Rainbow Project Task Force report issues seven recommendations to alleviate concerns of LGB1

By Penny Tapp The Daily Iowan

The effects of the Rainbow Project Task Force's recommendations may be slow, but hopefully they won't be shut back into the closet.

UI President Mary Sue Coleman said she is pleased with the report, but she will have to wait and see what changes will be implemented. She said she will work with Susan Mask, the head of the UI Office of Affirmative Action, to "try to make the changes we need to make."

"I'm not naive about this," Coleman said. "Changes are not going to happen overnight, but we don't want people to feel they are out of the mainstream. Homosexuality is not an aberration."

Coleman has been put in charge of reviewing and implementing the recommendations, said Task Force member Diane Finnerty, education specialist from the Office of Affirmative Action. Some changes such as changing language in UI literature - will be more readily made than others.

those things relating to material language than those regarding a center (for the lesbian/gay/bisexual/transgender students with a paid member of staff)," she said. "And some of them may not be implemented. But (Coleman) will be dealing with that."

formed in 1991, did much of the same work as the Rainbow Task Force, but nothing ever came of it.

"I think Mary Sue Coleman wanted to see what the climate was like around the university," Mitchell said. "This could either be a report that will just go on file or something that could actually happen. I'm not sure which yet."

The Rainbow Project Task Force, appointed in September 1996 by Coleman, issued its report March 12. Its seven recommendations (and they are just recommendations, the Task Force has no power in the report, several already were undertaken and the Task Force only wanted to highlight and encourage those efforts. Others, such as an expanded LGBT office and the hiring of a staff to handle LGBT issues, have yet to be put in place. Although the UI Focurrently has an LGBT office, Mitchell called it a "closet" and it is only staffed by student volunteers. Coleman said the first recommendation made by the Task Force could be "a real possible step forward." This point suggests the revision of materials published by offices serving both graduate and undergraduate students, with particular reference to the Human Rights Policy.

There is an extensive amount of material produced, it will be a serious undertaking and it will take a long time to do, Coleman said.

It is important to make new LGBT students aware of places that are welcoming and those better avoided, Mitchell said.

"But if we're doing an orientation for undergraduates and we say something that we offer for LGBT students, I think a lot of the newcomers could be turned off by that," Mitchell said.

The most important recommendation was the last one, which suggests developing training programs for staff members who serve LGBT students, Mitchell said. It is particularly important for people to realize there is more to LGBT students' lives than their sexuality.

"I think it is crucial that volunteers are really sensitive to the issues," Mitchell said. "It would be good to have an LGBT person on the staff, as they would be coming

As diplomats across the globe work to stop violence in the Middle East, six UI students have returned from a conference on Capitol Hill with a few answers.

Educating themselves and informing U.S. legislators was the mission of the students, who are members of HawkPAC, a UI-recognized lobbying organization that emphasizes a strong relationship

Relations between the United States and Israel and an end to war for economic and humanitarian reasons were among the topics addressed by UI sophomores Anita Zelman, Heather Landesman,

The students listened to speeches by Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, Vice President Al Gore and Secretary of State Madeleine Albright that addressed the U.S.-Israel relationship.

NEW YORK (AP) — Rosie O'Donnell, who grew up sneaking off to musicals, will soon be in the middle of Broadway's biggest moment as host of this year's Tony Awards.

"I used to steal 20 bucks from my father's wallet, take the train in and get standing room," the talk-show queen said at a news conference Wednesday. "I saw 'They're Playing Our Song' nine times; 'Dreamgirls' six times."

The three-hour Tony telecast June 1 will span two networks. PBS will broadcast the first hour, with awards for sets, costumes and lighting. CBS will show the rest, featuring the major acting awards and prizes for best play and musical. O'Donnell will be the host for CBS's part of the pro-

So far it's so good. Ranking high on Top 10 lists around the country, "So Good," a novel by UI assistant professor of iournalism Venise Berry, rapidly is reaching success.

And it may not be long before her book ends up on the big screen.

Reuben Cannon, a well-known African-American Hollywood producer and casting director, has approached Berry about making the book into a movie. Berry said she is extremely excited about the possibility.

"I'm one of three in the running," Berry said. "I told him I'm an ideal choice — as the book was originally written as a script. It was created into a book from that manuscript."

The month after it was released, "So Good" was listed on Emerge magazine's recommended list. Since then it has been listed as one of the Top 10 books of 1996 in Upscale magazine and it has been on the Blackboard Best Sellers list in Essence magazine since January, which is a Top 5 listing.

Although Berry has taught journalism since 1980, she said she always has had an interest in poetry, short stories and script writing. So it has come as no particular surprise to her journalism colleagues that her novel has done so well.

