receives 3-year sentence

By James Jefferson Associated Press

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. - James McDougal, the Clintons' former business partner, drew a lenient three-year prison sentence Monday for 18 felonies after the Whitewater prosecutor told the court his cooperation led to information "previously unknown to us."

McDougal could have gotten up to 84 years in prison. He sent an ominous signal to the Clintons by backing away from his statement made a year ago that he expected them to be absolved of wrongdoing.

"I wouldn't go to the bank on that," McDougal said, drawing a crowd of reporters outside the courtroom as he has often since emerging as the central figure in the Whitewater affair five years

Whitewater independent counsel Kenneth Starr said McDougal's help has led to a "fuller, broader, deeper understanding" of the evidence that led to the wide-ranging investigation of the Clintons

"It has led us to both documents and it has led us to witnesses," Starr said. He added that much of information has been independently corroborated. What McDougal had to say "was previously unknown to us ... and is known to a very few people," Starr said.

In sworn testimony, Clinton has denied any involvement with the U.S. District Judge George Howard said he was persuaded to give McDougal a light sentence after Starr detailed the extent of the former savings and loan owner's cooperation - some in open court, the rest in sealed documents

Howard also ordered McDougal to pay a $10,000 fine and $4.27 million in restitution to the federal government and serve three years of probation, including one-year of house arrest.

The judge recommended McDougal be sent to a prison with appropriate medical facilities. McDougal, 56, who has suffered from physical and mental ailments for the last decade, is to report to prison June 16.

Living near farms may affect fertility

By Penny Tapp

Women who live or work on farms could be more likely to suffer infertility and health problems than other Iowa women, a recent study by UI doctors found.

A report published in the latest edition of the American Journal of Industrial Medicine showed women from farms could be between two and 20 times more likely to experience infertility and health problems. The study was undertaken three years ago by Laurence Fuortes, Kathy Clark and Elaine Smith of the UI.

Fuortes, a UI occupational physician, said he and Smith, an associate professor of preventive medicine, were studying occupational exposures and the resulting health problems when Clark went to them with her studies on infertility. The study they designed included 281 women at the UI's infertility clinic and 216 women who recently had given birth at Iowa City area

Fuortes said this study was different from previous ones because the women involved had all been medically diagnosed as infertile.

In their study, women who were known to be infertile were compared to women who recently had given birth. All of the women and their husbands were asked about their level of exposure to things such as tobacco, alcohol and farm chemicals. The risk factors between the two sets of women were then analyzed.

The researchers found a higher

Cabby turns in leather satchel lost by Placido Domingo

NEW YORK (AP) - Placido Domingo is singing a happy tune after a cabby turned over a leather satchel the Spanish-born tenor forgot in a taxi.

"I'm looking for this very amazing man" Domingo said. "I'd want to either compensate him monetarily or with opera tickets or with a meal or two at my restaurant."

The cabby, 32-year-old Kobina Wood, found Domingo's briefcase in the back of his car Saturday and turned it over to police Sunday morning.

Domingo said the satchel contained "three precious things."

"There were pictures of my family," he said. "There were copies of the prayers I've said before every one of my 2,700 performances. And there was the score of 'Die Walkuere,' which I had been performing that night."

Domingo said he took the cab after Saturday afternoon's performance at the Metropolitan Opera House to a recording studio, where he apparently exited without his bag.

He said he didn't realize it was missing until he went to meet the King and Queen of Spain at his restaurant, which he calls simply, Placido Domingo.

Domingo's satchel was returned by Mayor Rudolph Giuliani, an opera fan.

Wood said he is happy Domingo got his property back

"If he gave me a ticket, I'd rent a tuxedo and go enjoy his music," Wood said.

Cannes Film Festival head denies reports of anger toward Bergman

PARIS (AP) - The head of the Cannes Film Festival disputed reports he is mad at Ingmar Bergman for deciding not to attend next month.

The Swedish newspaper Sydsvenska Dagbladet reported Monday that a jury of the festival's past Golden Palm-winning directors has voted to give the Swedish director the Palm of Palms award at the 50th Cannes Film Festival.

The newspaper quoted festival director Gilles Jacob as saying he feels "humiliated" Bergman isn't coming to accept the award.

"Cannes is not some little Japanese festival that one can treat however one wants," Jacob was quoted as saying.

Jacob, however, told The Associated Press the jury hasn't picked a winner yet, and he denied telling the paper he is angry with Bergman.

If Bergman wins, "we would be honored that he comes," Jacob $aid. "If not, we completely respect his decision."

Bergman, best known for "The Seventh Seal," "Fanny and Alexander" and other classics, said he is too busy on a book project to go to Cannes, the newspaper reported. The festival runs from May 7-18.

GENERAL INFORMATION

After nearly 10 years of witty satire, musical numbers, and offbeat humor, "The Simpsons" has twisted the form of the sitcom and left millions laughing.

