an education that results in a sociopathic society of manipulations. We learn how to deal with others and become a nation of dealers."

This is a very precise definition of the people we hire as CEOs to downsize corporations in trouble today. It is a description of the man who currently resides with his wife and daughter at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. That the description also fits the remorseless perpetrators of heinous crimes should tell us something. The worship of a facile form of calculation on every front is dangerous to humane culture. It is a devotion to value without thought, and it kills the spirit.

This holiday season, do yourself the one favor that matters in the world we've made. Take time away from all the stimulation for some reflection, and make time to encourage and participate in the thoughts of children.

GOP to resist Clinton's welfare changes

lim Abrams

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Sen. Don Nickles, the Senate's secondranked Republican, ruled out fundamentally changing the new welfare law, as the White House wants. Even Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, the Democrats' leading expert on welfare, reluctantly agreed Sunday it won't happen in the coming Congress.

Clinton pledged when he signed the Republican-crafted welfare overhaul bill last August to fix aspects he said were too severe particularly cuts in food stamp spending and benefits for legal immigrants.

The White House is now considering a plan to restore $13 billion of the projected $54.6 billion in savings from the new law of over six years. The law shifts responsibility for welfare programs to the states and sets time limits for how long people can remain on welfare.

"I think Congress is going to be very cool to make those changes,' said Nickles, R-Okla., the Senate Majority Whip. "I think you'll see technical corrections this year. But significant reforming or undermining the welfare bill? No."

GOP promises to examine Democratic fund-raising

Jim Abrams Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Republican senators disappointed by Attorney General Janet Reno's decision not to appoint a special prosecutor to investigate Democratic fund-raising promised Sunday that Congress will take up any slack with thorough hearings.

"We will place more emphasis on congressional hearings which are not always the most nonpartisan way of addressing these issues, unfortunately," Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., said on ABC's "This Week."

McCain, a leading advocate of campaign finance reform, made the latest request - the third in all - for an independent counsel to investigate Democratic fundraising by and from people with links to wealthy foreigners.

The Justice Department turned it down Friday. Justice said a task force within the department would continue its wide-ranging review for possible wrongdoing of political fund-raising in this year's

Excitement builds for Coralville mall

The Daily Iowan

Although construction of the new Coral Ridge Mall began in October, a ground-breaking ceremony this week will reassure Coralville residents that their community soon will be home to one of the largest malls in Iowa.

Coralville Mayor Jim Fausett said the ceremony, planned for Wednesday, is a symbolic event for the people of Coralville.

This is a ceremony to let people in the area know that the mall is actually going to happen," Fausett

The mall, a 1,118,000-square foot building, will be anchored by stores such as Dillard, Younkers, Sears, JCPenney and Target. Coral Ridge Mall will also contain an ice skating rink, a permanent children's museum, a 10-screen movie theater, Barnes & Noble, Scheel's All Sports and Best Buy. The project's completion is set for March

"The mall is designed to lure people in from all over," Fausett said. "It is for the benefit of the entire Lew Converse, an Oskaloosa, Iowa, resident and owner of The Field House bar, 111 E. College St., said the mall will help to bring people to Iowa City and Coralville. He said it will keep people in this area instead of going to Des Moines, Cedar Rapids, Davenport and Chicago to do their shopping.

"It will draw people from Cedar Rapids and North Liberty and make (Iowa City and Coralville) more of a regional shopping center," Converse said.

UI senior Lauren Mieli said she would go to the new mall because she enjoys shopping at Target, which will move from its current Coralville location to the new mall when it opens.

"I love Target because it is so cheap," Mieli said.

She also said she and her friends would go out to the new mall instead of going to Cedar Rapids or can get a friend to drive them." the outlet mall in Williamsburg,

"We go to Cedar Rapids and Williamsburg to shop," Mieli said. It is also a nice change of scenery." Steve Vogel, a Coralville resident and employee at Foot Locker in Old Capitol Mall, said although the novelty of the mall will attract people away from Iowa City stores, it won't last.