"She has always written creative material," said Professor John Soloski, director of the UI School of

"So Good," Berry's debut novel, is the tale of three thirtysomething African-American women: Ph.D. candidate Lisa, new bride Sundiata and advertising executive Danielle. Readers follow the friends through the trials of their relationships with men and the subtle complexities of their interrelationships as they strive for independence and

It has been compared to works such as "Waiting to Exhale" by Ter-McMillan and "Sisters and Lovers" by Connie Briscoe.

"So Good" has sold 25,000 copies and is now in its fifth reprint. The paperback version is set to be released in August.

Locally the book is selling extremely well, said Paul Ingram of Prairie Lights Books, 15 S. Dubuque St. The bookstore has sold 63 copies, which is a high, Ingram said.

Berry, who recently returned from a 12-city book-signing tour, said she knew "So Good" was a good story, but she was overwhelmed by the response it evoked in her read-

"All the people who come up to me are so enthusiastic, you know. It's amazing," Berry said.

is wonderful. I am looking forward to when she is a bit bigger, though, and we can go to movies and stuff."

Yet with all of this, Berry already has made plans about her next book, "Serpentine Fire," which will deal with the issue of African-American women and weight. Berry said she is looking forward to it being even more of a success than its predecessor.

Berry is teaching script writing over the summer at the Iowa Script Writers Group, July 6-11, and at the Iowa Summer Writing Festival, July 19-20.

HEBRON, West Bank - The funeral of a Palestinian drew thousands to the streets Wednesday in more West Bank rioting, and protesters hurled rocks and firebombs at Israeli soldiers — who answered with tear gas and rubber bullets.

About 30 people were injured as Palestinian police formed human chains, searched rooftops and blocked streets with trucks, struggling to separate protesters from the soldiers and prevent more deaths after the funeral of Nader Isseid, 24, one of three Palestinians killed a day earlier.

"We don't want it to spread all over," said Brig. Gen. Abdel Fatah Jaidi, head of National Guard forces in Hebron.

But if the casualty toll mounts, he said, "I cannot predict what will happen.

Two Palestinians were killed Tuesday and 100 injured in riots that broke out after two Jewish seminary students shot and killed a Palestinian man.

The olive branch is down and the Kalashnikov is raised," marchers shouted at Isseid's funeral. "Revenge, revenge."

Palestinian police fired 21 shots wrapped in the red, white, green and black Palestinian flag, was lowered into the grave. Isseid died after several hours in a coma with a bullet in his brain.

After the funeral, thousands of Palestinian marchers, many waving flags with militant Islamic slogans, marched toward the Israelicontrolled part of the city, where 500 Jewish settlers live.

At one point, Palestinians brought buckets and cartons filled with rocks to replenish the supplies of protesters on the front Jaidi said Palestinian police had been ordered to be present in large numbers. "We want to keep losses to a minimum," he said.

September that deteriorated into gun battles between Palestinian police and Israeli soldiers.

Doctors praise cloning benefits

By Lauran Neergaard Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Lost in the uproar over Dolly the cloned sheep is a biological feat doctors say might someday allow them to grow new bone marrow for cancer victims, fight sickle cell anemia and other genetic diseases or even heal spinal cords.

The idea is to turn back the clock inside cells to when they were newly formed and malleable - and then reprogram their genes to regrow tissues or switch off genes that spur disease.

"It's an area of tremendous interest," said Dr. Harold Varmus, director of the National Institutes of Health. He is pushing a Congress afraid of possible human cloning not to ban Dolly-spurred research with such medical called developmental biology.

"I used to have the door slammed in my face," said Dr. Doros Platika, president of Ontogeny Inc. Just weeks after Dolly made headlines, the company raised $25 million from suddenly less-skeptical investors to try regrowing, among other things, brain cells destroyed by Parkinson's disease.

Dolly showed "this is not science fiction," added Platika, a neurologist who is preparing to publish data showing his treatment stimulated brain-cell regrowth in mice. "People now realize there's a lot more plasticity in the body than they thought," Platika said.

Virtually every cell contains a person's entire genetic blueprint, all 80,000-100,000 genes.

But during embryo development, cells become specialized — scientists call it "differentiation" meaning only the genes responsi-Dolly's creation from a single ble for each cell's function in life reprogrammed udder cell gave a are turned on. The Scottish researcher essentially took a sheep's udder cell and "undifferentiated" it, making it think it was still an early embryo cell with no special function. Then he awakened all the genes to spin off the cells needed for an entire

The medical interest in Wilmut's discovery "is not cloning per se," Varmus said in an interview. While he cautioned that years of research are needed, "There's a lot of potential for gene control.'

One key to Wilmut's success was awakening the deprogrammed cell after it was placed inside a sheep's egg. Biologists already knew eggs and early embryos from different species contain gene-regulating molecules that switch genes on and off during different stages of life.

