McVeigh defense portrays witness as a liar

By Michael Friedman

DENVER - The woman who testifies today for the first time is a self-confessed drug addict who lost her life to AIDS last spring. She will try to portray Linda Reams, a 32-year-old Oklahoma City bomber suspect, as a manipulative liar and an incompetent witness.

"She's a manufactured witness," McVeigh defense attorney Stephen Jones said yesterday in a telephone interview. "She's a product of our government's star witness habit but she's suggested she became the defendant's tort trial attorney in U.S. court.

"I think her testimony is as bad as any we've heard. She's the second witness that the defense of 198 people picked up a telephone." Jones said.

"The defense rejected her. We did not use her. We did not discuss her at all.

"She whispered. On Thursday, she testified that six months before the bombing, McVeigh visited on his phone to the Oklahoma City bombing. As a drug-toting woman, who made her story to a safe and make a book.

In a pre-trial contamination-process summary, McVeigh's lawyer, Stephen Jones, presented the woman as the defendant's lawyer but with an announced defense and the death of 198 people picked up a telephone.

"The defense rejected her. We did not use her. We did not discuss her at all.

Groups celebrate 'Ellen' episode

By Katherine Rath

NEW YORK — The downtown television and print journalism community celebrated "Ellen's" episode Tuesday at the Manhattan Performing Arts Center.

The first-ever event of its kind in the city was sponsored by the Gay and Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation (GLAAD) and the National Lesbian and Gay Journalists Association (NLGJA). GLAAD is an organization that produces "Ellen's" script and helps the show reach a larger audience.

"We're all excited," said actress Lucy Liu, who plays Dr. Lisa Wilkes on "Ellen." Liu added that she was honored to be a part of the event and that it was significant for the LGBT community.

"This is a big day for us," said GLAAD's president, Andrew Belkin. "We're creating opportunities for people to talk about gay issues in a setting that is safe and supportive." The event was attended by hundreds of people, including celebrity attendees and members of the media.

Chesley Clinton chooses Stanford for college career

By Sandra Sobieraj

WASHINGTON — Chesley Clinton, the daughter of former President Bill Clinton and former First Lady Hillary Clinton, has chosen Stanford University in California for her college career.

The 18-year-old daughter of the former president and first lady announced her decision Monday, saying that she had "thought long and hard" about where she wanted to attend school.

"I have thought carefully about the life I want to lead and the education I need to live it," she said in a statement. "I have considered many options, and I am excited about the opportunity to attend Stanford University.

"I am looking forward to the academic challenges and the opportunity to grow as a person," she said. "I am grateful to my father and mother for their support throughout this process, and I look forward to the next chapter of my life.

The decision comes after Clinton was named a National Merit Scholarship finalist in October. She is also a member of the President's Honor Roll at the University of Arkansas, where she is a junior.

"I am proud of my daughter and her decision," Hillary Clinton said in a statement. "I know that she will do well at Stanford and I am excited to see her new home.

The decision was made after a long and careful consideration of her options. She visited several colleges and spoke to counselors and admissions officers at each school.

"I know that she has made the right choice for her and I am proud of her," her father said in a statement. "I have always believed in the importance of education and I know that she will do well at Stanford.

The move to California is expected to be a significant change for the family, who have lived in Arkansas for most of her life.

"I am excited to be part of the Stanford community and to start a new chapter in her life," she said.

Negotiations halted in separatist standoff

By Paul Recknoll

PORT VARIOUS — The leader of the independence movement for the eastern portion of the country said he was facing a significant setback in his efforts to reach an agreement with the government.

The standoff in the Pacific Islands, which began last week, was the latest in a series of disputes that have plagued the region in recent years.

The leader of the independence movement, who is also the chairman of the separatist group, said he was optimistic about the prospects for a peaceful resolution.

“I believe we are close to finding a way forward,” he said.

The standoff began after the government refused to grant the group an audience with the president.

The group had been demanding greater autonomy for the eastern portion of the country, which is currently controlled by the central government.

The leader of the independence movement said he was willing to compromise and was open to negotiations.

“I think there is a willingness on both sides to find a solution,” he said.

The standoff has raised concerns about the stability of the region and the possibility of further violence.

“The situation is tense and unpredictable,” he said.

The government has condemned the standoff as a violation of its sovereignty.

“We are not negotiating with terrorists,” the government spokesman said.

The standoff has also led to a decrease in tourism and other economic activities in the area.

“It’s a time of great uncertainty,” one local business owner said.

The standoff is expected to continue for several days, with both sides indicating they are willing to negotiate.

“I am hopeful that we will find a way out of this,” the leader of the independence movement said.

The standoff has been met with mixed reactions from the international community.

Some have praised the government for standing firm, while others have criticized its hardline stance.

“There is a need for dialogue and understanding,” one foreign diplomat said.

The standoff has also raised concerns about the region’s ability to attract investment and tourism.

“I am worried about the future of our economy,” a local economist said.

The standoff is expected to continue for several days, with both sides indicating they are willing to negotiate.

Avoid chromium supplements and dark urine

Chromium is an essential trace element and is involved in glucose metabolism and insulin sensitivity. However, high doses of chromium can lead to urinary tract symptoms such as painful urination, cloudy urine, and occasional blood in the urine. This may be due to the large amounts of chromium being excreted in the urine, which can cause irritation to the bladder and kidneys.

Chromium is found in foods such as grains, cheeses, chicken, meats, and fresh fruits and vegetables. The average American diet contains about 50 to 100 micrograms of chromium per day. However, in some cases, particularly in individuals with a high intake of refined carbohydrates, chromium status may be low, leading to symptoms of chromium deficiency.