The convenience of Old Capitol (Mall) will remain after the initial excitement wears off," Vogel said. "Then business will be back to its old standard."

Vogel said the fact that there are 30,000 students within a mile of Old Capitol Mall makes it conve-

UI freshman Joe Blackford said he doesn't think the Coralville mall will have a big impact on UI students who don't have cars.

Fausett said the specific stores will give people new variety.

"Coral Ridge Mall will provide area residents a pleasant addition to the current shopping choices,"

Perry devises plan for Okinawa

Eric Talmadge Associated Press

TOKYO - Hoping to improve security ties with one of Washington's most important allies, Defense Secretary William Perry announced a major package of reforms today to make America's nearly 30,000 troops on Okinawa less of a burden.

The plan is the culmination of an intense series of negotiations with Tokyo after the rape of a schoolgirl by three GIs on the southern Japanese island in September 1995. The three were convicted and are serving time in a Japanese

The package includes the largest return of land in 24 years. It would return the U.S. Marines' Futenma Air Station, located in a densely populated area, within seven years, and study the possibility of building an offshore platform that would replace most of the station's helicopter operations.

"This agreement very significantly reduces the burden on the Okinawan people," Perry said.

Clinton offered an apology to Oki- friction. nawans and the United States and Japan set up the joint committee.

That committee held its final meeting this morning and presented its recommendations to Perry, who arrived in Japan Sunday night and announced the recommendations at a news conference today.

The main components of the plan

 The return of approximately 12,000 acres of land, or more than 20 percent of the total now used by the U.S. military on Okinawa.

· Within one year, U.S. and Japanese officials will develop a plan to return within five to seven years the Futenma Air Station, which occupies 1,188 acres in the densely populated city of Ginowan. The plan will seek to replace it with an offshore platform strong enough to resist typhoons.

· Noise reduction measures, including restrictions on nightflight training and the transfer of some aircraft off Okinawa.

Island residents had balked at several proposed on-land sites. So moving the air station to an offshore platform would be seen as a compromise. "We will continue our strong

'101 Dalmatians': A soulless rehashing of a Disney classic

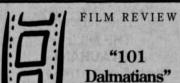

The Daily Iowan

Somewhere between the Happy Meals and the endless stream of spotted merchandise, Disney must have forgotten that there was a film

The heavily hyped "101 Dalmations" is an uncreative rehashing of the 1961 animated classic. Blatantly lifting elements from "Home Alone" and "Babe," the film is an assortment of painfully elaborate settings, wooden characters and clichéd humor. Although the movie diverts kids' attention for a few hours, adults who are old enough to remember the original will be extremely disappointed.

Set in the bustling streets of modern-day London, the story opens with the charmingly klutzy Roger (Jeff Daniels of "Dumb and Dumber") - a struggling video game creator (one of the many shallow attempts to update the film) - and his well-trained dog, Pongo.

Glenn Close Jeff Daniels Joely Richardson Screenplay by John Hughes Directed by Stephen Herek

* out of ***

When Pongo sets his sights on a canine companion, Roger gets a chance to meet a mousy woman (Joely Richardson) who loves Dalmatians as much as he does.

The various, human-like actions performed by the talented dogs are often whimsical, but the film's sequences featuring people are com- tating, not scary. pletely devoid of any trademark

"101 Dalmatians," a live-action version of the 1961 animated feature, is currently showing at Cinemas I & II, Sycamore Mall.

Daniels' and Richardson's vanilla performances do not evoke the necessary fantasy to propel the story's unexplainable moments. Worse yet, director Stephen Herek ("Mr.Holland's Opus") hampers these sluggish sequences even further by supplying the audience with lengthy, detailed shots of the film's glaringly artificial settings.

Surprisingly, even the introduc-tion of Cruella De Vil (Glenn Close of "Fatal Attraction") and her henchmen does little to liven up this film. In an attempt to recreate Disney's most feared villain, Close smokes like a chimney and is dressed in magnificently outrageous costumes. Still, her over-the-top acting - which consists of screaming and goofy eye movements instead of toon - comes off as angry and irri-uncaptivating finale, the influence of screenwriter John Hughes ("Home Alone") takes center stage. Once again, bodily harm passes for children's humor as the villains get smacked in the head, fall into piles of manure and get their genitals electrocuted. Walt would be proud.