If doctors could control those gene-regulating substances, they might stimulate regrowth of nerve

Researchers close in on preventing AIDS

By Paul Recer Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Researchers say they have found a way to genetically prevent the formation of a key protein that allows the AIDS virus to infect some cells, offering promise for a radically new treat-

Recent studies have shown the HIV virus must link with specific proteins on the surface of cells before it can infect the cell. These surface proteins are called recep-

One of the receptors, CD4, has long been known. Studies last year showed the virus must also link with one of two other cell receptors, CCR5 or CXCR4.

Generally, the virus uses the CCR5 receptor to invade cells early in the infection. After the virus mutates, it also uses CXCR4.

Scientists at the Naval Medical Research Institute in Bethesda, Md., announced this week that in laboratory experiments they are now able to prevent T-cells, the primary HIV target, from making the cell to turn off the CCR5," said effect, shuts down the ability of the virus to infect the T-cells, said Dr. Carl June of the institute.

"We know that if you are born without the CCR5 gene, it is very hard to get infected with HIV. June said. "Our work shows that you can artificially induce this immunity by turning off the CCR5 gene in the nucleus of the cell."

A report on the study is to be published Friday in the journal Sci

T-cells play a key role in the immune system. When an infective organism is detected, the T-cells multiply and each new cell has on its surface two proteins, CD3 and CD28, June said. When these proteins are made, it signals the nucleus of the cell to also make CCR5.

In the new research, June said, his group has blocked the expression of CD3 and CD28. This, in turn, causes the cell to not make Zayde's Bagel & Bake Shop in Saugus, Mass., has been boiling the hard, crusty rolls since his father-in-law set up shop 80 years ago. But business has been slipping lately, as the bagel goes from old-world wonder to mass-marketed commodity.

Rep. Paul Kanjorski, D-Pa., said he is introducing legislation to ban information about individuals' earnings, tax records and Social Security benefits on the Internet.

About six months ago, the agency began accepting e-mail requests from taxpayers for their Social Security records, but it continued to reply by regular mail until about a month ago

Now the system is fully automated and the agency delivers records on-line. The same information is available by mailing in a paper form and waiting to receive a reply

That process takes up to six weeks and costs Social Security millions of dollars in postage each

The paper request form requires a signature, but the agency does not maintain signatures on file for matching requests, so it is not clear how the paper procedure is more secure than the electronic version.

Phil Gambino, a spokesperson for the agency, said several security features have been built into the new electronic records system to maintain privacy. For example, auditors can trace the origin of a request back to the exact personal computer used to make it.

"The information going back and forth between the requester and Social Security is encrypted, so if it gets intercepted in the middle, it can't be interpreted. It would look like gibberish," he said.

Critics say anyone with knowledge of another person's Social Security number, their mother's maiden name and the state where they were born could access the records electronically to learn their job history, salary and other infor-

Social Security Web site's Okla. reporter hands over McVeigh letter

By Michael Fleeman Associated Press

DENVER - A reporter voluntarily gave authorities a letter Wednesday from Timothy McVeigh blaming the FBI for the Branch Davidian deaths and comparing his plight in the Oklahoma City bombing to that of Richard Jewell.

"If you have trouble believing that the Justice Department are adept liars - come to one of my pretrial hearings, to the trial itself, or ask Richard Jewell," McVeigh writes.

At the offices of the weekly Oklahoma Gazette in Oklahoma City, an FBI agent wearing rubber gloves placed the two-page handwritten letter into a plastic envelope.

"They just asked for it. They could have gone the subpoena route, but that would have been silly," said Gazette reporter Phil Bacharach, who interviewed McVeigh in prison and received the letter from him last November. The newspaper made it public

Tuesday during jury selection in McVeigh's bombing trial. Bacharach said he didn't reveal the letter earlier because McVeigh's views against the government already are well-known.

Prosecutors have alleged McVeigh blew up the Oklahoma City federal building in 1995 in part as revenge for the government siege at the Branch Davidian compound near Waco, Texas, two years earlier.

In the letter, dated "26 Nov 96," McVeigh writes that the FBI caused the "slow, torturous" deaths of families in Waco, then dodged responsibility with the help of its own "wizards of propaganda."

Cult leader David Koresh and 80 of his followers died April 19, 1993, by fire or gunshots after the FBI started filling the compound with tear gas. Davidians and their attorneys blame the government for starting the fire. FBI officials said the blaze was started by sect members.

McVeigh is particularly critical of former FBI special agent Bob Ricks, who was an FBI spokesperson from the Waco scene and who was based in Oklahoma City at the time of the bombing - although not in the federal building. Ricks now heads the Oklahoma state law enforcement

"At Waco, once the FBI blocked the Davidians abilities to communicate with the outside world, Bob Ricks could then step forward and mold the facts to fit the FBI's pur-

Defense attorneys Stephen Jones (right) and Chris Tritico pause to talk to the media at the federal courthouse in Denver on Tuesday, after a full day in court for jury selection for the trial of their client, Oklahoma City bombing suspect Timothy McVeigh.