Apparently, many UI students agree. Around 3:30 p.m. every week-day, UI students flock to the ground floor of the Union and the Deadwood tavern, 6 S. Dubuque St., to catch their daily dose of "The Simpsons."

"It makes people laugh and look at things in a different way," said Linda Mayer, a Grinnell resident who travels to the Deadwood to see the show.

Jim Bell, owner of the Deadwood, said people just gravitated to the bar when the show was on, and he decided to cater to the demand.

"The place tends to fill up, and at 4 o'clock about half of them seem to go somewhere else," Bell said. "It had always been significant, but it got really imposing, where the whole bar would stop and almost everyone would watch. We put in a bigger TV, a 35-incher, and had to make more room for it."

Taxpayers, politicians bash IRS

By Rob Wells Associated Press

WASHINGTON - As millions scrambled to meet tonight's tax deadline, politicians engaged in a elated spring ritual: a lot of ideas for reform and a little IRS beating.

The Clinton administration proposed a package of 60 mostly minor initiatives to simplify the tax code, such as making tax payments with a credit card and streamlining rules for claiming deductions for dependent children younger than 19.

Republicans in Congress, meanhile, geared up for a week's worth f events making a case for dramatic tax reform and focusing on allegations of mismanagement and computer problems at the Interna Revenue Service.

"I am convinced that if most members of Congress did their own taxes, we would have had tax reform long ago," said House Ways nd Means Chairperson Bill Archer, R-Texas, who wants to replace the tax code with a nation-

WASHINGTON - As millions scrambled to meet tonight's tax deadline, politicians engaged in a related spring ritual: a lot of ideas for reform and a little IRS beating.

The Clinton administration proposed a package of 60 mostly minor initiatives to simplify the tax code, such as making tax payments with a credit card and streamlining rules for claiming deductions for dependent children younger than 19.

Republicans in Congress, meanhile, geared up for a week's worth f events making a case for dramatic tax reform and focusing on allegations of mismanagement and omputer problems at the Internal

President Clinton and Hillary Rodham Clinton did their filing early and released the results Monday. They reported income of just more than $1 million - nearly three-fourths of it from Rodham Clinton's book "It Takes a Village' and paid taxes of about $200,000. They gave the book's proceeds to charity after taking out enough to pay for the taxes on the book royalties.

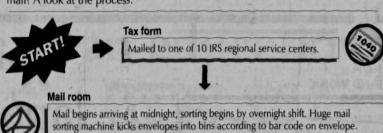

Meanwhile, the private Tax Foundation estimated the average American will see his or her entire paycheck spent in taxes through May 9 - the 128th day of the year.

If taxpayers feel beat up after finishing their taxes this year, that's nothing compared to the daily drubbing of the IRS. Critics portray the agency as wasting billions on a computer system upgrade, condemn IRS workers for snooping into tax files and accuse the agency of singling out conservative groups for audits.

But taxpayers don't seem to be focusing on that.

"It's pretty much a red herring," Mike Calo, a 39-year-old computer programmer in Annapolis, Md., said of the IRS problems. And an AP poll last week found seven in 10 adults giving the agency a posiTax return: An odyssey Few success stories will be on display in the Republican-controlled Congress this week.

Today, the House will consider a bill making it a crime for IRS workers to snoop through confidential taxpayer records. It also will take up a non-binding resolution on family tax relief and a proposed constitutional amendment that would require a two-thirds congressional vote to raise taxes. And the conservative policy group he cochairs, Empower America, prepared a national radio campaign backing House Speaker Newt Gingrich's call for eliminating capital gains taxes.

Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Neb., pushed for a different kind of a tax cut: reducing the social security payroll tax by 2 percentage points.

The Clinton administration's proposals include freeing some 1.7 million dependents, typically chilmont, asked at a House hearing dren, from filing separate tax Monday why IRS auditing of returns. Under current law, dependents with $700 in earned income in 1998 (paper carriers, for instance) must file returns and pay taxes on all unearned income, such as interest on a savings account.

GOP lawmakers will even use a bit of political theater to get their point across. Rep. Billy Tauzin of Louisiana and several colleagues plan to dump the tax code in Boston Harbor - loaded in a plastic ice cooler painted as an old fashioned tea chest.

Reno rejects call for independent counsel

By Michael Sniffen Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Attorney General Janet Reno on Monday discarded Republican calls for an independent counsel to investigate campaign fund-raising, telling Congress career prosecutors can handle the

"I am unable to agree, based on the facts and the law, that an independent counsel should be appointed to handle this investigation," Reno wrote Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Orrin Hatch, R-Utah.

"A task force of career Justice Department prosecutors and FBI agents ... is pursuing the investigation vigorously and diligently, and it will continue to do so," she wrote.

Reno made clear the Justice task force does not now have specific, credible evidence of a felony by any of two dozen top officials, including President Clinton, Vice President Gore and Cabinet members.

The White House was low-key but obviously pleased with Reno's

"Our views on this are well known. We believe that the decisions on this ought to be based on the law," White House spokesperson Barry Toiv said.