As the film drags toward its

The film's only redeeming elements are the brilliantly staged animal sequences. Despite their sloppy, computer-generated duplicates, the dogs, cats, horses, ducks and other barnyard friends provide a sense of fun that is desperately missing from the rest of the film. However, after witnessing "Babe," to have the animals not speak (as they did in the original) is one of the film's greatest letdowns.

Even though Disney's marketing masters have made sure this lessthe ice-cold glances used in the car- than-mediocre film will be a box office hit, "101 Dalmatians" is a soulless adaptation of one of the most beloved cartoons of all times.

When he was barely able to walk, playwright Truman Capote was sent to live the first nine years of his life in Alabama under the care and supervision of his elderly female cousins and aunts.

Miss Sook, Capote's fun-loving and wacky 60-year-old cousin, was his closest friend and confidant during his childhood years in the 1930s. Their relationship is depicted in Capote's "Holiday Memories," which will be performed at Riverside Theatre Company, 213 N. Gilbert St., through Dec. 22.

" 'Holiday Memories' is a love story that transcends generations," Director Ron Clark said. "People from 6 to 60 can enjoy this play because the meanings apply to all ages.

From his two classic short stories "The Thanksgiving Visitor" and "A Christmas Memory," "Holiday Memories" tells the story of Capote's unique childhood. While the play is narrated by an adult Capote, the stories are depicted by his childhood self.

In the first act, Buddy (Capote's pet name as a child) confronts the true meaning of giving thanks when Miss Sook invites the town bully to Thanksgiving dinner. The second act finds Capote reminiscing his childhood adventures with his beloved cousin.

"Looking back at Capote's childhood, you can see the connection of the older Truman to his younger self through this 60year-old woman," actor Tim Budd said. "That's why I think the show appeals to kids of all ages. It's a story of time gone by and of zens.

simpleness and love."

"It's a beautiful pair of stories with extraordinary language because it employs direct storytelling," Clark said. "Technically, it's one of Capote's best writings."

Typically Capote is known for his more hard-edged works, such as "In Cold Blood" and "The Grass Harp," Clark said.

"People tend to think of 'In Cold Blood' as Capote's typical work but it's not," he said. "He also did 'Breakfast at Tiffany's' as well as 'Holiday Memories.' These are much more representative of his work.'

Capote also had relations with author Harper Lee, who wrote "To Kill A Mockingbird."

'To Kill A Mockingbird' is very much representative of Capote because Lee was his neighbor when they were growing up," Clark said. "The character of Dill in 'Mockingbird' was based off of Capote as a child."

Budd said he expects audiences to enjoy the new angle taken on Capote's writing, as well as the meaning given to his simple-hearted childhood stories of growing up.

"I think people will see another side of Capote they're not as familiar with," Budd said. "'Holiday Memories' represents another, simpler side of Christmas and Thanksgiving - a side other than the hustle and bustle of relatives and shopping. The simpleness is the essence of the show, and of the holidays."

"Holiday Memories" will be performed Fridays and Saturdays at p.m. and Sundays at 2 p.m. through Dec. 22. Tickets are $15, $13 for students and senior citi-

'101 Dalmatians' tops box office charts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Disney's "101 Dalmatians" led the pack in its debut over the long Thanksgiving weekend with an estimated $46 million in ticket sales, according to industry estimates Sunday.

The comedy knocked "Star Trek: First Contact" into second place with an estimated take of $25.35 million, followed by "Space Jam" with $17.9 million.

The success of "101 Dalmatians" was no surprise. The movie was pushed by a huge marketing campaign and had the Thanksgiving weekend to itself. The only other openings were for a trio of limitedrelease films: "The Crucible" played at just one theater while "Ridicule" and "Sling Blade" were on three screens each.

The opening took the record for a five-day Thanksgiving opening from "Back to the Future 2," which debuted with $43 million in 1989.