Air Force has no answers for plane

By Michelle Boorstein

PHOENIX - After Capt. Craig David Button's bomb-laden Air Force attack jet broke from formation and he failed to answer a call a minute later, some thought he became incapacitated and put the jet on autopilot, or ejected after

But ejection should have activated an automatic homing device, which did not happen when the A-10 Thunderbolt disappeared last Wednesday.

And while radar records indicate the plane's path initially was straight - backing the autopilot theory - it changed course 800 miles away over Aspen, Colo., something that would require a pilot at

Is it possible the pilot stole the plane?

Visual sightings in Colorado near Montrose and later near the Vail-Aspen area reported the aircraft appeared to be circling, "so in our opinion the aircraft was being flown at that time," Col. Barry Barksdale, commander of the 355th Fighter Wing at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base in Tucson, said Wednesday.

To cover all the bases, investigators are sifting through Button's background.

U.S. Air Force Col. Barry Barksdale explains the inner workings of a cockpit of an A-10 airplane while answering reporters' questions aboutthe missing attack jet that disappeared last Wednesday, at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base in Tucson, Ariz.

"The investigation ... includes all aspects of the plane and pilot, anything to do with the situation," said son at Davis-Monthan.

A signal beacon would not have triggered automatically if the plane crashed, Barksdale said.

Snow Wednesday kept Air National Guard and Civil Air Patrol earchers from resuming the hunt for the missing jet.

The mystery began last Wednesday morning after Button's plane took off in formation from Davis-Monthan with two other A-10s bound for a bombing range in southwestern Arizona. The plane was carrying four non-nuclear bombs and mounted machine guns.

Button was with the rest until about 90 minutes into the flight. The other pilots broke formation and began the search, spotting

The plane may have gone down in the New York Mountain area, near Edwards, Colo., at which time it would have been nearly out of fuel. The last radar trace of the A-10 is there amid the snow-covered Rocky

But officials were also looking elsewhere.

The Pentagon was checking into the time Button spent at Laughlin Air Force Base in Del Rio, Texas, where he was a flight instructor until he arrived in Tucson in February to train on the A-10. CBS reported Monday that Button had asked his training flights at Laughlin be routed through Colorado.

Man charged with throwing bomb in court had civil case dismissed by judge in 1988

URBANA, Ill. - Jurors leaped out of the box in panic and people stampeded out of a courthouse after a hooded man threw a Molotov cocktail at a judge, slamming him in the forehead and starting a fire that gutted the courtroom.

The bomb bounced off the forehead of Circuit Judge George Miller, but didn't immediately explode Tuesday. Miller, one of the four people who suffered minor injuries, had handled a civil case involving John Ewing, the man arrested later in the day for the bombing, police said.

"It was obvious that he was aiming it at the judge and trying to hurt the judge," said Abra Bonnell, a juror in a medical malpractice case that was interrupted by the commotion. "Everybody left the jury box scream-

AUGUSTA, Ga. - Most fans don't know much about the front nine at Augusta National Golf Club because television is not permitted to show the first nine holes. Ever.

It's the only major golf tournament where the front nine is a mystery to the television audience. All 18 holes of the U.S. Open, British Open, and PGA are televised.

The golfers certainly understand the difficulty of this unheralded stretch of ground. They know they can shoot themselves out of the tournament before they even get to the celebrated Amen Corner, Nos. 11-12-13, where the Masters is supposed to begin, particularly on Sunday. Nick Faldo, last year's champion, can tell you about the one-putt double bogey he made on the devilish par-4 Chairman Jack Stephens was asked 360-yard No. 3. It took him four shots just to stay on the green.

The toughest hole in the Masters last year wasn't on Amen Corner, where water comes into play on three holes. It was the 205-yard No. 4 in the Masters officials are worried that middle of what some players call "Little Amen Corner" on 3-4-5.

The fifth hole is a mean 435-yard par-4 that has a difficult green reminiscent of the infamous No. 17 "Road Hole" at St. Andrews.

De La Hoya will say 'Sweet Dreams' to 'Sweet Pea'

Since capturing the WBO Junior Lightweight crown, Oscar De La Hoya, 23-0 (20), has steamrolled through three different weight classes, picking up belts as if they were the common cold.

His path has now taken him to the 147-pound welter-

Whitaker's record stands at 40-1-1, with 17 wins coming by knockout. The lone loss came in 1988 at the hands of former WBC Lightweight champion José Luis Ramirez, while his only draw came via a controversial decision against Julio Cesar Chavez.