Republicans in Congress reacted angrily with Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott, R-Miss., calling Reno's decision "inexcusable."

"There is a clear conflict of interest when the attorney general appointed by the president is called upon to investigate possible illegal acts by the vice president or other high-ranking administration officials," Lott said in a statement.

Reno told Hatch, who wrote a month ago requesting a counsel be named, the burgeoning investigation continues to gather evidence and she is monitoring it carefully to see if an independent counsel should be sought.

She told Hatch the law would require her to begin a preliminary inquiry if that evidence arose and she said, "I have not initiated a 'preliminary investigation' as that term is defined in the Independent Coun-

The Hatch letter was one of four similar letters Reno sent to Republicans and Democrats on the House and Senate Judiciary Committees.

Before Reno's decision, House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., suggested she should be called before the House Judiciary Committee to explain her reasons "under oath" if she refused to name an independent

On Monday, Gingrich continued the attack. "As a historian, I do not see any possible way for the attorney general to defend the decision not to have an independent counsel," he said at a York, Pa., fundraiser. He added that her reluctance brings "into question ... whether she is the protector of the president or the enforcer of the law."

ometimes the recognition of past accomplishments can produce an unwanted result. The portraits of 22 men in the Boyd Law Building have done just that: Together, they are reflection of a sexist and racist past.

There are no women or minorities honored on the second floor of the Boyd Law Building in the same manner as these 22 gentlemen, who were selected on the basis of 25 years of professorial service to the law-school community. If one assumes most of the portraits are at least five years old (many are much older), then these men began their work in law education in their 30s. This means they attended law school in the late 1950s or 1960s.

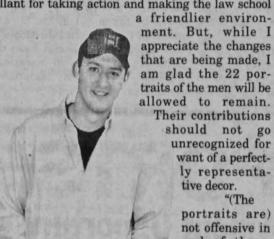

At that time, very few women or minorities were encouraged or given the opportunity to enroll in law school. Thus, in 1997, many years later, very few women or minorities exist who have given 25 years of professorial service.

Today, the law school is much more reflective of the general population, but reminders abound to tell us a less egalitarian society is not very far gone.

Do reminders such as the one on the second floor of the law building constitute an unwelcome environment? Julie Ralston and Jennifer Pellant, both third-year law students at the UI, said they thought so. They formed an organization called Students Making Artful Change (SMAC) for the purpose of changing the second-floor decor.

They succeeded. Soon, pictures of UI law faculty will appear. The faculty, with 15 women and seven minorities, is a step forward in representation. Portraits of Alexander Clark, the first African-American to graduate from the law school, and Mary Beth Hickie, the first woman, also will be on display.

and of themselves," Ralsaid.

Nonetheless,

they are "an overbearing reminder of the history of the legal academy." This raises the question: Will the presence of a more ethnically and gender diverse decor, (the pictures of the law faculty) obscure or erase this reminder? Probably not. America's history is unmistakably riddled with discrimination and outright oppression. This unfortunate fact should not diminish what those who were allowed to participate accomplished. Do we not admire the Constitution, the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights, even though these documents were drafted by men who lived during the era of slavery? This line of argument can be extended to other areas. For example, a woman sitting in a humanities class with an emphasis on ancient literature may get tired of reading only white male authors. But there is not much else, since few women of long past were granted an education, and fewer still were published. Although a potential female Shakespeare or Plato probably existed, she never had the opportunity to emerge. However, today's students can select from a substantial number of classes that focus on women writers.

A more difficult topic is history. Disagreement over what should be honored is the cause of much controversy. Squabbles over whether or not Aristotle stole his ideas from Egypt illustrates the kind of nonsense that can result when revisionism spins out of control. On the other hand, Virginia Gov. George Allen made a bad choice when he declared April "Confederate History and Heritage Month."

Those seeking to improve the environment for minorities and women today will do better to focus their efforts on recognizing their more recent or contemporary accomplishments. This is a more positive approach than refusing to acknowledge good things that come from "less enlightened" times. And, of course, providing opportunities for generations to come is the best thing one can if do if he or she truly is interested in equality.

Fortunately, the SMAC and a student/faculty committee have opted to take this positive approach. They have demonstrated that with a bit of good taste and sensitivity, the good things of history need not be ignored in order to create a welcome environment for everyone.

Jackie Robinson did not fight back pril 1 marked the opening day of Jackie Robinson Year. Major and minor league players, managers and umpires will wear Jackie Robinson patches on their sleeves to commemorate the 50th anniversary of his breaking of major league baseball's color barrier. The Smithsonian's Jackie Robinson exhibit opened last week, and President Clinton is scheduled to speak today at a Mets-Dodgers game at a ceremony to honor the date Robinson first played.

While the festivities rage on and money is made off of this significant part of American history, Americans must not allow themselves to be taken in by the hidden "Be like Jackie" message, or be fooled by the overlaying theme of racial progress.

The "Be like Jackie" message can be found within the thousands of 50th anniversary T-shirts, TV spethreaten our nation's well-being. cials and media coverage. It seems Robinson mentions his overwhelming courage and integrity.