The estimated grosses for Wednesday through Sunday are (final figures to be released today):

1. "101 Dalmatians," $46

2. "Star Trek: First Contact," $25.35 million.

3. "Space Jam," $17.9 mil-

4. "Ransom," $17.6 million. 5. "Jingle All the Way," $17.5 million.

6. "The Mirror Has Two Faces," $8.28 million. 7. "The English Patient,"

$5.9 million. "Set It Off," $4.6 million. 9. "William Shakespeare's Romeo & Juliet," $3.5 million. 10. "Sleepers," $1.5 million.

Conan O'Brien to be aired on weeknights

NEW YORK (AP) - Now it's possible for the non-insomniacs to get a regular dose of Conan O'Brien.

The cable network CNBC said it would begin broadcasting "Late Night with Conan O'Brien" on a tape-delayed basis weeknights at 9 p.m. starting tonight. His show is usually aired at 11:35 a.m. on

There will be a 30-day lag in shows. In other words, shows aired during the first week of November will be reaired.

"This will be interesting," O'Brien said. "My show has never been seen by people who are completely awake.

na Vista gave the Iowa wrestling team a chance to shake off some rust, even if they didn't offer Division I competition.

Iowa trounced both teams in wrestling duals held in Spencer, Iowa, last Friday night. The Hawkeyes won eight of 10 matches against South Dakota State in a 38-6 victory and swept Buena Vista in a 52-0 rout. South Dakota State is affiliated with the NCAA's Division II while the Beavers are a Division III team.

The duals, which were Iowa's first competition of the season, extended Iowa's dual-meet winning streak to 35 matches.

"It's always good to get that first match out of the way," 167pounder Mike Uker said. "You might be a little rusty or nervous. It feels pretty good just to go out there and beat somebody up.'

Uker won by major decision against South Dakota State and pinned his Buena Vista opponent in five minutes, 20 seconds.

Mark Ironside (134 pounds), Lincoln McIlravy (150) and Joe Williams (158) each had pins in both duals. Hawkeye teammates Jessie Whitmer and Tony Ersland scored major decisions against South Dakota State and Lee Fullhart won with a 19-2 technical fall.

Kasey Gilliss and Wes Hand were the only Iowa wrestlers to lose as they both dropped 4-2

The top-ranked Hawkeyes completely overwhelmed Buena Vista as they registered six pins in 10 matches. Whitmer and Hand had the fastest pins against the Beavers with times of 1:28 and 1:10, respectively.

Ersland, Iowa's 177-pounder, is one of four Hawkeye firststringers with limited varsity experience. Ersland, who lives near Spencer, was 3-2 last season.

"It was a good way to start the season for me - a couple matches in a friendly environment," said Ersland, who won twice by major decision on Friday. "I got the cobwebs out, but I feel like I should be attacking more.

The other inexperienced Iowa wrestlers are Whitmer (12-4 in 1995-96) and redshirt freshmen Hand and Gilliss. Iowa coach Dan Gable has emphasized the importance of these wrestlers on several occasions.

 Iowa's non-varsity wrestlers competed in Madison, Wis., on Friday in the Northern Open. Lee Weber took second place in the 177-pound division after being defeated by Ken Bigley, 12-10. Matt Hoover (190) and Mike Christensen (Hwt) captured fourth-place finishes.

· The Hawkeyes will encounter more difficult competition next weekend on the road. Friday, Iowa travels to No. 5 Penn State before meeting No. 8 Lock Haven Saturday.

IOWA VOLLEYBALL

Hawkeyes wrap up deja vu season

James Kramer

The Daily Iowan

Iowa's disappointing volleyball season came to an end Saturday night when Michigan defeated the Hawkeyes, 15-11, 15-17, 15-10, 15-5.

Last Wednesday, Illinois swept Iowa in three games, 15-9, 15-9, 15-11. The Hawkeyes finished their season at 10-21, the same record they compiled last year. Iowa coach Linda Schoenstedt said the Michigan match was typical of her team's season. "It was indicative in that it's been a season of near-misses," she said. "We've hoped to improve on a poor 1995 sea- played toe-to-toe or couldn't sustain been so close in so many matches."

the year made it difficult to play up to al starters from last year, including par against the Wolverines and Illini.