Although Whitaker is still considered one of the top fighters in the world, he won't have enough to derail the freight train that is De La Hoya, who will knock "Sweet Pea" out for his

De La Hoya is rolling into this fight with a string of impressive wins, it has recently become painfully obvious that Whitaker is past his prime.

In his last three fights, Whitaker was given a highly controversial decision against Wilfredo Rivera, barely won an ugly rematch, and was behind on all cards when he knocked out unknown Diodelys Hurtado in the 11th round.

While this looks bad for the champion, remember how bad Evander Holyfield looked in his bouts against Riddick Bowe and Bobby Czyz.

Derouin hopes his bad luck has run out

By Wayne Drehs The Daily Iowan

Time is running out for Tom Derouin to reach his goals, and he isn't getting much help.

The Iowa senior tennis player hoped, entering the spring season, to be selected to play in the NCAA Championships at the conclusion of the year.

But the death of his grandmother over spring break and a severe ankle sprain on April 4 have caused Derouin to struggle, losing his last two matches and dropping his record to 8-4. He is currently ranked No. 10 in the region, and only the top four regional players advance to the season-ending tournatimes in high school, but hadn't suffered any problems at the collegiate level pri-"I guess I shouldn't go Riverboat or to last weekend. Nine months ago, he got rid of a brace that helped stabilize the weak ankle.

But with four matches and the Big Ten tournament still ahead for Derouin and Iowa, chances are slim that he will make the NCAAs. The only hope he has is to win all of his remaining matches, and he just returned to practice Wednesday. His status for his final home matches this weekend against Wisconsin Friday and Northwestern Sunday remains unknown.

"I don't know if the (NCAA selection) committee will take any of my bad luck into consideration," Derouin said. "So I've just got to win them all."

One thing that Derouin has on his side is the respect of other coaches. Iowa isn't one of the most talented teams in the region, but the Hawkeyes are gaining a reputation as a team that works hard and won't quit, no matter who they face on the other side of the net. Iowa coach Steve Houghton credits much of that attitude to the leadership of

But after mentioning that, you must remember that Holyfield was facing a one-dimentional, overrated fighter in Mike Tyson while Whitaker is facing the brightest star in the boxing horizon.

Tale of the Tape

De La Hoya-Whitaker offers a very intriguing match-up. Both are natural lefthanders, but only Whitaker fights out of the southpaw stance.

De La Hoya is a tall welterweight at 5 feet 11 inches, while Whitaker stands only 5' 6". Both fighters should weigh in at the mandatory years, while this is the first time for fights. De La Hoya.

This shouldn't hurt De La Hoya, though. He claims to be very comfortable at 147-pounds and looks to be a natural welterweight. Whitaker, however, was at his best in the 130-pound lightweight class.

"The Golden Boy" possesses an insane amount of power in both his hands, while "Sweet Pea" has always carried the label of having feather fists.

Whitaker has never needed power to win his fights. He has always 147 pounds, but Whitaker has been relied on his speed, reflexes, and fighting at that weight for four super-slick defense to win his

The bad news for Whitaker is that he has slowed in the past 18 months and he has no longer proved unhittable. In fact, he was a sitting duck against Hurtado, who floored the champ twice.

While De La Hoya is not a bad defensive fighter, his best defense is a good offense.

De La Hoya possesses one of the best left jabs in the sweet science, and the right hand that follows it is lethal too.

The Fight

The fight will open up as most are expecting, with De La Hoya using his jab like a jack-hammer and Whitaker doing his usual bob and weave out of a peek-a-boo stance. De La Hoya will be able to score at will with his jab, and eventually mark up Whitakers face with power shots.

"Sweet Pea" will find out he isn't the slick boxer he once was, and will be floored multiple times before De La Hoya pins him to the ropes with multiple combinations, causing the referee to stop the fight.

Winner: Oscar De La Hoya by seventh round TKO.

Cubs' perfect season: 0-7 and counting

By Mike Nadel Associated Press

CHICAGO - The Chicago Cubs keep saying it over and over again: The funk they're in can't last all

Just for fun, though, let's say it does. What if they keep losing? Having already matched the worst start in the team's 122-year history -0-7they are only 5½ months away from finishing 0-162.

That would be quite an accomplishment for a franchise that has turned futility into an art form. No NL pennants since 1945. No World Series championships since 1908. No victories in 1997 would fit right in.

Some other projections if the Cubs keep doing for 162 games

The Cubs, who led the league in fielding last season, already have 12 errors - and could have a half-dozen more if not for generous official scorers.

They have crammed seven weeks worth of mental mistakes, baserunning blunders and bad pitches into a mere seven games.

They have been blown out three times. And in the close games, they always managed to mess up at the most inopportune times.