Brooklyn Dodgers owner Branch Rickey said he gave Robinson a minor league contract in 1945 because of his baseball skill and 'courage not to fight back."

Therein lies the problem. Robinson is courageous for playing base-ball in stadiums full of bigots, Since when is a person in this country deemed courageous for not fighting back - besides Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.? Fighting back sure is courageous when our country goes to war against those who As evidenced by the King holiday and the Robinson commemoration, America is quick to label any African-American courageous for not fighting back.

The message is clear, "Be like Jackie" when it comes to attaining equal rights along racial lines.

Today, 37 percent of major league baseball players are African-American and Latino. Racial progress? An annual study by Northeastern University's Center for the Study of Sport in Society found other interesting statistics. Their study revealed, except for Hiroshi Yamauchi, majority owner of the Seattle Mariners and a Japanese citizen, there are currently no minority CEOs, presidents or majority owners in major league baseball, professional basketball or football.

There is still a long way to go. There is still blatant racism from foolish Texaco executives and the ever-present corporate glass ceiling, to church burnings and the recent racially motivated beating of an African-American kid in Chicago. "Jim Crow Jr. is dead," NAACP president and CEO Kweisi Mfume said at a recent Cedar Rapids conference, "But Jim Crow III is alive

Robinson was a great athlete and a great American citizen, and he completed his task of being the baseball with dignity. However, Robinson should not be accepted as our nation's great symbol of progress in 1997, or the person to emulate when it comes to "fighting for" racial progress.

Finally, an apology for the Tuskegee experiments

Karrie Higgins

Four survivors have demanded a formal apology from the government. According to White House spokesperson Mary Ellen Glynn, President Clinton soon will grant their wish. But an apology could never compensate for the crimes our government committed against those 399 men.

Pretending the pills were antibiotics, government doctors "treated" the men with ordinary aspirin and an iron supplement. They also subjected "patients" to lumbar punctures to diagnose neural syphilis. This involved inserting a large needle directly into the spinal canal, often causing cause paralysis or even death in rare cases, no informed consent was obtained. The men were told they would lose their "free health care" if they didn't undergo the procedure.

Widespread use of penicillin by 1943 made the experiment difficult to control. Lists of the subjects were submitted to local doctors, public health and venereal disease offices and military recruitment centers to prevent them from receiving proper treatment.

In 1970, media exposure ended the experiment, but not before 100 men had died of syphilis complications. And what gruesome deaths they suffered.

Syphilis, in its secondary stage, causes fever, indigestion, rashes and mouth ulcers. Scalp hair falls out in patches, and cardiac palpitations develop. In its tertiary stage, encrusted skin ulcers appear, and bones are destroyed to the point of mutilation. Neurosyphilis softens the brain, resulting in paralysis and insanity. It also can cause permanent blindness and deafness. Also, heart valves and blood vessels may weaken, and an aneurism in the form of a balloon-like bulge may appear. If burst open, sudden death is the result.

In 1974, the government agreed, in an out-ofcourt settlement, to pay $37,500 in damages per living participant and $15,000 for heirs of the deceased. Not only is the settlement a pittance, but justice was not served. Clinton's apology will be the first time the government admits wrongdoing in the Tuskegee case. I suppose the experimenters thought poor black men were "expendable," an ugly scar on American history no amount of makeup will cover

Why didn't the responsible parties rot in jail? Writing about the government plutonium experiments (in which citizens were injected with radioactive material), Steven Dasbach said, "Politicians, bureaucrats and government employees should be held to the same standard as any other American. If an average citizen secretly injected people with highly radioactive Plutonium 239, he would be in jail facing murder charges. Instead, the government is spending $4.8 billion of our money to try to buy a clean conscience."

axpayer dollars paid both for the Tuskegee experiment (and many others, including the injection of plutonium into hospital patients and the releasing of radioactive chemicals into 239 cities) and victim compensation. The responsible politicians and bureaucrats should have paid victim compensation from their own pockets, perhaps losing their undeserved government pensions. And they should not have gone free. As a writer for News from the Libertarian Party put it, "It [is] self-evident that no one should be experimented upon without his or her voluntary consent. This very principle was proclaimed aloud to the world in 1947. It was the American judges at the international war crimes trials in Nurembers Germany, who invoked this principle in finding doctors guilty of war crimes for their vile experiments on inmates of Nazi concentration camps. To anyone who simply cannot bear the thought of dispensing with hands-on contact with a preserved animal, human cadavers offer the full-scale experience without the associated ethical problems (people dissection, and the patient voluntarily donates his/her body).

Even the economics of dissection do not argue for its use. HSUS recently did a comparison and found that, for all five species looked at (shark, frog, rat, pig, cat), the cost of purchasing a broad range of alternative materials was lower than that of purchasing animals to dissect. For 270 students (two students per animal) during a three-year period, money saved ranged from $344 (bullfrogs) to $4,342 (cats). If you want to save more money, just borrow the alternative. HSUS, for instance, operates an Alternatives Loan Program that currently has more than 40 items available on a temporary, free-of-charge basis.