"I think our players were emotionally drained," Schoenstedt said. "Their bodies were willing, but they didn't have the mental strength to come through."

Senior Jennifer Webb, the Hawkeyes' all-time leader in career kills, had 15 kills against Illinois. Julie Williams added 12 while Jennifer Bell had 10. Webb again led the Hawkeyes against Michigan with 22 kills while Sharla Johnson and Bell had 10 apiece.

son in which they had a 3-17 Big Ten any momentum."

The frustration built up throughout record. The Hawkeyes returned sever-Webb, Jill Oelschlager and Bell.

But as it turned out, Iowa became a team that relied heavily upon its young players. Oelschlager's productivity decreased and she was replaced in the lineup by Williams, a freshman.

The setter position, which was filled primarily by sophomore Barb Zvonek, was also inexperienced. Freshman Shannon Smith occasionally filled in for Zvonek.

"We were not consistent all season Schoenstedt and her team had long," Schoenstedt said. "We either pass to Rodney Sermons in overtime gave the Trojans (6-6) their first win over the Irish since 1982 and probably saved coach John Robinson's job.

An Irish victory would have put them in the Fiesta Bowl, which pays each team $8,580,000. Instead, the Irish may be home for the holidays.

"We wanted to send Coach Holtz out right, but we didn't," Notre Dame quarterback Ron Powlus said. No. 9 Tennessee 14, Vanderbilt 7 At Nashville, Tenn, the Volunteers (9-2) didn't do much to improve their Bowl Alliance chances, but a few upsets on Saturday could change things. Tyrone Hines returned a fumble 61 yards for a score and Jay Graham ran for another TD as the Vols held off the Com-Last year, Tennessee went 10-1 but ended up in the Citrus Bowl, where the Vols beat Ohio State 20-14. This year, coach Phillip Fulmer is hoping for more.

"There's probably some kind of justice since we didn't go last year," he said. "I know our fans will follow us wherever, and it will be exciting. I'm not lobbying for it."

Unless No. 15 Alabama upsets No. 4 Florida, the Vols are probably headed for the Outback Bowl against No. 16 Michi-

No. 19 Miami 38, No. 22 Syracuse 31 At Syracuse, N.Y., the Orangemen (8-3) blew their Orange Bowl chance by losing to the Hurricanes (8-3), creating a three-way tie for the Big East with Virginia Tech and giving the Hokies the Big East's alliance

"To drop from the Orange Bowl is huge," Syracuse running back Terry Morris said. "The loss really hurts right now. I don't really think it's fully hit us. On Friday, it was: No. 3 Nebraska 17, No. 7 Colorado 12; No. 11 Virginia Tech 26, No. 25 Virginia 9; and No. 17 LSU 17, Arkansas 7.

Veterans Couples, Watson top Woods in Skins Game

LA OUINTA, Calif. (AP) - Fred Couples' game wasn't great, but his timing was.

As Tiger Woods and Tom Watson matched birdie putts and raised the stakes, Couples sneaked in with a 7-foot birdie putt Sunday to win $240,000 and his second consecutive Skins Game title.

The dramatic putt on No. 15, with money carried over from six holes, gave Couples a total of $280,000 for the two-day event.

Watson, at 47 the senior member of the foursome and 27 years older than Woods, earned a $220,000 paycheck for the two days. Woods earned $40,000 by winning one hole on Saturday. John Daly, the fourth player in the event, outdrove Woods most of the time in the matchup of the PGA Tour's longest hitters, but he won no holes and no money.

Olajuwon hospitalized with irregular heartbeat

HOUSTON (AP) — Hakeem Olajuwon checked into a hospital Sunday after the Houston Rockets center had an irregular heartbeat for the second time in less than two weeks.

Olajuwon was reported in "very good condition" at Methodist Hospital, where he had been since about 10:30 a.m. Sunday, hospital spokeswoman Angela McPike said.