From poor start, Suns in familiar spot: playoffs

By Mel Reisner Associated Press

PHOENIX - From almost certain lottery team to playoff darkhorse, the Phoenix Suns have made one of the most remarkable one-season transformations in NBA history.

The Suns, who lost their first 13 games, now have a 10-game winning streak. That's two NBA recordbook notations in one sentence worst start by an eventual playoff team, and the only squad to have double-digit losing and winning streaks in a season.

Predictably, they also have a new

Of the five players who started in a 96-82 loss to the Los Angeles Lakers on Nov. 1, only Wesley Person is still on the roster, and Jason Kidd, acquired in a trade Dec. 26, has had an enormous impact in the late surge that has lifted Phoenix to a 37-39 record with six games left.

The victory string includes two wins each over playoff heavyweights Seattle and Houston.

ule where we won nine out of 13, but our schedule was softer," said Danny Ainge, the coach since Cotton Fitzsimmons retired after going 0-8. "But to win 10 in a row against some of the teams that we've had makes it more ignificant and more satisfying."

The coaching change was just one of the obstacles Phoenix faced in the turnaround.

The Suns started in a flux after trading Charles Barkley, and since the season began they have played through two big trades, and some key injuries.

Kevin Johnson and Hot Rod Williams started the season on the injured list, and Rex Chapman missed 14 games because of a broken finger. The Suns are 16-3 since Chapman returned, 14-2 with him as a starter.

"It's been kind of up-and-down around here, but we've gone from where the name tags were being changed every two months to where we're solid and playing with a lot of confidence," said Kidd, who missed 21 games after breaking his collarbone in his first game with the Suns. Ainge says his players are unselfish, essential to a system that sometimes puts four guards on the floor and has relegated Danny Manning, the No. 1 pick in the 1988 draft, to sixth man. "The players have all been good chemistry-builders," Ainge said. No one had a bigger adjustment than Johnson. A three-time All-Star at point guard, it was a foregone conclusion he would move to shooting guard after the Suns got Kidd from Dallas. "If it happened earlier in my career, I might not have been at the stage where I could have adjusted as well as I have to the '2' guard spot," Johnson said. "For him, he does what he does so good that it's always the other person that's going to have to adjust.'

Johnson, who ranks fourth alltime in assists average, has rediscovered his shot. During the winning "There was a stretch of our sched- streak, he has averaged 26.2 points

New releases

"Anaconda" (PG-13) - If you can't wait for "Volcano" to erupt on April 25, sate your appetite for freaks of nature with the monster snake of this rumble-in-the-jungle epic. Jon Voight ("The Champ"), Jennifer Lopez ("Jack") and Ice Cube ("Dangerous Ground") are among the sitting ducks who fend off the reptile, who measures too many feet long. Opens Friday at Coral IV Theatres, Coralville.

"Grosse Pointe Blank" (R) -John Cusack ("Say Anything") cowrote, co-produced and stars in this tale of a hit man who returns to his 10-year high-school reunion to romance his old girlfriend (Minnie Driver, "Sleepers") and kill one last person. Dan Aykroyd ("Doctor Detroit") and Alan Arkin ("The In-Laws") co-star. Opens Friday at Cinemas I & II, Sycamore Mall.

Now showing

"The Devil's Own" (R) - Harrison Ford and Brad Pitt give good performances in this political action-drama about an IRA gun runner (Pitt) whose true identity is unknown to the New York police officer (Ford) whose house in which he is hiding.

The film establishes a rhythm of quiet tranquility quickly being destroyed by explosive violence ing it through to the end, but the overall pacing is slow and stilted.

What ultimately undermines some good acting and a few thoughtful characterizations is the fact that Ford and Pitt simply do not work well together. This happens sometimes when two actors with such distinct, overpowering presences occupy the same scene (i.e. Marlon Brando and Val Kilmer in "The Island of Dr. Moreau") "The Devil's Own" isn't nearly big enough for the both of them. At Campus Theatres, Old Capitol Mall. ★★½ - SH

• "Double Team" (R) - Jean Claude Van Damme's latest might have been stupid fun if it just wasn't so mind-numbingly stupid. Somebody had the bright idea to pair the B-Movie King with Chicago media bull Dennis Rodman, but they don't do much together except exchange groaner lines. Actually, Rodman's psychedelic hair is the most fascinating element of the movie - his head changes colors for every new scene - and the Worm easily manages to make Van Damme more invisible than he ever has been before.

But Rodman is a only meager spark. He would be more watchable if he wasn't forced to utter inane basketball-themed dialogue. In his relatively short screen time, he pretends to be some kind of arms dealer who teams with Van Damme near the end of the film to topple the villain Stavros (Mickey Rourke, "Wild Orchid").