Finally, there is environmental protection. Many of the animals harmed or killed for classroom use are caught in the wild. Populations of frogs and sharks, for instance, have been seriously declining in room use is not known, it certainly is not ecologically beneficial. Moreover, the world needs people who value environmental stewardship and compassion for life; dissection fosters neither.

Using animals to practice surgery has been illegal in England for more than 100 years.

With all the suffering in the world, should we really be adding to it in our education programs? Is dissection necessary when other learning methods have been shown repeatedly to effectively replace it? Is there any justification for animal dissection when it has so many counts -animal killing, animal suffering, violation of students' sensibilities, mediocre educational merit and environmental disruption - against it?

We think not.

Submissions should not exceed 750 words in length and should include a short biography of the author, the author's signature and the author's phone number. The author also should be available to have his/her picture taken by the DI staff for print with his/her guest opinion. Submissions will be edited for length, style and clarity. All submissions will be read and considered

The Daily Iowan also invites members of campus and civic organizations to write guest opinions on behalf of their organizations. Guest opinions should address current topics and issues with which the group is familiar and must reflect the general sentiment of the entire organization or organization chapter. The guest opinions also must include a contact person and phone number, as well as the phone number of the organization. Group guest opinions will be chosen by the Viewpoints Editor and the Editor-In-

Support for Israel hypocritical in light of Israel's oppresion of Palestinians

To the Editor:

The April 10 issue of the DI carried a front-page story and a picture of six Ul students lobbying our legislators and the rest of us for continued U.S. and personal support of the nation of Israel. They are members of the student chapter of the American-Israeli PAC, which they call HawkPAC. Ian Dubin, president of HawkPAC, is quoted as saying, "providing aid to Israel creates American jobs and builds the American economy as well. ... We need to realize that it's cheaper to pay for peace than to pay

As one who is an agonizing friend of Israel, I can only ask, whose peace are we paying for? Certainly not the 3.5 million Palestinians suffering under the expansionist policies of the current Netanyahu-Israeli government. Unfortunately, the student delegation listened too closely to the closed circuit of information supplied by pro-Israel, anti-Palestinan lobbyists and politicians.

If Prime Minister Netanyahu is indeed "following through on everything" in the Oslo Accords as Dubin says, why did the United Nations recently condemn Netanyahu's decision to build the new Jewish settlement at Jebal Abu Ghneim/Har Homa (call it a housing project if you wish) on Arab land in east Jerusalem by a majority of 130-2 with only Israel and the U.S. voting against? And why did the United States have to exercise its lone veto power in the U.N. Security Council to prevent a unanimous condemnation of Israel

The Palestinian people have experienced incredible oppression and unjustified human-rights violations by the Israelis in the form of land confiscation, long-term administrative jailing without charge, collective punishment for individual offenses, curfews lasting weeks and even months, home demolitions, economic curtailment, travel restriction and more.

for its actions?

A brief illustration of this occurred earlier this year when Israeli soldiers forcibly ejected a Bedouin community from a site east of Jerusalem they had occupied since being driven from the Negev in the 1950s. Their land will be used for the expansion of Ma'ale Adumin, the largest settle-

Europa, Europa

In the news recently, high-resolution pictures may show the conditions for life are present on Europa. Where and what is this Europa, anyway?

Europa is a moon of Jupiter that is about the size of our moon. Galileo Galilei discovered it. It is beyond the orbit of Jupiter's moon, lo, but inside the orbits of the moons Ganymede and Callisto. Europa looks bright, like the sun reflecting off snow or ice, and it has a density more like rock than

We've been able to see that huge tracks crisscross it, but these new pictures show these lines look more like floes fractures than cracks in solid rock. We think Europa has a liquid ocean under the ice because: a) the tracks look like ice flowing, breaking and colliding over water and b) there are no craters on Europa. Planets and moons have craters, like our moon does, where meteors or pieces of comets hit the planets. A liquid ocean on Europa would flow over the craters. Because Europa's density is so high, we can conclude it has a thin liquid ocean over a solid

Europa orbits Jupiter, a huge gas planet that is more like a tiny star that didn't ignite. Jupiter radiates energy in the infrared (heat) and in radio waves. A thousand Earths would fit inside Jupiter.

So now you know what the fuss is about. Tune in next time for a discussion of life on other planets.

Army trainees give rape testimony in Aberdeen sex scandal trial

By Bart Jansen Associated Press

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md. — In the first trial to come out of the Aberdeen sex scandal, two Army trainees testified Monday that their drill sergeant raped them in his office.

A 21-year-old private said she was returning to her barracks from the bathroom when Staff Sgt. Delmar Simpson ordered her into his office, pushed her onto a couch, pulled off her shorts and raped her.

"I begged him to stop," the private said. "He was laying on top of me. There wasn't a whole lot I could do."