Olajuwon, 33, was to be exam ined Sunday afternoon by team internist Dr. James Muntz.

The star center, who has a history of heart trouble, flew to Houston from Washington early Sunday. He had felt the irregular heartbeat about 2 a.m., just hours after finishing with 34 points and 17 rebounds while playing 39 minutes on Saturday night.

Three hurt, but women win, 64-53

Andy Hamilton The Daily Iowan

After a two-week layoff since a stunning loss to Notre Dame, the Iowa women's basketball team bounced back with a 64-53 win at home against Iowa State on Sun-

The Hawkeyes weren't at full strength with Angela Hamblin, Tiffany Gooden and Malikah Willis sitting out due to injuries, but the other nine players each stepped up their games to overcome the absences and a quality Cyclone

"My team played one heck of a basketball game," Iowa coach Ang-ie Lee said. "This team had to pull together. I'm very proud of this team."

Iowa State kept it close down to the final minute, answering every Hawkeye run with one of its own, but in the end, it was the Cyclones running out of steam, not the shorthanded Hawkeyes.

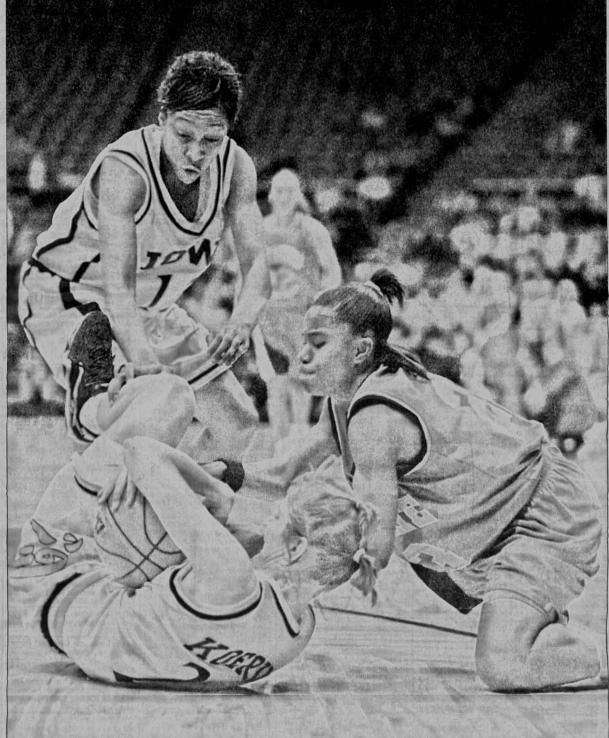

Iowa opened by hitting six of its first seven field goal attempts to take a 14-4 lead, but Jayme Olson and Janel Grimm led the Cyclones back. The two Iowa State juniors combined to score all of their team's points in the first half.

While the Cyclones were getting big performances from two players, the Hawkeyes used a balanced attack to maintain a 26-24 halftime lead. Eight Iowa players scored for the Hawkeyes in the first half against the numerous forms of zone defense the Cyclones played.

"(We used) everything we could think of," Iowa State coach Bill Fennelly said. "We just tried to change our defenses. Obviously we don't match up to them."

Just when Iowa got comfortable against one defense, the Cyclones would change things up. "We started off hot," Lee said.

"But when they began to change things, that's where we began to become somewhat confused. Iowa State matched every Hawk-LAHAINA, Hawaii - With three starters ailing and the team losing, J.R. Koch and Guy Rucker came to the rescue for the Iowa Hawkeyes.

Both rang up career highs as Iowa salvaged a trip to the lowa Maui Invita- Chaminade 37 tional by beating Chaminade LSU 67-37 Wednes- lowa day for seventh = place in the California eight-team Iowa tournament.

Koch scored 19 of his 22 points in the first half and grabbed 11 rebounds, while Rucker contributed 16 points and six rebounds as the Hawkeyes (2-2) dominated from the start.

"This really helped both of us," said Koch, a 6-foot-9 sophomore. "We were depended on to do some of the scoring. That picks you up and you feel more a part of the team, like you're needed out there, and that helps us.'