Director Tsui Hark too often chops the action up in a way that makes it tough to tell what's going on. He ends the movie in a bizarre action sequence involving a tiger, land mines, a newborn baby, a Coke machine and the Roman Colosseum. No kidding. At Campus Theatres. ★ - GK

• "Inventing the Abbots" (R) - The filmmakers should issue a caveat emptor to moviegoers hoping to find a sweet, lighthearted romp down memory lane. This movie, about boys and girls from different sides of the tracks in small-town 1950s Illinois, drags its viewers through 105 minutes of joyless, oversentimental material from which even "The Wonder

Years" managed to steer clear. Liv Tyler ("Silent Fall") is given top billing in this schmaltzy drama, but her translucent presence isn't given nearly enough time to save the day. Her co-star, Joaquin Phoenix ("To Die For"), is the story's centerpiece, but his character is just as frustratingly dim as the rest of them. This is recommended only to those dying to see what an R-rated afterschool special would be like. At Coral IV. ★1/2 - SH

"Jungle 2 Jungle" (PG) - Tim Allen, continuing his metamorphosis from stand-up comic to Disney whore, plays Michael Cromwell, a commodities trader who needs to travel to the jungle to finalize his divorce from his estranged wife. All is well until Cromwell is informed he has a 13-year old son (Sam Huntington) who has been raised as a tribesman.

After clowning around with some predictable culture-clash scenes in the tropics, the one-minded narrative heads to the urban jungle of New York City, where more famil-hard, and they're not difficult to watch, but there really is nothing they can do with this material which is entirely predictable within a 30-minute radius. At Cinemas I & II. ★½ - SH

"Liar Liar" (PG-13) - Forget the darker road Jim Carrey seemed to be heading down in The Cable Guy." His new film is pure, unapologetic fluff that seeks to turn the rubber-faced comedian into someone as irresistibly likable as Tom Hanks.

Carrey plays a lawyer whose son's birthday wish for his dad to go one day without telling a lie comes true, much to the chagrin of the opportunistic attorney. It's a early on, and does well maintain- one-joke movie, but it's a very funny joke, produc-many scenes that evoke uncontrollable laughter because they ring so true.

Carrey's performance borrows heavily from that of Steve Martin's in 1983's "All of Me," with some of the spastic body contortions being almost identical. But who better to copy than Steve Martin? At Coral IV. ★★★ - SH

"Private Parts" (R) - In his silver-screen debut, outspoken radio host Howard Stern demonstrates his greatest personality - crafting his personality. Permed to perfection and caked with makeup, Stern unleashes his trademark comedy routines to giddy delight, but the delirious fun of "Private Parts" is shackled by his obsession to win mainstream acceptance. The film provides enough outlandish toilet humor to satisfy Stern fans, but fails to find a fresh approach in telling the story of an eccentric celebrity who always was ground-breaking. At Campus Theatres.  - NG

"Return of the Jedi: Special Edition" (PG) - Not much has changed in the final chapter of George Lucas' magnum opus. Some touch-ups in Jabba the Hutt's palace and a more spectacular, yet more somber finale are the extent of what was done for this. special edition.

Yes, this means those cute, fuzzy little Ewoks are still alive and well. But don't let those furballs distract you from the fact that 'Jedi" is an excellently structured, exciting movie. It is the most dependent film in the series, but even those completely unfamiliar with "Star Wars" (if there are such people) will have a good time.

One of the best things about 'Jedi," though, is it provides a satisfying resolution to one of the greatest cliffhangers in movie history. At Reeds") best work. Campus Theatres. ★★★ - SH

• "The Saint" (PG-13) - Val Kilmer bounces back from "The Ghost in the Darkness" land of the walking dead with a lively if showy performance as Simon Templar, an agent-for-hire with a fetish for adopting crazy personas named for saints. Hired by a power-starved Russian oil tycoon, his job is to steal the secrets of "cold fusion," a revolutionary new power source, from its creator, Dr. Emma Russell (Elisabeth Shue, "The Karate Kid").

The movie isn't exactly original in any respect - look for the obligatory microchips, disguises and Swiss bank accounts. The only thing that starts to work is the romance between Simon and Emma, even though it's contrived and ridiculous. These two really seem to go ga-ga for each other, and it actually is a iar chaos ensues. The actors try refreshingly goofy kind of love affair toward the end.

Still, it really hurts that this movie is more charming than suspenseful. What's really missing is a big action set piece for director Phillip Noyce ("Clear and Present Danger") to wow us with. Altogether, the action-adventure of this action-adventure is mediocre. At Englert Theatre, 221 E. Washington St.  1/2 - GK

"Scream" (R) - The concept of a horror/comedy is something that has been attempted in the past, but rarely as successful as "Scream" does it. The killer is genuinely scary, the chases are truly frightening and the audience will be having fun the whole time. It is hard to imagine a room where "Scream" is being shown that is devoid of helpful cries being hurled by the audience to the actors on-screen.