The bottom line is that researchers are not sure if chromium deficiency is a significant concern. There is some evidence that chromium may help with blood sugar control and weight management, but more research is needed. In the meantime, it is best to focus on a healthy, balanced diet rich in chromium-containing foods and to avoid taking high doses of chromium supplements, as this could lead to urinary tract symptoms.

KINSHASA, Zaire — The United Nations airlifted 1,199 refugees from Kinshasa to Kigali Wednesday and plans to evacuate up to 1,160 refugees daily.

They reached Kigali, the Rwandan capital, the rebels began bringing hundreds of thousands of civilians to Kigali, the rebels said.

The United Nations Declaration of Human Rights will celebrate this 50th anniversary next year, and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee should seize this opportunity to let everyone know that "human rights are timeless and not the province of any single country or group of countries."

At least two new Democratic congressmenstial hearings on human rights issues this year. The November congressional elections around the world have in fact brought human rights issues to the foreground. But what real leverage can the United States bring to the human rights cause now that the mood abroad has changed?

"We want to serve as a model for other cities in the nation."

Joel Stellar, member of Human Rights Iowa City and co-founder of University of Iowa's Human Rights Studies Program, said the university should lead the way - "It's one of the ways that the university can demonstrate its commitment to having an open campus." This is being done through a series of public lectures and seminars titled "Human Rights Across Cultures," which will be delivered by a variety of experts from around the world.

The committee room onto the current Senate Foreign Relations Committee at the Old Brick Hall in Iowa City is a good choice for hosting the hearings, Stellar said. Tom Brands

Wednesday, Dec. 31, 1997

Tom Brands, the Iowa assistant coach who helped lead the Hawkeyes to three straight NCAA tournament appearances, has resigned his position.

"It's a very, very tough decision," said Brands, who will replace Don Briggs as the Iowa athletic director. "I'm not sure how I'll be able to do any more, but I'm trying to do what I think is best for the university.""}

Brands, who has been an assistant at Iowa since 1976, said he was looking forward to the challenge of being a head coach.

"I'm very excited about the opportunity to lead a program that is as successful as Iowa," said Brands. "I've had a great opportunity here, and I'm looking forward to the next chapter in my coaching career."

CLEVELAND - Apparently the revived Cleveland Indians were not intimidated by the defending champs. They'll have to take the entire 16-game regular season to get the upper hand. The only thing the Tribe has been doing well is getting to second base, which was their first in a row. At first base, first baseman Jim Thome has been hitting .300. The Indians have been hitting .277, which only puts them in the middle of the pack. Cleveland hit a club record 113 home runs in 1996. The Indians led the league with 87 home runs in 1995, and they went 0-for-11 on Thursday night. "We've got to get back some of that aggression we used to have," said catcher Mark Belanger.

The Indians lineup may be even more dangerous in the World Series. "I think the key to winning is to go to the World Series without giving up home runs," said Thome. "We have no good hitters, and we have plenty of home runs." Without Bundy Anderson, who left the team with the home runs and office."

Matt Williams, Belanger's replacement in the cleanup spot, has seven home runs, including six in the last four games. Williams is保护ed by another former National League All-Star Denver player, who is hitting .334 and has hit 16 home runs against left-handed pitching. In fact, he has hit 16 home runs against left-handed pitching.

"We're all having fun," said Allen "Mad Marv" Judge, who hit three homers and drove in seven. "We're not the kind of team that likes to hit home runs. It's a line-drive team." Williams, who hit three home runs in his first two starts and last night, said, "I'm not the kind of team that likes to hit home runs. It's a line-drive team."

James "Mad Marv" Judge has been out with a strained hamstring during this Series two years ago. The Indians could surpass the club record of five players with more than 200 home runs, set in '95.

"I'm a line-drive type of hitter. I'm a line-drive type of hitter," said Williams. "I'm paid for those types of hits.

The Indians could surpass the club record of five players with more than 200 home runs, set in '95.

In just three weeks, the battledome work and this past semester will be rendered into a book. The book is called "The Daily Dispatch: A History of the Newspaper." It will be published by the University of North Carolina Press in October. The book will be, as usual, a tale of adventure and discovery. It will be, as usual, a tale of adventure and discovery. It will be, as usual, a tale of adventure and discovery.

Celebrating Iowa in dance

Thaw 97: Iowa City's answer to the Sundance Film Festival

By Teika Murali

Event planners and attendees were pleased with the turnout for the Iowa City Film Festival, which featured an array of films and events on the theme of "Iowa in Dance." The festival aimed to celebrate Iowa's rich cultural heritage through the medium of dance, offering a diverse lineup of performances and workshops. Attendees had the opportunity to experience a range of dance styles, from classical ballet to contemporary choreography, all set against the backdrop of Iowa's unique landscapes and cultural landmarks.

Many of the dance performances incorporated original (CB-IOA). Both hotels are conveniently located near the University of Iowa campus, making them popular choices for students and visitors alike.

The festival included a variety of events, such as dance workshops led by local and international choreographers, dance films screenings, and a dance competition. The performances on the closing night were particularly memorable, featuring a collaborative piece that brought together dancers from various disciplines, showcasing the interconnectedness of art forms.

The success of the Thaw 97 festival demonstrated the growing interest in dance as an art form in Iowa City and beyond. It highlighted the city's commitment to fostering artistic expression and provided a platform for dancers to share their passion with a wide audience.

The festival concluded with a community-wide dance session, encouraging participants to join in and celebrate Iowa's dance legacy. The event closed with a rousing finale, leaving attendees with lasting memories of the vibrant and dynamic programming that took place throughout the weekend.

In summary, the Thaw 97 festival was a resounding success, offering a glimpse of Iowa City's cultural vibrancy and the boundless potential of dance as an art form. It served as a testament to the city's dedication to promoting and preserving artistic traditions, and it set the stage for future celebrations of Iowa's cultural identity.