Iowa again played without starters Jess Settles, Ryan Bowen and Kent McCausland. Bowen and McCausland have been ill with a virus and missed all three games of the tournament. Settles injured his heel in the first half of the tournament opener against California and hasn't played since. California beat Iowa 75-59 and the Hawkeyes lost to LSU 70-60 on Tuesday. But thanks to strong inside play from Koch and Rucker and some aggressive defense, Iowa avoided getting skunked in the tournament. Iowa held Chaminade (0-3) scoreless over the final 13:16 of the first half in taking a 40-8 lead. Chaminade made just three of 19 first-half shots and its 37 points matched Arizona State's all-time

A jubilant Florida State fan dives off the goal post after the Seminoles defeated Florida 24-21 in Tallahassee Saturday.

Florida State leaps to No. 1 ranking

Richard Rosenblatt Associate Press

Cranky and irritable trying to figure out who's going to what bowl game?

Just think how Florida State coach Bobby Bowden feels. His Seminoles just beat Florida 24-21 to take over the No. 1 ranking and could end up in a rematch with the Gators in the Sugar Bowl!

"I don't want no more of them, Bowden, waving his arms in mock surrender, said Sunday. "Yeah, I'm a coward. Never said I wasn't."

And then there's Notre Dame, which blew an $8 million Fiesta Bowl payday with a 27-20 overtime loss to USC on Saturday night in what could be coach Lou Holtz's final game.

The 18th-ranked Irish (8-3) could still go to either the Copper or Independence bowls as an at-large team, but a new twist could find them in Aloha Bowl against Cali-

There's joy in Provo, Utah, and Blacksburg, Va.

The loss by the Irish could be Brigham Young's gain. A win on Saturday against No. 20 Wyoming in the WAC championship game and the sixth-ranked Cougars (12-1) might be headed to the Fiesta Bowl against No. 8 Penn State.

Unless Colorado (9-2) sneaks in. If that happened, BYU would play Kansas State in the Cotton Bowl and the other Big 12 teams would move up the bowl ladder, leaving the Aloha Bowl - the Big 12's unfilled No. 6 spot - open for .. Holtz's final hula.

Virginia Tech, meanwhile, jumped into the alliance - the Orange Bowl awaits - after No. 19 Miami beat No. 22 Syracuse 38-31 to create a three-way tie for the Big East title. The 11th-ranked Hokies (10-1) win the tiebreaker based on highest poll ranking.

PACKERS 28, BEARS 17

Packers punish Bears, again

Arnie Stapleton Associated Press

GREEN BAY, Wis. - Antonio Freeman made up for his missed month in a hurry.

Freeman returned to Green Bay's lineup after missing four games with a broken left arm Sunday and set career highs with 10 receptions for 156 yards in the Packers' 28-17 victory over the Chicago Bears.

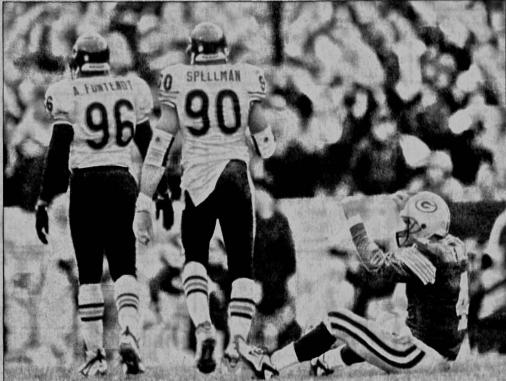

"He's doing it with one arm and he's faster than I've ever seen him," teammate LeRoy Butler said.

For a month, it was the Packers offense, decimated by injuries, which seemed to play with one arm tied. Settled by Freeman's return, Green Bay (10-3) beat Chicago (5-8) for the sixth straight time and won its 14th straight at Lambeau Field. The Packers, who hadn't won six straight from the Bears in 66 years, still have never lost a December game in Green Bay during coach Mike Holmgren's five seasons. The Bears remained winless on the road in the regular season in December since 1987.