Iranians protest at German embassy

By Afshin Valinejad Associated Press

TEHRAN, Iran - Hundreds of students threatened to storm the German Embassy on Monday, stoning the compound and battling riot police in the first violence over a German court ruling accusing Iran of assassinating exiled dissidents.

The court's finding has created the worst diplomatic crisis between Iran and the West since 1989, when revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini urged Muslims around the world to find and kill British author Salman Rushdie.

Some of the roughly 400 students threw stones at the embassy in downtown Tehran, which since this weekend has been protected by a second, hastily erected 10-foot

Almost 1,000 riot police stood six deep outside the compound and linked arms - at one point, drawing their shotguns to make it clear to the students they would not be allowed through.

Police roughed up several students and briefly detained dozens. It was the first violence since a Berlin court convicted four men Thursday in the 1992 murders of four Iranian dissidents in Berlin and said the order to kill came from Iran's top leaders. Prosecutors earlier implicated Iran's supreme leader, Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, and President Hashemi Rafsanjani.

Rebel leader presses forward in Zaire

By Dianna Cahn Associated Press

LUBUMBASHI, Zaire - Sailing through the wide avenues of Lubumbashi in a four-wheel-drive vehicle, rebel leader Laurent Kabila hailed cheering crowds Monday in the strategic city his forces captured just days earlier. Several thousand people lined the streets to greet Kabila, calling him "liberator" while rebel troops looked on. Kabila thrust his fists in the air and waved back. Another fist - a huge sculpted bronze symbol of President Mobutu Sese Seko's power - had been removed from its pedestal in the center of a traffic circle and was no longer in sight. Even in one of Mobutu's last remaining strongholds - the capital, Kinshasa - millions observed a one-day general strike staged Monday to demand Mobutu's ouster. Shops were locked tight and streets deserted, and many residents said they would welcome Kabila - or just about anyone else who could end Mobutu's threedecade dictatorship.

"We want change. We're willing to accept anyone - even the devil should he arrive - if it will bring change," said Willy Kashama, who stayed home from work to support the strike.

The rebels captured Lubumbashi, Zaire's second-largest city and the capital of a mineral-rich region, after a battle Friday at the airport with a special army unit loyal to Mobutu. They announced over the weekend they were resuming their advance on Kinshasa, after stopping three days to give Mobutu time to think over their demand that he quit.

Kabila's Alliance of Democratic Forces for the Liberation of Congo-Zaire has captured nearly half the country in its seven-month push westward. After his men seize a city, Kabila usually arrives in triumph - as he did Monday - and appoints new local officials or calls for a voice vote from a crowd.

In this case, he appointed one of his own as governor of the Shaba region, whose ground holds Zaire's copper, cobalt and uranium

Kirkwood Room, Iowa Memorial Union, Tuesday, April 15, 7:00 PM Year after year, millions of animals are killed and sold for classroom use by students. Published surveys indicate that about one in two students has ethical reservations towards participating in education activities that harm animals. Grant to develop cultural programs

By Jeff Clayton The Daily Iowan

A federal grant of $827,000 awarded to the UI to create a resource center in Russian, East European and Eurasian studies will offer more opportunities for student scholarships.

The grant will provide new learning opportunities for UI students and faculty, including additional languages, funding for faculty research and approximately 15 new cultural classes, UI history Professor Steve Hoch said.

The UI was one of the 25 schools, nationwide, selected for the grant, after undertaking a competitive application process in which the colleges of liberal arts, law, business and medicine worked together, Hoch said. After the three-year grant expires, the UI must reapply for additional funding.

The five languages in the program will be Russian, Czech, Croatian, Polish and Kazakh. Graduate, law, master's of business administration and medical students will be eligible to apply for a yearly grant to pay for their tuition, plus $10,000 in living expenses. The students will continue to take courses in their field of study, along with language courses.

Hoch said the breakup of the Soviet Union has created a need to understand more languages and culthe Soviet Union controlled them," Hoch said. "Now they have broken up into their own countries with their own politics and cultures."

Hoch said the federal government is undertaking a major effort to encourage more people to become specialists in these languages and

"Let's say an MBA student wants to do business in Kazakstan. (The program) would provide funding to learn the language there," he said.

Some UI students said they feel the expanded program will provide for a broader scope of study and "I think it's good because the U.S. is so integrated with the rest of the world and there are so many cultures," UI sophomore Lana Medow said. "It would be to the students' benefit because you'd have more diverse job opportunities."

UI sophomore Karyn Ruttenberg said she is considering applying to the program because she thinks par-make you more successful later in life," Ruttenberg said.

"It seems like a good idea in the grand scale of things," UI junior Mike Bobay said. "If it will help the economies of developing countries, then that outweighs the initial cost (of the program)." Hoch said $294,000 will go toward the fellowship program. The remaining amount will go toward the creation of the cultural center.

