Underage drinking — it'll cost you

By Kevin Doyle
The Daily Iowan

As of July 1, minors caught carousing in Iowa will be fined $100 for a first offense.

The law also states penalties of $200 for the second offense, $300 for the third, and $400 for the fourth. All fines, including the $100 for a first offense, are in addition to any costs associated with the underage drinking offense.

The fines will be assessed in addition to any costs associated with the underage drinking offense. The fines will be assessed in addition to any costs associated with the underage drinking offense. The fines will be assessed in addition to any costs associated with the underage drinking offense.

Toni Braxton sings with Vibe.

"NEW YORK AP - Toni Braxton dedicated her performance to her late brother, Michael, in her appearance with Vibe.

"It was important for me to sing with them because my brother was a part of their group. I'm just glad to be here," Braxton said.

After her performance, Braxton joined Vibe in the audience to watch their show.

Whistle pusher keeps UI on time

By Joseph Lovett

The Daily Iowan

With a roar of steam engines and whistles, utility workers Richard Leahy and Mike Capel sound the UI Power Plant's whistle each morning at 7:05 to alert staff to begin the day's work.

"Right on time," Leahy said.

Leahy is the leader of the team that uses the whistle to synchronize the power plant's activities.

But the whistle, Leahy said, is one of the few things that haven't changed over the years.

Leahy has been working with the UI Power Plant for 12 years, and Capel has worked at the plant for 20 years.

"For me, it's a necessity," Capel said.

The whistle was made famous in the 1960s, when it was used to signal the start of the day at the UI Power Plant.

Cornell U students accuse paper of racism

"TACRAC, UC - Angry students accused Cornell University's student newspaper of reneging on an "Ethnic" issue-related discussion that was advertised on Monday.

"We are upset because the paper is not taking us seriously," said Cornell student spokesperson Lisa. "We want to have a forum to discuss issues of racism on campus.

Swiss condemned in Nazi gold controversy

By Laura More

WASHINGTON — Declaring formally and publicly, the Clinton administration renounced Friday any plans it had held to return to Nazi victims $10 billion in looted jewelry, artwork and coins, the government's first such renunciation.

The speech, by Treasury Secretary Robert E. Rubin, was the most forceful condemnation of Nazi plundering ever by an American official and came as the U.S. was preparing to present its first major claims before a new international tribunal for war crimes in The Hague, Netherlands.

Mr. Rubin, who spoke at the Ford Foundation, said the United States would begin the process of declaring the 1945 settlement with the Nazis invalid.

He said the United States should not return property to Germany today that it took from the Nazis in the war.

"The idea seems to me worth $5.6 billion today," he said. "That makes it $5.6 billion more that we don't have to give to Germany."

The dispute began when the par- ticipants in the 1945 settlement, known as the Potsdam Agreement, left open $10 billion in disputed assets.

Mr. Rubin spoke during a news conference Wednesday to respond to a U.S. report on Switzerland and Nazi gold.

Swiss. Switzerland had no claim to the gold, but neither did the United States.

The report acknowledges that the Nazis took $6 billion in loot, but the transactions were made from two different countries.

"The United States has no interest in gold," Mr. Rubin said. "We are not in a position to press claims against Switzerland."

The report also acknowledges that Switzerland had no interest in the gold, but neither did the United States.

What do you think about the St. Pauls' decisions to sign pitcher Ila Borders, making her the first woman on a minor league baseball team?"
Herpes is hard to deal with, but not impossible.

When Melissa Deem’s course on Herpes was first offered, she didn’t know what to expect. The professor of radiology had only heard of the disease and was eager to learn more about it. However, as she delved deeper into the topic, she discovered that there were many misconceptions about herpes.

The first thing you need to understand is that herpes is not a death sentence. It is a viral infection that can be managed with the right treatment and lifestyle changes. In fact, it is one of the most common sexually transmitted infections in the United States, with millions of Americans infected. In Melissa’s class, the students learned that herpes is transmitted through skin-to-skin contact, but it can also be spread through sexual fluids and oral sex.

The virus is transmitted by touching or coming into contact with the sore or blisters. Because it is a viral infection, the virus cannot be cured. However, it can be managed with antiviral medications that reduce the frequency and severity of outbreaks.

It is important to note that herpes is not contagious. You cannot get herpes from an inanimate object or a surface. Therefore, there is no risk of transmission through daily activities such as sharing a towel, using the same sink, or sitting in the same chair.

One of the topics Melissa discussed was the economic impact of herpes. Students learned that herpes affects not only the individual but also the healthcare system. The cost of treating herpes is extensive, and the disease places a burden on the healthcare system.

Melissa’s course was well-received by students and professors alike. It was a valuable course that helped students understand the complexities of herpes and how to manage it. Melissa hopes to offer the course again in the future and continue to educate students about this important topic.

With the war's hurrying fighting reported in the rebel push toward Kisangani, President Mobutu flew yesterday to neighboring Gabon — his first visit out of the capital since the fighting began.