"Scream" boasts a brilliant script by first-time screenwriter Kevin Williamson and the distinction of being the highest-grossing horror film of all time. At Englert Theatre.  - SH

• "That Old Feeling" (PG-13) -Bette Midler ("Outrageous Fortune") and Dennis Farina ("Code of Silence") star as an embittered divorced couple who rediscover their love at their daughter's wedding, leaving their new spouses (and the audience, for that matter) totally bewildered. The humor is of the smug "my, aren't we witty" variety, and Farina and Midler's story line really goes flat from the get-go. What saves the film from being the pits is its lively, and genuinely fun-

porting

Gail O'Grady (TV's "NYPD Blue") and David Rasche (TV's "Sledgehammer") have a great time as the new spouses, and Paula Marshall (TV's "Chicago Sons") earns her status as up-andcoming star as the daughter. Don't rearrange your schedule to see it, but if there's a slow night at the video store a few months down the road, "That Old Feeling" is good in

The following films will be screened at the Bijou this weekend.

"Ma Saison Préférée" -Catherine Deneuve ("Belle de Jour") returns to the screen in the story of a brother and sister whose buried secrets come out as they must deal with their ailing mother. Much has been made of this thoughtful drama, which is said to be director André Téchiné's ("Wild

"Mod Fuck Explosion" -Audiences flocked to last year's modern-day update of "William Shakespeare's Romeo & Juliet,' but this version promises to be stranger yet. An odd mix of "West Side Story" and "A Clockwork Orange," this film strives for constant entertainment, operating with a chic depiction of urban hell.

The Films of Tessa Hughes-Freeland - Experimental filmmaker Tessa Hughes-Freeland will participate in a discussion following the screenings of several of her controversial films, which include "Nymphomania," "Joker," "Rhonda Goes to Hollywood," "Jane Gone" and "Playboy Voodoo."

I'm a sophomore telecommunications major with a production concentration. I'm currently taking an upper-level production class and would like to produce network television.

Television production is an active learning process that can't be learned from a book. That's why we have a 75-minute lecture and one-hour lab each week (for which we have to pay like $175 in addition to tuition).

Dear Trapped:

You're supposed to be the one sleeping in, skipping class and making excuses - not the professor. But to his credit, as a telecommunications professor, sleeping 'til noon and watching "The Beyerly Hillbillies" just might be considered valuable research.

NEW YORK (AP) — A riveting NCAA men's basketball championship between Arizona and Kentucky was the week's mostwatched television program, enabling CBS to narrowly edge NBC in the ratings race.

CBS's 9.4 rating was identical to NBC's score, but Nielsen Media Research estimated Tuesday there were more people watching CBS shows for the

The NCAA finals drew an 18.9 rating, a slight rebound from the 1996 game between Kentucky and Syracuse, the lowest-rated basketball championship game since 1975, Nielsen said.

The top-rated championship during that period was 1979's contest between Michigan State and Indiana State, the first match up of future NBA stars Magic Johnson and Larry Bird. That game drew a 24.1 rating.

For the week, ABC was third with an 8.3 rating, followed by Fox's 6.1 rating.

MTV revamps style UI theater to play more videos 19th centi

By Mike Weiler The Daily Iowan

In an effort to increase ratings, MTV, which has been saturated with mindless game shows and endless "Road Rules" reruns, has unveiled its new marketing strategy - playing more music videos.

With shows like "The Real World," "Idiots Savant" and "Singled Out," music seems to have been last on the music channel's list for the past few years.

Some would even argue MTV - decline showing music videos, coupled with an influx of non-music programming and long commercial breaks, MTV is dissatisfying and losing many viewers.

"It really went downhill in the last few years because they show less and less videos, and that's the only reason I watch it," UI senior Brian Whitaker said. "I hate the 'Week In Rock.' I don't care about rock performers' views on world issues. MTV only shows what's popular and shows the same videos all the time. I miss 'Headbanger's Ball."

However, with ratings down 20 percent for the first quarter of '97 compared with the same period last year, the station is rehashing its programs and will play more videos - an idea that was announced last fall and went into effect March 24. This came two weeks after a report by the Recording Industry Associa- tributed to this story.

Fourth-year urology resident Orrenzo Synder, who was taught to be a grass dancer, said Native American dancing becomes more about the community than an individual.

"You realize that you are dancing for your family and the elders. For ones who are sick, and those who cannot dance themselves. They feel your spirit dancing, and it helps to heal their feelings," Orrenzo said. "Pow wow" is a general term for a social gathering involving dancing and celebration, UI Pow Wow coordinator Sheryl Snyder said. The term originally referred to curing ceremonies, but since has been used to describe any large Native American dance competition and symbolizes birth and beginning. Many tribes have their own specific names for the event, she said.