The center will provide opportunities for faculty research, help with curriculum development and provide outreach programs to colleges, businesses and high-school stu-

Although it probably will take two years before all aspects of the program take effect, the addition of intensive courses in Kazakh and Czech may begin this summer, Hoch

Another aspect slated under the program is a Distant Learning Program in "almost-never-taught" languages, such as Albanian. This would allow UI students to take interactive courses with students from other schools via television.

Monte Raymond isn't used to losing in the 400-meter hurdles. And lately, it has taken an Olympic champion to get the job done.

At last week's SeaRay Relays, Raymond competed against current world record holder and Olympic gold medal winner Derrick Adkins. But instead of looking at Adkins in awe, Raymond was looking for the biggest win of his life.

"I was hoping to run with him, but they had me in lane one and I was away from the competition," Raymond said. "I felt that if I was in there with those guys in five or six, I could have competed well and put a really good time together."

They even went as far as to label him the next great Iowa coach.

CHICAGO (AP) — Michael Jor- Hornets 94, Cavaliers 82 dan had his first triple-double since coming out of retirement 25 months ago as the Chicago Bulls posted their 69th victory of the season by defeating the Toronto Raptors 117-100 Monday night.

Jordan had 30 points, 11 rebounds and 10 assists to finish in double-digits in each category for the 27th time in his career and first in a regular-season game since Dec. 29, 1992. He also had a triple-double in the NBA All-Star game in February.

Bullets 131, 76ers 110

PHILADELPHIA - Allen Iverson scored 40 points, giving him five straight games with at least 40, but the Washington Bullets countered with their highest point total of the season for a 131-110 victory over the 76ers on Monday

The Bullets took a one-game lead over Cleveland in the race for the eighth and final playoff spot in the ference playoff spot. They will be in East. The Cavs lost 94-82 at Charthe playoffs for the third time in

Timberwolves 95, Heat 87

MIAMI — The Timberwolves frittered away a early 16-0 lead, but Terry Porter scored nine of his 16 points in the fourth quarter as Minnesota beat Miami.

Kevin Garnett added 16 points and 15 rebounds, while Stephon Marbury had 17 points and six scored 25 points and Charlotte tied a club record with its eighth straight win. Rice, the NBA's third-leading scorer, hit nine of 13 field-goal attempts after being held under 20 points in back-to-back games for the first time in nearly four months.

The Hornets moved a game ahead of Detroit in the race for the fifth playoff seed in the East. Charlotte's bench had a 36-3 advantage in scoring, a 20-3 edge in rebounding and a 14-1 edge in assists over Cleveland's subs. Clippers 99, Mavericks 93 DALLAS - The Clippers clinched their first playoff berth since the 1992-93 season with a victory over Dallas.

The Clippers, who will open the postseason at Utah, eliminated the Sacramento Kings and wrapped up the eighth and final Western Contheir 12 seasons in Los Angeles.

Darrick Martin scored 21 points, Malik Sealy added 15, Loy Vaught had 14 points and 15 rebounds and Brent Barry added 14 points.

Shawn Bradley matched a career high with 32 points and pulled down 16 rebounds to tie his season

Warriors 103, Nuggets 93
DENVER — Chris Mullin scored 20 points and Todd Fuller came off the bench to score 14, including eight early in the final quarter, as Golden State handed Denver its eighth straight loss.

With 5:40 left, Scott Burrell hit a 3pointer after Denver's Kenny Smith missed a fastbreak layup on the other end, and the Warriors led 91-84. Two jumpers by Joe Smith made it 95-85 with 3:43 to go, and Denver got to 15 points in the final 12 minutes. no closer than six points after that.

Cubs hope 11th time is the charm

By Rick Gano Associated Press

CHICAGO - They can scratch their heads, hold team meetings and critique their play ad nauseam. Nothing will soothe the Chicago Cubs like finally winning a baseball game. But when?

"We've been making a lot of mistakes, that's why we're losing and we're not in the situation we're supposed to be in," outfielder | Cubs watch Sammy Sosa Today: at home said. "We got to going. vs. Rockies, 1:20

We'll never give p.m. Wednesday: at The Cubs tied home vs. Rockies, modern 1:20 p.m. National League record with their 10th straight season-opening loss Sunday and can match the overall NL mark set by Detroit in 1884 if they don't beat the Colorado Rockies on Tuesday. "It's getting really ugly. The baseball gods aren't with the Cubs and I don't know why," said starter Steve Trachsel.

Here are two reasons why:

-The Cubs have 17 errors in 10 games. Even veteran reliever Bob Patterson, who had never committed an error in the major leagues, a span of 454 games, got one Sunday

-The Cubs have a .169 team batting average against two of the majors' best pitching staffs -Atlanta and Florida. "We just have not really hit. The quality of hitting is indicative of the quality of pitching we've faced," manager Jim Riggleman said. "But I really believe what Brian McRae said the other day. Analyzing and stuff is not going to do us any good. We got to go win games. And I know until we win start winning games, we have to analyze this every day. But it's just talk." Injuries have hit the Cubs early in the season. Kevin Tapani, signed as a free agent to be an important part of the rotation, is sidelined indefinitely after hand surgery. And first baseman Mark Grace has been on the disabled list after pulling a hamstring in the season-opening series in Miami.