The rebels, who have pursed thousands of miles through Zairean jungle, claimed Rwandan and Angolan mercenaries were using Mobutu's forces in fighting near Kisangani, 160 miles north of the capital Kinshasa. The rebels said they launched a full-scale attack on Kisangani's airport, a claim the government denied.

Mobutu flew to the capital, Kinshasa, for a two-hour meeting with regional leaders, receiving a new report warning by the United Nations that Kisangani is in a hotbed of refugees. UI bridge-building team to head to nationals

By Kristin Roger

The Daily Iowan

Six UI engineering students will be heading to Cali­fornia this month to compete in a national bridge-building competition.

"We have the opportunity to show every student at the UI how much of our competition we are very special for," said Jason Imhof, one of the team members.

The UI Student Government allo­cates funding for the team to compete in the bridge-building competition.

"We will admit that our bridge has someething we are working on perfect," said Jason Imhof.

"We will have a table of students there who will be working on perfecting the bridge," said Imhof.

The UI bridge-building team is currently submitting their bridge designs to the UI engineering department. They are making sure their bridge will be ready for competition.

"We think that we will have enough money left over," said Imhof. "But we are still trying to raise more money."

Big-money deals will affect Bulls and Jackson

If Rickey Price is worth $17 million a year, Larry Brown can get $8 million a year and $6 million a year, the Dallas Mavericks could use that for a general manager. They could hire one who has a MBA, someone who knows the business of sports, someone who knows how to put together a team and how to put together a payroll. They could hire a coach who has a MBA, someone who knows the business of sports, someone who knows how to put together a team and how to put together a payroll. It's crazy if he's happy for the coaches and it's the same story over there. They're all happy for desiring if they're happy for something that has been taken away from him. They're all happy for something that has been taken away from him. They're all happy for something that has been taken away from him.

Dallas Mavericks general manager Donnie Nelson and coach Don Williams have already been on the record as saying they are not interested in any new players. Gimmick or not, league still growing

Arena Football has survived longer than AFL, USFL and WFL

By Barry Wilner

April 19, 1989

Quick quiz. Other than the NFL, what pro football league lasted longer than the Arena Football League?

So there goes the Arena Football League. It's getting on its third season. The league, which was formed in March 1985, is in the midst of its third year. And it's growing.

"We have the components of football at the college and pro level, but a lot of the rules are borrowed from hockey and basketball," said Paul Thompson, the league's commissioner.

A member of the Iowa Barnstormers is tackled at an exhibition in Cartoon-Headway Arena.

By Barry Wilner

On a Friday night in Iowa City, the University of Iowa's arena football team played its fifth game of the season at Cartoon-Headway Arena, Iowa City. The Barnstormers, who play their home games at Cartoon-Headway Arena, are the only pro football team in the state.

The team is one of three in the Midwest that play on a regular basis. They play against teams from other states and countries. The Barnstormers have won six of their seven games so far this season. They are currently tied for first place in the Midwest with the Chicago Red Sox and the Pennsylvania Power.

The Barnstormers are coached by Ron Davis, who has been coaching for over 20 years. He is also the general manager of the team. The team's owner is John Schmied, who has been involved in professional sports for over 30 years. He owns several other sports teams, including the Iowa Hawkeyes basketball and football teams.

The Barnstormers play their games on a 60-yard, 25-yard artificial turf field. The field is surrounded by a 400-foot board. The board is made of wood and is painted white.

The team's logo is a barnstorming plane, which is painted on the side of the arena. The plane is also painted on the side of the field.

The Barnstormers have a large fan base. They attract many fans from the surrounding area, including the University of Iowa students and faculty. The team also has a large following among the local businesses and organizations.

The Barnstormers are playing in their fourth season. They have been playing in Cartoon-Headway Arena since 1985. The arena is a 6,000-seat facility that is used for a variety of events, including basketball, hockey, and arena football.

The Barnstormers are one of the few professional sports teams in Iowa. They are also one of the few teams in the Midwest that play on a regular basis. The team is proud to be a part of the Iowa sports landscape and is dedicated to providing quality entertainment for the fans.

Deaths spark double-bags in high school

By Larry Grothe
Associated Press

SANTA FE, N.M. — When Bespero Rogern of Public School 805 in Santa Fe, N.M., died last October, his high school basketball team was forced to cope with a double-bag in the backcourt.

No one can say whether that is any different than any other double-bag in a game at any level, but it did have its effect on the team that had been the Conference 1 champion for the past two seasons.

The rally seven games after the accident left the team with a record of 10-3 and a 2-0 mark in Conference 1.

"We have been working as a team," said coach Rick Wulkow. "It's not easy to lose a player like Desjardins, but we have been working on it and we are starting to see the progress.

"The team is coming together and we are playing as a unit.

"We are not going to give up and we are going to keep working hard to achieve our goals.

"We have been working on defense and offense, and we are starting to see the results.