On Sunday, perhaps indicative of the Cubs' luck, second baseman teammate Brant Brown.

NEW YORK - His father once predicted he'd do more than anyone 'to change the course of humanity." So now that Tiger Woods has won the Masters - at the youngest age, darkest skin - can he even change the course of golf?

Changing humanity might be

Golf is the most inaccessible, expensive major sport this side of downhill skiing. While Woods may be transcending his sport, as Jesse Jackson and everyone else was saying Monday, that does not guarantee he will change it or even lure many more people into it.

Tiger's own hopes were more modest. "I think that now," he said Sunday, "kids will think golf is cool."

Who is Tiger Woods?

Name: Eldrick "Tiger" Woods. Born: Dec. 30, 1975. Birthplace: Cypress, Calif. Height: 6-foot-2. Weight: 160 pounds. Residence: Orlando, Fla. College: Two years at Stanford

"It's great for kids to see this, but they also have to realize he's been groomed for this all his life. I imagine he'll have a big impact in by the widest margin, with the suburban areas, but I'm not so sure in the city."

> Mark Michelena, manager of the municipal links at Van Cortlandt Park in the north Bronx in New York City

His story certainly is. Born to a black U.S. Army officer and a Thai mother, named after a tenacious Vietnamese soldier, he learned to grip a club before he learned to walk. By age 3 he was hitting balls off a tee on the Mike Douglas Show to the delight of fellow guest Bob

Tiger became the most successful amateur golfer in U.S. history, and his arrival on the pro tour has jacked up ratings and packed gal-

Still, golf's savior has a big job

Consider the scene Monday at the oldest (1895) and one of the most accessible public courses in America, the municipal links at Van Cortlandt Park in the north Bronx in New York City. You can play weekdays for $24, and rent clubs for $20.

There was not a black or a young player to be be found on this sunny afternoon, and assistant manager Mark Michelena was not bracing for a Woodsian boom.

"It's great for kids to see this, but they also have to realize he's been groomed for this all his life," he said. "I imagine he'll have a big impact in suburban areas, but I'm not so sure in the city."

Ray Medina, a 61-year-old Puerto Rican-American, brought his 3year-old grandson Jose to watch the action on the 18th green. "Golf has been a white man's sport," he said. Growing up, he never saw a golf course except on television.

"We never thought about golf," he said. "We played stickball."

A few miles and several worlds away, in the South Bronx, two teenagers said they'd seen Woods on television, but had no plans to emu-

"I don't understand it," complained 16-year-old Alex Rodriguez.

Woods' more likely impact was seen at Griffith Park in Los Angeles, where Nick and Robin Bakay, white middle-class baby boomers, said they wouldn't have been at their 8:30 a.m. lesson if not for Tiger Woods.

'If we hadn't seen (the Masters), we probably wouldn't have gotten up," Nick Bakay said. "If he can be that great, we can make it up and get our butts here.'

Citing Woods' inspiration, Chicago public schools hope to revitalize golf, which had been dropped over the last decade by officials who decided city kids didn't care.

Twenty highs schools and 53 elementary schools have signed up for the new golf program, and the system hopes to raise $200,000 in private funds.

Woods' Masters jacket has advertisers seeing green

By Skip Wollenberg Associated Press

NEW YORK - Tiger Woods was a rising star on Madison Avenue even before his runaway Masters

But his record performance and grace in accepting the winner's green jacket may have put him in company with such marketing icons as Michael Jordan and Arnold Palmer.

"Women and children in elevators and schoolyards are talking about yesterday's event and that shows us something very important has happened," Fred Fried, an executive with the sports marketing firm Integrated Sports International, said Monday. Lee Berke, an executive with the sports marketing firm Marquee Group, said Woods' win puts him on par with Jordan as a "cultural icon."

Jordan reportedly receives more endorsement money than any athlete, an estimated $30 million to $40 million a year for pitching cereal, hot dogs, underwear, sports drinks and batteries. The basketball great even has a fragrance on the market.

"I fully expect to see Tiger playing golf with Looney Tunes characters," Berke said.

Woods, 21, was the youngest player to win the Masters. He compiled the lowest score ever for the event and had the largest margin of victory - 12 strokes.

He also was the first black to win a major golf championship, and after his victory he noted his debt to such trailblazing black golfers as Lee Elder and Charles Sifford.

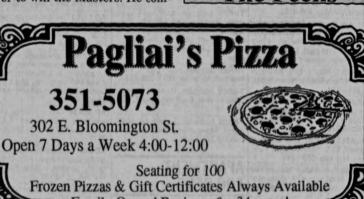

Arthur Kaminsky, president of the sports management firm Athletes and Artists Inc., called the tribute "quite unique," given that some black baseball players know nothing about Jackie Robinson, who broke the racial barrier in his sport.