DI critics pick top 10 moneymakers

By Nancy Harrison and Greg Kieling
The Daily Iowan

The Diet Oil in the Sork on Friday, the film critics Greg Kieling and Nancy Harrison will collaborate to guess the biggest money-making movies of the season:

1. "The Lost World: Jurassic Park" — The biggest question mark this summer in "Tron:" James Cameron's $300 million ride on the back of of the ill-fated ship. It's the story, which starts Leonardo DiCaprio and Rachel Weisz, is made to look in July 2 off — then will open the Minneapolis Symphony on Thursday, tonight at 7 on NBC, Channel 7.

2. "Men in Black II" — The sequel should have kicked with "Charlie" two weeks ago, but its diminishing returns push the summer's star to Friday, with Bruce Willis switching for "The Fifth Element" and the film "Star Trek" opening in "Father's Day." The biggest question mark this summer in "Tron: James Cameron's $300 million ride on the back of the ill-fated ship. It's the story, which starts Leonardo DiCaprio and Rachel Weisz, is made to look in July 2 off — then will open the Minneapolis Symphony on Thursday, tonight at 7 on NBC, Channel 7.

Major releases:

"The Lost World: Jurassic Park" — The most of the favorite version of the novel. "It's about a very from "Bird" in "Crooked Little Heart" and Lamott's return to her recovering stepfather, a 14-year-old pregnant best friend, and not the kind of family you belong to instead of the kind of family she said. "It's what keeps her up where she is," Lamott said "Crooked Little Heart" is needed at least on those three other after-effort posted grammatically (that is, english). "Time's" movie review, release dates are always subject to change.

Dear Harlan,

This question comes strictly from a perspective of view. I've poured over everything that has been said and have read a lot about it. I've become part of a movement to be part of something to make the world a better place.

As someone who has studied and been involved in the struggle for justice, I am deeply concerned with the issue at hand. It is a complex one, and I believe that the solutions will be found in the spirit of unity and solidarity.

On the one hand, I see the potential for positive change. There is a growing consciousness of the need for change, and people are coming together to fight for what they believe in. I have been inspired by the courage and determination of those who are standing up for what they believe.

On the other hand, I recognize the challenges that lie ahead. There is much work to be done, and it will not be easy. But I believe that, with the right approach and a commitment to the cause, we can make a difference.

Thank you for your time and for listening.

Sincerely,

Fantasy is the key to 'Two Birds'

By Bob Merrill
The Daily Iowan

Hell hath no fury like Mother Nature in a good mood, and that's exactly where she tends hunters into traps. That's the only nice thing about "Dance of the Deer," the fourth play in the UI Playwrights Festival, which is scheduled to be performed tonight at 8:30 and in T.C. Malde Theatre of the UI Theatre Arts Building.

As a rule, whenever one looks out the window, it's because of rain, snow or mud or the fact that the season is changing. That's not the case with the deer, however, as they continue to graze and forage throughout the year.

It's been a long winter, and it looks like it's going to be a long spring. The deer have been hunkered down for quite some time, and they're not ready to give up yet.

The story follows a young girl who is trying to survive the winter with her family. She must work hard to find food and shelter, and she learns to be patient and strong in the face of adversity.

The play tells the story of the conflict between a young man and his father. The man is trying to prove himself as a hunter, but his father is worried that he's not ready.

Although the play is set in a winter landscape, the themes are universal and timeless. The struggle between generations, the importance of the land, and the search for identity are all explored.

The play is directed by Paul Labrusciano, who is known for his work with student actors. Labrusciano is an advocate for sharing his passion for the theater with young people.

On that other note, Bob Absolutely, "Ridiculous" by the way. The last but surely not least: Significant Take Home, is a book that will be sure to make an impact. The book is written by Bob, who has been a trusted source for news and analysis.

By David Bauder
The Daily Iowan

The book, which is based on Bob's own experiences, is sure to be a bestseller. The story is about a man who has to make some tough decisions in his life, and the way he handles those decisions will affect the course of his life.

"Ridiculous" is a book that everyone should read. It's a story of hope and inspiration, and it will leave you feeling uplifted and motivated.

ABC hopes to turn around recent decline in ratings

By David S. Bueler

NEW YORK—Two of the most ardent devotees in television to ABC’s shows are Julie and Ron Stewart.

The Stewart family is also among the top 100 advertisers, spending $25 million per quarter on the network.

"If we’re going to do a show, we’re going to do it as a team," says Julie Stewart, a 40-year-old New York lawyer who works as a legal analyst for ABC’s Weekend Journal.

"There’s no point in doing a show if we’re not going to enjoy it," says Ron Stewart, a 42-year-old advertising executive who is married to Julie.

The Stewarts are among the few who still watch ABC after the network lost its last remaining viewers when it was acquired by Disney in 1995.

"We’re not going to just watch a show because it’s on ABC," says Julie Stewart. "We want to have fun with it."
